BUSY DAY IN THE POLITICAL WORLD

SALOONS THE ISSUE

Prohibition Campaign is Being Hard Fought in Nebraska.

"Drys" Promise a Revelation When the Ballots Are Counted.

Omaha, Neb., April 7.—Municipal elections were held in all the cities and towns of Nebraska today with the exception of Omaha, which works under a special charter. The principal issue is prohibition and the campaign in many of the cities has been fought out on that line. The prohibition forces claim 70 per cent of the counties in the state, and in the result of today's election is promised a revelation.

Prohibition the Issue.

Lincoln, Neb., April 7.—Prohibition was the issue at the elections held in about 50 Nebraska cities and villages today. The voting was heavy and the interest intense. The campaigns in Lincoln and Hastings claimed particular attention. In the latter city a brewery was started last year. In Lincoln the contest waged by Prohibitionists was extremely aggressive, 10,000 votes were polled.

Raining at St. Joseph.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 7.—Notwithstanding the rain, a heavy vote is being polled at the municipal election here today. A. E. Clapton, Democratic nominee for mayor, is past imperial potentate of the Shriners.

Much Interest at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., April 7.—Despite a steady downpour of rain, an exceedingly heavy vote was cast during the early hours of the municipal election here today. Interest in the present campaign has been more pronounced than in any previous one in Kansas City. Mayor Henry M. Beardsley, Republican, is a candidate for re-election while Thomas J. Crittenden, jr., a son of ex-Governor Crittenden of Missouri, heads the Democratic ticket.

EXCITEMENT CONTINUES

Extreme Precautions Are Taken by Authorities at Lisbon.

Lisbon, April 7.—The excitement caused by the election rioting in this city Sunday evening, in which seven persons were killed and 100 wounded, has by no means subsided. There is considerable consternation in government circles, and the most extreme precautions are being continued. The streets of Lisbon swarm with troops. Regiments of infantry and batteries of artillery hold Camoes square and Pedro square. The streets are patrolled by cavalry, and mounted lancers are massed at street corners. Bernardino Machado, the Republican leader, has called on the civil governor to withdraw the troops from the streets.

The offical returns of the elections of members to the new chamber of deputies, including the colonies, are as follows:

Regenerators, 62; Progressists, 59; Independents, 17; Nationalists, 2; Republicans, 5; four in Lisbon and one in the provinces; Franconists, 3 and Dissident Progressists, 7.

The total is 155.

The election machinery, which was in the hands of the "reitative" parties, seems to have worked perfectly.

BURIED FOR 136 YEARS

The Bones of Swedenborg Removed From London Vault.

Remains Are Started for Sweden for Final Burial.

London, April 7. The body of Emanuel Swedenborg, the famous mystic and writer, was exhumed in this city today and started on its journey to Sweden for final burial in Swedish soil. The remains were taken up this morning from the vault in front of the communion table in the Swedish church in Prince's Square, where they were deposited in 1772. Services were held over the body this afternoon, after which it was placed on a train for Dartmouth, where it will be embarked on the Swedish cruiser Fylgia for transit to Sweden.

The Swedish government formally requested the exhumation and surrender of the body, and the British government assented. The Swedish minister to Great Britain, Count Wrangel, Pastor Lindskog, and officers from the Fylgia attended the exhumation. The leaden shell of the coffin was found intact. It was opened and inside were the bones of the famous author and a heap of dust. The shell was then encased in a new coffin, placed on the altar table, and covered with wreaths sent by Swedish societies and other admirers of Swedenborg. Pastor Lindskog conducted a service in the English and Swedish languages. Among those present were members of the Swedish legation here, members of the Swedish colony in London, representatives of various Swedish societies and Frechre Leyonhjelm, a descendant of Swedenborg.

ELECTIONS IN ILLINOIS

Contests in Chicago Confined Mainly to Aldermanic Candidates.

The Temperance Issue Predominates in Many Cities.

Chicago, April 7.—The city election today was confined entirely to aldermanic contests in the various wards. There was no direct issue involved except where, in eight or ten of the city wards the election of the alderman hinged upon the Sunday closing of saloons. In Cook county outside of the city of Chicago elections were held in a number of townships, and in a few of these local option was the issue.

The campaign has been rather quiet, and has excited less interest than usual.

An effort was made to force the question of Sunday closing into the foreground by having it placed upon the ballot. The election commissioners, however, refused to do this, and the courts sustained their attitude.

Excitement at Elgin.

Elgin, Ill., April 7.—In view of threatening rain voting is brisk. There is an intense under current of excitement over the temperance issue. Women are

HE BELIEVES IN PUBLICITY

Admiral Thomas Thinks People Should Know All About Fleet.

Magdalena Bay, April 2, via San Diego, April 7.—Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, temporarily in command of the Atlantic fleet since the departure of Admiral Evans, is busily engaged getting the multitudinous affairs of the fleet in hand.

"I shall not remove permanently to the Connecticut," said Admiral Thomas last night. "I shall take with me only what I shall require for a few weeks, maintaining my quarters on the Minnesota in case I should wish to come back to them. It is Admiral Evans' intention to return to the fleet as soon as he is able to do so."

Admiral Thomas made rather an unusual pronouncement regarding publicity affecting the fleet.

"It always has been my belief," he said, "that the public is entitled to know everything concerning the navy that is consistent with its welfare. There are, of course, many matters of a technical nature which must be kept secret from foreign powers, but these are usually of a kind in which the country would not be interested particularly anyway.

"It is the people's navy, this is the people's fleet. There is no reason why we should conceal from them what we are doing so long as essential military secrets are kept secret. I think it would be better for the people of the United States, and better for the navy, if they knew each other more intimately.

"I shall welcome any effort to acquaint the public more thoroughly with this fleet."

METHODISTS OF NEW YORK

Would Remove the Ban on Dancing and Card Playing.

Will Present Resolutions to the General Conference.

New York, April 7.—The New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal church held an important session yesterday, at which matters of moment to the denomination were considered. One subject that created much comment was the resolution recommending to the general conference that paragraph 26 of the church discipline, which advises against dancing, card playing, theater going, etc., be eliminated, was adopted by an almost unanimous vote. Much to the general surprise, there was no debate on this question. Only seven delegates voted against the resolution.

If the general conference approves the step, it was explained, it will not mean that Methodists alter their position, but simply make it a matter of conscience.

The conference also went on record as favoring the election of negro bishops. It adopted a memorial to the general conference to that effect. It entered a protest against the elimination of the name of Jesus Christ from

DELAWARE DELEGATES

Will be Uninstructed If Republican Leaders Can Prevail.

Dupont, Richardson and Burton Will be Three of Delegates.

Dover, Del., April 7.—When the Republican state convention met here today to elect delegates to the national convention at Chicago there was much uncertainty as to the complete personnel of the delegation to be selected. There was no dispute that United States Senators Dupont and Richardson and Congressman Burton would be three of the six delegates, and it was also conceded that Governor Lea would be the colleague of Senator Dupont from Newcastle county, although there were rumors that he might be opposed. The uncertainty was as to the colleagues of Senator Richardson in Kent county and Congressman Burton in Sussex.

In regard to Kent county's delegates it was confidently asserted that Insurance Commissioner George Marshall would be Senator Richardson's colleague, but assaults were made upon the correctness of this opinion by the fact that Marshall, in his campaign, issued a circular letter to the voters in which he stated positively that he was in favor of the nomination of Secretary Taft. It was held today to be questionable that the state organization of the party, which is in control of the convention, would permit an avowed Taft supporter to be one of the national delegates. The organization wants the delegation to go uninstructed.

The uncertainty as to Congressman Burton's colleagues arises from lack of positive information as to the status of the Sussex county delegation to the state convention. Dr. C. R. Layton, leader of the administration forces, who wants to instruct the delegates for Taft, claims to have a majority of one in the county delegation, which would make him the choice of the county caucus, but his claims is disputed. This contention will only be settled by the county caucus, which may not be held until this afternoon.

TAFT MEN ORGANIZE

To Make Contest for Their Leader in Wisconsin Elections.

Hope to Get Few Delegates and Weaken La Follette.

La Crosse, Wis., April 7.—All over Wisconsin today the supporters of Robert M. La Follette and William H. Taft are lining up to determine which shall have the delegation from Wisconsin to the Republican national convention. Early in the year the delegation was conceded to La Follette without a contest, but later the Taft men organized and are making a contest in every precinct. The bulk of the delegation is still admitted to be for La Follette, but the Taft people hope to get a few delegates and thus weaken the effect of a solid home support for La Follette. Four delegates are to be elected at large and twenty-two from the eleven congressional districts, all by direct vote. In this, the Seventh district, indications today were said to favor the election of one La Follette delegate sure, and the other probably, but on delegates at large there is much scratching and confusion and the vote is expected to be close.

At several cities in this part of the state hard contests are being waged on Prohibition. The anti-saloon league has conducted vigorous campaigns, particularly at Sparta, Tomah and West Salem. The result is in doubt, with both sides claiming victory.

Milwaukee's Elections.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 7.—Milwaukee's municipal election day opened with clear weather. Voting began at 6 o'clock and will continue until 8 o'clock tonight.

Besides city tickets, a justice of the state supreme court and delegates-at-

A THRILLING RESCUE OF THIRTY-FIVE MEN AT SEA

Portland, Maine, April 7.—A thrilling rescue of thirty-five men from their sinking craft was accomplished by the Dominion line steamer Turcoman, which arived at this port yesterday from Bristol, five days behind time. The Turcoman brought the crews of the barkentine Bearn Et Bretagne of St. Bervain, France, bound for St. Pierre, Martinique, which was abandoned, dismasted and about to go down on March 27, in mid-ocean. At 6 p. m. on that day the look-out sighted the barkentine flying signals of distress. The steamer approached as near as she could and hailed the distressed vessel. The thirty-five men on board were nearly all fishermen. The barkentine had sprung a leak and for two days the crew had vainly worked the pumps to keep her free. The Turcoman's captain called for volunteers and Chief Officer T. P. Williams and four men put out in a boat.

After considerable difficulty, the steamer's boat reached the side of the barkentine and the entire crew were eventually transferred to the steamer. The Turcoman's boat had to make four trips.

Eight Persons Seriously, and a Score More Slightly Hurt.

Accident Caused by the Dropping of a Motor Case.

Chicago, April 7.—Eight persons were seriously injured, one probably fatally, and nearly a score of others were hurt today when the motor car of a southbound train, on the South Side Elevated railroad jumped the track, a few hundred feet north of the Indiana avenue station and crashed to the ground.

The motorman of the car, George Stang, was cut and bruised about the head and body and his skull fractured. He may die.

Among those most seriously hut was Joseph Darmody, Marion, Ohio, internal injuries, head cut and leg broken, may die; E. O. Smith, conductor of motor car, skull fractured and may die; Thomas M. Mosser, skull fractured, may die; Barney Homan, in-

EMMA GOLDMAN SAID TO HAVE BEEN DETAINED AT BORDER OF UNITED STATES

Held Up as She Was Returning From Winnipeg.

Detained by the United States Inspectors at Noyes.

St. Paul, April 7.—An express messenger on the Soo line, arriving here from the international border, reports that United States immigration inspectors have detained Emma Goldman at Noyes, on the international boundary line, as she was returning to the United States from Winnipeg.

No confirmation of the report can be obtained here. Immigrant Inspector Feaman, whose headquarters are in Minneapolis, says he cannot deny or confirm the report, the officers acting in the case being under the direction of the Winnipeg district.

EMMA GOLDMAN.

NEW IMMIGRANT IS A GIANT INFANT

New York, April 7.—The largest infant for its age ever passed by the immigration authorities was registered at Ellis Island yesterday. The child, 11 months old, is as large as the average youngster of 4 years, and weighs as much as some children of 8 and 10 years.

When the mother, Mrs. Anna Kravetz, who was a passenger in the steerage of the St. Paul, told the inspectors that the child, a girl, was only 11 months old, they asked her several times if she was not mistaken. She had answered the question in English, and to be certain that there was no mistake, an interpreter asked her in Yiddish.

"Yes, she says it is not yet a year old, but will be next month," said the interpreter.

GUILTY OF REBATING

Great Northern Railroad Convicted in United States Court.

Admitted It Granted Sugar Trust the Sum of $14,599.

New York, April 7.—The Great Northern Railway company was convicted of granting rebates to the American Sugar Refining company by a jury in the United States circuit court today. Penalty will be imposed by Judge Holt.

But one witness, George T. Roberts, an auditor of the interstate commerce commission, was heard yesterday. He was introduced by the prosecution and testified that he made an examination of the records of the commission and found no tariffs of a through rate filed respecting the shipments of sugar complained of.

Counsel for the defense admitted that rebates had been granted to the American Sugar Refining company, aggregating $14,599, but contended that inasmuch as they were made in 1902, before the Elkins' law went into effect, he would ask the jury to acquit his clients.

The government's counsel argued, however, that even though the shipments were made before the passage of the law, the rebates were paid two years later or in 1904, and that the railroad company should be held liable. Both sides rested their cases on the agreed facts that the sugar was trasported in 1902 and that the Elkins' law was enacted in 1903, and that the rebates were paid in 1904.

THE ALARMIST NEWSPAPERS

Of Japan Are Again Trying to Stir Up Trouble.

Tokio, April 7.—Negotiations between America and Russia, concerning the administration of affairs at Harbin, are being closely watched by Japan. The alarmist newspapers suggest Japanese administration of South Manchuria as the real object of American action. The sensationalists connect the coming of the American fleet with possible future representations concerning South Manchuria.

A Washington special says the government has decided to oppose the action of Russia and Japan in Manchuria. A dispatch from Harbin quotes Consul Fisher as saying that the American government on its own initiative demands the abandment of Japan's present status in Manchuria.

These telegrams have aroused much comment. The Japanese foreign offices, however, refuse to accept the sensational view and said to the Associated Press that it is not prepared to believe that the American government is opposed to Japan's present attitude in South Manchuria. It is believed here that the report quoting the Washington officials is not founded in fact and is circulated for the purpose of creating a fresh cause of ill feeling.

THE MEXICANS ARE CORDIAL

Authorities and Naval Officers Exchange Compliments at Banquet.

Magdalena Bay, April 3, via San Diego, Cal., April 7.—The relations between the American naval officers and the Mexican authorities, represented in chief by Governor Augustin Sanguinez of Lower California, since the battleships steamed into Magdalena Bay, have been most cordial and mutually pleasant recollections of the stay will be carried away by all who have participated in the friendly functions that have marked the last three weeks. At a dinner given last night by Admiral Charles M. Thomas, in temporary command of the fleet, on board the flagship Minnesota, the exchange of felicitations was characterized by extreme cordiality and gracefulness of compliment. Admiral Thomas made a brief address, in which he commented upon the friendly relations existing between the United States and Mexico, and expressed the belief that the stay of the fiet at Magdalna Bay will do much to cement that friendship into permanency. The address, coming at the time when the relations of the two countries informally are being discussed, was most significant and apparently was highly appreciated by the Mexican guests on board the Minnesota. Admirals Sperry and Emery were among the American guests. Governor Sanguinez also was very happy in his remarks, declaring he believed that Mexico and the United States had been brought nearer the ground than ever before by the warmth of the friendship existing between President Diaz and President Roosevelt.

ALL AGREE BUT GEORGE

Rest of Gould Family No Longer Object to Prince.

Brother However is Custodian of His Sister's Property.

New York, April 7.—That an agreement has been reached among the relatives of Mme. Anna Gould to interpose no further objection to her engagement to the Prince de Sagan was reported today.

The pertinacity of the prince, who recently announced that he would forego his plan to return to Paris this week, and the insistence of Mme. Gould upon her right to decide for herself, are said to have broken down the opposition to the engagement so that all, except George Gould, have consented to it. The latter is the custodian of his sister's property.

Mrs. George Gould is credited with having exercised the tact of a diplomat in effecting a reconciliation between Mme. Gould and her relatives. When it became apparent that there was to be a disagreement over the prince, Mrs. Gould went on a visit to Hot Springs, Va., returning from that place yesterday, when she found Mmes. Gould at the apartments of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, at the St. Regis, while her relatives were still unreconciled. Mrs. Gould is believed to have undertaken the part of mediator with such success that the objections of the members of the family, other than George Gould, have been overcome.

The man who wants

To spend $20 for a Suit of Clothes and expects a pretty good suit is just the man we want to see.

We want you to compare our $20.00 Suits with those of others. We want you to compare them to the best you've ever bought at that price.

The comparison will show the superiority, their betterness in every detail. Our $20.00 Suits are what we term the bread and butter of our stock, as the average man wants to spend just about that sum of money. Therefore, more clothing is sold at that price than at any other, higher or lower. We show a broad diversity of patterns (at this price) in every new single and double breasted model. As these suits are made by expert tailors, you may be sure they possess style and character and that they will fit perfectly. The broad, shapely shoulders, the snug-fitting collar, the easy, graceful hang of the coats and trousers are the result of careful, skillful tailoring. This work tells. It means good looks and good service. It also means that the garments will hold their shape and keep looking well until worn out. Any unprejudiced critic—any man that knows anything about good clothing—must concede the superiority of the Oak Hall $20.00 Suits over all others.

SIXTY-FIVE CENTS A DAY

Mrs. Charles Ellis Supports Family of Ten on That.

Dean Finds Pitiful Case of Destitution in Superior.

Mother love and wifely affection such as one occasionally reads about, but seldom encounters in real life, were brought to light in Superior this morning by Inspector in Charge William H. Dean of the Duluth United States immigration office, in investigating the case of Charles Ellis, on an order of arrest resulting from the fact that Ellis and his family are charged with having evaded the immigration authorities at Detroit in entering the United States.

Mrs. Ellis, with eight children, one of them an infant only a few months old, has been supporting the entire family for more than a month by working in the Webster chair factory, ten hours a day for the sum of 75 cents a day. She was compelled to go to work on a street car, riding ten miles, from East Superior, and thus 10 cents of her daily wage was eaten up, leaving only 65 cents for the food and clothes of ten persons. Her husband is willing to work, she says, but has been unable to find employment of any sort. Mr. Dean found the family bunched up in a hovel long since given up by the real estate men as useless for renting purposes, and not a stick of wood or pound of coal was to be found about the premises. The children were scantily clad, and almost dead from hunger and exposure.

The inspector's heart was touched to such an extent that he ordered a ton of coal and a liberal supply of groceries and meat delivered at the house. Mrs. Ellis declared that today would be the first time in two months any of the family had so much as tasted meat. Mr. Dean gave orders at the store that groceries should be delivered the family as needed until further order, he guaranteeing to stand the cost.

The Ellis family came originally from Staples, Ont., where the man was employed on a farm. The fact that they are now public charges would probably be enough to bring about their deportation, even if the other charge of evading the immigration authorities were not lodged against them. The matter has been reported to the department, and it is considered altogether likely that Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and the eight children will all be ordered deported to Ontario.

TUGS MAKE TRIPS AROUND HARBOR

First Signs of Activity Noticeable in Shipping Circles.

The tug Record went over to the coal docks this morning, and the tugs Jeffrey and Pellet were out in the bay. The heavy wind of yesterday and today has cleared the ice completely from the south shore of the bay and in many of the places around the slips. If the wind continues, most of the ice will be out of the bay by tomorrow.

Until the meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association Thursday, in Cleveland, it is improbable that any arrangements will be made for the coming season. Rumors are rife as to what will occur when the terms are presented to the lake laborers, but as yet little definite information has been obtained on the probable outcome of the meeting.

No grain chartering has been done as yet, and the vessel agents say that the season will open very light. Little if any ore chartering has been done, and reports from the mines state that very little ore will go out until later in the season. It looks as if general navigation will not move until the lake masters settle the coming season's wage.

NO ONE CAN ALWAYS AVOID

Catching Cold on the Street Car

Pe-ru-na Prevents Catching Cold.

One Dose in Time, Saves Nine.

Many people persist in riding on street cars, insufficiently protected by clothing.

They start out perhaps in the heat of the day and do not feel the need of wraps.

The rapid moving of the car cools the body unduly. When they board the car perhaps they are slightly perspiring. When the body is in this condition it is easily chilled. This is especally true when a person is sitting.

Beginning a street car ride in the middle of the day and ending it in the evening almost invariably requires extra wraps, but people do not observe these precautions, hence they catch cold.

Colds are very frequent in the Spring on this account, and as the Summer advances, they do not decrease. During the Spring months, no one should think of riding on the car without being provided with a wrap.

A cold caught in the Spring is liable to last through the entire Summer. Great caution should be observed at this season against exposure to cold. During the first few pleasant days of Spring, the liability of catching cold is great.

No wonder so many people acquire muscular rheumatism and catarrhal diseases during this season.

However, in spite of the greatest precautions, colds will be caught.

At the appearance of the first symptom, Peruna should be taken according to directions on the bottle, and continued until every symptom disappears.

Do not put it off. Do not waste time by taking other remedies. Begin at once to take Peruna and continue taking it until you are positive that the cold has entirely disappeared. This may save you a long and perhaps serious illness later on.

Bad Effects From Cold.

Mr. M. J. Deutsch, Secretary Building Material Trades Council, 151 Washington St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have found your medicine to be unusually efficacious in getting rid of bad effects from cold, and more especially in driving away all symptoms of catarrh, with which I am frequently troubled.

"The relief Peruna gives in catarrhal troubles alone is well worth the price per bottle. I have used the remedy for several years now."

Spells of Coughing.

Mrs. C. E. Long, writes from Atwood, Colorado, as follows:

"When I wrote you for advice my little three-year-old girl had a cough that had been troubling her for four months. She took cold easily, and would wheeze and have spells of coughing that would sometimes last for a half hour.

"Now we can never thank you enough for the change you have made in our little one's health. Before she began taking your Peruna she suffered everything in the way of a cough, colds and croup, but now she has taken not quite a bottle of Peruna, and is well and strong as she has ever been in her life."

Pe-ru-na For Colds.

Mr. James Morrison, 68 East 16th St., Paterson, N. J., writes:

"I have given Peruna a fair trial, and I find it to be just what you claim it to be. I cannot praise it too highly. I have used two bottles in my family for colds, and everything imaginable. I can safely say that your medicine is the best I have ever used."

SCRAMBLE FOR FUNDS

Division of County Road Money Will Cause Some Disputes.

Each Commissioner Anxious to Get His Full Share.

With about $95,000 in county road funds to be apportioned among five commissioners' districts, it is expected that there will be a warm session of the county board session this afternoon. The appropriation matter will probably be the last thing taken up before the adjournment, and the commissioners who have road districts to look out for were carefully feeling their ground among the members of the board this morning, with a view of getting the best possible deal for each individual district.

The road levy to be available this year was $114,000, but it cannot be definitely told yet how much of the total levy will be collected, so that the board figures on making a division of about $95,000 at this time. As the funds come in another apportionment will be made during the year.

Last year the amount to be apportioned was $85,000. The apportionment was made on the following basis: Kauppi's district, $17,500; Ryan's district, $15,500; McInnis' district, $15,500; McMahon's district, $15,500, and Tischer's district, $15,500. The big fight over the division of the road funds has been between the districts of Commissioners Kauppi and Ryan. Each has a large district, Mr. Kauppi in the southern end of the county and Mr. Ryan in the northern end. The people in the northern end of the county have been complaining that the southern end of the county has always had the big end of the appropriations, and that it is time attention is paid to the claims of the northern portion, where the country is fast being settled up with farmers. Mr. Ryan has been backed in his efforts to get larger appropriations by the other two range members of the board, but the four commissioners from the city of Duluth have had the balance of power, and Mr. Kauppi's district thus far had the lion's share of the road funds.

A. J. Filiatrault and C. A. Morrison, representing the Settlers and Farmers' Improvement association of the Mud Hen district, and J. W. Faulk of the Eveleth Business Men's association, appeared before the board this morning and made an earnest plea for a larger appropriation, to be spent in completing the Morrison road, connecting the Miller Trunk and the Vermilion roads, this year. The road is nine miles long, as legalized, but only four miles has been built, this with $3,000 that the town raised. Mr. Morrison claimed that the conditions for the settlers is very bad; that without a road they cannot raise enough to provide a living and pay their taxes. He claimed that from May 1 to Jan. 1, the people cannot use their horses to get about, but everything has to be packed into the country. He claimed that unless relief is afforded soon, a great many will be compelled to give up the struggle and move out of the country.

Mr. Filiatrault stated that there are now about 500 people in the district and 160 children. He claimed that the three schoolhouses have an attendance of thirty-eight pupils for the reason the remainder cannot get to the buildings on account of the mud. The teachers are said to go to and from school in rubber boots and one teacher has to walk around an entire section to reach the schoolhouse.

Commissioners McInnis and Ryan spoke of the existing bad conditions and promised they would do all they could for the Mud Hen district.

The project is to have the Mud Hen district taken from Commissioner Ryan's road district and attached to Commissioner McInnis' district, the sentiment being that Commissioner Ryan has a larger district than he ought to have. Commissioner McInnis, naturally, is not anxious to have any more territory added to that he already has too took after in the matter of roads.

The Jean Duluth company asked for an examination of the books and accounts of the town of Lakewood, by the public examiner as the new officers of the town are about to take charge of affairs and the petitioners believe such examination will result in the avoidance of errors in the future. The board will request the public examiner to make the examination.

Whitney Wall, agent for the Manhattan building gave notice of a raise in the rental of the office of the county superintendent of schools from $15 to $17.50 per month. The board accepted the raise and ordered a new lease.

Assistant County Attorney W. J. Stevenson presented to the board the following options for a courthouse site, to be acquired by the county, with a recommendation that the options be exercised: Cash property, lots 77 and 79, block 20, Third division, $20,000; S. I. Levin, lots 86 and 88, block 20, Third division (Netherland flats), $43,789.06. Mr. Levin has offered the county his property on the basis of $81 per front foot for the lots, which is exactly the cost of the property to himself. He is the only property owner in the city who has thus far offered to surrender to the county, at actual cost, for the whole property, which pays a monthly revenue of $440.

A number of the freeholders in the town of Rice Lake, Second commissioner's district, have petitioned the board for a road foreman.

The clerk of the district court reported the cash receipts of his office in March to be $989.08. The register of deeds reported cash receipts, $885.45; work for the county, $301.39. The receipts of titles were $303.19.

GOVERNMENT APPROVES THE GROUPING PLAN

Secretary Cortelyou Expresses Himself as Favoring It.

Tells Senator Nelson That Government Will Co-operate.

The United States treasury department favors the proposed plan of grouping the municipal, county and federal buildings in Duluth, at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Second street, and L. M. Willcuts, collector for the port of Duluth and custodian of the federal building, has received word to this effect from United States Senator Knute Nelson and Beekman Winthrop, assistant secretary of the treasury. According to a letter written to Senator Nelson by Mr. Cortelyou, the department regards the grouping plan as an excellent one ,and will report favorably regarding it.

On March 31 Senator Nelson introduced a bill in the senate, which was read twice and referred to the committee on public buildings and grounds. The object of the bill is to increase the limit of cost of the United States postoffice, courthouse, customhouse and site at Duluth. In substance it is as follows:

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled,

"That the limit of cost of the United States postoffice, courthouse, customhouse and site at Duluth, Minn., be increased from $125,000 to $225,000."

Following is a copy of a letter in regard to the matter received by Senator Nelson from Secretary Cortelyou, and also a copy received by Mr. Willcuts from Assistant Secretary Winthrop:

"The scheme as presented involves the acquisition of additional land for the enlargement of the property selected for a new federal building site under existing legislation, and the disposal of the present federal building site to the city of Duluth.

"The department regards the proposed grouping of the buildings as excellent and if a bill is referred to this department for report, authorizing the acquisition of additional land for the enlargement of the site which the department has acquired in part by purchase and the remainder of which is being condemned, and also provides for the sale of the present federal building and the cite thereof to the city of Duluth at a reasonable amount, the department will be glad to report favorably thereto. Respectfully,

"GEORGE B. CORTELYOU,
"Secretary."

"Hon. L. M. Willcuts, Custodian, Duluth, Minn. Sir: This department is in receipt of your communication of the 27th ultimo, with inclosures, relating to the proposed plan of grouping of the municipal and federal buildings in Duluth.

"The scheme as presented involves the acquisition of additional land for the enlargement of the property selected for a new federal building site under existing legislation, and the disposal of the present building site to the city of Duluth.

RAILROAD NEWS

BIG CREWS ARE AT WORK

Soo Road Employing 600 Men on Duluth Extension.

Grading Work Will Begin at Both Ends of Line.

Despite occasional reports to the effect that work on the Duluth extension of the Soo road has been indefinitely suspended, the contractors are pushing rapidly ahead with preliminaries for the summer work, and between 500 and 600 men are distributed along the right-of-way, between Superior and Moose Lake, Minn.

A representative of the company is now in Duluth looking after the purchase of certain tracts of land for right-of-way purposes between Moose Lake and Douglas county, Wis. Most of the ground necessary has already been secured, but in a few districts there is still some land to be bought up. Some of the local railroad men believe reports of the suspension of construction operations were started with a view to bringing about lower prices for the land still needed.

Men are being added to the working crews right along, and good progress has been made with the work of clearing the right-of-way. The plan is to begin grading from both the Douglas county and Moose Lake ends of the work just as soon as the frost leaves the ground. The Soo has a reputation for fast railroad building, and trains may be running into Duluth before the end of the year over this road, according to present indications.

It will probably be several years before conditions for pushing work of this kind are so favorable as they will be this spring and summer, so far as the labor market is concerned. There are thousands of men out of employment, and they are willing to work for lower wages than have been paid during the last two or three seasons, simply because labor is a drug on the market. This fact makes it advisable to push railroad construction work where possible, and the Soo evidently intends taking advantage of the opportunity presented by unusual labor market conditions.

RAILROAD MEN.

Many Outsiders Here---Burlington Man Talks on Colonist Business.

Among the outside railroad men who are in the city today are F. M. Rugg, Northwestern passenger agent of the Burlington; Frank T. Lally, traveling passenger agent of the Burlington; George H. MacRae of the Omaha; V. C. Russell, Northwestern passenger agent of the Michigan Central; W. L. Hathaway, district passenger agent of the Rock Island, and F. D. Lyon, traveling passenger agent of the same line.

"Business West on the low-rate colonist tickets is not quite so heavy as it was at this time last year," said Mr. Lally this morning, "but it is holding up fairly well. The reason for the falling off, I believe, is the fact that labor conditions on the Pacific coast and general Western territory this year are not such as to attract the laboring man in search of new fields of employment to such an extent as in previous seasons.

"The travel, therefore, is largely by men who intend settling on lands in the West, and making their permanent homes there, probably taking families along with them. They are not going out to work at common labor, but to settle down on land of their own. These are the kind of people the railroads like to see going into a new country, for they are a wonderful help in developing it."

THAT NEW SERVICE.

Further Details of the Omaha's New Chicago Train.

Beginning Sunday, April 19, the Northwestern passenger officials will place a service between Duluth and Chicago that will afford many advantages over the system in service at the present time. The new service will enable Duluthians to travel direct to Milwaukee in a standard sleeper, as well as allow them to travel out of Chicago with a fully equipped dining service, compartment service, and standard sleepers, an improvement upon the present service.

The following schedule will be effective Sunday, April 19:

Train No. 11, the Duluth-Superior Limited, will leave Chicago at 6:20 p. m., arrive in Duluth at 8:40 a. m., with dining car, serving dinner out of Chicago and breakfast into Duluth, standard fourteen-section drawing room sleeper and one ten-section, three-compartment sleeper, composite library car, chair car, coaches, etc., lighted by electricity. This will give practically the same equipment as the famous Northwestern Limited between the Twin Cities and Chicago. This train will also have standard sleeping car to Duluth leaving Milwaukee at 7:40 p. m. running via Madison.

Train No. 9, the American Express, will leave Chicago at 10:15 p. m. with express, mail and a standard sleeping car to Duluth, arriving in Duluth at 12:50 noon. This train into Duluth will be known as No. 96 and will make all local stops between Eau Claire and Duluth.

The Twilight Limited, train No. 64, will leave St. Paul and Minneapolis as at present, but will arrive in Duluth ten minutes earlier in the evening.

The day express, No. 62, from the Twin Cities will leave ten minutes later than at present, arriving in Duluth at 4:10 p. m. as now.

Southbound, the Chicago Limited train, No. 93, will leave Duluth at 5:15 p. m., arriving in Chicago at 7:30 a. m., carrying composite library car, two standard sleepers to Chicago and one standard sleeper to Milwaukee—probably via Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.

The American Express, No. 95, will leave Duluth at 3 p. m. with a through standard sleeper to Chicago, stopping at all local stations between Duluth and Eau Claire, arriving in Chicago at 7 a. m.

The Twilight Limited, No. 63, will leave Duluth at 2:30 p. m., arrive in St. Paul at 7:55 p. m., Minneapolis at 8:20 p. m.

Other trains out of Duluth will remain unchanged.

DIVISION POINT.

Canadian Northern Thought to Have Its Eyes on Warroad.

Warroad, Minn., April 7.—The making of Warroad a division point on the Canadian Northern railroad is again being talked of. With a fast train through from Winnipeg to Duluth, the arrangement of divisions becomes a matter of moment. A passenger division will be established at Fort Frances, which is less than sixty miles from Rainy River, the present division point, while from Rainy River to Winnipeg is 154 miles. By making Warroad the division point the distances would be equalized; and, besides, when the Great Northern is finished to this place it will add another reason why the Canadian Northern railroad division should be here. Roadmaster Gordon has already moved his office to Warroad, and other things seems to point to a purpose by the Canadian Northern railroad to establish a division point here.

WHISKY DESTROYED.

Nashville, Tenn., April 7.—At Lexington, Tenn., yesterday members of the W. C. T. U. destroyed about forty gallons of whisky belonging to a saloonkeeper who had recently moved to that place from Jackson.

Authorities Would Not be Surprised If Goldman Had Been Detained.

Washington, April 7.—No information yet has been received at the department of commerce and labor concerning the reported detention of Emma Goldman at the international border, but it is admitted the statement may be accurate.

It is known that the Goldman woman has been under surveillance for several months. Her every movement has been watched by government officers. Months ago it was determined by the immigration authorities to arrest her on her return from Europe but she evaded the officials and reached the United States surreptitiously. Recently she left Chicago and crossed the Canadian border. It is quite likely she has been detained by the immigration officials on their general insructions of several months ago.

CROMWELL WINS POINT

Judge Cant Makes Additional Findings of Fact on Contest.

Supreme Court Must Decide the Question of Law Involved.

At a hearing in the Bloedel-Cromwell election contest case last evening, Judge Cant denied Mr. Cromwell's motion for a judgment on additional findings or for a new trial, but granted the motion for additional findings

The refusal to grant a new trial leaves the case open for an appeal to the supreme court, where all the questions relating to the contest can be threshed out.

Judge Cant, in making his ruling, agrees with Mr. Cromwell as to the facts, but on the question of law refuses to count the Erickson ballot as a vote for Cromwell. If he did the vote for aldermen in the Second ward would be a tie, and Mr. Cromwell would retain his seat by reason of the agreement made when the candidates cast lots for the place.

C. E. Adams, attorney for Mr. Cromwell, asked the court to make additional findings to the effect that Joan Erickson was a qualified voter, that he had never voted before and that in writing his name where he did on the ballot, he did not do so for the purpose of identifying it, but intended to indicate his choice of Mr. Cromwell and thought he was following the customary way of voting for a candidate. The court granted this motion.

Mr. Adams moved that Mr. Cromwell be given judgment on the additional findings, but this motion was denied as was also the alternative motion for a new trial.

Judge Cant in his memorandum on the decision giving a judgment in favor of Mr. Bloedel, stated his opinion that Erickson's intention was to vote for Mr. Cromwell and not to identify his ballot. The fact that the court has seen fit to incorporate this view in his findings of fact as well as his memorandum is considered a strong point in Mr. Cromwell's favor.

The supreme court will, it is said, have all the facts as showing Mr. Cromwell is entitled to the Erickson vote, and it will be up to that court to decide the question of law as to whether the ballot can be counted for Cromwell.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"I want a apple tree," said 6-year-old Tony, giving up from a moist and grimy hand a perspiring 10-cent piece.

"Wait a minute, Tony, and get your cent change," said "teacher."

"I don't want the cent," said Tony, with a grand air which implied, "Keep that for your trouble."

"Where in the world are you going to plant an apple tree?" inquired the lady who is employed by the board of education for purposes of instructing the American youth. Tony's eyes, of Italian brown, looked at her with a calculating glance that was entirely American. "I guess I'll find a place," he said, and the statement, like all simple ones, suggested much more than it said.

"But when the apples do grow on the tree," protested teacher, who certainly was a pessimist in this case, "people will steal them from you."

"But I guess I can watch it grow, can't I?" said this irrepressible optimist from the south of Europe.

Tony, together with almost a thousand other Duluth school children, will receive young apple trees in time for this year is April 27. Through the efforts of the educational committee of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs arrangements were made to provide the school children of the state with apple trees at the cost of 9 cents each, which will include freight charges and directions for planting. The orders from Duluth number 971 trees and the response throughout the state has been as encouraging. The object of providing trees at this low cost is to stimulate interest throughout the state in the culture of trees and the state improvement, and it is thought that Arbor day will be more widely observed in Minnesota this year than ever before.

WORDS OF PRAISE.

Written for Rena Vivienne Throughout Country.

"Mme. Butterfly" was sung in Rochester, N. Y., Saturday evening, with Rena Vivienne in the title role, and the Democrat of that city said of her performance:

"Rena Vivienne was heard at the evening performance as Madam Butterfly. Her charming personality did much to add to the enjoyment of her portrayal. She took her high notes with well remembered ease, and was altogether a charming little Japanese."

MATINEE MUSICALE.

Nominates Officers for the Ensuing Year.

A business meeting of the members of the Matinee Musicale was held yesterday afternoon after the regular program. The report of the nominating committees was heard and the nominations from the floor heard for the various offices. The election will take place following the next regular meeting of the club which will be held Saturday of this week at the Masonic temple. The nominations as they now stand are: President, Miss Mary Bradshaw; vice-president, Miss Carlotta Simonds; recording secretary, Miss Hyland and Miss Swan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. H. Bradbury; treasurer, Miss Margaret McLean; librarian, Miss Isabel Pearson and Miss Sybilla Hartman; board members, three to be elected, Miss Markell, Miss Swan, Miss Rogers, Miss Hyland and Miss Hartman.

The program which was arranged by Miss Josephine Carey and Miss Ruth Markell, was devoted to the compositions of the modern German writers. The piano numbers were given by Miss Helen Colburn, one of the younger musicians of the club, and in two numbers, "Rondo" by Taubert and "Valse de Concert" by Schytte, she was heard with much pleasure. The vocalists for the afternoon were Miss Schoeffel, Miss Hyland and Alex Enna, and a violin number, a movement from a concerto by Bruch, was played by Oliver Colbentson. The accompanists were Miss Elizabeth Morton and Miss Elsie Smith.

There has been a change in the time of meeting for for the last program of the year, as the meeting will be held Saturday afternoon of this week at the auditorium of the Masonic temple. Each member of the society will have the privilege of inviting one guest and the program will begin promptly at 3 o'clock and the doors will be closed during the numbers.

AMERICAN BEAUTY

Enormous Cost of Producing Artificial Woman.

The most pronounced type of American beauty is trained from babyhood to fulfill her destiny, says Martha Gale Gates in The Delineator for May. She is born with a gold spoon in her mouth instead of the traditional silver one.

The father of one of these millionaire princesses was asked, a few days after her advent, how much he had estimated it would cost him to bring her up.

"About two hundred thousand," was his answer, "until she is ready to come out, and," he added thoughtfully, "that is really a conservative estimate."

Two hundred thousand for an American beauty. When it is remembered that to finish her at a select school and then give her a year or so of travel with tutor and chaperon costs some sixty thousand, this statement does not seem exaggerated. But two hundred thousand! It could endow a whole orphans' home or a juvenile court school to make good citizens out of material that might else turn into criminals; and against this in the scale is put one little rose-and-pearl baby girl.

Little Miss Beauty's hours of discipline are not few. The idea that underlies and unifies her various duties is that of becoming an American beauty—that is her profession. An American beauty must not only have a lovely face and graceful carriage and a musical voice; she must have personality, charm, presence, poise; she must have cultivation, discrimination and tact, if she is to hold her own in her world.

The girl of a hundred years ago was a born gentlewoman. Her training was in that finest of all "finishing schools," the home, her teacher was her mother, and her studies were of unselfishness and womanliness, of preparation for future wifehood and motherhood. Today the rich girl's "home" is a hotel on a small scale; her mother is incapable and unwilling to undertake the responsibility of her training; her studies are a veneer of fashion, polite manners, snobbish morality and superficial intellectuality.

Just before the American beauty comes out she is sent abroad, sometimes to school, sometimes to travel with a chaperon, besides, possibly, a governess or a tutor. In the latter case she lives at the most expensive hotels and the expenses of her menage for a year run up into the thousands.

And when she "comes out," with perfectly controlled, high-bred face, perfect color, graceful body and carriage and absolutely flawless manner, she is made indeed, but her hard work is only begun. She must learn to hold her own in a world full of other American beauties, to do her duty in that station to which she has been called.

She is not aware she has no fundamental education, and no more information on the topic of the day outside of fashionable news than will enable her to carry on a meaningless conversation. She may talk about her country and what one owes to people, but she means the people of her own set; and her notion of her country is that it is a good back-ground for herself. She is nothing in the world but an artificial American beauty—a hothouse growth.

Springtime Dainties.

If you want the daintiest sweet imaginable to nibble on this afternoon, go right out to the kitchen now and put some prunes on to soak. Several hours later, perhaps right after dinner, stew them in the same water. Then drain them, and when they are cold, take the stones out, just as you would treat dates.

Boil together one and one-half cups of sugar, one-half square chocolate and three-quarters cup of milk until a thick sirup is formed; then add one-half cup chopped English walnut or pecan meats. Remove from the fire; add a half-teaspoon vanilla and beat until creamy. Fill the prunes with the mixture and press the edges together. Dissolve an ounce of gum arabic in a pint of water, and dip each prune in it; then in granulated sugar. Set in a warm place until dry, and you won't recognize your humble old friends, the prune, in its new guise.

Nothing is prettier than jelly or ices served in orange baskets or halved oranges, with the two sides tied together with ribbon.

One way to prepare these baskets is to draw a circle around the orange, cutting through [illegible] for an inch right in the middle of each side of this handle and carefully remove the pulp of the orange from the spaces left.

Throw the rinds into ice water, so they will not dry out before using. Wipe carefully and fill with any mixture desired.

If one has a very sharp knife, the top of the orange and each side of the handle can be cut into scallops with a good-sized circle cut in the center of each.

Or the handles can be left plain and twined with smilax, or tied with a bow of paler yellow, violet or green ribbon.

Pupils' Recital.

Pupils from the classes of the Flaaten Conservatory appeared in a musicale last evening at the auditorium. The concert was arranged for the benefit of the Children's Home. The room was filled with the friends of the young performers and the program, which included ensemble numbers as well as the regulation solos and duets, was listened to with much pleasure. In the numbers by the string orchestra, consisting of James Weltner, Leslie Moore, Victor Levin, Roy Flaaten, Nathan Cook, Henry Lavick and Earl Quinn, there was much interest, as this little organization, under the direction of Gustav Flaaten, shows marked improvement in its every appearance. The numbers are always enthusiastically received by the audience. Miss Nellie Brown, in a piano solo, and Master Roy Flaaten, who played a violin number, both showed careful training and promise of unusual ability. The other pupils who appeared were Gertrude McCuen, Garda Hanson, Ethel Mollitor, Haley Troy, Olive Capron, Ora Daniel, Fay Hobbs and John Irvine.

Singers' Club.

A meeting will be held tomorrow evening, at 7:45 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church, at which time a club will be organized for the study of part songs, in preparation for a concert soon to be given. Those interested are invited to attend. The study will be under the direction of C. P. Landi, who is now organist of the First Baptist church.

How to Get Plump.

To be unfashionably plump:
Drink plenty of water.
Eat plenty of starchy foods.
Sleep ten hours out of the twenty-four.
Give full play to the lungs in breathing.
Refuse to worry.
Take six raw eggs a day.
Drink plenty of cream and milk.
Exercise only moderately.

Church Meeting.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. H. S. Mahon of 1520 East Third street at the regular monthly thimble bee. The quarterly reports of the officers will be heard and an informal social afternoon will follow.

Downtown Picnics.

Dutch treat, or what the English call "going Jersey," is quite fashionable and takes the form of a tearoom or restaurant picnic, each ordering what is liked best and paying for it herself. Princess Henry of Pless has made such "picnics" quite the fashion.

Daffodil Luncheon.

DOCTOR'S ORDER WAS: 'CUTICURA'

For a Bad Case of Eczema on Child —Suffered for Three Months— Disease Reached a Fearful State —Pain and Itching were Terrible.

CURED AFTER OTHER PRESCRIPTIONS FAILED

"When I was small I was troubled with eczema for about three months. It was all over my face and covered nearly all of my head. It reached such a state that it was just a large scab all over, and the pain and itching were terrible. I doctored with an able physician for some time and was then advised by him to use the Cuticura Remedies which I did and I was entirely cured. I have not been bothered with it since. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment but do not know exactly how much was used to complete the cure. I can safely say that Cuticura did a lot for me. Miss Anabel Wilson, North Branch, Mich., Oct. 20, 1907."

ITCHING CURED

With Cuticura Remedies in Three Days After Six Months of Suffering.

"I suffered fully six months. The trouble began on my arms in little red pimples and it was not long before it was all over my body, limbs, face, and hands. It was so bad that I could not rest night or day and during the six months, I did not get a good night's sleep. I doctored for three or four months and spent at least twenty dollars trying to find a cure but none could be found. Then I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised, and the next day I purchased some for seventy-five cents at the druggist's. I used them and I was relieved of the itching in three days, and I have never had a sign of any skin disease since. The Cuticura Remedies are the only remedies to use for skin diseases, they have cured me and they will cure others in the same way. J. W. Bloom, R. R. Telegrapher, Holloway, Mich., Nov. 20 and Dec. 29, 1906."

CAN LIVE ON 9 CENTS A DAY

Chicago Health Department Makes an Astonishing Statement.

Chicago, April 7.—Three square meals, a bed, a bath and a doctor, if needed, all for 9 cents a day.

This is the miracle which can be accomplished, which even has been accomplished, the health department declares in its weekly bulletin. Amounts spent in excess of that are for "frills," which may hinder rather than help the workingman. Even this modest allowance, it is asserted, may cause some to be overfed.

These meals which the health department say can be provided so cheaply, are not for invalids or dyspeptics. They are for the men who toil with the pick and the shovel, and are calculated to produce the greatest working energy for the least cash outlay.

No One Is Starved.

No one is to be starved through the new 9-cent menu, Dr. Evans' specialists say, and then they supply proof, which ought to be sufficient. They point out that every individual is to have 3,200 gram calories per day. All he really needs, if he has no job, is 1,620.

The figures of the health department refer, however, to lodging houses, and take no account of the rent to be paid. They are compiled after a careful study of the applicants who were housed dusing the first three months of the year. The observations proved to the satisfaction of Dr. Evans that a lodging house could be kept clean, well heated and ventilated, not overcrowded, and provide bathing facilities and leave a good profit at 10 cents per bed.

The bringing together of so many homeless men who were without employment gave unusual opportunities for the study of the value of food properties. The results were tabulated as a guide for the new 9-cent menu which now is recommended.

The Nine-Cent Menu.

After making numerous tests of the strength-giving value of different kinds of food, the health department hit upon the following daily menu:

Breakfast—Bread, butter, sugar, coffee, molasses.

Dinner—Bread, meat stew with vegetables, coffee, sugar.

Supper—Bread, coffee, sugar, mutton soup thickened with vegetables.

Some doubt about this bill of fare was entertained until after the physical examination of some of the lodgers was made. Seventeen per cent of them were actually overfed, the department states; 79 per cent were in normal condition, and 4 per cent were underfed.

The department, after reviewing extensively its operations among the unemployed during the first quarter of the year, and giving its estimates on the cost of living, reaches the following conclusions:

Most men eat far too much, and they would be far happier, far healthier and far more capable of resisting disease if they would eat much less.

A scientific study of food would make it possible for a large proportion of the population getting small wages to save and accumulate some portion thereof.

SONS JAILED,

Mother Crazed, Father Seeks Way to Commit Suicide.

Ritzville, Wash., April 7.—The mother violently insane, the father searching for some way to end his life and the two sons on their way to the reform school is the status of the family of James Morris.

The boys, found guilty of the larceny of $10, were sentenced to the reform school until their majority. They are Lawrence, aged 12, and his brother, aged 9. Jude Zent stated that though young they are hardened in crime.

The mother was driven insane by the boys' course. The father, heartbroken, wishes to end his life. He is being watched.

Results of Experiment.

It has been found by experiment that deep sea fish can be acclimated in fresh water. The result of the experiment and a long experience in brewing is the perfection of golden grain belt beer. This valuable food drink is recommended as as a tonic for overworked brain or or muscle and an aid to digestion. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

MISSOURI'S GREAT EATER.

Thirty-Six Bananas, Sixty Oranges and Pound of Candy.

St. Louis, Mo., April 7.—Missouri is in the throes of an eating contest. Several cities have entered their favorite son for gastronomic honors, but none can compare with the record of George W. Kidd of Monroe City, Mo.

While George consumes only eight to ten eggs to each meal, he holds the palm at eating fruit and candy. One evening shortly after a hearty supper George found that his appetite was not quite appeased, so he ate thirty-six bananas, sixty oranges and a pound of candy, so that he would not retire hungry.

"I really don't know how much I could eat," said George today, "because eating is expensive."

He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds.

The feat of John Giffen of Winsted Conn., who ate eighteen eggs at one sitting, has been outdone by Frank Span of Whiteside, Mo., who ate thirty-five at one sitting, and he had no thought of making a record. The next day Frank ate nineteen for supper. He likes them scrambled.

Rocky McHike of New London, Mo., is willing to meet any man who thinks he can eat eggs.

Menominee, Mich., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The red hot city election held here yesterday resulted in the re-election of Mayor Augustus Spies, Republican, over Redmont Panghorni, Democrat, by a majority of 14. Michael Sullivan, Democrat, was elected city treasurer over William Kuhnle, Republican, by a majority of 203. The new council is Democratic by a majority of two.

Pure ingredients are what count. That is the reason of the superiority of Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder and Extracts. Everything used to make it is pure.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BELIEVE HE KILLED HER

Slayer of Smolensky is Also Suspected of Another Murder.

Police Think He Killed Mrs. Kundy, January Year Ago.

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—In Fred Eschle, the self-confessed murderer of John Smolensky, the police think they have the man who murdered Mrs. Wilhelmina Kundy.

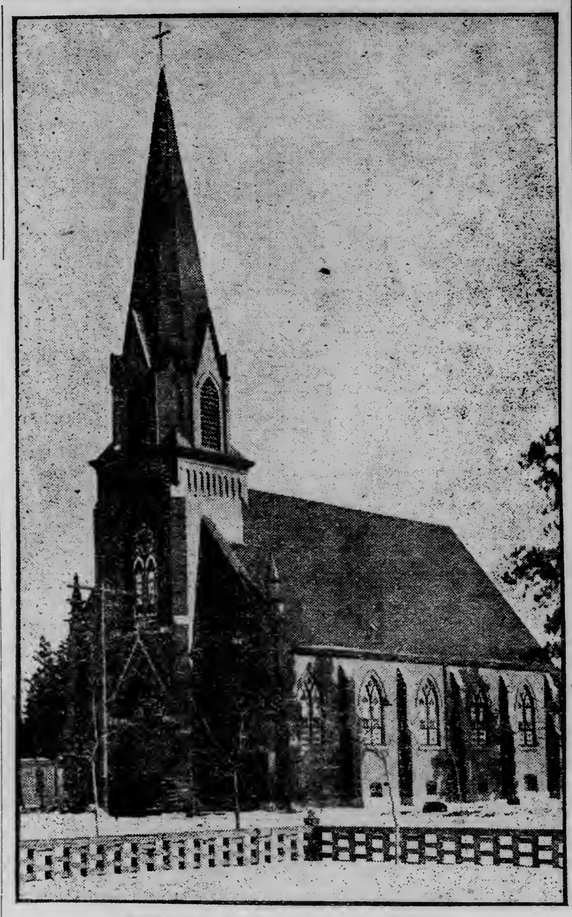

Mrs. Kundy was killed on the morning of Jan. 3, 1907, at her home, 216 West Fairfield avenue, with robbery the very evident motive. For a time Mrs. Kundy's son was under suspicion, but there was nothing to connect him with the crime, and when this theory was finally abandoned the police were baffled.

Mrs. Kundy was nearly the same age as Smolensky. A chest containing $300, the savings of herself and son, had been broken into and the money taken.

The woman was badly beaten up and her body thrown down cellar. Just as in the case of the Smolensky murder, the criminal did everything he could to remove all traces of his crime, but with less success. He wiped up the floor in an attempt to remove all traces of blood, but he evidently was scared away before he had finished the job, for when the Kundy cottage was entered there were many gruesome evidences of the crime.

The methods of the murderer or murderers were so similar and the attempts to conceal the body so nearly alike that the police have reopened the Kundy case and are investigating along new lines.

They hope to get enought evidence against Eschle to induce him to confess to the murder of Mrs. Kundy, if it should appear that he was in St. Paul at that time.

GOES SUDDENLY INSANE.

Farmer's Son Loses His Mind and Attacks His Sister.

Moorhead, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dilton Thompson, aged 33, son of Ole Thompson a prominent Kurtz farmer living on the Red river, went suddenly insane at his home Sunday while all of the family excepting an older sister were at church. He attacked his sister, who after a desperate struggle, got away from him and ran to a neighbors. Sheriff Whaley was notified and he proceeded to the Thompson residence where the insane man had barricaded himself. After several hours Thompson was captured and being brought here was declared of unsound mind by an insanity board and sent to the Fergus Falls asylum.

CROOKSTON AFTER MEETING.

Of State Sunday School Association Two Years Hence.

Crookston, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special meeting of the board of directors of the 25,000 Commercial club was held yesterday afternoon at a late hour and matters of great importance were taken up. The principal business was to begin a campaign to secure the convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association for this city in 1909.

The association meets annually and there is always from 700 to 1,000 delegates in attendance from all sections of the state. It has been meeting in the Twin Cities of late, but the officers and directors believe that it should be held in outside cities and there is a good chance for Crookston to land it.

CARELESS YOUTH SHOOTS BROTHER

Then in Excitement Fires Bullet Into His Own Knee.

McVille, N. D., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farm of O. H. Larsen, three miles west of here, was the scene of an accidental double shooting yesterday afternoon that may cost one of Larson's sons his life. Mr. Larson is a county commissioner and a well known business man of this place, and he attributes the affair to carelessness on the part of one of his young sons in handling a pistol.

One of the boys, about 12 years old, pointed a .38-caliber revolver at his brother, aged about 17 years, pulled the trigger and shot the lad through the neck, the bullet lodging, it is supposed, in the backbone, causing paralysis, from which the doctor gives no hope of recovery.

After shooting his brother, the young lad became excited and accidentally shot himself in the knee, which also proved very painful.

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS

Given Richville Man for Loss of One Eye.

Deroit, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second trial of J. B. Hoover of Richville against the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company resulted in the plaintiff again securing a verdict for the loss of an eye but for a lesser amount.

Mr. Hoover was employed by the company in its logging business and was sent into a blacksmith shop to repair a cant-hook. A piece of hot steel flew from the anvil, and struck him in the eye, causing the loss of the sight of that eye. He alleged that the company was negligent in giving him work to do with which he was unfamiliar, and brought suit, securing a verdict for $4,500. A new trial was ordered and he now secures a verdict for $1,000.

IOWAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Turns on Gas in St. Paul Hotel and is Found Dead.

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. S. Nelson of Kanawha, Iowa, committed suicide Sunday evening at the Kendall hotel, Fourth street. His death was not discovered until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a chambermaid going to his room to awaken him smelled gas coming through a keyhole.

The clerk was notified and the door was forced. A gas jet was turned on full and a towel had been hung over the key hole to prevent the gas from escaping through it.

Several morphine powders were found in the room. The man came to the Kendall hotel April 3 and little is known of him beyond his address on the register. He was about 35 years of age.

TRAMPS STEAL CANDY

And Canned Fruit From Northern Pacific Box Car.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bunch of tramps broke into a box car near the Northern Pacific depot Friday night and stole nearly $50 worth of candy and canned fruit. The theft was not discovered until the next morning, when the police were notified.

The robbery was reported to all the stations west of this city and a sharp lookout will be kept for the thieves. The amount of stuff taken will probably last the tramps for several days and they may be captured with the goods.

The Northern Pacific detectives have been put on the case. The robbing of cars has given the railway companies a good deal of trouble of late. At least a dozen box cars in this vicinity have been broken into of late and several hundred dollars worth of goods taken.

INDEPENDENT TRADING STATION TO BE ASKED.

Rolla, N. D., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club of Rolla is making an effort to secure the establishment of an independent station on the Turtle Mountain reservation, near the place where the Indians receive their checks, where the checks can be cashed. The club wishes to have this station separate from any trading point or collection agency and under such regulations as the Indian office may suggest with a commission appointed by the Indians themselves to see that each Indian gets fair treatment. The next payment is scheduled between April 10 and 20.

DIFFERENCES SETTLED, FACTORY RUNNING AGAIN.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sash and door factory resumed work last week after a prolonged period of idleness, the result of disagreement among the owners of the property. This has been settled and the business that was formerly cared for by George Dieble and R. B. Laing will be conducted under the firm name of Pioneer Sash & Door factory. R. J. O'Connell of St. Paul is to take charge of the office and financial part of the business. Henry Dieble will be in charge of the mechanical department. The injection of new blood and management will tend to place the business on a satisfactory basis to all concerned.

OMAHA LIMITED STRIKES

A Farmer's Wagon, Reducing It to Kindling Wood.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John McDonald and his team of horses had a narrow escape from being killed by the Omaha Chicago-Duluth limited on a road crossing near Bloomer. The farmer and horses were pitched into the ditch, while the wagon was converted into kindling wood. The engineer put on the emergency brakes, but was unable to avoid a collision. The trainmen picked up Mr. McDonald and the team, and the farmer mounted one of the horses and continued on his way. The passengers were badly shaken up as the result of the sudden application of the brakes.

FARMERS ARE SEEDING.

Active Operations Begun in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers of North Dakota have commenced to seed the 1908 crop of wheat. Some work at widely scattered points had been done prior to this, but the work was not general until today. The top soil is dry and in splendid condition for working. The Red River valley, which has been subject to spring floods for several years, is in splendid condition, and the acreage in the valley proper will therefore be larger than in some recent years, but the wheat acreage in the older sections of the state is not expected to average as great as last year because the farmers will seed more barley and diversify to a greater extent.

APPOINTED TO WEST POINT.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank N. Brooks and Carlisle H. Walsh, both of Minneapolis, have been appointed to cadetships to the West Point military academy. They will join the 1909 class at West Point in June next.

POISON DON'T FEAZE BOY.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 7.—Although he drank enough laudanum to kill two men under ordinary circumstances, the 2-year-old son of William Greech at Chetek is alive and experiences no ill effects. The child emptied the contents of a bottle of the poison while the mother happened to be absent from the room.

CRACKSMEN GET $50.

Stillwater, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Safe-blowers visited the New Store company general merchandise establishment in South Stillwater early Monday morning. They blew the big safe this time. The only booty secured was about $50 in silver. The bills were not left in the safe, as doubtless expected by the cracksmen.

The work was doubtless that of professionals, and there is no clue to the perpetrators.

He went to the building shortly after noon and shortly afterward it was discovered to be on fire.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYED.

The greatest evil in the conditions surrounding employment in this country is the lack of common interest between employer and employe.

This is partly due to the employes, many of whom look upon their places as mere means of getting as much as they can for as little as they can. But the greater part of the burden of responsibility falls upon the employers, who foster this wrong idea by failing to provide proper incentive to employes to take an interest in the success of the work upon which they are engaged.

There ought to be a strong common interest between the employe and the employer—or rather between the employe and the work of which he is a part. If the work goes well it should profit both; if it goes ill it will certainly harm both. But when employes are screwed down to the lowest possible wage level; when specialization prevents the individual employe from observing the effect of his own industry upon the work in general; when there is a wide gap between the finished product and the individual workman, and between this workman and those who profit by his work: when these conditions exist it is hard to create the community of interest that should exist. It cannot be created unless employers deliberately set out to create it by showing good will toward their workmen, by making their working conditions as good as possible, by impressing upon them their individual responsibilities, and by making it pay an employe to do his best.

When every employe does his level best in his particular line, the best results will be attained. Yet that can hardly be expected unless the individual employe knows the bearing of his function upon the finished product, and has tangible reasons for feeling an interest in the success of the institution in which he works.

Employers must get into the way of regarding their employes as something more than mere cogs in the machine. They must give them a higher value and greater consideration than they do the mechanical implements with which they work. Too many of them fail to do this now; they know that it costs money to replace a machine, but that there are always plenty of workmen to be had without cost. If a machine breaks down, it is expensive to replace it. If a workman gets killed in a machine it does not cost a penny to get a new one. This leads to a wrong conception of the value of the workman, and tends to make impossible the community of interest between master and man upon which the most thorough success depends.

Take your employes into your confidence; it pays.

For instance, the Omaha road reports an interesting development. When the panic came, and depression loomed darkly, the general superintendent of the Omaha made a personal appeal to employes for help in reducing the company's expenses as a means of averting the need of cutting wages. He now reports that during January a previous deficit was turned into a surplus, and this because of the efforts of employes in economizing. On the item of coal alone they saved $38,000 during the month.

There should be more of this better understanding between employers and employes.

CANNON, PROTECTOR OF TRUSTS.

The spectacle of Speaker Cannon calling upon the department of justice to go after the paper trust would be very funny if it was not so infernally irritating.

Of course it simply means that Cannon is willing to do almost anything except the one thing that would count—to permit a revision of the tariff.

It is plainly evident that he does not care much for the paper trust; interests vastly greater than this are the cause of his tender solicitude. He fears that if the tariff question is opened up by the repeal of the tariff upon wood pulp it will mean that other features of it will be considered, so he has put his foot down firmly and has forbidden action of any kind whatever. The introduction of a resolution asking the department of justice what it is doing about the paper trust is merely a pitiful attempt to divert attention from the real issue.

In the first place, the president has already directed the attention of the department of justice to the paper trust, so there was no need of Cannon's taking it up, and nothing to be gained by his doing so. In the second place, a legal prosecution of the trust could be very well carried on at the same time that congress was taking action for the repeal of the tariff on wood pulp, as demanded by the president and by all of the newspapers of the country.

The wood pulp item is one that interests the newspapers directly and the public only incidentally, though as surely. The chief value of the incident is to expose once more the inexplicable alliance of the power that controls the house of representatives with large interests which are fattening upon the necessities of the people through the tariff. Most of the manufacturers of the country, except these few large ones, demand tariff revision. The people, overwhelmingly, insist upon it. The sentiment for it has never been so strong in the history of the country, not even in 1892 when it turned an election and drove the Republican party out of power. The failure of the party representatives in congress to show good faith in regard to revision is imperilling the success of the Republican party at the polls. Yet Cannon and his Republican machine, evidently thinking more of the interests they are protecting than they do of the people, the country or their party, stand squarely and obstinately in the way of reform.

It is a shameful spectacle. Cannon is the real power, though he works through his personal machine, which consists of Representatives Dalzell, Payne, Sherman and Tawney. The Republican majority in congress is gagged, bound and delivered to the service of the trusts.

Never has there been a more shameful and shameless travesty on free government. Men who were elected to represent the people have sold their independence for a price, have bartered their convictions, have betrayed their constituents and have bent the knee of homage to a one-man power which is wholly devoted to the service of interests that prey upon the people.

There is not a sign of independence anywhere. Men whom their constituents thought well enough of to elect as members of congress have become mere suppliants at the throne of purchased power.

And this includes the member of congress from this district, Mr. Bede, who at one time held sane ideas on the tariff.

THE LAKE TRAFFIC.

A current bulletin of the federal census upon the merchant marine of the United States contains some interesting figures regarding the growth of the marine interests of the Great Lakes. These figures are for 1906, since when a further increase has occurred, and they compare with 1889.

For instance, it is shown that in gross tonnage the lake vessels increased from 920,294 in 1889 to 2,392,863 in 1906, a gain of 160 per cent. This is the greatest gain shown on the five divisions covered by the report. The next greatest increase was in the Pacific coast, where it was 133.2 per cent; next was the Atlantic coast and Gulf of Mexico, where it was 82.5 per cent. The Mississippi and its tributaries increased 31.1 per cent, and other inland waters 74 per cent.

Curiously enough, in the face of this tremendous gain in gross tonnage, the increase in the number of vessels was smaller on the Great Lakes than upon any other division. In 1889 there were 2,737 vessels of all classes, while in 1906 there were 2,990, an increase of only 9.2 per cent, while the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico gained 63.7 per cent, the Pacific coast 55.2 per cent, the Mississippi 31.8 per cent, and other inland waters 67.4 per cent.

In the value of vessel property the Great Lakes were exceeded only by the Atlantic coast and Gulf of Mexico, but in percentage of increase the greatest gain was on the Pacific coast, with the Great Lakes second. On the Great Lakes the value of vessel property increased from $48,580,174 in 1889 to $130,805,640, a gain of 169.2 per cent.

The gross income of the lake vessels increased from $35,463,852 in 1880 to $65,274,702 in 1906, a gain of 84 per cent. The Pacific coast traffic, in the same period, rose from $19,872,738 to $48,520,139, an increase of 144.1 per cent. In income the lake traffic was exceeded only by the Atlantic coast traffic, where the total in 1906 was $159,759,924, a gain of 77.2 per cent over 1889.

The Great Lakes in 1906 employed, on vessels and on land, 31,253 persons, who were paid $18,170,296 in wages and salaries. On vessels 24,916 employes were paid $13,280,716, and on land 6,337 persons were paid $4,889,580.

In average pay in the service on land and sea the Pacific coast led with $673 a year, the lakes were next with $582 a year, the Atlantic coast was third with $537 a year, and the Mississippi was lowest with $404 a year. The same relative position occurs in the rate of pay for men on vessels, as follows: Pacific, $642; Lakes, $533; Atlantic, $497; Mississippi, $378.

Total land forces averaged $790 on the Pacific, $772 on the lakes, $632 on the Atlantic and $564 on the Mississippi. Under this head officers, managers, clerks, etc., the higher grades of employment, averaged $960 on the Pacific, $949 on the Lakes, $928 on the Atlantic and $678 on the Mississippi. It should be remembered, in connection with these figures, that for the greater part of the lake forces there is work only eight months of the year, while on the coasts it continues the year around.

THE REFORMATORY IDEA.

In an interview with The Herald recently Frank L. Randall, superintendent of the St. Cloud state reformatory, vividly contrasted the ancient idea of handling criminals and convicts with the more enlightened modern idea.

"There was a time," said he, "when men were simply locked up in insanitary surroundings, and public sentiment countenanced the abuse of criminals and convicts. If they withstood tuberculosis and other diseases, they were finally let loose again to prey upon society. The reformatory idea—the modern idea of penal institutions—is that there should, first of all, be a just reason for imprisonment, and then that the imprisonment should be with the purpose of reforming the prisoner."

The term "penitentiary," applied to most state prisons, has its root in the idea of punishment and pain. This is a relic of the days when imprisonment was for the punishment of erring members of society. The idea of punishment still lingers in the public mind, but except in rare and extreme cases, it is as anachronistic as the whipping post and the stocks.

The duty of society toward the man who is convicted of crime is not to make him suffer for his offense, but to turn him, if possible, into an honest and productive citizen. In the first place, it is becoming well understood that in a very large majority of cases, society itself is directly at fault for the existence of a criminal class. Where it permits noisome slums to exist, in which poverty, degradation and sin are the weeds that crowd out the virtues, it is fostering a breeding ground for bad men and bad women. Its guilt in permitting the continuance of a degree of poverty and debasement which breeds criminality makes it responsible for the care of the logical fruits of such hothouses of evil. Its first duty should be to eliminate the conditions that make for crime; its second duty is to treat criminals thus produced upon a reformatory and not a punitive plan.

The old system of handling convicts degraded men and women and confirmed them in criminal ways. It embittered them against society, which punished them for the logical results of its own negligence. It forced them down the hill instead of pulling them up.

Thus the fixed sentence is giving away to the indeterminate sentence, which leaves to prison authorities the decision as to release. Prison conditions are designed to make men better, instead of making them worse. The duty of the prison authorities is to uplift their charges, not to crowd them down. The old-time prison graduated trained criminals; the modern prison aims to turn out citizens.

It is a big problem, and does not always work out ideally; but modern tendencies, as expressed by Mr. Randall, are along the right line. The prison is not a place for punishment, but a place for regenerating men and women who have strayed, because of heredity or environment, into evil ways.

R. C. Dunn's Princeton Union says: "Candidates who are long on platforms frequently find themselves short on votes." Heatwole is the only candidate for governor with a platform, and it is a long one. But perhaps nothing personal was intended by Mr. Dunn's reflection.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

In Ludlow, Vt., the people and the magnates of the village are waging a war of opinion, according to George Gallaher, at the McKay. The mill owners and the men with wealth are endeavoring to influence the mill workers and other working people of the town that Roosevelt is the man who is responsible for their being unemployed, while, on the other hand, the people are loyal to the president, despite the efforts of their employers to influence their judgment and action.

Mr. Gallaher says that about 90 out of every 100 of the working people of Ludlow are out of employment owing to the closing down of the woolen mills. From a thriving little village Ludlow has passed to a state not unlike that of the sleeping village. The bustle of busy industry has ceased to manifest itself.

But though hardly any of the workers of the town are employed, Mr. Gallaher says that there is little distress in the town. This may be one reason for the loyalty of the workers to the cause of Roosevelt ism. They are naturally thrifty, have saved their money, and at the present time most of the mill workers have sufficient money to keep the wolf from the door.

The owners of the mills have seized the opportunity to tell the people that Roosevelt was the cause of their being thrown out of employment. They have attempted to persuade the people to think and act that way on the day of election. However, Mr. Gallaher says the people have refused to be led by the opinions of their employers, but have stood firm in their opinion of T. R.

Nothing that the managers and owners of the mills have been able to say has influenced the people to forget their admiration of the man with the radiant smile. The war of public opinion in Ludlow is still on, according to Mr. Gallaher, with the odds for a conservative wager favoring the winning out of the people.

Mr. Gallaher says Ludlow has no saloons and no policemen. They don't believe in the former, while under the conditions of the town the presence of the latter is unnecessary. So thrifty are most of the inhabitants that now, after almost three months of idleness, there are only a few cases where assistance is needed.

Ludlow, says Mr. Gallaher, is one of the towns that teaches a lesson in thriftiness.

C. H. McGory, who is at the St. Louis, was recently in Mexico. He was much amused at the Mexican opinion of many of our national sports. For instance, they are beginning to take a liking to the great American game of baseball. The visit of the White Sox of Chicago, says Mr. McGory, gave the game an impetus in the Southland. But their opinion of football is not very complimentary.

Mr. McGory cut a clipping from a Mexican paper, which is herewith quoted:

"What is football?"

"An onlooker at a game of football sees a crowd of men; at least, if he is sharp enough he may discern that they once had the forms of men, very badly dressed, padded and gloved to protect every part of their bodies. He cannot see their ears, for they are covered with special caps. Over their noses they wear a kind of mask which gives them a most enchanting appearance.

"They all gather together in a most compact group, bend down, their noses to the ground as if they were looking for something they had lost. Finally they appear to find it, for one of them seizes a ball which looks like a melon, another takes it from him and runs away.

"The rest dash after him. When they reach him the whole bunch falls on the unlucky one in a shapeless mass of human flesh, forming a pyramid, with legs, arms, and padded heads appearing here and there. The mass moves, and hands, arms and heads begin to come out. Then they find the unfortunate fellow who has formed the base of the pyramid. He is like a sack of potatoes that has been run over by a locomotive.

"Somebody shouts water, and a negro rushes to the front with a bucket of it. They throw it over the human potato sack, and if he hasn't got a broken limb through the weight of the half ton or so that bore him down to earth, he can continue playing as soon as he gets his breath again.

"Take this formula, and, as the druggists say, 'shake it up well and repeat,' and you will have a pretty fair idea of what football is."

Coming from the land of the gore-loving Dons and Greasers, this is good. They tie the knot of ridicule on the rough but honest game of football, but delight in the bloody spectacle of a bull fight that turns the decent American away with sickening disgust. It is one appealing bet that if the Terrazas tribe of bull-stickers ever became mixed up in the good American game, they would beat it for the less strenuous side lines.

The Political Bill of Fare.

Hibbing Tribune: It is a choice collection of candidates Minnesota has for the governorship. There's Mr. Young, one eye gleaming with his triumph in twice electing a Democratic governor and the other badly blacked during his recent visit to Washington, D. C.; there's Jake Jacobson, the friend of the "pepul," Minnesota's most vociferous statesman in days of yore but who of late has, strangely enough, lost his voice; there's Joel P. Heatwole, who has been off with the old love and on with the new long enough so that he thinks he will make a fine governor and whose candidacy gives brilliant promise of a fine pyrotechnic display; lastly, and some of us fear not leastly, there's John A. Johnson, beloved of all Democrats and the idol of all mugwumps, who is now out in the presidential class warming up for the real race of the year which is scheduled for the Minnesota track late in the season. It's a lovely layout.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday's beautiful brilliance and warmth—it got up to 46 degs. yesterday and down to 26 degs. last night—were succeeded this morning by dull clouds and a chill northeast wind. It was not cold, but there was an unpleasant touch of rawness in the breeze, and conditions were threatening. The weather man says it is likely to rain or snow tonight and tomorrow, and the northeast wind and clouds of this morning enforced his prediction.

A year ago today it was cool and windy.

The sun rose this morning at 5:35 and sets tonight at 6:45, making 13 hours and 10 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "An area of low barometric pressure of considerable intensity overlies Utah. The center of this disturbance remained about stationary during the past twenty-four hours, but its influence resulted in rain or snow over portions of the Northwest, the Lake region, Mississippi and Missouri valleys and Eastern Gulf states during Monday or last night, and higher temperatures in the Ohio valley and Southwestern states. Areas of high pressure overlie the North Pacific coast, Manitoba and Lake Superior, the latter causing colder weather in the Western Lake region and Upper Mississippi valley. The easterly movement of the Utah storm will be attended by rain or snow, chilly weather and strong northeasterly winds in this locality tonight and Wednesday."

To Men Hoarding Money.

Blow all the whistles tomorrow!
Start the mills up with a jerk,
Open the factories and foundries,
Resume buying and selling—and such
For there are thousands near starving;
Asking—yes, begging for work.
All they want is honest employment;
Few of them ever will shirk.
But will thank you ever and always
If you give them but work—
Honest work.

Now is the time to show brotherhood,
Remember the Great Nazerene;
Most of you profess to be Christian.
Ah, let your Christianity be seen.
Help your poor brother that's starving;
His children are crying for bread,
Bring hope to their wan-faced mother
Or soon we will hear they are dead.
Oh, rouse up! Rouse up, get doing,
Start up and all will be well,
Set factories and mills all going
And banish forever this knell
Of babies crying with hunger,
Mothers' moaning and fathers'—Ah, well,
You can make this earth a paradise—
Just now is is something like hell.

Begrudging Charity.

Superior Telegram: The Duluth Herald remarks that "Because there are a few frauds in the bread line is a mighty poor reason for charging that every man without a job is necessarily a crook and a loafer." The Herald is right. Yet there are a few people and one newspaper in Duluth which begrudge a few cups of coffee and sandwiches which may or may not have been absorbed by unworthy stomachs. A starving cat or dog is pitiable enough—but a starving human being is much more so. If the newspaper which finds fault because the men in the bread line do not meet its standard thinks in its own immaculate purity it is entitled to cast the first stone, it should at least wait until the starvation is allayed before beginning the bombardment. The cost of the sandwiches will not break anybody financially—and they have undoubtedly nourished human forms within which dwell immortal souls. So let the morning paper hold its hostile emotions under control for a week or two until the season's work begins to open up.

Would There Be Panics?

Batten's Wedge: If railroads were managed from their terminals and not from Wall street?

If every railroad president had worked up, on merit, from the ground floor of the operating department?

If no man could be a director who did not have at least half his fortune invested in the "common" stock of the road?

If the chairman of every board were vouched for by the finance committee of some other great business concern?

If banks never loaned money to their officers or directors?

If the three largest depositors who are not stockholders were members of the board?

If every officer were a trained banking man who never buys or sells stocks on margin?

If every director were personally responsible, to his last dollar, for the bank funds?

If no man could be director until he put up a bond which is satisfactory to the depositors who are not stockholders?

Wonder if these requirements could be put into law!

Wonder if the law would be enforced!

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

F. C. Fleischman, residing at 109 First avenue east, died at noon on April 5, aged 57 years. He leaves a wife and several children, four being married. Mr. Fleischman came to Duluth in 1868 and has resided here since, excepting four years from 1877 to 1881.

It is reported that the Milwaukee, Lake Shore & Western railroad is trying to purchase or secure a lease of the Ashland division of the Northern Pacific. The Lake Shore is now building a line from Monico, Wis., to Ashland, and the Northern Pacific branch would give it almost an air line from Milwaukee to Duluth.

George N. Loomis, formerly of the Duluth Tribune, arrived in the city last evening from Chicago.

L. W. Means has gone to Tacoma, W. T. to remain permanently.

J. F. Baers, Jr., has decided, owing to ill health, to go out of business in Duluth. He will remain in the East.

Neil McInnis arrived from Tower last night and attached the outfit of Stiles & Ryan, loggers, who got out a large quantity of logs for White's mill during the winter. At the close of the season they quietly loaded their horses, etc., on a freight car and shipped them to Duluth. They owe large amounts to McInnis and other Tower merchants and to the men who worked in the woods.

Col. Frank Ripley arrived home yesterday from a winter's sojourn on the Pacific coast.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

North Branch Review: The editors up on the iron range are going to form a range press association at the invitation of the Virginia Virginian. There's not a livelier lot of journalists in the state than they have up there and the association will be a hummer.

Perham Bulletin: It still looks very much as if J. F. Jacboson had the Republican nomination for governor "cinched." Worse things could happen.

Moorhead Citizen: There are politicians in Washington who predict that the battle of 1908 will be a tariff fight in spite of efforts to suppress it. There is a chance that minor issues will be forced into the back ground and that the Democratic party will summon all colors and shades of Democrats to rally to the tariff issue. It is well understood that tariff revision is going to be a tough job—the toughest, without doubt, that the Republican party ever undertook—and it will be miraculous if it does not turn out more of a log rolling contest than a revision. Every special interest will be on hand demanding a rivetting and strengthening of all the monopolies it now enjoys. This is what tariff revision by its friends means.

Royalton Banner: Wonder how those fellows are feeling who went to the legislature and voted contrary to the pledges which they made? Cards in the papers and patting bald-headed babies will not save them from the wrath to come.

Ada Herald: There is a lull in the Republican gubernatorial fight. At the present time it looks as if Jacobson has the best of it and will probably land the nomination.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: The Northfield News says that a powerful railroad and trust combination is interesting itself in the fight for the Republican nomination for governorship and that the favorite candidate is not a dark horse either. Which candidate does the combine favor? A trifling bit of information we will try to find out and publish.

Le Sueur News: Republican congressmen are not resting on a bed of roses. With the president urging them on to duty, on one side, and the Democratic minority ready to obstruct their work on the other, their thought of home and fall elections can not be the most pleasant.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Lately someone thought to corner Frank Eddy during one of his temperance lectures by asking him if the farmer would not suffer a loss in the price of corn and barley if the saloon was abolished. Frank declared they would not, that they could feed their corn and barley to the hogs, thereby raising more pork and less hell.

Perham Enterprise: The shaking of Teddy's "big stick" no longer terrifies congress. The "interests" are in control and the do-nothing program goes merrily on.

Rush City Post: Speaker Cannon ought to be fired.

Two Harbors Iron Trade Journal: Governor Hughes says that the heads of corporations who disobey the laws ought to be given terms in the penitentiary, instead of being fined. This is common sense. A fine is paid out of the treasury of the corporation which raises its prices enough to make it up, so the people pay it after all.

Opinion of Punkin Hollow.

There's always somethin' goin' on to make the cowards quake with dread
And set around and talk about the dangers that are on ahead;
I'll bet you that when Caesar fell, the folks who kept the stores in Rome Expected that the mobs would rise to drive them out of house and home;
But things kept goin' right along, the old world never swerving a jot,
And in a little while the crowds went back to workin' and forgot.

When Cromwell got his dander up and went to knockin' things about,
I'll bet that lots of folks supposed the world was goin' up the spout;
The radicals, I s'pose, were blamed for recklessly destroyin' trade,
And probably wild howls went up for all the changes that were made;
But England didn't go to smash; in fact,
the rip-up helped a lot,
And in a little while the crowds went back to workin' and forgot.

It's always been the same old cry; we hear it now and then;
Some man that ain't afraid steps out and does things for his fellow men,
And they throw up their hands and say,
because his way is strange or new,
That he has knocked the bottom out and things will soon be fallin' through,
But gener'ly it happens that what needs
upsettin' gets upset,
And when the crowds get back to work,
the whole affair is soon forgot.

BOY A FAILURE; SOUGHT DEATH

Despondent Chicago University Student Tried to Drown Himself.

Chicago, April 7.—Unable to come up to the expectations of his relatives and friends, who had predicted a brilliant future for him, Roy C. Alward of Fredricton, N. B., a student at the University of Chicago, tried to drown himself in Lake Michigan at the foot of Jackson Park driveway.

In sight of several hundred persons out to enjoy the first real spring Sunday afternoon, the young student waded into the lake. Lieut. Jones McCann of the Woodlawn station called to him to come out of the water, and, when the boy refused, waded in after him. In a race for deep water, where the student could have drowned himself, the policeman won. Just as the water closed about the head of the boy Lieut. McCann grasped him about the neck and drew him into shallow water.

Collapsed on the Bank.

On the bank the boy collapsed.

"I'm a failure," he sobbed. "Let me go back into the water and die. I can't face my friends. I'm simply a burden to every one."

He was taken to the Woodlawn police station and friends were notified.

When Alward was first noticed he was standing knee deep in the water talking to himself. R. S. Sonter called to Alward to come out. The boy mumbled something in reply and continued to walk out into deeper water.

When Alward refused to pay any attention to the shouts from the crowd on shore, Lieut. McCann waded after him. Alward fought to free himself, but soon became exhausted and allowed himself to be dragged back to land.

A Failure—Wanted to Die.

"I'm a failure," he exclaimed to Lieut. McCann, "that's why I wanted to die. When my relatives sent me to Chicago to go to school, they had planned a brilliant future for me. I came here and then began to drink. Maybe I was with too fast a crowd. But I found that I was neglecting my studies. I became disgusted, and thought the only way to do was to end it all. I wish that the police hadn't interfered."

Alward's relations in Canada are said to be wealthy.

JOHNSON BOOM STILL GROWING

O'Brien Says Governor Will be Factor in Denver Convention.

Washington, April 7.—Thomas D. O'Brien of St. Paul is in Washington on his way to New York to attend a meeting of a committee of a fraternal organization of which he is a member.

Mr. O'Brien says there is no political significance in his visit, refusing to talk politics—Johnson politics—to anyone.

"I am on my way to New York," said Mr. O'Brien, "and merely stopping over to spend a day with my daughter, who is attending school here.

"I am not on any political mission, and have talked very little politics with anyone since I reached here yesterday. What little I have talked, however, convinces me that Johnson is growing on the country and he will undoubtedly be a factor at the Denver convention."

The New Pure Food and Drug Law.

To Purify The Blood

The liver and kidneys must be enlivened by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills.

The blood not only carries nourishment to the cells and tissues of the body, but also takes up the poisonous waste material or ashes which remain from the fire of life.

These poisonous substances can only be removed from the blood by the liver and kidneys and this accounts for the extraordinary success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills as a means of purifying the blood.

By acting directly and specifically on these organs this medicine ensures regular and healthful action of the bowels and a thorough cleansing and invigorating of the whole digestive and excretory systems.

The blood is purified, digestion improves, the vital organs resume their various functions, biliousness, constipation, liver complaint and kidney trouble are overcome, and rheumatism, backaches and all pains and aches disappear.

There is no treatment so prompt and certain and none so reasonable in price. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. All dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box.

COREY TO BE RE-ELECTED.

No Opposition Expected at Steel Corporation Meeting.

New York, April 7.—No opposition to the present management of the United States Steel corporation is expected at the annual meeting of its stockholders to be held on April 20 in Jersey City. Proxies are now being solicited in the names of J. P. Morgan, Henry C. Frick, Elbert H. Gary, Norman B. Reams and Nathaniel Thayer, and no changes are expected in the official staff. It is conceded on all sides, therefore, that William Ellis Corey will be re-elected president.

Following are directors whose terms of office expire and who will be re-elected at this annual meeting: George F. Baker, William E. Corey, John F. Dryden, Clement A. Griscom, Marvin Hughitt, Daniel G. Reid, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Nathaniel Thayer.

A Pittsburg dispatch received in New York Sunday stated that in well-informed steel circles it is expected confidently that the net earnings of the corporation for the quarter ended March 31 will be about $17,500,000. It has been thought for several weeks that the corporation's earnings for the first three months of this year will be comparatively small, but will reach larger proportions than those recorded during the period of depression in the steel industry during 1903 and 1904. At the beginning of this year it was believed that the corporation's earnings for the first quarter would not exceed $15,000,000, but improved conditions in the light finished steel market have enabled the company to make a better showing than it expected.

JAPS APPLY TO UNION.

House Servants at Seattle Seek Benefits of Organization.

Seattle, Wash., April 7.—There are 300 Japanese women engaged as house servants in Seattle and they have recently applied to the Central Labor council for permission to form a union and come under the wing of the labor body. Union labor men are strongly opposed to this, but the members of the waitresses' union are in favor of it, and Alice Lord, the business agent of the waitresses, is trying to push the matter through.

BRECKENRIDGE FOR LA FOLLETTE

But Taft Men Elected at All Other Minnesota Caucuses.

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The returns from the caucuses that were held throughout the state Saturday night and last night fully justify the statements of those who have been claiming Minnesota for Taft. Ramsey county held its caucuses last night and everything went for Taft. Hennepin and some other counties will hold their caucuses this evening and some counties will not elect delegates to their county conventions until Wednesday.

Wilkins county, so far, is the only place where anything else than Taft men were elected. Breckenridge, in Wilkin county, is a town populated almost entirely by railroad employes, and they elected La Follette delegates to the county convention. In Cannon Falls, where J. C. Applegate has been working hard for La Follette, Applegate himself was defeated and a Taft delegation was elected and the whole Goodhue county convention will go for Taft solid.

Outside of Hennepin the only places where there is any La Follette sentiment are the Seventh and Ninth districts. But the La Follette talk on the surface is not enough to make any one believe that they have any hopes of electing delegates.

Is It Possible?

Forty-three million eight hundred and seventy-six thousand persons suffering with rheumatism, kidney and bladder affections, and should not continue, says a well-known authority.

Prompt treatment is required in most cases to prevent complications. Acid urine, pains and burning, pains in small of back, puffing under the eyes, foul breath and coated tongue, scanty or profuse urinating, poor appetite and feverish thirst all indicate kidney and bladder affections which will soon develop into rheumatism, gout, dropsy, etc.

This simple home treatment was recommended for the poorer classes by Gaut, the celebrated German, but thousands of the wealthy are taking it.

Have any honest druggist mix one-half ounce fluid ext. Buchu, one ounce compound fluid Balmwort and two ounces Syrup Sarsaparilla compound. Shake well and take a teaspoonful before each meal and one at retiring. One-fourth to one-half dose will cure bed-wetting children, by tonic power on bladder nerves. Cut this valuable item out and try it when needed. Some drug stores may not have all the ingredients, but can obtain from wholesale firms who supply doctors.

ELECTIONS IN MICHIGAN

Show Nine More Counties Added to the "Dry" Column.

Detroit, April 7.—The indications are that Monday's elections added nine more counties to Michigan dry column. As Van Buren was the only dry county, the total of local option counties becomes ten. Of the fourteen counties where the Prohibitionists made a campaign, "Kalamazoo, Cass, Gladwin, Osceola and Oakland voted against local option."

In Midland county fifteen out of twenty-three precincts gave a majority of sixty-seven in favor of local option, and local option, or dry contention, was carried in the counties of St. Joseph, Clinton, Barry, Gratiot, Wexford, Missauke, Grand, Traverse and Oceana.

At Grand Rapids, George Ellis, Republican, was elected mayor over Charles R. Sligh, Democrat, and S. Wesselius, Independent.

F. H. Milham, Democrat, was elected mayor of Kalamazoo; John Campbell, Democrat, mayor of Muskegon and George R. Herkimer, Democrat, mayor of Dowagiac.

Returns from Tuscalo county show a majority of 861 for the direct nomination system. T. W. Atwood's followers carried only five of the twenty-three townships. At Flint, Genesee county, George E. McKinley, representing the "Drys," was defeated for mayor by H. C. Spencer, and in Owasso, Shiawasso county, Wallace D. Burke, a saloonkeeper, was elected mayor, defeating Stanley E. Parkhill, one of the Democratic leaders of the state. Col. John P. Kirk, Democrat, who had the support of the liquor dealers, was elected mayor of Ypsilanti.

COURT DIRECTS THE VERDICT

Brewing Company Wins Its Suit Against Morris Harley.

Judge Ensign, yesterday afternoon, took the case of the Milwaukee-Waukesha Brewing company against Morris Harley from the jury and directed a verdict in favor of the brewing company for the full amount of its claim, $382.73.

The action was one based on an alleged breach of contract by Harley in failing to pay for a quantity of beer that he purchased from the brewing company for bottling purposes.

Harley claimed that he shipped the beer back to the brewery, that it was of such poor quality that his customers could not drink it and that he lost trade by dealing it out. Harley made a counter claim of $5,000 damages.

The testimony tended to show that the poor quality of the bottled beer was not due to the fault of the brewers, but to the defendant's inexperience in bottling it.

Reynolds & McClearn appeared for the brewing company and William Marx for Harley.

NEW "AMEN CORNER."

Hoffman House Chosen by Politicians in New York.

New York, April 7.—The new "Amen corner" will be in the Hoffman house, just a block north of the Fifth Avenue hotel, which closed its doors Saturday night and thus put out of business the old one which was famous as the scene of great political conferences and incidents.

Chief among the reasons for choosing the Hoffman house as a successor to the Fifth Avenue is the fact that the Republican national committee which is always a source of much political news in the national campaign, is to occupy quarters in the tower of the Metropolitan Life building, just across from Madison square.

THEY DISCUSSED BETTER EVELETH

Lively Smoker Makes Commercial Club Meeting Out of Ordinary.

Eveleth, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The smoker held last night as an adjunct and attraction to the regular meeting of the Business Men's association proved a drawing card, as the meeting was well attended and genuine interest displayed from beginning to end in the various subjects for the betterment of Eveleth that were discussed. The committee that interviewed Mr. Vail in regard to enlarging his hall, reported that he will do nothing unless given aid by the business men of the city. The home rule committee was not ready to report, as it was stated many of its members who are attorneys are busy defending blind pig questions.

The blind pig committee is busy trying to get the other range Commercial clubs to send a committee with them to lay the blind pig question before the superintendents of the Oliver Mining company at one of their meetings in Duluth, and try to secure some means of stamping out the evil. Committees have already been appointed by the Commercial clubs of Biwabik, Virginia and a number of other towns.

A committee of farmers and homesteaders living south an east of Eveleth laid before the meeting the matter of securing good roads for their district. The district has three school houses, but only 31 out of 150 eligible children attend, on account of the bad condition of the roads, which are sometimes impassable. It has been the custom to grant between $500 and $1,000 yearly for keeping the roads in condition in that district, but that is not sufficient for such a large area. The committee asked the business men to send a committee to Duluth to speak with the county commissioners, and try to get about $5,000 for improving the roads in the "Mud Hen" and Zim districts, which are adjacent to Eveleth.

J. W. Falk was appointed to go with the farmers' committee to Duluth and urge the county commissioners to make a large appropriation for the improvement.

After the regular meeting, the informal meeting, with P. E. Dowling as chairman, commenced. Secretary Sax talked about the organization of the local club and the purpose of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs. C. E. Bailey spoke upon the insuring of bank deposits, which he strongly advocated. Mr. Falk, in speaking of "Gambling in Wall Street," flayed the methods of the high financiers with very emphatic phrases. Vice President MacDonald spoke on the "Duties and Purposes of a Commercial Club." The talks were closed with one by President Hearding on the Aldrich bill.

GOING AFTER PLAYERS.

Virginia, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the decision of the baseball association to procure some first-class players and a good outfit, M. O. Taylor has gone to Chicago to engage men and to purchase uniforms. The baseball feeling is running high and the association will spare no expense in getting a good club for the season.

JUSTICE'S FIRST CASE RESULTS IN ACQUITTAL.

Eveleth, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Justice of the Peace Ed Moylan of Mesaba Mountain township had the first case of the year yesterday afternoon. It was against Steve Rock for indecent exposure on the Adams location. Attorney M. E. Lennon, for the defendant, moved for a jury trial, which was called in the afternoon. The jury of six composed of Con Chieu, Con Shea, Frank Belanger, Frank Johnson, John Farley and Tony Azzo, returned a verdict of not guilty.

Dr. Gans, the health officer, has turned in his report, which for the month of March was about the same as usual for this time of the year.

Dr. T. T. Ranney of Chicago has been added to staff of doctors at the More hospital.

DIPHTHERIA IS BAD AT AURORA

Ten Homes Quarantined and Kindergarten is Closed.

Aurora, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The diphtheria epidemic here has broken out in worse form than ever, ten homes having been quarantined.

The kindergarten has been closed and the room fumigated. Seven cases of the disease have been taken from this one room. It is thought the schools and Sunday schools will be closed until the disease is stamped out.

SALE AGAIN RUMORED

Of Corrigan & McKinney Interests to Steel Corporation.

Aurora, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a well-defined rumor among the mining men here that the Steel corporation has purchased the mining interests of Corrigan & McKinney. The St. James property here is included in the deal. If this rumor is correct, it is not thought the St. James will operate this year, as the corporation has the Stephens mine idle here from which most of the machinery has been shipped. The corporation also has an undeveloped property of eighty acres right in the village.

The Miller mine resumed operations Monday after an enforced idleness of a week to fix a hoist. It is expected the Miller will begin shipping in about fifteen days. The mine has a stockpile of some 99,000 tons.

SOON BEGIN STRIPPING.

Mining Corporations Plan for Extensive Season's Work.

Hibbing, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—As an indication of the approach of a busy season, the Oliver Mining company is arranging to begin active stripping operations in this section. The company is now actively engaged in work of that character at the Hartley pit, the Sellers and the Hull-Rust.

At the Sellers ore has been uncovered and the principal stripping operations for this year involve the abandonment of the present Sellers shaft, an extension of the strippings west to the Burt pit, thus providing the Burt with an approach of easy grade. This involves a very large amount of work and will carry the Sellers pit around the north end of town. One new shovel has been put to work at the Hull-Rust and the large amount of new stripping machinery ordered last fall will shortly be put in commission. The Hull-Rust will be the scene of the Steel corporation's most extensive stripping this summer. The mine, when fully uncovered, will be enormous, fully a mile an da half long.

The Drake & Stratton company will begin stripping within a few days, in fact, it is already at work at the Leonard mine, which will be its biggest contract this year. Several shovels will be used at the Leonard. The Leonard is a new stripping proposition, the mine having been purchased last year by the Steel corporation from a company of Great Northern officials. The Drake & Stratton company will also use several shovels at the Morris mine this year and will continue its stripping operations at Mahoning No. 2, which were begun late last fall, where an overburden of forty-foot thickness is to be removed.

large to the national political convention are being voted upon throughout the state. A large vote was polled early in the day. The registration in Milwaukee was the largest in the history of the city, there being some 80,000 names recorded at the various voting booths. The campaign for mayor has been the most exciting in the city's history, and preparations have been made by all the candidates for getting out a full vote. David S. Rose is the Democratic candidate for mayor and is opposed by Thomas J. Pringle, Republican, and Emil Seidel, Social Democrat.

The issue of local option is being voted upon in quite a large number of cities, towns and villages. Beloit and Marinette are the largest cities engaged in the struggle. The fight of the anti-saloon league has been carried on principally in the southern part of the state.

At Madison a battle royal is being waged for mayor between J. C. Schubert, Democrat, the present incumbent, and W. J. McKay, Republican, the latter favoring Sunday closing of saloons.

PASTORS IN A BOYCOTT.

"Boys' Specialist" Has a Hard Time Getting a Hearing.

Bellingham, Wash., April 7.—The ministers of this city have declared a boycott against Rev. W. L. Snyder, known as "the boys' specialist," who recently came here from Nevada. The reason for the boycott is that Snyder is an advocate of local option and is not a total abstainer.

In his last stopping place, Reno, he aroused the enmity of the ministers, and they wrote to local men telling of his views. As a result every orthodox minister in town refused to allow Snyder to preach in his church, the Y. M. C. A. was closed to him, the president of the high school turned him down, and only because Former Mayor Black stepped in was he able to get the auditorium of the high school as a place to make his addresses.

ECZEMA SCALES DROPPED OFF.

Sufferer Notes Peculiar Result While Obtaining Cure by Use of External Liquid Remedy.

"I scaled like a fish when I began using D. D. D. Prescription," writes P. J. Weimer of Connellsville, Pa. "I had doctored for Eczema with two doctors for more than a month and got worse all the time. After using only three bottles of D. D. D. I can truthfully say I am cured."

Germ scales and a crustlike skin, surrounding the unsightly sores, are characteristic of Eczema and similar skin diseases. According to the best medical opinion, these scales are caused by bacilli feeding upon and consuming the weaker parts of the cuticle.

When these scales begin to fall away, it is a sign the bacilli have been exterminated and that new, healthy skin is being formed beneath. Nature takes care of this form of cure, but sometimes the Eczema scales multiply faster than nature can remove them. To assist nature, use a mild oil of wintergreen, properly compounded, as in D. D. D. Prescription.

Just a few drops of D. D. D. Prescription gives instant relief from that awful burning itch. As soon as this potent soothing liquid is applied to the skin, the itch is gone, soon the sores dry up and the new smooth, white skin replaces the scales which had formed.

D. D. D. Prescription is composed of oil of wintergreen and other healing herbs and plants. Hundreds of remarkable cures—cases which the doctors had given up—are now credited to D. D. D. Prescription, which is applied externally as a wash. Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth, Minn. Why not try a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription and stop that awful itch?

SUITS FOR BIG SUMS

Personal Injury Suits Aggregating $55,880 Are Filed.

Victims of Mining Accidents Try to Hold the Companies.

Personal injury suits, aggregating $55,880, were filed in the district court this morning by Attorneys Hollister & Helmo.

Five of the cases are the outcome of an explosion at the Mohawk mine at Aurora, on June 28, 1906. In this explosion five men lost their lives, and the administrators of their estates bring the suits against the Mohawk Mining company, in each case the maximum sum of $5,000 being asked. The names of the men killed are Oscar Kangas, Emil Suurtalo, Hjalmer Uriplathen, Isaac Matson and Herman Mattovara.

George Danilak has also brought suit against the Mohawk company for $15,000. He claims to have had an arm disabled in a hoist at the Mohawk mine, on Oct. 3, 1907.

Erick Nyman is suing the Crete Mining company for $15,720. He claims to have had a leg crushed under an ore car at the Troy mine, near Eveleth.

Frank Neimi is suing the Oliver Mining company, but the complaint in the case has not yet been filed.

Chamberlain's Has the Preference.

Mr. Fred C. Haurahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." HOTEL IS SCORCHED.

Early Morning Fire in the Old Saratoga Block.

Much smudge and few flames marked a fire at the Saratoga hotel building, Sixth avenue west and Superior street, about 6 o'clock this morning. The building is being torn down for the Wisconsin Central railroad and some rubbish back of it took fire, the flames spreading to the basement. The damage doesn't amount to much, as the building is to be demolished anyway.

MOTOR CAR JUMPS TRACK

ternal injuries; James O'Hare, internal injuries; E. C. Quinn, leg broken, internal injuries, condition serious.

About fifty persons were in the front car when the accident happened and many of them were more or less injured. The train was moving rapidly, when the front trucks of the motor car jumped the track. The car bumped along the rails for a short distance and then plunged off the elevated structure, landing in the rear yard of Mrs. A. T. Hayen, at 4235 Prairie avenue. The second car crashed into the rear of the motor car and carried it along the tracks for several feet. The front trucks of the second car also left the track.

Passengers Thrown in Heap.

The passengers of the front car were thrown in a heap to the floor, and some of them were dashed against the windows, cutting themselves badly. A panic followed in the four rear cars and a number of men raised windows and leaped out on to the elevated structure, where they were in imminent danger from the third rail. The attendants of the rear cars, however, managed to get them back into the train before anybody was injured.

Ambulances and patrol wagons were hurried to the scene from nearly all the police sattions on the South side of the city. Lieut. Cronin and ten officers from the Fiftieth street station were the first to arrive. They found the passengers of the motor car penned in and struggling to make their escape. When additional help arrived the imprisoned passengers were dragged through the shattered windows and carried into nearby residences, while the more seriously injured were hurried to various hospitals.

C. V. Weston, general manager of the company, said that the accident was caused by the motor casing of the front car dropping to the track and raising the trucks above the structure.

"These motor casings," said Mrs. Weston, "are heavy, weighing several hundred pounds. The one on the front car dropped down and the car trucks ran into it. Naturally it acted as a lever and raised the car from the tracks. The impetus of the moving train shoved this car off the structure, and it fell to the ground, despite all that the motorman could do to check it."

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Mr. Thos. Stenton, postmaster of Pontypool, Ont., writes: "For the past eight years I suffered from rheumatic pains, and during that time I used many different liniments and remedies for the cure of rheumatism. Last summer I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and got more relief from it than anything I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend this liniment to all sufferers from rheumatic pains." AT THE BIJOU.

"Champion Dancer of the World" Modest Claim of Young Woman.

Bertha Gleeson, at the Bijou this week, is billed as the "Champion Dancer of the World." The program doesn't state where she secured the title, and whether or not it is conceded by all the other dancers in the vast field of vaudeville, but Miss Gleeson admits it, and the big audiences which saw her yesterday were willing to admit that she apparently knows about all there is to know in her particular line. Her brother, John, is also somewhat of a dancer, and Fred Houlihan puts on a Dutch act with an assault on the piano, and some imitations, which are about as clever as anything heard in Duluth in this line. The act is a good one, and the feature of a good bill.

A pretty young woman named Effie Pierson is billed as a singing comedienne. She is a combination of Lulu Glaser and Eva Tanguay, and she has three very clever songs, which she sings in her own clever way.

Miss Franklyn Gale and company present a one-act drama, entitled "The Seamstress." It is a melodrama in tabloid form, and is quite a clever little sketch. Miss Gale is a good actress, and Brandon Mitchell, who has the part of her father, gives a good character bit.

Fitzgerald and Wilson get away with a singing and dancing act in which there is more new matter than the average dialogue contains.

Marzello and Wolfe are comedy bar artist and burlesque wrestlers. Their burlesque of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match is funny, and their work on the bars first class.

Isadore Silver sings about "The Valley Where My Sally Said Goodbye," with some choice lantern slides showing Sally and the valley.

The moving pictures are all comedy films, showing "A Study in Feet," "The Crazy Musician," and "Thoughtlessness."

The bill on the whole is varied and entertaining.

The Cherry Blossoms.

The Cherry Blossoms, at the Metropolitan this week, have a fresh-looking chorus, a long list of good vaudeville acts, clever comedians and adequate burlesques, with music.

"Aboard the Yacht Skiddoo" and "The Three Comics" suffice for burlesque titles. The scene of the first is laid aboard ship and discloses some of the most elaborate scenic drops seen at the "Met." John Perry is the principal funmaker and he is surrounded by a company, which includes Eugene Jerge, Markey and Moran, Goff Phillips, Eddie Mack, Joe Nelson, Lillie Perry, Mazie Aleene, Edyth Hamilton, Minnie Granville and many others.

Markey and Moran have the best act in the olio. It is a talking act, and its mainstay is the Scotch dialect comicalities of Markey. Markey is dressed a soldier of a Highland British regiment and Moran is Tommy Atkins. Markey is very good and Moran is very sad. He ought to be usherring instead of trying to talk like an English private.

Eugene Jerge, Mazie Aleene and Edyth Hamilton do a song and dance turn that is well carried out. Their songs are pretty, their dances vivacious and many of their jokes new.

Lillie Perry works alone in a singing act and she makes a hit, particularly when she sings "Father Loved Mother." Goff Phillips has a few good gags and parodies, Granville and Mack have some boisterous comedy and a good finish in Italian dialect and the singing of the Italian dialect songs that are enjoying popularity.

The Blossoms will give a chorus girls' contest Thursday night.

BANQUET AT FORT FRANCES

To be Given to Officils of Rainy Lake Road.

International Falls, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of Fort Frances will tender a banquet to the officials of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg road on the evening of April 14. It is planned to have the railroad bridge at that point completed by that date.

Hon. C. W. Stanton, the newly-appointed judge of the Fifteenth judicial district, was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the people of this community. President McPartlin of the Commercial club was toastmaster and in introducing the guest of the evening praised his services in behalf of this section, referring to him as the "Father of Koochiching County." Judge Stanton was presented with a gold watch, which he accepted in a speech full of feeling. County Attorney W. V. Kane, John E. Samuelson and others added to the nice things said about the new judge.

Charles Burnett has purchased the Ollila hotel of Charles Ollila and will take charge in the near future. The place has been enjoying a good patronage under the management of Mr. Ollila, but on account of having too many irons in the fire, he has been compelled to transfer it.

Dr. Blake has withdrawn from the firm of McKenzie & Blake, at Fort Frances, and will leave soon for Winnipeg, where he expects to continue the practice of medicine.

John Berg and D. T. McPhee have returned from a brief business trip to Duluth.

GOLDFINCH KILLS ITSELF.

Plunges Bill Into Own Breast and Dies From Wound.

Chicago, April 7.—Desperately homesick for its native land, a beautiful goldfinch, brought from Ireland to Chicago, yesterday drove its bill into its breast time after time until it bled to death.

That the bird committed suicide is beyond doubt. It was sent from Ireland to D. S. Shannahan, about two months ago. The bird was a remarkable singer and mimic. It had been trained to whistle Irish melodies, and, when placed in a room with a canary, soon learned to imitate the yellow songster. "The bird was homesick all the time, however," said Mr. Shannahan, "and only once or twice seemed in good spirits. It brooded and pined. We placed it near native singers, hoping it would become acclimated, but efforts to cheer it up were fruitless."

Friday night members of the family were startled from slumber by a wild burst of song from the foreign warbler. It sung for an hour, and then the song ceased. At daybreak the bird was found on the floor of the cage, its breast torn open and its bill stained in its own blood.

"The bird lanced the arteries about its heart," said a member of the Shannahan family. "Goldfinches of Ireland never live when taken from their home. Several years ago we tried to bring one of them over, and the same thing happened. The warbler killed itself one morning. We found it pulling its feathers out and lacerating its breast. The little creatures only have to lose a drop or two of blood to cause death."

Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Co.

Presents an Investment that is Endorsed, Guaranteed, Secured.

FOUR DAYS ONLY AT $44.00

In this third article of our "Plain Truth" series we again announce the close of the sale of TWIN CITY & LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY COMPANY stock at $44, and we want to impress on your mind that two of the six days allowed you to take advantage of this opportunity have passed and only four days remain.

With the beginning of this announcement there were, as stated, but 8,800 shares that may be sold under $60, and we strongly advise you not to depend on being able to get what you want of it next week at $50, but get it now at $44, because if these 8,800 shares are exhausted this week we have no more to offer under $60.

We are giving this announcement special prominence here at home in the Northwest, because we want everyone here who desires to take advantage of it to have ample notice of this last opportunity to get this stock below $50. Surely no one who gives this subject a moment's thought can doubt the extraordinary earning power of this double track, modern electric railroad operating between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes, and fully equipped to handle all classes of freight and passenger traffic.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Chief Engineer, in his report to Mr. Wendell for the Journal, said in part: "My only instructions have been to secure the shortest possible mileage between termini with the lightest grade. I have secured a line that is 96 per cent tangent and have kept within the maximum grade limit given me of six-tenths of 1 per cent, and have used very little of the maximum. My instructions on the construction have been to put up every piece of work according to standard specifications adopted by steam roads. I have been a locating and construction engineer for twenty years and have built a large mileage in the United States and Mexico, and I can truthfully say that I have never located a like mileage anywhere with which I was so well pleased from every point of view, including economy of construction, maintenance and operation as the located line of Twin City & Lake Superior Railway. There is no obstacle in the way of completion of the line by July 1, 1909."

The location engineering is complete, the right-of-way between the cities is all secured, all bridges have been located and plans drawn, and on July 1, 1907, actual construction began and was continued without interruption until after January 1st. Thirty-two miles of the best standard railroad roadway in Minnesota is complete, including culverts and trestle bridging, ready for the ties and rails. Construction track is being laid and grading operations began again on a large scale Monday morning, the 6th, and the entire work will be vigorously pushed during the coming season.

As an example of the popularity and immense earning power of electric roads over steam lines, we cite the Seattle and Tacoma third-rail interurban line. This road paid handsomely from the first day of its operation and its net earnings have increased 20 per cent every year for the past five years. No one who understands comparative conditions will question the fact that as commercial centers Seattle and Tacoma do not compare with the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes.

The Chicago Sunday Tribune in its "Railroad News" says: "While electric railway building at the present time is unprecedented through the country, and almost every state in the Union has electric lines under construction or projected for the near future, the chief piece of electric railway under construction is Twin City & Lake Superior Railway, a 129-mile, third-rail, electric line from the Twin Cities to the Head of the Lakes."

Buy this stock today at $44, fully paid and non-assessable. Every share is guaranteed to be worth $100 on completion of the road, and until completed every share is secured and guaranteed by the safest form of real estate—farm lands—to the amount of $50 per share next week and always higher until par, $100, is reached within a year and a half. The best savings bank in the country can offer you nothing more safe and then only at a small rate of interest.

The way you can buy is fully explained in this announcement. If you cannot call at our office in Minneapolis, or at any of our branch offices or agencies, cut out the attached coupon, fill out for the number of shares you want and the manner in which you want to buy, and mail to us with your check before the close of this week.

You have seen the generous endorsements given this enterprise by the press of the Northwest. We have many flattering endorsements in letters received from prominent business men. With this announcement we reproduce a copy of letter from Mr. George D. Dayton of the Dayton Dry Goods Company of Minneapolis. Mr. Dayton's position in the business world is known to every reader of this paper. He has closely followed this proposition from its inception and knows its worth. His statements should help you decide the amount of your investment.

March 11, 1908.

Twin City & Lake Superior Railroad Company:

Gentlemen: I congratulate you most heartily on the splendid endorsement given your enterprise in the editorial of the Minneapolis Journal, March 12th. It is really no more than might have been expected by those who have been familiar with the work already done.

I had occasion last summer to be in Anoka county several times and saw your graders at work in different places, and so know something of the progress that is being made in the grading. I also inquired of different ones who had contracts for work on your line and found that payments were being made promptly and satisfactorily.

Believing as I do in the future of the state of Minnesota, I think your enterprise will be very helpful, not only to the section of country through which it runs, but to Minneapolis and St. Paul, as well as Duluth and Superior.

It seems to me worthy of the assistance of all who desire the development of these cities, and of the part of the state through which your line is to be run.

Respectfully,

GEO. D. DAYTON.

WEST END

SEARCH HUT FOR MONEY

West Enders Hunt Miser's Gold in Half Burned Cabin.

Pry and Dig in Effort to Unearth Haakens' Hoard.

On the theory that the aged recluse left money behind, West enders have been prying and poking about the abandoned hut of the late Hans Haakens, at Thirty-first avenue west and Pacific street, until it bears little resemblance to a cottage now. But as yet they have unearthed no miser's gold.

Haakens died two or three months ago after a long, lonely life. For years he had occupied the cabin on Thirty-first avenue, living as best he could and apparently drinking the deepest dregs of poverty.

He had relatives hereabouts, who offered to care for him, but he would have none of their assistance, or that of any one else, for that matter. Once he was sent to the state insane asylum at Fergus Falls, but he was discharged from that institution after a short time and he went again to his hut in the West end.

On two consecutive winters, neighbors appealed to the poor department to have him taken to the poor farm for the cold months, and this was done, otherwise the old man would probably have frozen to death, as he was old and helpless.

For years he did odd jobs for West enders and turned a few stray dollars, enough to make a precarious living, but the last two years of his life, he was so feeble that he seldom left his own premises and how he ever managed to keep body and soul together was a mystery to the neighbors. They helped him often. At many a meal-time, one of the neighbors would run in upon the old man, and give him a hot bowl of soup or a warm dish of meat. Haukens appreciated these kindnesses and always at the proffered food with a relish, but he never asked aid and was fearful at all times lest he be taken away from the humble cot which he loved, to reside in some public institution.

Shortly before his death, which was due to old age and privation, Haakens narrowly missed being cremated in his own house, which caught fire. The flames were extinguished before they had consumed the building and Haekens went back and lived in the scorched remains of his little home, making very few repairs.

People had often wondered during his lifetime if Haakens had not a treasure of gold coin hoarded away some place. Although that theory gained some ground during his life, the old man was never bothered by robbers, after his money.

But when he died, the stories about the old recluse's hidden wealth were revived, and augmented by statements from relatives. The dead man's brother expressed the opinion that Hans had left some money hidden away.

So thorough searches have been made of the ruins of the old hut and the immediate premises, but thus far they have not yielded a treasure. The building has been well nigh pulled to pieces, however, and there are still some who believe that somewhere there is hidden a pot of gold.

ALUMNI WILL ELECT.

Former Adams School Students to Select Association Officers.

The annual election of officers of the Adams School Alumni association will take place at the meeting of the organization to be held this evening in the schoolhouse.

There is said to be quite a keen rivalry among some of the prominent members of the association for the important offices and an interesting session is in prospect.

Plans will also be made this evening for the association's annual banquet, which will probably be held some time in June. After the business session tonight, there will be a literary program.

REV. KLING WILL LEAVE

Swedish Mission Church to Take a Charge in Minneapolis.

Rev. F. O. Kling, who has been pastor of the First Swedish Mission church in the West end for several years, has resigned his charge here and will leave July 1 for Minneapolis, where he has accepted a pastorate.

Rev. Mr. Kling's resignation was tendered to the members of his congregation at a meeting held last evening. The rules of the Mission church provide that a pastor must give three months' notice when he contemplates making a change.

Members of the Mission church are loath to see Mr. Kling go. He has made many friends and done much to build up the church during his stay here. When he leaves here, it will be to become pastor of one of the largest churches in Northeast Minneapolis. Considerations of health had much to do with Mr. Kling's resignation, as the climate in Duluth has not agreed greatly with him.

JOHNSON FUNERAL.

Last Sad Rites for Well-Known West Ender Thursday.

The funeral of Ephraim Johnson, son of L. M. Johnson, and a member of the firm of L. M. Johnson & Sons, will be held Thursday afternoon. There will be services at 1:30 in Forward's undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock in the First Swedish Mission church, of which he was a member.

Mr. Johnson lived at 2611 West Fourth street until about a month ago, when he went to Denver for his health. Word came from the Colorado city that he was improving and his friends and relatives were much surprised when the received telegrams last week announcing his death.

John Johnson, a brother of the deceased, is on his way from Colorado with the remains.

David Adams and family have moved into one of their new cottages on Fourth street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth avenues west.

The condition of Bertrand Dabriel, the boy residing with his parents at 829 Garfield avenue, who exploded a dynamite cap by hitting it with a rock, is much improved. The lad will not lose the sight of either of his eyes, as was feared at first, but his face will likely be a little scarred.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Swedish Mission church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. G. Ek, 2620 West Fourth street.

The Parthenoe society of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Charles Mork, 1912 West Second street, and plans for a church auction to be held next week will be discussed.

A meeting of the Swedish Lutheran hospital committee, which has in charge arrangements for the establishment of a new institution under the auspices of the churches of that denomination in this section, held a meeting yesterday at the residence of Rev. C. G. Olson. Outlines of the articles of incorporation were developed and the papers will be filed in the near future. The committee decided to begin a campaign for funds in a short time. CARRIED BALL IN BODY

To His Grave, Experience of Mankato Man Just Dead.

Mankato, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. W. Zuel died Monday at his residence, 108 South Fifth street of pneumonia, after an illness of ten days. He had an active and highly creditable career. He was 66 years of age, and is survived by his wife, two sons and one doughter. The sons are Robert W. of Windom, and Archibald S. of Madison Lake, and the daughter is Miss Grace E., who lives at home. E. M. Zuel of this city is a nephew of the deceased.

Mr. Zuel enlisted at the age of 16 in Company I, sixty-first Illinois infantry, and was wounded at the battle of Atlantic, a ball entering his back, which was not extracted and which he carried the remainder of his life. He was somewhat of an invalid ever afterwards. He was promoted to captain for gallantry during the war. He came here in 1866.

Mothers are at their wit's end many times trying to find a safe, nourishing food for the baby that's just been weaned. This is an important epoch in the little one's life and on securing proper food depends the future growth of the child.

Grape-Nuts soaked in hot milk, then cooled to the right temperature, with a little sugar, meets the requirements of the newly weaned child in 99 cases out of a 100—perhaps an even hundred!

Try a teaspoonful, softened to a paste with a little of the hot milk and then all mixed together—half a cupful. It's safe, because Grape-Nuts is made only of wheat and barley and baked from 12 to 16 hours. It's a great food for babies or grown-ups. "There's a Reason."

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Duluth.

Most Duluth people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Duluth cures prove it.

W. W. Scott, operator on the St. Paul & Duluth railroad, and living at 126 Sixty-sixth avenue west, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have already recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. I told in the statement made in 1893 how I had suffered with dull aching pains through the loins and kidneys. From the constant sitting position required in my work and back became so lame and sore that I could scarcely straighten. The kidney secretions were irregular and annoying. At times severe headaches would strike me and I was feeling worse than ever when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice. I began using them, and as I have stated, in my previous testimonial, they so thoroughly regulated the kidneys, removed the backache, pains and weakness that I have felt like a different man. I have never had a return of any of these symptoms and recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again and again."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED

E. T. Smith is Held Up by a Bold Highwayman.

Crime Committed Under Glare of an Arc Light.

E. T. Smith, a lumber cruiser, was knocked down and robbed of $60 and a gold watch shortly after 9 o'clock last night in the glare of an arc light, at Third avenue west and Second street. After assaulting Smith with a billy the assailants escaped by running west on Second street.

Smith made his way to the police station and informed the police of the robbery. Detectives were immediately placed on the case, but as yet no trace of the robbers has been discovered.

The men pounced on Smith from behind. Turning sharply he received a blow across the bridge of the nose, causing an ugly cut. He also received a blow at the base of the skull. Although dazed when he reached the station, Smith was able to give a good description of his assailants.

Last night's holdup was one of the boldest ever perpetrated in Duluth. The steady glare of an arc light illummed the spot where Smith was slugged, while the hour and the location to the spot causes the recklessness of the deed to seem almost foolhardy.

BURGLARS WERE BUSY

Two Saloons Are Entered and Cash Drawers Rifled.

Bungling Attempt to Break Safe Proves a Failure.

Burglars pulled off two successful jobs in Duluth last evening, and robbed tow saloons of some $80 in cash. An attempt to break a safe in one of the saloons, however, proved unsuccessful.

The Guttenberg saloon at 525 West Michigan street was entered through a rear window, and the cash register broken open. The thieves secured $59.35 in cash. They then attempted to break open the safe, which contained about $100 in money, by sawing off the hinges. They sawed off one hinge, and broke a piece off the other, when they evidently became frightened away.

The safe cracking attempt was a bungling one, as the safe could never have been opened that way.

The Ideal beer hall was also entered during the night. The burglars entered through the pool room on Michigan street. They broke open the drawer in the cash register and secured $20. They then smashed a small till in the front of the saloon, but it evidently fell to the floor, as the contents were found scattered about the floor this morning. The noise apparently frightened the thieves away as they did not stop to gather up the coin.

The two jobs have much the same appearance as the burglary at the home of Mrs. E. O. Ruppe, of Park point, Saturday afternoon, which was reported in The Herald last evening. There the burglars broke open a rear door and ransacked the house during the absence of Mrs. Ruppe. Trunks were broken open and their contents were strewn about. The house was stripped of all the small valuables which could be safely carried off. The burglary was a bold one, taking place during the afternoon.

It is not at all unlikely that all three burglaries were committed by the same men.

Dies of Injuries.

Charles Walt, who was injured by a fall down the elevator shaft of the St. Louis hotel Friday, died of his injuries, at St. Luke's hospital this morning.

Interantional Falls, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Riggs, a homesteader near Littlefork, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Triska on a wire from a South Dakota sheriff, asking that he be apprehended and held. Fargo, N. D., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Blowing the safe and scattering the contents all over the room, robbers raided the postoffice at Kelso, Traill county. It is difficult to determine the exact amount of money secured, but it is not thought to have been large.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

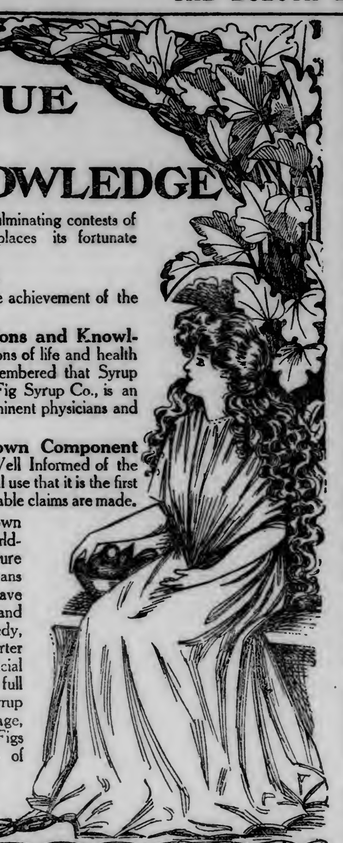

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

COUNCIL CONFIRMS ONE AND REJECTS THE OTHER

Compromise is Reached on Mayor Haven's Appointments.

Coe Turned Down and Patton is Given Endorsement.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Confirmed Mayor Haven's appointment of Dr. F. J. Patton as health commissioner and voted against the confirmation of E. K. Coe as city engineer.

Laid over action on proposed improvement of London road and Grand avenue west for one week.

Received President Getchell's appointments of committees.

Turned down bids received by board of fire commissioners for city horse hospital and ordered modification of plans or postponement of work.

Approved extension of water lines on Fairmount avenue 500 feet and on Railroad street from Eighth to Twelfth avenue west and down Eleventh and Twelfth avenues west, 350 feet each.

Authorized advertising for bids for construction of public toilet room at Sixth avenue west and Michigan street under the viaduct.

After delaying definite action four weeks, the city council last night confirmed Mayor Haven's appointment of Dr. F. J. Patton health commissioner by unanimous vote and voted down a resolution to confirm the appointment of E. K. Coe as city engineer by a vote of 9 to 6.

The proceeding had all the earmarks of a compromise. There was much caucusing before the meeting and the aldermen voted as though they had their courses laid out. When the resolution to confirm came up, Alderman Filiatrault asked for a division. The resolution to confirm Dr. Patton's appointment went through by unanimous vote. On the Coe appointment, Alderman Trevillion voted with the Democrats, giving the vote a decisive turn and indicating that there is little chance of Coe's selection by the mayor being approved by the council.

City Engineer McGilvrary's estimate that about six blocks of London road from the intersection with Superior street could be resurfaced by an expenditure of $4,000 was received last night, and Alderman Moore sought to have the council authorize the work. He explained that the conference committee had set aside $2,000 for work on London road and that the board of public works fund could be drawn on for $2,000 more.

Alderman Tessman objected to the proceeding. He said that property on other streets is assessed for improvements to the streets and he could not see why London road should be improved at the expense of the city. Alderman Moore, in defending his resolution authorizing the work, pointed out that London road is one of the most traveled driveways in the city and it should be kept in good condition. He said that people all over the city used the road and it is consequently more worn than would be the case were it not in such favor. He said that the city had resurfaced the road between Forty-third and Sixtieth avenues east and the proposed work now would be only a continuance of the policy.

Alderman Foubister and Filiatrault took up the fight for Grand avenue west. They said that Grand avenue is as important as a driveway as London road, which is used for pleasure, while Grand avenue is a business thoroughfare. Alderman Filiatrault said the south side of the avenue had been torn up for the laying of gas and water mains and had never been put in condition again, although the property adjoining had once been assessed for a macadam pavement. He moved that the council authorize the grading and surfacing of the south side of Grand avenue between Thirtieth and Fifty-fourth avenues west. Both improvements were laid over.

The committee on city property put its seal of disapproval on the bids received by the board of fire commissioners for the proposed horse hospital near headquarters on West First street. The appropriation for the work was $2,500 and the lowest bids for the building and plumbing aggregated nearly $5,000. The council ordered that the board reject all bids and either modify their plans to bring them within the appropriation or postpone the work until such time as funds are available.

At the close of last night's meeting, President Getchell's appointments were read by the clerk. The committee on police and license, over which there has been some speculation, is made up of Alderman McKnight, Alderman Olson and Alderman Trevillion. Eight of the committee have Republicans in the majority and but seven have Democratic majorities. Should George J. Bloedel win out in the Second ward contest and take Alderman Cromwell's committee places, it would change the complexion, politically, of three of the committees. The committee appointments follow:

Auditing and county conference—Moe, Mueller, Olson.

Bridges, viaducts and ferries—Kennedy, Foubister, Mueller.

City property—Shartel, Moe, Hogan.

Claims—Hogan, Moore, Moe.

Drains, sewers and sanitation—Tessman, Cromwell, Kennedy.

Finance—Ribenack, Filiatrault, Moore.

The extension of the sewer systems on the hill was reflected last night in a petition for a sanitary sewer in Ninth street from a point 200 feet west of Second avenue west to a connection with the sewer in Lake avenue. The proposed sewer is the highest yet petitioned for in the city and indicates that the sewers are following the water extensions to take in the entire hillside.

Some discussion arose over the application of Thomas Matlak for a saloon license at 216 Lake avenue south. It developed that, although Matlak has been conducting a saloon on Lake avenue for several years, his residence has been at Superior, and, under the state law, a saloon license cannot be granted to a person not a bona fide resident of the state of Minnesota. Action was postponed for a week and the case will be investigated.

WAITERS STRIKE AT BANQUET TO BRYAN.

Denver, April 7.—W. J. Bryan closed a day of strenuous activity by addressing 850 banqueters last night, in the spacious Eljebel Temple banquet hall, in addition to hundreds of others who filled every seat in the galleries overlooking the main room. The banquet had been arranged by the Byran Democratic club of Colorado, and its president, Former Congressman John Shaffroth, presided.

Everything was in readiness to serve the banquet when the half hundred or more waiters, who had been engaged, became involved in a dispute with the caterer and went on a strike. After parleying for an hour or more, this portion of the banquet was abandoned and, without having eaten, the speech-making began. Mr. Bryan was the only speaker.

SANDRIGE BECOMES HOLT.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—On April 1st the name of Sandridge, a station immediately north of here on the Great Northern ceased to exist, and the old name of Holt was resumed. The reason for the change was that there are many sandridges scattered throughout all the northern part of the Red River valley, these being the results of glacial action. This change will avoid confusion arising from the local and common use of the term as applied to all ridges.

TAFT TALKS ON ISSUES

Of Coming Campaign and Replies to Bryan's Utterances.

Charges Nebrasban With Inconsistency on the Philippine Question.

Omaha, Neb., April 7.—Secretary Taft rounded out the first day of his trip to Nebraska with a speech at the Auditorium last night, where he was the honored guest at a banquet given by the McKinley club. Secretary Taft took occasion, in his speech, to place before the people, the real issues of the coming campaign, as he views them, and incidentally to reply to the recent utterances of William J. Bryan when the Democratic leader criticised the action of the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations for their policy in the Philippine islands. In part, he spoke as follows, reading his address from manuscript:

"The issues of the next campaign are to turn on the achievements of the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations, which still remain the subject for discussion between us and our Democratic friends, or rather between us and the gentleman who still seems to have the power of leading the Democratic party against its will. We are to accept not what the Democratic party, as it used to be, thinks on any issue, but what Mr. Bryan thinks on every issue, as the real basis for the national campaign to be ended by the election in November next. I verily believe that four-fifths of the people of the United States are entirely content with the way in which Mr. McKinley and Mr. Roosevelt have worked out the problems presented to us by the Spanish war, but this does not prevent a fierce assault by Mr. Bryan upon the Republican administrations for what they have done in this regard.

Ratified With Bryan's Aid.

"Mr. McKinley and the Republican administration were forced into the war with Spain against their will. The war was begun with a self-denying ordinance with respect to the independence of Cuba. We spent millions of dollars and thousands of lives to end what we thought to be an international scandal in that island. Without premonition, we were carried into a search for our enemy 10,000 miles away to the far distant Philippines and we could not get away. Thus it happened to us a problem, the settlement of which has greatly affected our national policy. It was then, if at all, that those who were opposed to expansion should have made themselves heard. Where did Mr. Bryan stand at that time? He used every effort to bring about a ratification of the treaty of Paris. Without him it could not have been ratified. With his support it was ratified. And then, after we had taken over the sovereignty of Porto Rico and the Philippines and Cuba, and assumed our position as guardian of the peoples of those islands and had taken the only course possible for the benefit of those people as our wards, we find him condemning the Constitution with unstinted abuse as guilty of a departure from the principles at the foundation of our government.

Bryan's Inconsistency.

"Mr. Bryan and those who stood with Aguinaldo, by their speeches and their conduct, prolonged for more than a year the struggle against the authority of the United States in the Islands. And now, after eight years of successful administration of our dependencies, we still hear condemnation of the course taken from the men who, in securing ratification of the treaty of Paris, made all this possible and necessary.

"The statements in the Declaration of Independence as to the consent of the governed are to be construed in the light of contemporary history. If we assume permanent control over a people merely in the spirit of conquest, merely from the lust of power, then we may be properly denounced as imperialists; but if we accept temporary sovereignty over a people for the benefit of that people, and with the intention of giving them opportunity to become independent when they shall show themselves fit, then the charge that we are imperialists is utterly without foundation.

"It is said that this policy has entailed upon us the enormous burden of a navy. I believe it has increased the necessity for a greater navy. I believe that navy is the greatest insurer of peace that we could have—a navy commensurate with our influence as a world power.

Roosevelt's Policies.

"And then we come to the administration of Theodore Roosevelt. In addition to his carrying out in every way the policies adopted by William McKinley, he has brought forward for the practical consideration of the United States a domestic danger to our institutions and our civilization that was sapping the moral foundations of our society and threatening to make us a plutocracy. It had its especial manifestations in the utter disregard by the railroads of the rule which forbade discrimination in rates. By an appeal to the people and stirring messages to congress, President Roosevelt secured the passage of the so-called rate bill. The railroads today, for the first time in their history of twenty or thirty years, are operating within the law.

"Mr. Bryan is troubled in his mind with reference to the standing of various members of the Republican party in respect to the political issues of the day. I observe that he does not consider me as a reformer. Well, reform is a relative expression. It depends upon the standpoint and views of the observer."

The war secretary also took up and dealt at length with the question of railroad legislation and individual combinations, which he considers one of the principal issues of the campaign.

TUGBOATS CHASE TEXAS STEERS IN EAST RIVER.

New York, April 7.—A fleet of tugboats pursuing a drove of wild Texas steers swimming in the East river was the exciting and unusual spectacle witnessed by hundreds of persons yesterday. A Lehigh Valley railroad float carrying a carload of thirty steers, and several cars loaded with coal sprung a leak in the East river near the foot of Ninth street, Brooklyn, and sank. Before it went down, the deck hands opened the doors and the steers made a dash for safety. About fifteen of them got clear of the float before it went down. The others were drowned. A lively chase ensued. Passing tugs joined in the pursuit and several unsuccessful attempts were made to lasso the swimming steers. Those that were captured were towed ashore with great difficulty. Several of the steers swam a long distance up the river before they were captured and others were drowned.

PLEA MADE BY HOBSON

For Two More Battleships in Naval Appropriation Bill.

Would Have United States Build Ten Big Ships Yearly.

Washington, April 7.—Pointing out what he declared to be the precarious condition of the national defense of the United States, both in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, Mr. Hobson of Alabama, in the house of representatives yesterday made an earnest plea for two battleships of 25,000 tons displacement, in addition to the two authorized by the naval appropriation bill. He said that a conservative estimate would indicate that for the minimum basis of security and safety in the Pacific ocean the United States should lay down at least four big ships a year for many years to come "until Japan concedes to us what is inevitable—the American control of the sea around which our possessions are scattered." As a minimum for the Atlantic ocean, the government should lay down six battleships a year, he said. Heretofore, said Mr. Hobson, the weakness of America in the matter of national defense had not been fatal to its growth and development, because the oceans constituted a great barrier between America and the armies of the world. "Now however," said he, "the oceans have been bridged and the armies of the world have been brought to our doors, and along with the armies of the older nations of Europe have come the armies of the ancient nations of Asia." He said that when America formerly lived more or less in isolation, she is now exciting the jealousy of other great nations in threatening their supremacy in commerce, industry and finance. In addition, he declared that recent events have thrown us into the political vortex of the world, and that the dangers of being unprepared are becoming greater and greater with each succeeding year.

Almost No Standing Army.

After calling attention to America's lack of a merchant marine, which could be used as auxiliaries in time of war, and of transports necessary for properly conducting war operations, Mr. Hobson said:

"We have almost no standing army, and could not prevent the seizure, by a foreign power, of a harbor on our shores, or near our shores, to be used as a naval base; whereas, it would be practically impossible for America to secure a naval base for operations in European waters. Forts, mines, torpedo boats and submarines are valuable accessories, but such defenses have never stopped a determined commander of a great fleet. They did not stop Nelson at Copenhagen, nor Farragut at Mobile Bay, nor Dewey at Manila. Such defenses never determine the issues of a war, and have no weight in deterring an enemy from seeking war. The forts that we have are woefully unmanned, whereas the troops needed for other landward defense could not be mobilized within the time necessary."

The possibility of a conflict with Japan was discussed at length by Mr. Hobson. He said it was but perfectly natural for Japan to aspire to dominate the commerce of China, the commerce of Asia and of the Pacific ocean. And, he added, it was perfectly natural for Japan to seek to control the policies of China and to attain supremacy in the Pacific ocean, and to lead the yellow race toward a recognized supremacy in the world.

With regard to the great nations of the white race, Mr. Hobson said, "it is, of course, clear to the Japanese statesmen that America is the one great nation standing athwart of the realization of these ambitions. It is true that America only asks a fair chance and no favor—simply the open-door policy in China—but this policy goes counter to Japanese ambitions."

The United States, said Mr. Hobson, must accept Japan's protestations of friendship, and we should most cordially reciprocate friendly feelings and should realize that if any breach should come between the two countries is would be our fault, on account of being so defenseless, and not the fault of Japan.

Japan's Great Army.

Pursuing his analysis of the conditions in the Pacific, Mr. Hobson declared that "we cannot ignore the fact that Japan has undertaken stupendous war preparations, preparations which have doubled the national debt of Japan since the war with Russia was over. It is estimated that she has between 300,000 and 400,000 men under arms, yet there is no menace from the armies of Siberia or the armies of China or the armies of Europe. No natian since the world began has ever maintained such an army, under such conditions, except as a preparation for an early campaign or aggression."

Continuing, Mr. Hobson said that notwithstanding the fact that five battleships of the Russian navy had been added to the Japanese navy, and although the Russian fleet had vanished from the Pacific ocean, and there was no fleet of any size of any European nation that was available to be sent away from Europe into those regions, Yet Japan had launched upon a stupendous program of naval expansion. Some, he said, had imagined that Japan's warlike preparations were intended for China, but he declared no one could conceive how a great new navy would be needed, whereas there is scarcely a Chinese gunboat. The United States, he said, could not ignore the fact that warlike activities have been going on in Japan "at a feverish rate" since the war with Russia. He said Japan had made great purchases of war material abroad. He pointed particularly to the fact that America had supplied 750,000 rifle barrels, "although our own troops have not yet been supplied with new rifles." Neither could the United States ignore the fact, he maintained, that two naval bases had been established in Formosa and the Pescadores Islands, down near Luzon, and that as soldiers were discharged at Hiroshima they emigrated to Hawaii.

Jap Spies Active.

Mr. Hobson charged that Japanese spies have been diligent and active throughout the Philippines, in our outlying possessions, througout all parts of America, in our forts, arsenals, shipyards, and particularly up and down the coast along the Pacific, in noting the elements of America's defense and mapping and charting harbors and approaches from the rear to our coastwise forts and to our cities.

Referring to the situation in San Francisco, Mr. Hobson declared that the most trifling incidents there were seized upon and made great international affairs.

"When we realize," said he, "that in case of war with Japan we could do nothing practically to harm that country, whereas we would be exposed on all sides to injury that cannot be computed, it becomes a matter of absolute necessity for our peace and tranquility that we should not only have a force in the Pacific as large as that of Japan, but that on account of our strategic disadvantage we should have a very substantial margin of superiority."

Drifting Toward Wars.

In conclusion, Mr. Hobson said:

"It may be remarked that at this critical juncture, when the world is drifting towards wars, that the failure on the part of America to build up the naval power adequate to keep peace in the Pacific ocean will be liable to entail not only a war between America and Japan, but ultimately a war between the white race and the yellow race, and engender a hatred and anger between the races that would prevent the carrying of the gospel of peace throughout Asia. The true policy for a Christian to advocate is to have his country, the great peace country, keep the peace, secure and create the opportunity for the church to reach the myriads of Asia and carry the gospel until every knee shall bow."

Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum Cereal instead of coffee. An Ills. woman writes:

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called "coffee heart." I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again, showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up, on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard, mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

LUECKS AIR FAMILY TROUBLES

Each Puts the Blame of Dissension on the Other.

The trial of the Lueck divorce case will be finished before Judge Dibell at a special session of the district court Wednesday evening. The trial was begun early yesterday afternoon and there was quite a crowd of the friends of the husband and wife present at the proceedings.

Lueck claims that his wife is unfaithful, that she frequents the street, keeps bad company, gets drunk and neglects her children, three in number, all small.

Mrs. Lueck makes the counter claim that her husband did not provide for her properly, that he deceived her as to the amount of his salary, spent his evenings in saloons and gambling houses, and refused to secure medical atendance when she was sick.

On the witness stand yesterday, Lueck, who delivers groceries for his father, testified that on one occasion his wife went down town ostensibly to get his laundry and left him at home with the children, in spite of his protests that he did not have the time to look after them. He claims that when she did not return, he was compelled to take the children with him on the delivery wagon and they were much shaken up by reason of the rough roads. On another occasion, he claimed, Mrs. Lueck went away from home and left the baby with a neighbor, under promise that she would return shortly. Lueck claimed that when he went home at night he found the two children running in the streets and was some time in locating the baby. He testified that his wife did not return to his home at all, that on the date in question she was arrested for drunkeness.

Lillian Bratz, a witness for the husband, claimed that she boarded in the Lueck home for some time and noticed that Mrs. Lueck was a poor housekeeper, that she frequently refused to get her husband's meals and referred to the many gentlemen friends with whom she was in the habit of spending the evenings.

Other witnesses for Mrs. Lueck claimed that Lueck refused to get a physician when the youngest child was born and let his wife be cared for by the neighbors. They claimed that he drank and gambled.

Lueck's mother testified that some time after the alleged desertion of the son's wife she called the younger woman "a dirty, slouchy, pig."

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

CANNOT RUN THE TRAIN

Rainy Lake Line Figured on Business Men's Special.

Anti-Pass Law Bar to Taking Guests to the Border.

If a railroad official wishes to present a friend or anyone else with a gold watch worth $200, or to hand him a bunch of $100 bills, he is at perfect liberty to do so, without running any risk of being brought up in court, but if he should hand this same friend a pass from Duluth to Two Harbors, worth about 80 cents, he would be liable to a heavy fine and a long term in prison.

The Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg road, which lies entirely within the borders of the state, did not realize how very strict the new state anti-pass laws were until it began looking up the matter before inviting local business men to go as its guests on a special train to the end of the line. The company found it could not run the train if it wanted to, unless it charged passengers the regulation fare.

It was not the intention to run the train until later in the year, anyway, but officials looked the matter up merely to see just what steps would have to be taken, so they might be in readiness to invite the guests as soon as connections were established between the Rainy Lake line and the Canadian Northern. It was the original intention to run the train with its representatives of Duluth business interests right through from Duluth to Winnipeg, so Duluthians would have an opportunity of seeing for themselves just the nature of the country opened by the new line.

Investigation showed that the new state law would prove an effectual bar to carrying out the plan. The idea of the train is considered such a good one, however, that the Commercial club may take upon itself the trouble and expense of arranging for the special, for there seems to be no doubt that the feeling of friendliness and neighborliness that would be established between Duluth and the smaller towns along the route between here and Winnipeg, and more particularly between here and the border, as a result of the proposed visit, would be very advantageous to this city in the future.

TOWN DOES NOT OWE A DEBT

Town of Canosia Has $600 to the Good.

The residents and taxpayers in the town of Canosia, St. Louis county, are feeling pretty good over the financial condition of the township this spring. They claim that the township was never in better financial condition than at the present time.

The old bonds against Canosia, Grand Lake and Fredenberg townships were paid in full last year and a bonded indebtedness that has hung over those townships for fifteen to seventeen years has been wiped out. The judgments have been satisfied in full and the townships have been released from further liability.

In the town of Canosia, which includes the district commonly known as Pike Lake, the town hall was in bad condition. The foundations were crumbling and the superstructure was in a state where it threatened to fall at any time. The town has put new foundations under the building, and fixed up the superstructure until the town hall is in first class shape, with all the materials and labor paid for in full. The town has an insurance policy on the building with the premiums paid up for three years.

The town has also paid the expense of fixing up the cemetery. It has bought and paid for a new road grader and for a shed to cover it.

There were March 1, 1908, only seven outstanding unpaid orders for amounts totaling but $52.77. The orders have never been presented to the treasurer for payment.

On March 1 the treasurer's books showed a cash balance of $613.72.

An affidavit of the financial condition of the town, attested to by the town board, was recently in the hands of the county authorities. The town board of supervisors March 1 were W. C. Crimmon, August Bagquist and William McComber. A. M. Almem was the clerk.

Which Shall It Be?

Home-baked Beans or Van Camp's?

On one side the beans are mushy and broken, because you have baked in dry heat.

The other beans are baked in live steam. They are all baked alike—baked until they are mealy. Yet they are nutty because they are whole.

On one side the beans are heavy and hard to digest, for you lack sufficient heat. They ferment and form gas.

Van Camp's are baked at 245 degrees. That fierce heat separates the particles so the digestive juices can get to them.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, and get our delicious blend.

On one side is the bother of soaking, boiling and baking. The other beans are all ready. Heat the can in hot water, then open. The dish is as fresh and as savory as when it was freshly baked.

Let your people decide which they want.

Serve both your beans and Van Camp's, and see which they ask for next. And be glad of their choice. For 'twill save you the bother of baking beans, and let our chef cook for you.

Van Camp's pork and beans
baked with tomato sauce

You don't know how good beans can be until you once try Van Camp's.

We pay $2.10 per bushel to get the choicest Michigan beans. We could buy beans for 30 cents. But ours are picked out by hand to give us only the whitest, the plumpest, the very cream of the crop.

We could buy tomato sauce ready-made for exactly one-fifth what we spend to make ours. But it would lack the richness, the sparkling zest, which we get from vine-ripened tomatoes.

We believe that the best beans, baked with the best sauce, are cheap enough. And millions of people agree with us.

For beans are Nature's choicest food, when they are rightly cooked. They are like meat in their food value, and not like it in cost. Try serving such beans as your people want often, and see what you save on meat.

Prices: 10, 15 and 20 cents per can.

Anti-Taftites Hardly Get Look In at Primaries.

Akeley, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The anti-Taft forces were defeated at the primaries by a vote of about three to one, and the ticket instructing for Taft was easily the winner. The political was was fiercely waged and a large vote was cast. The interest manifested showed that the people are awake to the political matters as never before. The delegation to the county convention from Akeley, which is the largest in the county goes instructed for Taft, and no doubt this means that Hubbard county will go for Taft.

It is rumored that Representative Bills of Park Rapids will not be a candidate for the state legislature as he has been appointed postmaster since the legislature met. Bills however, is said to be out after the scalp of some of his political enemies and a hot time is expected in Hubbard county this fall. Bills is said to be after County Attorney Dampher of Akeley, while Sheriff Petrie of Park Rapids is opposed by a friend of Dampler, A. Bean. Assistant Postmaster Wilsie of Akeley is a candidate for treasurer and is making a strong canvass.

Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen

How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

LOVE FEAST BY CURLERS

New Officers of Club Are Elected Without Opposition.

Club Ends the Season in Splendid Financial Condition.

Members of the Duluth Curling club held a love feast last evening in connection with the annual election of officers, and bouquets were freely passed around.

The meeting brought out the largest attendance of any annual meeting in the history of the club, and the room was crowded to its capacity.

There was no fight on any of the offices. S. H. Jones was the unanimous choice for president of the club to succeed Harry Hurdon, who has held office for the last year. Frank D. Brewer was chosen vice president; Walter Hall, secretary and H. W. Hargreaves, treasurer.

E. A. Forsythe was chosen director for one year, E. N. Bradley, director for two years, and C. T. Fairbairn, director for three years. Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele was chosen chaplain. None of the officers elected had any opposition.

The splendid showing made by the club during the year was commented on by the retiring officers. The club ends the year in a most satisfactory condition financially. It never had as many members as it has at present, and its funds were never in better shape. The best of good fellowship prevailed last evening, and the meeting ended in an informal smoker.

The rink has now been closed for the season.

If there is anything against which managers of independent teams in Northern Minnesota must guard more than any other, it is overdoing themselves by the hiring of high priced men.

The practice began last year when Virginia tried to beat Hibbing out. Hibbing and Virginia both imported batteries first. Then Virginia took to importing a whole team, and high-priced men were hanging around the town for about two weeks at the end of the season, drawing their salaries and playing ball to crowds, which couldn't possibly support that class of ball for an entire season.

The spirit of rivalry was all right, bitter as it was. But the efforts were misdirected. The Virginia people got themselves into deep water and it is doubtful if they will ever get out. Virginia cannot support the kind of ball it had last fall. Neither can Hibbing nor any other town on the range. Hibbing is fortunate in having men who will remain right in Hibbing, work all the year around and play ball during the summer, though attending to their duties.

If Virginia can get good men to do likewise, it is all very well. But Virginia will be making a mistake if it takes to paying big salaries to ball players all the season or for any short time. The backers of the team, waiving good business sense for their civic pride, may stand it for a time, but they will give up in the end and there will be no more baseball for years. Baseball is a business proposition when it is run on a commercial basis. No management should have a heavier salary list than his receipts will stand. If it does, the enthusiasm of the men, who put up the money, will wane, and once baseball goes under in any town, it takes years to bring it to life again.

Let every manager take the measure of his town, if he goes into semi-professional ball. Let him secure just what men he can afford to and no more. Everybody can't have a championship and a title won with big leaguers imported for a week is no satisfaction in any event. There is no use educating the fans of a town to a certain standard of baseball, when it cannot be maintained. At the end of the season and in the future years, the manager, who plays close to his guns and comes out with a clean slate, will feel better and the town will have continued baseball.

The aftermath of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match at Chicago last Friday night indicates more than anything else could, the truth of the assertion often made that a fake wrestling match is more spectacular and more satisfying to the spectators than a bout, which is strictly on the square. Nobody breaths a supposition that Gotch and Hackenschmidt didn't go to it perfectly on the level. Every indication is that they did and the result of the match proves it.

The spectacular wrestling match consists of numerous holds, pretty breaks, much tossing around on the mat, frequently bridging and the bringing out of every other point known to the game as a science. There was none of that last Friday night. Gotch and Hackenschmidt were on their feet for two hours, butting into each other, never taking or breaking holds, but waiting for openings. Gotch didn't rush into Hacktnschmidt and grasp him like he has hundreds of big men in exhibitions. After two or three minutes' sparring, they didn't go to the mat and tear into each other as one would imagine the Iowa Giant and the Russian Lion would. Each was afraid of the other and they adopted tactics, which they thought would win, but by which they placed themselves in the least possible danger.

Friday night's match was one of the very few wrestling bouts that America has seen on the square. It proves that wrestling is the faker's game. Even if a match is faked, people get their money's worth, and, as far as an exhibition of scientific wrestling goes, there are hundreds of bouts in the country within a year, which would bring out more fine points in five minutes than Gotch and Hackenschmidt displayed in their pitting of brawn muscle and endurance last week.

MEETING WITH GREAT SUCCESS

Campaign for Racing Yacht Fund Brings Good Results.

The campaign of the Duluth Yacht club to raise a fund sufficient for the building of a yacht to enter in the Sir John Nutting cup races at Chicago next August is meeting with very good success. Duluthians are entering heartily into the spirit of the project, and seem glad of the opportunity to help the matter along.

This afternoon committees composed of business men, who are members of the Yacht club, will circulate through the city, to raise the balance of the money needed for the construction of the little vessel, and by this evening probably almost the entire amount necessary will have been raised.

Yesterday, without any solicitation, $105 was added to the fund. Thirty dollars came from men who did not care to have their names mentioned, and the other donors were: Kelley Hardware company, $25; John McAlpine, $25; Thomas E. Blanche, $25. Yesterday's contributions bring the total so far received over the $500-mark, which is one-fourth of the entire amount needed.

PEASE AT THE TEMPLE.

Kelley Roller Polo Team to Meet Superior Five.

Tomorrow night at the Temple roller rink the Kelley Hardware company roller polo team will play the Pease team of Superior. In the last game between the two fives at Superior, the Kelleys won by a score of 3 to 1 in a hard game. The Pease team has Helmer and Johnson, two of the stars of the Columbia hockey team, and they are fast on roller skates also.

An effort is being made to arrange a series of three games with the Lincoln Park team. It is planned to play one game at the Temple rink Thursday night, the second at the Lincoln Park rink Friday night and the third next week at a rink yet to be selected.

Wrestling Receipts.

Chicago, April 7.—An official announcement last night of the receipts of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match, placed the amount at $43,758. T. E. Trexell, who has had charge of the financial part, said that incomplete figures on the expenses showed them to be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

TO PLAY BALL NEXT SUNDAY

Semi-Professionals and Amateurs to Open Their Season.

The amateur and semi-professional baseball players of Duluth will get into action next Sunday, providing a snowstorm doesn't come along and spoil the sport. The different diamonds throughout the city are in good shape and the boys are anxious to get out and take the stiffness out of their joints.

Manager Clyde Ziegler of the Kelley team has issued a call for the candidates for his nine to meet at the Kelley store Friday night of this week to get their instructions and set on practice dates. The Kelleys have a deal on for dates with the Duluth White Sox during the first week in May and Ziegler is anxious to get his men into some kind of shape by that time. Fully twenty men are on the Kelley list and the weeding out process will begin with the first practice.

The Fitwells will also get out next Sunday and innumerable other teams of lesser magnitude in the corner lot world will try out the candidates.

GAME WILL DECIDE TIE

Deighton and Horak Teams Will Meet Wednesday Night.

All Stars of League to Play First Five Friday Night.

Tomorrow evening, beginning at 6:15 the possession of the Northern Hardware company cup, emblematic of the championship of the Y. M. C. A. basketball league, will be decided, when the Deighton and Horak 5:15 class team will get together in one game to play off the existing tie.

The rivalry between the two teams is intense and interest in Y. M. C. A. circles in general is strong, so a good crowd will probably turn out to see the boys. Horak held the leadership of the league nearly all season and at the end Deighton came up with a rush and broke into a tie. The two teams will line up as follows:

Deighton—	Position.	Horaks—
Kelley	forward	Klichl
Jones	forward	Horak
Deighton	center	Haroldsen
Forgette	guard	Clark
Wisted	guard	Downing

Dr. Fahey and A. J. Frey will be the officials.

Friday night, the first team of the association will bring its season to a close with a game between a picked team from the basket ball league. The league has developed some great players this year and the game will be a fine test of its strength. The all stars will be picked this week and there are a large number of candidates for places on the team. The first team has not practiced much lately, but it will brush up in a game with Company A, to morrow night and will send a strong five against the league stars.

It has been decided not to award the medals to the winners in the athletic tests held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium during the winter at the exhibition next week, but they will be given privately.

George Proff, the West end man, who give exhibitions of leaping the gap on roller skates, will give his act at the exhibition at the Lyceum next week. Proff finds that the Lyceum stage will be large enough for his apparatus and he will turn a somersault over a gap. The act will take place between the two parts of the regular entertainment. Proff is a member of the local association and travels through the country during the amusement season.

FARGO MODEST IN ITS CLAIMS

McNeil Wants to Place Team and Doesn't Aspire to Pennant.

Fargo, N. D., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being without league baseball for a year, the fans of Fargo are anxious for the opening of the Northern league season. With a team that can run two, three, there will be plenty of support in this city. Fargoans are never ambitious for a pennant winning aggregation, and would be satisfied with a bunch that could secure a place in the race.

"Bill" McNeil, an old-time Northern league player and manager, will be in charge of the Fargo aggregation this summer. He will play the bench and not attempt to participate in games, unless his catcher gets put out of the game through injuries. Mac has five men signed and starts this week on a trip which will include some of the training grounds of the American association and the Western league teams, where he is in touch with some of the managers and will have some players turned over to him. His men are to report in Fargo, April 25, and will practice here with games with amateur teams till the league season opens.

SWEENEY SHORN BY WALL STREET

Western Mining King Said to Have Lost Several Millions.

Spokane, Wash., April 7.—Charles Sweeney, president of the Federal Mining & Smelting company, one of the Guggenheim properties in Idaho, and formerly one of the richest men in Spokane's list of mining kings and four years ago a candidate for the United States senate, has sold his palatial home to Patrick Welch for $80,000.

Within the past fourteen months Sweeney has sold property in Spokane amounting to $600,000. Prior to that he mortgaged to the limit his Portland holdings. Sweeney still owns one piece of valuable property here, but this is in the market.

Sweeney was a heavy loser in a big Wall street speculation two years ago. He was then reputed to be worth $4,000,000 or $5,000,000. But he had an idea that he could buck the old-timers in Wall street and was trimmed to the tune of $3,500,000.

Stocks which he bought were further affected last fall when the so-called panic came on. Sweeney's friends here say he will never live in Spokane again.

WILL GET THEIR LAND

Government to Give Pine Holdings to Red Lake Wards.

Under Treaty of 1904, Poor Lo Will Receive His Rights.

A special commissioner from the United States Indian office will come from Washington to the Red Lake Indian agency within a few days, to settle the long-belated allotments to the Indians, according to E. L. Warren of Cass Lake, who is at St. Louis today. Mr. Warren says the allotment will be settled under the McLaughlin treaty of 1904, which stipulates that the Indians can have either agricultural or pine lands.

Since the treaty was made in 1904, about 150 of the Indians have died, says Mr. Warren, and their heirs will never receive any benefit from the treaty that has never been enforced by the government. Lumber interests opposed the carrying out of the provisions of the treaty. The present application of the Indians has been made direct to the Indian office at Washington, and as the official in charge has returned his receipt of the application, it is the general supposition around the Red Lake agency that the matter will at last receive the attention of the government.

Mr. Warren says as long as the Indian is a ward of the government in the matter of receiving rations or a pension, just so long will he refuse to work. Senator Clapp had the halfbreeds of the White Earth reservation given their allotments in one sum. When they learn that they must earn their own living, Mr. Warren says, they will become useful citizens. It is the plan to give the Red Lake Indians what they have in one lump sum, as the plan has proved to be the best way of dealing with Poor Lo, says Mr. Warren.

The Red Lake agency is the only one in the state where the Indians have not received their allotments from the government. Pine land is worth a good price right at the present time, and the Indians taking their annuity in timber will realize a snug little sum on the sale.

The sale is being conducted by the well known New York auctioneers, Mitchell & Tillotson.

WILSON IS ARRAIGNED

Warrant Charges Him With Murder in First Degree.

Prisoner Weeps When Complaint Against Him is Read.

With his throat bandaged up, weak and haggard from his twelve days in the hospital, Henry Wilson, who shot and killed his wife a week ago Friday morning, was this afternoon driven from St. Luke's hospital to the municipal court, where he was arraigned before Judge Windom on the charge of murder in the first degree.

As he stood in the courtroom and listened to the warrant being read, he burst into tears and sobbed like a child, his spirit being completely broken by his weakness and his confinement.

After the warrant was read he was driven to the county jail, where he will remain until the date of his preliminary hearing, which is set for April 14, at 10 a. m.

M'GOORTY IS CONFIDENT

Oshkosh Boy Believes He Has Good Chance With McCune.

Bubbling over with confidence and ready to put up the scrap of his career, Eddie McGoorty, the Oshkosh boy, who will meet Tom McCune in a fifteen-round bout in one of the range towns next week, arrived in Duluth this morning. Despite the fact that he went through an eight-round scrap last Thursday night, the third within a week, McGoorty is looking as fit as the proverbial Stradivarius.

Eddie Santry has taken the Oshkosh boy in tow, and the two will go to the range immediately, where McGoorty will put in a few days of work before he meets the Detroit man. During his years of following the ring, Santry has had opportunity to observe many fighters, and he thinks the Wisconsin boy is a comer in the middleweight class. He has taken hold of him to bring out the best there is in him.

"McGoorty is coming right along and he hasn't arrived at the end by any means," said Santry today. "He's just picking up experience now that's going to be handy to him when he begins to mount. Since November, he has been fighting steadily and winning right along. He has won three fights within seven days, ending with a victory over Jack Drumgoil in eight rounds at Kenosha last Thursday night. A week ago tonight, he trimmed George Shrosbee in less than a round, as you know, and just a few days before that he had gained a decision from Jack Bennett at Appleton in eight rounds."

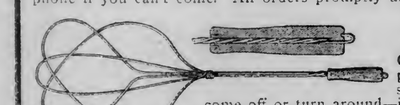

McGoorty is at 150 pounds and he will go into the ring at pretty close to that figure, with McCune about the same. His steady fighting has kept the Oshkosh boy in shape and he says he's ready to show the wallop many Duluth followers of the game think he doesn't possess.

"Talk about McCune being out of condition when we met here, what about me?" said McGoorty after his arrival today. "I wasn't in any kind of shape to put up a fight and I think I earned a decision at that. They think I haven't got the punch here, but I'll be ready to show it to them when I get in the ring with McCune. The fifteen-round bout is just about my route, and I'm not worrying about the result."

Santry, who was the king pin in the lightweight class a decade ago, will go on with Young O'Keefe of Superior in an exhibition bout the same night McCune and McGoorty clash. Santry gave up the ring some years ago, but he's been following the game and should show some lightning work in a short exhibition. Duluth fans are preparing to go to the range in a special train, with money to bet on both men. McCune has many friends in Duluth, but McGoorty's popularity is growing and McCune money will be freely taken by the night of the bout.

CANNOT START ON ROCK WORK

No Appropriation Yet Made by Council for St. Croix Avenue.

The council took no action last night toward making an appropriation for the taking of rock from the point of rocks and placing it on the shore at St. Croix avenue, so the board of public works is unable to proceed with the work, which it planned to begin this week. The deadlock between the members of the board and of the council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks over the place, from which the rock is to be taken continues, and until a settlement is reached, no work can be done.

The stone cutter is still in operation at the point of rocks and the pockets are rapidly filling. With the postponement of the work on Second and Fourth strets, there is no use for the rock at present, and although employment is being given twenty men, the accumulation of rock is becoming so large that, unless the board sees use for it soon, it is probable the crusher will be stopped.

Members of the board do not look kindly on the plan to cut into its fund for the resurfacing of the London road and Grand avenue west Although the work is desirable in the opinion of the members of the board, it is not thought that the fund will stand a draft of $2,000 for each of the thoroughfares, to be added to the appropriation intended by the conference committee. Unexpected developments in the way of blocking of storm sewers or heavy floods, would cut into the board funds so heavily that should the money be taken out for the streets, it is possible the public works might be handicapped seriously toward the end of the year by lack of funds.

ANNUAL BANQUET FOR THE BOYS

List of Toasts at Dinner of Boys Department.

Invitations are out today for the sixth annual banquet for members of the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., to be held in the boys' building Friday evening. The banquet is the big social affair of the year for the members and is one that is always looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation.

The committee of women in charge is sparing no efforts to make it a most enjoyable affair. Dr. M. S. Rice will be the toastmaster and will open the program with a toast to "Our Country," which will be responded to by the boys, who will sing the national anthem. "The Boys' Department" will be responded by David Duncan; "The Men Behind," by John Miller; "Serpent Lake," by Harvard Rockwell; "What We Do vs. What We Get," by Fred Cole; "Duluth Central High School," by C. A. Smith; "Athletics," by Laurence Jaques; "Cabinet of '03-4," by Russell McLean; "The Gypsy Trip," by Palmer Bevis; "Boys," by E. W. Peck of Minneapolis; "The Ladies," by William Eklund.

There will be a program of music by the boys' department orchestra. The women, who will have charge of the banquet, are Mrs. W. J. McCabe, Mrs. G. A. St. Clair, Mrs. J. N. St. Clair, Mrs. F. Bates, Mrs. K. M. Larrowe, Mrs. H. I. Pineo, Mrs. W. A. Cant, Mrs. W. D. Fenton, Mrs. J. L. Prosser, Mrs. A. C. Taylor, Mrs. P. Bevis, Mrs. W. P. Heimbach, Mrs. Watson S. Moore and Mrs. A. C. Volk. They will hold a meeting at the boys' department Wednesday morning at 10:30 to make final arrangements.

CONSTANTINE HEARD FROM; EVELETH FIGHTER READY.

Eveleth, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nicholas Constantine, a local fighter, said this afternoon anent a statement in a Duluth morning paper:

"I see that 'Scraps' Costello, the breezy fighter of Duluth, is taking his word back in saying that he cannot see Kid Constantine of Eveleth at weight, 124 ringside, but says after all this brave talking to different Duluth papers that he now don't have to make said weight ringside, but at catch weight. I am open to meet him 124 ringside for a side bet of $50, any day in the week before the club offering most purse."

Mr. S. L. Bowen of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Cure. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Cure works wonders where others are total failures. All druggists.

TAFT MEN WON AT PRIMARIES

In All Minnesota Counties, Except Wilkin and Clay.

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Returns from all parts of the state where primaries were held Saturday and Monday show that there is now no question about Secretary Taft having the Minnesota delegation for him at the Chicago convention, and it is very doubtful if any of the other candidates for the presidency will be able to secure even a single delegate from this state.

Most of the counties have held their primaries, and with a few exceptions there were no contests. In some counties fights were put up by La Follette supporters, but to date the only counties which were won for the Wisconsin man are Wilkin and Clay.

There is no question about the delegates at large, which will be chosen at the state convention, April 16, being Taft delegates, and there seems to be little likelihood of the La Follette men winning out at any of the congressional conventions, to be held April 15. The only question seems to be as to the character of the instructions which will be given the delegates.

SPRINGBORN EASY MARK

A Prominent Cleveland Man Separated From $10,000.

Indianapolis, April 7.—A special to the News from South Bend says: W. J. Springborn, president of the public service board of Cleveland, who came to South Bend to close a deal for a game preserve and clubhouse in Florida, was made the victim of a gang of sharpers and lost $10,000 betting on a fake wrestling match. J. W. Fleming, who was in the land deal, and J. E. Posey, one of the promoters of the wrestling match, are in jail—Fleming in Cleveland and Foster in South Bend. Springborn is under bond of $2,000 to appear as a witness.

Mr. Springborn telegraphed that he intended to prosecute to the limit. Fictitious names were used here by the members of the party that came here to swindle the Cleveland men.

Fleming, it is claimed, had the confidence of Springborn and posed as his friend. He told Springborn that a man named Pomeroy of this city had a Florida game preserve and clubhouse for sale for $10,000 that was worth easily $5,000 more and the two men came here to close the deal, Springborn bringing the money in cash.

They met some other people and Springborn was told Pomeroy would be back the next day. The talk turned to wrestling and two of the new friends introduced happened to be wrestlers. A match was suggested, Springborn was told there was a "sure thing" in sight and that money to the extent of $42,000, including Springborn's $10,000, was bet and put in a heavy locked box and two of the men took it away ostensibly to put it in a trust company vault. The wrestling match started and was interrupted by one of the wrestlers pretending to be badly hurt. It was whispered that the man was dying and every one had better disappear. The crowd scattered and the men have not been found. Neither have the members of the party except Fleming and Foster.

Beautiful puffs and switches. Knauf Sisters.

TAFT INDORSED BY MONTANA COMMITTEE.

Helena, Mont., April 7.—The Republican state central committee in session here adopted a resolution indorsing the candidacy of William H. Taft for the presidency and called the state convention to select delegates to the National convention at Butte, May 1. Five of the twenty-seven members of the state central committee voted against the Taft resolution, deeming it unwise for the committee to endorse any candidate.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

St. Paul, April 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank T. Williams, weather forecaster of St. Paul, died yesterday at his residence, 234 Pleasant avenue, from pneumonia, after a week's illness. He was in his 47th year.

Mr. Williams was considered to be in good health previous to the time of the attack of pneumonia, and it was not expected that the illness would result fatally. His condition became critical last Saturday, and since then he has hovered between life and death.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—Congressman Abraham Lincoln Brick of the Thirteenth Indiana district, died suddenly here today, in a sanitorium. Acute Bright's disease is given as the cause of death. He came here from his home in South Bend last week to attend the Republican state convention.

Pittsburg, April 7.—Word has been received by the United Presbyterian board of Foreign missions of the death in Cairo, Egypt, of the Rev. Dr. Samuel Currie Ewing, 77 years old, said to be the oldest missionary in the world, both in age and point of service.

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—Byron J. Carter, vice president and general superintendent of an automobile company of this city, and inventor of a friction drive automobile bearing his name, died yesterday from pneumonia, at his home here.

Shamokin, Pa., April 7.—Gardner Cobb, one of the oldest Pennsylvania railroad and Reading railroad engineers in the country, died here last night. During the Civil war he was on the Baltimore division of the Pennsylvania railroad, and rushed a big special train of soldiers and ammunition to the Gettysburg battle. He also ran President Lincoln's funeral train a part of the way from Washington to Illinois.

WILL VISIT THE ESKIMOS

Steffanson to Go Where No White Man Has Trod.

Edmonton, April 7.—Edmonton is to be the starting place of another exploration trip to the north. Vilhjamur Steffanson will start some time late this month, for the Arctic circle to learn ways of Eskimo tribes which no white man has ever visited. He will carry a few flies, needles and butcher knives as gifts in return for hospitality which he expects to receive. One rifle, a few fish hooks, and nets, and a suit of fur clothing will be the sinews of the expedition.

Steffanson was formerly an instructor at Harvard university and his coming expedition is under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History.

The expense of getting to the Mackenzie river where he will build a rowboat is to be advanced by the institution. The museum will publish his reportand if it is possible to bring them all out of that inaccessible country it will obtain whatever ethnological specimens Steffanson may gather. The young explorer is of Iceland birth and speaks the Eskimo language fluently.

He will live on the country and on what he can trap. He expects to travel 1,800 miles in a row boat.

SAFE DYNAMITED.

Topeka, Kan., April 7.—Robbers early today dynamited the safe of the State bank at Huron, and escaped with $6,500. The bank building was wrecked. The robbers, who are believed to have been six in number, escaped on handcars.

WHEAT HAS SOFT TONE

The Decline in the Market Shows No Abatement.

Flax Has a Little Rally at the Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 7.—Weakness in the wheat market continued again today.

The entire market has been settling for several days past, and there has been a great shrinkage in values. From a lack of strength in itself the market has been soft, the prospect of a good winter wheat crop and continued heavy shipments from Argentina causing a great depression.

The bulls talked of a shortage in the domestic supply, but the demand from abroad has been so slack and domestic buyers have been so indifferent, that during the last week the bears have been having it all their own way.

Today's session told a story of steady decline from the opening. There was no support to the market at any time and the feeling seemed to be that the level was still too high.

There was no session in Chicago, it being election day there, so some of the usual data was not obtainable.

Liverpool closed ⅛d lower, Paris ¼@¾c lower, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ⅞c lower and Budapest 2¼c higher.

The May option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth, 1c lower in Minneapolis, ¾c lower in New York and 1⅜c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth, 1⅛c lower in Minneapolis, 1c lower in New York and 1⅜c lower in Winnipeg.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a quiet opening in wheat, although values showed a decline of from ¾d to 1d. Pressure resulted from the weakness in American markets yesterday and general liquidation here. During the early dealing, the market developed decided strength and values showed an advance of ⅛d to ¾d. There was good support by bull interests and shorts were extremely nervous and covered freely. The September option was particularly well supported and showed the advance of ⅜d. At midday the market was steady and from ¼d to ⅝d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet and unchanged at the opening in sympathy with American markets yesterday. Later easiness developed and values lost ¼d, stimulated by increased American receipts an da poor spot demand."

Car receipts at Duluth were 65 against 329 last year, and at Minneapolis 145 against 296 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 210 against 625 last year. Winnipeg received 127 against 261 cars last year.

Bradstreet's reports an increase of 1,013,000 bushels in the world's visible supply of wheat. In the United States and Canada there was an increase of 13,000 bushels.

The world's visible supply of corn decreased 115,000 bushels.

Wheat was active at the opening of the Duluth market today, but became quieter toward the close, which was soft. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at 98⅜c, declined to 97¾c, rallied to 98c, declined to 97½c and closed at 97⅝c, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at 99½c, declined to 98⅞c and closed at that price, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¾c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was fairly active during the day and experienced a rally at the close. May flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.14½, declined to $1.14¼, rallied to $1.14⅞ and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday. July flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.16½, advanced to $1.16⅞ and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday. October flax opened and sold at $1.16 and closed at $1.16½.

Oats closed ½c lower and other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

Wheat: No. 1 hard, on track, $1.01⅝. To arrive: No. 1 northern, 95⅝c; No. 2 northern, 95⅞c; No. 1 northern, 99⅝c; No. 2 northern, 95⅝c; May, 97⅝c; July, 98⅞c. Durum on track: No. 1, 83¼c; No. 2, 81¾c. May durum, 82¾c; July durum, 84c. Flax to arrive, $1.14½; flax on track, $1.14⅞; May, $1.14⅞; July, $1.16⅞. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Bears Control Wheat Prices and the Market is Dull.

Minneapolis, April 7.—With Chicago closed, Minneapolis was going it alone today, and the bears were in control of the wheat markets. Early in the session May was down to 99⅛c and July to 98¾c. Both rallied a little, after which the market turned very dull. There were many dispatches telling of rain in the Southwest and Liverpool was lower. The Minneapolis elevator stocks gained a little and instead of 25,000 bushels decrease now show only 10,000 bushels decrease. The railroads brought in 145 cars, against 296, and in Duluth the receipts were only 65 cars, against 329, but these figures had little sustaining effect against the better crop news from winter wheat states and expectations of a bearish condition in the government report tomorrow. At the close the market was very weak. May opened 99¼@½c; high, 99¾@99⅞c; low, 98⅞c; close, 99c. July closed, 98¾c; September, 88¾c.

Cash prices were in about the same relation to the option but demand was a little better. No. 1 sold at 1½c over for most of it and No. 2 at ½@1c under. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.00½ spot or to arrive; No. 2 northern, 97¾@98¼c spot, 98½c to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 90@94c; No. 3 yellow corn, 61¾@62¾c; No. 3 white oats, 48¼c No. 2 rye, 71¾@72¾c.

Barley did a little better and some lots went 1c to 2c higher, close, 65@82c.

Flax was quotable at Duluth May price, but was strong and inclined to work higher, close $1.14⅝.

Bran in bulk, $21.25@$21.50.

Dullness rules in flour. Sales are light and instructions for forwarding flour on old sales are not coming in very freely. Shipments, 31,746 barrels. First patents, $5.15@5.30; second patents, $5.05@5.20; first clears, $4.05@4.15; second clear, $3.10@3.20.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Walter W. Carr: Dullness seems to be the chief characteristic in Boston copper stocks. London metal prices were a shade lower. While the domestic demand is not urgent, the mines are selling a little copper each day. The situation is shaping up fully as well as could be expected. Improvement in general business must necessarily bring about a greater demand for the metal.

Boston to M. W. Lee & Co.: There is no change in the metal situation. Today was one of the dullest ever known. The Yukon movement was further accentuated on the down side by the selling of inside stock, not from Mr. Lawson, through a house now in the curb business here. Other coppers are dull. There are a great many promotions in the wind, none amounting to much.

New York Money.

New York, April 7.—Close: Money on call easy at 1½@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1¾; closing bid, 1½; offered at 1¾. Time loans, dull and soft; sixty days, 2¾@3 per cent; ninety days, 3 to 3¼; six months, 3¾ to 4 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling exchange, firm with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.50@4.86.55 for demand, and at $4.84.10@4.84.15 for sixty-day bills. Commercial bills, $4.83⅞. Bar silver, 55c, Mexican dollars, 47c, Government and railroad bonds, steady.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Upward Movement Gathered Headway During Final Hour.

Prices Shaded in Last Dealings and Close Was Irregular.

New York, April 7.—The first transactions in stocks today were at irregular price changes from last night and were small. Union Pacific and Atchison advanced ⅝, and Vulcan Detinning preferred sold at an advance of 4 over the preceding sale.

A period of heaviness marked the opening in which Reading, Union Pacific and the copper stocks were prominent. This was followed by an affective rally on which Union Pacific gained 1. The market then became sluggish.

Prices were maintained during the second hour, but the market was torpid. Atchison's advance reached about a point and United States Rubber receded 1¼. Bonds were steady.

During the noon hour there were no price changes of importance.

Speculative interest was revived in United States Steel for a while by the purchase of some fair sized blocks which lifted it to 33¾. The tone in general was firmer.

The market closed rather irregular and dull. The upward movement gathered some headway in the final hour, when Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific rose 2, General Electric 4, McKay Companies 3, Long Island 2¾, Pressed Steel Car preferred 2½, New York Central 1¼ and St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel, American Smelting and International Paper preferred 1. Advances were shaded in the final dealings.

New York, April 7.—The cotton market opened at a decline of 2 to 4 points in response to lower cables and good weather. Light Bombay receipts caused some covering, but there was no bull support and during the middle of the morning the market was barely steady with prices 5 to 8 points net lower under selling by houses with German connections, bearish reports from New Orleans and local pressure.

CONFERENCE IS ADJOURNED

Operators and Miners Will Meet Again on April 14.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—The conference of coal operators of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana and representatives of the miners of these three districts and Illinois adjourned today after being in session for two hours. No resumption of work in the mines of the states represented was ordered. The next meeting will be at Toledo, Tuesday, April 14, when an effort will be made to revive the interstate agreement between the operators and miners of the central competitive field consisting of these four districts. The Illinois miners left at once for Springfield to resume their joint district conference with the Illinois operators. President Lewis left for Kansas City to take part in the joint conference of the Southwest field.

Philadelphia, April 7.—The second double hanging of the present year took place today when Max Soifer and Joseph Tolrico were executed for murders committed during jealous passions. Soifer shot and killed a girl because she threatened to end their engagement to marry and Tolrico killed the brother of his sweetheart after attempting to shoot the girl.

Board Calls for Bids on Wrecking Old Land marks.

The county board today passed a resolution authorizingg the county to borrow $600,000 for the purpose of completing and furnishing the new courthouse.

This sum will be secured under certificates of indebtedness of $1,000 ach. They will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent, payable semi-annually. Authority for the loan is found under chapter 130, general laws of 1907.

One hundred thousand dollars of these certificates will be payable four years from date of issue; $100,000 five years from date; $100,000 six years from date; $100,000 seven years from date; $100,000 eight years from date; and $100,000 nine years from date.

The county auditor was authorized to call for bids on such certificates in the amount specified.

The board also authorized the county auditor to call for bids for wrecking the following property: Barker flats at 501, 503, 505 and 507 West Second street; the Barker house at 206, 211 and 213 Fifth avenue west; the old Spalding residence at 129 Fifth avenue west, and the McDougall residence at 432 West Second street. The Miller and Thomson residences and the Levine flats will not be wrecked for some time yet, as the ground on which they stand will not be needed at once.

These bids will be opened on May 12, one day after the bids for the general construction contract are opened. It is believed that many of the contractors will figure on both jobs.

The appraisers will file their report on May 7. The board also passed a resolution accepting the options of $20,000 for the Cash property and the one for $43,789.36 on the Levine flats.

HELPED OUT BY CANNON

Washington, April 7.—When the house met today, discussion of the District of Columbia appropriation bill was resumed.

This was not accomplished, however, without a roll call, and in connection with it the house was furnished with an amusing incident, of which Speaker Cannon was the central figure.

Mr. Williams had demanded a division on the proposition to take up the district bill, which was carried, 100 to 75. Both Mr. Payne, New York, and Mr. Bartlett, Georgia, were quickly on their feet, the former asserting that Mr. Williams was resorting to dilatory tactics, and Mr. Bartlett insisting that there was no quorum.

Later, Mr. Bartlett withdrew his point, and over the protest of Mr. Payne, the speaker himself ordered a yea and nay vote. With the tension thus relieved, the members broke into applause.

The supporters of the proposition for a child labor law for the District of Columbia, as recommended by the president, received a blow when the chair ruled out as not germane an amendment by Mr. Peters, Massachusetts, to cover the subject. Mr. Peters made an elaborate presentation of the case, notwithstanding.

MONARCHISTS WIN.

Washington, April 7.—American Minister Bryan, at Lisbon, Portugal, has under today's date sent the department of state the following dispatch: "Monarchists overwhelmingly victorious in election. Disorders confined to Lisbon. The rest of Portugal is quiet."

INCREASE OF ARMY

To 125,000 Said to be Contemplated by Secretary Taft.

Washington, April 7.—The senate engaged today for some time in the discussion of a report printed in the Washington Post today to the effect that Secretary Taft contemplated the incrase of the army so as to bring the number up to 125,000 men. The subject was introduced by Senator Hale, who spoke of the enormous sum of $98,000,000 carried by the army appropriation bill, which passed yesterday. He said that he did not know whether the author of the aricle had inside information, but he added that it was understood to be the plan of the chief of staff of the army to double the present size of that organization. In this connection he mentioned the fact that this officer often acts as secretary of war "in the prolonged frequent and necessary absence of the secretary."

Mr. Hale expressed the hope that the program for such a vast increase would not be carried into effect. He also pronounced against the plan for four battleships.

A BOY MURDERER GETS THIRTY YEARS IN PRISON.

Camden, N. J., April 7.—Joseph Wood, the 18-year-old boy who was convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of Ethel Nevin, a 9-year-old girl, here, last fall, was today sentenced to thirty years in state prison. The little girl's body was found on a lot. She had been maltreated and her head had been crushed with a hatchet. The boy is alleged to have confessed to the crime immediately after his arrest, but denied the alleged confession at his trial.

COAL MINERS REJECT OPERATORS' DEMANDS.

Kansas City, April 7.—Little hope of an early settlement of the strike of the 35,000 Southwestern coal miners was shown today, when the operators made certain demands which the miners rejected. The conference of the operators and miners was ended, however, and it is hoped that with the arrival of President Lewis from Indianapolis tomorrow the two sides may be brought closer together.

SAYS ALL ARE GUILTY OF GROSS FRAUDS.

Washington, April 7.—In the opening statement to the jury in the alleged land fraud cases, Special Assistant Attorney General A. B. Pugh reviewed the events which led to the indictments of Frederick A. Hyde, John A. Benson, Henry P. Dimond and Joost H. Schneider, four years ago on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States out of large tracts of public land in the Pacific coast states, said to amount to 100,000 acres. The penalty, Mr. Pugh told the jury, for the offense is a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $10,000, and imprisonment for not more than ten years.

WILLING TO SELL SHIPS.

Rio de Janeiro, April 7.—Information obtained from an official source today leads to the belief that Italy is ready to sell to Argentina for $20,000,000 the three battleships Regina Elena, Napoli and Roma. Argentina is thought to be contemplating this increase in her navy to counterbalance the projects of Brazil to augment her strength at sea.

CLIFFORD KEENE DIES

Sixth Member of Old Duluth Family to be Called.

Father, Two Brothers and Sister Were Victims of Accident.

Clifford Keene, son of Freeman Keene, deceased, one of the first settlers at the Head of the Lakes, died this morning at 5 o'clock at the St. Mary's hospital of an arterial trouble after a two weeks' illness.

He is the sixth member of the old Duluth family to be called by death. Both his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Keene are dead, his father having met his death six years ago as the result of being struck by a street car. His mother died a natural death, but two of his brothers and one of his sisters were taken suddenly from life. Abigal Keene, his oldest sister was drowned when she was 17 years old, in July, 1891; Dan Keene on April 26, two years ago, fell through an air pocket at the Missabe ore dock, and was found dead at 2 o'clock in the morning in the bin below; John S. Keene, one of the youngest of the family, died from injuries received while jumping from a bridge into a snow bank in March, 1892.

Freeman Keene was among the first pioneers to come to Duluth. He settled here in May, 1856.

Clifford Keene leaves a wife, Mrs. Fanny Keene, formerly Miss Fanny Brown of Duluth, whom he married three years ago, and has a brother and sister, James Keene of Duluth and Mrs. Stevens of North Dakota, who arrived in the city this morning. He is also survived by two half brothers and a half sister, Harry B. Randall of Duluth and William H. Randall, who lives in the West, and Mrs. Flint of Duluth.

Clifford Keene was 25 years old and up to the time of his sickness had worked for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road on the ore docks.

The arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

CHARGED WITH STEALING FISH

Isaac Johnson Alleged to Have Carried Herring Away.

Isaac Johnson has been added to the cast of "A Piscatorial Romance, or, Who Stole the Fish," which was originally staged by Frank Oja and Charles Peterson. Hans Christianson, who conducts a fish business on lower Lake avenue, objects to furnishing the props, without receiving any coin or honor, so he has shifted the scene to the municipal court, where the second act will be staged next Saturday morning.

Johnson was arrested on complaint of Christianson, who alleges that Johnson stole three barrels of fish from Christianson's fish house last Thursday night. The fish are said to have been found in Johnson's possession. He requested an examination and it will be given next Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock. Grand larceny in the second degree is the charge.

SUPERIOR NEWS

HOT ELECTION.

Heavy Vote Being Cast in Every Ward and Precinct.

Early returns indicate a very heavy vote being cast in every ward and precinct in the city election being held in Superior today. Great rivalry is being shown by the party workers, although the morning hours of the elections were not marked by any disturbances at the polling places. Great interest is being shown in the result and it is anticipated that one of the heaviest votes in the history of the city will be cast. It is believed that the result of the mayoralty election will be close.

SETTLE THEIR TROUBLES.

Women Smooth Over Neighborhood Row and Drop Cases.

The assault and battery cases of Mrs. Maggie Hicks and Mrs. Dolly Kane, against each other, were dismissed from the municipal court yesterday afternoon after the principals had been brought together in the judge's private office and after they had the opportunity of talking the matter over. The two women had been at swords's points for some time, by reason of trouble between their children and each seemed anxious to prosecute the other. One of the cases was about to be tried when Mr. Hicks said he was willing to drop the case if Mrs. Kane would only admit that she was in the wrong. Mrs. Kane's attorney thought this was an easy way out of the difficulty so the principals retired and declared a truce in hostilities. When they returned to the court room all dierences had been adjusted and the cases were dismissed.

Lost Money and Squealed.

Matt Maki got into a poker game in the rear of a Third stret saloon Saturday evening and dropped $24 in very short order. He caused a warrant to be sworn out for Matt Touri, who entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of gambling. Maki, who does not understand English very well, claims that he was "fled on" by the rest of those in the game.

Postal Savings Banks.

One of the most pronounced results of the recent financial flurry was the favorable consideration and comment of a postal bank savings system. There has also been a great deal of favorable comment about the merit of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters during the 54 years it has been before the public, and its cures have been so pronounced as to make it a leader among medicines for ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. In thousands of homes it has already established itself as the favorite remedy because of its purity and reliability. If you suffer from poor appetite, sick headache, nervousness, heartburn, bloating, sour stomach, dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness, grippe, spring ailments or malaria, try a bottle at once. It will surely help you.

ROSE'S VOTE WAS 23,114

His Plurality Over Emil Seidel, Social Democrat, 2,247.

John Barnes of Rhinelander is Elected Supreme Justice.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 8.—Complete city returns from yesterday's municipal election in Milwaukee gave David S. Rose, Democrat, for mayor, 2,247 plurality over Emil Seidel, Social Democrat. The total vote was Rose, 23,114; Siedel, 20,867, and Pringle, Republican, 18,169. For comptroller, August Gawin, Democrat, was elected by a plurality of 2,758 votes and Vincenz Schoenecker, Democrat, treasurer, with a plurality of 4,932. Democrats will control the new council, having elected all of the twelve aldermen-at-large and eight from the wards. The Social Democrats elected nine and the Republicans six aldermen.

John Barnes of Rhinelander was elected justice of the supreme court over Robert M. Bashford by a large plurality.

La Follette delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention were elected as were nearly all the district delegates favorable to the Wisconsin senator. The Eighth district is in doubt and the Tenth is claimed by Taft supporters.

The Democrats yesterday elected delegates-at-large from districts to the national convention, the list being the same as nominated at the February state convention. The convention instructed its delegates to vote for William J. Bryan first, last and all the time. The Democratic delegates-at-large are Herbert H. Hanson, Wausau; Charles H. Weisse, Sheboygan Falls; John Aylward, Madison, and Melvin A. Hoyt, Milwaukee.

BRAVE SAILOR SAVES JACKIES

Rows Out to Them in Boat With Board as an Oar.

San Francisco, April 8.—An interesting incident of the cruise of the battleships occurred at Punta Arenas. Two of the jackies on the Rhode Island took advantage of the occasion to go on a hunting trip. They secured permission to take the ship's cutter, but before they had been long away from the ship a squall arose, and they had considerable difficulty in keeping the boat afloat. At last a sudden gust of wind capsized the cutter, throwing them into the water. They managed to cling to the bottom of the upturned boat, however, and were driven five miles away from either the shore or the Rhode Island. They were finally seen from the shore by Seaman James Biegler, who secured a leaky boat, and, with a piece of board for an oar, made his way to the men and effected their rescue. Capt. Murdoch of the Rhode Island recommended Biegler to Rear Admiral Evans for reward, and the latter has reported the matter to the navy department.

LITTLE OLD AUTO RUNS TOO FAST

Man Driving First Machine Built in America, Arrested.

New York, April 8.—Arrested for speeding and in the first automobile ever built in this country, was the experience yesterday of Elwood Haynes, who was testing the little runabout he constructed in 1893, preparatory to the carnival parade, last evening.

The machine had been lent by the Smithsonian institution to show the evolution of the automobile and, Mr. Haynes in great glee at discovering that it ran so well, took a chance with the speed law and was haled to the police station. Explanations followed and the charge was not pressed.

Mr. Haynes said that it was his second arrest since he has been connected with automobiles. He appeared to be rather proud of the fact that a car constructed fifteen years ago and now little more than a relic could travel at a speed to warrant an officer arresting him for fast driving.

THREE MEN TRY TO ROB AN ONTARIO BANK.

St. Catherines, Ont., April 8.—Three men, supposed to have come from Buffalo, gained access to the Imperial bank in St. Davids, yesterday morning, and attempted to break open a safe, which contained over $5,000. The first explosion roused the village, and while the population was held at bay by two of the robbers, with revolvers, the third man lighted another fuse and tried vainly to get the door of the safe open. Finally they drove off toward Niagara Falls, two of them covering the villagers with their guns, until escape was effected.

FORT WILLIAM MAN IS KILLED BY BIG FALL.

Baudette, Minn., April 8.—(Special to the Herald.)—Stanley McNutt of Fort William, Ont., while crossing the international bridge of the Canadian & Northern railway stumbled and fell headlong, a drop of forty feet. He was picked up unconscious and taken to a Winnipeg hospital, but died en route.

YOUNG DEFIES COMBINE OF THE RAILROAD, LIQUOR AND TIMBER INTERESTS

E. T. YOUNG,
Who Defies Railroad, Liquor and Timber Combine Against His Nomination for Governor.

Attorney General Will Not Withdraw From Race for Governor.

Says Opposition is Due to His Crusade Against Lawlessness.

Dunn, Reese and Shevlin Do Not Constitute Republican Party.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your Saturday edition you published an article headed—"Young is to quit the race for the governorship." You say that I am going to withdraw, realizing the impossibility of winning against the combined opposition of the railroads, the liquor interests, and the timber barons. You say that I am up against a stone-wall, because in addition to Jacobson's personal following there is "Dunn's support and the support of that strong faction that does as Dunn says, and without which no man can succeed."

You say further: "Next the corporate interests have tied up with Jake. Here is Dar Reese representing the liquor interests; Ed Smith of Minneapolis representing the railroad interests; Tom Shevlin of Minneapolis representing the lumber interests; Lee Willeuts and W. W. Rich representing the federal machine; all openly supporting Jake. All of these have been fighting Jake in all previous history, but now when they had to choose between Jake and Young, they choose

DISCUSSED BY JOHNSON

Governor of Minnesota Talks Freely on Presidential Question.

Denies Rumors That Candidacy is Being Advanced by Hill.

Chicago, April 8.—Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, who is on his way to the battlefield of Shiloh, Tenn., where a monument is to be dedicated to the Minnesota soldiers who were killed in the battle, passed through the city today. He discussed the presidential question freely, saying:

"I am a candidate for the presidency in the sense that if I gain the nomination I shall accept it and make every effort to be elected. I am not making any personal campaign and do not expect to seek instructed delegates. I consider the ambition to be president to be one of the most laudable aspirations which any man can entertain.

"Any insinuations or assertions," said Governor Johnson, "that my candidacy is being advanced by James J. Hill and his interests are absolutely false. I have fought him several times and have never received a word of encouragement from him or any similar source."

Governor Johnson said he did not care to discuss William J. Bryan or any differences in policy between himself and Mr. Bryan.

"I have the highest regard for Mr. Bryan as a man," said Governor Johnson, "and I admire his ability and honesty. We are friends, so far as I know. My position is just this: If the members of the Democratic party feel that I would stand more chance of election than would Mr. Bryan or any other man, I will be glad to make the campaign.

"If I am considered the most available man, there will be no lack of appreciation on my part of the honor conferred on me. It all depends, in my judgment, on the platform and a vigorous campaign. As I view it, the Democratic party has at least an even chance to win this year."

DEMOCRATS WIN IN KANSAS CITY

Thomas Crittenden, Jr., Elected Mayor Over Henry Beardsley.

Kansas City, April 8.—Complet returns show the election of Thomas T. Crittenden, Jr. (Democrat), over Henry M. Beardsley (Republican), by a plurality of 1,611 votes. At Independence, Mo., the Democratic ticket, with the exception of two aldermen, was elected.

At Kansas City, Kan., the Democrats and the Republicans elected aldermen. With the aldermen who hold over, the council will be Democratic.

Mr. Ridder made the statement that he had written pledges of sixty-eight Republican members of the house, which added to the Democratic vote makes a large majority of the membership of that body favorable to it.

A ST. PAUL MAN STARVES HIMSELF TO DEATH WHILE DEMONSTRATING THEORY

Believed His Mind Was Mightier Than His Body.

So He Started in to Fast For Forty Days.

At End of Thirty-One Days He Died of Starvation.

St. Paul, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Knute Ohnstead died at 195 Grove street, early today, having literally starved himself to death, in an attempt to fast for forty days, in order to demonstrate his theory that the mind controls the body and that mind is mightier than body.

Ohnstead's fast lasted thirty-one days, according to those in the house.

Ohnstead had been steadily growing weaker during the past week, and yesterday another boarder at 195 Grove street notified the police, declaring that unless prevented, Ohnstead would starve himself to death.

Officer Gavin was sent to the house, and he found Ohnstead in an emaciated condition and very weak.

He suggested to Ohnstead that he be treated by a physician, but Ohnstead replied that he knew what he was doing, and that he desired nothing to eat or treatment of any kind.

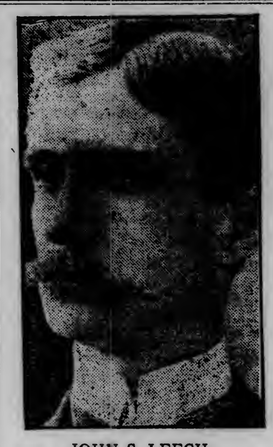

Officer Gavin's report was sent to the city physician, and this morning Dr. F. F. Murphy went to the house, but found that Ohnstead had succumbed early this morning.

Ohnstead was about 40 years of age and had done no work since beginning his self-imposed fast.

TO INVESTIGATE CASE OF LANE

Man Dies at St. Paul City Hospital of Fractured Skull.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Lane died at the City hospital last night of a fractured skull, and today the police will investigate the manner in which the injury was received.

It is claimed he fractured his skull by falling down stairs at the City hotel, about ten days ago, on the night of March 29.

Lane, who was employed by Newman & Hoy, contractors, had been paid that night (Saturday) and spent the evening with several friends at the City hotel bar, drinking. About 11 o'clock, when, badly intoxicated, he was taken to his room by a man who said his home was in Stillwater.

A few minutes later there was a noise on one of the upper floors of the hotel and an investigation disclosed Lane lying at the foot of the stairs.

He was placed in the police ambulance and taken to the City hospital, where it was found he had fractured his skull. Since that time he had been only partially conscious, and the physicians were unable to obtain from him any account of how he received his injury.

GERMAN OFFICERS ARE INTERESTED IN SUBWAY.

New York, April 8.—Two officers of the German army, Maj. Steinbrinck and Lieut. Von Hanstein, and Count Carmar of Berlin, who are in America for the purpose of reporting to the German emperor on certain subjects in which he is interested, have arrived in New York after visits to Washington, Boston, Niagara Falls and West Point. The new bridges and the subways in New York have particularly interested the visitors, who say they are more wonderful than the much-discussed skyscrapers.

"We came here at the command of the emperor," said Maj. Steinbrinck. "He is greatly interested in the United States, and wishes always to have the most accurate reports concerning conditions here. We shall have a very interesting report to make to him."

CASE TAKEN FROM JURY

Famous Lanstorf Suit is Dismissed Upon Stipulation.

Mrs. Margaret Lanstorf Will Take Care of Daughter-in-Law.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 8.—The famous $750,000 Lonstorf case which has been on trial in the circuit court of Milwaukee county at different times for several years was today taken from a jury in Judge Tarrant's court and dismissed upon stipulation by attorneys for all parties to the trial. It is said that Mrs. Margaret Lonstorf, the principal defendant, has agreed to care for the complainant daughter-in-law as long as she lives, in addition to making a large monetary concession.

The suit grew originally out of the charge that the Lonsdorf family had entered into a conspiracy to alienate the affections of Otto Lonstorf from his wife, Emma, who was Emma Sturm, daughter of the janitor of the Sixteenth ward school, and a poor girl prior to her marriage to Otto Lonstorf. It is alleged that he deserted her and that, as a result of the sorrow and misery which she suffered, she became insane. She was taken to the county asylum at Wauwatosa and was there cared for at public expense. It is reported that for a long time nothing was done for her by the Lonstorf family. Otto Lonstorf later left the city. He remained in the West for several years, also spending much time in Alaska and abroad.

Meanwhile the younger Mrs. Lonstorf became a hopeless invalid. Finally friends investigated her condition and suit for damages was instituted. John Randall was appointed her guardian, who as such, brought the suit.

EFFICIENCY INCREASED

Bluejacket Says Trip of Fleet Has Been Very Beneficial.

San Francisco, April 8.—Henry Sosvielle, chief master at arms of the battleship Rhode Island, the first enlisted man to reach San Francisco from Admiral Evans' fleet at Magdalena Bay, arrived here yesterday on the hospital ship Relief.

In his opinion, that of a man who has served as a bluejacket in the navy, the cruise has helped to increase the efficiency of both officers and men 100 per cent.

"All have enjoyed the cruise immensely, and a great lesson has been learned by the men on all vessels. The officers and sailors have come to know one another better, and as for the ships, they are in perfect condition," declared Sosvielle.

New York, April 8.—Seven hundred valuable objects, the gift of the Congo Free State, made through King Leopold of Belgium, are announced as additions to the American Museum of Natural History. Consignments of exhibits illustrating the manner of life of the natives are coming to the museum in successive shipments by special arrangement which Director Bumpus has made with King Leopold. The first consignment, just received, consists of a full set of so-called musical instruments, gongs and rattles, large ivory trumpets, whistles, flutes and drums, together with a specimen of the marimba, a kind of native piano. Industries are well illustrated by pottery ornaments, woven baskets, embroidered mats and wooden cups, often carved with heads in relief. Interesting religious objects include specimens of fetiches, with masks representing human heads with distorted features. Shields, bows and arrows indicate the warlike side of the native life.

IGNORES CONFESSION.

Jury Says Smolensky Was Killed by Unknown Parties.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"We, the undersigned jury, do find from the evidence adduced, that the said Joseph Smolensky, now lying dead at the morgue, in the county of Ramsey, state of Minnesota, came to his death through violence, some time prior to April 5, 1908, at his residence on the upper levee at the hands of some persons or persons unknown to the jury."

This was the verdict of the coroner's jury, which investigated the death of Joseph Smolensky, for whose death Fred Eschle, self-confessed murderer, is now confined in the county jail. They took no cognizance of the murderer's confession, but confined themselves to taking the testimony of witnesses which tended to show that the aged rag picker came to his death by violence. They had no direct evidence that Eschle had committed the crime, and so concluded that death was at the hands of unknown persons.

ART IN THE POMPADOUR

Very Simple in Style is the Marie Stuart Pompadour.

Preferable to Using Curlers or Trying the Hot Iron.

"Have you ever tried the Marie Stuart pompadour?" asked the smiling little hairdresser of the beauty parlor. "It is the simplest thing in the world, far simpler than rolling your hair on curlers or trying a hot iron."

She opened a mysterious box, drew out a wisp of soft brown hair fastened on a delicate comb and pushed it under her own pretty blond roll of freshly shampooed hair. In the twinkling of an eye a ruddy brown pompadour was brushed back above her face and no one in the world but a Sherlock Holmes would have discovered anything out of the way.

The whole pompadour hair was a natural curl and woven to a front comb and edge. The adjustment was so simple that a child could have done it.

Next came a corona of curls which was exploited for the benefit of possible buyers.

Indispensable in Day or Evening.

"It is indispensable for day or evening wear, with the new Gainsborough or the turbans and toques. See, it is so youthful, and how naturally these little curls snuggle about the ears and hide the thought lines in the forehead. With a tip-tilted nose like mine," continued the pretty maid, "one may like the crescent form, but if you are blessed with a classic face then the curls are clustered a la Grecque."

No comment on fashions would be complete without a word on hairdressing. It is so important in the make-up of every well-groomed dame that it would be folly to ignore what has been done and what can be done in the coiffure.

Our English cousins encourage experts in the art of the coiffure. Many efforts are made to ward off approaching age, and it being woman's prerogative to hold fast to the things of youth in garments, why should she not use the art of the hairdresser to conceal the frost of time.

Expert Works "Transformation."

A past master in the coiffure calls his inventions transformations, a fitting term indeed. The transformations are met with every day, but as they are artful we do not discover them. They are always made of natural wavy and curly hair of all the shades possible.

It may be that thin hair about the temple demands only a light fringe, and that is the transformation in this instance. The fringe may extend from ear to ear or the transformation may cover the entire head in a silken web like nature's own adornment.

Next to fringes comes the waves, shining silken locks arranged on a thin wire covered with hair which my lady can twist in her own front hair and conceal completely, at the same time improving the line of beauty above her forehead.

"Thinking about rats," began the little woman again, while running her fingers through her customer's front hair in an expert manner—"just thinking makes me shudder. Hair rats are hot, uncomfortable and unpleasant. These little wire rolls coered with a thin web of hair are far prettier and so easy to adjust.

Smaller Coiffures in Fashion.

"No, the coiffure will not grow larger. The tendency is to become smaller and neater. The allover net is a blessing, ensnaring all the fly-away hairs.

"Strings of puffs are far out of date. These little bunches are much more practical. They look as if grown fast to the head. One error the average pretty woman makes is that she does not take time, and she does not study her head from every side. Pin on a bunch of puffs and curls and it must look well from above, from below and all around.

"How nice it is that women believe again in pinning on hair. Any hat looks presentable if filled out with hair. Just a thicket of curls here, a wave there, a puff showing over the ear and that is a transformation.

"Do men buy toupees? Of course, hundreds of them. And how sensible it is. The toupee keeps off the draft of wind and makes one look younger. You see, if one does it right no one need ever find out that our pretty curls are pinned on."

WHITE FOR LITTLE BOY

Sailor Suits Are Popular for the Small Men Folk.

Khaki-Colored Linens and Mercerized Cottons for Traveling.

White duck, white linen and all white all day is the rule for the very little boy. His sandpile suits may be sandpile colored, and give him the fun that he wants, but fashion togs him out in white the rest of the time.

The harberdashers, taking boys into consideration, introduce boyish sailor suits of goodstyle. A sailor blouse of white has a blue linen collar and cuffs, trimmed with white braid on the sleeve, and an emblem in blue and white. The trousers are white duck, likewise. This is the conventional sailor suit.

For traveling, the mother will hunt up the khaki-colored rough linens and mercerized cottons. Knickerbockers are made very full and coats exceedingly loose, with big pockets. Accompanying these are the dark, rough hose for tramping wear, and hob-nailed shoes.

Make Summer Outings Enjoyable.

Summer outings are more enjoyable when a boy is well dressed, and the boys' outfitters have seen to it that there are numerous styles of wear-resisting material that do not catch dust or show ordinary grime.

Boys are becoming more and more sensible in matters of dress. The stiff collar is excused in the outing shirt, and the "shirtwaist" boy is tidy with a loose tie and well-fitting belt over his other summery clothes.

As time goes on the ready-made gain ni qualities of strength and fit, and makers are learning the ginghams that do not fade. Cheviot makes good suits for 3 and 4-year-olds; galatea has proved its virtues, and two or three never newer weaves and twills of shirtings have joined the ready-made brigade.

Men's furnishers and the haberdashers of the highest class have opened boys' sections where shirts can be made to order at prices that approach papa's. At the tailors the little men order their clothes with an assured sense of their importance.

Handkerchiefs, borders, ties, hose, shoestrings and underwear match the prevailing color of the outer clothes. Life is hard for the ambitious little tad following the ringleaders of fashion—it is strenuous action trying to keep up.

Soft Silk Ties are Worn.

Wee men, still in the happy fields of boydom, will wear soft silk ties under soft collars all summer. Only in the sailor suits does one find the collarless shirt and open breast. Low shoes with low heels and square toes and long hose of the never-wear-out type continue. Pretty scarfpins of Teddy bears and umbrellas with Teddy-bear heads are popular among girls as well as boys.

Summer boys of all ages indulge in tennis outfits of white. The knickerbocker trouser is permitted among men as well as boys in summer outing. The boy wears the knickers until he is well along in high school and the change is usually made at holiday time.

As to caps, the small affair that hangs on the crown of the boy's head has its day. The hatter says it is unwise to force a boy to wear a stiff hat. There are soft felts for boys who want real head coverings and with warm weather the duck hat will be much worn.

HURLED TO DEATH BY MOVING TRAIN

Brainerd, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eric G. Hesseiger, single, aged 58 years, was killed by a Northern Pacific passenger train here last night. He stepped before the incoming train, was struck by the engine and thrown fifteen feet. He was dead when the train crew reached him. He had worked for the Northern Pacific in Brainerd since 1881.

HELD SEANCE IN WOODSHED

Father and Daughter Had Conference Over Love Affair.

Chicago, April 8.—What happened in the woodshed at the home of Henry Hieber Monday night, himself and 16-year-old daughter principals, is one of the family secrets. It was all on account of her escapade with Thomas Tindorf, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of burglary. Miss Hieber was with him at the time of the arrest.

No millionaire mine owner's son for a son-in-law for the sturdy German stonecutter. He couldn't be duped with any such story as that if his daughter Matilda could.

There was dreadful anticipation of the return of the irate father from work when he should learn the news that his daughter had been taken to the town hall police station with a man accused as a burglar.

Confessed Entire Story.

The daughter had come home in the afternoon and confessed the entire story to her mother, how she had met Thomas Tindorf, a bright appearing young man, well dressed at the home of a friend more than two months ago. It was the first news to the mother that Matilda had a sweetheart.

This well dressed young man had professed to be the son of a wealthy mine owner in Colorado. She had met him secretly many times, and he had urged her to marry him and go West.

But they all know what he will do for "Papa." He is an honest, old-fashioned stone-cutteer, and wanted to see his daughter married to some thrifty neighbor's son when she was old enough to marry.

There Is Still a Secret.

"Oh, when he learns you had a fellow, I don't know what he will do," wailed the mother.

But what happened in the woodshed on the return of the head of the family is one of the family secrets.

Thomas Tindorf, 22 years old, was arrested at La Salle and Washington streets Monday morning on the charge of entering the home of Attorney Benjamin Bodhouse, 198 Hazel avenue. The arrest was made by Detectives Zable and Callagher of the town hall station, while he was with Miss Hieber, his sweetheart. He was taken to the police station and is said to have confessed the burglary. The girl was quickly released.

LID ON LITTLE FALLS.

Mayor Moeglein Gets Tip That He Promptly Follows.

Little Falls, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Saturday Mayor George Mieglein received a letter from Attorney General Young, stating that complaint had been made to his office that saloons were allowed to be open in the city of Little Falls at hours when they should be closed, and also that gambling devices were operated in saloons. The mayor was directed to enforce the law in the matter on which complaints wede made.

The mayor forthwith complied with the suggestion as far as closing hours were concerned, and the saloonkeepers of the city were promptly notified to close at 11 o'clock at night and to remain closed on Sunday.

The order was apparently complied with, and the saloons were closed on Sunday. The mayor stated that he heard a report of one violation, and he would have the matter investigated.

He stated that his closing order was final for the coming year.

YOUR HOME will be healthier when you keep bottled Schlitz. The barley is food—the hops are a tonic. And the drinking of liquids flushes the system of waste.

Every doctor knows that most people drink too little. On this account, their systems become clogged with waste.

There lies the main good of watering places. They induce the drinking of water.

That is one reason why the drinking of beer is good for you. It leads you to drink more liquid than you would drink without it. And that liquid is both a food and a tonic.

The sturdiest peoples of the earth drink the most of it.

But be sure that the beer is aged, so it will not cause biliousness. And be sure it is pure.

CHILD WIFE DESERTED

Married When 15 Years Old, She Asks Divorce.

Claims Young Husband is in the Michigan Reformatory.

Married at 15 years of age and deserted three months after the wedding by her 20-year-old husband, whom she now claims is serving time in the Michigan state reformatory, is the story of the wedded life of Beatrice Hosking Brandamour of Calumet, according to the papers in the divorce case, which were filed in the district court this afternoon by her attorneys, Alford & Hunt.

Beatrice Hosking was married in Calumet in January, 1906, to Adolph Brandamour. In her complaint she says that she is now 17 years of age, so that she was 15 years old at the time of her wedding. Her husband, she claims, is now 22 years of age, and was therefore 20 years old when married.

The young wife claims that her husband deserted her in March following the wedding, and in June 1906, was sentenced to the state reformatory, where he is still confined, according to her best knowledge.

She asks for a divorce, alimony and the restoration of her maiden name.

Washington, April 8.—Public and private services were held this afternoon over the body of the late Durham White Stevens, adviser to the Korean government, whose death occurred in San Francisco March 25, as the result of a shot fired at him by a Korean.

Ambassador Takahira, by direction of his government, and in deference to the wishes of Mr. Stevens' relatives, took charge of the public services which were held at St. John's Episcopal church, the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, the rector, officiating, after which the body was taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment. The honorary and active pall bearers were selected from well known public men in Washington, whom Mr. Stevens numbered among his friends and from the staff of the Japanese embassy. The honorary pall bearers included Secretary Root, Senator Kean, Representatives Burton and Longworth, Admirals Rodgers and Cowles, Gen. James H. Wilson, James R. Morse, John W. Foster, and Samuel S. Howland of New York. The active pall bearers included Gen. Joseph P. Sanger, Dr. Francis B. Loring, Woodbury Blair, Samuel Maddox, Dr. A. F. Magruder and members of the Japanese embassy staff. Wreaths were placed on the bier in the names of President Roosevelt; the emperor of Japan, the emperor of Korea, Prince Ito, Count Komura, Baron Takahira, the Korean government, the Japanese cabinet, the presidents of the upper and lower houses of the Japanese diet, friends in the Tokio club, Nippon club of New York and many others. A brief private service at the home of Mrs. Joseph I. Porter, Mr. Stevens' sister, was conducted by Rev. Dr. Kelley, of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

REBUTTAL PLEA IN M'KEE SUIT

Maitre Barboux Addresses Court in Behalf of Wife.

Paris, April 8.—The hearing of the McKee divorce suit was continued in this city today. The suit is brought by Mrs. McKee, formerly Mrs. Hugh Tevis, against A. Hart McKee. The first hearing took place March 4, and Mrs. McKee, through counsel, described alleged indignities to which she had been subjected by her husband. Mr. McKee retaliated, two weeks later, by bringing scandalous countercharges against his wife, through Maitre Laborl. Today Maitre Barboux, on behalf of Mrs. McKee, conducted the pleading in rebuttal. The Italian nobleman, with whom it is alleged Mrs. McKee had improper relations at a chateu at Varennes, was identified as the Marquis Guglioni. M. Barboux denied Mr. McKee's allegations, and offered to produce testimony from physicians to show that the wife's physical condition at the time specified was such as to disprove the charges. He declared that the real object of the defense was not to furnish information to the French court, but to besmirch Mrs. McKee's reputation in America, and secure the publication there of certain letters she had written to her husband.

TOO MUCH CELEBRATION RESULTS IN INJURY.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—Nels Knudson was badly hurt when he fell off the Northern Pacific bridge. He is believed to have been seriously injured internally. Knudson was returning from East Grand Forks where he had been assisting in the celebration of the Taylor victory. He was found several hours after the accident. His home is in Petersonburg, N. D.

CROPS HURT; WANTS $2,000.

Iowan Sues Railroad Company for Damages From Water.

Iowa Falls, Iowa, April 8.—A case from this county will come up for hearing in the federal court at Cedar Rapids this week, involving over $2,000 claimed for water damage to farm lands in this county. The action was first brought in this county and was transferred to the federal court. H. J. Benson of Union is the plaintiff, and the Iowa Central Railroad company the defendant. Benson alleges that during the years 1902 and 1903 the railroad company maintained a high embankment between his land and the Iowa river, and failed to provide proper drainage for the water from his land to the river. He further claims that during the heavy rains of those years the surface water collected on his land and damaged his crops to the amount of $2,170.

A DECISIVE VICTORY.

Chicago Elections Show Success of Municipal Voters' League.

Chicago, April 8.—The result of yesterday's aldermanic election shows a decisive victory for the Municipal Voters' league, a body which considers the general fitness of candidates and endorses or opposes them without regard to party. Of the thirty-five candidates who were elected, twenty-four were indorsed by the league, nine were opposed by it and two were neither opposed nor indorsed. The new city council will contain forty-four aldermen who are indorsed by the Municipal Voters league, sixteen opposed by it and ten who are neither opposed nor indorsed.

The complete returns show that the political complexion of the new city council will be Republicans43, Democrats 26, Independent Democrats 1.

BIG MILL RESUMES.

Neil's Plant at Sauk Rapids Gives Many Men Employment.

Sauk Rapids, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The J. Neil's mill here began operation today after a shutdown of four months. The mill is now going in full blast and will probably make an uninterrupted run until the end of the season. Seventy-five men were put to work. For the present the mill will only run days. Later on a night shift will be put to work and the sawmill will run twenty-four hours a day.

Judge M. A. Spooner returned Monday evening from Minneapolis and spent the day in the city making final arrangements before leaving for his new field of practice at Spokane. He left last evening for Port Frances and from there will go west over the Canadian Northern.

SETTLERS WERE STUNG

Claim That They Were Victimized by Land Locators.

Filed on Claims Which Proved to be Worthless.

A letter was received today by the officials of the United States land office here, which is a good illustration of the methods of timber locators, who induce people to file on claims under the timber and stone act by fraudulent representations. Complaints of the kind are numerous and the department has for some time been seeking methods of preventing the operations.

The letter is from Park Rapids, Minn., and sets forth that in July last year, a firm of locators there took a party of twelve people from Park Rapids to locate them in Towns 68-17 and 67-17, where they said they had estimates of valuable claims. They represented the letter claims, that about three years previously they had worked for a lumber company in that district and had located the claims and secured estimates. They said they had secured new estimates more recently and found the original estimates correct.

Taking the statements of the locators for granted, the letter says, the people entered into an agreement with them, filing on the claims. In February of this year, a reputable estimator was sent to the claims and he found that they contained less than 20 per cent of the amount of timber represented by the locators and in two cases no timber whatever of the kind represented. The revelations, the writer of the letter claims, clearly show fraud.

The case is reported to the department in order that steps may be taken for the people to save their rights. The claims aren't worth proceeding with, it is claimed, and certainly not worth the loss of rights which taking them up entails. The people who filed are poor and wish to hold their rights, while proceeding with the claims would result in financial loss also.

The case is only one of many similar being brought to the attention of the land office officials. Fake locators and estimators are said to be operating extensively in Northern Minnesota and every week people call at the land office requesting the right to hold their rights under the timber and stone act, which they threw away in deals of this kind. If the evidences of fraud are strong enough, the department sometimes restores the rights by the surrender of the claims, without reimbursement for cutlays made prior to the discovery of the fraud.

ASQUITH NAMED PRIME MINISTER

Appointed by King Edward After Interview at Biarritz.

London, April 8.—The vacancy in the office of prime minister of Great Britain, caused by the resignation, last Sunday, of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman on account of ill health, was filled this morning, at Biarritz, France, during the audience there between King Edward and Herbert Asquith, who had been summoned from London. Mr. Asquith first tendered to his majesty his resignation as chancellor of the exchequer, and immediately thereafter he kissed the hand of the king on his appointment to the post of prime minister and first lord of the treasury.

It is officially announced that King Edward will leave Biarritz April 15, in order to hold a privy council in London on the 16th. The new ministers probably will have their first audience of the king on this occasion, as it is expected that Mr. Asquith was able to submit a list of his main appointments to his majesty during the audience of this morning. Mr. Asquith is expected in London tomorrow, when he will complete his ministry.

AFRAID OF BURGLARS.

Witnesses of Bank Robbery Suffer From Cold Feet.

Dundee, Minn., April 8.—The State bank here was robbed Monday night of $1,200. The building was badly wrecked by dynamite. The robbers escaped on a hand car. Three men in the hotel opposite the bank saw the robbers at work, but were afraid to give the warning.

GREAT SCANDAL IN FRENCH COMMISSARY.

Paris, April 8.—It is believed that a great scandal in the commissary department of the French army has been discovered and developments are awaited with keen interest. It was learned recently that the rations sent to some of the garrisons on the eastern frontier were unfit for consumption. Minister of War Picquart at once issued orders by telegraph that the supplies of food delivered by certain contractors be seized at every garrison and sent to Paris for microscopic examination. That much of this food was unclean and unfit to eat already has been established and the investigation is being continued.

HORSE THIEF CAPTURED.

Lethbridge, N. W. T., April 8.—Sergeant Egan of the mounted police yesterday captured Fred Wheatley at Connor's ranch, near St. Mary's. Wheatley, it is alleged, is a noted Oregon horse thief, and escaped from custody last fall while being taken to trial and jumped from a car window, though handcuffed. He admits he is the man wanted.

SUCCESSFUL WOMAN REFUSED COMMISSION.

Montgomery, Mo., Apri 8.—Mrs. Gertrude Barney, who was yesterday elected city collector as the choice of the Republicans and temperance people was refused a commission by the city council today, because she is a woman and therefore ineligible. Another election will likely be held.

Mrs. Barney's husband was killed by a train recently and she was given the nomination out of sympathy and in the hope that the question of eligibility would not be considered.

SERIOUS RIOTING OCCURS IN BRAZIL.

Rio de Janeiro, April 8.—Serious rioting broke out yesterday in the city of Campos and troops were sent in today to restore order. It seems that the Leopoldina railroad has maintained exorbitant rates on freight in and out of Campos. This arosued the indignation of the people, and last evening they descended upon the railroad property and set fire to the two stations, thirty cars and several warehouses. When this had been accomplished they advanced to the railroad bridge over the Parahiba river, which they completely destroyed.

D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota society of the Sons of the Revolution will hold its annual session in Fargo, April 23, to elect officers for the ensuing year and to enjoy the annual banquet. MARVELOUS NEW INVENTIONS

SHOE MACHINERY THAT WILL REVIVE A LOST ART

Shoe Repairing to Be Elevated to a Place Among the Modern Industries.

N. P. TURNBLADH.

The originator of "Shoe Works" and "While You Wait" shoe repairing, in Duluth, is about to install several thousand dollars' worth of the latest Goodyear machinery which will break all records for speed and finish in shoe repairing. It will take less than ten minutes to do the entire job of half soling a pair of shoes, sewing them on better than any first class shoemaker could do if he spent half a day at it.

About four years ago Mr. N. P. Turnbladh established a shoe repair shop here equipped with genuine Goodyear Welt machinery, of which use he secured the sole right for Duluth for a period of seventeen years. The new shop was named "Shoe Works" to distinguish it from the old method cobbler shops.

Speaking of the number of shops which now parade as "Shoe Works" the Wizard Shoemaker jocularly remarked that the cobblers had changed much in four years. Said he:

"They used to denounce the Gopher Shoe Works most severely, trying their best to create prejudice against the use of machinery. Today some of these so-called 'Shoe Works' are actually using a machine of some kind, while others simply use the name for some reasons of their own."

Mr. Turnbladh began work on the shoe bench at the age of 12 and has held positions as buyer and manager for some of the largest retail shoe houses in the Northwest previous to coming here.

He knew the making of shoes. He knew the wearing qualities of the different tannage of leather, and he proved that work done by the aid of the Goodyear Welt machinery was superior to hand work—being neater, more durable, and on account of the great time saving, less expensive.

People ceased throwing away half worn out shoes and this modern shoe repairing shop became a source of economy to many.

It was not long until the Gopher Shoe Works were forced for lack of room to start shop "No. 2," on Fourth avenue west.

Both shops are conveniently located, the one of First avenue west being right in the heart of the shopping district, and they are doing the biggest share of the shoe repairing in the city.

NOT ONLY INDIGESTION BUT ALL STOMACH MISERY

Read Why Diapepsin Relieves the Worst Case of Indigestion and Sour, Gassy Stomach in Five Minutes.

Miserable indeed is the man or woman whose digestive system is unstrung—who goes to the table and cannot eat, or what little is eaten seems to fill them and lays like a lump of lead in the stomach, refusing to digest.

If you, dear reader, suffer this way, and will put on your wraps now and get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, and eat one 22-grain Triangule after your next meal, you would appreciate, five minutes after, how long you suffered unnecessarily.

There will be no more indigestion that day—No lead in the stomach—No sour risings or Belching of Gas, no Heartburn, Flatulency or Eructations of undigested food and acid or feeling of Nausea, Fullness, Headache or other symptoms of a weakened Stomach.

Stomach trouble and Indigestion vanish like snow before the blazing sun by the use of these Triangules, which are harmless and taste like candy, though they will digest 3,000 grains of food the same as a strong, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works your Stomach rests—gets itself in order. Diapepsin purifies and sweetens a sour stomach and freshens the intestines without the use of Laxatives, and what is more, it increases the gastric juices. This is what your Stomach is begging for—more and better digestive juices. This is what makes you hungry and want to eat, and you can rest assured what you then eat will be taken care of properly and not left in the stomach to ferment and turn to gas and acid, and poison the breath with nauseous odors.

You ought to have Diapepsin about the house always. Should one of your family eat something which does not agree with them, or for a Sour Stomach or Excessive Gas, one triangule will always give immediate relief.

FOR BRIDE OF EASTER

Not a Single Hint of Severity Spoils Her Scheme.

Can be Befrilled and Ribboned and Lace Covered.

Wherever the sun shines the Easter bride is making ready for the event of her life and praying for fair weather. Easter weddings are always church weddings and, coming at this season, the bride is the happy creature who can stock a wardrobe with filmy frocks, thin summery dresses, flower hats and the cheeriest of light colors in tailored costumes as well as in reception gowns and bridal robes.

Easter brides of 1908 are in a fortunate time for trimmed and graceful things to wear. Not a single hint of severity spoils their scheme; women dare be as much befrilled and ribboned and covered with lace and dainty belongings as the heart desires, if one is to take for granted all that the shops are showing for bridal occasions and ceremonials that come before and after.

Peep at Spring Bridal Robe.

A peep at a bridal robe lifted from its long white box showed an empire gown of soft, satiny, ivory white Messaline silk draped with a priceless veil of Venetian point. While all brides cannot have this costume, the prophets insist that the princess robe and the trained empire falling in a long graceful train with little if any trimming is to be the model for all brides.

White liberty satin is generally preferred in all quarters to heavier varieties of silk. It is so wonderfully soft and supple, falling into graceful folds, and bears the simplest making. An enveloping veil of tulle made plentifully full not only veils the bride but trims the gown.

Chemisettes of lace, point d'esprit, filet or chiffon and long mitten sleeves of the same materials are graceful features, and berthas, bretelles and finishing ties of net embroidered with gold or silver thread are sent with important costumes of this kind from the workrooms of the best dressmakers.

Muslin for Very Young Brides.

Very young brides are privileged to wear muslin dresses or of white thin materials much less expensive and more practical than the satin robe. Simplicity and purity are the two leading motifs in the youthful robe, while a bride well along in the twenties may aspire to richer and more queenly attire, and even to pearls for her progress to the altar.

Bridesmaids may wear chiffon, crepe or crepe de chine and large white hats. Their attire may be as coquettish and as girlish as you choose. A motion of the hour decides that bridesmaids' frocks may be short and show the vamp of the white shoes with the shapes of the flowing tie bows of white and the cunning heels.

White gloves are necessities for both brides and attendants. The bride carries the traditional white prayer book or bouquet. The flowers must be white or pale tinted and white roses, lilacs or sweet peas or a shower of the lilies of the valley are sought for as the best taste.

May Indulge in a Novelty.

The bridesmaids, however, may indulge in a novelty and directoire sticks add to their picturesqueness. These are tall, white, enameled canes and at the top are bunches of fragrant blossoms tied with graceful bows and long white ends of satin ribbon. When daisy time is at hand or lilacs in full bloom, chains of pretty posies are looped from one maid to another and the bridal party inclose the pair in a floral ring at the altar.

The traveling or going away suit should be of light-colored cloth and the hat as light and bridelike as possible, if one is to conform to the dictates of present fashion. In the wardrobe is another tailored suit of shantung and yet one more of white mohair or serge.

A reception toilet of light cloth, several little demi-costumes of silk voiles and foulards, a lounging robe, and wash frocks for morning wear and the bride will have her trunk full of graceful ideas to suit any occasion. With all of these go special shoes, hats and gloves. The story of dainty lingerie is told elsewhere.

Under the ordinary circumstances of fortune the Easter bride can start on the spring and summer honeymoon provided with a traveling toque ,a sailor for golf and the parks, a dressy church hat and a best chapeau for evening or fine braid plume or flower trimmed of that satisfying kind that may be worn summer and winter—as in present years the uncovered hair is often seen going to and from evening events.

What Dress Says of This.

An authoritative fashion journal called Dress says of this:

"The little bride can't have too many hats, for the most expensive frock can be spoiled by an inappropriate chapeau. There is a fascinating new straw, or fancy chip, as it is called, which fashioned into turbans and toques very much on the same lines as the fur confections.

"A cluster of flowers or a feather pompon, from which spring a plume or one of the many wavy ornamentations, lends a smart finish. It would be hard to imagine a more bewitching frame to a winsome face than the many flowered toques which are compounded from every blossom known and unknown in the garden.

"An enchancing bit of color was lent by one of those toques of reddish pink geraniums cought at the side by a feather pompon of soft woodland brown.

"For those who demand the picturesque there are enchanting leghorns almost hidden under their bank of flowers of mamoth proportions. In some cases it looks as if the whole flower garden had been transplanted, and the riot of color would cause even nature to blush at the extravagance.

"In addition there are the floppy Neapolitans with soft ribbon rosettes on a generous scale, or straws with jaunty upturned brims topped with gorgeous ostrich plumes and shaded tips. The color artists have indeed concocted for us the most delectable shades, which are always seen at their best in millinery.

"There are plenty of shades of blue, including the porcelain, nattier and

YOUNG DEFIES COMBINE

Jake. Young has to fight his battles alone."

You do me a great injustice, Mr. Editor, when you say that because I have no corporate support, I have been fighting my battles alone, and you also do me an injustice by saying that I am going to withdraw from the fight through fear of the opposition of these interests.

> I have had to fight those interests and many others for the last three years in court, trying to uphold the rights of the people, and I am not afraid to fight them again in a Republican convention. Instead of the fight for the gubernatorial nomination being over, it has only just begun.

The fact that the liquor and corporate interests are opposing my candidacy has been known to me and to everyone in the capitol for some time. As attorney general I have made the saloons obey the law as to closing at night and on Sunday. I have diligently prosecuted the timber trespassers and have recovered many judgments against them, recently one in the supreme court against Tom Shevlin's company for over $16,000. James J. Hill is reported to have said recently, in a speech in Minneapolis, that I had injured the state by interfering with his effort to inflate his stocks. The opposition, therefore, of those interests and of the group of politicians and newspapers that are habitually controlled by them, was to be expected. It is known that they have all united in this campaign, and that Bob Dunn, the patron and favorite of Tom Shevlin and the timber "interests," has been appointed their general agent to take charge of the campaign against me. He has openly declared that he was going to "skin" me.

> But, Mr. Editor, I beg to advise you that Bob Dunn, Dar Reese and Tom Shevlin do not constitute the Republican party, and it is not necessary to secure their favor before becoming a candidate for governor.

The Republican party is on the square. It stands for the regulation of the liquor traffic, the regulation of railroads and the preservation of the timber and other property of the state. The Republican party approves of the crusade against lawlessness which I have conducted, and I do not believe it is, in this campaign, going to "skin" me in order to please the interests that are opposed to law enforcement.

The "band wagon" in the Republican party is controlled by the people and not by the "interests." Bob Dunn and his assortment of "interests" are not going to be allowed to take possession of the party machinery, or dictate its policies or candidates; nor is Dar Reese going to be able to put the liquor interests in the Republican saddle.

I am a candidate for the Republican nomination, and am going to present my candidacy to the convention when it meets. I am positively not going to withdraw, because the interests have agreed to prevent my nomination. The governorship is not going to be put up at auction and sold to the highest corporate bidder. The Republicans are not going to tolerate corporate or liquor interference in their convention, but are going to make the nominations solely with a view to promoting the cause of good government. Yours truly,

E. T. YOUNG.

LINGERIE OF SPRING

Dainty Garments Are Finest Reflection of a Feminine Nature.

Demand Greater Than Workrooms and Needlewomen can Supply.

Refined tastes creep out in the stores of dainty underwear which lovely women accumulate for their special delight. Exquisitely made garments of this order, fresh and crisp, fragrant with sachets of violet and lavender, are the finest reflection of a feminine nature.

It takes one's breath away to enter the lingerie precincts from the hurly burly and dust of the shopping streets and to realize that these snowy garments are actually designated for everyday wear and that the demand is greater than the workrooms and needlewoman can supply.

Gossamer fabrics and yards on yards of lace tell the tale of spring lingerie of the recent type. The tailored fad, as has been told before, marks the cut of chemise, corset covers, divided skirts, and above all the combination two-piece and three-piece suits. They are perfectly curved to the figure, sloping over the hips without the tiniest wrinkle.

Petticoats Are More Captivating.

On hte other hand, while night robes are frilly and dainty and well fitting, they do not seek the exact fit of underwear. Petticoats are more captivating, with yards of ruffles and lace greater than ever before.

The triad combination garment is most ingenious and made for wear under the snugly fitting costume of princess origin. Nainsook, the French lawns and silks are utilized. The trimming resources are exhausted in the frills of the umbrella drawers and the petticoat.

Hand embroidery usually adorns the upper edge of the corset cover and the narrow band sleeves. In this hand work the buyers may look for expense, but my dainty lady cannot resist and the combination garments, faultlessly seamed, delicate as a cobweb, have become a feature of the toilet of every well-dressed woman who is rather glad to get rid of the clumsy, old-style underwear.

Petticoat a Story in Itself.

Gossip for a book could be repeated about the new petticoats. Silk skirts are a world unto themselves, rich and gorgeous. The white petticoat is another marvel.

The fit of the upper part is most important, the widths are gored into the waist band, which is almost nothing, and not a wrinkle exists to be reflected on the outer fit of a dress. Wide flounces over an under flounce of lawn are hung from the top. When one has many skirts it is possible to have each complete, but that person who has a limited allowance has been known to have adjustable flounces.

Valenciennes lace holds its own in its many varieties of round and square mesh and the good old-fashioned kind. French val and German val, Normandy and other names are the titles used to distinguish it. Hand made flounces with embroidery and insertion naturally are the ones sought for. They grow wider and more and more circular from the upper edge to where their finishing laces fall over the stand-out ruffle of the underskirt.

Corset Cover Must "Fit."

Perfection of fit is asked for in the corset cover. If any garment is tailored this one is. As in night dresses, the chief trimming is zigzags of lace inserted, motifs and medallions, and the fashion magazines give so many designs that the home maker is never at a loss what to do next. The inevitable hand needlework is truly chic. Just a touch of its refined work along the edges and the corset cover is finished.

Returning to the charming combination suits, three or two-piece, the strong point of the spring has been the lifting of the waist line to suit the waist line of the sheath frocks.

The waist line at the back is at least two inches higher. Night dresses that glory in lace sleeves and pretty pointed necks are cut with the new back and finely shaped seams. All these garments come ready to wear.

French Underwear Is Desired.

French underwear has its own select clientele. Few can resist it. The rage for perfectly fitting garments has crept into the convents and the French underwear is as neatly tailored as the best hand made American work done in the special shops.

Formerly these neat garments could only be obtained in the heavier cottons and linens. Now the counters are heaped with exquisite selections in fine nainsook, beautifully embroidered. The little vine is a favorite, and the English eyelet work on a delicate scale also appears.

The spray and dot design decorates the choicest three-piece sets, in which the gown is made with a short round yoke and short puffed sleeves. In the made-to-order sets many monograms are embroidered just beneath the left shoulder, or when there is a sleeve, as in the gown, then on the flat portion of the sleeve midway between the shoulder and the elbow.

Sleeveless Effect in Night Robes.

Night robes are showing some sleeveless effects. The short sleeves, slashed open to the shoulder and laced with ribbon in the fine embroidery holes, are very graceful. These are frequently ruffled with lace and with ruffles made of alternate strips of fine lawn and insertion edged with lace. A frill of this order finishes the hem to give a billowy effect.

Knit underwear has introduced fresh ideas and improvements in meshes. Several varieties of linen ribbed lace net and cotton ribbed net have been shaped into the union suits, with full umbrella drawers and skirts, exceedingly convenient to travelers and to those situated in places where laundering is difficult.

Too much cannot be said of the woven underwear of this character, which is trimmed simply or elaborately, as desired, with full broad ruffles about the knees.

Odd-Piece Suits Driven Out.

Silk, lisle thread and fine mercerized cotton underwear in union suits have driven out the odd-piece things. The numerousness of shapes is dazzling. With sleeves and without, long and short, high neck and low, only a trunk and possibly a full figure. The thread has been shrunken and the garment shrinks no more.

The silks come in vastly pretty colors, with nice lace edges to finish and the ruffles which are sought for on umbrella pantalettes of union suits. The fit being the great question of the hour, it has become the main item of the union-suit makers.

Just a word about hose supporters and garters. The artistic corset usually has its own suspenders. For the few who like fancy ones come those much trimmed with lace, ribbon and gold buckles. The tradition of the garter-keeps it alive.

LEATHER IN LIGHT COLORS

Beauty and Utility Are Combined in Bags and Belts.

Leather things are among the stand-bys and you cannot win them from their usefulness. Leather belts will continue to be worn, but the leather hand bag does more than that, and rising from a necessity, has become a welcome companion for looks as well as for use. To start with, leathers must match the costume in color, and this is achieved in the fine moroccos and pretty things.

Beauty bags come out in fine kids, with real jade rings to slip over the arms. When jade is not looked for etched gold, silver, or nickel or copper. Within the bags, which are not square, but shaped at the sides, are all the little things that beauty likes—the powder puff, mirror, rouge, perfume and manicure articles.

Light-colored leathers are used in the dressy bags. Among them is bleached alligator, reports the New York Sun. A small flat bag of cream white alligator, gold-mounted and lined with a color, is now looked upon as a staple article instead of a rarity.

These and glazed alligator bags in all sorts of colors, seldom larger than 7 by 6 inches, are set off in some instances by a narrow gilt or silver molding finishing the four edges. This molding is sometimes plain; again it is of small raised knobs of flat segments of gilt decorated with colors. A glazed green alligator bag of this description had a top mounting of French gilt decorated with raised application of green and gold and pink in rose design, and a quarter-inch band of the same went all around the edges of the bag.

Sea lion is a leather used in some of the very dressy cream-colored bags, and its cost is about the same as alligator. As has been said, some of the smartest bags of the season are of dark red English morocco. The best and most expensive are flat and edged with a narrow silver beading. Others have a gold rim and a wide top mounting of gold. Heliotrope, various shades of dark blue, an endless number of greens, browns, reds, etc., are all to be had in English morocco.

Pin seal black bags larger in size than the average and intended more particularly for shopping are mounted with a large gold ring which takes the place of a strap handle and can be slipped over the hand. A small gilt clasp finishes the outside flap. The interior is lined with gorgeous red silk and has several compartments, a small mirror, powder puff and smelling salts. Fewer watches are included in the new mountings than were used a year ago.

TRIM FORM AS REQUISITE.

Classic Shapeliness of Figure Made Necessary by New Skirt.

The degree of tightness desired in the fashionable clinging skirt may be attained successfully by but few women, for classic perfection from bust to knee was never more necessary than now, when the new skirt, which is empire as to its short waist line, but departs from the empire mode in closeness and tightness below, permits of no figure deformed by the accumulation of too, solid flesh. No corsets are worn, and no petticoats, merely a tight-fitting, soft silk princess petticoat, with deep, detachable flounce, and even this perfect-fitting petticoat is dispensed with for evening wear.

JUNIORS WILL ACT.

Six Members of the Class Will Give a Playlet.

Six members of the junior class at the Central high school will give a one-act comedy, "Which is Which," some time this week, as a part of their work in English. The plot concerns the love affairs of a poor artist. Two girls, one rich and the other poor, exchange names and stations for an interval brief enough for the artist to fall in love with the supposedly poor one. A rich uncle arrives and straightens the story out before the final curtain. Manus McFadden, John Quinn, Curtis Pillsbury, Virginia Frick, Florence Boden and Bernice Phelps are in the cast.

At a meeting of the senior class yesterday, Andrew Meldahl was elected class orator. The sophomores, at a meeting they held, decided to give class letters to all the members of the team and determined upon Friday, April 24, as a time for their class spread.

Pure Blood

Is certain if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This great medicine cures those eruptions, pimples and boils that appear at all seasons; cures scrofula sores, salt rheum or eczema; adapts itself equally well to, and also cures, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles; cures rheumatism and catarrh; cures nervous troubles, debility and that tired feeling.

Mrs. C. K. Tyler, Burlington, Vt., says: "The cares of a large farm, so much to do and so little health to do it with, caused almost a complete breakdown; blood poor and thin; no strength, little sleep. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave appetite, natural sleep, perfect health, strength to do all my work."

Sarsatabs—For those who prefer medicine in tablet form, Hood's Sarsaparilla is now put up in chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs, as well as in the usual liquid form. Sarsatabs have identically the same curative properties as the liquid form, besides accuracy of dose, convenience, economy,—no loss by evaporation, breakage, or leakage. WRENSHALL MEN STRIKE

Bread Liners Take Their Jobs at Brick Yards.

Twenty-Three Men Are Secured in Half an Hour.

It took James Walsh, of the free employment bureau, just twenty-five minutes yesterday afternoon to fill an order for twenty-three men for work in the brick yards at Wrenshall, Minn., where the old hands have refused to continue work, because of a reduction in wages. All the men secured, with the exception of three, were from the bread line, and they seemed willing and anxious to become employed.

Mr. Walsh received the order in the afternoon about 3 o'clock, and half an hour later he had twice as many men clamoring for jobs. Most of those employed said they had worked in brick yards before. The man who came to Duluth with the order explained that the work would be hard, and that no one except strong men with an appetite for work need apply. The whole crew was sent to Wrenshall last evening, and will begin work today.

It is possible that there will be some trouble before the end of the week between the old hands and the new. The former walked out in a body when their wages were reduced. Most of them are residents of Wrenshall, and have their homes and families there. The little town, located about twenty miles west of Duluth on the Northern Pacific, is said to be very much wrought up over the arrival of "bread liners" to take the jobs vacated by residents of the town, and there may be a demonstration. There isn't much to Wrenshall besides the brick yards.

WILL CHARGE COWARDICE

Democrats to Claim Republicans Evaded Campaign Publicity Bill.

Washington, April 8.—Following the failure yesterday of the Democratic members of the house committee on election of the president, vice president and representatives in congress to force action by that committee on the bill introduced by Mr. McCall, of Massachusetts, (Rep.) to compell the publication of campaign contributions, high words were passed, the committee meeting broke up and an organized movement is now on foot on the Democratic side of of the house openly to charge the Republicans with "cowardice in systematically and persistently refusing to go on record as either favoring or opposing the campaign publicity bill."

The five democratic members of the committee, Messrs. Rucker, of Missouri; Gillespie, of Texas; Lassiter, of Virginian; Hardwick, of Georgia and Hackett, of North Carolina, after the meeting made public a signed statement, with the approval of the minority leader, Mr. Williams, in substance as follows:

That the meeting of the committee was convened at the call of the chairman, Mr. Gaines, of West Virginia; that there were present also, Mr. Burke of Pennsylvania and Mr. Dickema of Michigan, (Rep.), and the five Democratic members, these eight constituting a quorum; that the minority members insisted on taking up the McCall bill and acting on it; that Chairman Gaines thereupon whispered to Mr. Burke and Mr. Diekema, his Republican colleagues, and they at once left the room; that the chairman then declared no quorum present and adjourned the meeting. One of the Democratic members protested against this action as "indecent."

Gaines Replies.

Chairman Gaines of the majority, issued the following statement in reply: "The McCall bill is in reality the Perry Belmont bill. Those persons who demand that members of congress should support without effort to consider its real merits, anything which even pretends to be in the nature of reform, may condemn the Republican majority for being unwilling to report the bill without any attempt to perfect it. Thoughtful persons, I respectfully submit, who will examine the bill will agree with the majority. This bill undertakes to compell publicity of campaign contributions made to a political committee, 'which shall in two or more states influence the result or attempt to influence the result of an election at which representatives in congress are to be elected.' The slightest possible consideration will show that the result of this will be not to prevent and not to make public any campaign contributions, but to simply divert such contributions from national committees to smaller committees, from those having the greatest publicity to those having the least publicity. Sounding its publicity and purity, it would, as a matter of fact, militate against both objects. It would make public no contributions, except as some rich man might contribute to one party or the other for the purpose of giving himself standing in that party.

HOMELESS WANDERERS.

Frank Foster and Brother David Lodge at Police Station.

Homeless wanderers on the face of the earth, Frank Foster and his brother David applied for lodgings at the police station last night. Frank is 54 years old, and his brother is 59. They have been together since childhood.

The two men were born at Athens, Ohio, and when but small boys lost their parents. They became dissatisfied with their surroundings, and together started out to see the world. They have been together ever since, wandering about wherever they were most likely to find work. In the summer they have been employed on farms, and in the woods in the winter. They worked for a time in the woods this season, but did not earn enough money to carry them through unth summer.

ON HIS DOCTOR'S ADVICE

MR. JONATHAN D. BOOTHMAN.

Mr. Jonathan D. Boothman, of Providence, R. I., who is past 70 years of age was advised by Dr. O'Connor, of Lawrence, Mass., several years ago to use DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY to prevent sickness and keep him vigorous and healthful.

"A great many years ago I was advised by Dr. O'Conor of Lawrence, Mass., to use your Whiskey as a medicine to build up my system, and I have used it ever since, and had it not done the service required I would have found it out long ago. Of course I am no youth, but enjoy my three score and ten, and expect to continue to enjoy life with the assistance of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I was married 50 years on the 2nd of December, 1906." Jonathan D. Boothman, 226 Camp Stret, Providence, R. I.

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system.

It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. FAMILY CONFERENCE ON DUKE'S MARRIAGE.

Rome, April 7.—The Duke Aosta arrived here today and had breakfast with King Victor Emmanuel, the duke of the Abruzzi and the count or Turin, after which a family conference was held relative to arranging a marriage engagement between the duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins of West Virginia.

Although nothing official is known it is reported that the engagement has been confirmed, and that it is the intention of the duke of the Abruzzi to return to the United States shortly. It is also asserted that the engagement will not be officially announced, such announcement affecting members of the royal family being unusual.

The duke will leave tonight for Spezia to resume command of the battleship Regina Elena.

LATITUDE IS WIDER

In Styles for Men and Great Selection in Colors.

Stripes Lead, But Plain Mixed Materials Will be Modish.

The well-dressed man will have this spring greater opportunity of exercising his taste than in many seasons, for not only in patterns but in range of color is there a greater selection. While the popular taste in patterns inclines to stripes, the plain mixed materials will be modish.

For the sack suit, which will be the popular business and outing suit, the Scotch cheviots are most in favor, although many soft, unfinished worsteds and serges will be worn. For this suit the man of conservative taste may select a gray mixture or a dull blue, with stripes shading to purple or brown.

For the livelier taste there is an infinite variety—palest smoke grays with contrasting stripes of green or purple, olive tans, with or without stripes, olive greens, greenish grays and deep purplish mixtures, with blue and green threads.

Changes in the Sack Suit.

The most noticeable change in the sack suit is that it will be cut away rather more in front and that the shoulders will be narrow in order to give an athletic swing to the figure. The flare marking last season's style is absolutely obsolete. The coat should be full enough about the shoulders in the back to allow easy action, but must be close at the hips.

In length the coats are slightly shorter, being about thirty-one inches for the average man and may have a center vent; this vent is particularly affected by slender men. The lapels are rather narrower and should roll to the second button; they are shorter than in the winter coats. The sleeves are to be tighter and shaped.

The cuffs this season offer opportunity of variety, but the well-dressed man will choose a plain cuff with a two-button vent. The three-button sack coat will be in best form, and the seams may be creased.

Business Vest May Be Fancy

The vest to be worn with the business suit may be fancy, but one of goods similar to the suit is preferable.

The peg top is no longer in favor and the trousers this spring are full from the knee down, a good proportion being twenty inches at the knee and eighteen at the bottom. Cuffs are not to be worn on trousers

Double-breasted coats are being worn again. They are narrower in the lapels and the buttons down the front should be set about four inches apart.

For the portly man the coat should be cut away more in front than for others and he may choose any one of the quiet stripes.

The morning coat will be in good taste for the business man. This is similar to the old cutaway or English walking suit, but should have no outside pockets. It is cut with a culcular skirt which is rather pointed. Oxfords, blacks and dark grays are best adapted to these coats. Those made of rough materials may be flat bradded. The waistcoat should be of similar material.

For the extremely negligee suit any of the materials for sack suits may be chosen or some of the novelties, such as Porral, which is a mohair and extremely cool. Flannel trousers should be like the coat; the combination of blue coat and odd trousers so long characteristic of the summer man is no longer permissible. These outing suits are made without lining except across the shoulders and they have either the patch or bellows pocket.

Riding breeches are little changed, but the riding coats a re decidedly military in cect, being made to button to the chin.

The double-breasted frock, or Prince Albert, must be of black or dark gray, preferably of the former. In length it should reach the bended knee. The coat is caught with two buttons and the lapels covered with silk to the edge.

Striped worsted trousers are worn with this coat, and the waistcoat may be fancy or of similar material.

Evening Clothes Show No Change.

The dinner coats—they are no longer spoken of as Tuxedos—are not changed. The peak collar is the best and should be lined to the edge with silk. These coats are caught with one button. Evening clothes are the same as heretofore.

Vests for the dinner coat may be of any light shade. Pearl and ecru are particularly choice. These should be of silk or pique, either fancy or plain, and the buttons may be pearl or some stone to match the color.

The vests for evening cloths should be of white silk, with pearl or gold buttons. These vests are cut with a "V" opening, and are caught with three or four buttons.

For some time the taste for delicate colors in overcoats has been struggling to overcome the established favor for the darker grays and black, and this spring the lighter tones seem assured of popular taste. Nothing will be too light for the spring overcoat and the colors in vogue will be silver or pearl grays tans and browns, in both figured and plain fabrics. The diamond weave is the latest novelty for overcoats, but the herringbone and stripes will also be excellent choice.

The coat most worn will be a half box. This garment, while fitting snug about the shoulders, will hang loose in the back and be close at the lower button in front. The proper length will be an inch below the knee.

The collar should be of velvet, the lapels self-faced and the cuffs may be piped with velvet similar to the collar if so desired.

SHIP'S CREW IN VAUDEVILLE

Men of Battleship Minnesota Give Big Social Function.

Magdalena Bay, Mex., via San Diego, Cal., April 7.—The vaudeville performance given by the crew of the battleship Minnesota last night was the first social function. The show, which has been weeks in preparation under the direction of Capt. S. K. Evans, and which was arranged and executed with great detail, was produced on a stage erected on the forecastle of the Minnesota. It lasted from 8 to 11 o'clock and was attended by nearly 1,000 officers and men of the fleet. The whole forward part of the superstructure was crowded.

The stage was of regulation size with canvas roof, front and back curtains, wings, screens, etc., with original and fantastic scenic effects. The drop curtain was formed by two American flags and the back curtain pictured the forecastle of a ship with a background of blue sea.

The paintings on the prosconium and wings were of fabled sea monsters in vivid hues. A perfectly regular arranged row of electric footlights was in front, and a ship's searchlight mounted on the lower top of the foremast supplied a brilliant spotlight. A piano supplanted the conventional orchestra.

King Neptune wearing gaudy robes and crown and carrying the traditional trident, presided over the ceremony surrounded by a court of fantastically decorated sailors in male and female apparel. The program consisted of monologues, solos, duets, quartet singing, Spanish and clog dancing, burlesque and comedy skits, glee club and other numbers. Much talent was shown in the various features. The chorus was ludicrous and an impersonation of a Spanish dancer was very clever. A colored quartet was also a feature.

After the performance all visitors were entertained at supper.

EGGS WERE SPOILED.

Chicks That Carnegie Hoped to Own, Will Not Materialize.

New York, April 8.—Andrew Carnegie's valet, G. Irving, a passenger on the arriving Cunarder Lucania, brought with him a set of black Minorca eggs from Scotland, it evidently being the hope of the ironmaster to hatch a fine breed of hens here.

Customs Inspector Roland Story looked over Irving's effects. Story is quite a poultry fancier, with a known antipathy to imported stock, and when he took a good look at the eggs a pleased expression came into his face, for his trained eye quickly perceived that the Lucania's rough passage had shaken them into a state unfit for hatching. So eighteen Minorca chicks, which might have strutted on a Carnegie farm, won't make their debut.

PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER

To be Made Honorary Member of the Locomotive Engineers.

New York, April 8.—An Atlanta dispatch to the Times says:

Ethel Roosevelt, who handled the throttle of one of the mogul locomotives of the West Point line for two hours, and at times sent the engine along at a seventy-mile-an-hour clip, is to be elected an honorary member of the local lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, if Engineer John Still can accomplish it.

Still, who gave up his engine to the White House girl, is enthusiastic over her exploit. He took up the matter with his brother engineers and found them enthusiastic also.

"I think we will elect Miss Ethel at the next meeting," said Still. "She deserves it, for the way she handled that engine. She is as brave as they are made, and her nerves seem to be made of steel. If she is not a chip off the old block I'm a Dutchman. Afraid, why, she wasn't any more afraid than I was—and I've been on the road a good many years now. Why, she even had the locomotive slang all right," said Still.

"Soon after she took the throttle I said: 'Let her rip,' and 'let it rip it is,' was her response, and notch by notch the throttle was opened wider till the cab began to rock and sway like a small boat in a choppy sea.

"We've making more than sixty," I said to her, and the girl laughed and said to me: 'That's going some, but not fast enough,' and she actually pulled the throttle a bit wider. She was as cool as you please all the time. She even managed to ask while we were racing along how many children I had. She is a chip off the old block, ah right."

COMPANY FAILS.

Rio de Janeiro, April 7.—Announcement was made today of the failure of the General Insurance company (Compagnie Generale d'Assurances). It is reported also that the failure of another large company is imminent.

NO LIGHTS,

But Much Music and Laughter at Blind Couple's Reception.

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—A reception without lights—and not one of the forty guests or the host and hostess a bit perturbed by the fact—was one of the features of St. Louis social affairs last week. There was music. And there were beer and wine and there were songs and instrumental music and a lot of laughing and talking and story telling and cracking of jokes, and all the North American company gets out of it is one night's bill for cooking gas for a house in the 4200 block on Cook avenue.

Nobody at the reception could see a wink, but they can't see any time, so the absence of Chinese lanterns and chandeliers was not noticed, except by the neighbors, who could hear, but could not peep.

The occasion was the first anniversary of the wedding of Charles Reavey and the birthday of his wife.

Mrs. Reavey was married to her present husband last year after she was divorced from another blind man. They have a nice little home and both are good musicians, as are many blind people, and neither has the slightest feeling of dependence on "seeing folks."

MAYOR DUIS DEFEATED, PARTY LINES NOT DRAWN.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—J. D. Taylor defeated George E. Duis for mayor by 129 majority. For city judge P. McLaughlin was elected over R. J. Purcell by a majority of 32. The vote cast was the largest in the history of Grand Forks, the total being 2,199, as against 1,967 cast two years ago.

There was a close fight for alderman in the First ward, R. B. Griffith, the well known temperance advocate and merchant winning over Wm. Flynn by one vote. Taylor supporters had a torch light procession headed by a band last evening, and addresses were made by Mayor-Elect Taylor and other parties. Party lines were not drawn in the fight for mayor.

Make Your Home More Attractive

There are many ways in which you can beautify your home. The best way is to begin with the walls. The walls comprise nearly four-fifths of every room in the house. Make them more beautiful and you have a proper background for beautifying the entire home.

Alabastine
The Sanitary Wall Coating

comes in soft, velvety tints, in an endless variety of shades. These dainty tints harmonize with the woodwork and furnishings, while making each room lighter and brighter.

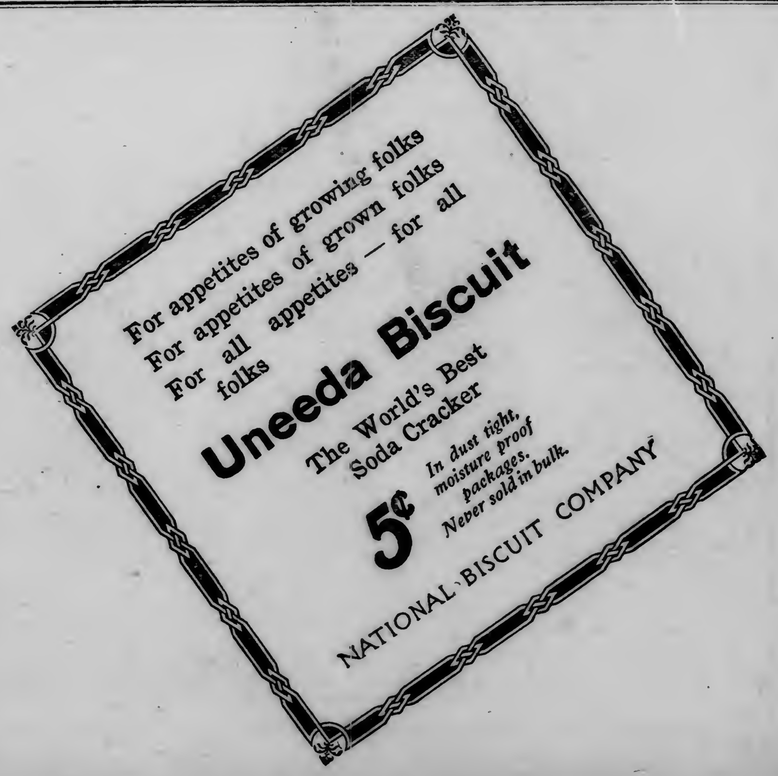

Anyone can apply Alabastine. It comes in dry, powdered form, and simply needs to be mixed with cold water and applied with a flat wall brush. Once you decorate with Alabastine, you can apply another tint without washing or scraping the walls, and with none of the dirt and bother incident to papering or kalsomining.

Alabastine is absolutely sanitary and will neither fade, rub off nor scale. It is, therefore, more durable, more artistic and more economical than either wall-paper or kalsomine.

Sold by Paint, Drug, Hardware and General Stores in carefully sealed and properly labeled packages, at 50c the package for white and 55c the package for tints. See that the name "Alabastine" is on each package before it is opened either by yourself or by the workmen.

ON HIS DOCTOR'S ADVICE

MR. JONATHAN D. BOOTHMAN.

Mr. Jonathan D. Boothman, of Providence, R. I., who is past 70 years of age was advised by Dr. O'Connor, of Lawrence, Mass., several years ago to use DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY to prevent sickness and keep him vigorous and healthful.

"A great many years ago I was advised by Dr. O'Conor of Lawrence, Mass., to use your Whiskey as a medicine to build up my system, and I have used it ever since, and had it not done the service required I would have found it out long ago. Of course I am no youth, but enjoy my three score and ten, and expect to continue to enjoy life with the assistance of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I was married 50 years on the 2nd of December, 1906." Jonathan D. Boothman, 226 Camp Stret, Providence, R. I.

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a prodigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00. Write Dr. R. Curran, Consulting Physician, for a free illustrated medical booklet and free advice. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

AGITATOR IS TURNED DOWN

Jury Refuses to Recognize His Claim for Damages.

P. D. Jones, the Socialist agitator and representative of the Western Federation of Miners, who sued the village of Aurora and the village marshal, August Knuti for $3,500 damages for false imprisonment, assault and slander, will get nothing.

The jury, last evening, returned a verdict in favor of the defendants. Jones was represented by J. A. Keyes of this city, attorney for the Western Federation of Miners.

The testimony tended to show that Jones was arrested on suspicion of being connected with the dynamiting outrage on the residence of Capt. Nichols of the Mohawk mine at Aurora. Jones claimed that Knuti called him a thief, a cur, and a grafter, made threats to do him harm, and kept him confined several days in a cell overrun with vermin and unfit for a human being.

Jones has achieved considerable notoriety in this part of the country, chiefly by his marriage to Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, the girl Socialist agitator.

County Attorney J. H. Norton and C. O. Baldwin represented the village and the marshal.

CONCEITS IN COATS

Quaintest of Fashions Rule in the Wraps for Women.

Black Satin, Long Neglected, Again Comes to the Fore.

All hail the reign of the coat—first in picturesque qualities, first in elegance, first in the new and smart notions of feminine fashions for 1908.

The quantiest conceits are displayed in coats, giving them the supremacy among garments. In the background stands the sensible service and plain tailor-made that will keep the conservative styles before the world, but leading all are the odd coats, and this is a season of odd coats, mark ye.

Any sunny day in New York you may see the home-coming leaders of style from southern France returning with garb picked up abroad. Velvet coats, silk coats, broadcloth coats of brilliant blues and greens and reds—not a color neglected—worn in good faith over contrasting skirt of duller color.

Various Notions in Sleeves.

Various notions in sleeves distinguish them. The manche a la juive is a long sleeve drapery that curiously adorns a dressy coat. Arm holes are large as a rule, shoulders flat, and coats slope away from the shoulder in cutaway fashion, with hems sloping to the middle of the back, and in the extreme models being below the knees and the point nearly touching the hem of the skirt at the back.

Black satin has been so long in the background that the world has forgotten its elegant qualities. Again it comes to the fore in imported suits and coats. Silk coats are the "scream of the town," as a lively fashion designer put it. Black satin tailor suits, the coats lined with subdued colors, come from the workrooms of several Paris tailors.

Coats in black silk, of various lengths elaborately trimmed with lace, liberty satin frills and chiffons, are designed for dowagers.

Model Imported From Berlin.

An imported model from Berlin was a loose coat, with large arm holes and very full sleeves of corded grosgrain silk over which was a black net richly appliqued, with an arabescue in shining light-weight satin, run on with heavy cord buttonhole stitch. A lustrous satin ribbon banded the sleeves, made loops at the neck and fell in heavy loops to the foot of the garment, which was about thirty-six inches long. A ruche of liberty satin, accordion plaited, finished the neck.

Ingenuity has outdone itself in the variety of trimmed coats. Old models are far in the background. Collars are new and square in effects, and the fancy cuts of skirts and tails, curves over hips and graceful folds of the broad pieces of backs and sides, with chic cutaway notions, distinguish all the spring things.

Cretonne coats and parasols have been introduced to turn golf links and lawns into veritable flower gardens. The finest cretonne is chosen to make the coat, which hangs open in front and flat on the shoulders, longer in the back than the front, with wide sleeves and panel effect in its large pieces. The fewer the seams the better in this cunning garment, which is trimmed with white soutache braid and has cords and tassels. The lining is preferably a thin white silk and the seams, such as they are, are tailored and stitched and kept smooth.

The cretonne vest, which was announced in the late winter fashions, holds its own for white and plain-colored coats. Many are shown in private tailoring establishments, and the high art designs, tending toward the conventional patterns, are preferred. Japanese taste shows an influence, but, as some one has said, the "rug" design of the Orientals is the pattern of the year.

Parasols to Have Full Sway.

With cretonne coats and vests is a third—the cretonne parasol which matches. Many of these made an early appearance at the winter resorts, and an importer assured an inquirer that the cretonne parasol was to have full sway all summer. Nor is it to be confined to importers. Whole pieces of handsome cretonne are heaped on the counters.

The long covert coat takes precedence as the useful garment for driving and excursions. Some models are fastened plainly down the front with elegant buttons. Another has a square flap extending about the waist line and buttoning to the left with only three large buttons, each one of which is a masterpiece of metal and semi-precious stones, or maybe only of metal worked, twisted and frosted until it is a breastpin all by itself.

The fates forbid that we should overlook the luxury garments. Not a cloak department of our shopping district has neglected this. The silent headless models in dim religious light stand about robed in garments intended to cover ball gowns and the perishable costumes of the smart set.

Pearl and Oyster Shades.

Pearl and oyster broadcloths and the rough silks are used in preference. The select designs on circular and the empire patterns are simply trimmed with a band of oriental silk about the neck and down the front edge. A brilliant old rose satiny cloth was lined throughout with a paler satin of the same shade, while about the neck and down the front was a five-inch band of rich oriental trimming, glistening with gold threads. Military capes of warm blues, violets and reds, having a suspicion of braid about the neck and shoulders, are popular, and then there are reminiscences of the mandarin coat, burnous draperies and butterfly capes.

THE FLOWER HAT IS HERE

Coquettish and Picturesque Creations Like Gardens in Tropics.

Bell and Mushroom Crowns Yield to More Attractive Forms.

Spring winds have blown in the flower hat and to a great degree the feathers are to be left to the birds. The flower hat is both coquettish and picturesque. It gains its saucy air by means of lines in a turned-up brim and the angle at which it sits on the hair, imparting to the plainest face a roguish quality.

The picturesque quality that everyone admires in the hats on the models and standards in the store windows must be traced back to the clever minds and tricky fingers of the designers and makers in the work-rooms.

It is well known that a hat which has no style on a model has no chance with a customer, and therefore the hat itself must be an ideal pattern and artistic construction aside from what it may gain as an ornament to a graceful head.

Novelties in Crown Shape.

Anent the novel turns of the newest creations just look at the crowns. There was a painful monotony among winter crowns of bell and mushroom linetge. The stunning picture hat which may have ostrich plumes—not to be counted in the feather edict—is a modification of the Gainsborough. It therefore remains among known things for all its new fangles in placing plumes and rolling the brims at the sides.

The flat round turban with level crown takes precedence as the very newest. Among the red hats of pre-Easter days cherries are heard high at the side in great luscious bunches, plums are almost as popular as grapes of fine purples and the natural greens and musical shades are largely used.

Bunches of ribbon involving yards of stiff taffeta tie in great choux and sheafs of ribbon ends. These sheafs, stiffly fired, are effective and take the place of wings, giving the same chic air to the decoration.

Flat Round Turban Stylish.

A flattroned turban with a deep brim fashioned in coral red of a soft wide straw braid was most simply trimmed with taffeta ribbon in three shades of coral folded around the crown and bunched up at the left with hoops so neatly wired that they spread like two wings of a gull in flight. It was a chic little hat, such as would give style to the most unassuming.

Another brimmed hat, not a bell nor yet upturned, but with the welcome old gypsy dent just above the nose, was a fantasy of blues and green. The straw braid sewn on a frame was of that fine old sea blue with a hint of green. Soft panne velvet of the same shade faced the brim and was folded about the crown, turning under at the back with an indescribably graceful finish.

The left side rolled slightly from the waving brim and the velvet folds wrapped about a bunch of stiff green lily leaves standing at an angle quite pert indeed. Every view of the hat had its style, and so it should be when the model has been built by artistic hands.

Taste Allowed Much Latitude.

As might be expected, there are a number of grotesque shapes, especially among hats made to order. It being good form to shape your hat to your head and to use originality in personal adornment, the brim may be knocked to the bent of a cocked hat if you so desire, as the procession of the first wearers of spring hats on matinee afternoons lead one to believe.

Quaint buckles, owned as heirlooms; scarfs of old lace and bits of embroidery are used in custom hats, which may be recognized by this personal note apart from the more severely pattern imported hats.

A trimming promised a sweeping popularity is to be the recently introduced stiffened maline. Ruches, quillings and rosettes of maline of every known color plus black and white figure on exquisitely dainty shapes of finer straws, including Neapolitans and horsehair braids. Generous rolls of the lacy material twist around the crown when it is not formally ruched and finished with big rosettes.

Leghorn is to Have Its Day.

The leghorn hat is to have its unquestioned day beside the panama. All grades of leghorns from the coarse to the very fine, bleached, toned, white or black, have been shaped over popular blocks. For its durability and rich yellow tone, as well as for its convenience, the leghorn will be the foundation of the true flower hat of the summer.

Since it is true that the wire frame has become a necessity, it has entered to help out the flapping leghorn hat, bringing it to the highly graceful models shown privately in the big stores.

The broad brim, being held to its picture place by wires, is adjusted to fit the contour of the head and to set off my lady's face as sweetly as a fine frame enhances a picture.

What more fitting platform for heaping flowers than the model leghorn hat, and they are heaped in profusion. In fact, it is a flower year and never were artificial flowers of such attractive qualities. Nature has been copied in silk and in satin—nature from the tropics, of course, as one looks at the gorgeous roses, great orchids and giant sweet peas.

At this moment spring flowers are in the height of popularity with the selections of daffodils, hyacinths and lilies. Peonies are a gorgeous trimming in all the shades of pink.

Hats of the Sunshine Motif.

Nor is this spring an exception to the fad for color harmonies. Here is a hat of the sunshine motif. It is a fine golden leghorn, beautifully woven, the brim waving gracefully according to the fine wire frame under the edge covered with silk the shade of the straw.

The crown is not visible under a heap of yellow tulips, three or four shades of sunshine. The flat blade leaves of the tulips lie flat on the brim, and the method of sewing the flowers is such that the tangled mound rises high above the crown in an irregular mass of leaves and yellow flowers, some of which are open, some tight buds, and some have shed their leaves. The bandeau of the under crown is of gold velvet overlaid with a bunch of yellow chiffon for daintiness.

A scarlet hat of shirley poppies on a duller yellow leghorn with velvet of the same shade was a pretty creation. Another of blue braid with masses of artificial pansies of blue was a really good color scheme, and a cornflower blue with the first artificial ageratum and genuine stiff rose reganium leaves was quaint indeed.

Amon gthe variety of hats it will be difficult to go astray. From the prettiness of gray-plumed effects so long known to fashion there is everything to like, even the trim little untrimmed sailor.

NEW HOSIERY IS ALLURING

Stockings Lacelike in Quality and of Delicate Shades.

Stockings run ti gossamer quality. The tale of drawing a wedding veil through a ring fits the tale of stockings of today. Any pair of beauty can be pulled through a child's ring.

In lisle, cotton or silk the lacelike quality of the texture, woven finer than any cobweb, is what fashion is seeking. The dainty lady wants a pair a day, and sometimes two or three, as she shops, golfs and goes in society functions after dark.

Stockings match even the most delicate shades. Colored hose are all fait, but loud patterns are eschewed. The dressy persons who must have a novelty find it in the little checks of stockings. The checks are made by narrow white lines cutting the color into little pieces, and the effect is refined.

Clocked and embroidered front hosiery have their friends. Few ornamentations are prettier than a handsomely embroidered front. Maidenhair fern, the conventional fleur-de-lis, and dots and fancy patterns are beauty done with the needle in colored silks. The open work is prettier to many. Yet for all their delicacy these stockings are durable. The dollar values last long with home washing, and one should have a pair a day fresh from tubbing.

The American Register of London, talking of colored shot tops and hosiery, says: "An idea of the setson is to have the shoe tops and the stockings match. It is quite the things to take one's shoe tops along when getting hose. There should not be any dividing line between the tops of the boots and the beginning of the stockings.

"And the shoes should always look new. New strings make a boot look new. They are like new ribbons on a hat or new ties in a low shoe.

"I regard a boot lookingg glass as an absolute essential where good looking feet are concerned. Few women have a mirror low enough to see a boot right from the sole up, and I advise the woman who wants nice looking feet to have a bit of glass or mirror set into the wall right next to the floor.

"It can be panel shaped and tall enough to take in the whole figure, or it can be merely a couple of feet in height. But a long, slender panel mirrror reaching from the floor up to a height of six feet will prove immensely convenient to a woman who values her good looks."

GREAT NORTHERN FINED $5,000.

New York, April 8.—Judge Holt imposed a fine of $5,000 on the Great Northern Railway company for rebating. He dismissed an action charging rebating against the Northern Steamship company.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

HAT JOYS NOT FOR MAN.

Women Continue to Monopolize the Fashions in Headwear.

Perhaps, as a novelty, it would be interesting were a new and rather extravagant style of hats for men evolved. When one considers the hats of the old chevaliers with their drooping plumes—hats now copied by the famous women dressers, among them Cecil Sorel, the Parisian actress—the heart of man occasionally longs for something a bit more gay. However, for a considerable time to come it is likely that mere man will let Vanity Fair carry on the monopoly in hats. Styles for women may range from mushroom shapes to peacock tailed affairs, while each season man will merely observe the widening or decreasing of the width of the brim, the swelling or shrinking of a top and the occasional adoption of a new, yet somber color.

ROAD FUNDS ARE DIVIDED

Each District Gets an Appropriation of $17,000.

A Floodwood Taxpayer Wants Investigation of Village Accounts.

Road funds in the sum of $68,000 were apportioned yesterday afternoon among five commissioner districts, the city of Duluth and the Miller Trunk road, after a short but lively discussion by the members of the county board. The road apportionment was nearly the last business that the board transacted for the day.

A resolution had been prepared giving $17,000 to the Second, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh commissioner districts; $18,000 to the Fifth district (Kauppi's); $5,000 to the city of Duluth, and $8,000 to the Miller Trunk road.

Commissioner George Tischer immediately moved an amendment to the resolution, fixing the amounts at $17,000 each for the commissioner districts.

Commissioner Kauppi of the Fifth district made a plea that his proposed share of the appropriation remain at $18,000. He claimed that even at the figure proposed he would not have money enough to do all the work needed on the roads in his district this summer. The commissioner said he has at least 700 settlers in his district, which is more by far than some of the other districts have. He argued that there are not more than 200 settlers in Commissioner Tischer's district, yet Mr. Tischer proposed an equal division of the funds.

Commissioner Kauppi made special mention of the Hartley road, which, he said, ought to be opened and improved this season, and on which he would spend $2,500, if he could get a large enough appropriation. One of the settlers along the legalized road also made a plea for the improvement of the highway, claiming that he has lived on his place twenty-one years and paid taxes, but that the only way he can get to Floodwood is to walk on the railroad track.

All Need More Money.

Mr. Kauppi declared that there was no doubt but that all the districts needed more money than they would get, but he thought his district was entitled to a larger share of the road funds than the others.

Commissioner P. J. Ryan, who has the largest road district in the northern part of the county, made a hard fight to have his appropriation increased. Mr. Ryan did not doubt the needs of Commissioner Kauppi's district, but claimed that out of 1,200 to 1,500 bonafide owners of farm lands in his district, only about half of the owners live on their places because of the lack of roads to get in and out of the country. Mr. Ryan declared that in Commissioner Kauppi's district, in the southern end of the county, the roads are from a mile to three miles apart and that his district could not expect to be as well fixed in roads for the next ten years. He declared that if there was any question as to where the extra money should be spent, the Seventh district should have the benefit.

The amendment was carried by a vote of four to three, Commissioners Tischer, McInnis, McMahon and Ryan voting affirmatively. Before the vote was taken on the resolution as amended, Commissioner Patterson made a few caustic remarks about the local commissioner who voted with the range commissioners on the amendment, and things looked squally for a time, but the chairman ordered the vote and the resolution providing for an equal division of the road funds was carried unanimously.

A taxpayer from the Floodwood district presented a petition with a few names requesting the board to have the public examiner go over the books and accounts of the village of Floodwood and of school district No. 19.

The board deferred action and will make an investigation on its own account first to see if the conditions warrant the expense of sending the public examiner there.

A committee comprised of Chairman Patterson, Commissioners Kauppi, McInnis and Sundeen was appointed to take the necessary steps for the legalizing of the proposed highways in this county along the state ditches now under construction. The engineer in charge of the state ditch work stated some time ago that the state will build free of cost to the county roads along all the ditches from the materials dredged in the construction of the ditches. These will be turned over to the county if the county will legalize and take care of them.

The board legalized a new road known as the Munger road in 50-16, in the towns of Solway and Crane Lake, running from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks to the Cloquet river road.

An appropriation of $1,450 was made from the county road fund for the improvement of the Prairie Lake road and the Marsh road. The former will have $1,000 spent on it and the Marsh road will be fixed up for $450.

WILLIAM ROCK FOUND GUILTY

Judge Windom Sentences Him to Sixty Days in Jail.

Judge Windom, in municipal court yesterday, sentenced William Rock to sixty days imprisonment. It took the jury just seven minutes to find him guilty of illegally living with Minnie Henricks, for a period of seven months. Rock was not given the option of a fine. Judge Windom severely arraigned the prisoner, declaring that he had committed perjury in addition to the crime.

A stay of ten days was granted, at the request of Rock's attorney, Austin Lathers, pending preparations for an appeal. Bail was fixed at $500. The complaint against Rock was sworn to by his wife, charging him with a statutory crime. Several witnesses substantiated her allegations, including the proprietor of the rooming house on East Superior street, where the couple lived. Rock refused to allow his wife to testify against him. He and Minnie Henricks at first flatly denied all charges lodges against them.

Rock got into print last fall by bringing an action against a mining man for $10,000, alleging that he mistreated Tilly Henricks, the 15-year-old sister of Minnie Henricks. The case was dismissed when it came up for trial.

DEVELOPMENT OF FLYING MACHINES

Instead of Balloons, Will Become Occupation of Aero Club.

New York, April 8.—Action of more than ordinary importance to aeronauts here and abroad has been taken by the Aero Club of America, it having been decided that the club shall practically give up further consideration of ordinary balloons and dirigibles, and devote its energies to the development of flying machines, or heavier than air craft.

Arrangements have been made to turn the balloon business of the organization over to the Aero clubs of North Adams and Pittsfield, Mass., and a committee of five has been named by the Aero Club of America to take charge of the flying machine work in and around New York. This committee is composed of Albert C. Friaca, Wilbur R. Kimball, Lee S. Burridge, Daniel Braine and Stanley Beach. Charles M. Manley, a well known expert in the aeronautic science, is to act as technical adviser to the committee.

The plan is to establish an independent section of the club, to be devoted entirely to aviation, and the members of this section will be charged with raising a fund sufficient to carry on the experimental work. A suitable tract of land has been procured near New York for practice work with aeroplanes and other heavier than air devices, and adjacent to this plot will be a machine shop and houses for the air craft. When machines are sufficiently perfected they will be tested on government ground at Fort Myer, Va.

COMEDIAN WEDS AGAIN.

Walter Jones Becomes Husband of Blanche Deyo, the Dancer.

Chicago, April 8.—Previous marital troubles evidently had no terrors for Walter Newton Jones, known far and wide as a tramp impersonator. Neither do the laws of Illinois bother the actor to an appreciable degree, for he was married Monday to Miss Blanche Lillian Hixley only a few weeks after his previous wife, formerly Mrs. Frederick K. Pulsifer of Chicago, divorced him in the Illinois courts.

Miss Blanche Lillian Hixley, the bride, is none other than Blanche Deyo, famous as a dancer and a vaudeville artist. She also was recently divorced. Jones and she are playing together in vaudeville.

CLAYTON ELECTED.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 8.—A. P. Clayton, Democratic, one of the most prominent Shriners in America, was elected mayor of St. Joseph, yesterday. The Democrats elected six and the Republicans five aldermen.

ARRESTED FOR CRUELTY.

Former Des Moines Mayor Held on Charge of Overworking Horses.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 8.—James Brenton, former teamster, and once mayor of Des Moines, was arrested yesterday for working his team until one of the horses dropped in its tracks. The Humane society haled him into court on the charge of cruelty.

E. C. Dunn of Mason City is being discussed by Democratic leaders as a candidate for governor.

T. F. Mardis of Winterset, father of John C. Mardis of Des Moines, and the first tile and brick manufacturer in the state, died yesterday at his Winterset home. He was a factor in Republican politics and a pioneer business man.

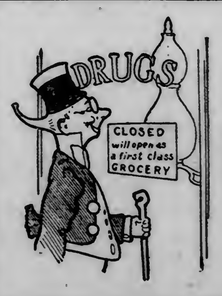

A healthy man is a king in his own right; an unhealthy man is an unhappy slave. Burdock Blood Bitters builds up sound health—keeps you well.

EXPIRES ON TRAIN.

North Dakotan Passes Away While Returning Home.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—O. S. Bergstrom, whose home is at Lisbon, N. D., died on the train shortly before the train reached St. Paul. Bergstrom had been visiting in Missouri and was returning to his home via the Great Western.

A few miles out of St. Paul as the conductor and brakeman went through the train awakening passengers, an attempt was made to waken Bergstrom, and it was found he was dead. The body was taken from the train here and Coroner Miller ordered it sent to the county morgue. Dr. Miller will hold a postmorten examination, though it is probable that death resulted from natural causes. Dr. Miller notified the relatives at Lisbon.

FOOD FOOLISHNESS

The druggist lives on your "food follies." If every one ate "FORCE"

the druggist would have to turn grocer. There's no stomach so weak that it cannot digest FORCE. Its thin, crisp flakes are quickly penetrated by the digestive fluids and the barley-malt enables the intestines to digest the starch. FORCE helps Nature. Not a medicine, but a food.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "Just as Good."

Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Co.

PRESENTS AN INVESTMENT THAT IS

ENDORSED! GUARANTEED! SECURED!

THREE DAYS ONLY AT $44.00

AN HONEST STATEMENT OF FACTS. SUBMITTED FOR THE CAREFUL CONSIDERATION OF CONSERVATIVE INVESTORS.

This, the fourth article of our plain truth series announcing the close of the sale of the Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Company stock at $44, is to impress firmly on your mind that only three days remain in which to take advantage of this opportunity.

We have justly earned the confidence of those who have taken the time to investigate for themselves. As it is, however, impossible to meet personally the thousands of industrious citizens who are financially able to invest a portion of their earnings or savings in a project from which all the speculative features have been eliminated, we are disseminating through the public press the unqualified endorsements and commendatory articles that have been so liberally tendered us by the leading newspapers and business men of the Northwest, in order that every body may be thoroughly familiar with the method we have adopted in financing this Twentieth century electrical railroad.

Indisputable Evidence that Warrants Your Investment

There has not been and never will be a share of ARROW LINE stock given away either as a bonus, for influence, or for services.

NO PREFERRED STOCK

STOCK REDEEMABLE

At par, $100, for transportation either of passengers or freight at current tariff rates, thus forever making it impossible to manipulate your stock or freeze out your interest.

CHARTER AND ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION

Filed with secretary of state, and all other legal matters attended to by competent counsel.

NO MORTGAGE, BOND OR DEBT

The directors of the ARROW LINE are building the road themselves, contracting for work and supplies only as money on hand will permit. There is no construction company, and no outstanding accounts due and unpaid.

LEGITIMATE CAPITALIZATION

Ample and sufficient funds will be provided from the sale of stock to thoroughly construct and electrically equip this modern road, and when all the stock is issued the total capital charge against each mile of double track will be many thousand dollars less than that of any existing single track steam road operating between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes.

WORK COMPLETED

The location engineering is complete, the 100-foot right-of-way between the cities is all secured, all bridges have been located and plans drawn, and on July 1st, 1907, actual construction began and was continued without interruption until after January 1st. Thirty-two miles of the best standard railroad roadway in Minnesota is complete, including culverts and trestle bridging, ready for the ties and rails. Construction track is being laid and grading operations commenced again on a large scale Monday morning, the 6th, and the entire work will be vigorously pushed during the coming season.

ONLY 8,800 SHARES

On Saturday last, April 4th, we had this number of shares that could be sold at less than $99 per share (par value $100, fully paid and forever non-assessable). A visit to our offices any hour of the day or evening will convince you that ARROW LINE STOCK is selling rapidly, and we now publicly predict that by Saturday night, April 11th, the entire allotment will be all sold, in which event the advance in price will be to $99 per share. Should the allotment, however, not be all sold, whatever remains can be bought at $99 per share.

We say to you in all sincerity, give this matter your most serious consideration, and act quickly, as after next Saturday it will be impossible for anybody to purchase the stock at its present selling price, viz., $44.

IN DECIDING

Consider that the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD will be the most profitable piece of railway in the Northwest, thoroughly equipped to handle the heaviest freight as well as passenger, mail and express business, with the shortest possible mileage (9⅝ per cent tangent), lowest capital charge, lightest maximum grade, and cheapest operating expense.

Watch for Our Announcement in The Herald Tomorrow

We reproduce here copy of a communication from one of the most successful business men of Minneapolis, Mr. Thomas Vogell of the Vogell Bros. Drug Co., in confirmation of the statement made in our first announcement of this advance in price that we not only had the unqualified endorsement of the entire press of the Northwest, but also that of many solid, substantial business men.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 16, 1908.

Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Co., City.

Gentlemen:—

I have noted with much pleasure the editorial in the Minneapolis Journal commenting on the examination of the books of your Company by Mr. Wendell, the accountant. Extracts from this report of Mr. Wendell indicate a very prosperous condition of affairs in your finances and will make it possible for you to resume operations in the spring and carry them forward speedily towards a successful completion. I believe Minneapolis business men feel that every avenue which is opened up to make it easier for citizens of adjacent territory to get into Minneapolis should be encouraged, and it is because of a belief in this principle that I write you in commendation of the work you have done so far. Minneapolis should welcome every enterprise that tends to develop the state of Minnesota and to bring every portion of the state into closer business relations with our city.

Wishing you success in your enterprise, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

ROSE WILL BE MAYOR

Former Executive Successful in Election at Milwaukee.

La Follette Delegates Are Elected in Many Localities.

Milwaukee, April 8.—David S. Rose, the Democratic candidate for mayor of Milwaukee, was last night returned the successful candidate with a plurality of about 3,000 votes over Emil Seidel, Social Democrat. Thomas J. Pringle, the Republican candidate, ran over 1,000 behind Seidel. Rose's election makes him mayor of Milwaukee for the fifth time. He was defeated two years ago by Sherburn M. Becker, after being victorious four times in succession.

The campaign, both prior to and after the primaries two weeks ago, has been the most exciting in the history of the city. Rose's slogan was "personal liberty."

Vincent Schoenecker for treasurer and August M. Gawin for comptroller were elected.

Late dispatches indicate that license won over no license in a majority of towns in Wisconsin, as far as heard from, where those issues were put to a vote of the people.

Voted for License.

In Kenosha, Mathias J. Scholey, Democrat, agent for a brewing company, defeated Edward S. Allehan by 255 votes. The following places voted for license:

Altoona, Kenosha, West Salem, Tomah, Union Grove, Hauston, Lancaster, Galesville, Platteville, White Hall, Ladysmith, Mineral Point, Peewaukee.

The following places voted no license:

Sparta, Viroqua, Lafayette, Richard Center, Reedstown, Dodgeville.

At Madison, Mayor J. C. Schubert, Democrat, won out over W. J. McKay, who favored Sunday closing. Schubert's majority being 1,200 votes.

Marinette voted for license by a majority of 1,000 votes. Menominee, Wausau and Peshtigo carried for license, and the village of Wheeler voted "dry."

No Issues in Many Places.

In many of the small cities of the state there were no issues, and independent or citizens' tickets were elected without opposition.

Republicans elected the mayor at Appleton, while Democrats were successful at Jefferson, Darlington, Fond du Lac, Menomonie, Durand and Fort Atkinson.

In Manitowoc, where socialism was the issue, the Socialists were whipped in every ward.

Scattering returns received from throughout Wisconsin indicate that delegates at large favorable to the nomination of Robert M. La Follette at the Republican national convention have been elected as follows:

Isaac Stephenson, Marinette; Henry A. Cooper, Racine; William C. Brumbder, Milwaukee; and Alby Peterson, Soldiers Grove.

The complete figures will not be received for a day or two, but those at hand show that in almost every instance the La Follette delegates at large have a good lead on the Taft opponents.

Favorable to La Follette.

District delegates favorable to La Follette have been elected in the First and Seventh districts without doubt. In the First, Harry C. Martin and Perry C. Wilder were chosen and in the Seventh Walter H. Hauser and E. M. Ewing.

La Follette delegates were elected in other districts as follows: Third—Duncan McGregor and Julius E. Ditmore. Fourth—Fred C. Loranz and William H. Kiekhefer. Fifth—William R. Knell and Henry Lockney. Ninth—Samuel H. Cady and Bernard C. Wolteer. Eleventh—Samuel J. Bradford and John T. Murphy.

Partial returns from various sections of Wisconsin indicate that John Barnes of Rhinelander has been elected over Robert M. Bashford of Madison as justice of the supreme court. Bashford was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Justice John B. Cassody and yesterday's election was for a full term. In nearly every instance the returns show that Barnes has a large lead.

He Got What He Needed.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. C. Farthing of Mill Creek, Ind. Ter. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters. I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

LARGER CITIES FAVOR LICENSE

But Small Ones in Illinois Are Against the Saloons.

Chicago, April 8.—In the local option elections held by 1,200 townships in eighty-four counties of Illinois outside of the city of Chicago yesterday twenty counties became absolutely anti-saloon territory and approximately 1,500, or about one-half of the total number of saloons in that territory, were voted out of business. Most of the larger cities of the state, however, voted in favor of licensing saloons. The larger cities voting in favor of the saloons are: Springfield, Freeport, Aurora, Elgin, Sterling, Kankakee, Lincoln, Monmouth, Bloomington, Danville, Joliet, Murphysboro and Rock Island.

Those voting to abolish the saloon were: Rockford, Decatur, Dixon, Hoopestown, Georgetown, Pontiac, Shelbyville, Carbondale and Champaign.

The following counties are now absolutely anti-saloon territory, so created by the voters and are in addition to the six which voted last November to abolish the dram shops: Roone, Moultrie, Falette, Hamilton, Edgar, Clark, Brown, Saline, Gallatin, Douglas, Macon, Cumberland, Platt, Shelby, Cole, White, Wayne and Richland.

Chicago Election.

The Chicago election was purely aldermanic and followed closely party lines. One-half the membership of the city council of seventy was elected. Although the question of the Sunday closing of saloons was barred from the ballot by court action, the United societies for local self government secured a victory in that but twenty-three of the seventy aldermen who will compose the new council, they declared, are opposed to the platform favoring personal liberty. The Independence league made a strong fight in several wards and polled a vote of good proportions for some of its nominees, but the total vote of the party was less than that of the Socialists. The new council will adhere to the rule of organizing on non-partisan lines.

SOUTH DAKOTANS FOR W. J. BRYAN

Democratic Convention Instructs Delegates for Nebraskan.

Mitchell, S. D., April 8.—The Democratic state convention met here Tuesday and elected eight delegates to the national convention and instructed them to vote for Wiliam J. Bryan for the presidential nomination.

It was midnight before the convention finished its work of electing eight delegates to the national convention. At the beginning of the evening session a fight was precipitated over the manner of choosing the delegates, there being a division as to whether the districts should elect the delegates or the convention as a whole. On roll call the election was left with the districts.

Col. W. A. Lynch of Huron was elected permanent chairman. The platform favors the abolition of the tariff on all trust controlled articles, a graduated income tax, an inheritance tax, a law compelling all foreign corporations to appear and stand trial before state courts, demands the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against trust and trust magnates, urges tariff reform, and instructs the delegates to the national convention to vote for the nomination of W. J. Bryan first, last and all the time, and for nobody else.

Henry Volkman of Milbank started a fight for the instruction for Bryan, urging that the convention should permit the delegates to have a second choice. He offered an amendment to the effect that the delegates be instructed for Bryan so long as his name is before the convention and then to use their best judgment in selecting a second candidate. When pressed for a second choice, Volkman named Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

A dozen speeches were made against the possibility of voting for Johnson, and then Former Senator Pettigrew took the platform and denounced the attempt to create the first break in the solid support for Bryan. Volkman's amendment was defeated practically unanimously. Andrew E. Lee was indorsed for governor. The following delegates were elected at large to the Denver convention: F. M. Sibach, R. F. Pettigrew, Andrew F. Foley, E. E. Linehan, D. R. Hoch, David Moore, Frank M. Stewart and W. L. McLaughlin.

SOCIALISTS DENOUNCE

Many Things and Select South Dakota Delegates.

Pierre, S. D., April 8.—The State convention of the Socialist party here Tuesday nominated a state ticket and selected delegates to the national Socialist convention. The resolutions adopted denounce the government for suppressing free speech by barring papers from the mails without a hearing, denounce government by injunction, and the "invasion of peaceful states by troops without reason," and declare that the present system of government is anarchistic. The delegates wore red badges inscribed, "I am also an undesirable citizen."

LA FOLLETTE MEN LOST

In Fight in Republican Primaries in Hennepin County.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—The Republican primaries in Hennepin county yesterday resulted in a sweeping victory for the supporters of Secretary Taft. Taft men will control the county convention next Thursday, which will elect delegates to the state convention and delegates to the national convention from the Fifth congressional district.

A fight for the county was made by the supporters of Senator La Follette, but they secured approximately but twenty-five out of 500 votes in the county convention.

TAFT WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

War Secretary Has Easy Sledding in South Dakota.

Huron, S. D., April 8.—The Republican state convention here yesterday adopted resolutions indorsing Secretary of War Taft for president; Governor Coe I. Crawford for United States senator; favoring the placing of iron, coal, lumber and all articles manufactured or controlled by a monopoly on the free list; an extension of the powers of the interstate commerce commission; a flat 2-cent passenger rate and a reduction of freight and express charges.

Delegates to the nation convention at Chicago were elected as follows: Governor Coe I. Crawford, E. L. Sent, K. O. Strand, A. W. Ewert, C. H. Dillen, A. L. Lockhart, R. C. Grimshaw and P. H. O'Neal.

The convention was in the control of the Crawford wing of the party. Attorney General Ellis of Ohio addressed the convention in the interest of Secretary Taft.

NOTES OF STYLE IN HATS.

Straight Aigrettes and Heavy Paradise Sweeps Still in Vogue.

Much in vogue still are the straignt aigrettes and heavy paradise sweeps—a new, fancy being to trim a straw hat with all flowers on one side and a huge tuft of ostrich on the other.

Immense in size, the new ribbon bows of fine satin, French taffetas, printed warps with Louis XV series in colorings, satin brocade, monotone printed warps and broche figures, and jeweled effects in novel designs, mounted on pins, are among the newest ornaments. The use of cloud gray, black and the new jockey green is also very smart.

A new sort of fine linen lace straw is the sort of material used on a small Carlier model which has a oval shaped high crown and a narrow brim to the right side of the front; this brim being covered with twisted branches of thorn rose foliage, intermingling with the leaves are small rose buds. The left side of the brim which rolls high and is caught to the crown with a large owl in pale blue and black.

Very beautiful and extravagantly dainty is a model by Georgette of white Chantilly lace and tulle, its irregular brim of the tulle, half covered with primroses. All around the beret crown of lace are clipped bows of white satin ribbon in soft rose tones.

On a smart Susanne model of white Italian straw, a charming color effect is produced by the trimming of white magnolia blossoms, pale heliotrope, glossy green leaves and platted lace in soft shades of amber. A picturesque style of hat is a Loy's model in blue gray straw, trimmed with huge branches of white snowballs, green leaves and twists of coral tulle, while a Susanne model of white rice straw faced with pale rose—in shape a three-cornered rolling brim with a high round crown—has a novel trimming of twisted rolls of pale blue, silver gray and bright purple tulle effectively placed about the crown and trimed into a large bogue.

ROSETTES IN BLUE SHADES.

Sailor Hats to be Worn With School Dress of Red.

On a blue sailor hat there were four medium-sized rosettes; those on the sides and the one in the back were in three dierent shades of blue, the rosette in front being of coral red. This hat was meant to be worn with a red school dress which was trimmed with blue braid.

For the tot of 3 there are as many beautiful caps from which to choose as though she were a debutante. There are houses that make a specialty of baby hats, and artistic in the extreme are their creations.

A cap both novel and becoming was made of a circular piece of felt with a row of slits two inches from the edge. These slits were an inch long and two inches apart. Through them was drawn ribbon an inch and a half wide—soft louisine ribbon which crushes easily. This ribbon drew the felt into shape into shape over the bonnet frame and tied in a bow on top. Strings to match were used. In brown felt and pale blue ribbon this is very pretty.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, mayor, Girard, Ala.

LITTLE WAISTS

And Bands Are Made Rich in Tinsel and Color.

"Pull in your belt a notch if you wear one." Such is the advice of the belt counter czar. "Little waists are in for sure. Look high and look low and you can't find anyone who wears a 28 waist any more than you can find that admirable creature who wears a 6 shoe. Everone answers to 18 and 20 belts and to a 3 at the most in shoes. Of course one can find a larger size by moving the buckles—but who would confess it?

Beltings are rich in tinsel and color. The cost runs to dollars a yard, but no one minds dollars when buying a belt. The buckles are novelties and prettier than words can tell. Gilt and silver and set with stones of every color and gun metal and jet, though gun meal is setting with the sun of grays.

The waist line of fine robes has climbed so high that girdles are not much in evidence and most dresses are beltless. These are out of the belting calendar. Walking skirts and shirt waists must have belts, and when the tailor forgets to make a belt of cloth, then it is time to buy one of embroidered linen in white. With fluffy afternoon frocks the tinsel and oriental belt is in good taste.

We say to you in all sincerity, give this matter your most serious consideration, and act quickly, as after next Saturday it will be impossible for anybody to purchase the stock at its present selling price, viz., $44.

IN DECIDING

Consider that the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD will be the most profitable piece of railway in the Northwest, thoroughly equipped to handle the heaviest freight as well as passenger, mail and express business, with the shortest possible mileage (3% per cent tangent), lowest capital charge, lightest maximum grade, and cheapest operating expense.

Watch for Our Announcement in The Herald Tomorrow

We reproduce here copy of a communication from one of the most successful business men of Minneapolis, Mr. Thomas Vogell of the Vogell Bros. Drug Co., in confirmation of the statement made in our first announcement of this advance in price that we not only had the unqualified endorsement of the entire press of the Northwest, but also that of many solid, substantial business men.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 16, 1908.

Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Co.,
City.

Gentlemen:—

I have noted with much pleasure the editorial in the Minneapolis Journal commenting on the examination of the books of your Company by Mr. Wendell, the accountant. Extracts from this report of Mr. Wendell indicate a very prosperous condition of affairs in your finances and will make it possible for you to resume operations in the spring and carry them forward speedily towards a successful completion. I believe Minneapolis business men feel that every avenue which is opened up to make it easier for citizens of adjacent territory to get into Minneapolis should be encouraged, and it is because of a belief in this principle that I write you in commendation of the work you have done so far. Minneapolis should welcome every enterprise that tends to develop the state of Minnesota and to bring every portion of the state into closer business relations with our city.

Wishing you success in your enterprise, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

ROSE WILL BE MAYOR

Former Executive Successful in Election at Milwaukee.

La Follette Delegates Are Elected in Many Localities.

Milwaukee, April 8.—David S. Rose, the Democratic candidate for mayor of Milwaukee, was last night returned the successful candidate with a plurality of about 3,000 votes over Emil Seidel, Social Democrat. Thomas J. Pringle, the Republican candidate, ran over 1,000 behind Seidel. Rose's election makes him mayor of Milwaukee for the fifth time. He was defeated two years ago by Sherburn M. Becker, after being victorious four times in succession.

The campaign, both prior to and after the primaries two weeks ago, has been the most exciting in the history of the city. Rose's slogan was "personal liberty."

Vincent Schoenecker for treasurer and August M. Gawin for comptroller were elected.

Late dispatches indicate that license won over no license in a majority of towns in Wisconsin, as far as heard from, where those issues were put to a vote of the people.

Voted for License.

In Kenosha, Matthias J. Scholey, Democrat, agent for a brewing company, defeated Edward S. Allaman by 55 votes. The following places voted for license:

Altoona, Kenosha, West Salem, Tomah, Union Grove, Hauston, Lancaster, Galesville, Platteville, White Hall, Ladysmith, Mineral Point, Peewaukee.

The following places voted no license:

Sparta, Viroqua, Lafayette, Richard Center, Reedstown, Dodgeville.

At Madison, Mayor J. C. Schubert, Democrat, won out over W. J. McKay, who favored Sunday closing. Schubert's majority being 1,200 votes.

Marinette voted for license by a majority of 1,000 votes. Menominee, Wausau and Peshtigo carried for license, and the village of Wheeler voted "dry."

No Issues in Many Places.

In many of the small cities of the state there were no issues, and independent or citizens' tickets were elected without opposition.

Republicans elected the mayor at Appleton, while Democrats were successful at Jefferson, Darlington, Fond du Lac, Menomonie, Durand and Fort Atkinson.

In Manitowoc, where socialism was the issue, the Socialists were whipped in every ward.

Scattering returns received from throughout Wisconsin indicate that delegates at large favorable to the nomination of Robert M. La Follette at the Republican national convention have been elected as follows:

Isaac Stephenson, Marinette; Henry A. Cooper, Racine; William C. Brumbder, Milwaukee; and Atley Peterson, Soldiers' Grove.

The complete figures will not be received for a day or two, but those at hand show that in almost every instance the La Follette delegates at large have a good lead on the Taft opponents.

Favorable to La Follette.

District delegates favorable to La Follette have been elected in the First and Seventh districts without doubt. In the First, Harry C. Martin and Perry C. Wilder were chosen and in the Seventh Walter H. Hauser and E. M. Ewing.

La Follette delegates were elected in other districts as follows: Third—Duncan McGregor and Julius E. Ditmore. Fourth—Fred C. Loranz and William H. Kieckhefer. Fifth—William R. Knell and Henry Lockney. Ninth—Samuel H. Cady and Bernard C. Wolteer. Eleventh—Samuel J. Bradford and John T. Murphy.

Partial returns from various sections of Wisconsin indicate that John Barnes of Rhinelander has been elected over Robert M. Bashford of Madison as justice of the supreme court. Bashford was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Justice John B. Cassody and yesterday's election was for a full term. In nearly every instance the returns show that Barnes has a large lead.

He Got What He Needed.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. C. Farthing of Mill Creek, Ind. Ter. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters. I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

LARGER CITIES FAVOR LICENSE

But Small Ones in Illinois Are Against the Saloons.

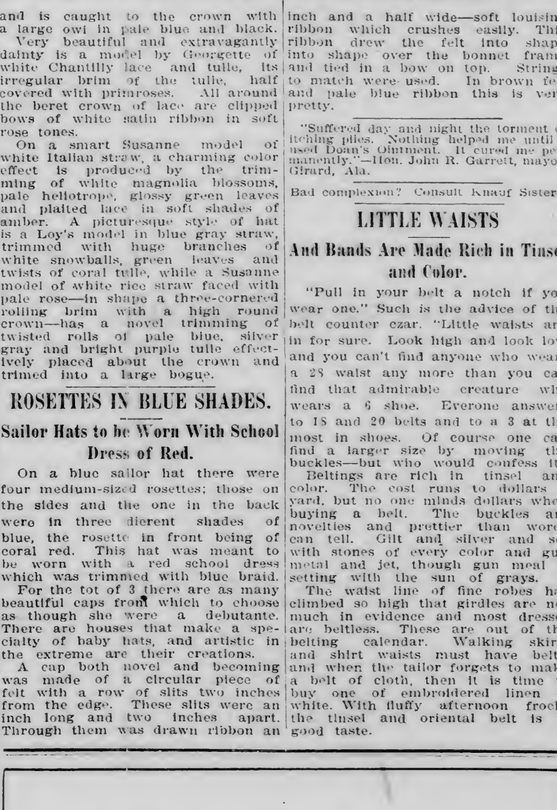

Chicago, April 8.—In the local option elections held by 1,200 townships in eighty-four counties of Illinois outside of the city of Chicago yesterday twenty counties became absolutely anti-saloon territory and approximately 1,500, or about one-half of the total number of saloons in that territory, were voted out of business. Most of the larger cities of the state, however, voted in favor of licensing saloons. The larger cities voting in favor of the saloons are: Springfield, Freeport, Aurora, Elgin, Sterling, Kankakee, Lincoln, Monmouth, Bloomington, Danville, Joliet, Murphysboro and Rock Island.

Those voting to abolish the saloon were: Rockford, Decatur, Dixon, Hoopestown, Georgetown, Pontiac, Shelbyville, Carbondale and Champaign.

The following counties are now absolutely anti-saloon territory, so created by the voters and are in addition to the six which voted last November to abolish the dram shops: Roone, Moultrie, Falette, Hamilton, Edgar, Clark, Brown, Saline, Gallatin, Douglas, Macon, Cumberland, Platt, Shelby, Cole, White, Wayne and Richland.

Chicago Election.

The Chicago election was purely aldermanic and followed closely party lines. One-half the membership of the city council of seventy was elected. Although the question of the Sunday closing of saloons was barred from the ballot by court action, the United societies for local self government secured a victory in that but twenty-three of the seventy aldermen who will compose the new council, they declared, are opposed to the platform favoring personal liberty. The Independence league made a strong fight in several wards and polled a vote of good proportions for some of its nominees, but the total vote of the party was less than that of the Socialists. The new council will adhere to the rule of organizing on non-partisan lines.

SOUTH DAKOTANS FOR W. J. BRYAN

Democratic Convention Instructs Delegates for Nebraskan.

Mitchell, S. D., April 8.—The Democratic state convention met here Tuesday and elected eight delegates to the national convention and instructed them to vote for William J. Bryan for the presidential nomination.

It was midnight before the convention finished its work of electing eight delegates to the national convention. At the beginning of the evening session a fight was precipitated over the manner of choosing the delegates, there being a division as to whether the districts should elect the delegates or the convention as a whole. On roll call the election was left with the districts.

Col. W. A. Lynch of Huron was elected permanent chairman. The platform favors the abolition of the tariff on all trust controlled articles, a graduated income tax, an inheritance tax, a law compelling all foreign corporations to appear and stand trial before state courts, demands the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against trust and trust magnates, urges tariff reform, and instructs the delegates to the national convention to vote for the nomination of W. J. Bryan first, last and all the time, and for nobody else.

Henry Volkman of Milbank started a fight for the instruction for Bryan, urging that the convention should permit the delegates to have a second choice. He offered an amendment to the effect that the delegates be instructed for Bryan so long as his name is before the convention and then to use their best judgment in selecting a second candidate. When pressed for a second choice, Volkman named Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

A dozen speeches were made against the possibility of voting for Johnson, and then Former Senator Pettigrew took the platform and denounced the attempt to create the first break in the solid support for Bryan. Volkman's amendment was defeated practically unanimously. Andrew E. Lee was indorsed for governor. The following delegates were elected at large to the Denver convention: F. M. Sibach, R. F. Pettigrew, Andrew F. Foley, E. E. Linehan, D. R. Hoch, David Moore, Frank M. Stewart and W. L. McLaughlin.

SOCIALISTS DENOUNCE

Many Things and Select South Dakota Delegates.

Pierre, S. D., April 8.—The State convention of the Socialist party here Tuesday nominated a state ticket and selected delegates to the national Socialist convention. The resolutions adopted denounce the government for suppressing free speech by barring papers from the mails without a hearing, denounce government by injunction, and the "invasion of peaceful states by troops without reason," and declare that the present system of government is anarchistic. The delegates wore red badges inscribed, "I am also an undesirable citizen."

LA FOLLETTE MEN LOST

In Fight in Republican Primaries in Hennepin County.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—The Republican primaries in Hennepin county yesterday resulted in a sweeping victory for the supporters of Secretary Taft. Taft men will control the county convention next Thursday, which will elect delegates to the state convention and delegates to the national convention from the Fifth congressional district.

A fight for the county was made by the supporters of Senator La Follette, but they secured approximately but twenty-five out of 500 votes in the county convention.

TAFT WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

War Secretary Has Easy Sledding in South Dakota.

Huron, S. D., April 8.—The Republican state convention here yesterday adopted resolutions indorsing Secretary of War Taft for president; Governor Coe I. Crawford for United States senator; favoring the placing of iron, coal, lumber and all articles manufactured or controlled by a monopoly on the free list; an extension of the powers of the interstate commerce commission; a flat 2-cent passenger rate and a reduction of freight and express charges.

Delegates to the nation convention at Chicago were elected as follows: Governor Coe I. Crawford, E. L. Sent, K. O. Strand, A. W. Ewert, C. H. Dillen, A. L. Lockhart, R. C. Grimshaw and P. H. O'Neal.

The convention was in the control of the Crawford wing of the party. Attorney General Ellis of Ohio addressed the convention in the interest of Secretary Taft.

NOTES OF STYLE IN HATS.

Straight Aigrettes and Heavy Paradise Sweeps Still in Vogue.

Much in vogue still are the straignt aigrettes and heavy paradise sweeps—a new, fancy being to trim a straw hat with all flowers on one side and a huge tuft of ostrich on the other.

Immense in size, the new ribbon bows of fine satin, French taffetas, printed warps with Louis XV series in colorings, satin brocade, monotone printed warps and broche figures, and jeweled effects in novel designs, mounted on pins, are among the newest ornaments. The use of cloud gray, black and the new jockey green is also very smart.

A new sort of fine linen lace straw is the sort of material used on a small Carlier model which has a oval shaped high crown and a narrow brim to the right side of the front; this brim being covered with twisted branches of thorn rose foliage, intermingling with the leaves are small rose buds. The left side of the brim which rolls high and is caught to the crown with a large owl in pale blue and black.

Very beautiful and extravagantly dainty is a model by Georgette of white Chantilly lace and tulle, its irregular brim of the tulle, half covered with primroses. All around the beret crown of lace are clipped bows of white satin ribbon in soft rose tones.

On a smart Susanne model of white Italian straw, a charming color effect is produced by the trimming of white magnolia blossoms, pale heliotrope, glossy green leaves and plaited lace in soft shades of amber. A picturesque style of hat is a Loy's model in blue gray straw, trimmed with huge branches of white snowballs, green leaves and twists of coral tulle, while a Susanne model of white rice straw faced with pale rose—in shape a three-cornered rolling brim with a high round crown—has a novel trimming of twisted rolls of pale blue, silver gray and bright purple tulle effectively placed about the crown and trimed into a large bogue.

ROSETTES IN BLUE SHADES.

Sailor Hats to be Worn With School Dress of Red.

On a blue sailor hat there were four medium-sized rosettes; those on the sides and the one in the back were in three dierent shades of blue, the rosette in front being of coral red. This hat was meant to be worn with a red school dress which was trimmed with blue braid.

For the tot of 3 there are as many beautiful caps from which to choose as though she were a debutante. There are houses that make a specialty of baby hats, and artistic in the extreme are their creations.

A cap both novel and becoming was made of a circular piece of felt with a row of slits two inches from the edge. These slits were an inch long and two inches apart. Through them was drawn ribbon an inch and a half wide—soft louisine ribbon which crushes easily. This ribbon drew the felt into shape into shape over the bonnet frame and tied in a bow on top. Strings to match were used. In brown felt and pale blue ribbon this is very pretty.

LITTLE WAISTS

And Bands Are Made Rich in Tinsel and Color.

"Pull in your belt a notch if you wear one." Such is the advice of the belt counter czar. "Little waists are in for sure. Look high and look low and you can't find anyone who wears a 28 waist any more than you can find that admirable creature who wears a 6 shoe. Everone answers to 18 and 20 belts and to a 3 at the most in shoes. Of course one can find a larger size by moving the buckles—but who would confess it?

Beltings are rich in tinsel and color. The cost runs to dollars a yard, but no one minds dollars when buying a belt. The buckles are novelties and prettier than words can tell. Gilt and silver and set with stones of every color and gun metal and jet, though gun meal is setting with the sun of grays.

The waist line of fine robes has climbed so high that girdles are not much in evidence and most dresses are beltless. These are out of the belting calendar. Walking skirts and shirt waists must have belts, and when the tailor forgets to make a belt of cloth, then it is time to buy one of embroidered linen in white. With fluffy afternoon frocks the tinsel and oriental belt is in good taste.

MEETING AT CLEVELAND

Conference Will Bring Labor Troubles on Lakes to Head.

"Open Shop" Policy on Lakes May be Adopted.

The "open shop" policy which is advocated by a number of vessel owners will be discussed at the meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association which will open in Cleveland tomorrow. The question of putting it in force on the Great Lakes will be threshed out to the end at the meeting, it is believed, and marine circles at the Head of the Lakes are anxiously awaiting the result of the gathering.

Should the "open shop" advocates carry their point, there will be no conference between the Lake Carriers and the lake seamen, and a strike will probably be the outcome. The carriers plan to ignore the union altogether, employing such men as they see fit, without reference to unionism. Individual agreements with each employe are also planned, and the seamen will rise up in vigorous protest, in the event such action is taken.

The "open shop" talk has been more persistent on the lakes this year than ever before. Each spring there is a discussion over the wage question, but this year it is not a question of what agreements shall be made with the unions, but if any agreements shall be made at all. The demands of the firemen furnished the sticking point, as strong opposition has developed in the Lake Carriers to the granting of them.

If the "open shop" policy is adopted with respect to the lake seamen, it is possible that the Lake Marine Engineers' association, which is an organization independent of the other marine workers, may not be involved. The relations between the lake carriers and the engineers are amicable, and there is no dispute over the wage scale, which creates the possibility that the customary agreements will be made.

TUGS WILL BREAK ICE

Union Company's Boats Will be in Commission This Week.

Many Ships in Lower Harbor Already Free From Ice.

The tugs of the Union Towing & Wrecking company will probably get into commission the latter part of this week, when orders are expected for ice-breaking in the vicinity of the dry docks and the removal and placing of boats at the docks.

The tug America broke through the ice today from its winter quarters to a station near the D., M. & N. docks, where it will act as a fire tug. The tug was used in the same capacity last season.

The lower harbor is entirely free of ice now, and will probably remain so. Most of the slips are also clear, or have only broken ice. The ice in the upper harbor is still firm and thick, and it is not likely much breaking can be done before the end of the week. The boats which are to be placed in dry dock are all quartered near the docks, and there will be no long tows. The boats which wintered in dry dock will be taken out to make room for others, and some vigorous bucking will probably be necessary to free the boats for the maneuvers.

FIRST BOAT TO DULUTH.

Package Freighter Will Leave Chicago April 18 or 20.

The Chicago & Duluth Transportation company will probably be the first line of package freighters to open navigation between lower lake ports and the Head of the Lakes. Either the steamer Elba or the Gratwick will leave Chicago for Duluth with package freight April 18 or 20, and it will probably be the first boat to arrive in the Duluth-Superior harbor from the lower lakes.

An agreement between the different package freighter lines fixes April 25 as the date for the beginning of the year's business. On or about that date, the Anchor Line, Mutual Transit company, Western Transit company, Northern Navigation company and the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company will send out their boats bound for Duluth. The few package freighters tied up in the Duluth-Superior harbor will also be sent out about that time.

The activities in all of these lines at present consist only in fitting out for the season. The labor situation has an important bearing on the date of opening, but the package freighters will not figure so strongly in any difficulties which may arise, as will the ore, grain and coal carrying lines.

STEAMER MOORE LEAVES.

Booth Line Boat Clears for First North Shore Trip.

The steamer C. W. Moore of the Booth line passed through the piers at 10 o'clock this morning on its first trip of the season, opening navigation for 1908 at the Head of the Lakes. The date is somewhat later than last year, but the officials of the company hope for better success in maintaining continuous service. The first boat was sent out last year on April 1, but after one trip, the ice prevented further operations until April 18, when the second trip was made from Duluth.

It is hoped to continue the Moore in operation continuously from now on, making two trips each week, on Wednesday and Sunday, carrying package freight and passengers. Considerable ice will probably be encountered on the trip, which was begun this morning, and on subsequent trips for about a month, as extensive fields are reported along the North shore, but they are badly honeycombed and no serious trouble is expected.

No other boats of the line will be put in commission until about May 1, when the regular service between Duluth and North shore, Isle Royale and Portage Lake points will be inaugurated for the season. The other steamers are now being fitted out and will be ready to go on regular schedule at that time.

SHIPMASTERS' ASSOCIATION.

Branch of Captains' Organization May be Established Here.

There is a possibility that the Shipmasters' association may have a branch in Duluth. It is said that a petition for a charter will be sent to the headquarters of the organization at Port Huron in a few days, and, if granted, a headquarters will be opened here. There are a number of vessel masters at the Head of the Lakes interested in the plan and all masters would be pleased with a place for gathering for mutual benefit while the boats are in port here.

CUPID BUSY DURING MARCH

One Hundred Marriage Licenses Issued During the Month.

The old saying that March weddings are stormy ones and that there are few weddings in that month, was hardly true of St. Louis county. Last month the clerk of the district court issued 100 marriage licenses, not counting the licenses issued by his deputies at some ten or twelve points in the county outside the city. The fees at the clerk's office alone amounted to $200 for March.

BOYCOTTING THE JAPANESE.

Hongkong, April 8.—The Chinese merchants' guild has decided to cable their agents at Japanese ports not to place any more orders for Japanese goods and to ship goods already ordered in vessels other than Japanese. Dealers in Chinese piece goods are joining in the boycott against the Japanese, which arose as a result of the Tatsumaru incident.

PIRACY IN SOUTH SEAS

Crew of Schooner Murder Officers and Capture Vessel.

Start for Australia, But Go Ashore in Gilbert Group.

Victoria, B. C., April 8.—News was brought by the steamship Marama, which arrived last night, of a remarkable piracy and murder in the South seas. The captain and mate of a Callao schooner were attacked with a tomahawk and forced to jump overboard by Joseph Mortimer, a Belgian; J. Taylor of Manchester and G. Jackson of London, who then stole the schooner, the Neuvne Tigre of Callao, and started for Australia. The vessel was wrecked in the Gilbert islands, where she was found by Capt. Marshall of the trading schooner Laurel, who reported the piracy and murder to the authorities at Suava, where the pirates were made prisoners. Jackson later confessed. He said:

"The schooner sailed under the Italian flag, being owned by the master and mate, both of whom were forced, at the point of a gun, to jump overboard.

"The schooner sailed out of Callao early in November last, having on board a crew of five, the captain and mate, the cook (a Belgian), Joseph Mortimer and myself as cabin boy, and J. Taylor.

Cook Makes Attack.

"The vessel had only got about fourteen miles off the coast, the first day from Callao, when the cook made an attack on the mate and captain. He rushed at the mate first and struck him on the head with a tomahawk. He was felled by the blow, but quickly recovered himself and took to the rigging. The captain, hearing the scuffling, came out of the cabin and he was immediately felled by a blow.

"Immediately afterward the cook got his gun and forced the men on board to jump overboard. The mate sank, but the skipper struck out for the shore, distant fourteen miles, and Jackson threw him a plank. The cook threatened Jackson, who agreed to assist in working the schooner. The cargo was jettisoned and they started for Australia. The vessel finally went ashore in the Gilbert group."

The prisoners may be sent to Callao for trial.

RAILROAD NEWS

FIRST CUT IN RATES

Northwestern Road Will Break Agreement for Convention.

Other Roads May Make Excursion Rates During Summer.

The announcement by the Northwestern system that a rate of 1½ cents will be put into effect for the National Republican convention at Chicago, is interpreted here as meaning that eventually every one of the lines doing business west of Chicago will be compelled to make the same rate.

This will mean that for the first time since the 2-cent fare went into effect the roads west of Chicago have consented to make an excursion fare.

Heretofore in making rates for Eastern business, the reduction has been made on the east-of-Chicago business. The regular fare to and from Chicago is computed first, and then the reduction is taken from the regular rate charged east of the Windy City. The rate move made by the Northwestern will probably result in other excursion rates after the Chicago convention.

If the Western lines break the regular rate agreement they have maintained for so long, it is only natural that they will be asked to make concessions by other interests. In the light of the recent rate announcement by the Northwestern, which will undoubtedly be followed by other St. Paul-Chicago lines, it will be difficult for the roads to very well refuse.

The rate will affect the Duluth traveling public, as it will be effective on the Duluth-Chicago line. Its importance, however, lies in the fact that it is one of the first indications that the roads will recede from their resolve to refuse the traveling public any cheap rates.

It is believed in Duluth that the reduction west of Chicago means that other reductions will be made throughout the summer months. Passenger business has been so light all through the winter months, and the promise is so gloomy for the spring and summer business, that railroad men are of the opinion that excursion business with cheap rates will be "found" business and will be worth going after.

AUTHORITY QUESTIONED.

Warehouse Commission May Have No Power to Order Side Track.

St. Paul, April 8.—If the position taken by William Ellis, attorney for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, is sustained, the state railroad and warehouse commission will be without jurisdiction to order any railroad in the state to install a switch and sidetrack, even though the track would lead to an industry which supplies many points within the state.

The announcement of this position, during Mr. Ellis' argument on the case of the petition of the Mendota Stone company for an order requiring the St. Paul road to install a sidetrack to its quarries one mile east of Mendota, rather startled the commission, and questions asked Mr. Ellis brought out the fact that under this position the authority over such matters is not vested in any governmental body, either state or national. The point was raised in the hearing on the application of the stone company for an order requiring the St. Paul road to put in the sidetrack.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

Southern Pacific and Imperial Navigation System Plan Improvements.

Imperial, Cal., April 8.—Messrs. Kruttschnitt and Calvin and other prominent officials of the Southern Pacific have just left for the East after having effected an agreement with the stockholders of the California Development company, the owners of the Imperial irrigation system. This agreement removes all possibility of friction between the two companies and leaves the railroad with a free hand in proceeding with the improvement of the system.

The railroad will at once begin the construction of works which will cost $60,000 and which will be completed this spring.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Barney Hogan Didn't Know What "A Vagrant" Meant.

A dozen drunks and vagrants lined up before Judge Cutting in municipal court this morning. Most of them drew sentences of $1 and costs. John Kelsey, an old offender in the vagrant line, was given a fine of $25, with an alternative of twenty days in jail. He has been living off free lunch counters for two or three weeks past, according to the story told in court, and when the bartenders got tired of feeding him, he cursed them roundly.

"I dont know what the word means, your honor, said Barney Hogan, a blue-eyed, red-haired Irishman, when charged with being a vagrant.

"It means loafing around saloons, bumming, not working; no visible means of support," volunteered the judge.

"Not guilty," said Hogan.

He was given a hearing at 11 o'clock and was allowed his freedom under suspended sentence, on condition that he leave the city.

James Doner was a vagrant whose face was familiar to the judge. Twenty days or $22 was his allotment. John Lindahl failed to show up in court, and his bail of $5 was forfeited. The other drunks and vags drew fines of $1 and costs, with alternatives of three days in jail.

UNKNOWN MAN IS FOUND LYING DEAD BY ROAD.

Ashland, Wis., April 8.—(Special to The Herald).—The body of an unknown man was found a mile and a half south of Marengo, near the wagon road. It lay a short distance from the road west of the railroad track. It was impossible to guess the cause of death from the appearance of the body. A note book was found in a pocket, purporting to show the money received from delivery of beer kegs, for the Schlitz Brewing company. On a card, was found the names of C. W. Anderson and Leo Hample, 1301 Ninth avenue west, but Mr. Hample could not identify the body.

TWO CHECK ARTISTS ARE SENTENCED AT GRAND FORKS.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—C. L. Griffith, charged with forging a check and passing it on M. Stanchfield, changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty of forgery in the fourth degree, and was sentenced by Judge C. F. Templeton to serve three months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $25 and charges, amounting in all to $75. Failure to pay fine will mean fifty days additional. Griffith's uncle will pay the fine, it is stated.

Robert Miller, a pal of Harry Fralick in passing bad checks on three merchants, was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary at Bismarck. He entered a plea of guilty. He was the star witness in the case against Fralick.

DESTRUCTIVE CARELESSNESS.

The first report of the Minnesota state fire marshal, which has just been issued, offers food for thought that ought to be productive of good.

It is an answer to the question "what causes fires?" That answer can be summed up, in the great majority of cases—in practically all, indeed—in a few words: Carelessness and shortsighted economy.

The report covers 1905 after July 1 and all of 1906 and 1907. During that period there were 2,500 fires in Minnesota; 429 in 1905, 1,009 in 1906 and 1,062 in 1907. We are averaging, therefore, more than a thousand fires a year.

In a table covering all of these fires eighty causes are ascribed. In nearly a third of the fires, 801, the cause is said to be unknown. These fires of unknown causes would include, no doubt, many that were really incendiary.

A cursory analysis of the causes of the fires that have occurred in this state will convince anybody that most of them were preventable, if not all of them. Defects of one sort or another, defective flues, furnaces, gas fittings, grates, smokestacks, stoves, etc., caused 212 fires. The use of matches caused 189, divided as follows: carelessness with matches, 63; children with matches, 106; mice with matches, 18.

Kerosene stoves and lamps caused 105 fires; gasoline, by itself and in stoves or lamps, caused 111; gas caused 34; electric wires set 58 fires; mischief, pyromania and spitework were responsible for 40 that are known, and probably for some in the list of 801 of unknown cause; flying sparks from chimneys, cupolas, dynamos, locomotives, etc., caused 178; incendiarism caused 26; "spontaneous combustion," that vague resource of the puzzled, which undoubtedly covers a multitude of sins, was assigned as the cause of 52 fires; woodwork catching from flue, furnace, gas jets, pipes, stoves, etc., caused 175.

How large the element of carelessness is will be realized when one thinks that woodwork can be protected from danger of fire from chimneys, flues, etc.; that care would have averted the fires caused by kerosene, gasoline, gas and electric wiring; that flying sparks can be prevented and guarded against.

In the following group of smaller items almost all are due to pure carelessness: Bonfires, 14; burning rubbish, 9; carelessness with candle, 9; children playing with fire, 2; fireworks, 2; rubbish ignited, 28; smokers' carelessness, 29; thawing water pipes, 13; total, 116.

And besides the fact that carelessness causes most of the fires, is the greater fact that inattention to fireproof building and the negligence of the public in permitting the construction of inflammatory firetraps are responsible for the greater part of the havoc that follows the starting of fires.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS.

The results of yesterday's local elections in various sections are mixed. In Milwaukee David S. Rose, Democrat, was elected mayor by a lead of 2,400 over the Socialist candidate, who was 1,000 votes ahead of the Republican candidate. Rose, who "made good" in four preceding terms, succeeds "Sherby" Becker, the boy mayor whom the Republicans elected two years ago.

In Illinois "dry or wet" was the question, and the drys made important gains, voting out 1,500 saloons and making twenty counties absolutely dry. In Chicago the Republicans made aldermanic gains. Republicans won in Tacoma and Hartford, and St. Joseph, Mo., elected a Democratic mayor. In South Dakota the "progressives" controlled the Republican state convention, endorsed Taft and declared for free trade on trust-controlled products. The South Dakota Democrats endorsed Bryan, and the Delaware Republicans refused to instruct for Taft and sent an uninstructed delegation to Chicago.

In near-by Superior F. R. Crumpton, Republican, defeated J. S. Konkel, Democrat, and as Crumpton defeated the "lid" mayor of Superior in the primaries there is much speculation regarding the degree of liberality which the new administration will produce.

In Wisconsin La Follette seems to have triumphed at the primary election of delegates to the national convention, for though Taft's followers made a fight for him all over the state, they claim but two congressional districts for the war secretary, and have but little show of more than one of these.

In few of the local elections did national politics figure conspicuously.

UNEARNED CAPITAL.

When the country gets squared around in earnest to its manifest duty of strict regulation of all public service corporations, whether they furnish water, oil, coal, steel, lumber, gas, food or transportation, it must not overlook the express companies.

There really is no excuse for the express companies, anyway. The railroads or the postoffice should have done their work. There is no more reason why the people should have farmed out to corporations the carrying of parcels than there was why they should have farmed out the carrying of letters and newspapers. But we have the express companies, and must deal with them until we get a substitute for them, and that means that we must compel them to give the best possible service for the least possible money.

The Indiana railroad commission has been investigating the express companies, and it has found some interesting facts, a suspicion of which had before been more or less general. The irresistible conclusion from the commission's discoveries is that the people pay too much for their express service.

The express companies refused to provide the commission with any information that amounted to much. They wouldn't tell about wages and salaries, legal expenses and taxes, loss and damage claims, though they insisted that these items should be considered in determining the reasonableness of rates. But many things the commission did find out, things that should be remembered for future reference.

For instance, it found that the American Express company began business in 1850 with a capital of $150,000. Four years later, on the absorption of another company, it increased its stock to $750,000. In 1868 it gobbled up another company, and made its capitalization $18,000,000. Discussing these figures, the commission says: "There is no ebb in the tide of these transactions. In the first consolidation it appears that $25,000 cash was paid in. It does not appear what was paid in when the stock was increased from $150,000 to $750,000. It was said that the company absorbed lost $7,000,000 in its fight with the American, and probably the American lost heavily, too; but while it is shown that excessive valuations were put on the wrecks, not once or anywhere does it appear that money was paid in by the shareholders to recoup these losses. It seems that they finally fell upon the public, whose contributions in rates paid to make up these losses have for years provided dividends on what was lost in those rate wars by these companies."

It does not appear, either, that stockholders paid anything in when the capital was increased from $850,000 to $18,000,000. No; the public was expected to make this capitalization good, and it has.

The Adams company began without any stock, but when there was a consolidation in 1854 it was capitalized at $1,200,000, which was made $12,000,000 in 1875. In 1898 shareholders got $12,000,000 in bonds, and in 1907 the company transferred securities worth $24,000,000 to a trust company for the benefit of stockholders. The United States company has increased from $500,000 to $10,000,000, the Wells-Fargo company from $300,000 to $8,000,000.

And the public made it good—not the stockholders or the property of the companies.

AS TO GOOD FAITH.

The Associated Press reports bring a very interesting story from Washington, about a little incident happening at a committee meeting held yesterday.

The committee was the committee on the election of president, vice prsident and representatives in congress, of which Representative Gaines of West Virginia, a Republican, is chairman, and of the members of which a majority are Republicans. The chairman had called a meeting, and yesterday afternoon, when the committee assembled, it was found that there was a quorum, but that there were five Democrats and only three Republicans present.

This would have been all right if the Democrats had not tried to take advantage of their unaccustomed majority to induce the committee to take action on the bill providing for the publication of campaign contributions.

Now you might have imagined from the subsequent actions of the Republican members of the committee that this is a very dangerous bill, threatening grave harm to the people. It is hard to see how it can do them much injury. It merely provides that the amounts and sources of all contributions to national and congressional elections shall be made public. This is simply to show up what corporations contribute to the parties, in order that the people may associate cause and effect when party managers pay for campaign contributions with special privileges.

The minority members, then in the majority, insisted upon taking up this bill, which was introduced by a Republican representative, McCall of Massachusetts, and consternation struck the Republican members of the committee in a heap for a moment. Then they hurriedly consulted in whispers, and as a result quietly slipped out of the room, thus destroying the quorum and preventing action on the measure.

The incident shows how ardently the Republicans in congress are working to prevent the enactment or consideration of legislation in the interests of the people.

OVERCROWDED PROFESSIONS.

Modern educational thought points clearly to the fact that the educational systems in use in this country are topheavy and impractical. They produce too many doctors, lawyers and newspaper men—too few clergymen, by the way—and not enough craftsmen. They are built to produce professional men, when the great majority of the pupils are unable to finish any course they now provide, but are forced to go out and learn how to make a living, equipped with a smattering of learning, only a small percentage of which is of any use to them at all, and almost none of which is of immediate practical benefit.

There need be no occasion for wonder, then, if it is discovered that the professions are overcrowded. They are overcrowded, and while there is "always room at the top" for those who make unusual use of their advantages, there are in all professions many men who would have done better if they had turned their energies to other pursuits.

At a recent medical convention, in which several thousands of physicians were gathered, attention was drawn to the decided oversupply of doctors in this country. The surplus was attributed to the fact that the medical schools are graduating every year 12,000 to 15,000 doctors, when the country really needs only about 2,500 new ones each year. The doctor who quoted these figures blamed it upon the medical colleges, but he should have blamed it upon the public schools. With scattering exceptions, the average public school course aims at nothing except a professional career. It does not aim at all at turning out plumbers or carpenters or joiners or workers in wood and metal. It leaves those who choose these pursuits to learn their trades after they have left school.

It may seem difficult, and even impossible, to teach trades in the public schools, but it should be remembered that other countries, with which we must compete in selling our products, are doing this, and that there is going to be more of it. If we can't teach trades in our schools, at least we can enlarge our manual training systems so that the schools will train the hand and mind together, and will turn out children equipped in some measure to engage in mechanical pursuits. Somebody must engage in this work, and when the professions are as overcrowded as they are now, the chances are that the average youth will find as much profit in skillful labor as he will in a profession. Along with the development of the manual training systems must come practical teaching of the girls that will fit them to become housewives.

With the schools turning out four or five times as many doctors as the country requires—and the production of lawyers is just as disproportionate to the need—only one result can come, and that is the usual result of overproduction. The rewards of a profession that is overcrowded cannot be great except to a few that are specially equipped. The crafts can scarcely become overcrowded, and if the present tendency continues, they will reward their workers better than the professions, if they do not already do this on the average.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Society," began E. J. Blackwell at the St. Louis yesterday, "is subject to many shades of expression. In the accepted sense, society is composed of the so-called '400,' although it is said that this term is being materially reduced since the money stringency began to cut into the plutocrat class. But every class of people has its little social circle.

"Down on the levee district of St. Paul, or, more properly speaking, the flats, they have a society that ripens and mellows with the ebb and flow of the amber liquid. Here, indeed, does the stolid nature of the foreigner unfold itself.

"Like Shakespeare's seven stages of man, the devotees of the social pitcher rushing, soiress on the flats, are subject to a few degrees of social evolution. First they come to the house warming with expressionless faces and lack words of cheery welcome. But soon the lines of stolidity fade under the influence of the multiplied potions of beer.

"Often the police court record furnishes the finis of the social gathering on the flats, and supplies the outside with a glance into the inner life of the levee dwellers. From rude jests and quips, the flat dweller often fails to remember that bottles and other assortments of earthenware were made to drink from, and hurls them at the head of his social rival.

"The torrid portions of Polish or Bohemian history are brought to life in a modern setting, by the extreme libations of the trekers from across the raging pond. Shades of Kosciusko are revived by the valor and abandon with which the whilom social revelers make the settlement ring with their battle cry. This is society on the flats, as I have chanced to witness it. It is a liberation of the hedged-in spirits of its members, who cut loose with the wildest abandon.

"So you see, the exclusive society that people give dinners and diamonds for, is not the only form that you can find in a genial city. Often the social leaders of the flat settlements break into the limelight of headline publicity; but this accomplishment is not often free from pain and the strenuousity that is generally associated with breaking into society.

An insurance man shook five aces yesterday at the Lenox cigar counter, picked up one of the aces and shook another ace. He repeated this and was beaten by a pair of fives, as five aces don't count for anything. He was shaking the last horse of a shake-off in a crowd of ten, so it cost him $1 because he couldn't make the little ace turn something else.

A traveling man at the Lenox is sponsor for the story that a cow over in Wisconsin hatched out a brood of chickens. The hen, that was tenderly hatching the eggs, suddenly contracted a brainstorm and refused longer to stay on the job. 'Twas then that the farmer bethought him of the bovine hatching scheme.

According to the traveling gentleman, he placed the eggs against the warm, heat exuding sides of the cow. Bossy, with almost superhuman intelligence, grasped the situation in a nutshell, as it were, and was tender and careful, not breaking one of the eggs. In time, the little chicks peeked forth on a strange world, not suspecting for a moment that nothing out of the ordinary had occurred in the ushering act. With tender care the cow cared for them, scratching with a clumsy, but careful, hoof in the succulent soil for worms wherewith to feed her adopted brood.

It is said that Easter has no significance for this brood of chicks. The return of the prodigal son, however, might cause a grave fear to cloud the minds of the feathered ones.

The opening of the new cafe at the Hotel St. Louis will be a notable event in the annals of the hotel. Impressario Gould has coined some new food synonyms for the occasion, and it is said that the menu card will look like a guide for Volapuk, so generously will it be emblazoned with food phrases of an artistic nature.

Yesterday a salesman was taught to believe more firmly in the optimism of this mundane sphere. He has just succeeded in persuading a customer into taking a large order, and was about to say: "Well, old man, won't you have a cigar or something"—when the customer fairly took him off his feet by asking him to dine with him. After the meal, the customer insisted upon paying for the cigars. The traveling man is wondering if the bill of goods will be all right.

The president of a college was a guest of the Lenox, not so very long ago. Be it said here that he was the president of a Southern college. He was only at the hotel two days. Remember—two days. The day before yesterday a young lady at the hotel, who had not known the stern disciplinarian before he journeyed Duluthward, received a sweet epistle, in which her hand was eagerly sought in marriage. Yet they say there are a great many conservative Democrats in the Southland.

THE WEATHER.

Winter came back last night for its nat, or something else it forgot, and apologetically departed again this morning, giving away to spring. Last night a very lively and robust northeast blizzard held sway for a time, and this morning though spring weather prevailed overhead, the ground was covered with several inches of snow, upon which the smiling sun set speedily to work. Last night's lowest temperature was 22 degrees and yesterday's highest was 31 degrees. The weather man looks for fair and warmer weather tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today it was cold and cloudy with a little snow.

The sun rose this morning at 5:33 and gets tonight at 6:46, making 13 hours and 13 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: Barometric depressions overlying Alberta, Mexico and Lake Erie caused light to heavy falls of rain or snow over the lake region, central valleys and eastern slopes during the past 24 hours, and higher temperature this morning over most of Canada, the eastern lake region and the Ohio valley. The barometer is high off the New England coats and over the plateau region. The latter high pressure has caused colder weather over Missouri Valley and the eastern slopes. Freezing temperature prevailed this morning in the northwest and southward to and including Nebraska, Colorado and Western Iowa. Indications favor mostly clear and milder weather in this locality tonight and Thursday.

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

MERRY JINGLES.

Baltimore American: "Is that rich young widow pining for her old husband?"

"Not exactly pining, but from the way she is making his money fly one might say she is wasting away."

Lippincott's: Johnny—What is a bucket shop, pa?

Father—A place where you get soaked.

Chicago News: "But," she said, pouting, "I don't see why it is you find poker so fascinating."

"Well, you see," replied her husband, "it's the queens in the deck, my dear. They remind me so much of you."

Chicago News: "Father," asked little Rollo, "what is prosperity?"

"Prosperity, my son, as far as I can make it out, is something that certain eminent financiers announce as evidence that they approve of the administration."

Philadelphia Press: "Darling," said the American heiress, "it is not true, is it, that you want to marry me for my money?"

"No, dearest," answered the duke de Ragges et Patchez, "but I don't hold it against you."

Chicago News: "I notice," observed the sporting editor, "Bishop Fallows sees the psalmist's three score and ten years and goes him fifty better. Well, the world has wised up and got a good deal niftier since David's time—but I'm still betting on David."

Philadelphia Ledger: "And now, ladies," concluded the lecturer on woman's rights to her downtrodden sisters, "I am ready to answer any questions."

"Would you mind telling us," ventured one fair auditor, "where you got that perfect love of a hat?"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Yes, he's her third husband."

"How was the other two?"

"Both worthless."

"Then he must show up pretty good by comparison?"

"Not by comparison with the men his wife says she might have married."

Philadelphia Press: "That young doctor hasn't been located in our town very long, but he's very friendly."

"Yes. He believes in reciprocity. He makes acquaintances in the hope that his acquaintances will make him."

"Snake Charmers of the Great Lakes."

Detroit Free Press: Rudyard Kipling has written a series of articles entitled "Letters to the Family," which are now being printed in Collier's Weekly.

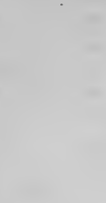

The title is a figure of speech in which British colonies are considered as members of one family and the letters, which are intensely British in tone, treat of the impressions received by the author during his late visit to Canada. The most interesting, perhaps the only interesting, feature of the current letter is a description of Lake Superior inspired while Mr. Kipling was at Fort Arthur and Fort William, Ont.

He declares that there is a horror about the Great Lakes that grows as one revisits them. Fresh water, he insists, has no right to reach out from the horizon and drag the hulls of vessels down or push them up; has no right to do many other things that salt water does. Here are two or three striking sentences:

"Lake Superior is the same stuff that towns pay taxes for, but it engulfs and wrecks and drives ashore like fully accredited ocean—a hideous thing to find in the heart of a continent. Some people go sailing on it for pleasure and it has produced a breed of sailors who bear the same relation to the salt-water variety as a snake charmer does to a lion tamer."

What! our Capt. A. J. McKays, our Capt. Foxes, our Capt. Lightbodys, our own Capt. Bakers, our Capt George Mallorys and A. J. Mahons, snake charmers? Our Gus Schantzes, our Ash Tomlinsons, out Capt. Gilchrists, our C. F. Bielmans impresarios to snake charmers?

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Brainerd Arena: The Princeton Union, run by the man whom Governor Johason defeated four years ago, says: There are many who believe that Governor John's lecture proposition will prove to be merely a huge fiasco—that it is merely a pretentious undertaking." Surely this is the limit for sour, jealous, small-minded churlishness.—Duluth Herald.

That's right, dear Herald, and in the olden times the laws fixed a punishment for such scolding old gossips and they were introduced to the "ducking stool" in the presence of admiring thousands, but in this enlightened age they make of themselves political Warwicks and after strutting a few brief months upon the public stage they are dropped into the consomme.

Brainerd Dispatch: The principal of the Duluth high school has announced to the graduates that at the commencement exercises they will have to dress plainly and no show of extravagance or finery will be tolerated, also that the flowers will be given the pupils by the board of education and that parents will not be allowed to send boquets. This is a sensible ruling and it is followed in many places. It puts the graduates all on an equal footing and "one fellow is just as good as another" for that night, anyway.

Princeton Union: Mayor Haven, of Duluth, has instructed the chief of police to prohibit newsboys and other boys of tender age from frequenting saloons. This is an order which should meet with public approval for no boy can learn anything to his advantage in a saloon, and then again, the average saloonkeeper would much rather that minors would keep away from his place of business.

Fertile Journal: Those Duluth dailies are coming right to the front. They are giving Northern Minnesota the advertising it needs to populate it with a thrifty class of agriculturists. Keep up the good work brethren, your reward will necessarily follow.

Moose Lake Star Gazette: They say the slump in copper stocks hit Duluth pretty hard, but the ordinary observer fails to see anything there that does not look like prosperity.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Duluth Herald is again urging "strong men" for the state legislature. A strong man or two from some of the Duluth districts would look pretty good in place of some of the political barnacles that have year after year been pressed into service.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Duluth Bethel evidently believes that it were better to feed one worthy man and ninety-nine unworthy than not to feed any. That is a spirit that would make Christianity popular anywhere else except in Duluth.

Princeton Union: There is at least one federal office holder in this state whom the newspaper men hold in high esteem—L. M. Wilcutts, collector of customs at Duluth. Referring to Mr. Wilcutt's declaration in favor of J. F. Jacobson for governor the Wadena Pioneer-Journal remarks: "In his present support of Jacobson, therefore, Mr. Wilcutts is simply 'making good,' a pleasing habit he has had for many years. The Pioneer-Journal for fifteen years or more has counted 'Lee' Wilcutts as one of its best friends, and in all that time has never found a yellow streak in his make-up. He is clear-headed, able and loyal, and we never knew him to trump his partner's ace."

Hibbing Mesaba Ore. The Duluth News Tribune never stops half way in its folly. It stated in a recent issue that all of the members of the Bethel bread line were tramps and bums and that they will not work if given an opportunity. The Bethel people are doing a kindly act in feeding a hungry man out of a job, and it is little, and characteristic of the News Tribune to cast slurs upon the charitable effort.

Conventions Will Do Some Thinking.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Mr. Bryan is also afraid of the uninstructed delegate. Some politicians are unduly alarmed lest the country should be ruined by a national convention that would do some thinking for itself.

An Equal Division.

Wall Street Journal: The United States Steel corporation's annual report showst Net earnings applicable for interest and dividends $160,964,673
Salaries and wages 109,235,923
Thus this great corporation earns for capital and for labor exactly the same sum. There is an equal division.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The only poetry that is read is when it is quoted in love letters.

A man has great self-control when he causes all around people instead of at them.

A big family is a useful thing to the trades people that make their livings out of you that way.

The way a girl likes you to make love to her is to tell her and then go home and write it in exactly the same language.

One of the mockeries of life is how surprised a girl's family always seems when a fellow asks for her hand after they have arranged it.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Remember that an act of charity works both ways.

The less a man is abused the more he doesn't amount to.

Necessity is the mother of a good many alleged poems.

Even a plate of hash looks good if you are pretty hungry.

Many a young man looks upon a dollar saved as a good time lost.

After scraping some acquaintances, a man is anxious to cut them.

No, Alonzo, family jars are not used for preserving domestic peace.

Trouble leads some men to drink, but lots of others beat trouble to it.

A man takes a woman at her word when she says "yes" at the marriage altar.

OPEN SECRETS.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken the many users of his medicines into his full confidence. Thus too he has absolutely and completely removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr Pierce's medicines are now in a class all by themselves--being absolutely and in every sense Non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this booklet it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, and with the use of specially designed chemical apparatus, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health.

The exact proportion of the several ingredients used in these medicines, as well as the working formula and peculiar processes, apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may not be infringed and trespassed upon by unprincipled imitators and those who may be piratically inclined.

Dr. John Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ECLECTIC REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) one of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine."

"Helonias more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

"The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys: menorrhagia, ("flooding") due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhea, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and an anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensation in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is rich in all the medical properties of Unicorn root, or Helonias.

REDUCTION IS NOT FAVORED

The Interstate Commerce Commission Reports on Southern Railway Case.

The interstate commerce commission has decided that it will be for the best interests of all concerned if the Southern railway makes no attempt to reduce the wages of its employes, according to information received in Duluth yesterday. Following is their decision:

"The undersigned mediators who have endeavored to settle the pending controversy between the Southern railway and allied companies and their contract labor, in accordance with Sec. 2 of the Erdmann Act, have found the employes unwilling at this time to accept a reduction of wages, because, in the opinion of these employes, the present depression in business has not continued for a sufficient period to justify a reduction.

"Under all the circumstances of the case, irrespective of its merits, we are of the opinion that the interests of the public will be promoted, as well as the interests of all parties to the controversy, if the companies shall not insist upon the proposed reduction at this time. Accordingly, we have recommended to the companies to continue the present schedule of wages until July first next, upon the understanding that if, by that time, business conditions have not substantially improved, the matters in dispute will be taken up again by the mediators with the view of reaching such an agreed adjustment of the wage scale as may seem to be just under the conditions then existing.

"We take great pleasure in announcing that this recommendation has been accepted by the companies and by their employes in the operating, mechanical and roadway departments represented by their organizations.

"MARTIN A. KNAPP,
"Chairman, Interstate Commerce Commission.
"CHARLES J. NEILL,
"Commissioner of Labor."

NINE POUNDS

Lima, Ohio, April 8.—The 4-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bender, formerly of Toledo, and now residing in Pittsburg, left here last week, accompanied by his mother, after having been nursed to strength in an incubator. The babe, weighing less than six pounds, was brought by Mrs. Bender to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Downing, shortly after his birth. Physicians gave no hope for life, as the infant could not take nourishment. As a last resort the incubator was prescribed, and the wee one placed therein, where he flourished and grew to strength during the past ten weeks. He is now a bouncing boy of fifteen pounds, and seemingly in the bloom of health.

WILL GO TO MENOMINIE

Party of Duluthians to Inspect Stout Industrial Schools.

Builders' Exchange and Board of Education Are Represented.

Tonight a party of citizens representing the Builders' exchange, the board of education and Citizens' association will leave to go to St. Paul to join the expedition to visit the famous Stout industrial schools of Menomonie, Wis., planned by the State Association of Builders' exchanges.

The Builders' exchanges of the state, the local board of education and citizens everywhere have been paying considerable attention lately to the subject of industrial high schools—institutions where students are taught something of mechanical arts—and the State Association of Builders' Exchanges decided to get up a party at this time to visit the Stout schools at Menomonie, said to be one of the finest institutions of the kind in the country.

The Duluth Builders' exchange is much interested in the industrial high school proposition and at the last meeting of the board of education presented the matter of the trip to Menomonie at this time. So the board decided to send a delegation.

Last fall another year was added to the course of study at the Irving high school, making the entire course there three years, students taking the fourth year at the Central building, and with the addition of the third year, the West Duluth high school became a mechanic arts or industrial high school. This sort of a thing is still new there, but it is proposed to work it up along the most approved lines and no doubt a number of excellent hints and pointers can be gathered by the members of the board of education during the present junket.

The principal of Duluth's mechanic arts high school, Scott C. Foster, will be a member of the party from Duluth and among others who will go from here to inspect the Stout schools are Edwin R. Cobb, secretary of the Builders' exchange and president pro-tem of the board of education; C. E. Evens, Duluth's member of the executive committee of the builders' state organization; R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools; Dwight E. Woodbridge, secretary of the civic committee, and a reporter for The Herald, chosen by the board of education as special representative of the press with the party.

Arriving in St. Paul tomorrow morning, the Duluthians will join the junketers from other parts of the state and catch a train for Menomonie. The party will return to this city Friday morning.

'MISINFORMED OR LACKS CANDOR'

Bryan's Reply to Statements Made by Secretary Taft.

Denver, Colo., April 8.—"Mr. Taft is either misinformed, or he lacks candor when he says I changed front on the Philippine question," said William J. Bryan to an interviewer, regarding the address of Secretary Taft at Omaha. "Mr. Taft undoubtedly had reference to the statement made public while the Paris treaty was pending before the senate.

"The question presented at that time," said Mr. Bryan, "was this:

"Shall we reject the treaty, continue the state of war and force Spain to recognize the independence of the Philippines, or shall we ratify the treaty and declare our intention to recognize the independence of the Philippines ourselves.

"I took the position that it was easier for us to go alone than to force Spain to act and we had as much right to recognize the independence of the Philippines ourselves as force Spain to do it. The senate ratified the treaty and came so near deciding in favor of independence of the Philippines that it required the vote of the vice president to defeat the resolution."

LIVED DUAL LIFE.

Career of Dr. James Cabanne of St. Louis Ended in Disgrace.

St. Louis, April 8.—After a career ranging from respectability and affluence to poverty and disgrace, Dr. James Sheppard Cabanne, 69 years old, founder of the fashionable residence district known as Cabanne place, died yesterday at St. Vincent's asylum.

For twenty-five years, Dr. Cabanne lived a dual life, maintaining one home in Cabanne place, where he was known as a wealthy and successful physician and another in North St. Louis, where he was known as "Mr. Norris."

Mrs. Cabanne divorced her husband in 1904. Soon afterwards he lost his money through unfortunate speculation. Last May as an act of reparation, he wedded Delia Doherty, a former domestic in his household, and the mother of four of his children, who, with these children, lived in the "Norris" home in North St. Louis.

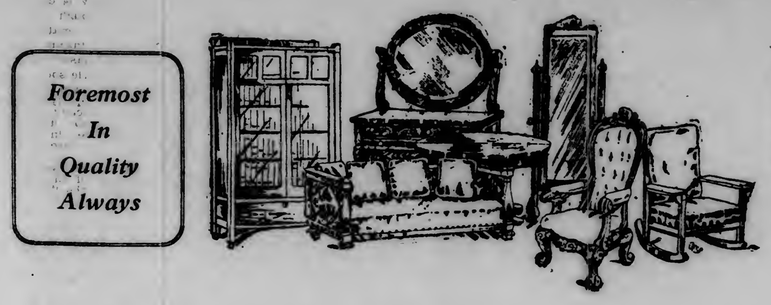

His health declined rapidly and he was taken to the city hospital. Finally he was removed to St. Vincent's asylum, where he died.

DELAWARE DELEGATES TO GO UNINSTRUCTED.

Dover, Del., April 8.—The Republican state convention met here yesterday and elected a full delegation to the national convention at Chicago. The delegates were not instructed. The convention was harmonious, the only show of a contest being over a resolution directing the national delegates to support Secretary Taft for the presidential nomination. It was defeated overwhelmingly by a viva voce vote.

The delegates selected as as follows: United Setates Senator Henry A. Dupont and Harry A. Richardson, Governor Preston Lea, Congressman Hiram R. Burton, Walter O. Hoffecker and John G. Towrsend.

Alternates: State Chairman T. Coleman Dupona, Former United States Senator Ball, William D. Enny, William Ellison, L. A. Drexler and Charles L. Moore.

MANY SINS MENTIONED

Buffalo Bill and Actor Named in Gould Divorce Answer.

Also Charged the Former Katherine Clemmons Drank Too Much.

New York, April 8.—Justice Victor J. Dowling in the supreme court has made public Howard Gould's answer to Mrs. Gould's suit for a separation on the ground of desertion and non-support.

Mr. Gould makes a series of charges that Mrs. Katherine Clemmons-Gould was guilty of misconduct with an actor well known to New York audiences. He declares that his wife's infatuation for the actor finally caused him to leave her, and that thereafter she followed the actor through a long tour of New England.

The answer first names William F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," charging misconduct before the Gould marriage, in various places in the United States and abroad. It then cites a long series of occasions on which, it was alleged, Mrs. Gould was sufficiently under the influence of liquor to cause scenes. Many of the sections of the answer refer to Mrs. Gould's trouble with architects, chauffeurs, coachmen and servants in Castle Gould on Long Island.

"This is a mass of stable and pantry gossip," was the characterization which Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, put upon Howard Gould's answer today.

Howard Gould's answer sets forth among other things that prior to July, 1906, Mrs. Gould "had become enamored of and infatuated with an actor, who had called upon her clandestinely and in his absence; that she followed him upon his itinerary in the New England states, attending the performances and visiting him in his hotel between the performances; that in September, 1906, when he was acting in a theater in Brooklyn, she would convey him in her automobile to the theater where he was acting and later, after the performance, would call for him in her automobile and take him to his hottel; that by reason of her conduct she became the subject of gossip and scandal."

Buffalo Bill Involved.

Mr. Gould also declares that his wife was guilty of improper conduct with the actor at various times from Sept. 24, 1905, to Nov. 19, 1906, and that on at least one occasion Mrs. Gould registered with Farnum under an assumed name.

Mr. Gould also declares that whereas his wife told him that her relations with Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) prior to her marriage were lawful, he subsequently discovered that she lived in 1893 with Cody and also lived with him in London, Paris, Chicago, New York city and other places.

Says She Gets Drunk.

He says that since the autumn of 1902 his wife has indulged in the excessive use of stimulants and intoxicants which rendered her quarrelsome, violent, abusive and irrational, and embarrassed and humiliated him and caused him to be insulted in the presence of friends, acquaintances and strangers and servants.

Mr. Gould then told of a trip to the Mediterrancan in his yacht Niagara, when, he said, his wife's conduct and intoxication were humiliating to him before his guests.

Mr. Gould's answer contains his version of the building of Castle Gould in Port Washington, L. I., at a cost of $1,700,000 before he was forced by his wife's conduct to abandon the castle. He said that he erected the castle at the request of his wife, "but that by reason of her indulgence in intoxicating liquors, and her meddlesome, quarrelsome conduct due to the intoxicants, and her attempts to direct and control the architects, contracors and workmen, he was not able to complete the castle."

Swore in the Theater.

He told of an occasion in December, 1904 when he took his wife to see a theatrical performance in the New Amsterdam theater. He said that she became loud and boisterous and exclaimed: "This show is damned rotten." He cites other cases of misconduct, among them one in which she is alleged to have assaulted her hostess at a dinner party while intoxicated and threatened other guests. The answer continues:

"She would generally drink two or three cocktails before breakfast or luncheon, or whatever was her first meal during the day. During luncheon she would usually drink a pint of white wine. In the afternoon she would generally partake of several brandy highballs, and before dinner she would take two or three more cocktails.

Drinks Came Fast for Her.

"She usually ordered champagne with her dinner, of which she partook freely throughout, and after dinner she would usually partake of some liquor. At bedtime she would usually partake of another brandy highball, which she would call a night cap.'

"In addition to this she kept bottles of brandy, gin and liquors in her boudoir, of which she would partake off and on and at other times during the day and night."

SITUATION AT LISBON QUIET

No Resumption of Rioting and the Shops Reopen.

Lisbon, April 8.—The situation in Lisbon has improved. There has been no resumption of the election rioting, the city today is calmer, and this morning the shops reopened. Lisbon is virtually under martial law, and with the arrival of reinforcements the military government is in absolute control of the city.

The Republican leaders disclaim any responsibility for the disorders and bloodshed of Sunday and Monday.

The general opinion is that the Royalists have gained a sweeping victory at the polls. Irrespective of how this was attained, it greatly strengthened the throne and affords an opportunity for the rehabilitation of the monarchy. There is little belief, however, that the "rotatives," who are again in the saddle, will sink their greed and devote themselves disinterestingly to the public welfare and the regeneration of the administration.

The patriarch of Lisbon has forbidden the celebration of mass in the churches of St. Dominique, Alcantara and Santos. The elections were held in these buildings and they were the scene of rioting and conflict; consequently, the ptariarch holds that they have been desecrated.

CHARTER A BROAD ONE

"Mic-Mac Company" Can Build Docks or Haul Potatoes.

Believed to be Part of New Railroad's Plans.

Articles of incorporation of the "Mic-Mac company," capitalized at $500,000, were filed this morning with the register of deeds by H. B. Fryberger, H. C. Fulton and M. A. Armstrong. The company purposes to build docks, warehouses, elevators, hotels, public halls and transport agricultural and dairy products, etc.

The fact that Mr. Fryberger is attorney for the Duluth-Tnunder Bay Railway company and that "Mic-Mac" is the name given a grade of coal sold by J. A. Ferguson of the Pittsburg Coal company, who is also one of the parties interested in the Tnunder Bay road, would lead to the inference that the new corporation would have something to do with the realization of the plans of the railroad, but Mr. Fryberger says the new company has been formed by some local business men who are looking forward to some investments.

CREDITORS FILE JUDGMENTS

Hartenstein's Attorney Says It is Scheme of Carbolite Company.

The creditors of the American Carbolite company are beginning to come in with their judgments. This morning the firm of E. S. Sargent & Co. filed a judgment of $102.86 with the clerk of the district court against the Carbolite company. The attornyes for the creditor were Reynolds & McClearn.

At the hearing in the Hartenstein case against the Carbolite company last Saturday, R. R. Briggs, attorney for H. L. Hartenstein, made the statement that he believed the directors of the Carbolite company, with a view of hastening the assignment of the company, gave Reynolds & McClearn a list of the creditors of the company and had the attorneys telegraph the creditors the news that the company was about to go into the hands of an assignee and advising the creditors to put their claims in the hands of Reynolds & McClearn to secure judgments.

Sugar as a Food.

Some interesting experiments with reference to the nutritive value of foods containing sugar were recently made at the instance of the war office at Berlin. It is a fact well known to Alpine tourists that on difficult climbing excursions an increased desire is felt for sweets and sweetened food. The well-known food value of golden grain belt beer makes it a favorite in home circles, and especially recommended as a tonic and an aid to digestion. DREDGING BIDS ARE OPENED

Big Contract for Superior Entry Work Will be Let.

Maj. Fitch, United States government engineer for this district, will today send in bids opened Monday and today for the dredging of a trench in the Duluth-Superior entry in line with the concrete revetment being constructed there, together with his recommendations. The bids opened Monday are considered entirely too high, in view of the nature of the work, but, after considering capacity and working ability of the different dredges, for the use of which bids were opened today, it is possible that recommendations for the acceptance of one of them will be made.

The bids opened Monday were under two heads, one for dredging per cubic yard, actual measurement, and the other for operating a dipper dredge, with two dump scows, steam tug with full crews and equipment, per hour of actual work. The bids were: Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company, Chicago, 37 cents per cubic yard or $25 per hour; Northern Dredge & Dock company, Duluth, 42 cents per cubic yard and $24 per hour; Duluth-Superior Dredging company, 38 cents per cubic yard and $35 per hour.

The bids opened today at noon were on the same work and were for furnishing a dipper dredge and hydraulic dredge, with full equipment, to do the entire work in such portions as their use might be required, respectively, bids to be based on hours of actual working time. The bids were: Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company, Chicago, $25 for dipper, and $35 for hydraulic; Northern Dredge & Dock company, Duluth, $24 for dipper, no hydraulic; Duluth-Superior Dredging company, Duluth, $35 for dipper and $36.50 for hydraulic; Zenith Dredging company, Duluth, $28.50 for dipper, no hydraulic.

As soon as the comparative values of the bids are computed, the bids will be sent to the department, with recommendations as to their acceptance. The work to be done is in line with the extensive improvements being made in the Superior entry, and the contract is worth about $90,000 to the successful bidder.

EVELETH COUNCIL WILL CLEAN CITY

Charging Expense to General Fund—Reports of Municipal Heads.

Eveleth, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The reports of the various department heads were read at last night's meeting of the city council. The city clerk's report shows a total expenditure for 1907 of $57,902.93, while the receipts of the same period amounted to $86,101.21. The superintendent of the water works reported an expenditure of $3,445.13 for the first quarter of 1908, in his department. The fines received by the municipal court during the month of March amounted to $58.55. The chief of police submitted his report for the previous month.

A number of the saloonkeepers who wished licenses for lower front rooms of their buildings will have to change their application to read the lower floor, as some of them have rooms in back of the saloon proper, wherein the policemen cannot go, and where women are often found. The change was made at the suggestion of Chief Kent.

The city attorney reported that he had conferred with Mr. Hoyt of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway and that the latter said he would do all in his power to secure a better platform at their depot.

The bond for the city treasurer of $10,000 was accepted.

A committee of three from the Business Men's association talked to the council in regard to the building of sewers on Douglas avenue and Monroe street. The communication that they presented was placed on file. Alderman Hatch presented a list of houses on streets that had sewers, that were not connected. About 12? houses were in that condition. The council decided that all these houses be connected up inside of thirty days from April 15, and the cost charged up to the property owners.

The water works committee of the council will engage an engineer to estimate the cost of building a sewer on the designated streets. Mr. Austin will probably be called upon to do the work.

In a few days the lockers and an equipment room for the local militia will be built, as the council has consulted with a contractor in regard to this matter, which will be taken up at once.

Mayor Smith, Aldermen Hatch and Shea were appointed a committee to look up a cemetery site. This matter has been hanging fire for a number of years, but it is evident from the interest the present council has taken, that Eveleth will in the near future, have its own cemetery.

The city will clean up the yards and alleys as was suggested by the business men, and the costs will be charged up to the general fund, as usual. Bids will be advertised for the work.

Mr. Grae of the county Humane society addressed the council for the purpose of trying to get an appropriation for his society.

AURORA COUNCIL REFUSES LICENSES

Brewing Companies Must First Agree Not to Sell Piggers.

Aurora, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The blind pig and brewery question is getting decidedly warm here. About three weeks have passed since Pfiger's representative agreed to sign a contract not to sell beer to unlicensed places and he has failed to do so yet, owing to instructions from headquarters. The representative was interviewed and advised the council to send the agreement to the company's headquarters at Duluth. The licenses of C. R. Hill and Matt Alto were granted with the agreement papers attached, but have not been delivered. At the council session last night the matter was threshed over and it was decided that if the brewery companies had any business to contract with Aurora they could send a representative here. The breweries were given to understand that the village council mean what they say when they state the blind pigs must go, and the citizens are with them to a man. The mining companies are in the movement and are turning the beer wagons away from the locations.

The following resolution was adopted last night by the council:

Whereas, Charles R. Hill, Matt Alto and George Pollank have made application to the village council for license to sell liquor within said village; and,

Whereas, said parties have deposited their license moneys with the treasurer of said village; and,

Whereas, a resolution was passed by said village council that no license for retailing liquors be granted in said village to any applicant, except and unless the brewing companies who are and who may sell their wares within said village, enter into a contract and an agreement with the village council whereby they will contract and agree not to sell, wholesale or retail, to any one who is not licensed by the village council to retail liquors within said village; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that no licenses be issued to the above named applicants; and be it further

Resolved, that the moneys on deposit with said village treasurer be returned to the respective parties, together with a copy of this resolution.

ITS INITIAL SESSION.

First Meeting of New Aurora Council is Held.

Aurora, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first session of the new council was held last night. The personel of the council is the same as last year: Chas. Olson, president; G. J. Soop, M. Levin and John Gersich, trustees and C. G. Vanderpool, recorder. Owing to the absence of Village Attorney Lawrence, Judge Max O. Aubolee, of Two Harbors, acted in that capacity.

The bids advertised for, for laying of sewer, excavating and furnishing material, were read as follows: Pastorvet & Lenz, $16,519.75; P. M. McDonald, $18,082.-50 and George R. King, $18,652.35. Action on them was deferred until next meeting. There is over one and one-third miles of sewer to be laid.

The State Bank of Aurora was designated as the village depository and will be required to give a bond of $25,000.

Must You Reduce Your Fat?

If you have gotten to the point, my dear madam or good sir, where the excess fat must positively come off—don't worry. No need to peer in the gymnasium door with a despairing glance or sniff dubiously at the soapy savorinoss of a bowl of impoverished gruel. You can keep on eating what you please if you will but ask your druggist for ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ ounces Syrup Simplex. Get the Marmola sealed. Mix it at home and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, for a few weeks. Good health and firm smooth flesh reduced quickly to an amount natural to your build will reward you. Too simple, you say. Fortunately simple, I say. The simplest things are the best.

SIDEWALK TO CEMETERY.

In Virginia to be Built and Library Grounds Improved.

Virginia, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council last evening took the first step toward the building of a sidewalk to the cemetery by instructing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications and an estimate of the cost. Alexander Reid, a member of the Virginia Cemetery association, was present to urge the improvement. He said the association intended to spend between $1,500 and $2,000 the present year in grading, terracing and improving the cemetery grounds.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Commercial club, Messrs. McGray, Cuppernull, Rooney and McDonald, were present to ask the council to start improvement of the library grounds and the grounds adjacent along the lake front. The entire council and mayor were appointed a committee to investigate this matter and inaugurate the improvement.

The city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance for the next meeting, designating the grounds and establishing a public pound on the property adjoining the fire hall.

The matter of purchasing a road roller and rock crusher was again laid over until the ground for procuring the rock could be selected.

The contract for furnishing seven firemen's uniforms was awarded to N. A. Holmer at $208. There were three bidders, but Mr. Holmer's was the only one that conformed to the requirements of the advertisement.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES PLANS

For Proposed City Hall to be Built in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night looked over and discussed the plans prepared by W. R. Parsons & Co., of Duluth, for the proposed city hall. It is to be built on the corner of Second avenue and Center street, with a frontage of 110 feet on the avenue and 65 on the street. All the village officers will be housed in the new hall. There will also be a city jail in connection with the building.

The report of Municipal Judge Brady was presented, showing that $881.85 had been collected in fines during the month.

Henry Little was appointed driver of the street sprinkler north of the railroad tracks.

The village accountant was instructed to notify all persons delinquent in the payment of light dues that the light would be cut off April 25 unless the dues were paid by that date.

VIRGINIA DEBATERS GAME.

Offer to Meet Minneapolis North Again Taking Other Side.

Virginia, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Roosevelt high school debating team, which won the recent debate with the Minneapolis North high, but was robbed of its victory by a technical ruling of the state debating board, is not going to quit. A challenge has been sent to the Minneapolis team to meet them again, the local team to take the negative side where it had the affirmative before.

The Virginia team having won from the North High once declare, and justly, that they are not willing to go over the same ground again, but while they feel it a great injustice to the judges and themselves, they will, in the interests of peace, consent to take a fresh start. If they must, change sides and have a second contest, however, unjust it seems to them that they should do double the work that other teams in the state are required to do. They have accordingly sent the North High another challenge.

Minneapolis is now begging off, saying that they cannot debate the affirmative. Now, it appears to all fair minded people that if Minneapolis does not or cannot accept the challenge, the Virginia team should be allowed to go the final without further hinderance.

ELECT SULLIVAN MANAGER

Of Chisholm Baseball Nine and Will Begin Practicing.

Chisholm, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chisholm baseball fans have elected L. C. Sullivan manager. Mr. Sullivan formerly managed the Chisholm Blues, which had a very successful season last year.

Attorney Harry Austin was elected assistant manager; Fred Hurt received the treasurership. It was decided that a dance be given about April 1 in the new city hall. Manager McNiven of last year's team was offered the job, but on account of business out of town could not accept it. The new manager will start at once to gather ball tossers for the coming season. There are several ball players here now who will start practice as soon as the grounds are in condition.

STRIPPING AT PILLSBURY

Mine Has Commenced and Chisholm is Getting Lively.

Chisholm, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Roberts-Kingston contractors, who are stripping the Pillsbury mine, have started work for the season. They will employ several steam shovels and increase the amount as they see fit. This firm will employ several hundred laborers this coming season.

The Drake & Stratton company has taken the contract to excavate 3,000,000 cubic yards of earth at the Leonard mine, work to commence April 18. The news of the awarding of this huge contract, and the prospects of many men being given steady employment, has already attracted many workers here, and the village is getting quite lively.

BIWABIK FIREMEN TO HAVE ORGANIZATION.

Biwabik, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Biwabik volunteer firemen will leave no stone unturned to bring about a more complete organization as a result of a decision reached at the annual meeting held last night. The village council will be asked to make an appropriation so a reorganization can be perfected. William O'Hara, who has to resign, was succeeded as chief by Kirk S. Johnson. Ed Verill was elected assistant chief, E. A. Koen, secretary, and F. B. Myers, treasurer. It was decided that a track team should be organized at once and provisions made for the necessary uniforms, the object being to compete in the Cass Lake tournament during the present summer.

The meeting was called at the instance of the village council and with thirty present, F. B. Myers was elected temporary chairman and E. A. Koen temporary secretary.

ST. PATRICK'S NEW BELL IS PLACED IN POSITION.

Eveleth, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Patrick's church can now boast of its large bell, weighing 1,400 pounds, that was placed in position last Sunday afternoon, after an hour's work in raising the bell 120 feet by the following men, who participated in the work: W. E. Moylan, Dan King, Mike Landon, Joseph King, Larry Cruse, Edward Kealey, George Hegner, Pat Dolan and John Murnik, all prominent in church affairs. The placing of the bell in its correct position was a great feat of engineering. The church, which was crowded at the time, listened to a fine sermon by Father Hogan of Virginia. The peals of the bell are loud enough to be heard as far out as Virginia.

The vote in favor of the proposition was nearly four to one, 94 being cast for and 27 against.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Mack-Leone company in "The Galley Slave."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

"THE GALLEY SLAVE."

Old Favorite is Revived by Mack-Leone Stock Company.

"The Galley Slave" was given at the Lyceum last evening by the Mack-Leone players and marked the beginning of the last engagement of the company here until June. The play will be given tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

A fine production has been made in "The Galley Slave," and all of the members of the company work hard in roles which seem suited to them. The piece is an old-timer, but it has lost none of its strength with years and the pith of the lines and exciting climaxes were well brought out last night.

Mr. Mack and Miss Leone have, naturally, the leading roles and they acquit themselves quite as creditably as in anything they have appeared in here, with one or two possible exceptions.

Other members of the company are hardly less pleasing. Mr. Chapman, Mr. Patton, Mr. Heffron, Mr. Joyner, Mr. Metcalf and Miss Farnum make their acting stand out.

As for the scenery, it is quite up to Mack-Leone standards.

The Burlesquers.

The Cherry Blossoms will give a matinee for ladies at the Metropolitan tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow evening the chorus girls will engage in a tournament, to see which is the most clever vaudeville artist and the contest promises to be as exciting as any chorus girls' nights which have been given yet. In addition to the chorus girls' events, there will be a "shoe-hustling bee," which means that a lot of small boys will scramble for their shoes in a barrel, and the boy who gets his own shoes and gets them on first will receive a prize.

DROVE WIFE OUT INTO THE SNOW

Carl Sodegren Given Forty Days for Disorderly Conduct.

Carl Sodegren, a private tutor, was arrested by Patrolman Bradley at an early hour this morning, on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. It is claimed he drove his wife from their home, 220 East Second street, at 1 o'clock this morning. She ran through the snow to the police station for refuge.

According to the story told Lieut. Fritz, in charge of the station, her husband attempted to throw her down the cellar stairs, and when he failed in this, he threw her down the back steps into the snow.

"I don't like her, anyway," said Sodegren when arrested.

He was arraigned this morning and drew forty days.

SEVEN-CENT FARE OFFERED

Park Point Railway Magnates Say It is Lowest Possible.

In a plain talk to the members of the Park Point Civic club, R. R. Dunn of St. Paul, president of the Interstate Traction company, told them exactly what could be expected of the company.

Mr. Dunn offered to put the 7-cent fare between Park Point and any part of the city in effect May 1. He said that the company was not in a position to establish the straight 5-cent fare at this time, claiming that it might mean bankruptcy to do it, as the line is not more than paying expenses now. The company is planning many improvements this year, including the double-tracking of the line from the aerial bridge to the turn at the yacht club and the erection of a new brick and concrete car barn.

The members of the club wanted him to promise the 5-cent fare at the end of a year if the 7-cent fare proved satisfactory, but this he refused to do, saying that he did not know what the conditions would be a year from now. He stated, however, that if the 7-cent fare proved practicable, and that if in time the 5-cent fare promised to be practicable, the company would make a further reduction. More than that he said he could not promise.

The members of the club have been working hard for reduced fares, and their efforts have been highly successful. The 5-cent reduction will mean a considerable saving, and they hope in time to place the Point on an equal basis with the rest of the city, as far as street car fares are concerned.

HURRY CALL TO THE POLICE

Resulted From the Accidental Discharge of a Revolver.

While trying to induce his wife to leave a disorderly resort, owned by Maud Davis, in the red light district, yesterday afternoon, Ludwig Hogan accidentally discharged a revolver he was carrying. A hurry call was sent for the police, in the belief that Hogan had attempted to murder his wife. It was shown, however, that Hogan had been carrying the weapon for several weeks, and that his wife had tried to take it from him yesterday. During the struggle it was discharged. The bullet, fortunately, lodged in the wall and did no harm.

Hogan was arraigned in the municipal court this morning on the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and was released under a suspended sentence.

ST. PAUL MAN MISSING FROM ELKHART, IND.

South Bend, Ind., April 8.—Robert L. Fields, who came to South Bend, Ind., from St. Paul, Minn., to enter the real estate business, has mysteriously disappeared from Elkhart, Ind. His sudden disappearance and three weeks' absence without any apparent cause has created an impression that he may have met with foul play.

LITTLE ONES BURNED TO DEATH AT CALUMET.

Calumet, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Putting paper into a heating stove during the mother's absence from her home cost the 5-year-old daughter of Joseph Jeacotte, her life and the life of her fifteen-months-old brother here yesterday afternoon. The older child's clothing caught fire and she was burned to a crisp. The carpet in the room where the child was burned also took fire and the baby that was crawling about on the floor was enveloped in flames, dying a few hours after in great agony. The arrival of the mother soon after the fire started saved the home, as she extinguished the flames.

LID LIFTING EXPENSIVE.

Scanlon, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—It cost the keeper of the Windsor saloon $35 and costs for selling two bottles of beer Sunday. Judge F. E. Gooney assessed that fine after hearing the charges against the accused.

A SECRET FOR WOMEN

Madame Moneaux, deceased beauty specialist, of New York, long professed the greatest of all secrets pertaining to feminine charm. And what is this great secret, so much desired by women—the secret that has made a vast fortune for the madam's heirs, and that brought her all the famous actresses and society leaders for patrons?

"What, you don't know?"

It is a simple, but sure method of developing the bust, arms and neck of women, who through defect of nutrition and circulation, are humiliated by undeveloped arms, neck and bust. The treatment consists of applying a powerful but harmless nervine stimulant to the cells of the skin, to be absorbed and utilized as nourishment to the flesh cells and tissues. Beautiful changes are wrought. Ugly, deformed women are developed into charming personages, with well rounded arms and neck and full normal bust of exquisite curve and proportion so much admired in our great actresses and society leaders. Any leading druggist will supply the ingredients to mix at home, and as they are used for various prescriptions no one need be the wiser as to what they are to be used for, which is as it should be for modest womanhood. Get separately "two ounces glycerine," "three ounces Rose Water" and "one ounce Tincture Cadomene" and five cents worth of borax. Take home, mix the glycerine with Tincture Cadomene, shake and let stand two hours; then add a teaspoonful of borax and the rose water. Shake well and apply to the neck, arms and bust, rubbing and massaging until completely absorbed; then wash thoroughly with hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Apply morning and night regularly for several weeks and the most beautiful development will begin to reward the efforts. It is believed by experts to be the most necessary and effective prescription ever conceived.

This is worth keeping, if not for yourself, for some dear friend who needs it.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Infant psychology, dog psychology or any other psychology about which any wise woman ever bothered her head has not half the importance nor half the interest nor do they cost half so much as does the psychology devoted to the purchase of a new Easter hat.

Why is it that hats which today look so new and so startlingly queer, will have a jaded and too, too familiar look three months hence? Why is it that when you go to the milliners your soul shrivels to so insignificant a part of you, that although all the way down town you have repeated, "I'll get a small hat; I'll get a small hat, I'll get a small hat," when you leave you have ordered a hat which will necessitate your walking where you may happen to go? Why is it that although you know that bright green is not a color likely to bring out the beauty of complexion which you lack, that it is that color upon which you settle? Why is it that when you want a hat for street wear that you decided upon one fashioned delicately of tulle and drooping feathers? Why is it when you especially—but what is the use of prolonging questions to which no one knows the answer?

The gentleman of olden days might better have devoted his time to discovering and tabulating his results upon investigation of hat psychology rather than have hurried around after dark with an art nouveau lamp in his hand, hunting for an honest man.

"The hats are beautiful this year," says the milliner with a caressing tone in her voice, and suddenly although you have come in to scoff you remain to admire. You look around at the so-called sailor hats which are a yard and more across and you discover in a subtle way that they're not half bad and that a hat three feet across is the most logical thing imaginable. Then by some process which you cannot understand you remember that you searched all last season for just such a hat but your ideas were so much ahead of the style that you could not discover just what you wanted.

You sit before a pier glass and upon your head is placed a Gibson model which is slightly larger than a Merry Widow which is a good deal larger than there is any need of it being. The Gibson model has uncompromising straight lines and is of a color that makes you look wan and pale. Your hair fades to an insignificant and dusty look, your cheeks develop hollows, your eyes have a slightly hunted look, and you look frazzled and worn out, and old and decrepit.

"Isn't that smart?" asks the milliner in a tone which suggests that she has hunted long for just the model who could appropriately wear that hat.

You look again. Isn't it queer? The color, of course, is not one that you have been accustomed to wear, and it is rather unusual, but isn't the shape nice? Just at the side back of your ear the line is very good. The color isn't so bad. It brings out the yellow tints in your skin, but what else do you live for if it is not to bring out the yellow tints of your complexion? True, it is rather an unhealthy look, but, then, true beauty is not too buxom and too evident. It isn't half a bad hat—in fact, it's a very good hat. And then, by the time you have reached this stage, the matter is as good as settled.

There is another thing about a milliner. She cozily settles a little model on your head, and when you timorously ask the price, she says "nineteen dollars," in such an intimate and deprecating tone, that although you shut your eyes and gasp, to all appearance you act as though $19 were the merest bit of change, and that you are delighted to have secured such a simple and smart hat at such a price, when in fact you were planning to cover your season's purchases with that much.

Why does $19 seem like such a large amount when you are at home adding and subtracting, and such a small and insignificant sum with which to pester the milliner when your are down town?

Then there is the matter of exchanging hats which, of course, occupies quite as important a place as choosing the first one. It is here that the married woman has the great advantage over the one who is still buying her own postage stamps and paying her own car fare. "My husband doesn't like it," says the married woman, as she deposits her first choice of hat, and with a helpless shrug of her shoulders the milliner starts all over again.

"I would give anything," said one of the saleswomen today if somebody with enough originality would come to me and say frankly, 'The janitor of our building doesn't like my hat. Will you change it, please?' Most women are like the ostrich, with its head in the sand. It never occurs to them that we have heard that same old excuse at least 5,000,000 times. The average woman says it with all assurance and belief in the fact that it will be accepted without question, with all the eclat of a person who pronounces a particularly clever and well thought opinion. 'My husband doesn't lige it.' Indeed! I could face the season with with much greater hope if I could feel assured that I wouldn't receive that excuse more than seven times a day."

Hat psychology is interesting.

EVENING CLASS

Of Art School to Meet With Director.

C. C. Rosenkranz, director of the Duluth Art school will meet the evening class of the school for the first time this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The class meet in the art room of the Central high school and any one interested in the work is requested to be at this evening's meeting. Mr. Rosenkranz hopes that the evening class may interest many of the young technical workers in the city and that this department of the school may be one of the most important of the various branches.

At the meeting of the board of managers of the school held yesterday afternoon two new committees were organized. An advisory committee consisting of Miss Carey, Miss Mary Naughton and Miss Robertson was appointed and a committee for securing models for the life classes will consist of Miss Poirier, Miss Hopkins and Miss Thomson.

The first meeting of the class for drawing from life was held this morning at the school. The classes in design were organized this afternoon. It is expected that classes in the metal and leather work will be organized with a short time. The furnishing of the rooms will be completed this week and the routine work of the school established by that time.

THE EASTER HAT.

The Features of Its Size; Color and Trimmings.

"The Parisiennes do not like small hats," says one of their foremost milliners, "and I do not like all-black hats. They are not chic. The best hat of the season is the one turned up on the side, giving the effect of length from front to back—just the opposite to what Paris has been wearing."

But this clever little woman is also using big leghorn hats with discs of flowers for trimming, or straw pompons and aigrettes.

Of course, the crown is high, as is everything else, and some of the smartest makers foretell a great craze for the ruby shades this spring; but, while that may be true, such a hot color surely cannot last throughout the summer.

Straw trimmings are another feature of the season, and the disciples of Audubon may safely rejoice that madame has found a substitute for the beautiful aigrette, the fairy feather that pleased milady so much that her desires have cost many millions of herons their lives. It is the price, not humanity, that has saved the unhappy birds this season; for, in getting the aigrettes, most all the birds have been wiped from the face of the earth, and that even Mrs. Moneybags can hardly afford such a luxury.

However, the straw imitations are pretty, airy and practical, while they been made up in every imaginable shade and color. In fact, two different shades are combined in many cases, such as peacock blue and green or brown.

Straw pompons, too, are novelties for spring hats, and they are so big and fluffy that they rival the popular coque.

The newest models show, in some cases, very floppy brims—while the idea of the draped-net hats is carried out in the straw tam-o'-shanters.

Diabolo has been the game and now diabolo is the new shape for the spring hat. It gets its name from the crown, which is shaped, like the spool of the French pastime. It is six inches in height and curved in at the middle.

The ones seen up to date have been wire frames covered with shirred net and around the depression in the crown a black velvet ribbon fastens several plumes to the side.

Straw toques are predicted as being the rage for the coming season, but there are many women who do not care for straw used in this way, and these will wear toques made of pleated tulle or net, ornamented only by beads to match wound round them, and a stiff military aigrette. These are really very chic, and the beads, when they are in shades to match the hats, are most becoming and quite a novel touch to hats made on this side of the ocean.

Rare and unusual blossoms are one of the special features of this season's flower showings, such as orchids, magnolias, hyacinths in pinks as well as reds, camelias, jasmine, hydrangeas, fuschias, cactus blooms, and the classic iris. Of a less formal beauty are the dainty clover, apple blossoms, wild rose sprays, sweet peas, pansies, nasturtiums, daisies and wild flowers which are all used. Snowballs are one of the flower ideas especially advanced this season. Another feature of the season are flowers like buttercups and cowslips which are bunched into immense pompon effects. Flower trimmings on many of the newest hats reach a dizzy height. Tall nodding roses are one way of attaining this steeple-like effect.

The shirred net hat is popular.

Grasses are used in aigrette effects.

Trimming pins with imitation jade heads are new.

Postillon buckles are especially designed for tall crowned hats.

Tiny flowers are combined with extra large ones in floral garnitures.

Tuscan braids are in high favor this season. They are offered in a line of beautiful designs. Pressed Tuscan shapes are also in demand.

No doubt many of the early hats will follow the chic and charming ideas now prevailing in the Russian turban, the round turban and variations of the same.

• • •

Milan hats of exquisite quality and in extremely modish shape, are trimmed with wide bands of black velvet with a cluster of handsome bronze coques at one side.

Easter Novelties.

In the lovely new designs in ribbons with which the weavers have presented the public this year the little maidens have not been forgotten. A set of ribbons—four yards for sash and three or four hair ribbons in narrower design to match—is put up in a dainty box ready for the summer wardrobe or Easter party.

Those with Dresden designs are perhaps the prettiest, although blues and dainty pinks as ever hold their own, as do the dark reds and some plaids.

Wide sashes of black satin, with long fringed ends, are seen on exclusive models—in cashmere visiting gowns. These are draped in high corselet fashion and fit snugly to the figure.

One of the season's revivals in street materials is prunella cloth, a fabric something on the order of a cashmere but heavier, and therefore more satisfactory from the tailor's standpoint. This year it is brought out in shadow stripes, that showing the chevron being particularly good.

New black combs are shown, the top decorated with cut jet in many beautiful designs and shapes, while for mourning wear the jet is of the dull variety, cut to resemble crepe. Other combs are made of blonde tortoise shell, finished with huge cut bows, or thickly studded with semi-precious stones. They are most attractive and sure to hold a place in the hair dressing of the next few months, for womankind is rapidly reverting to the simplest of coiffures, and, to prevent the backsliding from being too precipitant, hair dressing will be decorated with many beautiful and artistic combs.

New bags to carry those innumerable details that women like to have within reach are made of pigskin, and sometimes are even in the shape of that rotund animal, the head being left for the coins, while the back has handles attached and opens to receive the visiting cards, memorandum and the many samples that a woman is said to collect on a morning's shopping tour. It is hardly likely that such a peculiar fashion should be at all popular, but at the present moment it is very distinctive, one might almost say conspicuous.

There is a great variety in the cuffs used on the blouses for the coming season. Sometimes they are of the stiff, masculine variety, and sometimes they are turnback, starched affairs; again, they are merely a ruffle; and others are a band of embroidery; edged or not with lace, as may seem best to the dressmaker.

Then, too, there are the mousquetaire or mitten cuffs of lace, which extend from a small puff in the elbow, and closely cover the wrist, and the knuckles of the hand.

It is said that pockets are to return with the fashions of the spring, but in spite of the rumor no one has ventured to foretell where these comforts to femininity will be placed in the costume. Is it that they will be fastened, as of old, to the underskirt, or will they take their old position at the placket, or, perhaps, will they be cunningly placed in the belt of one of the new semi-princesse gowns?

Perhaps they will find a nesting place at the end of the long sash ends, so popular this year, or, again, there is a possibility that they may be sewn to the hem of the dress. Of course, no matter where they are, it will only be possible to use them to carry the dainty mouchoir of milady.

A flatter looking thing than a dead domestic duck is not within the realm of thought or imagination. A wild duck, one which has felt impelled to live its own untrammeled life, enjoying nature and exciting life, has little of the same look. The rush of life and the uncertainty of each day's experience, the joy and glamour for the unexpected, all are suggested somewhat, but the domestic duck simply indicates inexperience, a narrowed horizon, which sees nothing beyond bringing to maturity a flock of little ones, who take to water. The only tragedy that could occur would be numbering in the family one who refused to go into the pond at the end of the duck run. Flat, flat, flat! The rather nervous-looking hens, which are equally dead, but not so dead-looking, are greatly to be preferred. And yet the end of the two is the same, which leads one to wonder somewhat whither, and also why?

TRAMPS GROWING LESS.

St. Cloud Believes It Has Rid Itself of Nuisance.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not a single tramp applied for lodging at the police station Monday night. This is the first time in three months that this has occurred. Almost every night from fifteen to thirty have found lodging in the local lockup. The police believe that with the approach of the warmer weather the tramps in this city will be few and far between. St. Cloud is only a few hours' ride from the Twin Cities, and the tramps will probably keep on going.

During the month of March over 300 were lodged at the station.

The Varying Types of SPRING TAILORMADES

Plaid Traveling Costume

Tailormade Visiting Costume

Two-toned Street Suit

Natty Afternoon Costume

Stunning Street Suits of Plain and Striped Worsteds in One and Two-tone Effects Sleeves of Three Distinct Types - Simple Costumes Smartened by Jaunty Waistcoats.

The woman who is unable to find a satisfactory street suit among the new spring models must be exceedingly difficult to please, for not only is there a wide range of materials from which to select, but also a seemingly endless variation of the fashionable lines and combinations thereof. Among the one-tone effects are noticed many of the popular blues—navy, sapphire, Gobelin and French porcelain—all of which are to be greatly the vogue during the ensuing spring and summer. Gunmetal will be one of the principal gray shades, often combined with pearl and white in the form of wide and narrow stripes; black and white will be used for shepherd checks and many two-toned browns.

Trig Walking Skirts.

So firmly have the plaited skirts with band trimmings enwrapped themselves about the heart of American femininity that they have survived the prophecy anent the supremacy of gores and circulars. It would seem as though every possible variation had been made with plaits, so far as skirts go, but some of the combinations with gores are absolutely novel and wonderfully trig. Two amongst these recent models possess the virtue of swinging gracefully because of the arrangement of the sections. In one there is a cluster of narrow plaits, in the center of the front and the back, with three intervening side gores, and in the other four groups of double box plaits alternate with the gores. These skirts are markedly longer than those worn during the past few months, and in most instances clear the ground by barely two inches.

Lax Sleeve Laws.

Coat sleeves are not governed by any hard and fast rules, although three distinct types are chiefly used. The butterfly, which at first was considered rather too elaborate for tailor-mades, is now employed for the very simplest of them, and seems quite as much in keeping with a short jacket and skirt as the full-length conventionally shaped coat sleeve or the three-quarter puff, banded to the arm below the elbow. Save in the case of the Japanese type, sleeves are still plaited or shirred into the armhole, and are moderately full, albeit the prophecy that absolutely plain sleeves would be used has been disturbing the sleep of innumerable thin-armed women.

Spring Coat Shapes.

The criterion for coat shapes is merely their becomingness. The woman who is what the brutally frank saleswoman terms "figureless," naturally does not select one of those natty, tight-fitting little cutaways which reveal every charming curve as well as every awkward angle. She clings persistently to the half-fitting back and box-shaped front of medium length, differing from the erstwhile popular Prince Chap by reason of its single-breasted fronts sloping slightly from below the waist line, but with precisely the same type of collar, cuffs and pocket flaps made wholly of the cloth or with silk or velvet insets. The length of butterfly coats is governed by the proportions of the figure, but all of them extend well over the hips and are invariably somewhat longer at the front and back.

On very similar lines is an exceedingly natty cutaway with sharply pointed fronts and back, but with full puffed elbow sleeves in lieu of the oriental type. A jacket which just escaped being an Eton, is so short that it barely covers the hips at the sides and back, and so tightly fitting that it reveals every curve which the woman who essays it should possess. It is single-breasted, closing midway from throat to waist and generously cut away at both extremities. Like the majority of the shorter coats, it has puffed sleeves banded at the elbow.

Half Long Coats.

Tailor-made worsted suits, with half long coats, are much in favor for general wear, as well as for semidress occasions. One of the smartest of such models is of knee length and half-fitting, with a single-breasted front opening over an elaborate waist of a matching shade of chiffon and worn with an untrimmed short-gored skirt. Another long coat of a gunmetal and white-striped Panama suit was on distinctly Empire lines and worn over a seven-gored circular skirt trimmed with several graduated bias bands of the same material. These half long coats to be worn with short skirts will be duplicated in the piques and linens intended for summer street wear and for traveling, the only modification is being the sleeves, which will be of wrist instead of elbow length.

Braids Versus Embroideries.

Some of the most attractive of the spring tailor-mades are trimmed exclusively with broad Hercules braid of a widely contrasting color, such as black on Copenhagen blue, gray or black and white plaid. In some instances it entirely outlines the coat, covers the waistcoat and bands the skirt in lieu of the usual bias-cut trimmings. There is an endless variety of fancy braidings, any of which may be employed as are the Hercules widths, and, of course, soutache is high in favor for decorating worsteds just as it is for silks and linens. In fact, braids are temporarily driving embroideries from the realm of dressmaking, simply because the fad for using handwork was carried to such an extreme that it became almost vulgar and women who aimed at sartorial refinement gradually began to discard embroideries as too florid and commonplace. Silk bands with contrasting soutache embroidery make wonderfully effective garnishings for the simple worsted suits if it is desirable to use only a very small amount of trimming, an idea exemplified by a navy blue serge with black soutache embroidering, white silk bands trimming the coat only, the skirt being guiltless of decoration. Braid enriches many of the separate silk coats designed for semidress and for short-distance motoring, of which the most attractive are in such effective tints as carnelian red, burnt orange, nattier blue and oriental green. They are usually of the redingote order, outlined with matching flat silk braids and fastened as well as decorated with huge crochet buttons and military cordings.

Rough Silk Suits.

Time was when the natural-colored rough pongee was the sole specimen of its weave to be used for street suits, and if that shade chanced not to be becoming, the woman who considered her appearance of first importance admired and priced the material, but passed on. Now the shantoongs, tussorah, pagodas and all the other fascinating weaves may be purchased in every shade typical of the Flowery Kingdom, the most delicate shades of the wistaria and the chrysanthemum being reproduced, as well as the cherry and the plum, and other practical colors suitable for the workaday American existence. For the street the rough silks are made up on precisely the same lines as are the worsteds and trimmed with similar garnishings; and, as the material is usually a yard wide, 18 yards is quite sufficient for a three-piece costume. Some of the more expensive rough silks have flowered or Persian borderings, which adequately trim both skirt and coat, while those which are striped to duplicate American and English weaves may be diversified by the usual crossed bias bands.

Jaunty Waistcoats.

Many a simple little tailor-made has been saved from mediocrity by a fancy waistcoat, such as those to be worn with the new worsted and rough silk suits. One of the prettiest of these natty accessories is of English cretonne Pompadour pattern, cut with a V neck, short-pointed fronts, the whole edged with deep blue piqué. Another of heavily corded white piqué is double-breasted and closed with Dresden buttons. For summer use the wash waistcoat is far and away the more desirable, as it adds immeasurably to the daintiness of a strictly tailored costume, especially if it is one that has had hard usage.

Collars and Cuffs.

The up-to-date tailor-made girl, whether she incline to fine worsteds or to rough silks as a material for her street suits, realizes that she cannot have too many attachable collars and cuffs with which to diversify its appearance. The plain and hand-embroidered linens always look dainty and will continue to be worn, but at the moment are not considered quite so smart as are those of piqué in the pale blues, pale pinks, rose colors and orchid shades. Much Gobelin blue is used, and any number of the plain pongee natural-colored shades. The most popular model for these collars is the pointed or shawl shape, and they, like the pointed cuffs, are provided with buttonholes to be fastened to buttons of corresponding size, sewn upon the coat. When it is not desirable to use contrasting collars and cuffs of pongees or piqué a dark tailor-made may be slightly relieved at the coat fronts and sleeve edges by narrow facings of white piqué.

Strictly Tailored Shirtwaists.

Striped and plain linen and pongee are used for the strictly tailored shirtwaists used chiefly for morning wear beneath worsted tailor-mades. These have groups of pin tucks, resembling panels, in the center of the front and back, flanked by wide side plaits, the outer plaits wide enough to extend over the top of the sleeve, affording the desired long-shouldered effect. Another model not unlike the Peter Pan negligee is sometimes seen, but it is decidedly unbecoming to any save a typical shirtwaist figure, as its plainness is unbroken unless the left side breast pocket may be considered an ornament. With both these models, striped linen, Gobelin blue piqué or Shantoong silk stiff collars and cuffs are correct and very much affected by the modish shirtwaist maiden.

New Sailor Hats.

Exceedingly severe are some of the new sailor hats, notably those with broad, flat brims and moderately high crowns. They come in rough and Neapolitan straws and are banded and flat-bowed with plain and fancy ribbons. Another new sailor shape has rather a narrow brim and a high crown. It is trimmed with a flat band, or with a long, wide bow, but has no upstanding trimming. Sailors will be prime favorites for runabout purposes all the spring and summer and are precisely the shape to accompany the simple trotter suits. Contrary to general opinion, the nautical hat is becoming to the average woman if worn with a veil, as that accessory softens the hard line of the straight, sharp brim.

Novel Hatpins.

Some of the fancy hatpins are works of art. They are round, flat, oblong or half-moon shaped, formed of stones, metal and composition of every imaginable hue and of mammoth proportions. The agate is one of the momentary fads, and there are innumerable combinations of rhinestones with jet, pearl, silver and gold. To present a woman with a handsome hatpin is really to furnish her with a valuable and easily adjusted hat trimming.

Flat Hand Bags.

No longer are hand bags bulky in size, nor are they ever supposed to bulge, after the fashion of the badly wrapped umbrella. To be strictly modish, the hand bag should be almost flat, with sharply defined corners, of oblong shape and of the finest quality of mouse, lizard skin, seal, suede or Russian kid used together or separately. Gold, burnt silver and gunmetal are extensively employed for mountings, and all chains are shorter. A perfectly fitted hand bag contains a card-case, vanity mirror and a change purse, so infinitesimal that it may be slipped inside the glove.

Modish Hand Bags.

Upper right: White suede oblong bag; alligator rounded flap, silver embroidered; silver chain.

Center: Black lizard skin; gunmetal mountings; lizard skin chain.

What to Make at Lenten Sewing Classes.

To sew at the seven weekly meetings of a Lenten sewing class without a definite object in view other than to provide sick people, too poor to select their own wearing apparel, with wrappers and skirts and night dresses—flannels and calicoes chosen by charity committees are invariably conspicuous for their ugliness—no longer appeals forcibly to the youthful Leuten worker. She sees no reason why her pretty, carefully manicured fingers should labor upon bulky, rough-textured garments which an ordinary seamstress can put together, when they might be constructing beautifully useful articles that may be sold at an after-Easter bazar to persons eager to pay extravagantly for the sake of aiding the charity workers to augment the net profits which are to benefit some local orphanage, hospital or home.

For many seasons past a Lenten sewing class composed of fashionable New York girls and matrons has held an Easter hat sale, each member acting as saleswoman and endeavoring to outdo her associates in the profitable disposal of her wares. And there is certainly nothing easier for deft fingers to make from odds and ends of millinery than a modish hat such as those of satin, silk or lace now worn the year round, the frames for which may be purchased at wholesale rates if a dozen or more are desired.

But hats are not the only articles which will attract people to a charity sale. Any amateur milliner is usually quite an adept at making the bons and scarfs of chiffon, fringed ribbon or net which most women substitute for fur neck pieces as soon as spring arrives. Prettiest of simple ruches are those of malinette, composed of several six-inch wide strips double box plaited upon an inch-wide band, the ends finished with long velvet or ribbon loops. Bons of 12 inch, two-yard lengths of allover Italian, Irish or Venise lace are bound all round with baby ribbon, upon which is sewn marabout or ostrich feather bordering, while scarfs that may also be worn as evening head coverings are made of chiffon bordered with narrow satin ribbon quilting, hemstitched edges and embroidered ends or with feather-stitched edges and ends. Strips of allover fancy net are bordered with narrow satin ribbon ruchings, and when plain net is used the edges are fancy stitched and the ends appliqued with lace galloons or medallions.

Since dainty afternoon aprons have again come into vogue, every woman is so anxious to possess a collection of them that Lenten workers will find their labors in this direction well repaid. The most profitable to make are the tea aprons of dotted or embroidered Swiss with lace-edged ruffles and ribbon strings, the materials for which may be purchased by the bolt at wholesale rates. Another good investment is a piece of white lawn, from which to make voluminous morning aprons with broad machine-tucked hems and tucks and wide sash strings which, while readily selling for 50 cents, will cost scarcely half that sum.

White lawn and lace petticoats with gored fronts and sides and draw string bands may be quickly put together if the work is systematically apportioned, some class members taking turns at the sewing machines, others putting on flounces and the remainder finishing.

Aside from an infant's robes and long petticoats, almost any woman can make such a trousseau, and as the work is so dainty, there are Lenten classes which confine themselves particularly to it, taking contracts to furnish all underwear, flannels, knit jackets and bootees, as well as the decorations of straw toilet baskets, which must be half as large as a hat box, lined with quilted, delicately tinted satin, frilled profusely with dotted Swiss and trimmed with matching satin ribbons.

Squares of cretonne measuring from one-half to two yards edged with fringe or wide white linen lace, bordered with broad ribbon or with wide hem fancy-stitched in silk on the upper side, make attractive table covers that sell like hot cakes at good profit. More elaborate cretonne covers have their figures outlined with white soutache, and others, of dull dark shadings, are braided with gold. The same idea may be developed by having conventional designs stamped on colored denims of the type used for cottage upholstery.

Contracts for hemming napkins, table cloths, towels and sheets for households are sometimes undertaken by newly organized charity Lenten laborers when the organization has not a large enough fund with which to purchase working materials, but when such an organization is interested in some particular hospital, it is wisest to make a number of pajamas and wrappers of outing flannel, which wears well, is easily laundered and withal inexpensive. It is also an excellent idea to make a stock of lightweight woolen short kimonos, as they are most convenient shoulder protection for invalids able to sit up in bed.

Most Lenten sewing classes give some sort of an entertainment in the forty days preceding Easter. If the house in which the meetings are regularly held is spacious, informal musicales are given by performers volunteering, their services, and by this method many a talented young musician has made the initial step toward fame. Or there may be a series of recitations or readings aloud from the latest book published on art, history or science—even of fiction, if the members can agree upon an author.

At some houses where sewing classes meet, it is customary to serve tea and wafers at five o'clock, the collation being set out in the dining-room and partaken of informally without the presence of servants. To this revel, the masculine relatives and friends of the members are welcomed, for by that time the serious work of the afternoon is over and every fair philanthropist is quite ready to put aside her needle and devote herself to the art of being agreeable, even to the verge of coquetry.

Another evidence of the Greek mode is the new "Manche Grecque" or Grecian sleeve, a recent novelty in high-class toilettes developed by ultra makers in Paris and on this side of the water. It consists of a series of folds or tucks, three or four inches wide when the sleeve is rather close fitting. If it terminates just below the elbow, the tucks are applied to a fitted lining. Sometimes the lower tuck is the only finish, and again a band of pretty embroidery or lace is used, the trimming being applied to the lining and not to the last tuck.

Colored Bordered Handkerchiefs.

Linen handkerchiefs have much wider borders than formerly. In the less expensive varieties the borders are printed in mauve, blue, pink and green, sometimes in the darker shades of these colors, which is, indeed, a departure from those bordered handkerchiefs of former years. Immensely smart are the colored linen handkerchiefs with printed white borders, which from a description would seem a bit outre, but, on the contrary, are so perfectly relieved that they simply look novel and in good taste. On all these two-toned handkerchiefs the borders show the deep, wide curves joining squares and straight lined borders suggestive of the Greek borderings used on so many of the bordered dress materials. Not infrequently the Greek key in its entirety is employed, and again there are rows of discs in varying sizes.

EVELYN THAW

Has Instructed Agent to Find Her a Home in California.

Pittsburg, Penn., April 8.—Evelyn Thaw has sent an agent to California for the purpose of taking options on certain pieces of property there, it being her intention to reside there ultimately. This statement was made here yesterday by persons who claim to know much about the intentions of the young woman, and who do not subscribe to the statements of her attorneys that she will bury herself in Europe. That the same agent who, some time ago, took an option on a house near Mrs. Thaw's Lyndhurst—but was later called off—has been sent to the Pacific coast, is the story of yesterday.

Back of this move there is a story of the wedding of Evelyn to Harry Thaw, and that the young millionaire broke a promise to live with her in California is commonly discussed among friends of both sides. After the marriage Harry asked Evelyn where she would like to go.

"To California. Take me to the coast. Let us bury ourselves there for a year or so anyway until all this awful notoriety is past," was Evelyn's reply.

That night they started for the coast. Evelyn killed a rattlesnake in the California mountains and broke into print, much to the disgust of Mrs. William Thaw, who at once wrote Harry to keep his young wife in the background. Evelyn was well content to remain away from Broadway, according to letters written at that time, and had Harry look at several properties there, intending to settle down, but the roving disposition of Harry asserted itself and he insisted on coming back East.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

PACKEY IS FAVORITE

Chicago Boy is Picked to Beat James Edward Britt.

McFarland is Popular on Coast and Money Goes on Him.

Chicago, April 8.—Chief of boxing events for the current week, so far as interest to Chicago is concerned, is the tilt slated for next Saturday at San Francisco, with Jimmy Britt and Packey McFarland as the battlers.

McFarland has been installed a 10 to 9 favorite on the coast. The native sons like his style and ways. His evident skill, shown in the boxing quarters, and his affable behavior have combined to make him popular, while Packey, on his side, is so pleased with California that he threatens to stay there for keeps. Should he do so, the Californians would make him an adopted son in a hurry, and he could get more backing and more good treatment than even Britt used to receive.

McFarland seems to be a logical winner over Britt, with a fair deal and good referee. Neither of them can deal a sledge-hammer punch. Both are speedy, showy boxers, and both are versed in science and ring generalship. Allowing these qualities to be equal, the shade goes to McFarland on account of unbeaten confidence and determination. He will outgame and outlast Jimmy almost to a certainty.

McFarland is a youth who would have become popular in any walk of life, and the boxing game has simply given him a chance to become more widely known than if he had remained in a small circle. A great many people who now antagonize boxing would change their ideas if they could have a ten-minute talk with McFarland, who is about as far removed from the old-fashioned idea of a pugilist as any boy could be.

HEAVYWEIGHTS MATCHED.

Peterson and Beaulieu Will Meet on the Mat.

Emil Peterson, champion heavyweight wrestler of the Head of the Lakes, will meet Bill Beaulieu, another local heavyweight, at the Metropolitan opera house next Saturday night. Peterson hasn't had a match in some weeks, but he is in good condition and Beaulieu should be as a child in arms with him. The big teamster broke his pick with the wrestling followers when he went down before Andrew Danielson some months ago, but he is anxious to reinstate himself in their good graces and will go in with everything he knows next Saturday night.

When one comes to size up the Northern league circuit for the season of 1908, its advantages over the four-club circuit of last year become more evident. Last year the league didn't have any circuit at all. It was a straightaway grasshopper course, with Duluth in the middle position, and the teams jumping both ways from this city.

This year the towns are laid in a wheel, and the travel will be continuous. There will be no doubling on tracks, and increased mileage expenses in consequence. From Duluth the teams may go to Winnipeg, then to Brandon, following the same course around through Devils Lake to Fargo, and then back again to Duluth. The supposition that it would be necessary to return to Winnipeg after playing Brandon isn't correct, as Brandon is on the western branch of the Great Northern, and the teams may continue through there across the border.

The mileage is also cut down considerably this year. Over the new line, completed last fall, the distance from Duluth to the Western Canada metropolis is cut from 440 to 371 miles. There is quite a saving in that item alone, for every few miles count in the transportation of the twelve or thirteen men of a ball team.

The league has far better prospects than the Northern-Copper Country league had at this time last year. Fargo and Brandon will not be forced to turn out very strongly to better the attendance figures of Calumet and Houghton last year. With better attractions, the Duluth and Winnipeg figures will be boosted, and there will be no runaway race. Even the Winnipeg magnates realize that there is nothing in exceeding the salary limit by $400 or $500 and taking a pennant without an effort. Another such race as last year might kill the league altogether. The teams will be kept close to the salary limit, and any tendencies to exceed it by big sums will be promptly frowned upon.

How popular a world's champion in any line of sport does make a man! Here Frank Gotch is deluged with offers of theatrical engagements. From France and England promoters are cabling and writing the new champion, offering fabulous prices for his services. The sporting public is queerly constituted. Just for the sight of a man who has gained a name for himself by athletic achievements, it will rush to a box office and hand over the coin. Gotch pulled down a good sum of money last Friday night, but his share of the purse is a mere drop in the bucket compared to what the prestige he gains will bring him.

The ante-season games between representatives of the two big leagues in different seasons are now on, and they are getting away with it, despite the fact that April has just started in. The schedule committees of the two leagues have again disregarded the warnings of the weather man this year, however, and the season will open just about as close to winter as it is possible to count on fair weather. Last year's experiences will probably be repeated, the fans will shiver while they get their first views of the teams, the pitchers will throw their arms into uselessness in the frigid temperature, and the schedule committees will do it all over again next year.

A. W. Kuehnow, secretary of the Duluth Baseball association, entertained the sporting writers at an informal dinner last evening. They talked over the season's prospects, received a better insight into league affairs, and the cordial feeling between the club and the scribes was more firmly cemented.

HOLLAND TO BE CAPTAIN

Owner of "Scud" Will be Skipper of New Yacht "Duluth."

Order Will be Placed in Chicago Next Week.

George N. Holland, owner and skipper of the yacht, "Scud," will be captain of the proposed new yacht "Duluth," which will be entered next fall in the Nutting cup races at Chicago by the Duluth Yacht club. Mr. Holland is one of the best skippers sailing over the Duluth club's course. He has had many years of experience in handling sailing boats and his selection to lead the crew of the new yacht is pleasing to members of the Duluth club. Under the rules of the races, one member of the crew of each yacht may be a professional sailor, but the Duluth crew will propably all be local and amateur.

The Duluth club will not delay in ordering the new yacht. A representative will be sent to Chicago next week and the order placed with a firm in that city. The yacht will be built in conformity with the specifications set forth in the rules for the races and the yacht will be completed in time for the members of the crew to become acquainted with it before the races.

The funds for the new yacht are coming in well. The club has made an appeal to the business intersts of Duluth to contribute to the venture, which will be a fine advertisement for Duluth in the lower lakes. It is the first time the Duluth club has contemplated branching out and the encouragement the officers are receiving is gratifying to them. The big business interests of the city are contributing generously and it is expected the public affairs committee will also take a hand, leaving no doubt that the required $2,000 will be raised.

M'GOORTY IS ON THE RANGE

Oshkosh Boy in Training for Bout With McCune.

Eddie McGoorty, the Oshkosh fighter, left for the range yesterday afternoon with his trainer and manager, Eddie Santry. McGoorty will take up his training on the range again and will be in fine shape by the time he goes on with Tom McCune.

Both McGoorty and his manager are full of confidence. They merely smile at the statements that McGoorty hasn't any punch. Eddie says when he fought McCune last he wasn't in any kind of shape to put up a fight. Now he is trained down to the notch, is in the hands of a good man, and will go against McCune ready to put up the best kind of a scrap of which he is capable.

McCune is training in Duluth and is getting to look better every day. Tom is no child any more, but he hasn't forgotten what he knew about the boxing game. He has far more experience than the Oshkosh boy and that will be very handy to him. Then again he has demonstrated often that he has a knock-out wallop and McGoorty will be worried in his anxiety to keep away from that. Detroit sports are taking a keen interest in the bout and there will be no dearth of friends of both men at the ringside.

DULUTH BOWLERS WIN.

Jackson Team Easy in Match Rolled at Superior.

A picked team of bowlers from the Central alleys went to Superior last night and easily won three straight games from the Jackson team on the new Jackson alleys. The Centrals totaled 2,335 against 2,205 for the Superior five. Huber of the Jacksons bowled the high score of 196. A return match will be played on the Central alleys here Thursday night, April 16, when total pins will count to decide a side bet of $50.

Pease and Kelleys.

The Pease roller polo team of Superior will come to Duluth tonight and will meet the Kelley five at the Temple rink. When they met before the Kelleys won by a scor of 3 to 1 and they believe they can repeat it on their own floor. The game will probably be the last before the series between the Kelleys and the Lincoln Parks for the Head of the Lakes championship and the Kelleys are anxious to win, as they have not yet been defeated.

KILL MANY GAMES.

Harvard Athletic Committee May Abolish All Winter Sports.

Cambridge, Mass., April 8.—In connection with the announcement of the Harvard University football schedule for next fall, the Harvard athletic committees intimated last night that in order to comply with the faculties advice for the restriction of intercollegiate games, the committee proposes to do away with all winter intercollegiate sports. If this action is finally decided upon it will mean that minor sports like hockey, basketball, fencing, association football and the intercollegiate kind of games will be done away with as far as Harvard is concerned.

EMMA GOLDMAN CROSSES BORDER

Is Finally Allowed to Enter the United States.

Winnipeg, April 8.—Miss Emma Goldman went from Canada to the United States last night without interference. The American immigration authorities did not detain her and the United States officers seemed to be solicitous for her comfort. Miss Goldman walked from Emerson, Manitoba, to Noyes, Minn., a distance of about one hundred yards, and boarded the Soo flyer for St. Paul. American officials are reticent as to what occurred Monday night. Miss Goldman was certainly detained at Noyes and left the Soo train on the order of immigration officers. She produced the American citizenship papers of her husband but one official would not pass upon them. Chief Immigration Inspector Carr of Winnipeg was on the ground and later a third inspector, named Robbins, arrived. The three officials held a meeting after midnight and passed upon the papers, evidently deciding that they could not detain Miss Goldman.

It is expected that the only reason Miss Goldman did not proceed south Monday night was that it required three to pass on her papers and, as Robbins came in late, the meeting could not be held to examine the papers until several hours after the flyer had departed.

It is stated that the officials were working under definite instructions, but they absolutely refuse to make any statement.

There was no scene when Miss Goldman was ordered to leave the train, although she was angry at the delay. Those who are in touch with officials say that it was evident that they desired to keep Miss Goldman on the Canadian side of the line if possible. Last night Miss Goldman said:

"There is nothing to all this commotion. It required a board of three to pass on my papers and they found that I am an American citizen because I married an American. My husband, J. E. Keersner, was a foreigner at one time, but he became Americanized. I do not think there were any special instructions from Washington in my case."

WILL BUILD NEW CHURCH.

Members of Second Presbyterian Congregation to Look for Site.

Members of the Second Presbyterian church, who held their annual meeting last evening, decided to secure a site for a new church, and the trustees were instructed to look up a desirable location. One will be sought farther west than the present home of the congregation, at 1515 West Superior street.

The following elders were elected: Emerson Hoyt, Henry Thompson and Charles Rickart. The following were named as trustees: Dr. Alexander Graham and W. M. Folzer. The reports of the officers for the past year showed the congregation and its auxiliary societies to be in good financial condition. It was decided to increase the salary of the pastor, Rev. J. L. McBride. The ladies of the church served refreshments after the meeting.

DEATHBED CONFESSION

Of Nurse Who Vanished With Child 25 Years Ago.

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—Mrs. Margaret Thomas of 3016 Locust street, has received a letter from Mrs. Nona Webb, her cousin, whose home is in California, saying she had learned that Mrs. Nannie Grant, who kidnaped Mrs. Thomas' daughter, Leila Graham Hume, when she was the infant's nurse, in 1883, had died in Maplewood, Mo., and had confessed on her deathbed that the child was adopted by Louis Magel, then residing at 2419 Carondtee avenue, this city. The St. Louis Recorder's records show Louis Magel adopted "Lillie Adams," in October, 1883, and give Nannie Grant as guardian. Mrs. Thomas' maiden name was Adams. While the young mother lay sick in a hospital here, in 1883, her child, with its nurse, disappeared.

Buildings Razed.

The work of razing the brick buildings on the site to be occupied by the Wisconsin Central depot was begun yesterday. All the buildings between Sixth avenue west and the site occupied by the Metropolitan opera house, will be demolished. The Metropolitan building will be allowed to stand until the termination of the present theatrical season, May 23, or perhaps a month longer. It will then be torn down and the brick utilized by the railroad company.

S.S.S.

PURELY VEGETABLE

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS

The healthful vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed, and the method of combining and preparing them so that they build up and strengthen every part of the body, make it the best of all Spring tonics. S. S. S. is nature's medicine, free from all strong mineral mixtures, and made entirely of the healing, cleansing juices and extracts of roots and herbs; a safe and pleasant tonic for persons of any age.

Almost every one feels bad in the Spring. Some have no particular ailment, but are debilitated, run-down and weak, and their systems are in a state of general disorder. The change in the seasons produces a like change in our bodies, and more is required from the blood, from which source we receive our physical nourishment and strength, at this particular time than at any other.

The refuse and impurities which naturally accumulate in our systems are not properly expelled in Winter, because those members whose duty it is to perform this work of drainage do not receive sufficient stimulation from bodily exercise, and therefore grow dull and sluggish in their action; nor is the skin as active in eliminating waste matters in cold weather.

These Winter accumulations pollute the blood, and destroy its nutritive qualities to such an extent that when Spring comes, and everything takes on new life, and we change our method of living, the circulation is so weakened that it is unable to supply the increased demands of the system, and we suffer in consequence.

Last Spring I used S. S. S., and I believe it to be a very fine remedy indeed. My blood was weak and impure, and my general system in a run-down condition. I had dizzy spells, my appetite was not good, and I had but little life and energy about me. Feeling so badly I decided that something had to be done, so I commenced the use of S. S. S. I began to feel better from the start. My appetite picked up, the dizzy spells left me, and I gained six pounds in weight. It gave me rich, pure blood and built up my general health. It is an excellent remedy, and worthy of all praise.

W. E. CRABB.
319 E. Elm St., Lima, Ohio.

Our physical machinery seems to get "out of gear," and suffers from weakness, nervousness, loss of appetite, lassitude, etc.; sleep is not refreshing, there is a constant worn-out feeling, and we do not feel able to perform the ordinary duties of daily life. This disordered condition demands the use of a tonic which has the additional qualities of a first-class blood purifier, for to restore health and strength the blood must be purified and built up to its normal, rich condition.

S. S. S. is not only the best Spring tonic, but its ability and worth as a genuine blood purifier, is universally recognized. It goes right down into the circulation and meets every demand for a tonic and blood purifier. S. S. S. removes all accumulations, impurities, and waste matters from the circulation, enriches and purifies the blood, and brings about a healthy change throughout the entire system. S. S. S. rids the body of that worn-out, run-down feeling, improves the appetite and digestion, reinvigorates every fibre and tissue of the body, and imparts healthy energy and strength to those who are suffering from the unpleasant conditions which always come with Spring.

S. S. S. does not contain any form of mineral ingredient, and those who are in need of a tonic, whether for old or young, would do well to remember this. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

CALENDARS AND CREEDS AS RELATED TO EASTER

KEEPING Lent by preparing for Easter is certainly not bad, says Irene Clark Safford in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It appears, however, to promote some sarcasm from the proverbial philosopher. "The various church choirs," he writes, "are observing Lent by practicing hard on their Easter music." Blessings on the choirs! "Heaven must whisper them in the ear," as Browning has it. Certainly poets and musicians "know." Fixing their minds upon the new song, man and nature sing together in the Easter festival must be better than lingering in any valleys of humiliation and shadow which the very purpose of the Christian Easter was to wipe out forever. The regeneration of nature and the regeneration of man would seem alike to carry joy in their train as the one due tribute toward which all should conspire.

It seems easier for people to believe that another can bear their sins than bear away the shadows cast by them on the path of life and immortality. Yet, if one died that all might live, as the orthodox tell us, why should not one break through the darkness and sorrow for once in the world's channel, that all might rejoice? Was it meant that sackcloth and ashes, that fasting and solemn countenances, should continue when once the glories of a resurrection morn had been sprung upon the earth? How should any choir that believed in such a wonder waste its time in doing aught but preparing peans in its honor? Nay, why should any mortals who see through Easter lilies white gleams of immortality, sing any other note through the awakening earth than the one marked out for them by the Lord of the Easter, who declared the whole purpose of His ksndred message to man that his "joy might be full."

Youth of the Soul.

"To the regeneration of earth Christ added the new birth and eternal youth of the soul. Out of night he brought day, out of death life everlasting," says one who was born blind, yet caught the new light upon the purple hills of life and rejoiced in it with a voice past singing. All the way to Easter was Easter gladness to the early Christians. "The whole of time is a festival unto Christians, because of the excellency of the good things which have been given," says Chrysostom, and that wise Origen, who outstripped the early fathers in perceiving the remedial, not punitive, nature of heaven's judgment upon sinners, declared that the Christian who abides in the light of the great truths Christ brought to the world, "is every day keeping Easter." The earliest records show no special hour set apart for such a time of rejoicing, but when in the line of ancient customs an old festival was appropriated by Christian worshippers. Bede tells us that it was "observed with the gladness of a new solemnity." The Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring was back of it, and the life resurgent from the soil spoke of the regeneration springing up in man to eternal life. Joy was the keynote to it, a "joy that no man taketh from you," the promise of its endurance even in a world of enmity and strife. Yet love was the law of it, a love of the earth for the shower and as deep and high and divine as the love that giveth its life for another.

"Continue ye in my love" and "Love one another, as I have loved you," were the simple conditions given for that fulness of life and joy which the Christian Easter typifies, and why that should confine itself to any special day it is no easier to see now than in Chrysostom's time. In fact, it can not be done. No one can know the true Easter gladness who has not been "practicing hard on the Easter music," like the arraigned choirs for many a Lental season. And that does not mean that he has also been fasting and mortifying the flesh, either. Not to suffer, but to rejoice with him in that celestial love and gladness, which once for all had been born out of suffering for all men, was the insistent note of the gospel of life which Christ brought to the world, and the historian confirms the truth of it when he says that, setting apart special times and seasons for a work that should go on all the year round was "an idea quite allen from the early Christian mind."

Confusion Among Faithful.

It is edifying to read that, in the absence of any authoritative decision as to such seasons, or any word concerning them in the New Testament, dissensions and controversies distracted the church as to the matter of dates, "thus creating a wonderful and laborious confusion" in the ranks of the faithful, to say nothing of ridicule and raillery in the camp of the unbelievers. That the trouble even invaded the household and threatened disaster to this bulwark of the state, appears from Bede's report that the pious Queen Eauflieda, adhering to the Roman date, persisted in keeping Palm Sunday in fasting and prayer, while her Northumbrian lord, King Oscoy, was celebrating Easter in gay and royal fashion on the same day.

The Main Question.

But as to throwing a ray of light upon the main question, that is not what a man and his newspaper are made for. There is the Dupont calendar, she can study that. Alas, for the dear old-fashioned almanac that was as good as a prayer book to the non-Episcopalian sister. These advertising calendars that have taken the place of it have made much of the trouble. Hunting Easter by them is as bad as taking lover's vows by the moon, the inconstant moon, which wise Juliet so resented. The civil calendar and the ecclesiastical calendar show such discrepancies that one can only echo the regret of a profound student of the case, that "the reverend fathers who formed the Council of Nice, were not advised to abandon the moon altogether, and appoint Easter to be celebrated on the first or second Sunday of April."

Even the man behind the newspaper might forgo his sneers when he reads that to this learned writer it appears probable that the appointers of our Easter "were not sufficiently versed in astronomy to be aware of the practical difficulties, which their regulations involved." If they had just naturally fixed the date on the first or second Sunday of April their calendar, he submits, would then have possessed all the simplicity and uniformity of the civil calendar.

It does not appear to be exactly simplicity that the theologians and ecclesiasts were after, and that their calendars as well as their creeds began to darken knowledge may not be strange when so many things "alien to the early Christian mind" crept into their forms and councils. Origen's idea of the Christian who abides in the light so that he is every day keeping Easter seemed to come rather naturally and directly from the founder's teachings. "Abide in me that your joy may be full." Yet Origen, with its kindred idea of the remedial nature and purpose of what men called punishment, soon got himself into trouble with the theologians, who were declaring the judgment of an angry God against sinners, and was tried for heresy by his brethren after the fashion of Christian brethren to this hour.

True Easter Spirit.

It was, no doubt, about this time that the true Easter spirit began to languish among men, whatever became of the Easter observance. And the work went on still, despite a "word-made flesh" to declare the very splendors of all life and joy to man, a sorry procession of days, more sad than glad, filled ecclesiastical calendars, while, without the ranks, all days were rendered more or less ominous to non-conforming mortals. With all the widening of light which our better times afford, it is plain that no real comprehension of that radiant promise which the Easter morning brings to all living creatures as yet dawned on the world. "The festival of Easter is as old as the hope of man" we are told, and well do we know that even pagan nations celebrated it with a glad, free spirit, and magnificence of pomp and pean that mocks our proudest efforts.

Nature whispered the mighty secret of life's renewals long before the risen Christ met the wondering Marys with the "all hail" of a resurrection morning, or expounded to the disciples at Emmaus the truths of that more glorious genesis of the soul. Yet, at the best, nature fell short of the sovereign message, the aching cry of the spirit, for spirit fulfilments found no answer in the grass that withereth and the flowers that fadeth till the Lord, that endureth forever, revealed the life eternal to be the light of men. Then truly the soult of man began to "shine with everlasting light" and the chalices cups of the lilies became "dumb choristers of resurrection joy." Why the heart of man did not become "like a singing bird' in the light of such a revelation, no preacher has satisfactorily explained to us.

Rehearsing yearly a wonder lesson that should set all the world agow, the shadows upon man's life, the ache at his heart, remain still so darkly persistent that one of our finest spiritual teachers today drops a hint that there may be "a strain of sadness and melancholy in the very mind of God." There seems something of the man-made God in such a conception as that, but no doubt the joy of the eternal is the last thing that sight, short of the eternal, can compass.

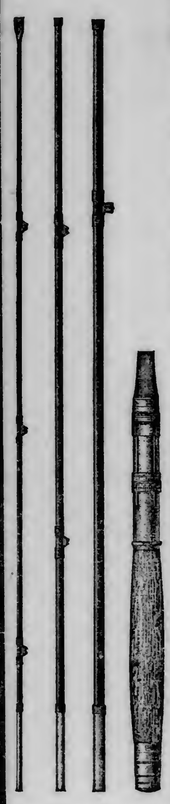

Yet, if immortal life means anything, it means immortal youth, immortal beauty, immortal love, immortal joy. Should not the very stones cry out in rapture at the bringing of such a message to a dying world? "The immaculate conception of love and the miracle of birth are recurring theme in the symphony of life," says on Easter spirit, but the meaning of the miracle, the message of the love, remain hidden still to mortal sense.

The human heart is a perverse and fickle dependence when church bells and practiced choirs call on it to do its homage and rejoicing. More than likely it will "sit brooding," as one observer expresses it, "like black crows perched, silent and draggled, on the treetops." But let the true Lord of the Easterdide touch it, when the bud is on the bough, and the whole earth becomes a temple of joy, incense and worship. It is as one who has felt the presence expresses it, "All the air seems full of messages, thoughts and confidences, and welcomes, passing to and fro, binding souls to each other and all to God."

It seems that "the Lord of the land but the branching trees, have not yet lost lately passed by with a smile. The birds, the joy of his passing. There, along the grassy tracks, his patient footsteps went, how short a time ago! There is no doubt now about man's pilgrimage, no question of the far-off goal. The world is said, perhaps, but sweet, swee; as the note of the hidden bird that rises from moment to moment from the tangled copse, telling of a little heart that is content to wait.' That, truly, is the Easter spirit, whether it comes in March or April, or any other blossoming time of man's year, and happy is he who can cling to it as Chyrsostom counseled all the year round, even if he never knows Easter from Palm Sunday on the church calendar.

BATTLE WITH THE ICE.

Three Car Ferries Trying to Open Passage to Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Weighted down with almost 30,000 tons of coal, three Ann Arbor car ferries left Frankfort, Tuesday afternoon in an attempt to literally stamp the ice fields to pieces and reach Menominee by Wednesday morning at the latest.

According to a dispatch received at the local office, the officials expect even a harder battle than the one which recently took place. It is claimed that the heavy southeast wind, which swept across the bay Friday and Saturday, has jammed hundreds of tons of ice upon the barrier that already seals the door from navigation.

Realizing this, the boats are prepared to make the most desperate battle in the history. Ann Arbor Car Ferry No. 4 will bear the brunt of the fighting, being the most formidable of the three vessels. Its stern has been weighted down with 800 tons of coal, which, of course, raises the bow considerably. When the boat crashes into the ice fields, the prow will immediately slide upon the mass and just as the boat is about to be transformed into a mammoth steel sleigh it will crash into the water again.

The heavy steel cable will connect No. 2 and 3. This will enable the two vessels to extricate the big ice breaker in case it get stuck in the ice.

TO LOOK AFTER THUNDER.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. C. Matchitt will be in charge of the Republican state press bureau, with headquarters in St. Paul. The bureau will be established by the Republican state central committee, and will have charge of the distribution of campaign literature in Minnesota during the coming state campaign.

EDITOR ELECTED MAYOR.

Samuel H. Clark Honored by Fellow Citizens of Minot.

Minot, N. D., April 8.—Sam H. Clark, editor of the Reporter, won the mayoralty contest by a majority of 160 over William Donnell, the candidate of the Civic league, which is the so-called reform element. Each candidate carried three wards, the Sixth ward giving Clark a majority of 174. Smallwood and Hurd tied for alderman in the First; J. H. Scofield won in the Sixth by one vote over C. H. Parker. Hendrickson won in the Second, Spath in the Third, Reed in the Fourth and Vandenover in the Fifth.

Public library tax carried by a big majority.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

Living "Like a King" on 12 a day

Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, three times a day, with milk or cream and a little fruit, will supply all the strength needed by man or woman for work or play at a total cost of not over 12 cents. And you would be living better than a King—for it would bring good digestion and good health.

For breakfast heat the Biscuit in oven, pour milk over it (hot milk in winter) and add a little cream. If you like the Biscuit for breakfast you will like toasted TRISCUIT (the Shredded Wheat wafer) for luncheon or any meal with butter, cheese or marmalade. At your grocers.

TENDENCY IS TO TAN COLORS

In Men's Footwear and Light Shades in the Lead.

The tendency to tans is more marked than ever in men's shoes this season. The shop windows are yellow with tier on tier of attractive-looking tan shoes in half and regular shapes. The winter hinted at the coming of this condition of affairs, for tan shoes were to be seen on the streets throughout the cold months.

For all purposes, save late afternoon wear, shoes in lighter colors will be worn as a general rule. The coloring of other articles of clothing makes the season an especially favorable one for the unblackened leathers.

It will not be the thing, however, to match up the costume from head to foot. Contrast is to be sought. A blue serge suit over tan shoes marks out the wearer in a manner in which a full outfit of brown will not.

Extremes in Shapes Disappearing.

As to the shoes themselves, the tendency is to get away from the faddish and that which the dealers of several years ago loved to dwell upon as "nobby." A legitimate shape with a custom look about it is to be sought. The best boot and shoe makers have been devoting the winter to turning out a product which will be plain, but as shapely and elegant as possible.

Thus it strikes one who looks over the stocks of tans and unfinished blacks for general spring that here at last are shoes made for feet. Several seasons ago both dealers and buyers seemed to have forgotten that the feet came before the shoes and that the only purpose of the latter was to make a cover and protection for the pedal extremities.

Long, flat lasts are the rule, with a long, comfortable toe and medium heels. The less fancy work over the front and along the sides the better. Fancy buckles and worked eye-holes may be seen in some of the stores, but they were put there to catch the eyes of the undergraduate.

Pump Fad Seems to Be Doomed.

This return to the common sense and comfortable in spring and summer footwear has doomed the pump fad which had an inning last season. Pumps will be confined for the most part to black and patent leather and restricted to their legitimate use for evening wear. Few dealers are showing the tan pumps with the large silk ties, which were quite conspicuous during their brief day.

Oxfords will be the thing for all outing purposes. There is an infinite variety of them in the tan leathers. There are light, graceful half shoes for easy street wear, heavier grades for general use and stout, thick-soled walking and golf shoes.

Out of the ordinary, every day lines are the long tan boots for shooting and tramping, riding boots and the special golf and tennis shoes. These vary less in shape and design than the more worn varieties and change little from season to season.

FARGO ELECTION TAME

Except Over the Treasurership Which W. C. Laizure Won.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—The municipal election here was without features as far as the head of the ticket was concerned, as there was no opposition to Mayor Elliott. Interest centered in the fight for treasurership and W. C. Laizure defeated C. H. Mitchell, who has held the place for a decade, by 300 majority. City Judge Bryan had an overwhelming victory for re-election over Chester Johnson.

The successful aldermen were: First, Sweet; Second, Early; Third, Lewis; Fourth, Hall; fifth, Stern; sixth, Mills. Two men were selected in the Seventh, Powers getting the long term and Tibert the short.

SAFE IS DYNAMITED.

Three Masked Robbers Make Big Haul at Powers, Mich.

Menominee, Mich., April 8.—Residents of the town of Powers were thrown into a state of terror Monday morning when the safe in Charles Bradner's store was dynamited by three masked men.

Before the half-clad citizens reached the store the desperadoes carried away $1,000 in gold and currency, and disappeared in the fringe of woods at the east end of the city. Thiree posses were formed and gave chase, but no trace of the robbers has been found.

It is believed that the robbers were three tough characters who were ordered out of Menominee Saturday and who were seen on Powers streets Sunday afternoon.

The vault was badly wrecked and a score of windows in the adjoining stores were shattered.

DEPOT AGAIN ENTERED.

Calumet, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the second time during the past two weeks the depot of the Copper Range railroad at Laurium was entered some time Saturday night by unknown persons. This time the burglars did not secure anything of value. When the agent arrived Monday morning he found the door forced open and the contest of the office scattered about the floor.

DEVILS LAKE RESULT.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 8.—The three cornered campaign in this city for the mayoralty between F. Whitman, C. E. Burgess and T. Gram, Whitman was reelected by a majority of 200. The fight has been spirited but Whitman's victory proved an easy one.

JAMESTOWN'S NEW MAYOR.

Jamestown, N. D., April 8.—The city election for mayor was won by Pierce Blewett over Alderman C. E. McElroy by 59 votes. It was the hottest contested election in years. Blewett lead the reform forces which claimed lax and careless management of city affairs. Blewett carried every ward but the one which McElroy carried by 13 votes.

MANY THOUSAND ACRES

Of Land to be Sold in Burleigh County, N. D.

Bismarck, N. D., April 8—April 10 the state will offer for sale over 20,000 acres of school lands in this, Burleigh county, and a splendid opportunity will be afforded those looking for cheap and good land to invest either for speculation or for home building. These lands were donated the state by the general government and comprise all Sections 16 and 36 in each township. They have been appraised at prices runnning from $10 to $15 an acre, but judging from values of adjoining lands this figure is very low, as the school sections are without question as good land as there is in the state.

They cannot be sold for less than $10 an acre and can be bought on twenty years' time at 6 per cent interest, payments of principal being one-fifth down and balance every five years. For persons desiring to secure good land for home purposes these sales are just the thing, as it has been no uncommon thing for $10 land to pay for itself in one or two crops in this section.

MADE GENERAL DEPOSITARY.

Fargo Postoffice Given Quite a Boost by the Department.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under a recent order of the postoffice department Fargo will be general depositary for every presidential postoffice in North Dakota after June 1. This order includes all classes of presidential offices. For some years the city has been transacting the business for some of the presidential offices and for many of the fourth class offices. This new order includes Grand Forks, Fargo's next rival town; Bismarck, the state capital; Minot, the third city in the state; Valley City, Jamestown and all the other best towns in the state.

VALLEY CITY LIKES LID.

Valley City, N. D., April 8.—The city election here was one of the hottest contests in the history of the city. Six hundred and fifty-three votes were cast, of which Lee Cowell received 330 and W. H. McPherson 323. The contest largely hinged on the continuation of the present lid policy and the lid people won out. There was little if any contest except for mayor.

OLD ST. PAULITE DEAD.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Wallace for fifty years a resident of West St. Paul, died at the family home Monday evening at the age of 85 years. He was born in Ireland and came to the United States over sixty years ago. He married in Boston, Mass., Miss Catherine Kavanaugh, who died several years ago. He settled at Farlhault, Minn., in 1856, but soon moved to West St. Paul, where he had lived for about half a century.

When Pain Follows Physic, the Physic is Wrong

Pain is always a symptom of injury.

Griping means that the physic is harsh—that it irritates.

You injure the bowels when you seek to help them in that way.

The bowel lining—like the skin—becomes calloused if you constantly irritate it.

The hardened lining retards the natural functions. Then you have a chronic condition calling for constant physic.

And the calloused bowels demand a heavier dose.

Such physic is wrong. It is wicked.

It destroys the very functions that you seek to aid.

You cause what you seek to cure.

One should never take any laxative save Cascarets. They are gentle and natural.

They never irritate the bowels, never gripe. Every effect is curative.

They are as harmless as they are palatable.

One tablet is enough unless the bowels are calloused. The dose never needs increasing. Take them just as you need them to insure one free movement daily.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents. The month-treatment box 50 cents. 12,000,000 boxes sold annually. 812

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SAND HILL RIVER HIGH

Stream on Rampage at Fertile and Citizens Are Alarmed.

Dynamite May be Used to Remove Gorge at Bridge.

Crookston, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red river is rising here, having gone up over ten feet since Saturday. City Engineer Carroll says that while it is still rising, he anticipates it will soon begin to ebb. An ice gorge of some proportions has formed at the foot of Johnson street, but the city engineer does not anticipate much damage will result from it.

The Sand Hill river, at Fertile, is on the rampage, and reports from that section of the county indicate that there is a possibility of an ice gorge carrying one of the bridges out. The citizens are going to use dynamite in an effort to save the bridge, although reports would indicate that considerable damage would be done by the gorge.

The river is said to be higher than ever before in its history, and it is continuing to rise. This condition has been brought about suddenly and as a result the danger is more imminent than if there had been a gradual rise in the waters of the river.

The condition of the river is creating considerable excitement at Fertile, and there is every indication that if the moderate weather continues there is every possibility of an inundation. Every effort will be made to break up the ice, so that as little damage as possible will result from the unusual conditions.

FOURTEEN CITIES ELECT OFFICERS

Party Lines Not Very Closely Drawn in Upper Peninsula.

Houghton, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fourteen of the cities of the upper peninsula chose mayors Monday. Party line were drawn in but few instances, and in every case local questions were the issue. The most interesting contests were at Ishpeming, where the so-called "corporation" ticket, headed by F. E. Keese, an assistant superintendent for the United States Steel corporation, was triumphant, William J. Roberts, Socialist, the candidate of the People's Party, being defeated for re-election, and at Escanaba, where the reform element, with John A. Stromberg as the standard bearer, unsuccessfully opposed the re-election of Mayor M. Perron. There was opposition also at Bessmer, Norway, Menominee and Hancock.

Successful mayoralty candidates were as follows: Bessemer, John Holland, Democrat; Escanaba, M. Perron, Taxpayers'; Hancock, Archie J. Scott, Republican; Iron Mountain, Thomas H. Barron, People's; Ishpeming, Frank E. Keese, Republican; Ironwood, D. E. Sutherland, Citizen's; Manistique, William L. Middlebrook, Nonpartisan; Menominee, Augustus Spies, Republican; Norway, Gordon Murray, Nonpartisan; Negaunee, Joseph H. Winter, Nonpartisan; Gladstone, W. A. Miller, Republican; Mackinac Island, D. W. Murray, Nonpartisan; St. Ignace, P. J. Murray, Democrat; Crystal Falls, R. B. Webb, Nonpartisan.

At Sault Ste Marie, where the Republicans and Democrats had tickets in the field, the former party was victorious, electing Fred L. Everling controller and A. J. Eaton recorder, and retaining the majority of the city council. Mayors were not chosen at either Marquette or Sault Ste Marie this spring.

LID CARRIES ST. CLOUD.

Hugh Evans is Elected Mayor Over Louis Brown.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 8.—After one of the hardest political campaigns in the history of this city, Hugh Evans, Republican candidate for mayor and strongly pledged to apply the lid, was elected mayor over Louis Brown, Democrat and present incumbent who favored a liberal policy in the regulation of the saloon.

The campaign has been a hot one, and, of course, the lid issue played an important part in the fight. Mayor Brown, while not in favor of a wide-open policy, was not entirely in sympathy with the demand for a strict observance of the liquor laws and in some portions of the city the administration had been liberal with the saloon men.

Mr. Evans is a wholesale grocer and prominent in the business affairs of the city.

BOY IS KILLED PLAYING INDIAN

Companion Fatally Shoots Emil Berquist Near Milnor, N. D.

Milnor, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shot while hunting and incidentally playing Indians on the river banks, was the fate of Emil Berquist, one of the party of boys who went down to the lake yesterday to do some hunting. There were eight boys in the party, and after doing some hunting they proceeded to play fighting Indians with their unloaded rifles. As the playing was in progress a flock of ducks was seen approaching. Quickly Otto Olsen loaded his piece, 20-25-calibre rifle, but the birds made a detour and did not come within range.

Olsen resumed his playing a brave Red man, but in the excitement, he forget to extract the cartridge from his gun and snapped the latter as he had been doing before he saw the ducks. The gun was fired without any particular aim, but the charge entered the breast of young Berquist, just above the heart, who fell dead before he could take two steps.

Olsen and his victim were about 14 years of age. The unfortunate deed is considered an accident, pure and simple.

Millinery Notes

Concerning the styles, no two are alike, nor are they all large or small; one is as stylish as the other.

As to Trimmings,

Flowers, Ribbons and Nets

The tiniest of blossoms or unnaturally large flowers, it all depends on the design. Miles upon miles of Ribbon will be served upon hats in Duluth during the next ten days. Nets and Malines are used also in unlimited quantities.

Turbans are a feature among the small hats. The new Turban carries a lot of style in its make-up, and is sure to please. In the large hats, the crown is high and most of the brims have a roll on the left side.

Among the colors, light browns occupy a prominent place. Blues, from the soft shades to a navy, are also very good. Touches of cerise, orange and gold, as well as emerald green, are also noted.

Showings for Easter

The Hat Question Is such an important one that it can't be decided by merely reading about the different styles which are shown. It has been a long time since you have had such a wide range of styles to select from. You have to see, you have to try on (possibly a dozen or more) before you can tell just which one is going to suit you. So we simply invite you to come and look, take all the time you please, and remember you won't have to pay any fancy price either, to get a hat of fashion's latest decree here—from $5.00 to $10.00 will get you a hat of spring-like daintiness, which you won't have to blush for anywhere.

Your Easter Suit Have you already made your selection? If not, you had better do it as soon as possible. Remember there's only nine shopping days before Easter, and many suits require a little alteration to insure a perfect fit. We want to call your special attention to the fact that we are doing more business in our suit room just now, than ever before, in the history of the house. There must be a reason for it somewhere. We are showing values this season at from $15.00 to $50.00, which we are positive are not equalled anywhere else. And while we also show suits at a higher price, we have made a strong feature this season of suits at the prices quoted.

WILL CLEAN UP THE CITY

Mayor Haven Will Set General Municipal Cleaning Day.

Everybody Will be Expected to Lend a Helping Hand.

Duluth will have a general cleaning day as soon as weather conditions permit. Mayor Roland D. Haven has not decided upon a date as yet, but it will be announced in the near future. When approached on the subject, he said it was too early to name a day at present, on account of the fact that the ice has not yet left the ground.

At the time specified, everybody will be expected to assist in every way possible in cleaning up the city. It will be municipal cleaning day. School children will be enlisted in the movement, and the teams and men employed by the board of public works in street work, etc., will join in and lend a helping hand. It is believed better results can be accomplished by taking concerted action on a given date, rather than letting the spring cleaning drag along for weeks, under no particular supervision.

Spokane, Wash., situated in a somewhat more moderate climate than Duluth, had a very successful cleaning day recently. All the property owners entered with spirit into the campaign, and made the hustling Western city look as if it had gone through a laundry. Various other cities through the country set aside municipal cleaning days every spring. Duluth has already had some experience in this line, and the results attained in the past make it seem well worth while to carry out the same plan every year.

Duluth, like almost any other town, has a large number of vacant lots, many of them belonging to property owners residing out of the city, which become clustered up with all sorts of refuse during the winter months. Particularly is this true of lots shut off from the streets by sign boards. By the time spring arrives, the varied collection is very unsightly, and generally some one besides the owner of the property has to see to it that the refuse is cleared away.

Alleys and side streets also, become obstructed to a greater or less extent, and piles of ashes and other refuse in back yards are by no means uncommon sights in different parts of the city. The cleaning campaign will take in everything, and Duluth will look like a different place when the job is complete.

Probably municipal cleaning day will come early in May.

STILL ANOTHER HOTEL BRIDE

Cupid Plays Havoc in Ranks of the Fair Employes.

Cupid is not neglecting his duties that increase with the gentle ides of spring. Especially is he attentive to the young women who wait upon the hungry travelers at the hotels. Tonight another Lenox young lady will annex a "Mrs." to her name, changing her synonym of single bliss to that of Mrs. L. E. Streets.

Miss Annie Behrnes and L. E. Streets have known each other for some time, each of them have been connected with the Lenox. Mr. Streets has been a most persistent suitor for the hand and heart of the lady, and between duties has sought for the opportunity to join his name and link his fortunes with hers.

Today Mr. Streets hiked for the office of the clerk of the court, and tonight, at 8 o'clock, the marriage will be performed.

SANDSTONE BOY RUNS AWAY

Father in Duluth Searching for His Fugitive Son.

R. C. Scott of Sandstone, Minn., arrived in the city last night, and this morning asked the police to assist him in looking for his runaway son, who left home recently with Axel Kelly, a boy companion.

The son, whose name is Lester, is 13 years old, and young Kelly is about the same age. They left home last week without any apparent reason other than a desire to see something of the world. The parents believe the boys came to Duluth, and hope that with the assistance of the police they will be able to find them.

F. C. Springer Arrested on Serious Accusation at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. C. Springer was this morning caught trying to pass a forged check on G. H. Portman, a local merchant. The check was for $28.69, signed "Wm. Brennan" and made out to and endorsed by "F. C. Springer." It was drawn on the State Bank of Biwabik. It seems that the check was made out and endorsed in same handwriting. Mr. Portman became suspicious and made inquiries at the local bank, where he found out that there was no Mr. Brennan with funds in the Biwabik bank. Mr. Springer was then arrested and locked up on a forgery charge.

President Orders Suit Brought Against Southern Pacific.

Washington, April 8.—President Roosevelt today made public his letter of April 2 to the attorney general directing proceedings by injunction to compel certain railroads of the South to furnish equal accommodtaions to white and negro passengers. The text of the president's letter is as follows:

"To the department of justice: I forward herewith the report of the interstate commerce commission containing its order of June 27, 1907, and the report of the failure of the railroad company to obey this order, under date of March 26, 1908, together with a letter of the commission of April 1, 1908. It appears that the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway company has not complied with the order of the commission to furnish the same facilities to colored passengers paying first class fare that are furnished to white passengers paying first class fare. From time to time various complaints have been made to me by respectable colored people to the effect that the accommodations furnished to colored persons on certain railways are filthy and inadequate compared to the same accommodations furnished to white passengers paying the same fare.

"The commission has taken what is unquestionably the right ground: That where separate accommodations are provided for white and colored passengers the accommodations for colored passengers shall be as good as those furnished to white passengers for the same money. In other words, while there is nothing in the law which forbids separate accommodations, these accommodations must be equal. This principal of equality of accommodations is set out explicitly in various state laws. For instance, the code of the state of Alabama provides that there shall be equal, but separate accommodations for the white and colored races, by providing two or more passenger cars for each passenger train, or by dividing the passenger cars by partitions.' The action of the commission has simply been to insist that the accommodations be equal in convenience and comfort for the same money, wherever the separation is made. In this particular case where the railroad has neglected to comply with the order of the commission it is important that compliance with this order be immediately obtained. I suggest that you proceed to enforce the order by injunction proceedings, unless in your judgment some other course is preferable.

ORE LANDS FOR STATES.

New Scheme for Disposal of Mineral Tracts Proposed.

Washington, April 8.—Representative Lindberg has a new plan for disposing of coal and other mineral lands belonging to the government. Under the terms of a bill he has introduced, unappropriated lands of this character are to be turned over to the states and territories in which they lie. The states are to issue prospecting licenses to persons who want to make investigations of possible mines, at a rate of 25 cents an acre per annum, such license not to carry any privilege of mining or of removing any minerals other than samples for testing. States are also to permit mining on these lands, on payment of one-third of the profits of, or upon a royalty basis of so much a ton of ore taken from the ground.

WITNESS IS MISSING

Court Decides to Permit Introduction of Transcribed Testimony.

Bergman-Kitz Damage Trial Draws Crowd From the Range.

The second trial of the Bergman-Kitz damage case was begun in Judge Cant's room yesterday, and this morning Victor Power, attorney for Mrs. Bergman scored on the defense by getting in evidence the transcript of the testimony of Mrs. Belle Dowds who testified for Mrs. Bergman at the former trial, but who is said to have secreted herself to avoid service on a summons to appear as a witness at the second trial.

C. O. Baldwin and Martin Hughes, who appear for Kitz made a hard fight against the introduction of the transcribed testimony at the former trial, but the court held that Mr. Power had established the fact that the plaintiff has used diligence in attempting to find and serve papers on the missing witness. There was no intimation that the defendant was responsible for the absence of the witness.

The arguments over the objections of the defendant lasted nearly all the forenoon, the jury being excused.

Deputy Sheriff George King testified that he has been all over the state visiting numerous towns and following up every possible clue to find Mrs. Dowds, but has been unable to locate her. Evidence was introduced by another witness to show that he made a trip of forty-five miles through the Bear river country in Northern Minnesota to find the missing woman. One witness claimed Mrs. Dowds made the statement that she intended to evade the service of a subpoena.

The trial of the damage case has brought quite a large delegation of Hibbing people to Duluth. The attendance on the Kitz side of the courtroom seems to be the largest as regards the feminine representatives from the range town. The defendant has his whole family at the trial.

DISAPPROVES CURRENCY BILL

New York Banker Considers Aldrich Measure Undesirable.

Washington, April 8.—"I am here to express my disapproval of the Aldrich currency bill," declared E. Southard Parker, president of the Metropolitan National bank of this city, to the banking and currency committee of the house of representatives, at the beginning of its hearing of the currency bill today.

"I consider it undesirable and impracticable," added Mr. Parker. "The Aldrich bill suggests panics and emergencies, but it does not provide the needed relief and remedy. It is a menace to the business interests, and especially to the trade and mercantile interests."

The demand on the banks made by that bill to purchase $500,000,000 of bonds and to increase their reserves $200,000,000, he said, would be dangerous to the country. Mr. Parker approved an asset currency.

Led to Arrest of Men Accused of Robbing Saloon.

Last night's fall of snow came to the aid of the Superior police this morning in furnishing a clue to the parties who last night broke into the saloon of Frank Seeney, 1207 Tower avenue, and took $10 from the cash register.

The saloon was entered from the back window and this morning when the police came to investigate they found tracks in the snow leading from the window to the stairs at the rear of the building and up to the rooms above, where Grant Stevens, Walter Ovey and a man by the name of McAllister live. They were only two pairs of foot prints, but all three men were arrested, though later McAllister was released, after clearing himself of suspicion.

A meeting of the Goodhope Mining company, a corporation incorporated under the laws of Wyoming, held a meeting at the St. Louis hotel yesterday afternoon. Much of the capital invested in the company is owned by range people. The directors' report yesterday showed the company to be in a most flourishing condition.

R. N. Dickman, the Chicago assaying expert, who made a recent examination of the property, pronounced it a very valuable holding. Five tons of gold ore were recently shipped to a Denver smelter, the ore assaying $80 to the ton. In the near future the company intends shipping a heavier amount of ore.

RIVAL OF THE DUKE

Hastening to Renew Suit for Love of Katherine Elkins.

Romantic Story of Lieut. Andrews, Just Returned From Abroad.

San Francisco, April 8.—Returning home from what he has regarded as a contrived banishment for two years in Asiatic waters, Lieut. Adolphus Andrews, U. S. N., is speeding from San Francisco to Washington to become a rival of the Duke of the Abruzzi in suing for the hand of the dashing Katherine Elkins.

That the prospective morganatic marriage of the West Virginia senator's daughter to the noble, who is in line of succession to the Italian throne, may be circumvented, and the name of another American heiress left out of the Almanac de Gotha are among the possibilities that invest the journey of this young Yankee gallant of the quarter-deck with international intent.

Apart from the admitted rivalry between Lieut. Andrews and the Duke of the Abruzzi, however, the return of the former is attracting naval circles here because of the messroom gossip that attended his transfer to the China station two years ago.

Politics Played a Part.

At that time Lieut. Andrews was attached to the staff of President Roosevelt at Washington, and was among the most attentive admirers in the train of the wealthy Kitty Elkins.

But Mamma Elkins did not want an untitled lieutenant for a son-in-law. She already had visions of ducal devices on the Elkins coat of arms, it is declared, and did not wish to see Kitty and her millions contract an alliance with a seafighter lacking heraldic emblazement.

Naval men in San Francisco frequently tell the story of what followed, over their cigars.

While Kitty Elkins and Lieut. Andrews were doing politics of the heart with their eyes, they say, Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins had a conference with her husband, the senator, and got him to do politics of a very different order.

Whether the matter was discussed in detail by Senator Elkins in interviews he had with the president and the secretary of the navy shortly after is not generally known.

Ordered to Asiatic Waters.

What is known, however, is that Lieut. Andrews was very much surprised one morning to read in the navy orders that he was gazetted to report for duty on the cruiser Chattanooga.

The Chattanooga was then at Alexandria. Andrews took a steamer and reported on the cruiser, when he learned that he was ordered to report on the gunboat Gen. Villaloaboa.

Andrews obeyed orders and reported on the General Villaloboa at the China station, but could not help thinking that it was a very inconvenient circumstance for a young lieutenant in love to have an influential United States senator for a desired father-in-law.

Lieut. Andrews cruised for two years in Asiatic waters in command of the Villaloaboa. His term of duty to this assignment expired about a month ago, when he was ordered back to Washington to report for duty.

Andrews shipped on the Nippon Maru and arrived in San Francisco last week, registering at the Fairmount. He left for Washington several days ago.

The Story Denied.

Washington, April 8.—Miss Elkins, when asked about her reported engagement to Lieut. Andrews, said:

"The story is perfectly ridiculous and too absurd for any further discussion of the question."

Senator Elkins, when questioned, said: "Lieut. Andrews was here two or three years ago, and I have heard of him, but I would not know him if I should meet him on the street. I do not know whether he is in Washington or not.

"I never heard of Lieut. Riggs, and you say this Lieut. Riggs says I had Lieut. Andrews ordered to the Chattanooga because he wanted to marry Katherine. That story is ridiculous and false. I never had Lieut. Andrews ordered anywhere and never made any such request to the navy department and the whole story is a fabrication."

WHEAT HAS GOOD RALLY

Market Was Oversold and Bearish Government Report Discounted.

Flax Has a Firmer Tone at the Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 8.—It became apparent during the latter part of the session in the American markets today that wheat had been oversold and there was a rally which brought prices up over yesterday's close.

The government's bearish report on the condition of winter wheat April 1 was discounted, so far as its effect on the market was concerned. The trade rather expected it would be a little more bearish than it was. The government figures show the average condition of winter wheat on April 1 to have been 91.3 per cent. against 98.9 for the same time in 1907, and 89.1 for the same time in 1906.

The recovery of the market today sent the shorts scurrying to cover. The news from the Southwest was regarded as rather bullish, as there is said to be a great need of rains in Kansas and Nebraska, despite those which fell the first of the week.

Cables were weak. Liverpool closed 1¼@1½d lower, Antwerp unchanged. Berlin 2c lower and Budapest 1c lower.

The May option closed ⅛c higher in Duluth, ¾-⅞c higher than Monday in Chicago, ⅜-½c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅜c higher in New York and ¾c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅜c higher in Duluth, unchanged from Monday in Chicago, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis and Winnipeg and 1⅛c higher in New York.

May corn closed 1-⅛c higher than Monday in Chicago and was ⅛d lower in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛c higher than Monday in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a quiet opening in wheat and values were ⅜d to ½d lower than yesterday. Pressure to sell resulted from the weakness in America yesterday and the very dull trade here. Cargoes were more freely offered at a decline with no demand. During the morning, the market developed a steady undertone with a slight gain in values due to the fact that leading firms were supporting the market. At midday, the market was steadier, but still ⅜d to ½d lower than yesterday, and ⅞d to 1d lower than Monday's closing.

"Corn was quiet and unchanged. The market was featureless. Wheat cargoes were easy and offered at 1½d to 3d decline. Corn cargoes were dull and prices declining."

Car receipts at Duluth were 19 against 168 last year, and at Minneapolis 154 against 184 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 173 against 352 last year. Chicago received 35 against 12 last year. Winnipeg received 121 against 58 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 642,000 bushels (two days); last year, 1,238,000 bushels. Shipments, 375,000 bushels; last year, 428,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 474,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of wheat were 751,000 bushels (two days); last year, 1,176,000 bushels. Shipments, 755,000 bushels; last year, 715,000 bushels. Clearances of corn were 347,000 bushels.

Wheat was fairly active during the early part of the session in Duluth. May wheat opened ¼c lower at 97⅛c, declined to 97¼c, rallied to 97⅞c, reacted to 98-⅛c and closed at 97⅝c, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅜c lower at 98½c bid, advanced to 99¼c and closed at 99⅛c, a gain of ⅜c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was fairly active at the start and closed firm. May flax opened unchanged at $1.14⅞, advanced to $1.15½ and closed at that price, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.16⅞, advanced to $1.17⅝ and closed at that price, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. October flax sold at $1.17 and closed ¾c higher than yesterday at $1.17¼. September flax closed at $1.17¼.

Oats took a slump of 1½c here today and the other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Rains in Southwest and Decline in Liverpool Cause Weakness.

Chicago, April 8.—The wheat market opened weak today because of rains in the Southwest, and a decline of 1d at Liverpool. The government crop report, which was issued early in the day, was considered bearish. May wheat opened ¾@⅞ to 1½@1⅝c lower, at 89@89⅜c and sold at 90@⅛c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 208 cars against 263 cars last week and 364 cars one year ago.

The market became strong in the last half of the session on buying of May by elevator interests, May selling up to 91½c. The close was strong with May up ¾@⅞c at 91⅜c.

The corn market was strong because of the weather conditions which were considered unfavorable for the Northwest. May corn opened ⅛@¼c lower to ⅛@⅜c higher, at 66¼@66⅝c, and sold at 66¾c. Local receipts were 289 cars with 84 of contract grade.

Steady gain in strength marked the market and the May option sold up to 67½c. The close was strong with May ⅞c higher, at 67¼c.

The oats market was easy because of rains in the Southwest. May oats opened ¼@½c lower, at 52@52¼c and for a time held within that range. Local receipts were 311 cars.

The provision market was steady, although the market for live hogs was easy. May pork opened 2½c higher at $13.35. Lard was 2½c lower at $8.25. Ribs were 2½c lower at $7.12½.

Wheat: May 91⅜c; July 86⅝c½; September, 85c. Corn: May, 67½c; July 61½c; September, 69⅜c½; Oats: May, old, 52⅝c; May, 51⅜c; July, old, 45⅝c July, 43½c; September, 37½c. Pork: May, $12.50; July $13.85. Lard: May, $8.3?½; July $8.60@8.62½. Ribs: May, $7.22½; July, $7.50. Rye: Cash, 75c@77. Barley: Cash, 68c@83. Timothy: April $4.65. Clover: Cash, $22. Corn: No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 63½c. Oats: Nos. 2 and 3, nothing doing.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Free Selling of Wheat Causes Prices to Go Downward.

Minneapolis, April 8.—The government report was taken by the Minneapolis trade as bearish and there was free selling of wheat. But although prices went lower, considerable resistance developed. Buying to cover short sales made some time ago and also some new buying for long account appeared. Local stocks increased 25,000 bus for four days. Receipts here were 154 cars against 184 and in Duluth 19 against 168. The market was inclined to advance near the close on buying of May wheat. There were 41 cars winter and 12 of durum wheat in the day's receipts, which made the spring wheat supply question come to the front again. May opened at 98⅛@⅞c; high, 99¾c; low, 98½c; close, 99⅜@½c; July closed, 99⅜c; September closed, 89⅜c.

Cash wheat was salable at 1½@1¾c over May for No. 1 northern and at ½@1c under for No. 2, and there was good demand. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.00⅝ spot or to arrive; No. 2 northern, 98⅛@98⅝c spot, 98⅝c to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 90@95c.

No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾c.

No. 3 white oats, 48½c.

No. 2 rye, 71¾@72¾c.

Barley was firm but prices looked lower because there was no good stuff in. Close, 62@82c.

Flax firm and in demand at Duluth May price for No. 1. Close, $1.15¼.

Bran in bulk, $21.25@21.50.

Quiet and unchanged was the report from the millers. Flour sales are light and shipping instructions for old lots are also light. Shipments, 43,280. First patents, $5.15@5.30; second patents, $5.05@5.20; first clears, $4.05@4.15; second clears, $3.10@3.20.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Cattle are a little more plentiful in the local market than they have been, but the prices remain firm. Packing people say that there is likely to be no letup in the stiffness of the market until after Easter at the earliest. The rest of the produce market is about unchanged.

Preparations will be made for the fleet to sail from San Francisco for Honolulu, on Tuesday, July 7.

DEMOCRATS THWARTED.

House Authorizes Its Presiding Officer to Declare Recesses.

Washington, April 8.—To further thwart the Democrats in their filibustering tactics, under the leadership of Mr. Williams, the house today by a strict party vote, adopted a rule giving power to the presiding officer without a roll call to declare the house in recess every day at 5 o'clock until the following morning at 11:30, the rule to run until next Monday. The rule further provides for the consideration of the navy appropriation bill beginning Friday morning and that general debates on the measure shall close at 5 oclock, Saturday, unless debates shall be exhausted before that hour when it will be the duty of the chair to declare a recess until Monday at 11:30 a. m. The Democrats opposed the rule and exhausted all their parliamentary moves before it was adopted.

FINED $20,000 FOR ACCEPTING REBATES.

MORE STUDENTS EXPELLED.

Columbia, S. C., April 8.—It was announced at chapel services at Clemson college today that 257 members of the sophomore and freshman classes had been dismissed, in addition to the forty-eight juniors expelled on Friday last. This probably is the most wholesale expulsion in the history of the United States. The cause alleged was insubordination in an April fool prank.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Doubts as to Erie Financial Plan Disturbed the Market.

Close Was Below the Best Figures of the Session.

New York, April 8.—Stocks sold higher than last night in the opening transactions today, but the demand was light. Gains were quite uniform within the limits of a small fraction. Erie was a prominent exception with a decline of ½. St. Louis Southwestern sold at an advance of 1½ and Atlantic Coast Line 1.

Small selling orders turned prices downward, but the pressure ceased after prices had fallen slightly below yesterday's closing. Later on the list hardened a trifle, but the entire movement was unimportant.

Prices receded slowly before light offerings, the fluctuations generally being narrow. Union Pacific, Reading, Mexican Central and Republic Steel preferred got down 1, Colorado Fuel 1¼, Erie second preferred 1½, the first preferred and Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred 2 and Central Railroad of New Jersey 3¾. Bonds were irregular.

The metal stocks were offered more freely, but prices ultimately turned upwards again. Union Pacific and Reading made full recoveries, and other leading railroad stocks also rallied a large fraction.

The tone of the market grew firmer when Canadian Pacific and Brooklyn Rapid Transit were bid up. The movement elsewhere was slight, but the advance continued until the market was ruling at or above yesterday's final figures. Canadian Pacific and Brooklyn Rapid Transit advanced a point.

The market closed below the best and rather irregular. Prices were bid up on assertions that the operations of the Erie financial plan were assured, although no announcement was made officially. Erie, the second preferred, Union Pacic and Louisville & Nashville, Atchison and Pacific Mail rose 1 to 1¼; North American, 1⅝; Missouri Pacific, 2; Canadian Pacific, 2¼, and Kansas & Texas preferred, 4. The maturing Erie notes were bid up sharply in the curb market. New Haven declined 1; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, 1½ and Kansas City Southern preferred, 2⅝. There was no realizing at the last.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walter W. Carr: The copper market continues extremely quiet with but little outside interest manifested. Most issues are practically unchanged, although a sagging tendency is more observable. North Butte is quoted lower and there is pressure to sell Nevada Consolidated and Boston Consolidated. Utah Consolidated is holding firm, notwithstanding a very disappointing annual report made public yesterday. Many of the miscellaneous issues are in good demand, notably American Telephone, which is up a point. The copper metal market opened with an easier tone in London, but closed firm. The local situation in metal is very quiet. We have heard of no sales of consequence for some time.

Cody, Boston, to Martin Rosendahl: Local shares are dull. Bad news has no effect on the market, and this, with thoroughly liquidated condition makes a movement in the upward direction seem possible. While it is not encouraging to have to wait so long for action, we still adhere firmly to the belief that the bull side is the only one that will show any money in the coppers. We are still hoping for the settlement of the Bigelow suit. The judgment of the court in Utah allowing the United States Smelting people to operate again has caused a better feeling toward the good Utah properties than has existed for some time. Boston Consolidated ought to be a very cheap property, although the insiders still sell it.

The Cotton Market.

New York, April 8.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 3@7 points, making new low records for the season under a renewal of yesterday's selling movement, with the encouragement of weak cables and continued good weather in the South. Trading was quite active, and there was a fair demand at the decline both from shorts and parties who were expecting a reaction following a break of about half a cent. The market was about net unchanged during the middle of the morning, but the undertone was unsettled.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 10.25; middling gulf, 10.50; sales 50 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: April, 9.28; May, 9.38; June, 9.38; July, 9.43; August, 9.38; October, 9.35; November, 9.35; December, 9.36; January, 9.38; March, 9.39.

Argonaut: The manager of a shipyard is reported to have assembled his men in the time office and told them to vote in a municipal election as they pleased.

"In fact, I shan't tell you how I am going to vote," he said, "but after it is all over I shall have a barrel of beer brought into the yard." ("Hear, hear!" shouted the men.) "But I sha'n't tap it unless Mr. Blank gets in."

Rough Looking Men Say They Only Want a Drink.

Mrs. Winness Whips Up Horses and Eludes Men.

Yesterday morning, shortly before noon, Mrs. Louis Winness, while driving her milk wagon, was stopped on Fifty-ninth avenue west, near Elinor street, by five rough-looking men, who said they only wanted a drink of milk.

Mrs. Winness was driving home from her morning delivery of milk, when a bunch of men, apparently bums, stopped her in the middle of the street, where in goes through a rock cut, and asked her what time it was. Mrs. Winness told them, and was about to drive on, when one of the men said they wanted some milk. Mrs. Winness said she hadn't any left in the cans, as she had just finished her morning rounds.

At that a hobo took hold of the side of the wagon and started to climb in to see for himself. Mrs. Winness was too quick for him, for before his feet had fairly left the ground she cut the horse with the whip. The horse started with such a jerk that the would-be thief was almost thrown beneath the wheels. She drove on without being further molested.

Mrs. Winness did not report the matter to the police as she said she was thankful to get away and willing to let the matter rest at that.

MEETING OF CURLERS.

Officers Elected for Year and Banquet Committee Appointed.

The annual meeting of the Western Curling club was held last evening at the rink, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street, and was well attended. Officers for the coming year were elected, the reports of the officers whose terms have expired, were read, and a committee to make arrangements for the club's annual banquet appointed.

The year's reports show a good increase in membership and a fair surplus in the club's treasury. The reports were altogether very satisfactory.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, A. G. Macauley; first vice president, Charles Iltis; second vice president, G. J. Mallory; secretary, Emil J. Zauft; treasurer, W. B. Getchell.

On the committee for the banquet which is to be held in the near future and at which the trophies for the winter's contests will be awarded, the following members were appointed: Henry Hewitt, Kenneth McDonald, J. A. Scott, M. J. Fillatrault, Emil Zauft and G. J. Mallory.

The only perfect duplication of the voice. Always natural, whether giving you the rare tenor of a Caruso, or the coon tones of an Arthur Collins. Or, if you wish, the divine beauty of an Emma Eames, or the drollery of a May Irwin. It's all there.

GOVERNOR HUGHES AGAIN APPEALS TO LEGISLATURE FOR ANTI-GAMBLING LAWS

Sends Special Message Renewing His Former Recommendations.

Also Asks the Enactment of Eight Other Propositions.

Desires a Commission to Investigate Wall Street Speculation.

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—Following the failure of the senate last night to pass the anti-race track gambling bills, Governor Hughes today sent to the legislature, a message renewing his recommendation for the enactment of this legislation, and asking for the enactment of eight other propositions now pending before the legislature. The recommendations include:

The passage of appropriate legislation to prevent the present so-called discrimination of the Percy-Gray law, which practically legalizes gambling on race tracks.

Legislation to effect a reform in banking methods.

Direct primary nominating elections.

Legislation which will place telephone and telegraph companies under the jurisdiction of the public service commission.

The passage of bills which will facilitate the construction of subways in New York city.

The governor also urges investigation by commission of:

First—Wall street speculation.

Second—The question of immigration.

Third—The question of the unemployed in this state; and Fourth—The relation of the inferior courts to certain criminal procedure.

Relative to the Hart-Agnew bills, the governor in his message says: "I again urge you to enact appropriate legislation to abolish the existing discriminations in favor of race track gambling.

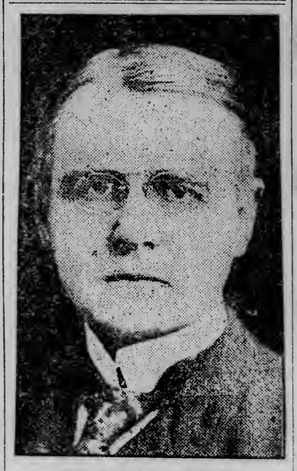

"The failure of the upper branch of your honorable body to pass the measures designed to effect this purpose after their passage in the lower branch cannot be regarded as disposing of the matter. The constitution, with its peremptory mandate, still stands.

Gambling Flourishes.

"The evil of race track gambling flourishes, not in spite of the law, but because of the law. Legislation pretending to carry out the constitutional provision in effect nullifies it. You are not asked to accomplish the impossible, or to write upon the statute books a visionary scheme of moral reform. You are asked to rid our law of a vicious discrimination whereby offenses equally condemned by the Constitution are punished as crimes if committed in one place and are encouraged by the absence of suitable penalty if committed in another place.

"Chapter 370 of the laws of 1895, known as the Percy-Gray law, pretends in its provisions with regard to authorized race tracks, to prohibit gambling. This pretense runs through the act. But it cheats the prohibition by providing that the only penalty, if no memorandum or token of the

BULGARIANS STARVING

Many Victims of Irresponsible Agents Are in Chicago.

In Country for Six Months and Have Had No Work.

Chicago, April 9.—A football player of the University of Chicago is chief of the hungry Bulgarians who marched on the city hall, here, yesterday.

Investigation reveals that Ivan Doseff, a graduate of the university, was the instigator of the plan to march on the city hall. Doseff, who is a Bulgarian, and last year played left tackle on the Chicago football eleven, says he sent the mob to the city hall in order to "call public attention" to the distressing condition of his countrymen. None of the other Bulgarians has been in the United States more than six months, and in that time not one of them has had a job. Doseff says their little stock of money now is gone, and the immigrants are on the verge of starvation.

After the mob's fruitless march, Doseff went to the county agent's office and begged that something be done.

Assistant County Agent Victor Young promised to send a quantity of provisions and endeavor to provide otherwise for the distressed Bulgarians, who are several hundred in number.

Doseff said irresponsible Bulgarian "employment agents" and steamship ticket agents are responsible for bringing the men over from the old country. More than 90 per cent of the men have wives and children dependent upon them in Bulgaria. Several of them mortgaged their small properties to get money for their passage.

Doseff said he will visit the immigration officers today to see if some of the men can be sent back to their homes in Bulgaria.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE MEN FOR JOHNSON.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank A. Day, private secretary to Governor Johnson, has received the following telegram:

"Williamstown, Mass., April 8, 1908.—John A. Johnson, governor: You have been unanimously nominated for the presidency of the United States by the Democrats of Williams college.

"W. L. ERNST, Secretary."

ARE PASSING THROUGH A BLOODLESS REVOLUTION.

New York, April 9.—That America is now passing through a revolution was the opinion expressed by Former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien in an address before the Alumni association of the Columbia Law school.

"In the final analyss," said Judge O'Brien, "there are but two powers, the power of the sword and the power of the law. And if it shall come about that the attacks on the law succeed, we shall find ourselves come upon evil days. We are now passing through a bloodless revolution—nothing else."

A BROOKLYN BOY KILLS HIS MOTHER.

New York, April 9.—Because his mother, Susan Carlin, had sent him to various reformatory institutions in which he was a prisoner for many years, Bernard Carlin shot and instantly killed her yesterday at her home in Quincy street, Brooklyn.

Young Carlin had just been released from the reformatory at Napanoch, where he served a sentence for stealing a horse and wagon. He was arrested after the shooting.

KINGSBURY IS HELD UP

Was Taking California Land Office Records From State.

Was Forced to Take Them Back to Sacramento.

San Francisco, April 9.—A new move in the Hyde-Benson-Dimond-Schneider land fraud case, now on trial before the supreme court of the District of Columbia, was made in this state yesterday, when Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbury was stopped at Truckee, while on his way to Washington with the records of the state land office, by an order issued by Superior Court Judge Sewell of this city, directing him to show cause why he should not be restrained from taking the records from the state.

Virginia L. Roberts of Sacramento, a searcher of records at the capitol, is the ostensible plaintiff in the action. She brought suit against Kingsbury to compel him to show her documents she said she desired to see in the pursuit of her occupation.

When Kingsbury was served at Truckee he could do nothing but wait for the next train back. The documents that caused all the trouble are those relating to Sections 16 and 36, and all the lands in lieu thereof, and the state indemnity lands.

SHAREHOLDERS OF GRAND TRUNK MAKE CHARGES OF GROSS MISMANAGEMENT

Usual Cut and Dried Proceedings Varied With Heated Argument.

President Wilson Apologizes for Unsatisfactory Financial Report.

Report of the Directors Only Adopted After Earnest Appeals.

London, April 9.—The usual cut and dried proceedings at meetings of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada were varied at today's semi-annual gathering of the directors of the road by heated charges of mismanagement, and the report of the board was only adopted after earnest appeals for unity of interest for the company's credit had been made.

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson presided at the meeting, and made a speech which lacked the usual optimism and was mostly taken up in apologizing for the financially unsatisfactory report, which an irate shareholder characterized as a "miserable document." Sir Charles attributed the Grand Trunk's troubles to the recent financial disturbance, together with the "exceptionally bad harvest in Canada," a

OF BENEFIT TO BANKS

Bush Shows the Effect of the Fowler Currency Bill.

Would Give Them Free Control of Their Own Resources.

New York, April 9.—Irving T. Bush, vice chairman of the committee on commercial law, of the Merchants' association, today made a statement on the practical effect of the Fowler currency bill on the balance sheets of the banks. Mr. Bush set forth in figures the status of the national banks of the city of New York, if the bill were in actual operation. He said:

"Comment has been made on the large amount which the banks would be required to transfer to the treasury to make up the 5 per cent guaranty fund which is to be deposited against both deposits and notes. This requirement is really much less radical than has been represented. The last report of the comptroller of the currency, showing the condition of the national banks of New York city on Feb. 14, last, showed deposits subject to reserve requirements to the amount of $962,188,795, and outstanding bank notes to the amount of $68,883,105, making a total amount subject to the guaranty fund requirements of the Fowler bill of $971,077,900. The amount required for the guaranty fund would be

CHICAGO BROKER ENDS HIS LIFE

Lorenzo Kneeland Shoots Himself in Head With Revolver.

Chicago, April 9.—Lorenzo D. Kneeland, 55 years old, former senior member of the firm of Kneeland, Clement & Curtis, brokers, committed suicide at his home here this morning by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. Mr. Kneeland was a member of the Chicago board of trade and the Chicago stock exchange, but retired from active business about a year and a half ago and had been in ill health for some time. He was well known in financial circles here, and was a member of the Chicago Union League and the Chicago Athletic club.

MORE SHORTAGE IS EXPECTED

Search at Duluth Adds to Amount of Warner Shortage.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton Schaefer, state public examiner, will file with Governor John A. Johnson in a few days a supplemental report of alleged shortages in the accounts of Fenton G. Warner as state oil inspector.

W. C. Heilbron, deputy examiner, who has been conducting the examination, has just returned from Duluth, where he spent several days securing data from the books kept by the Standard Oil company at that station.

It is understood that the search at Duluth will add to the amount of the shortage already charged against Mr. Warner.

PRESIDENT URGES FURTHER LEGISLATION ON ANARCHY

JULIA MARLOWE,
Well Known Actress, Who Has Been Named as Co-respondent in the Sensational Suit for Divorce Filed by Mrs. Clara L. Von Herrman of Hamilton, N. Y.

Sends a Short Message to Congress on the Subject.

No Present Federal Law to Reach Anarchistic Publications.

May be Punished Under State Laws, However.

Washington, April 9.—In one of the shortest messages which he has yet transmitted to congress, President Roosevelt today called the attention of that body to the necessity for further legislation on the subject of anarchy. With the message he transmitted a report, reviewing the legal phases of the question by Attorney General Bonaparte. The president says:

"When compared with the suppression of anarchy, every other question sinks into insignificance. The anarchist is the enemy of humanity, the enemy of all mankind, and his is a deeper degree of criminality than any other. No paper published here or abroad should be permitted circulation in this country if it propogates anarchistic opinions."

Besides his direction to the postmaster general to exclude from the mails such publications as La Questione Sociale, President Roosevelt, in a letter to Attorney General Bonaparte, asking an opinion on the legal phases of the subject, says he has had the attention of the governor of New Jersey called to the matter by Secretary Root, that the governor may proceed under the state laws.

The opinion of the attorney general, which the president transmits to congress, embraces a discussion of the whole subject from many legal angles. His first conclusion is that the article in question, which advocates the use of arms and dynamite in annihilating police and soldiers, that anarchy may prevail, constitutes a "seditious libel," and is "undoubtedly a crime at common law."

He declares that there is no federal statute which makes such publications an offense against the United States, and that the federal courts consequently have no jurisdiction in the matter. There is full power in the possession of congress to make such publications criminal, the attorney asserts, and quotes Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court, and Mr. Justice Field as authority.

EXPECT A REVELATION.

Latter Day Saints Want Instructions on Marriage and Divorce.

Kansas City, April 9.—Marriage and divorce, a much mooted question in previous conventions, occupied the attention of the general conference of the re-organized Church of Jesus Christ today. The church is holding its annual gathering at Independence, near here. It was expected that a revelation upon the subject would come before the end of the day's work. One of the acts of the convention yesterday was the completing of arrangements for building a monument at Nauvoo, Ill., in honor of Joseph Smith, founder of the church, to cost several thousand dollars. Saints all over the world are to contribute.

A report of the bishopric read showed the annual expenditure for the year was $253,600.

BUYS MUCH TIMBER.

Manistique, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cut and standing timber to the amount of 3,000,000 feet is the principal item of a deal recently negotiated, whereby Neil Docherty of St. Ignace takes over the holdings of W. P. McLaughlin in Moran township, Mackinac county. A tract of a thousand in the Brevoort river district, together with logging camps and equipment, are included in the purchase.

AWARDED $5.00.

Musician Paid for Transposing Music for Mrs. Dora McDonald.

Chicago, April 9.—What amount of money a musician should receive for fifty hours spent in transposing the music of a love song by Mrs. Dora McDonald, from "C" major to "A" minor, was a question Judge Lantry was called upon to decide yesterday.

After hearing the testimony of Mrs. McDonald, the musician, Hans Biedermann, experts, and others, and the reading of the poem which gained notoriety when the widow of the late millionaire, Michael C. McDonald, was arrested for the murder of Webster Guerin, the court announced $5 a fitting recompense.

Two years ago, Mrs. McDonald wrote some verses entitled "I Will Atone." She decided to set them to music and received the promise of a prominent vaudeville actress to sing them. Hans Biedermann, director of a musical college, said he had been asked to do the work for Mrs. McDonald, in the latter part of 1905.

RUEF'S APPLICATION DENIED.

Los Angeles, April 9.—The application of Abraham Ruef for a writ of mandamus and prohibition to prevent his trial on a charge of bribery before Judge Maurice T. Dooling, on the ground of alleged prejudice, was yesterday denied by the supreme court sitting in this city.

OFFICIALS IN WRANGLE

Canadian Customs Man Arrested by a United States Deputy.

Charged With Trying to Smuggle in an Immoral Woman.

Crookston, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herb Wright, the Canadian customs official, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Rider and was taken to Thief River Falls last evening and arraigned before United States Commissioner Browning. The trial was adjourned until Saturday and Wright was released under $500 bail. He is charged with trying to smuggle Margaret Pierson into the United States. Rider claims she is an immoral character. She returned to Winnipeg today and Wright went back to Emerson.

The conflict is the growth of the feud existing between United States and Canadian officials at the boundary line, caused by the arrest of Deputy United States Marshal Foulkes on a charge of kidnaping in connection with a grain smuggling case. The excitement over the case is intense.

OCEAN TRAVEL IS AGAIN ENORMOUS

Another Record Breaking Year Seems Possible Now.

New York, April 9.—Another record-breaking year for ocean travel is possible if present prospects continue. While steamship agents at the beginning of the year were dubious of the outlook, their attitude during the last few weeks has changed and they themselves were greatly surprised when the statistics for the first three months of the year were computed last week.

Instead of the cabin passenger traffic eastward having decreased by thousands, as many persons had supposed, the figures showed a decrease of only 365 from last year in the first cabins, while the number of second cabin passengers traveling in that direction was 5,229 greater than last year. The travel for the week ending last Friday was a record breaker for this time of the year, for the various steamships leaving took out 110 more first cabin passengers than vessels carried in the corresponding week of last year. Incoming liners, up to April 3, brought in 645 more first cabin passengers than they did during the first three months of last year.

GRIEF CAUSES INSANITY.

Newberry, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adjudged insane, Mrs. Sophia Lindgren of Hermansville, Menominee county, has been committed to the Newberry asylum. The case is a pathetic one. Grief over the loss of a child which perished in flames is responsible for the woman's mental derangement.

Designed to Supply the Mexican and South American Trade.

Galveston, Texas, April 9.—A. B. Wolvin of Duluth, president of the Wolvin steamship line, representing Minnesota capital combined with money from Pennsylvania and Texas, will erect at Texas City, near Galveston, a 25,000-barrel capacity refinery to cost $1,000,000. It will supply Mexican and South American trade. The Wolvin people have taken over the Mexican-American steamship line in a merger and to handle refinery products a special tank line will be established. Contracts are now being closed in Mexico to supply the trade. The plant will be in charge of H. A. Tubbs, a Pennsylvania refiner, now on his way to Galveston. Mr. Wolvin, now here, confirms the report and says the concern will be independent, and that it has the capital to fight the Standard.

COPPER SHARES QUIET AND FIRM

Prices Hold Up Well and Close Slightly Higher.

The copper market was somewhat quiet today, with a sagging tendency. Prices held up well under the pressure and the closing prices showed a fully all along the line in the last hour. There was no news to affect the market and the trading was too light to have much effect on prices.

Butte Coalition opened at $20.25, fell off to $20 and rallied toward the close to $20.50 to $20.75. Calumet & Arizona opened at $101, fell off during the morning to $98.50, rallied to $99, fell to $98.50 again and then went up to $100.50, declining to close at $99.50 bid and $100 asked. North Butte opened at $53.12½ and showed little change during the day, closing at $53.25 bid and $53.50 asked. Amalgamated opened at $59 and fluctuated around that figure, with $58.75 as a low mark and $59.75 as the high figure, closing at $59.50. Anaconda opened at $38, fell off to $37.75 and advanced again to $38.25.

Greene-Cananea, Superior & Pittsburg and Globe were the most active issues in the curb market, with very little change in prices all day. Greene-Cananea opened at $8.62½, fell off to $8.37½ and rallied again to $8.62½. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $12.37½, $12.25 and $12.50, closing at $12.37½ and $12.50. Globe sold at $7.25, $7.37½ and $7.50.

Butte & Superior sold at $1. Black Mountain at $4.37½, Calumet & Sonora at $6.12½ and $6.25, Denn-Arizona at $3.12½, East Butte at $4.37½, American Sagmaw was inactive at $2.25 and $3.50, Carman at $1.00 and $1.37½, Superior & Boston at $3.87½ and $4.12½, Hancock at $6.00 and $6.25, Keweenaw at $4.87½ and $5.12½ and Shattuck at $12.75 and $13.

AURORA, ILL., WENT "WET"

Traveling Salesman Describes Recent Election Held in That City.

"It was an earnest invocation for aid by the method of prayer versus the more practical hustling for votes in a hack, with money and free cigars as offsets to the efficacy of the prayers."

Thus does Charles J. Lane, a commercial traveling man, who is at the St. Louis today, describe the methods pursued by the "Wets" and "Drys" in their contest for a prohibition or anti-prohibition town, in the election that was held in Aurora, Ill., last Thursday. It seems that in the case of Aurora the incentive of money and free cigars, coupled with the hustling abilities of those favoring saloons, was more effective than the prayers of those favoring a "dry" city, for although many of the cities and towns of Illinois went dry, Aurora was not numbered among them.

Mr. Lane says that it was the most novel election he ever beheld. Women paraded the streets invoking the men to wipe out the institution of evil. Prayers were sent up in the public square. Women argued and pleaded with the voters, while the saloon class hustled to line the voters up for the saloon.

Prayer metings were held at various hours of the day. Divine aid was asked in the aid of victory. Mothers pleaded with sons, wives with husbands, and sweethearts with "steadies" in the cause of temperance. Hymns were sung in the street, while an evangelist worker, imported for the occasion, labored diligently to save the day. But Mr. Lane says, that all efforts were futile, for Aurora went "wet" by a healthy majority.

But though the women of Aurora were unsuccessful in their fight for the abolition of the saloon, Mr. Lane is authority for the fact that the success of the prohibition movement in Illinois surprised even the most sanguine of the temperance workers.

SPECULATING ON ADJOURNMENT

Members of Congress Are Becoming Anxious to Get Home.

Washington, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Speculation as to the date of the adjournment of the present session is now in progress about the capitol. The house prophets are predicting May 10 as the date fixed by the leaders for the adjournment.

Republicans who are concerned about conditions at home are anxious to get away, and if possible an early adjournment will be brought about. The routine business of congress is well advanced. The majority in the house has determined to prevent any further filibustering on the part of the Democrats, if it can, and the leaders see no reason why adjournment should not be taken early in May.

Republican leaders of the senate seem to think that congress cannot complete the work cut out for it for the session before June 1.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED

Railroads May Continue Free Storage for Outside Merchants.

Duluth Commercial Club's Charge of Discrimination Thrown Out.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The interstate commerce commission today dismissed the complaint of the Commercial Club of Duluth against the Great Northern, the Omaha and Northern Pacific roads. In this case the Commercial club complained of discrimination in the matter of free storage on the docks of Duluth, of goods passing east and west, via the Great Lakes, against the merchants of Duluth and against the merchants of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The Duluth merchants were required to pay storage and other dock charges on their goods, when withdrawn for local consumption, but merchants at other points were relieved from those charges, their goods being stored and forwarded in small lots on the order of the consignee.

The commission held that the practice was not unlawful, and that if an order was issued forbidding roads at Duluth from granting such privileges, merchants in interior cities could still obtain similar privileges at Milwaukee and other points on the Great Lakes, at which others have dock terminals.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, April 9.—The free storage privilege at lake ports permitted to inland shippers is involved in a decision rendered today by the interstate commerce commission, in the case of the Commercial club of Duluth against the Northern Pacific railway and others, which says the record "does not at this time justify condemnation of the practice." The practice is for inland shippers to bring their traffic to the warehouses at Duluth, Minn., or Superior, Wis., before the close of navigation, where the freight is held in free storage by the railroads until ordered forward by rail "at the balance of the through rate from eastern points of origin." The Duluth merchants complained that they have to pay storage and dockage and switching charges which gives inland points the advantage.

Braseau, in the Tenth district, also for Taft, will be defeated by about 500 votes. As to Walter Alexander, another Taft delegate, the matter is still in doubt.

Red Blood Good Health

Spring blood is thin and watery until Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are used.

Red blood is the foundation of health and strength.

The same parts of the blood which give it color—the red corpuscles—also contain the elements which sustain and invigorate the body and its organs.

It is because the blood is thin, weak and watery in the spring that nearly everybody requires a blood-builder and restorative.

Now what Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills do is to increase the number of red corpuscles in the blood, or in other words, to make the blood redder and richer in the elements which go to build up new cells and tissues to replace those wasted by disease or in the process of living.

Redden the blood by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and you lift yourself from that low level of health which leaves you tired and languid and an easy victim of consumption or some form of wasting or contagious disease.

The portrait and signature of the famous Receipt Book author, A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every box of the genuine. 50 cts. at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

SEEKS ESCAPE FROM DISGRACE BY SUICIDE.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 9.—Charged with shoplifting, the only escape from the ordeal of prosecution presenting itself to Mrs. L. L. Hubbard of Sebeka, was suicide. She did try to secure evidence that might result in her acquittal of the charge of theft, but this proved of no avail, and the agony of death by poison was the alternative to which she turned while shrinking from the agony she fancied would be hers in hopelessly battling her accusers in court.

MEETING OF CITIZENS

A Mass Meeting Will be Called to Discuss Playgrounds.

Active Steps Will Follow the Visit of L. F. Hanmer.

It is expected the visit of Leo F. Hanmer, secretary of the National Playground association, who will be in Duluth April 20, 21 and 22, will result in definite steps being taken toward establishing public playgrounds throughout the city.

Interest in the movement is developing at a rapid rate. Mayor Roland D. Haven, who is particularly active in this direction, is arranging for a public meeting in the First M. E. church for some night while Mr. Hanmer is here. The national secretary will address the meeting, telling of what has been accomplished elsewhere with playgrounds of this sort, and offering suggestions as to what would be the best methods to adopt in Duluth. The Commercial club also has been notified of the coming of Mr. Hammer, and it is altogether likely that it will arrange for a special meeting of the public affairs committee to take up the subject.

"Of course, we will not be able to accomplish any great things in this connection during the coming summer," said Mayor Haven this morning, "but we will be able to get the movement well under way. To begin with, we shall make no attempt to purchase the playgrounds. We expect property owners interested will let us use vacant property in the desired locations for a nominal price. The plan will be something of an experiment to start with, and it is just as well not to buy the property needed until we learn just how the project is going to work out. We have every reason to believe that it will be a success, however,

"Later on, park bonds will be issued, if deemed advisable, and we will then be able to purchase such grounds as we require. It is the intention to use the grounds the year round. Our summers are so short here that some people might not think it a paying proposition to invest in tracts intended exclusively for summer playgrounds. In the winter the same grounds will be flooded, and used for skating rinks. In this way the children will be able to get some use out of practically every day in the year.

"I find public sentiment very strongly in favor of the public playground idea, and believe a good deal of interest will be shown in the meetings that will be held here while Mr. Hanmer is in town."

BANQUET FOR S. S. TEACHERS

Delegates Will be Sent to the State Convention.

The City Sunday School association will hold a banquet this evening at 6 o'clock at the St. Louis hotel. The tables will be set for fifty teachers, superintendents, assistant superintendents and department superintendents of the different Sunday schools of Duluth, and the dinner is expected to be the biggest affair of its kind ever given in this city.

The City Sunday School association is an inter-denominational organization, and is a branch of the State Sunday School association, which will hold its fiftieth annual state convention in the Central Presbyterian church at St. Paul on April 21, 22 and 23. The object of this organization is to promote Sunday school work throughout Minnesota and advance better methods.

Tonight, the association will meet to discuss and urge upon each of the Duluth Sunday schools the importance of sending delegates this year to the state convention, it being its fiftieth convention and a sort of jubilee year. The state expects to have at least 2,000 delegates at the meetings in St. Paul, representing every town and city in the state, and the Duluth Sunday schools propose to send their share.

Sunday has been chosen by all the Sunday schools as the day on which they are each to pick their representatives for the state convention.

Just a Short Time More, and Another Easter Will Have Been Added to History.....

We are having foretastes of glorious spring days. Lake Superior's broad expanse lies open at our door, ready for a renewal of commercial activities. The buds are about to break forth, and the birdies ready to sing. At this time of nature's new life, the fair sex find somber winter raiment irksome, and are ready to don gay Eastertide wearables.

Lest you neglect! Let us remind you that the woman who wants to welcome gay Easter morn in a way befitting its freshness, should have her Spring garments under way.

Easter wearables at Gidding's have reached flood tide, and best of all, each garment is a little smarter in cut, a little more pleasing as to finish, a little more catchy in design, and a great deal better as to inner construction, than found elsewhere.

Beyond all this, you'll be satisfied with the fit. For our corps of expert fitters and workmen are fully capable of executing any alterations (if necessary). Yet the prices are no higher than you want to pay, for we have taken great pains to provide for both careful and lavish spenders.

"I was advised to take Peruna, and I took it as prescribed for a month, when my cure was almost complete. Today there is not a trace of catarrh in my system, and I can say without hesitation that Peruna cured me."

Agreeable and Effective Tonic.

Corporal John Finn, Washington, D. C., veteran soldier of the Civil War, a prominent Grand Army man and commander of the oldest post in the United States, John A. Rawlins Post No. 1, department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic, writes:

"Peruna was recommended to me by many of my associates, and I have given it a fair trial. Have found it a most agreeable and effective tonic, pleasant, soothing, and leaves one free from the deleterious effects produced by the many nostrums now on the market. I have suffered from catarrhal afflictions the past winter, and have found Peruna most beneficial and commend it for what it has done for me."

Relieves Mind and Body.

Mr. G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, Ohio, formerly Captain and Center of the Hiram College Basket Ball Team, writes:

"When body and mind alike were weary and refused to work, a few doses of Peruna restored lost strength and invigorated quicker and more permanently than anything I know."

Unhesitatingly Recommends Peruna.

J. Edwin Browne, National Commander Army and Navy Union of U. S. A., 410 11th St., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have no hesitation in endorsing your Peruna as a most efficient cure for catarrh. My own experience and that of many friends who have been benefited by its use recommend it to all persons suffering from that complaint."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years, Dr. Hartman and his assistant have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. These tablets represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna, and each tablet is equivalent to one average dose.

The Family Relies on Pe-ru-na.

A. Howitt Nickerson, Captain U. S. Army, Adjutant General on General McCook's staff, writes from the Census Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"It affords me great pleasure to commend Peruna as a most excellent tonic with many medicinal qualities that assist nature in overcoming the various ills with which the human family is often afflicted, and is always in danger.

"As a general thing, I have been opposed to what are known as patent medicines, but Peruna has long since overcome this feeling. It is now, as it has been for a long time, a well-established family medicine with us, upon which we rely to give tired nature substantial restoration."

LUECK GETS HOT ROAST

Court Doubts Whether Plaintiff is Possessed of a Conscience.

Before a courtroom filled with people whose morbid curiosity drew them to a hearing of the domestic troubles of their neighbors, Judge Dibell administered a stinging rebuke on Paul Lueck, who is suing Alida Lueck, his wife, for a divorce, and held the case open for two or three days longer to give Lueck an opportunity to produce more evidence, if he can get it.

Lueck based his claim for a separation mainly on the charge of unfaithfulness on the part of his wife. The character of the testimony in his favor was such that at the close of the proceedings in the hearing, held last evening, the court remarked that there was sufficient evidence to warrant a decree on the ground of unfaithfulness "if it were believable," but the court could not reconcile the testimony with his own view as to the facts.

Judge Dibell told Lueck plainly that if Mrs. Lueck is a bad woman, Lueck has his own conscience to answer for it. The court then added that he doubted whether Lueck has any conscience.

As to the claim of Lueck that he has cared for the children, the court indicated that he did not take a great deal of stock in the allegations, and called attention to testimony, and to admissions on the part of the plaintiff, that after the first three months of married life he took to staying away from home at night and gambling; that he did so on occasions when he left a sick wife at home to look after the babies.

The court's remarks were scathing, and seemed to be greatly relished by Mrs. Lueck and her relatives.

After the court had expressed himself, he shuffled the papers together and said that if the plaintiff had any further evidence to offer within the next two or three days he, the judge, would hear it.

Lueck is represented by F. W. Hargraves, and Mrs. Lueck by Burton Rogers.

TROY SAILS APRIL 25

Western Company to Operate Fleet of Five 6,000-Ton Boats.

Package Freighting Lines Charter Steamers for Heavy Trade.

The steamer Troy of the Western Transit company, which is wintered in Duluth, will be fitted out and started on the first trip down the lakes April 25. On the same date, the Western company will start a boat from Buffalo to Duluth and simultaneously all of the package freighter lines will put their boats in operation, under an agreement between the different lines. The Chicago-Duluth boats will swing into commission about a week earlier than the freighters running between Buffalo and Duluth.

The Western Transit company will have a fleet of five 6,000-tons boats running between Duluth and Superior this season. Last year the Rochester was delivered late in the season and made but two trips, but this season all five will go into commission at the start. They are the Troy, Buffalo, Duluth, Superior and Rochester. The schedule will make it possible for the Western to transport 30,000 tons of freight between Duluth and Buffalo every ten days or about 90,000 tons a month, giving the company the capacity of handling fully half of the package freight business between Duluth and the lower lake ports.

The Anchor line will operate a fleet of fifteen passenger and freight steamers on all routes on the Great Lakes this season. In addition to its thirteen boats, the line has chartered the Lackawanna and the Scranton, formerly under charter to the Mutual Transit company. The Mutual company has chartered the George J. Gould and the S. C. Reynolds for the season, giving the company a fleet of eleven steamers on the lakes.

ICE IS BREAKING UP.

Reports From All the Lake Ports Are Encouraging.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau indicate that the ice fields are breaking up and disappearing from Lake Superior and are not as extensive as were reported last week. The ice in Whitefish bay remains firm. In the St. Mary's river the cold weather of the past week has held the ice firm and there have been no material changes. The ice in Green Bay remains solid, although there is some open water reported at the extreme southern end.

In Michigan the ice fields are confined to the extreme northern portion. These fields are breaking up and moving with the winds. At the straits the ice is reported as softening some, but there has been no breaking up of the field. It will take some warm weather and strong winds to move the ice out. In Lake Huron the ice fields are confined to the extreme northern portion and to Saginaw bay. In Erie the fields have moved to the extreme eastern end, from Erie to Buffalo. The field was broken up during the week, but westerly winds have again packed it. Lake Ontario is free of ice and the harbors are open.

In comparison with the same period last season the conditions in Whitefish bay, St. Marys river, Green bay and the straits are not as favorable, there being more ice, and it is heavier. There is more ice in the eastern portion of Erie and it is packed.

The details follow:

Lake Superior.

Bayfield: The harbor ice is 19 inches in thickness and is still solid.

Portage canal: The harbor is filled with floating ice; the fields along the shore moved out on the 4th and reach five or six miles off shore.

Houghton: The warm weather of the latter part of the week has rotted the top ice; it is still solid in Big Portage, but along the city front it is partly open; Portage river is free of ice.

Marquette: The harbor is clear; some cake ice in the bay; quite extensive fields of ice in the lake.

Munising: Thickness of ice in the harbor 22 inches; the ice is solid and extends about eight miles out.

Grand Marais, Mich.: No ice of any consequence is visible in the lake here; the same condition prevails at Sable Point and Deer Park.

Whitefish Point: The ice in the bay remains solid; the ice fields above the Point are moving with the wind.

Sault Ste. Marie: Thickness of harbor ice is 17 inches; there has been no change through the entire river during the week.

Lake Michigan.

Escanaba: The harbor ice is 19 inches in thickness; it is covered with about 1 inch of slush.

Green Bay: There are about three miles of open water in the bay; ice can be seen beyond this; it is reported to be loosened from the shore.

Mackinaw: The ice is 12 inches in thickness; the warm weather is softening it. There are about two miles of open water off this point; the ice from McGulpins Point to Waugoshance and from here to Cheboygan has not begun to break up yet, although a strong east or west wind is likely to start the ice moving.

Lake Huron.

Mackinac Island: The cold weather of the past week held the ice firm and the small team is still crossing daily from St. Ignace; no change since last report.

Cheboygan: The ice is softening and warm weather will break it up rapidly.

Bay City: There is open water on the east side of the bay with the ice still on the west side; the ice will probably go out of the bay in a week or ten days.

Port Huron: There has been no ice in sight in this end of the lake during the past week; the sandsucker McKercky arrived from Detroit on the 3rd and the steamer Annie Laurie and tow from Sandusky passed up on the 4th.

Lake St. Clair and Detroit River.

No ice in the lake or river.

Lake Erie.

Cleveland: No ice visible in the lake during the week.

Fairport: No ice in this vicinity.

Ashtabula: No ice in the harbor and none visible in the lake.

Conneaut Harbor: Harbor and lake clear of ice.

Erie: No ice in the harbor; large fields of ice extend along the shore to the east of this station as far as the eye can reach; to the west small fields are visible; the ice is rotten.

Buffalo: This end of the lake is packed with ice badly broken up and extending from shore to shore beyond vision; large quantities of ice passed down the river on several days last week.

Lake Ontario.

The reports from Ontario indicate that the harbors are open and no fields visible in the lake. The tug Cornelia was placed in commission at Sodus Point on April 1. Sackets Harbor is free of ice. The ice in the St. Lawrence river broke up on April 1 and has been running steadily since that date.

SEASON TO OPEN LATE

Bids for Tonnage Are Frowned Upon at Cleveland.

General Movement is Not Expected Before June 1.

Advices from lower lake ports are that there is no disposition on the part of vessel owners to start a general movement until the middle of May or the first of June next. Grain shippers at the Head of the Lakes are bidding for tonnage in lower lake points and meeting with scant encouragement. Two cents is offered for wheat to Georgian Bay and Buffalo, but no business is being done.

The boatmen will not take any business that will force them to place their boats in commission before they are ready, and with few exceptions all the charters that have been closed were made with that understanding. A few steamers, which have wintered at Duluth, will have to sail within ten days after the first arrival from a lower lake port.

The ore shippers not disposed to start a general movement much before June 1. Ore for shipment is coming in slowly, and no shipments will be made for some time after the Soo river is open to navigation. At the lower lake ports, coal cargoes are being offered freely, with no rush on the part of the vessel owners, who are taking cargoes subject to their own time for starting for Lake Superior ports.

RECOMMENDS THE AWARD.

Contract Will Probably Go to Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co.

The bids opened yesterday by Maj. Fitch, engineer in charge of the upper lakes district, for the dredging of a trench in line with the revetments being constructed in the entry of the Superior harbor, were canvassed yesterday afternoon, and forwarded to Washington, with a recommendation that the bid of the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company of Chicago be accepted. The bid of the successful company was for dredging with dipper and hydraulic dredges in such proportions as might be necessary at $25 per hour for the dipper and $35 per hour for the hydraulic dredge.

There were five other bidders for the contract, which is worth about $30,000. Maj. Fitch's recommendation will very probably be accepted by the department at Washington and the contract awarded to the Great Lakes company.

REPAIRING THE TUGS.

Force at Grignon's Shipyard Busy on Small Boats.

Repair work is going on rapidly at Grignon's shipyard, where the tugs Theora, Williams and Ashland are on the blocks, together with the Northern Dredge & Dock company Dredge No. 1. Necessary repairs are being made to the tugs preparatory to the opening of the season and they will be launched early next week, it is expected, although the exact dates are not yet known. Other tugs are waiting to go on the blocks and shipbuilders will be busy with the ante-season repairs for some weeks to come.

Will Go to Port Arthur.

The Booth line steamer, C. W. Moore, which left yesterday morning on her first trip to the north shore, will return to Duluth some time tomorrow and leave again Sunday morning. On the first trip, only Grand Marais, Grand Portage and other north shore points are visited, but the clearance Sunday will be for Port Arthur, as the Booth company has notified Duluth shippers that freight will be received for through shipment Sunday. The tug Whalen has been in Port Arthur breaking the ice in the harbor, and no trouble is expected in sending the Moore to her destination.

Marine Notes.

The meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association opens at Cleveland today and lake marine men at the Head of the Lakes will anxiously await the result.

The Hamilton Steel & Iron company's dock at Port Edward, Ont., will be increased from 325 feet to 475 feet in length. A modern American ore boat will be chartered at Chicago and it is expected 250,000 tons of ore will be handled during 1908 against 158,000 tons last season.

Work on the Black Rock harbor, or government ship canal, the navigable channel from Lake Erie to North Tonawanda in the Niagara river is being rushed. A firm of New York contractors will immediately begin the construction of the $1,000,000 lock.

The tug Whalen has broken the ice in the harbor at Port Arthur and vessels may now enter there. The loading of grain has already begun.

Capt. James Richardson, one of the best known marine men on the lakes and for twenty-three years an employe of the Niagara Navigation company, died at Toronto this week at the age of 79 years.

The new government elevator at Port Colborne, Ont., has been completed. It has a capacity of 800,000 bushels.

The steamer W. J. Harlow of Cleveland has been chartered by Chicago parties and it will carry ice from Houghton, Mich., to Chicago as long as the supply holds out. It will then go into salt transportation.

The elevator pool at Buffalo has been reformed and the rate of ¾c per month storage charge, in force last year will be continued.

Capt. James Doner of Detroit will sail the big steamer James P. Walsh of the Jenkins Steamship company fleet. Other appointments are: Steamer C. O. Jenkins, Capt. William Smith; Steamer Thomas Shaughnessy, Capt. R. Burns; F. B. Squire, Capt. George Burnham; W. H. Mack, Capt. George Johnson.

Steam is up in the freighters in Milwaukee harbor and the masters are awaiting for news from the Straits of Mackinac. As soon as the straits are clear, the boats, which are ready for an immediate start from Milwaukee, will set out.

The board which is to arbitrate the dispute between the Canadian union seamen and their employers is now completed. John A. Fleet, union organizer of Hamilton, and Postmaster Jacob Stewart of Kingston have named Prof. Adam Short of Queen's university, to act as the third member of the commission.

A $12,000,000 water loop to encircle the business part of Chicago is proposed by Frederick A. Delano of the harbor commission. The loops as proposed would consist of a canal 300 feet wide, extending from Lake Michigan to the south fork of the Chicago river at Twenty-sixth street. The entire circle would be made deep enough to accommodate the largest ships on the lakes.

V. S. KERR CONCERT

Delights Small Audience at the Pilgrim Congregational Church.

Unfortunately for the musical people of Duluth, and incidentally for U. S. Kerr himself, that gentleman was but little known in musical circles in Duluth, and as a consequence the Pilgrim Congregational church was but half filled at the concert given last evening.

Mr. Kerr stands high among the musicians of the East, his home being in Boston, but in the West he is not so well known. Those who attended the concert last evening, however, were delighted with it, and Mr. Kerr is assured of a warm welcome on his next visit to the city.

His program comprised Swedish, French, German and English songs, and was calculated to please all classes of people He has a deep, full voice, with the sweetness of a baritone and the deep power of the bass.

He was assisted by Maurice Eisner, a pianist. Mr. Eisner is an excellent accompanist and acquitted himself very creditably in two solo numbers.

JUDGE ORDERS WARD FREED

Detroit, Mich., April 9.—Judge Connelly, in the recorder's court today, ordered a verdict of not guilty in the case of Representative Charles E. Ward, formerly of Bancroft, Mich., who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death, here, from an illegal operation, on April 29, 1907, of Miss Edith Presley, a proof-reader in the state senate at Lansing. Representative Ward's trial began March 31. Yesterday Ward's attorney moved that the case be taken from the jury and Ward discharged, on the ground that the prosecution had not succeeded in proving the commission of a crime, nor connecting him in any way with the crime which they allege him to have committed. Judge Connelly's action followed today.

It is taken for granted that the manslaughter charge against Dr. George R. Fritch of this city, in connection with Miss Presley's death, will now be dropped.

NO LAXITY WILL BE TOLERATED

Lansing, Mich., April 9.—Governor Warner stated that no laxity will be permitted in enforcing the anti-liquor law in those counties "which voted dry" at Monday's election. Officers of the law in those counties which have adopted local option, said the governor today, will be expected to keep their bailiwicks dry. Under the authority vested in him relative to prosecuting attorneys and sheriffs of counties, the governor can make considerable trouble for such officials who do not do their duty. The governor said that he has already received one letter relative to his assistance being given to the enforcing of the law in a "dry" county and that he will not tolerate any laxity, if complaints are made to him.

ALABAMA LAWS ARE HELD CONSTITUTIONAL.

Montgomery, Ala., April 9.—The Alabama supreme court today held both the general prohibition and the 9 o'clock closing laws to be constitutional and effective. Attacks had been made on by both the liquor forces of the state.

The two laws were argued together, and the decision is taken by both sides to settle the questions. Mobile interests have fought the two provisions from the first, holding that both will be ruin to a coast city such as it is.

In upholding the general prohibition act the court also gives validity to the local option law that was involved in the cases brought.

TORPEDO BOATS HAVE ARRIVED

San Francisco, April 9.—A dispatch received this morning by the wireless telegraph company, from Magdalena bay, says that the second flotilla of torpedo boats arrived on April 5, a day ahead of schedule time, and that the tired officers and men are getting a rest and a change of food after their long confinement on shipboard. The steamer Arel Husa, which started out with the flotilla as a convoy, but was not able to keep up with it, arrived on April 6.

The flotilla arrived in fine condition, and like the battleship fleet ready for duty. The Truxton will begin target practice tomorrow. The little vessels covered themselves with glory by their fine behavior on the long run, proving their seaworthiness. Hunting, fishing, camping and rowing continue to occupy the spare time of the men of the fleet. All the ships are now painted and ready for the run up the California coast.

Welfare

Here is a word that means something now that it never meant before. It describes a department in business whose value is not reckoned in Arabic numerals. The Welfare Departments of big corporations attempt to make life pleasanter for the employees in ways which are not nominated in the bond. Sometimes these experiments succeed; sometimes they are ghastly failures, disgusting the men and souring the employer. It all depends.

In this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST James H. Collins tells on what it depends. The article is called "Right and Wrong in Welfare Work."

In the same issue of THE POST read "How They Make Ends Meet in New York," by Will Payne, and an article by Arthur Train, "Con Men Abroad," in which he recounts the interesting experience of an American who was too strong to work, amid the unsympathy of the Old World.

TO ENRICH ITS SOIL

Red River Valley Farmers Going in for Use of Fertilizers.

Machines for Spreading Fertilizer Purchased This Year.

Crookston, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. P. Stone & Co. and Peter Gramer and Albert Bergh, as representatives of the International Harvester company, were hosts at a novel banquet yesterday afternoon at a local restaurant, at which the farmers who had just purchased a full carload of manure spreaders were the guests.

The significance of the banquet was that it marked a new era in the development of the Red River valley, as not until the present time has there been any disposition on the part of the farmers to make proper use of fertilizer to rejuvenate land that is becoming run down.

A full carload has been sold here, another at Stephen, one at Beltrami and several other carload lots, which shows that the movement is general on the part of the farmers.

After the banquet, addresses were made by Supt. William Robertson of the state experimental farm, Mayor J. D. McPhee, Thomas R. Johnstone and others, all urging better farming methods and conservation of the soil energy such as would be accomplished by the use of the machinery they had just purchased. Following the addresses the farmers hitched teams to their new spreader and paraded through the business district of the city.

DULUTH CONCERN LOSES ITS MILL

Gregory Bliss Plant at Royalton is Destroyed by Fire.

Royalton, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commander flour mill here owned by Gregory Bliss & Co., of Duluth was completely destroyed by fire Monday night.

The fire was discovered about 7 o'clock in the evening.

The firemen responded instantly to the alarm but too much headway had been gained to save anything. The mill, office, cooper shop, and engine room and wood pile with a quantity of flour and grain were destroyed. It was with great difficulty that the three nearby residences were saved. The firemen worked until 1 o'clock Tuesday morning in order to save the two bridges near the mill. The pulses of the town quickened again Tuesday morning when the bell rang to call the firemen together for some other business. The mill was insured for $85,000.

SOLD FISH UNDER THEIR LEGAL SIZE

Ishpeming Fish Peddler Pays $31.50 for Breaking Law.

Negaunee, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alex Haldin, an Ishpeming fish peddler, Tuesday pleaded guilty in Judge Verran's court here to the charge of violating the game laws by selling under-sized whitefish. The complaint was entered against him March 30 by Deputy Game Warden William Harrington. The case was at that time postponed until Monday, in order that the defendant might secure an attorney. He purchased the fish from a Wisconsin dealer and says he did not know he was violating the law.

The case was quickly disposed of, as Mr. Haldin pleaded guilty, stating to the court that his attorney, who resides in Wisconsin, had advised him to do so. The fine imposed was $25, and the costs $6.50, making a total of $31.50, which he paid.

Mr. Harrington said that since October he has caused the arrest of forty fish peddlers on the same charge as that preferred against Mr. Haldin.

NOAH FACES GALLOWS.

He Pleads Guilty to Murder in First Degree.

Minot, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Death upon the scaffold or a life term in the state penitentiary confronts Robert S. Noah ,the self-confessed murderer of Gus Johnson.

Noah entered a plea of murder in the first degree before Judge Goss yesterday, and a jury will be called to determine whether Noah should be hanged or sent to the state's prison for life.

Noah pleaded guilty to murdering Gus Johnson at Kenmare. He said that he did not want an attorney, but Judge Goss, nevertheless, appointed K. E. Leighton to look after his interests.

JURY WILL DECIDE GUILT OF DOCTOR

Court Refuses to Instruct Twelve Men for the Defense.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case that is being tried before Judge Templeton in the district court against Dr. John W. Fawcett of this city charged with performing an illegal operation on Lillie Schmochel causing death is drawing to a close. The court refused to instruct for the defense after the state had closed its case although the accused's attorney argued the state had failed to make out a case.

When the motion was overruled Attorney Feetham outlined his defense and called Pearl Schaefer as the first witness. She has been a roommate of Miss Jennie Dunning, employed as doctor's assistant in the office of Dr. Fawcett. They occupied a room adjoining the office of Dr. Fawcett, over the Stanchfield clothing store. Miss Schaefer claimed to have heard a conversation which went to show that Dr. Fawcett was not guilty of the charge filed against him.

Miss Dunning, who is regarded as the most important witness for the defense, testified that Lillie Schmochel was not operated on by Dr. Fawcett as he had, in the presence of Miss Dunning, warned the girl against such an operation. This advice was given on the occasion of the first visit of Miss Schmochel. On the occasion of the second visit Miss Schmochel was very ill and she was sent to Swanson's hospital, East Grand Forks.

Structure to Take the Place of One Carried Away.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work has commenced on the new Mill street bridge across the Red river, to replace the one which collapsed last fall.

It is to be a reinforced concrete single arch bridge, the full width of the street, and will be a substantial and beautiful structure when finished.

John Lauritzen of this city is the contractor and the price of the bridge is $19,709.

DEFEAT BOND ISSUE.

Hancock Voters Turn Down Proposed Ravine Crossing Improvement

Hancock, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposition to authorize the issuing of $35,000 bonds by the city for the improvement of ravine crossings on Front, Quincy and Ravine streets, was lost by thirty-seven votes at Monday's election. The total vote cast on the proposition was 1,195, there being about 100 voters who failed to vote either way. In the First ward the vote was 235 for and 76 against; Second ward, 172 for, 93 against; Third ward, 161 for, 110 against; Fourth ward, 147 for, 125 against. Total in favor of proposition, 699; against, 496. Two-thirds of the total vote would be 795, which number the proposition failed to receive by a difference of 97.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The general Methodist conference will be held at Washington, D. C., during the week of May 16 and the president has arranged to meet the conference on that date. Six delegates will go from this state, the ministerial delegates being Rev. J. G. Moore, Grand Forks; Rev. E. P. Robertson, Grand Forks, and Rev. C. A. MacNamara, Lisbon, and the lay delegates: Judge C. A. Pollock, Fargo; S. P. Johnson, Rugby, and P. Bertelson, Kenmare.

SALOONKEEPERS ARE EASY.

Check Forger Smith is Said to Find Them Marks.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Smith, the check forger, who beat three of four people out of money in this city recently, is still doing business. The first National bank of this city, whose checks the fellow is using, is receiving the worthless paper daily. He has discarded the name of Smith, and has taken four or five other names. Since the checks at Molitors were cashed several have come in with the names of Peter Cook, Edward Varkinson, Joseph Stickney and A. Hasbon attached.

The forger is now working in Minneapolis. The First National bank today received three or four checks from that city. All, of course, have been sent back with the "no funds" stamp.

Smith is working the saloons in the Twin Cities. None of his checks are for any great amount and run from $7 to $15. According to the information received from the cities Smith tells the same story everywhere. He had been working on a farm near St. Cloud and received the money for his services.

FIRE AT ROSSBURG.

Store, Contents and Living Rooms Are Totally Destroyed.

Aitkin, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The store building, living rooms and stocks of goods belonging to Luigi Diglovanni at Rossburg were entirely consumed by fire about 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Saturday night the family came to Aitkin to attend church Sunday morning, and as the fire occurred during their absence the cause of it is unknown. The reflection from the fire was plainly seen on the sky by Aitkin people. The post-office was also in the building.

The owner carried $4,000 insurance with Louis Hallum's agency of this place, and from him it is learned that it is the intention to rebuild as soon as a settlement is made with the insurance companies. This will not be difficult, as the loss is total.

The deceased was in town about a month ago, since which time he had not been seen. Yesterday, a man named McGillvery, who happened to be passing looked into the shack and was horrified to find the old man lying on the floor dead. The authories are looking into the matter. Some say it was a case of suicide, while others hold to the murder theory. Hall once kept a resort at Sioux River, where William Earnest was foully murdered four years ago.

Calumet, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Horrible was the discovery that Samuel Vezzani, a miner, working in the local mines, made at his home yesterday evening when he returned from his day's work. He was horrified to find his wife who had been despondent for some time lying on the floor dying from strangulation caused by a rope she had pulled about her neck until she choked to death. She died in a few minutes. The husband and wife quarreled a few days ago and the result of this is presumed to have preyed on her mind.

GOLDMAN WOMAN TALKS.

Says There Was Little to Story From Boundary.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Emma Goldman, whose detention on the international boundary as she was returning from Winnipeg, created oenshiderable comment and was alleged to have been inspired by Washington advices, with a view of preventing her from returning to this country, was here yesterday on her way West, leaving last night.

Before leaving she said: "There is nothing to all this commotion. It required a board of three to pass on my papers and they found that I am an American citizen because I married an American.

The logs will be driven down Battle river, towed across Red lake and started down Red Lake river to be sawed at the mill of the company at East Grand Forks. The big crew will be used to rush the drive so that the spring high water can be taken advantage of, as trouble has been experienced during the past few years on account of low stages of water that occasionally prevail later in the summer.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Benson Man Alleged to Have Slain Chicago Policeman.

Benson, Minn., April 9.—John Coffey, 32 years old, was arrested here in connection with the murder of Policeman Robert J. MacKeneny, who was assassinated at Chicago in November, 1907. Harry Daley, 25 years old, was indicted in connection with the case and is now being held on the charge of killing H. L. Seeberger, who was murdered by robbers in his store at Chicago a year ago.

Capt. John Halpin and Detective William Morgan of Chicago were told by a girl whose name they refuse to divulge that Daley and Coffey had planned to rob a grocery store. They were stopped by Policeman MacKeneny, who was on his way home, and Daley was conversing with the officer when Coffey is alleged to have fired three shots and killed him.

Coffey was traced to his former home in Benson, and Detective Morgan came here.

FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Will be Charge Preferred Against Slayer of His Brother.

Aberdeen, S. D., April 9.—Arthur Burro, who during a quarrel over money matters, stabbed his brother, Levi, to death, is now in the Brown county jail here awaiting arraignment on a charge of murder in the first degree.

Burro was arrested near Oakes, N. D., after engaging in the fatal affray with his brother, who died shortly after the fight.

The accused lives at Ludden, N. D. The stabbing occurred at his brother's farm, located three miles north of Hecla, S. D., in this county, while the prisoner was in a drunken frenzy.

The victim was stabbed in the side, shoulder and was disemboweled, the cutting being done with a claspknife.

Arthur is about 28 years old and single, while Levi was 45, leaving a wife and three children.

About a year ago Levi borrowed $20 of his brother, who, it is said, once or twice each year gets on a periodical spree and at these times is a homonaniac. Arthur was on his way home and met his brother, when he demanded his money then and there. Levi told him to come up to the house and he could have the money, but that did not satisfy him as he wanted it then, so he got out of the buggy and attacked him. The hired man, who was near, interfered and parted the men, taking the knife away.

DID NOT WANT MONEY.

Late Peter Prinzl Turned Down Inheritance in Germany.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Peter Prinzl, the old resident of Fergus Falls, who died suddenly in the depot at Wadena, Monday, while boarding a train to return here after taking treatment for rheumatism at some hot springs, was taken to Wisconsin for interment, beside the body of his wife. Mr. Prinzl was a peculiar character. He owned a good business block in this city, from which he received a regular rental. A few years ago when notified that a relative had died in Germany, leaving him a large sum of money, he wrote at once to the proper authities in the Old World: "I have all the money now that I want or can use. Give it to some one else."

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Duluth Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease, follow.

A Duluth citizen tells hero a certain cure.

H. G. Hibke, clerk in the Northern Pacific railroad freight house, and living at Hunter's Park, Duluth, Minn., says: "In a testimonial given by me in 1898, which has been published often in the Duluth papers, I told how Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a severe attack of kidney complaint, from which I had suffered for a long time. I believe that it was brought on in the first place by exposure to all kinds of weather and the jarring of driving. Backache set in and the pains and aches made stooping and lifting very painful. Whenever I took cold it settled in my back and aggravated the trouble. The kidney secretions became discolored, irregular, and contained a sediment. I also had frequent attacks of headaches. However, as I have emphatically declared, and will always affirm, Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of all these conditions, and today not a symptom of my former trouble remains."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

BECKER CONFIRMS STORY.

Milwaukee's Mayor to Make a Campaign in a Balloon.

Milwaukee, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Becker's campaign balloon is not a joke. It will be the real thing in the way of an airship, and in it the mayor expects to cover Wisconsin this summer from end to end.

The mayor confirmed the Chicago newspaper reports concerning his gubernatorial campaign plans. "It is true," he said, "that I have bought a balloon. It is one of ten in the United States, the largest of the ten, by the way, and when inflated will contain 72,000 feet of gas—not hot air. The basket will hold four people comfortably, and in my tour I intend to be accommodated by a stenographer, guide, or balloon chauffeur, and the political factotem of the county through which I happen to pass.

"I am already arranging my tour, which will include every village, hamlet and crossroads in the state. The balloon was ordered by me in May and to demonstrate its ability I shall enter it in the airship contest to be held in Chicago, July 4."

LICENSE BALLOTS ARE DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

Menomonie, Wis., April 9.—At 7 o'clock Tuesday night, just as the poles closed, a lamp exploded in a small frame building used for a voting place for the Third ward, on account of the liquor license question being up on unusually large vote was cast.

The ballots were badly scorched and water soaked, but it is thought the city ticket and possibly the judicial ballots can be counted. The license ballots were practically all destroyed by fire. Three hundred and fifty votes were cast in this ward. The property loss is very light.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIS WEAPON WAS FAULTY

Otherwise Judge Martin Might Have Perforated "Windy" Sullivan.

Ex-Mayor of West Duluth Figures in Virginia Affair.

Virginia, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the fact that his weapon was an old revolver that refused to explode the cartridges when he pulled the trigger, Judge John M. Martin of this city failed in his attempt late Tuesday evening to make air holes through the anatomy of James Sullivan, the painter and erstwhile politician, better known on the range as "Windy" Sullivan.

According to eye witnesses of the affair, Sullivan was in one of his roasting moods while occupying a seat in the Frisco restaurant, when Judge Martin entered. As soon as Sullivan saw the judge he began abusing him and calling him all the vile names in his rather extensive vocabulary. Finally the judge passed into the saloon adjoining the restaurant and tried to procure a revolver from a friend. Failing in this, he went to his office, nearly a block away, and procuring his own revolver, returned. He first passed through the saloon entrance and then through the doors connecting the two places, meeting Sullivan face to face. He ordered the latter to decamp, at the same time pointing the revolver at him. Sullivan saw that the judge's gun would not work, when he pulled his own revolver and leveled it at Martin, who backed up into the saloon. During the gun play there was a lively scramble among the onlookers to get out of harm's way.

Yesterday Chief of Police Walsh swore out complaints against both participants and brought them before Judge Carey of the municipal court. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Poirier urged that both defendants be placed under bonds to keep the peace, and that their weapons be confiscated. Judge Martin asked for a continuance, on the ground that as this was the first time he was ever escorted into court by a policeman, he desired time to think the matter over, so Judge Carey granted a continuance in both cases until next Monday.

Judge Martin was for several years mayor of the old village of West Duluth, and has resided in Virginia for several years past. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination for judge of probate two years ago, and expects to be a candidate again this fall. Besides being a very much smaller man than Sullivan, he suffers a physical affliction which greatly impedes his movements.

Sullivan is of burly build and claims great prowess as a wrestler. He was one of the original members of the Western Federation of Miners when it was first organized in Virginia and had a hand in the publication of the "official organ" of the organization for a time. He has been a candidate for alderman several times but failed of election; he was also a candidate recently for the position of chief of the fire department, but failed to land. He made the excuse for carrying a revolver that he put it in his pocket that day to protect himself from a dog that was annoying him.

ORE SHIPPING IN MONTH.

That is Report Current Around Town of Biwabik.

Biwabik, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The expectation here is that ore shipping will begin in about a month although nothing definite has been given out on that score. The railroads have notified old employes and the present force that two or three weeks notice will be given of the time when shipping is to be resumed. Many predict there will be heavy shipments this year and that is will be a great year for open pit shipping.

SOME SPARTA EVENTS.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. M. Mouser, the Duluth & Iron Range agent at Sparta, is preparing to leave on his vacation, and has been relieved at the depot by Relief Agent N. R. Miller of the auditor's office at Duluth.

Many Spartans are interested in the announcement that Dr. Till, the Somerset, Wis., healer, is to leave for his home in Austria, as many of them have been to see him and say that they have been benefited by his treatment.

Mrs. P. Cosgrove is relieving Miss Lida Noel of this city, who filled the place of Miss Walker temporarily as teacher of the second and third grades at the Sparta schools.

MUST FILE IN TIME.

Biwabik Saloonkeepers Get Notice About Licenses.

Biwabik, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local saloon keepers have been notified that in the future they must make their applications for licenses in time to have the necessary publication and hearing before the old license expires if they do not expect to have their places closed temporarily. This means that all applications must be in the hands of the recorder about three weeks before a license expires. The rule is to be strictly enforced. It being impossible to date back licenses several local saloon men have received the best of the bargain, and to prevent this happening again this rule has been adopted.

NEW COMPANY DRILLED.

Eveleth Soldier Boys Enter Into Spirit of Work.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first regular drill of the new militia company was held last night at the Vail hall. About fifty-two men were present. As a beginning they were divided into six squads, and men placed in charge who have had military experience before, either in other militia companies or in the regular army. From the enthusiasm displayed last night and the way in which new men are joining the company, a success is assured. The equipment and guns are expected in a few days.

EVELETH BASEBALL FANS WILL MEET SATURDAY.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A baseball meeting has been called in the city hall next Saturday night. A large number of players are expected to be in attendance, as some form of organization will be made to assure a local team here. At present the proposed manager, M. J. Doyle, has nothing to do with the meeting.

EVELETH IN BRIEF.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Mr. Martinson of the Swedish Lutheran church, who recently resigned, will leave soon to take up work with the Anti-Saloon league. He expects to be in Minneapolis ready for this work on April 22.

On account of the increased local travel along the Duluth & Iron Range road, because of the new town of Gilbert, an additional passenger coach will be put on the local train, for the accommodation of many who now have to stand up in the coaches.

D. B. Austin, local engineer for the Duluth & Iron Range, will be the engineer selected by the council to estimate the construction of the sewer to be built along Douglas avenue and Monroe street.

GILBERT ELECTION LEGALLY CONDUCTED.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto Poirier of Virginia, the attorney for the mining companies, was present at the election Tuesday at Gilbert to see that there was no fraudulent voting for incorporation. After the election he said that everything was conducted in a legal manner so that there can be no grounds for contest.

Attorney M. E. Lennon of Eveleth was present in the interests of the citizens. John Siegel, J. O. Walsh and J. Kappeler were the judges of election.

ALL NIGHT IN SHAFT.

McKinley, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Caught in the shaft of the Corsica mine a few nights ago by a cave-in, John Sheric, aweli-known miner, was imprisoned in the mine until the next morning, when he was rescued. He was worn out from the worry, but was able to resume his shift after a day's rest. He entertained his friends with a lurid account of his experience, which was anthing but pleasant.

PREDICTS PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Buhl Chief of Police Talks About Range Conditions.

Negaunee, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed LeBeau, a former resident of Negaunee, is here visiting his folks. Mr. LeBeau is active in politics at Buhl, Minn., and is now chief of police there. Before he left Negaunee he was engaged in the contracting business and he excavated the ground for the foundation of the Breitung hotel, which was erected almost thirty years ago.

Mr. LeBeau predicts that there will be a fair amount of activity on the Mesaba range the coming summer, as most of the mining companies are making extensive preparations for the season's work. The Grant mine at Buhl, where a grab system has been in operation for three or four years, is to employ the usual number of men and the grab will be operated. The ore has not been mined as cheaply with the grab system as was expected would be the case when it was installed, but it is to be extensively improved. The overburned at the Grant is about eighty feet.

There has been a big change on the Mesaba range during the past few months in the character of the men employed at the mines. Many of the foreigners, and particularly those responsible for the trouble last season, have lost their jobs. Several thousand undesirable workmen have returned to their old home across the water, or have gone to other districts. At some of the properties where the forces were reduced in the fall the undesirable classes were cleaned out entirely.

DAVE FOLEY IN CHARGE.

Heads Oliver Mining Company's Chisholm Police Force.

Chisholm, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company will soon install their own police protection at the several mines in this vicinity, under the head supervision of Dave Foley. This system will probably be installed at the several mines at the other range towns.

The village received a bloodhound from Boston, which will be used by Chief of Police Dennis Madden for tracking down criminals. This is one of the best bloodhounds this side of the Windy City, both in quality and in value.

James Dowling will erect a morgue on Lake street, April 15. This will be 25 feet wide and 100 feet long, two stories high. It will be finished in the most up-to-date manner.

MONROE WILL BE GREAT OPEN PIT

Prediction Made Chisholm Will Have Largest Open Pit Mine.

Chisholm, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winston Bros. & Dear, the Monroe mine contractors, expect to start stripping the Monroe mine about April 20. Last year they did more stripping than any other contractors around Chisholm. This mine employes the greater amount of the laborers in this district. The contractors will put in one of the largest seasons the ensuing year that they have so far worked. It is predicted that this open pit will be the largest open pit in the world before many years.

TO BEAUTIFY COLERAINE.

Commercial Club is Trying to Awaken Civic Pride.

Coleraine, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club holds its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night. Among other things considered was that of civic improvement. It was a public meeting to which all residents were invited. A large number of lantern slides were used in awakening interest in beautifying the public streets, parks and the gardens and lawns about the residences. The meeting was very successful.

COLERAINE LABORER IS KILLED BY AN ENGINE.

Coleraine, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fatal accident occurred at the washing plant here yesterday mroning. Ed Lee, a laborer, 35, in mounting the cab of a locomotive slipped and fell underneath, having both legs cut off. He lived but a short time. The train crew are in no wise to blame, as the affair was altogether accidental.

Ed Lee is the party who brought suit against Charles Wallace before Justice Trescott a few days ago and received a verdict for damages in the case of assault to the amount of $99.

CAPT. FISKETT IS PRESIDENT

The Police Relief Association Holds Its Annual Meeting.

Capt. Tony Fiskett was elected president of the Police Relief association, at the annual meeting, held at police headquarters yesterday afternoon. Other officers elected were: Albert Weber, vice president; John Drennan, treasurer; and Frank Schulte, secretary.

The association was shown to be in splendid financial condition. There is something over $13,000 in the treasury. The disbursements during the past year amounted to $1,226.25. There were two deaths in the department during the year, Joseph Dwyer and Stans Milaston. About $100 was paid out in sick benefits.

The annual inspection of all uniformed officers was also held yesterday, and Chief Troyer said that all the men had passed muster with high marks.

KITZ'S MONEY MELTED AWAY

Defendant in Bergman Case Tells How Wealth Took Wings.

That money has wings was shown yesterday afternoon in the testimony of Jacob Kitz of Hibbing, who is defendant in a damage case instituted by Mrs. Olga Bergman, who claims that Kitz attempted to take improper liberties with her over a year ago.

At the time the case was first tried Kitz admitted that he owned about eighteen forty-acre tracts of land, six buildings and lots in Hibbing, held numerous mineral leases, owned other property in other places on the range, and had an interest in his brother's general merchandise business at Hibbing.

Kitz claims that at the present time, less than a year after the first trial, he has disposed of all his property. He says most of it was sold to a friend in Milwaukee by the name of Solomon Fino. He says his acreage was sold at $1 per acre, the Hibbing property for $10,000, the property near the Mahoning mine for $5,000, the hotel property in Hibbing for $1,500, and his personal property at Kitzville for $1,500. All the money received is said to have been applied in the payment of mortages, loans and other debts. At the time of the first trial he said he had no debts. Kitz claims that his only source of revenue now is a working interest in his brother's business which nets him about $1,500 per year.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

ACTIVITY IN THE SVEA CLUB

West End Republicans Will Organize for Coming Campaign.

The constitution committee will make its report and a constitution will be adopted, at the meeting of the Svea Republican club of St. Louis county, to be held this evening at the Sloan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. After the adoption of a constitution there will be election of officers for the year.

There will be speeches made by number of well known Swedish politicians and there will probably be several city officials present. After the business meeting there will be a smoker and general social session.

The membership of the club is confined to Scandinavian American citizens of Duluth and St. Louis county. A great many names have already been enrolled on the membership list of the club and it is expected that there will be a total of over 1,500 before next fall.

CLOQUET YOUTH'S DEATH WAS SHOCK

Dudley Gadau, Promising Boy of 14, Dies Quite Suddenly.

Cloquet, Minn., April 9. 1908.—Dudley Gadau, aged 14 years, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. C. Gadau, died suddenly Wednesday about noon, at his home in this city. The boy had complained at various times since last fall of a cold in the lungs, but comparatively little heed was taken at the time. Over exposure and complications resulted in an attack of diabetes, which was the immediate cause of his death.

Dudley was born in Cloquet, May 14, 1894, and has spent his whole life in this city. He has always been a vigorous, able-bodied boy, and in fact was very large for his age. He was a member of the freshman class at the high school, and to his host of young friends his untimely departure was a shock, as he had been confined to his home only about a week and was in bed scarcely a day and a half. The funeral arrangements are being conducted.

CLUB ELECTS SIX OFFICERS

Commercial Club Has $16,000 Assets and No Liabilities.

W. I. Prince, Elmer N. Whyte, B. W. How, G. A. Everest and Henry Nolte were elected directors of the Commercial club for the ensuing two years at the election held at the club yesterday. Two hundred and thirty-one votes were cast for the directors, W. I. Prince receiving the highest of any candidate, 180. E. N. Whyte was second, with 176.

Officers will be elected this noon by the old and newly-elected board of directors.

Secretary Eva reported that the club had 972 members in good standing, the assets of the club amounting to $16,488.32, and the liabilities nothing.

Addresses were delivered at the smoker by W. E. Magner, president of the club; Bishop James McGolrick and O. H. Simonds.

The membership committee of the club, composed of Bently P. Neff, chairman; C. L. Rakowsky, C. F. Rowe, M. F. Jamar, Jr., E. A. Shulze, A. D. McIntyre, W. S. Telford, George N. Holland, Rene T. Hugo and J. A. Wharton, was given a dinner by the club members in the evening.

GOVERNOR HUGHES

wagers be delivered, shall be liability to a civil suit for the money lost. If ever it was supposed that this was an appropriate law to prevent the offenses mentioned in the Constitution, no one now cherishes the illusion. It is a mockery of prohibition, and pool selling and bookmaking flourish at the race tracks as though they were legally authorized. Not only is this the result, but the enforcement of the law elsewhere is embarrassed by these undemocratic discriminations.

Not Question for Legislature.

"It is not a question for the legislature whether this vice should be permitted or regulated. Under the Constitution the legislature has no right to permit it or to regulate it. The people have spoken upon that question. You are asked to make existing prohibitions effective. Instead of virtually protecting pool selling and bookmaking upon the race tracks—instead of favoring them and subjecting them to an inadequate penalty; the law can and should effectively prohibit them by imposing penalties similar to those which are visible upon identical offenses elsewhere.

"The demoralizing influences and the menace to the welfare of the state which are involved in the continuance of this evil are obvious. Still more important is the necessity of vindicating the fundamental law of the land and of demonstrating that this is a state where law and order prevail and where no interest is powerful enough to keep on the statute books deceitful provisions whereby prohibition becomes profitable license and a favored class of law breakers are afforded substantial immunity.

"Respect for law is the security of our government, and the guarantees of the rights of liberty and property will not long avail if the people are taught to view the Constitution with contempt.

"I therefore urge you to discharge a manifest duty and to end the discriminations in favor of race track gambling which cupidity inspired and now seeks to maintain."

Governor Hughes recommends the creation of a commission, the members of which shall give their services without pay to inquire into "the facts relating to speculation in securities and commodities with the view to ascertaining the manner in which illegitimate transactions may be prevented and legitimate business safeguarded."

Anti-Gambling Bill Killed.

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—The vote of Senator Owen Cassidy of Schuyler, Republican, late yesterday caused a tie vote of 25 to 25 and defeated, for the time at least, the Agnew-Hart bills embodying the recommendation of Governor Hughes that the legal protection be abolished which since 1897 has protected public gambling at the race tracks.

Lieut. Governor Chanler in the chair, by casting his vote to break the tie upon a parliamentary motion, which, but for him, would have resulted in killing the bills for the rest of the session, saved them for another vote at the discretion of their introducer, Senator Agnew, at any time when the order of business permits him to call up the matter. The importance of this bit of subsidiary procedure may prove to be very great, and if by any means the bills can gain a vote from the opposition and at the same time hold the 25 they had they might yet pass to the governor.

Governor Hughes made no secret of his disappointment over the result of the day's struggle. He would not intimate what measure he would adopt in the premises, but that he regards the matter as far from settled, he made clear by the following statement issued from the executive chamber:

"It is impossible to believe that the people will permit the plain mandate of the constitution to be ignored. The contest has not ended. It has only begun. It will continue until the will of the people has been obeyed."

is the result of my 20 years' experience in the polishing and refinishing business. During this time, my experiments with "polishes" were entirely unsatisfactory. There was something lacking. This fact caused me to work out a "formula" of my own, resulting seven years ago in my establishing "Magic Polish." Since then I've improved it wonderfully, until today "Magic Polish" has no equal. It will clean and bring out the polish of old furniture without the remotest possibility of damaging the finish, however delicate it may be. If left to dry on the furniture, it forms itself into a dust-like surface, which can be removed with a damp cloth. "Magic Polish" has thousands of friends in Duluth, and is gaining more every day. It's absolutely guaranteed. Every bottle enclosed in a box. Ask Your Dealer for It. Manufactured by

IS GIVEN A CHANCE.

Carl Sodergren Promises to be Good and Take Cure.

Carl Sodergren, sentenced in municipal court yesterday to forty days in jail because he went home drunk Tuesday night and drove his wife out into the snow, will be given a chance to reform. Judge Cutting has suspended sentence, on condition that he go to Minneapolis and take the drink cure, afterwards returning to Duluth and looking after his family properly.

Sodegren is really a man of intelligence, and is capable of earning good wages while sober. Drink has been the cause of his downfall. A brother arrived in the city from Minneapolis this morning, and the two will return to the Twin Cities together. Sodegren has faithfully promised to take the cure, and then to come back to Duluth and walk the straight and narrow path. If he carries out the promise he will not be compelled to serve time in jail.

BREAD LINES AND BALLS.

The St. Louis Times quoted a country contemporary as follows:

> In New York city there are bread lines where men by the thousands come daily while charity doles out a loaf to them. In another part of the city a woman spends $90,000 in giving a single ball. And yet some people wonder what there is in our social state that encourages the growth of discontent.

Then the St. Louis Times goes on to explain it all kindly and gently to the country brother who is so disturbed by conditions that he should be familiar with by this time, and says:

> Persons of light reflection often before from like premises have drawn a similar false conclusion. The contention in their minds is that the spending of $90,000—or any other large sum—for a single ball is foolishly extravagant, wantonly wasteful and a denial by the spender of the ethical brotherhood of the poor. Much better than to give it to charity is done with prodigal expenditures of this sort. The money is distributed among workers—and thereby aids to prevent their need of charity. It goes to the florist and that fan-spread following which plants and nurtures and wreathes his completed triumphs. It goes to the caterer and his army. Waiters, maids, hostlers, bell boys, cabmen, are among those in humbler walks to get under the spout from which shower these dollars. The milliner—and others in the higher places of art—draw their cupful from the same fountain.

Here are two views of a familiar development of social conditions. First, the country brother sees the bread line neighboring to a ball upon which somebody has spent a fortune. It does not look right to him that one man should be able to spend that much money on a social function, while thousands of able-bodied producers should depend upon charity for bread.

But the city brother kindly explains that it is better to have this money spent in this way than to have it kept, since it gives employment and tinkles into the till of tradesmen, including the champagne agent, whom the city brother forgets in his enumeration of beneficiaries.

Now, just by way of interesting speculation, which of these two observers takes the broader view; the puzzled and indignant country brother, or the kind and explanatory city brother?

In the first place, the country editor has not complained of the spending of the $100 000, but of the conditions that permit one man to have that much money to spend in trilling amusement when men who want work and can't get it live on charity.

In the second place, it seems fair enough to say that each man ought to get from society fair pay for what he gives it, and that he ought to give society a fair return for what it gives him. If we apply that doctrine, what has the man that is able to spend a fortune on a ball given to society that he should exact such a return from it? We know of no inventors, scientific discoverers or producers who have been so well rewarded. What, too, are the maids, hostlers, liquor agents, and fancy caterers producing for society that they should share in this fortune?

Besides, the men in the bread line are seeking to serve society by turning their labor to production, and they ask only living wages for their service. Society owes them at least this modest opportunity.

There is humanity in the country brother's complaint, and there is shallowness in the city brother's explanation.

MR. YOUNG'S DEFIANCE.

There is one thing about Attorney General Young that compels attention: he does not mince matters.

Last Saturday The Herald's St. Paul correspondent wired in a story that the attorney general was likely to give up the fight for the governorship because of the array of "interests" that had apparently chosen Jacobson instead of him.

Yesterday Mr. Young, in a letter to The Herald, vigorously admitted the combination that has apparently lined up against him, but still more vigorously denied that he had any thought of letting it scare him out of the game.

It must be admitted that there is something very curious about the way certain individuals, known or suspected to have alliances with corporate interests, have rallied around the Jacobson standard; especially in view of Jacobson's legislative record of corporation-baiting. These individuals are very carefully detailed in Mr. Young's letter, so there is no need of specifying them further than to repeat that the combination contains such varied interests as the railroads, the timber combine and the liquor dealers.

While Mr. Young's defiance may perhaps not tend to any marked degree to restore the ideal of "harmony" for which Republican leaders yearn, it will certainly have the effect of clearing the atmosphere, and of making the issues plain.

OVERCAPITALIZATION.

It counts for a great deal in the fight for the improvement of the common lot that people have finally realized that overcapitalization is as contemptible a crime as selling gold bricks. To consolidate two corporations, capitalized at $1,000,000 each and worth $500,000, and to ask the public to pay profits that will yield dividends on a new capitalization of $5,000,000, is not a whit more elegant or praiseworthy than playing with marked cards.

Some of the large stockholders of an industrial corporation whose capital exceeds $30,000,000 are trying to induce the other stockholders to reduce it. They say that it exceeds the value of the property, and that public opinion is changing—has changed would be better—concerning the issue or selling value of securities which are, to a large extent, mere wind. There are other stockholders who seem to imagine that they would lose something by a readjustment which would make the real value of their shares approximate closely to their face value.

Manifestly the public is much less tolerant of overcapitalization than it once was. It does not accord so much patience to the argument that it is an innocent pastime of financiers. It sees in it an instrumentality of fraud or a device for the exaction of excessive profits. It has come to look with extreme distrust upon the securities of overcapitalized concerns. It is slow to buy them even when quoted at prices which may fairly represent their actual value or even fall below it. The overcapitalized corporation loses the confidence of investors, and that is no trifling loss, because it involves the failure of patronage for the game of financial thimble-rigging.

The United States Steel corporation, while it was grossly overcapitalized at the beginning, is putting so much of its earnings back into construction and expansion that now its property much more nearly balances in value with the face value of its stock than it did at first. Indeed, figuring the market values of its securities, it is evident that most of the water has been squeezed out. Still, it was a mistake to overcapitalize it, and it will take some time to give securities and property values that accurate balance which should exist.

A recent statement of the capitalization of the New York trolley lines outside of New York city puts the capital stock at $115,189,000 and the bonds at $123,000,000, a total of $238,189,000. Of seventy-six companies only nine paid dividends. The net visible income of all the companies was only $1,022,000, or less than 1 per cent upon the capital stock. Only a small part of the capitalization represents property.

Without the ability to squeeze earnings out of the people, such capitalization becomes wholly farcical. When it is accompanied by the power of exacting dividends upon it, through tariff schedules or other special privileges, it becomes criminal.

A BIRTHDAY.

This is The Herald's twenty-fifth birthday. Twenty-five years ago today this newspaper was started in a small town called Duluth, and its humble beginnings accorded with conditions then prevailing, though not with the brilliant future of the community and the newspaper. It started in the basement of a building on Lake avenue, with a four-page issue.

Last night, a quarter of a century later, it issued twenty-six pages from one of the most complete newspaper plants in the country, located in its own building in a city whose fame carries afar.

The years thus bridged in a single thought have brought much both to Duluth and The Herald, including both vicissitudes and growth. There have been ups and downs, but the upward steps have been long ones, and the downward steps have been but temporary. Today the city is just setting foot upon the threshold of the greatness that was visible from afar a quarter of a century ago, and The Herald is, if it may be permitted to say so, ready and equipped to do its share in making promise bear the fruit of realization.

Both the city and the newspaper, however, speak for themselves. As to the city, its present growth and its immediate assurances of still greater growth have attracted the attention of the country. The new era into which it is emerging is rosy with promise and rich in assurances of fulfillment. The city faces the future with confidence in its strength and a firm belief in the solidity of its present and the certainty of its future.

The newspaper, which can claim a share in the creation of the present and which promises to do its share in the making of the future, may also claim to have kept pace with the city and promises to continue to do so. As in the past, it will lead, not follow.

PARTISANSHIP IN CITIES.

The National Municipal league is advocating separate municipal elections, and unquestionably it is engaged upon a work that promises better things for the cities.

The evil of holding city elections at the same time as general state and national elections is obvious. It fosters a relationship between national and city politics which must be destroyed before good government is possible. Naturally, what a candidate for alderman or mayor thinks about the tariff or the trusts or the Philippines or the Republican or Democratic parties has no more connection with his suitability for the office he seeks than have his views upon prevailing fashions or the nebular hypothesis. Yet when city elections are held upon the same day as general elections, it is impossible to separate the city's interests from partisan politics, and the evil results have been shown in many cities where partisanship has bolstered up and protected the most horrible conditions of corruption and misgovernment.

Duluth is fortunate in having its municipal elections separated from its county, state and national elections, and the result is that as a rule, while the candidates receive party nominations, partisanship has comparatively little to do with the results at the polls. It will be better still when municipal candidates no longer run under party names, but are selected entirely, without the confusion of political designation, for civic and personal reasons.

New York, San Francisco and Philadelphia are conspicuous examples of what can be done with a community under the cover of partisan politics.

The movement must not stop, however, with the separation of city from national and state elections. It must continue until all confusing issues of partisanship are eliminated, and city elections are conducted upon city issues alone. In Boston there is a movement, begun at a conference of sixty representative citizens, to eliminate partisanship from local elections, which has the endorsement of all the commercial bodies and apparently of the people. A bill has been framed which, while it recognizes the possible creation of municipal parties, divided on municipal issues, forbids the participation of national or state organizations in either nominations or elections, directly or indirectly.

A similar movement has been begun in Milwaukee, where representatives of twenty-five civic and business associations recently adopted a resolution in favor of non-partisan local government, and pledged themselves to further it with every means in their power.

The new government of Des Moines, Iowa, which is upon the commission plan, is controlled by laws forbidding the use of party designations upon the ballot either in the primaries or at the elections. Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Leavenworth, Kan., have also adopted the Des Moines charter, while Grand Rapids, Mich., and Newport, R. I., with charters more conventional than the Des Moines plan, have also forbidden the use of party designations upon municipal ballots.

Good thing—air and sunlight are not conveniently man-handled. Somebody would surely have pre-empted them as private property and would be feeding them to us, adulterated, through meters at ruinous rates.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

The question is, is John wearing that open front embroidered lace coat when he calls upon his customers?

The first act of the little domestic comedy, or drama, was laid in the St. Louis hotel. The setting was the ladies' parlor, on the second floor and a gentleman's coat of material that looked nearly the same.

It so happened that a young woman from Hibbing is visiting friends in the city. It also so happened that she dined at the St. Louis hotel. The young woman left her coat on the settee in the parlor and went into dinner without the least suspicion that some undiscerning man would mistake her new coat for his. But such was the case.

The man in the case had dined with a lady and had carelessly left his coat on one of the davenports. After dinner, without looking at the garment he picked up, he placed it over his arm and sauntered out of the hotel with the young woman he had taken to dine. After putting the young woman upon a street car he returned to the hotel, got his grips and it is presumed caught his train.

Telegrams have failed to elicit any response from the traveling man. Then the question arises, is the masculine sense of clothes observation so dense that John has failed to observe that he is wearing a lace trimmed coat that belongs to a young woman. Maybe he has not tumbled to the fact as yet.

Meantime, the young lady who has lost her coat has been compelled to borrow a garment from the friend she is staying with. But if John should call on the village blacksmith with the fricassied frock, that worthy might instantly place the wearer in the molly coddle class and swing one of muscles like iron bands upon him.

The rivalry has again broken loose between the "Chiyuna Chicken" and the "Chiyuna Kid." The seriousness of the outbreak threatens to engulf the friendship of the whilom friends. One of the claimants to the crown of laurel and congratulations of friends, is at the present time wearing a dark circle that is bounded by the left eye brow and cheekbone. He has informed friends at the St. Louis hotel—the one who sports the pale green patch—that he fell and struck his head. However, circumstantial evidence is strong in pointing that he stopped a left jab with the optic in question, and the rum story about the fall will not carry weight. The strain of intense rivalry cannot endure much longer and one of these days the thud of crushing fists and the tug of straining muscles will proclaim the battle that is bound to come.

J. J. O'Brien, at the Lenox, states that the street car trouble at Winnipeg threatens to break into open hostility between the company and the employes. History may repeat itself, says Mr. O'Brien, for three years ago it was found necessary to call out the reserves to quell the riot that took place when the mob of strikers and their sympathizers attempted to make the company stop running its cars.

While in Winnipeg it is not generally believed that the strike will be as serious as was the case three years ago, the men generally have the sympathy of the working elements with them and any attempt of the company to operate cars in opposition to the wishes of the men might be fraught with danger to the property of the company.

Recalling the strike of three years ago, Mr. O'Brien says the crowd packed the street with a denseness that forbade traffic. When the cars went by with their guard of secret service men, the crowd hooted at them and threw bricks, stones and all kinds of missiles at the heads of the men inside the cars. Cars were burned in the street, and for a while the police seemed unable to cope with the situation. Then the regulars from Fort Assinaboine were called out.

With loaded guns, fixed bayonets and cannon, they marched down the main street and formed a British square, facing the crowd of awed foreigners. Then the mayor declared martial law. Many of the foreigners did not know the meaning of the words his honor was saying, says Mr. O'Brien, and began heaving all the bricks and rocks they could lay their hands upon. It is said that the order was given to fire. At any rate, cooler counsel prevailed and a catastrophe was prevented by the courage and coolness of the soldiers.

Finally the crowd of about 10,000 people of almost every nationality was awed into passive submission by the presence of the soldiery, not however, until several of the policemen had been struck by rocks, a good many heads had been the receiver general for the clubs of the officers, a number of cars had been burned, and the windows in more than a hundred smashed to splinters by the fusillade of rocks and bricks.

Mr. O'Brien believes the company will settle with the employes, if their demands are within reason, rather than face another strike like the one of three years ago.

THE WEATHER.

Real spring weather, this. This morning the sky was undimmed by a single cloud, the breeze came genially from the south, and the sun shone with fertilizing warmth. The weather man says it will remain mild tonight and tomorrow, though it will be partly cloudy, and there may be some rain tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 32 degs. and yesterday's highest was 47 degs.

A year ago today it was raw and cold.

The sun rose this morning at 5:31 and sets tonight at 6:48, making 13 hours and 17 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "It is somewhat cooler this morning throughout the Eastern Lake region, Ohio valley and Southeastern states due to a rise in pressure over those districts the center of the highest pressure overlying the Ohio valley. Rain or snow fell during the past twenty-four hours in the above districts as a result of low pressure areas central this morning off the New England coast and over Mexico. A barometric depression overlying Western Canada has caused milder weather throughout the entire Northwest. The barometer remains high over Oregon. These conditions favor partly cloudy skies in this locality tonight and Friday with a slight chance of rain Friday."

The World.

The Worlds' a bubble, and the Life of Man
Less than a span;
In his conception wretched, from the womb,
So to the tomb;
Curst from his cradle, and brought up to years
With cares and fears.
Who then to frail mortality shall trust,
But limns on water, or but writes in dust.

Yet whilst with sorrow here we live oppressed,
What life is best?
Courts are but only superficial schools
To dandle fools;
The rural parts are turned into a den
Of savage men;
And where's a city from foul vice so free,
But may be termed the worst of all three?

Domestic cares afflict the husband's bed,
Or pains his head;
Those that live single, take it for a curse,
Or do things worse.
Some would have children; those that have them moan
Or wish them gone.
What is it, then, to have or have no wife,
But single thraldom, or a double strife?

Our own affection still at home to please
Is a disease;
To cross the seas to any foreign soil,
Peril and toil;
Ware with their noise affright us; when they cease,
We are worse in peace;
What then remains, but that we still should cry
For being born, or being born to die?

They have purchased $25,000 worth of mining machinery, including a diamond drill, and will expend $500,000 searching for the mineral wealth which they are confident lies burried there.

MILLER AND BEDE.

Ely Miner: Representative Clarence B. Miller has announced himself as a candidate for congress in the Eighth congressional district and will oppose J. Adam Bede in the primaries. With the advent of Mr. Miller into the field, there are prospects that there will be something doing from now on in congressional politics as both, himself and Mr. Bede are recognized campaigners of ability.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: If the newspapers of this congressional district reflect the public sentiment correctly, we are going to see a real old time scrap for the Republican nomination for congress.

Grand Rapids Independent: Clarence B. Miller is receiving considerable attention from the Eighth district press since it has become practically assured that he is a candidate for J. Adam Bede's job. The contest is one in which everybody is taking a deep interest, and when things get to going it will be decidedly interesting.

Pine City Pine Poker: Besides having made a very creditable record in the legislature Mr. Miller is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and will doubtless have strong supporters and workers in the many university graduates scattered throughout the district, a factor which is coming to be recognized as formidable in Minnesota politics. In no previous campaign has the opposition to Bede been such as to force him to exert himself. With a member of the younger and newer generation of public men, however, pitted against the older and more seasoned politician and statesman we may look for a lively and interesting campaign.

Ely Miner: The Miller-Bede campaign promises to be one of the best in Minnesota and the people will be wised up some when it is over.

Cloquet Pine Knot: With two such men as Clarence B. Miller and J. Adam Bede in the congresional race in this district there will be something doing all the time until the votes are counted at the primary election.

Little Falls Transcript: Clarence B. Miller, now one of Duluth's representatives in the Minnesota legislature, has announced his candidacy for congress in the district now represented by J. Adam Bede. He makes a special promise that he will devote his whole time to the duties of his office if elected.

Aitkin Independent: Clarence B. Miller of Duluth has formally announced his candidacy for congress, and will contest with Hon. J. Adam Bede for the seat now occupied by the latter. The announcement has been expected for some time, and as Mr. Miller made quite a record for himself as representative of the Fifty-first district in the last legislature, is a young lawyer of ability, a brilliant and forceful orator, his candidacy will add to the gayety of nations, as Mr. Bede says, and the voters of the Eighth congressional district are assured of a lively and interesting campaign.

FROST DRAWS DAMAGE SUIT

Grows Out of the Alaska Central Railway Difficulties.

Chicago, April 9.—Fresh troubles in the affairs of A. C. Frost, whose banking company and Chicago & Milwaukee electric road are in the hands of receivers, cropped out yesterday. This time they appertain to the Alaska Central Railway company, of which he is president.

The unpleasantness materialized when John E. Bellaine, a brisk, determined man, arrived in Chicago from Alaska beat on eliminating the Frost interests from the railway. When the two men met there was a stormy interchange of invective in which a personal encounter was narrowly averted after a policeman had been summoned. Bellaine threatened to "smash" Frost, and Frost threatened to "brain" Bellaine with a heavy bronze inkstand.

Two Million Damage Suit.

The man from Alaska arrived in Chicago armed with all kinds of legal bills, which the threatens to file against Frost. One was a bill for a receivership for the Alaska Central, in which Frost is charged with juggling the finances of the road and defrauding the stockholders. In addition he said he was having Chicago attorneys draw up a bill demanding $2,000,000 damages of Frost on charges of breach of contract and milking the road.

Bellaine is the original promoter of the railway. He interested E. A. and Charles S. Shedd in the undertaking and twenty miles were constructed. Then Frost bought out Bellaine's Construction company and continued the construction, fifty-two miles having been now completed running north from Seward. Bellaine, who was to have received payment in stock of the road, charges that Frost has not lived up to the agreement.

Called Alaskan a Liar.

It appears that Bellaine went to Frost's office on the tenth floor of the Stock Exchange building Monday afternoon. The interview became warmer and warmer, until Bellaine lost his temper. The interview is reported substantially as follows:

Bellaine—Frost, you know there isn't a bank in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia or Boston with which you have any standing.

Frost—You're a liar.

Bellaine—What's that you said?

Frost—I said you're a liar—a d——n unmitigated liar.

Bellaine—Frost, I'm going to smash you. (Rising and starting around the end of the desk.)

Frost—And I'm going to brain you if you try it. (Rising and snatching up a ponderous piece of bronze statuary, ornamenting an ink well.)

The two enraged men paused, facing each other. Bellaine slowly dropped his upraised arm to his side. Frost replaced the inkstand and ordered Bellaine from his office. The promoter refused to go.

Summoned a Policeman.

"Miss Tuttle, please send a boy down for a policeman," directed Frost, opening the door and addressing his secretary.

Before the policeman arrived, however, Bellaine departed, breathing vengeance. Then he got busy with his lawyers.

"I have prepared an application for a receivership for the Alaska Central to be filed in the Washington courts," he said. "I also have instructed Chicago lawyers to file a damage suit for $2,000,000 against Frost, alleging nonperformance of contract and the overbonding of the road to such an extent that it is impossible to finance the undertaking.

SHAREHOLDERS OF GRAND TRUNK

depression which, he was sorry to say, still prevailed. He thought that this was merely a temporary check, and hoped that 1,000 miles of the company's portion of the Grand Trunk's line to the Pacific will have been completed by the end of the present year. It was proposed to acquire land in certain districts along the line of the railroad, and bonds would be issued to shareholders in preferential terms in order to raise the necessary money.

Appeals for Unity.

A. W. Smithers, in seconding the motion for the adoption of the report, appealed for unity so that the credit of the company would remain unimpaired. He added that there were plenty of enemies of the road in Canada who would magnify any differences that might arise.

This statement brought the shareholders present to their feet with sharp criticisms of the management of the company and heated expressions of dissatisfaction with the expenditures were heard. The clamor of the opposing factions was punctuated with disparaging remarks from some of the men present. One sharholder urged the appointment of a committee at Montreal to run the railroad, claiming that no business could be managed effectively at a distance of 3,000 miles. Sir Charles declared this latter proposal to be "insane." Prior to 1862, he said, they had had a taste of management or mismanagement, by a board in Canada, and as a result the company had been plunged into terrible financial straits. Such a board would be bogus, he asserted, and the announcement that one was to be formed would prove a deadly blow to the credit of the company.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

A great Easter rally is being planned by the local lodges of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World to be held in this city Wednesday of next week. The members of the order throughout the state will be the guests, and the speakers for the occasion will be the supreme commander Mrs. Lillian M. Hollister of Detroit and Miss Bina M. West of Detroit, supreme record keeper.

The convention will open with a meeting in Maccabee hall on the afternoon of April 15, and will be followed by a banquet at the Spalding. The public meeting and class initiation, which will be the climax of the day's proceedings will be held in the evening at the Armory. Nearly 2,000 invitations have been issued for the affair. The rally is in charge of Duluth Hive, No. 1, which numbers 300 members. The other local hives are Pearl Hive, No. 4, Zenith Hive No. 61 and West Duluth Hive. There will be a large attendance of out of town members, several hundred being expected from the ranges. The Two Harbors lodge will come to the city in a special train.

MRS. LILLIAN M. HOLLISTER.

Some very fine drill work is anticipated as the teams under the direction of Capt. Lucy Pengale have been practicing for several weeks in preparation for this event. The local lodges are busily preparing for the rally, although the program in detail has not yet been made out.

WED AT DUBUQUE.

Miss Florence Moy Becomes Bride of Judson S. Clark.

A wedding of interest to many Duluthians took place Monday at Dubuque, Iowa, when Miss Florence Moy of that city became the bride of Judson S. Clark of this city. Mr. Clark is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Clark of this city. The account of the wedding from the Dubuque Times-Journal will be of interest to many here:

"A pretty early spring wedding was celebrated Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moye 164 Prince street, when their daughter, Miss Florence E., was united in marriage to Judson S. Clark of Duluth, Minn. Miss Lillian Mueller was at the piano, and the wedding march from Mendelssohn was played as the bridal party descended the stairs and entered the parlor, where the ceremony was performed by Dr. George L. Cady of the First Congregational church.

"During the plighting of troths the bridal couple stood beneath a wedding bell of ferns and carnations, with a background of palms, carnations and roses festooned with smilax. Miss Moy was charming in a wedding gown fashioned of white embroidered lawn. Her bouquet was of orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Helen Walker of Duluth and Mr. Ellis Cook, also of Duluth, served as the groom's best man. Miss Margaret Curran of Duluth served as ring-bearer and Miss GBernice Moy, sister of the bride, as flower girl. Following the ceremony, the bridal couple were showered with congratulations and the wedding supper was served. The decorations in the dining room were carried out in the same scheme as in the parlor.

"The bride is an attractive and accomplished young lady. She was born and reared in this city, where she has a legion of friends, who wish for her life's truest joys. Her husband is a prominent young business man of Duluth. The wedding gifts were very beautiful, among them being one that was very unique. It was an album made of flint rock, secured from the Death Valley slope of the Funeral range in California, 5300 feet above the level of the sea. Each page of the album contains an inscription and a scenic view. After a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Clark will be at home at Duluth.

"The out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Clark, Ellis Cook, Mrs. Curran, Miss Margaret Curran and Miss Helen Walker of Duluth, Minn.; Mrs. Moore of Hibbing, Minn.

WOMAN DRIFTS.

Majority of Sex Live Without Definite Aim.

Man is, generally speaking, a creature of purpose. By the time he has reached college (or at the same age in a non-college career) his "way of life" has generally crystallized into a certainty. His future is ordered; he sees and plans for so many years of additional training, such and such a phase and plane of life, and sooner of later—and it is not exaggerating to say he plans when—a wife, home and children.

Without quibbling or evasion, says the Delineator editorially, it is undeniably true that seventy-five per cent of all women become wives and mothers. That this destiny is not unalterably proposed for you does not imply that the proportion is not fixed. But what proportion of women are deliberately training for the duties of wifehood and motherhood? Perhaps you have what you consider a clear call to take up settlement work or an over-shadowing aptitude for mathematics. Very well; but the number of girls who have such definite aim is really small. Most of them are drifting,—yes drifting,—there is no other word!

They drift through high school, or finishing school or even college, taking on a veneer of intellectuality with little depth of meaning.

Some time after leaving her college or school she is married. Yes, generally she is: there's no getting around it, despite the attitude of impatience regarding this future possibility that seems to be fashionable with many college girls. And how much preparation for this life has she had?—not merely in housekeeping, but in the higher, the mental, ethical and social preparation, ensuring both easy adjustment and practical successful cooperation in the new condition.

The American college girl likes to consider herself independent, and the desire is praiseworthy. She does not like to feel that her life has been one of preparation and expectancy to the coming therein "of a man." This would be well enough did she have any definite expectancy of anything else, or did she not deliberately shut her eyes to the very possibility of marriage. Either she refuses to see a statistical probability, or seeing it, refuses to make any preparation for it. Either case argues against her latent good sense.

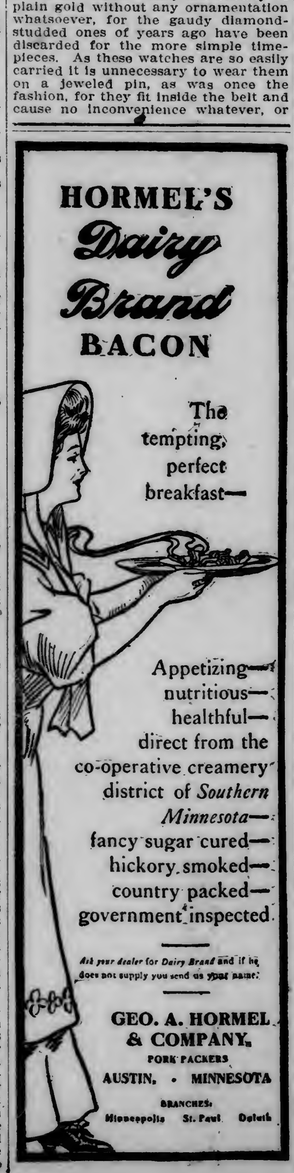

WAFER WATCHES.

Change in Style and Plan of Wearing.

Even watches have undergone a change during the last two or three years. They are no longer those bulky affairs which make one look as though one's waist were in some way deformed. They are as thin as wafers, so thin that it seems almost impossible that any works could be placed inside the cases. They are usually of plain gold without any ornamentation whatsoever, for the gaudy diamond-studded ones of years ago have been discarded for the more simple timepieces. As these watches are so easily carried it is unnecessary to wear them on a jeweled pin, as was once the fashion, for they fit inside the belt and cause no inconvenience whatever, or they may be placed in any other position convenient to the wearer.

There have been cases where the wafer watch was arranged in the garter buckle, and, while the fashion might leave the wearer in ignorance of the time, at least she has the satisfaction of knowing that her watch is not at home on her dressing table. When, however, the watch is worn in a less inconspicuous position a plain gold or silver chain is attached to it and it encircles the neck of the owner. These chains, too, are of the simplest variety and must only be worn with plain tailored gowns, for on no occasion is a watch necessary when milady is in her Sunday best.

Some women still adhere to the old fashion of wearing the timepiece in a bracelet, and where these were once of leather they are now of chased gold or silver, and are far more satisfactory. For calling, this custom is especially convenient, except when milady goes in her automobile. Then, of course, there is a small clock included in the fittings of the tonneau.

CONTEST CLOSES.

Women of Church Collect 3,000 Feet of Pennies.

A five months' contest for a mile of pennies conducted by the women of the Lester Park Methodist church was ended yesterday. The contestants under the leadership of Mrs. James A. Geer were the victors with 1,776 feet of pennies to their credit. This length of copper coins numbered 28,416 cents. The losing side, of which Mrs. Fred Hanson was leader, ended the contest with 1,407½ feet or 22,520 coins to their credit.

Yesterday's meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. LeTourneau, was one of intense interest and there were many congratulations extended the winning members when the result was announced by the president, Mrs. H. G. Inman.

The society wishes to express its gratitude to those outside of Lester Park, and to all those of other churches who contributed so generously and cheerfully to help raise the $500.36, which is to be used to paint and stain the exterior of the church and to remodel the basement and install a new heating plant.

Handkerchief Jabot.

Paris has decreed that jabots are to be worn, and while many of them are made of lace and are hand-embroidered, there are a few women who prefer them with a touch of color, and them they are made of tinted handkerchiefs. Cut one-quarter of the handkerchief away and make out of this a butterfly bow. Pleat the remainder of the handkerchief so that the three hemstitched sides form the finish around the edge, and to these lace is sewn or not, as the wearer desires.

The advantage in making a jabot out of a handkerchief is that it is unnecessary to hem the jabot by hand or decorate it in any way.

JULIA MARLOWE IS MENTIONED

Named as Principal Co-Respondent in Suit for Divorce.

Salem, Mass., April 9.—A suit for divorce was entered in the Essex county probate court here yesterday by Mrs. Clara Louise von Hermann of Hamilton, against her husband, Karl, in which Julia Marlowe, the actress, is named as principal co-respondent. The suit has been entered at the Essex county probate court at Salem.

The second co-respondent mentioned in the libel is Mrs. Maud Thorburn Backus, of Brooklyn, but Mrs. von Hermann appears to place the greatest emphasis upon her charges against Miss Marlowe, for whom, it is said, Mr. von Hermann, was at one time assistant business manager or press agent. Miss Marlowe is understood to be at present touring professionally in Upper Canada.

Happened in 1905.

The offenses enumerated in the charges are alleged to have taken place in several cities between the autumn of 1903 and the spring of 1905.

It is asserted that Mr. von Hermann met Miss Marlowe six or seven years ago, through a highly eulogistic critique of one of her performances, which he wrote, as a newspaper man, while the actress was playing in Louisville, Ky. It is claimed that Miss Marlowe was so pleased with the notice that she sent for the writer and soon afterward took him into her employ, and that later he went to Europe with her, and looked after the business affairs of the trip for her.

It appears that Mrs. von Hermann entered a suit for divorce against her husband, naming Miss Marlowe, once before, in 1903, but that she later withdrew it. She now declares that she is prepared to prove that at about the time of that former suit Miss Marlowe introduced Mr. von Hermann to some one as her husband. Mrs. von Hermann's lawyer is Percy A. Brigham of Boston.

Married at Age of 16.

Mrs. von Hermann was a Miss Foss, of Lynn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foss, and she was 16 years old, attending high school, at the time she married Mr. von Hermann in June, 1899.

Mr. von Hermann, who is 30 years old, is said to have attend Exeter academy, and later both the academic department and the law school at Harvard, but only for a while. Later he is said to have made a tour of the world in a sailing ship, and in recent years to have written on a variety of subjects for magazines and newspapers.

5 per cent of this amount, or $48,553,895. This looks at first blush like a formidable amount to withdraw from the cash resources of the banks, but when it is considered that it is counted as part of their required reserves, the question is reduced simply to one of the locality where the money is kept. Reserve requirements would be raised from $225,647,495 under the existing law to $242,750,475, of which $48,553,895 would be in Washington and $194,215,580 would be in cash in the custody of the banks. The New York banks held more cash on Feb. 14 than would be required by the Fowler bill and their position in this respect would not be changed to their disadvantage.

Free Control of Own Resources.

"One of the greatest advantages to the banks under the proposed new system would be the free control of their own resources. Instead of keeping in the treasury, as was the case on Feb. 14, United States bonds to secure circulation to the amount of $70,782,100, United States bonds to secure public deposits to the amount of of $4,851,000 and other bonds to secure public deposits to the amount of $67,243,912, all these would be returned to them and they would be able to convert them at will into cash.

"The United States 2 per cent bonds would be purchased by the custodians of the guaranty fund, with the purpose of withdrawing them from the market and maintaining their value. The Fowler bill provides that they should be purchased at the price of 104, in order to guard against any loss resulting from their abandonment as a basis of circulation. Under this arrangement, $70,782,100 of United States bonds would be changed back to the national banks of New York to be disposed of to the government for cash or about an equal amount, which cash could be lent in the market at current rates, while the privilege of issuing notes would remain unimpaired.

An Advantage to Banks.

"A little computation will show that the ability to lend the proceeds of the bonds at the current rate of interest would be an advantage to the banks. They would be required to pay 2 per cent upon their circulation, which is 1½ per cent higher than they now pay, and they would lose the interest on the 2 per cent bonds, but with the money at 5 per cent they would still make a profit above what they now make by tying up their capital in 2 per cent bonds. Moreover, they would have the privilege of issuing notes in addition to those now out, up to the full amount of their capital in case of need, without tying up one dollar of their resources in any investment in bonds. This unused power of issue of the New York city banks by the last report to the comptroller was $43,834,865. A further power of issue is given in emergencies to a second sum equal to the capital, or $12,500,000.

"The entire scope of the bill is designed to encourage commercial transactions by giving the banks control of their own resources for loans to customers. I am satisfied that if bankers would take the time to analyze its provisions, they would be convinced that instead of being radical or disturbing, it is really a moderate and conservative measure, which would benefit them as well as their customers and the public."

FINDS RUNAWAY WIFE IN DULUTH

Husband Causes Her Arrest in Superior Street Restaurant.

Charged with a statutory crime, Mrs. Laura Ward of Rhinelander, Wis., and William W. Louver were arrested in a local restaurant yesterday afternoon at the instance of the woman's husband, who charges that she deserted him and four small children, the youngest only two months' old, to come to Duluth and live with Louver. Mrs. Ward is 30 years of age.

According to the story told the police, the woman left home six weeks ago. Her husband finally learned she was in Duluth, and came here in search of her. He found the couple in a restaurant and, summoning Patrolman McDermott, had both arrested. The police were told at the place the two were rooming that they were living as man and wife. Louver is 28 years old and claims to be a dentist. A loaded revolver was found on his person.

They were arraigned in the municipal court this morning and their hearing set for April 16. Their bail was fixed at $500.

GARBAGE ORDINANCE.

Mayor Haven Will Probably Submit It to Council Monday.

According to the plans of Mayor R. D. Haven, the city will have a systematic garbage collection system in operation by the time hot weather arrives. His new garbage ordinance, which he now has under consideration, will be submitted to the council either next Monday evening or the week following.

Garbage will be collected in watertight receptacles, with closed tops, and the householders will be required to have separate watertight receptacles for ashes and other garbage. If the garbage collectors refuse to comply with the ordinance, as threatened, the city probably will have to buy wagons to comply with the ordinance. As the contract cannot be let for more than one year, it is said that no one cares to undertake the work by contract.

GOING IN FOR TENNIS

West Duluth Tennis Club Will be Reorganized This Year.

Meeting is Called for Monday in Woodward Block.

This warm spring weather has set West Duluth tennis enthusiasts thinking of their report and filled them with a longing for sunny afternoons out of doors on the courts with rackets and balls.

Monday afternoon all those interested in tennis are invited to be present at 5 o'clock at a meeting in the office of L. A. Barnes, Woodward building.

The meeting is called to reorganize the old West Duluth Tennis club, which though it was inactive last year, was very successful two years ago when it had between twenty-five and thirty members. At that time the club had its courts at Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, which property was kindly donated to them for the season by the West Duluth Land company.

This year the club hopes to lease, or buy some lots where it can lay out its courts and make the necessary improvements without fear that they may have to move the next season.

It is hoped and expected that many of the fair sex will become interested in the game and join the club, so that tennis will not alone be attractive as a sport, but also for its social side.

Dock Property Sold.

The Western Dock company, formed supposedly as a holding corporation for the Alger-Smith Lumber company, has filed a contract for deed on some West Duluth property formerly owned by Thomas Lowry.

This property, which lies just south of the Alger-Smith company, is composed of about 53½ acres and has a water front that makes the property very valuable. It is described as section 18-49-16, outlots E, F and G, Auditor's plat, West Duluth.

The transaction was arranged through the Gregory company, of which John A. Stevenson is representative, and is said to have been made about a year ago, though the contract was filed only yesterday. The property was sold for the consideration of $48,150.

SUPERIOR NEWS

BET ON ELECTION.

Wager Results in Two Arrests for Illegal Voting.

Peter Neros and Gilbert Gunderson of Nebagamon have been arrested on a complaint charging them with voting illegally at the recent election in Superior. It is claimed that they made a wager on the outcome of the election, that their votes were challenged at the polls, and their votes were sworn in. The wager is alleged to have disqualified them from voting.

Two witnesses wanted for the trial of the John Sant illegal voting case cannot be found, and the hearing has been adjourned for another week. The state expects to get the witnesses within a few days. Sant is claimed to have voted illegally at the primary election held recently.

Got Divorce by Fraud.

Judge L. K. Luse, referee in the divorce proceedings of Oscar Ross against Ida Ross of Superior, has filed findings in which he holds that Ross obtained his decree of divorce through fraud. The referee says that Ross claimed that his wife lived in Finland, and that she had been served with papers. There was no defense and the decree was granted. Mrs. Ross came to Superior afterward and claimed that she was never served with papers, that her husband did not give his attorney her correct address. She never knew Ross had a divorce until she reached Superior.

Are Charged With Safe-Blowing.

Robert Devine and William Keenan have been held to the circuit court on the charge of safe-blowing. Their case will be tried in June. The case against Robert McGine was dismissed, as the state did not have enough evidence against him to warrant his being held.

Old Resident Dies.

J. A. Link, formerly of Superior where he conducted a grocery business on Tower avenue for many years, died this morning of cancer of the stomach after an illness of six months, at Gravenhurst, Ontario.

Suspects Released.

WILL BOOST THE PRICES

Small Dealers in Timber Products to Perfect Organization.

Will Put Up Fight Against Greed of Corporations.

A combination of small dealers in posts, piling, ties, pulpwood and other products, in all probability will be effected at a meeting of such dealers, which has been called for next Tuesday afternoon at the St. Louis hotel. The purpose of the organization will be protection from commission men and corporations who, it is claimed, have been getting timber products at prices below the market figure.

There has been discontent among the small Northern Minnesota dealers for two or three years past, and this discontent has been particularly marked during the present season. They feel that they have been taken unfair advantage of at different times because they were not in a position to insist upon market prices being paid for their products. Small individual dealers are widely scattered through the northern counties, being particularly numerous in St. Louis county, and they believe that by forming some sort of a union, and all standing together, they will be able to get top-notch prices for their products.

If the organization is perfected, permanent officers will be elected, and probably the secretary, or a special committee, will transact practically all the business for members, so far as the disposition of the forest products is concerned. It is hoped to get a large enough membership so the organization will be able to withhold shipments until the buying corporations are compelled to pay prices asked. Details of the plan have not been worked out, but the whole matter will be carefully considered at the meeting.

Duluth is headquarters for scores of these small dealers, and also headquarters for many of the commission men and large companies who take contracts from the railroads, etc., to deliver large amounts of forest products. In most cases they buy these products from the smaller dealers, getting their profits by reselling to the railroads at a higher figure. Some of the companies have camps of their own in the woods, and purchase only a part of the necessary ties, posts, etc., from the little dealer.

This hasn't been a very profitable season for dealers in forest products. The price of everything except pulpwood has taken a drop. Ties are away below last year's figures, and are in very light demand. In fact, there are more on the market than possibly can be used. Such good prices were paid last year, and they were in such very great demand that conditions encouraged even more than the usual number of men to engage in the tie business during the past winter, with the result that more ties are for sale, with a much lighter demand, and lower prices, than a year ago.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN SEEKING LARGE DAMAGES.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Caroline Hoey, her daughter Esther and her son William, are the plaintiffs in three personal injury suits against the Minneapolis Street Railway company, on trial before Judge John Day Smith in district court. Mrs. Hoey asks $10,000, while $1,500 is demanded for each of the children. The Hoeys assert that they were passengers in a Cedar and Emerson line car which jumped the track on the Fremont avenue hill July 14, 1907, and they say they were injured in the accident.

TAFT ONLY IN RAMSEY COUNTY CONVENTION.

St. Paul, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ringing Taft resolutions were passed at today's Ramsey county Republican convention, held in Federation hall. It was Taft for president, and nobody else.

The delegates to state and congressional conventions were instructed to vote for instructions pledging the delegates to the national Republican convention in Chicago to vote "first and last for William H. Taft for the Republican nomination for the president of the United States."

There was no incident to the county convention today.

CLOSE RACE FOR SOME WISCONSIN DELEGATES.

Milwaukee, April 9.—Special despatches to Milwaukee afternoon papers indicate the election of Walter Alexander of Wausau as a Taft delegate to the Republican national convention. It is said that the race for the second delegate in the Tenth is so close that an official count will be necessary.

In the Eighth district George M. Paine, a Taft supporter, is running a nose to nose race with Morris for La Follette.

At La Follette headquarters in Madison a solid delegation is claimed for the Wisconsin senator.

BOY ARTIST.

Nineteen-Year-Old Has Painting Hung in National Academy.

New York, April 9.—George Davidson, 19 years old, who works over draperies and clothes for crayon enlargements by day, and studies real art by night, has won the honor of having a painting hung in the spring exhibition of the National Academy of Design.

Davidson is a native of Russian Poland. He was brought to this country ten years ago, when his parents left their old home and went to live in Waterbury, Conn. The father was a day laborer.

When a child, Davidson believed he would one day become an artist, and after much difficulty he obtained a position in an establishment in Third avenue, where reproductions in crayon of family photographs are turned out in wholesale quantities.

He bought a bust of Apollo, of which he made charcoal drawings, and two years ago was admitted to the night classes of the National Academy of Design.

The little canvass he sent to the academy is named "Evening Shadows." The painting is only 8 by 10 inches.

$44 THE PLAIN TRUTH $50

Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Co.

PRESENTS AN INVESTMENT THAT IS

ENDORSED! GUARANTEED! SECURED!

ONLY TWO DAYS AT $44.00

In this, the fifth article of our plain truth series announcing the close of the sale of TWIN CITY & LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY COMPANY stock at $44, we congratulate those who have already taken advantage of this opportunity to better their financial condition; and remind those who are still considering the matter that but two days remain in which to reach a decision. As predicted yesterday, ARROW LINE stock is being purchased in such volume as to fully sustain our belief that by Saturday there will be but a few shares, if any, that can be bought at $50 per share, and almost before you realize it we shall have reached our $60 allotment. Beyond a shadow of doubt we have proven that the conservative, thoughtful investor appreciates a square deal and is willing to tie to a project that has been so unqualifiedly endorsed by the leading newspapers and business men of the Northwest.

THE PROMOTION STORY

In the projection of industrial enterprises it has all too often been the case that the promoters have reserved for themselves, either in stock or some other manner a large interest in the enterprise as a payment or reward to themselves, and fixed by themselves, for their efforts and services in the formation of the enterprise. So well established has this custom become that with the formation of Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Company and the public offering of its stock, many fair minded people were prompted to say that while it might be a good thing in the end for the investors, it was sure to be a good thing for the promoters, and this impression has prevailed in many minds until the publication by the Journal of Mr. Wendell's report, when our repeated assertion that not a dollar's worth of Railway Company stock had been disposed of to anybody other than by purchase was sustained in every syllable by Mr. Wendell.

With this question settled then by unassailable testimony, we are prompted at this time to inform the public as to exactly what the promoters' interests are and what the Promotion Company stands for to the benefit of the stockholders of Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Company.

To begin with, the Promotion Company, under its contract with the Railway Company, delivers to it the right-of-way complete, one hundred feet wide, between the terminals, complete surveys of all engineering data, bridge plans and estimates complete, ready for constructing, taking in payment therefor Railway Company stock, dollar for dollar, exactly at the price that the stock was offered to the general public, with only this exception, that its purchase of stock, paid for in full as outlined above, is pooled and may not be broken up or disposed of in any way until the remainder of the Railway Company's stock is sold, paid for and the money in hand to complete the construction of the railway; and to fortify and insure this arrangement to the stockholders and public these shares so acquired by the Promotion Company, remain in the custody of the Treasurer of the Railway Company as Trustee. Mr. Wendell so found them and so reported.

This absolute provision for right-of-way and surveys for the Railway Company, without the expenditure of a dollar of its funds, explains why the Railway Company was able to begin actual construction of its own right-of-way within thirty days from the first offering of its stock to the public.

The Promotion Company has delivered under that contract with the Railway Company all of the engineering complete and a large percentage of the right-of way, wherever it was possible to purchase right-of-way, by private agreement, as was the case in the majority of instances, purchase was made and title has been delivered. Where condemnation proceedings were necessary to secure the right-of-way, these proceedings have been instituted and carried through by the Promotion Company at its own cost and expense, and the awards named by the court have been paid by the Promotion Company, all without expense of any name or nature to the Railway Company.

This is the story told by the books to Mr. Wendell, and verified by him to the Journal, but the Promotion Company's service to the Railway Company does not end here. It has purchased and owns, conservatively valued, $2,500,000 worth of land which it pledges to every purchaser of Railway Company stock as security for his investment during the construction of the road and until the Railway Company's own guarantee of $100, par value for the stock becomes operative by the opening of the road for traffic. This, in brief, is the story of the Promotion Company's interest in Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Company and has been attested by competent, disinterested and unbiased examination.

Watch for Our Announcement in The Herald Tomorrow

We reproduce here copy of a communication from one of the well known business men of Minneapolis, Mr. John G. Allen, in confirmation of the statement made in our first announcement of this advance in price that we not only had the unqualified endorsement of the entire press of the Northwest, but also that of many solid, substantial business men.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 11, 1908.

Mr. G. T. Propper,
Twin City & Lake Superior Ry.,
315 Railway Bldg., City.

Dear Sir.

Your favor of even date at hand, and I appreciate your kind compliments. I do not wish you success from personal, selfish motives, but for the good of the country. I am no prophet, but I dare to predict that this city—Minneapolis and St. Paul, Duluth and Superior—will appreciate your work, and on this account you are now receiving the support of the public.

I believe it will do more to advance the interest of the above named cities than anything that has been done by any man, J. J. Hill included, and there is no doubt but the people who are so fortunate as to be a stockholder will find their investment a profitable one.

* * * * Your lands in Pine County are the cheapest lands in the market today in the Western states, and it will take your company to let this be known to the public; and they will soon be absorbed by the home-seekers. It is better for the state that the people should locate here than to go into Montana or Canadian Northwest, and the merchants in the Twin Cities should appreciate your efforts in endeavoring to settle these lands.

The city of Duluth is sadly handicapped by lack of settlers on their unoccupied lands. It would be worth more to the city of Duluth to have their lands settled, as we believe they will be along your line, than if they had a mine on every 160 acres, because the material taken out of the mine must necessarily be shipped away for provisions to support the laboring men, whereas the farmer will produce crops and spend his money with the local merchants and in that way the money will be kept in the country.

Yours very truly,
JGA-O. JOHN G. ALLEN.

FOUR WOMEN ARE KILLED

Occupants of Funeral Carriage Struck by Train Near Chicago.

Driver of Carriage Received Injuries That Proved Fatal.

Chicago, April 9.—Four women occupants of a carriage were instantly killed and the driver was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when the vehicle was struck by an electric train on the Chicago, Elgin & Aurora railraod near Maywood, a western suburb of Chicago. The carriage was one of a number of which were returning from a funeral. The driver died a few hours later at a hospital to which he had been taken.

The dead are: Mrs. F. Rohloff, 65 years old and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Paul Rohoff, 29 year old; Mrs. Charles Dressel, Miss Minnie Pottshoff, 25 years, and Frank Newman. All were residents of Chicago.

The carriage was cut in two and and the rear portion was carried several hundred feet along the tract before the train could be stopped. The train proceeded after the accident and the first notice of the occurance was received from Wheaton, several miles further west, when an official of the railroad company telephoned to Maywood asking that ambulances be sent to the scene. When the undertakers arived the occupants of the other carriages were caring for Newman and endeavoring to extricate the mangled bodies from the wrecked carriage.

Mrs. F. M. Rholoff, another daughter-in-law of Mrs. Rholoff who was in one of the carriages, fainted at the sight of the bodies and narrowly escaped death through falling upon the third rail. The wrecked carriage was the second in line, one having already crossed the tracks. The driver is thought to have driven on to the right-of-way in the belief that he had time to cross since the approaching train was plainly visable from the point where the accident occurred.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE NAVY

Bill Introduced in the House Carrying Sum of $103,967,518.

Washington, April 9.—The naval appropriation bill, authorizing the construction of two instead of four battleships and eight instead of four submarine torpedo boats and carrying a total appropriation of $103,967,518 for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, was reported to the house yesterday by Chairman Foss of the committee on naval affairs.

The total appropriation recommended is $22,518,831 less than the aggregate estimates submitted by the department and $3,663,916 more than the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908.

Among the items in the bill are the following: Naval training station, Great Lakes, $1,095,690; construction and machinery, $9,832, 962; armour and armament, $7,000,000; equipment, $4,900,000; for sub-surface and submarine boats, $1,445,000.

Postal Savings Banks.

One of the most pronounced results of the recent financial flurry was the favorable consideration and comment of a postal bank savings system. There has also been a great deal of favorable comment about the merit of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters during the 54 years it has been before the public, and its cures have been so pronounced as to make it a leader among medicines for ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. In thousands of homes it has already established itself as the favorite remedy because of its purity and reliability. If you suffer from poor appetite, sick headache, nervousness, heartburn, bloating, sour stomach, dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness, grippe, spring ailments or malaria, try a bottle at once. It will surely help you.

LA FOLLETTE GETS MANY DELEGATES

Wins in Nine Out of Eleven Wisconsin Districts.

Milwaukee, April 9.—Delegates-at-large from Wisconsin, who will support Robert M. La Follette for the presidential nomination at the Republican national convention, were elected at Tuesday's state primary election by a large majority over the slate put up by the supporters of William H. Taft.

While the returns from the various districts are far from being complete, enough have been received to insure the election of La Follette delegates from nine out of the eleven districts.

The districts which have not definitely reported are the Eighth and Tenth. In the Eighth, one regular and one independent set for La Follette and one regular set for Taft delegates were in the contest. The returns received from this district indicate that one La Follette and one Taft delegates will be returned. In the Tenth district, the returns, so far as received, are favorable to the election of Taft delegates. It is believed an official count will be necessary to determine the result in the Eighth district. Both factions claim the Tenth district.

The Democratic candidates for delegates to the Denver convention, who were selected in the convention in February, were elected without opposition. All are pledged to vote for W. J. Bryan, first, last and all the time.

Following is a list of Republican delegates elected, who are favorable to La Follette:

Delegates-at-large—William C. Brumder, Henry Allen Cooper, Atley Peterson and Isaac Stephenson.

District delegates—First, Harry C Martin, Perry C. Wilder; Second, Alfred T. Rogers, Horace F. Stedman; Third, Julius T. Dithmar, Duncan McGregor; Fourth, William H. J. Kleckhefer, Fred C. Lorenz; Fifth, William R. Knell, Henry Lockney; Sixth, William Mauthe, Henry Krumrey; Seventh, Walter L. Houser, Edwin M. Wing; Eighth, in doubt; Ninth, Samuel H. Cady, Bernard C. Wolter; Tenth, in doubt; Eleventh, Samuel J. Bradford, John T. Murphy.

The Democratic delegates pledged to Bryan are as follows:

Delegates-at-large—Charles R. Weisse, Sheboygan Falls; H. H. Manson, Wausau; John A. Aylward, Madison; M. A. Hoyt, Milwaukee.

District delegates — First district, Michael Higgins, Gilbert G. Hodges; Second, George W. Bird, C. H. Smith; Third, H. J. Suttle, A. G. Roethe; Fourth, W. J. Kershaw, Frank E. Walsh; Fifth, George L. Dwinnell, Frank X. Faust; Sixth, M. K. Reilly, Byron Barwig; Seventh, John E. Burns, John C. Rice; Eighth, Byron Park, John A. McMullen; Ninth, Henry Fetzer, H. E. Morgan; Tenth, C. H. McDonald, Dennis Conway; Eleventh, John Walsh and Charles Donahue.

PRICES SHOULD BE MAINTAINED

General Feeling Among Manufacturers of Iron and Steel.

New York, April 9.—The Iron Age says: The feeling among manufacturers of iron and steel is that prices should be maintained, although it is admitted that this is likely to be more difficult during the next few months than during the period after the panic, because merchants and consumers have now worked off stock purchased at old prices, for which they claimed and got production. It is understood that if a lowering of prices should become desirable—a contingency which the manufacturers admit—then no action will be taken by the leading interests without prior consultation. In other words, the iron and steel trade is committed to an orderly adjustment of value.

The statistics of production of pig iron collected by the Iron Age show that the output in March was 1,228,204 gross tons, as compared with 1,077,740 tons in February, a short month. Still, we entered the month of April with a reduced capacity at work, it being 265,590 tons on April 1, as compared with 267,437 on March 1. This is due chiefly to the fact that a number of large steel works furnaces in the Pittsburg district blew out towards the end of March.

The unknown factor in the situation, so far as the merchant furnaces are concerned, is the question of stocks. It is well known that there has been a considerable accumulation. Some very large figures are being talked, but in the absence of reliable data, these statements must be received with reserve.

The iron trade is watching with keen interest and some keen misgivings as to their success, the efforts being made to bring about greater cooperation among the pig iron manufacturers. No news as to the mission of prominent interests at Birmingham has been received as yet. In the meantime the volume of business has been light and the markets for pig iron in different parts of the country have been unsettled.

ACTRESS WOULD NOT DON TIGHTS

Discharged by Managers, She Brings Suit and Gets $4,700.

New York, April 9.—A verdict of $4,700 was awarded by a jury in the supreme court yesterday to an actress, who was discharged by a theatrical manager because she refused to appear on the stage in tights. The plaintiff was Henrietta Lee Morrison, who is well known on the stage as Henrietta Lee, and the defendants, Hurtig & Seamon, proprietors of a Harlem burlesque theater.

Miss Lee and her husband, Charles P. Morrison, were engaged by Hurtig & Seamon for a season in a musical comedy, under a contract which provided that they were to receive $8,950. At the end of three months, the manager directed Miss Lee to make certain changes in her costume, which would necessitate her appearance on the stage in tights.

When she refused to make the changes directed, she and her husband were discharged. They brought suit for breach of contract and a jury, after fifteen minutes' deliberation, awarded them damages to the full amount sued for, minus the amount they earned after their discharge.

DOLLIVER AND NELSON FIGHT

Each Wants Sterling Bill Referred to His Committee.

Washington, April 9.—Senators Nelson and Dolliver have clashed over which committee will have charge of the employers' liability bill which has just passed the house of representatives and sent to the senate. Senator Nelson moved that it be referred to his committee on judiciary and took occasion to say that it was the most important legislation and should go to his committee.

Senator Dolliver was on his feet promptly and objected. He wants the bill to go to his committee on labor and education. The reason for this is that Senator Dolliver has already reported from that committee the La Follette employers' liability bill and it is on the senate calendar. The Knox bill is still in the senate judiciary committee, but it is the intention of Senator Nelson and the Republican leaders of the senate to substitute the Knox for the La Follette measure.

The Sterling bill over from the house is a sort of composite measure and hence will be amended in whichever senate committee gets hold of it. It is regarded as pretty certain that Senator Nelson will secure the passage of his motion when the matter again comes up.

BERNHARDT TO QUIT.

French Actress Must Leave Stage in a Short Time.

New York, April 9.—A report from Paris declares that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's refusal to appear as Faust has revealed the fact that the great actress' wonderful career is nearing its close. According to the Paris dispatch, Mme. Bernhardt's right knee, which has been stiff for some years, is now so crippled by rheumatism that she is obliged to support herself when on the stage by clinging to chairs and tables, and she will never again be able to appear in masculine roles.

It is not thought, indeed, that she will continue before the public in any capacity for any length of time.

Sarah Bernhardt was born Oct. 22, 1844. She is, therefore, 63 years old. Up to the present moment she has been equally successful in preserving both health and youthfulness against the ravages of time.

In her long, triumphant life, Mme. Bernhardt's unbroken health has seemed almost as remarkable as her finished art. Save for occasional fainting spells to which she is subject, her career has never been interrupted by illness. Yet she has been known as the busiest as well as the most gifted woman in France.

Chamberlain's Has the Preference.

Mr. Fred. C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by all druggists.

ATLANTIC MONTHLY SOLD TO NEW YORK SYNDICATE.

New York, April 9.—Change of ownership of the Atlantic Monthly and the obtaining by S. S. McClure of the complete ownership of the S. S. McClure company, publishers of McClure's magazine, and of the McClure company, publishers of books, became public yesterday.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co., who for years have owned the Atlantic Monthly, are preparing to transfer that property to a group of men of which Ellery Sedgwick, book editor of D. Appleton & Co., of this city, is the head.

S. S. McClure has bought out the substantial minority interest in the S. S. McClure company, and in the McClure company hitherto held by Harold Roberts. The latter has resigned as secretary and treasurer of the companies in which he has owned stock for a year and a half. He has been succeeded by Cameron MacKenzie, son-in-law of S. S. McClure, who has until now been managing editor of McClure, magazine.

OFFER ACCEPTED.

Harriman Will Furnish Funds to Meet Obligations of the Erie.

New York, April 9.—After an offer by E. H. Harriman to furnish the funds to meet the obligations of the Erie Railroad company by the purchase of a new large issue of notes, J. P. Morgan & Co. announced yesterday that holders of the Erie notes, amounting to $5,500,000, which matured yesterday, would either be paid part in cash for their notes, or given the option of taking a new 3-year 6 per cent note and 5 per cent of the new notes in cash. The offer of Mr. Harriman was accepted by the board of directors of the railway yesterday. What proportion of the maturing notes will be paid in cash has not been made public.

Don't Bake Beans

With all your trouble you can't get anything half so good as Van Camp's

It isn't your fault, but you lack the facilities.

It requires a fierce heat to break down the fibre of beans, and you cannot apply it.

That is why home-cooked beans are hard to digest. That is why you regard them as heavy food.

Beans, above all foods, need to be factory cooked.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees That's why our beans are digestible

And we bake in live steam, so all are baked well without browning or breaking. That's why they are mealy, yet nutty.

They are baked in the cans—the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together. Thus their delicious blend.

You can't do as we do, because you lack the facilities. Why bother to try it? Let us cook for you.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

We use Michigan beans, picked over by hand from the choicest part of the crop.

Only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

Our tomatoes are not picked green and ripened in shipment, but ripened in full on the vines.

That gives to our sauce its superlative zest.

We could buy beans for one-seventh, and sauce for one-fifth what we pay

We pay $2.10 per bushel for our beans, though beans are sold as low as thirty cents.

We could buy tomato sauce, ready made, for exactly one-fifth what we spend to make it.

No wonder if some brands sell cheaper than ours. But you will never accept them after you once try Van Camp's.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

CHAMPION IS COMING

Frank Gotch Will be in Duluth Week of April 19.

Refuses to Have Toe Hold Barred for Turk, Dereli.

Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world by virtue of his defeat of George Hackenschmidt at Chicago Friday night, will be in Duluth the week of April 19, according to the plans he announces in Chicago. He is billed at St. Paul next week, and the following week he comes to Duluth for exhibitions at the Metropolitan. From Duluth, he returns to Minneapolis for a week, then goes East for five weeks, three of which he will appear in New York. After a week in Brooklyn and one in Boston he will return to Humboldt, Iowa, and rest up until Oct. 1.

"I need a rest and am going to take it," he said in Chicago. "I am going to hunt through September and no man can wrestle me into a match before that time unless he gets me during the next two months."

A cable dispatch from London to New York says that Coord Dereli, the Turk wrestler, cabled New York $1,000 to post as a forfeit to bind a match with Frank Gotch, the world's champion. Dereli's manager, Antonio Pierri, said he would start for the United States at once with Dereli if Gotch accepted the challenge. Dereli will insist on the hold being barred, as he does not believe it is legitimate and has no place in a wrestling match where skill and strength alone should count.

Dereli tried many times to get George Hackenschmidt on the mat, but the former champion would never accept the challenge. If the match is arranged an effort will be made to pull off the bout in New York city.

"I will accept Dereli's challenge or that from any one else during the next two months, after which I am going to take a rest until after Oct. 1," said Gotch, in regard to the challenge. "However, the toe hold will not be barred. It is perfectly legitimate, just the same as the bar arm, of which it is a counterpart. Any hold where a man can turn over on his back to avoid it is perfectly legitimate. With the toe hold any opponent can easily turn over on his shoulders when the pain becomes tooo great, just the same as the bar arm, where a man's arm is twisted behind him. Dereli can come at once and get ready for the match if he is seeking the championship, but nothing is doing on the barring of the hold which I invented and which I concede is as fair as the bar arm, hammer lock or any other hold where the strain comes on the arms.

"I believe I can defeat Hackenschmidt seven days a week. I tried him out thoroughly and know I am his superior. I had him almost tricked into the toe hold the first time on the mat and the second time he was down he was sure to become a victim of the grip. I was working him into it fast. He is a perfect subject upon which to work the hold. Where a man spread his legs as he does it is a cinch. I tricked him into throwing the left leg far out, thereby straightening the right one, on which I was working. I was only kidding with the other. There are only two defenses against this hold of mine and I don't mind telling what they are. One is to keep your feet or keep me from getting behind you. The other is to keep fighting when down and try and break away. As soon as a man lies flat and tries to keep his legs stiff, thereby preventing me from getting the toe hold, just as sure as he is to fall into it. My favorite is to get my opponent's leg across the calf of my own. Once that is done he is my victim and no chance to escape. Hack fell into that the first time down and just before he gave up I was in the position to get the hold perfectly. He would not have lasted five minutes more. I was just resting a trifle for a final effort."

Nonentities, who aspire to local fame in wrestling, can make more fuss and bustle over a meal ticket match than there would be for a bout for the grappling championship of the world. Harris and Sutter had their prolonged say, only to have it end in a row with no appearance on the mat. Now Peterson, Beaulieu and Danielson are having their forty-second semi-weekly, gabfest.

When Danielson met Diesen a few weeks ago, Peterson and Beaulieu were both on hand to challenge them. He scorned to notice their advances. So Beaulieu and Peterson turned around and matched themselves and now, before their bout comes off, they are both hurling scathing challenges in the direction of Danielson.

"I think Danielson's afraid to meet me again," said Beaulieu yesterday. "When we met before, he promised me a return match and I have been waiting for it ever since. He went back on his word, though, and I can't do anything with him. Peterson has repeatedly tried to force him into a match, without success."

It appears that it's now up to Mr. Danielson to make good. As a matter of fact, Peterson can probably throw Danielson or Beaulieu almost as often as he wants, but if they all get together and settle their differences, it will be a relief to know that two of them are squashed.

Eddie Herr loses Vincent Campbell, the former Vanderbilt catcher, who is with the Chicago Cubs and will probably wear Murphy's stirrups until he is either ripe enough for major league company or stale enough to go back to the minors. Herr thought he pulled off a pretty nice job when he picked Campbell out from under Murphy's speller, but the national commission has ruled against the Maroon leader. Campbell's showing with Chicago has been such that he would evidently have been out of place in the Northern league and nobody can blame the boy for being glad that he is not to be shanghaied to the wilds of Manitoba.

The coast critics are pretty sweet on Packey McFarland of the stockyards district of Chicago. The Windy City boy is working out for his fight with Jimmy Britt Saturday night and his training quarters are attracting hundreds of carloads followers of the biff game. Jim Corbett dropped in the other day and sized the Hibernian up. Afterwards, he remarked that the fight would somewhat resemble a big wind in speed and a few hundred more moneyed souls put their coin on the stockyards boy. It's rather odd that a rank outsider should be a favorite in the betting over a native son in San Francisco, but McFarland's star is in the ascendancy and Britt has been going back for some time. There's nothing to the fight, but McFarland, unless all the dope goes wrong.

Eddie Santry thinks this boy McGoorty is the coming opponent for Bill Papke. The Chicago papers are noticing the Oshkosh youth. His string of victories this winter have brought him to a point, where he is bound to go one way or the other. He is young and Santry thinks he is going right along to the top notches. He says in six months, he will be ready to put McGoorty against the Illinois Thunderbolt and, when he does, Wisconsin will have a lightning streak of its own. McGoorty is young and clever; he's in good hands and has plenty of opportunity to gather experience. Who knows but that the source of the slap-stick comedians' jokes may furnish the conqueror of the Spring Valley Wonder and the next middleweight champion?

KELLEYS BLANK SUPERIOR FIVE

Pease Roller Polo Team is Defeated by 4 to 0 Score.

The Kelley roller polo team easily defeated the Pease team of Superior at the Temple roller rink last evening by a score of 4 to 0. The Kelleys showed up much stronger than in their former game with the Pease team at Superior, when the Duluth boys won out by a score of 3 to 1 in a hard contest. Flynn and Furni played a brilliant game on defense last night, every effort of the Superiorites to score failing. For the Kelleys, Cummings, Furni, Winters and McKenzie scored.

The Kelleys and Lincoln Parks will clash tonight at the Temple rink in the first game of a series for the championship of the city. The Kelleys have been in the field only a few weeks, but they have shown stability, and hope to defeat the Lincolns. By virtue of the disbanding of the Northern five, the Lincolns are now champions of the city, and they have successfully defended their title all winter.

The line-up last night was as follows:

Kelleys.	Position.	Pease.
Flynn	goal	Helmer
Furni	cover	Hussey
McKenzie	r. rush	Brownlee
Cummings	l. rush	Clark
Winters	center	Little

You can depend upon Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder and Extracts to produce satisfactory results; not sometimes but always. They are pure and uniform.

COLUMBIAS TAKE TWO OF THREE

Oak Halls Beaten in City League by Mediocre Scores.

The Columbias last night won two out of three games from the Oak Halls in the Duluth City Bowling league. There was nothing sensational about the bowling, only one score going over 935, and that by the Oak Halls in the second game. Ferguson of the Columbias rolled the high score of 209 and Massey of the Oak Halls got high average of 199 2-3.

THOUSANDS OF PLAYERS.

Congress of North American Skat League to be Immense.

New York, April 9.—So numerous are the entries for the eleventh congress of the North American Skat league that two additional halls have been engaged to accommodate the players, when, to the number of probably 5,000, they will assemble here, on June 21, 22 and 23. In addition to the 2,500 members of the New York and New Jersey Skat league, who will compete, it is announced that Chicago has engaged to send 500, St. Louis 300, Milwaukee, 200, Cleveland 150, Buffalo 150, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Rochester and Detroit 100 each, while about 300 more are expected from Philadelphia and Baltimore.

A special prize of $1,000 has been given the league by Herman Ridder, and the liberality of others has made it possible, the committee says, to award a prize to approximately every eighth player in the tuornament.

It would be strange, indeed, if not one merchant in Duluth today had anything important to say to you.

TO WORK ON BALL PARK

Duluth Diamond Will be Put in Shape Immediately.

Seating Capacity of the Bleachers May be Increased.

Secretary Kuehnow of the Duluth Baseball association is planning the annual improvements to be made at Athletic park. The ice in the rink, which was used by the Northern hockey team at the park during the winter has all disappeared and the grounds are ready for the workmen.

The improvement will not be extensive this year. At the beginning of last season the fence, stand and bleachers were repaired at considerable expense, the diamond was plowed up to accommodate at everything was put in first class shape. It has been found, however, that the ground around first base is too low and the diamond will center at that point. Earth will be secured and the low spot near the back of first base will be made level with the remainder of the diamond.

The club is also figuring on increasing the seating capacity of the first base bleachers. The park will now seat about 3,300 people, but on days when big crowds gather, the overflow stretches far out into both fields. It is planned to extend the first base bleachers to accommodate at least 200 more people, so that a portion of the overflow will be accommodated.

The Duluth club will make an appeal to popular support through the commutation ticket plan this year. Books have been issued, containing forty-two coupons, good for either admission or grandstand. They will cover forty-two games, if used for general admission only, or twenty-one games if used for general admission and grandstand also. The business men and fans will be asked to contribute to the support of the club by the purchase of the books and it is expected several hundred will be disposed of, thus giving the club a good financial start. About $2,000 was dropped last season and it will be necessary to make up that sum this year if the club is to get on its feet again.

The league has this year abandoned the plan of pooling holiday receipts and dividing the money equally among the four clubs. The plan was adopted two years ago with the eight-club Northern-Copper Country league, but with a four-club league it is not advisable and the division of holiday receipts will be made on the same basis as those of other games.

HARD GAME DECIDES TIE

Horak's Five Wins Y. M. C. A. Basketball League Trophy.

Over-Anxiety of Deighton's Men Results in Their Defeat.

Horak's team defeated Deighton's by a score of 23 to 17, in a game to decide the tie in the Y. M. C. A. Basketball league, last night, winning the championship of the league and possession of the Northern Hardware company cup, emblematic of the championship, to be held for one year.

With so much at stake, the game was the hardest played in the gymnasium this year. The game was inclined to be rough at times and the pace was terrific. The rivalry all through the season has been intense, but it was nothing approaching that displayed in last night's game, when every point might have meant a championship.

Over-anxiety lost the game for Deighton's men. They bungled their team work at times and attempted impossible baskets. They passed before they secured the ball and attempted too much individual play. On the other hand, in the last half especially, the Horak men played a cool, scientific game. They had their team work down to fine point and used it to advantage. They passed frequently to good effect and Deighton's men were worried in the face of superior team work.

In the first half the scoring was light, the period ending with Horak holding the big end of an 8 to 6 score. In the last half, the men on both sides were more collected and their throws for baskets more effective, both scoring more heavily, and Horak's men increasing their lead by 4 points.

The teams lined up as follows:

Deighton's.	Position.	Horak's
Kelley	Forward	Kilchil
Jones	Forward	Horak
Deighton	Center	Haroldsen
Forgette	Guard	Clark
Wisted	Guard	Downing

Referee—Dr. Fahey.
Umpire—A. J. Frey.

Tomorrow night, a picked team from the basketball league will meet the first team in the final basketball game of the season at the gymnasium. The first team has kept in practice for the game and will send in its strongest lineup. The men to represent the league have not yet been picked, but there is no dearth of good players and the league five will be able to hold its own.

SUMMERS MAY SECURE RELEASE

Duluth Boy Anxious to Sign With Artie O'Dea.

Artie O'Dea will probably succeed in securing Frank Summers' release from the management of the South Bend club of the Central league and signing him up for his Brandon aggregation. The leader of the Brandon squad, who is at present in Minneapolis, has made strong overtures to the Hoosiers and, since Summers was not ordered to report at South Bend, it is likely they will consent to let him go to Brandon.

O'Dea will continue to work out his Twin City candidates this week, and Saturday or Sunday will leave for Burlington to pave the way for his regiment of raw performers. He expects to pluck a few flowers of choicest bloom from the St. Paul and Minneapolis gardens and he already has the best posies Duluth could furnish. He expects to pick up a few men from Western league training camps and Brandon will be not the less of the Northern league clubs when they get together for the first games.

A. W. Kuehnow has received a letter from Camden-Winston, N. C., urging him to part with the services of Eddie Wills of Spring Garden, Ill., this year, as he has friends on the Camden-Winston team, who want him badly. Wills is a raw farmer boy, who wasn't given half a show with Winnipeg last year. Kuehnow isn't inclined to part with him, but if a satisfactory squad of pitchers can be picked from the other men, Wills will be allowed to go.

DESPONDENT, TAKES LIFE.

Monroe, Wis., April 9.—John Purcell, the 18-year-old son of James Purcell, was found dead in a field near the homestead in the township of Washington, having been inflicted by his own hand. The young man has been despondent since his mother died three months ago.

HELD BY GIRL.

Daughter of Jailer Grabs Feet of Escaping Prisoners.

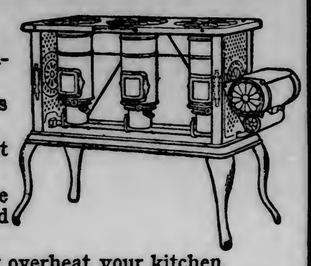

Murphysboro, Ill., April 9.—Miss Sarah Hanson, 17 years old, daughter of Sheriff Hanson, interrupted a jail delivery during a storm early yesterday.

She was awakened by the storm and was surprised to see prisoners climbing down past her window as the escaped from jail. Bravely she seized the feet of a man and held on while she screamed for help.

Her mother went to her assistance and they held the prisoner while Sheriff Hanson rushed into the cell room and prevented seven prisoners from leaving. Six prisoners had made their escape through a window from which a bar had been pried.

Carbondale, Ill., April 9.—John Bowman, white, one of the prisoners who escaped from the Murphysboro jail, was captured here yesterday. He was taken back to Murphysboro Bowman was serving a sentence for theft.

NELSON WANTS LONG BATTLE

Dane Refuses to Meet Gans in Twenty Round Bout.

San Francisco, Cal., April 9.—A sudden and disconcerting switch was made in the plans for the Gans-Nelson fight. It was expected articles would be signed and forfeits posted for a twenty-round battle, but Nelson changed his mind and demanded a forty-five-round contest.

Ben Selig, representing Joe Gans, and Jack Gleason were on hand, but Nelson failed to put in appearance. While Britt, representing the Dane, said:

"Nelson has decided not to enter the ring with Gans for a twenty-round fight, having been convinced that he has little chance with the champion in a limited bout." He also announced that Nelson had posted $2,500 with Promoter Cofforth as a forfeit for a forty-five round fight with Gans.

Selig said the change would suit him, but he wanted to hear from Gans. Nelson made the following statement: "So many of my friends told me that I was foolish to agree to fight Gans twenty rounds that I decided to change my mind. In forty-five rounds I would have five times the chance that I would have in twenty, and, to tell the truth, I want to be the lightweight champion."

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Mr. Thos. Stenton, postmaster of Pontypool, Ont., writes: "For the past eight years I suffered from rheumatic pains, and during that time I used many different liniments and remedies for the cure of rheumatism. Last summer I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and got more relief from it than anything I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend this liniment to all sufferers from rheumatic pains." For sale by all druggists.

FRED BEELL LOSES.

Marshfield Wonder Goes Down Before Americus at Baltimore.

Baltimore, April 9. — Americus (George Schoenlein) last night defeated Fred Beell by winning the first two falls of a wrestling match that was to have been best two in three. The first fall was gained by Americus in 21 minutes and the second in two minutes less.

As a result of his victory, Americus now claims the light-heavyweight championship.

THE SPIRIT OF JUSTICE

Is Dominant and Progress of New Prosperity is Permanent.

Resumption of Industries and Returning Confidence of Investors.

New York, April 9.—A week of slow but steady progress to the new prosperity; a week of resumption of work in numbers of industrial institutions, of longer hours of work in many of those already in operation; a week of gradual improvement in actual transactions, and of that which partly rules transactions, namely, sentiment. Such is the record of the past week.

The investigating public has displayed greater desire to purchase securities of all kinds. The market has widened and taken into consideration many issues neglected for many months.

The railways of the country can no longer complain of scarcity of funds for investment, and it will be upon their own provocation if a new series of legislative bills are launched in congress and state legislatures. The people seem willing to await the results of the measures already placed upon the statute books relative to transportation companies before embarking upon additional legislation.

It is plainly in evidence that certain reforms of recent origin were in the mutual interests of railway stockholders and of the people.

They will not be denied by the courts, as they eradicate practices that cannot be defended.

The protection accorded by the courts to investors, interests will raise the question as to reasonable profits upon the capital invested, or rather represented, for no jurist will aver that an innocent third party as an actual investor can be made to suffer on account of "watered stock" that has been issued under legal form. The "overcapitalization" of the past cannot well be reached now, but such practices can be guarded against in the future. There is one question that there is no doubt of, however, and that is that not only the courts, but the vast majority of the American people are against any legislation that is a confiscatory nature or unreasonable in its character.

Should Be Reasonable.

Investors should not be allowed exorbitant returns derived from exactions upon the public, neither should the public expect to be served without fair and reasonable profits to the investors of capital.

The spirit of fairness and justice is dominant in the minds of the people of the United States, and they will work out the problems of public utilities in accordance with this spirit upon democratic lines—that is, with injustice to none, but looking to the greatest good to the greatest number of the people.

The result of the railway agitation will be beneficial to all business interests.

Favoritism in rates will be abolished, and that means freer trade among business men and less monopoly as affecting dealers and people.

Rebates are utterly indefensible, and were productive of evil to investors in railways as well as to the general public.

The leading men of the steel business admit new orders are slow in gathering volume, but they are more than confident of increasing trade—resulting in a few months in an amount of business exceeding all existing records.

The Reading coal companies and the railways conveying the coal to market all increased their forces of workingmen, and there is great rejoicing among thousands who have been idle.

A trip through the adjoining state of Pennsylvania convinces me that it has probably the greatest number of unemployed persons at this time of any state in the Union, and yet a continuance of improvement in business conditions for the month of April will see all the now unemployed in Pennsylvania busy by May 1.

The determination of the authorities of the city of New York to build additional subways will give employment to thousands of persons in this city, and help very much in many ways to give employment to other thousands residing far from New York city.

Vast amounts of material, stone, brick, steel, iron, cement and immense plants of machinery will be required, and these come from districts in many instances outside even of the limits of the state.

The appropriations by congress for the work of the fiscal year, beginning July 1, will be very large.

A Nation of Class.

It is usual for congress to talk economy the opening weeks of the session, but the great majority of the members know that this country is no second or third class nation, and rightly vote appropriations required by a power of the first class, governed by the most progressive people in the world.

Money for the canal, money for the naval schedule in its entirety, money for fortifications, money for public buildings, money to an extent exceeding all other congresses will be the record of the present one, and if the treasury balance is reduced in consequence of this large appropriation the money will be out among the people to whom it belongs, and will be doing far better service circulating than being on deposit with banks or idle in the vaults of the treasury.

The treasury report on March 31 showed the greatest per capita money circulation ever known in the United States, and every person who studies the subject sees nothing but increased money supplies for years to come.

As one of the leading journals of the day expresses it, there is no trouble in the business world today but the stagnation of the money circulation, and the remedy must come speedily through the restoration of funds by the banks to the business men, who can use them to advantage.

I have conversed with a number of bankers in the smaller cities and towns of the East, as well as bankers in the larger cities of this section, and find them still sensitive to the tremors of last October; still dreaming of the days when timid depositors were drawing out cash and hiding it away.

These bankers still feel as if times were not normal, and with reserves far greater than usual talk of cash that is still in hiding and that has not been brought back to them by their customers.

Well Invested.

Much of that money that was taken out of the banks by frightened depositors in October, November and December has gone into mortgages, bonds, stocks and realty; gone out of the hands of those who drew it from the banks than and into the hands of other persons, who have again deposited it.

The people who draw it out of the banks and trust companies are not telling the bankers what they have done with the funds, but the greater part has been already invested.

In the increase of the number of shareholders in nearly all the leading railway corporations, in the steadily increasing absorption of bonds, in the hundreds of thousands of dollars daily being put into the stocks of gold and silver mines, in the good mortgages being recorded, in all these and in many better investments can be found the bulk of the cash withdrawn by depositors in the panic months. I have listened to bankers in these cities, large and small, telling of cash that had been withdrawn and still out of circulation, and how it was almost impossible to induce investments at present, and I have seen the books of gold mining corporations, showing large increase in stock sales in the very cities the bankers resided in. The panic is over in every business except in banking, and the bankers will soon get rid of their fears.

BEARS RAID ON MARKET

Heavy Selling of Wheat Puts Price Off Two Cents.

Good Reports From Wheat Fields—Flax is Inactive.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 9.—In something of a freak market, with almost unaccountable selling far exceeding the buying capacity, wheat dropped in all American markets today. In the early hours of the day the buying kept up well with the selling and supported the market, but toward the close the pressure became more pronounced and prices went down under it.

The visible supply of wheat has been reduced since Jan. 1 about 10,000,000 against an increase of 4,000,000 in the same period last year, a decrease of about 1,000,000 in 1906 and a reduction of 9,000 in 1905.

Reports from the Western wheat fields were encouraging, although there is a dearth of rain in some counties of Kansas. In Liverpool, wheat closed ⅛d@⅜d higher and corn ⅜d higher. In Berlin, wheat closed ⅜c higher and in Budapest April wheat closed 2⅜c higher and October wheat 1⅜c higher than Tuesday.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool:

"Firmness characterized the early trading in wheat and values at the opening were ⅜d to ¾d higher, with offerings light and shorts nervous. Support was the result of the firmness in America yesterday. Later pressure developed and ⅛d to ½d of this advance was lost. The weakness was notably conspicuous in the distant months. This selling was attributed to the demoralized condition of the market owing to the failure of a large London house. At mid-day the market was easy, although values were ¼d to ⅝d higher than Wednesday.

"Corn was steady and ⅜d higher at the opening, being influenced by the firmer American cables yesterday. Following the opening the market became extremely dull, but held the early advance."

In Chicago, Minneapolis and New York the loss on July exceeded that on May, while in Winnipeg more was lost on the May option. In Duluth the decline was equal on both. In Chicago the May option was 1⅝c off and July 2⅜c off. In Minneapolis the May option was off 1⅞c and July 2. May lost 1¾c in New York and July 2¼c. In Winnipeg, May went off 2⅞c and July 2⅜c. Oats in Chicago were unchanged to ⅛c off and corn ¼c off.

Car receipts at Duluth were 144 against 152 last year, and at Minneapolis 144 against 308 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 288 against 460 last year. Chicago received 19 against 26 last year. Winnipeg received 121 against 154 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 266,000 bus, last year 724,000 bus. Shipments 134,000 bus, last year 258,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 159 543 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 422,000 bus, last year 526,000 bus. Shipments 874,000 bus, last year 666,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 102 bus.

On the Duluth board, trading was rather active in wheat and quiet in flax. There was considerable selling pressure in the wheat market and prices went down in common with other American markets. May wheat opened ⅛c up at 98c and advanced to 98⅛c, falling away again to 97⅛c. Pressure sent it down to 95⅝c and it rallied to 95⅞c, 2c lower than yesterday's closing price. July wheat opened ¼c up at 99½c, dropped to 99c, then to 97c and rallied at the close to 97¼c, a loss of 2c from yesterday's close.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.15½, advanced to $1.15⅞, fell off to $1.15¾, advanced to $1.16, declined again to $1.15⅜ and rallied to close ¼c up at $1.15¾. July flax opened ⅜c up at $1.18, advanced to $1.18¼, declined again to $1.18, advanced to $1.18¼, fell off to $1.17⅞ and closed ⅜c up at $1.18. October flax closed unchanged at $1.17¼.

Durum wheat closed 1½c off and cash spring wheat closed 2c over May. Oats, rye and barley were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat is Irregular, May Option Strong, July and September Weak.

Chicago, April 9.—The wheat market was irregular at the opening today, the May option being strong on buying by elevator interests and July and September being weak because of favorable weather in the Southwest. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at ⅛c higher at 91¼c to 91⅝c and sold at 92@92⅛c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 191 cars against 229 cars last week and 486 cars one year ago.

The market weakened greatly in the latter half of the session, May declining to 89½c. The close was weak, with May 1⅝c lower at 89¾c.

The corn market was firm, the chief influence being the official forecast for more rain which is expected to interfere with the movement. May corn opened ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, at 67⅛c to 67⅜c and sold at 67½c. Local receipts were 220 cars with 82 of contract grade.

Prices held firm until near the close, when they weakened in sympathy with wheat. The close was easy, with May ¼c lower at 67c.

The oats market was quiet and steady. Trading in the May option was light. May oats opened ¼c higher at 52⅞c and held around that figure. Local receipts were 244 cars.

The provisions market was steady and trading was dull. May pork opened unchanged at $13.50 and sold down to $13.42½. Lard was unchanged at $8.37½. Ribs were unchanged at $7.22½.

Close: Wheat—May, 89¾c; July, 83½@⅝c; September, 82¼c. Corn—May, 67c; July, 64c; September, 62⅞@63c. Oats—May, old, 52½@⅝c; May, 51¼@⅜c; July, old, 45½c; July, 43¼c; September, 37¼c. Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, April 9.—Close: Wheat—Spot dull; No. 2 red western winter, 7s; futures excited; May, 6s 10¾d; July, 7s ⅛d; September, 6s 10⅞d. Corn—Spot prime mixed American new, quiet, 5s 4¾d; prime mixed American old, firm, 5s 7d; futures quiet; May, 5s 5⅜d.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Declines a Cent and Soon Reacts, But Closes Lower.

Minneapolis, April 9.—Wheat was weak yet in doubtful position during the early part of the day, declining a cent but reacting again promptly. May sold higher than July at one time. The winter wheat crop news was favorable, spring wheat seeding more general and other news bearish. But Minneapolis got only 144 cars against 308 last year, 26 of today's being winter wheat. Duluth got only 28 against 152. Minneapolis, elevator stocks stand about even so far in the week. Near the close there was enormous liquidation and May and July broke heavily July going to 96⅞c, or below May again by nearly half a cent. May opened at 99⅜c; high, 99⅝c; low, 97⅜c, close, 97½@⅝c. July closed, 97⅝c. September closed 87¼c.

The cash market was better and No. 1 northern was quotable 1½@2c over May; No. 2 May, price to ½c under. Close: No. 1 northern, 93¾@99¼c spot, 99¼c to arrive; No. 2 northern, 96¾@97¼c spot, 97¼c to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 89¼@93¼c.

No. 3 yellow corn, 64¼@63¾c.

No. 3 white oats, 48½c.

No. 2 rye, 70¾@71¾c.

Barley was about steady with yesterday's close 60@82c.

Flax passed the Duluth May price today and sold here at ¼c over. Close, $1.15½.

Bran in good demand and quoted firm at $21.25@21.50.

No feature of new importance appeared in flour. Demand is light. The tendency of the market was easier in line with wheat, but the millers made no changes in quotations. Shipments, 31,924 barrels. First patents, $5.15@5.30; second patents, $5.05@5.20; first clears, $4.05@4.15; second clears, $3.10@3.20.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to M. W. Lee & Co.: Local metal dealers are blue because there is no business. They state that the metal is offered less freely than it was last week and that higher prices are asked. The local market for shares is dull and firm and does not reflect New York betterment. All metal stocks are a purchase on all reactions as they have not yet discounted the betterment that will surely come on at the least sign of business revival. They don't go down on bad news and have weathered about every bad factor that could be conceived.

SENT BACK TO CONFERENCE.

Washington, April 9.—A motion by Mr. Sherman, New York, in the house of representatives today, to recommit the Indian appropriation bill to conference, started the daily monotony of divisions and roll calls. The roll was called and the bill was returned to conference, 250 to 38, the Democrats all voting with the Republicans to that end.

HADLEY ON VACATION.

Kansas City, April 9.—Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general of Missouri, left here today for Boulder, Col., where he expects to spend two months in an attempt to regain his health.

BALL DRESS OF STAMPS.

London Daily Mail: At a ball in Bermuda a wonderful dress was worn, and in the making of it over 30,000 stamps were used. Years were spent in collecting the stamps and three weeks in the making of the dress, which was of the finest muslin.

The woman called upon her friends to help her, and the dress was covered with the stamps of all nations. They were not put on anyhow, but in an elaborate design.

On the front of the bodice was an eagle made entirely of brown Columbian stamps. Suspended from the bird's talons was a globe made of very old blue revenue stamps. On each side of the globe was an American flag, having stripes of red and blue stamps.

On the back of the bodice was a collection of foreign stamps in the form of a shield, in the center of which was a portrait cut from old revenue stamps.

A picture hat covered with red and blue stamps was worn with the dress.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Increased Strength Developed With the Progress of Session.

Sensational Advance in Third Avenue Was Feature of Day.

New York, April 9.—Prices of stocks moved irregularly in the opening dealings. The Erie stocks were higher as a result of the announcement of the financial settlement effected for the company. The first and second preferred stocks rose a point. Southern Railway preferred advanced 1¾, Brooklyn Transit, 1 and St. Paul ⅝. Canadian Pacific fell a point, and the gains in the Erie preferred stocks were lost immediately.

The stock market fluctuated uncertainly with a lower tendency. Prices at no time got very far from yesterday's closing. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis preferred jumped 5 points, and National Lead and Pressed Steel Car preferred 1, Delaware & Hudson yielded 1 and Pacific Mail 2½.

The lethargy of the demand made the market sensitive to light selling and prices dropped. Amalagamated Copper, United States Rubber second preferred and American Cotton Oil sold down a point. The bond market was irregular. Erie Junior issues rose sharply.

The market took on an appearance of activity for awhile in the noon hour, when a brisk demand arose for Union Pacific, Reading and other speculative favorites. Large fractional gains were registered in the active issues and there was a varied demand for numerous usually inactive specialties. Cleveland, C., C. & St. Louis preferred increased its rise to 9 points. New York Air Brake 2⅝, Western Union 2, Allis-Chalmers preferred and Texas & Pacific Land Trust 1¾, St. Louis Southwestern preferred 1⅝, Missouri Pacific 1¼, and Delaware & Hudson and North American 1, International Paper preferred fell 1¾.

Increased strength developed with the progress of the day. Business was not large, but the pausity of stock at prevailing prices made it easy for the brokers to bid up the list without bringing out large offerings. The feature of the dealings was the sensational advance of 11½ points in Third Avenue, which was accomplished by jumps of 1 and 2 points between. Metropolitan Street Railway sold up 3 points at 25. In the general list advances ranged from 1 to 1¼ in Reading, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific and others.

The market closed steadw and dull. Gains were extended by continuance of the buying, Union Pacific rising 1⅝, Wisconsin Central preferred 1½ and Northwestern 1⅜. There were some additions to the list of 1 point advances. Granby Mining sold at a decline of 4, Iowa Central preferred 1½. Third Avenue reacted 5, but recessions generally were small.

GREAT NORTHERN IS FINED $3,000

Charges Against Officers of the Road Are Nolled.

St. Paul, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—When federal court convened in Minneapolis today W. R. Begg, general counsel for the Great Northern, entered a plea of guilty in the rebate case against his company and Judge Page Morris imposed a fine of $3,000. On motion of United States District Attorney Houpt, the charges in this case was nolled against B. Campbell, fourth vice president; W. W. Broughton, freight traffic manager, and C. I. Sweeney, assistant general freight manager.

Thus the fine stands against the corporation only. This case was brought against the Great Northern Nov. 8, 1906, but was not tried as the Great Northern had appealed a similar case to the United States supreme court. Judge Page Morris tried the case that was appealed, and in that instance had imposed a fine of $15,000. The supreme court sustained his action.

A rebate case aaginst the Minneapolis & St. Louis road was nolled, also on motion of the district attorney. The specific charge in this case yas illegal solicitation of traffic. The government found that no shipments had been made and no offense committed.

The Great Lakes Engineering company claims that it was held up in its work by the failure of the Northwestern Boiler Manufacturing company to complete the contract to furnish two boilers by June, 1905.

Never since Mr. Thomas F. Cole brought Calumet & Arizona to the attention of the people of this district has there been such a great opportunity for the public to make big money on any mining deal, but now comes Butte-Ballaklava, the mine that will bring more money to our city than the great Calumet & Arizona. Do not think for a minute that this great mine with its 3,600 feet of rich vein matter can not be as big a producer as the Calumet & Arizona. The North Butte is selling for as much money. Butte-Ballaklava will, I believe, produce as much ore for the next fifty years as either of the above. There is no limit to these great veins, and anyone who understands the Butte district will tell you that the Ballaklava veins can reach anywhere into the Amalgamated Copper Co.'s lines. No matter where these veins lead, they must let the Ballaklava people follow their veins, even if they reach clear under the very heart of the city of Butte. This information is absolutely right and you can bet your money on it. I will wager $1,000 to one little dollar that this information regarding the veins is correct. Ballaklava is now cutting its big station on the 700-foot level, and in a few days you will hear news from this great property that will make your hair stand on end. No better proposition was ever brought to your attention, and if my statements regarding this mine were not correct, I would have had to run to cover long before this, but it happens that this time we drew a Royal Flush, so go on and bet against us if you want to.

Butte & Superior is a big property, and it has many great possibilities both for silver and copper. Buy it at this low level and you will make no mistake.

Shattuck, also one of the wonders of the mining world, is one of the best mines in this country. Buy Shattuck whenever you can at this level.

MRS. BERGMAN TELLS HER STORY

Mrs. Olga Bergman, complaining witness in the $5,000 damage case against Jacob Kitz was called to the stand this morning for direct examination concerning her claims that Kitz attempted to take improper liberties with her and that by reason of his attentions and alleged physical attempts to force his atentions on her he caused her injuries and illness.

The morning session of the trial drew out a larger crowd than attended at any time during the first trial. Most of the people present reside at Hibbing, there being about a dozen women in attendance. These, it is understood, are mostly girls who have at one time or another worked for Mrs. Bergman.

Mrs. Bergman's story of the alleged assault by Kitz in her own home in January, 1906, and his other alleged attempts to kiss her was retold and was practically the same as her testimony at the former trial.

Mrs. Dowds, who is alleged to have been present at a seance between Kitz and Mrs. Bergman, and who took care of Mrs. Kitz when she was confined to her bed, is the witness who is missing and whose transcribed testimony was admitted in the case yesterday.

RAILROAD NEWS

LOW RATES TO THE EAST

Railroads Show Tendencies Toward Cutting Prices in Summer.

Duluth Will Benefit in the Increased Tourist Business.

Western passenger travel will probably be increased by the Eastern lines putting on a reduced tariff east of Chicago. The regular fare from Chicago to New York will be reduced to $24, beginning at an early date, with stop-over privileges. The regular one-way fare between these two points is $18, so that the reduction will place the round trip fare at $6 above the present one-way tariff.

A reduction will also be made on Montreal and Pittsburg points. The regular faro of over $14 to the Smoky City will be reduced to $10.50. This, added to the fact that in all probability the Chicago-St. Paul lines will give a substantial reduction for the Chicago convention, will prove a stimulus to the passenger business, that has been very light during the winter months.

A Duluth passenger agent this morning stated that he looked for a revival in the Duluth business within the near future. He stated that the Duluth lines would soon feel the effects of the heavy tourist traffic, while the low rates that indications point to as going into effect on many of the Western and Eastern lines, were bound to give the Head of the Lakes roads their share of the business.

WORK GOING ON RAPIDLY.

The Milwaukee Road's Coast Extension is Nearing Completion.

News has reached here that the Milwaukee Railway company will have completed its transcontinental system by Christmas, the road reaching its terminus at Seattle upon that date. This will give the Milwaukee a direct route from Minneapolis to the coast, and will have an appreciable effect on the competition for coast passenger and freight business.

The completion of the Milwaukee will mark one of the most rapid pieces of railroad work in the history of modern road-building. Every effort is being made to rush the work, and the officials are confident that the last rail will be laid soon after the snow begins to fall.

The Milwaukee will cross the Columbia river on a mammoth steel arch bridge of fifteen spans. The bridge is supported by concrete piers, the bridge being high enough to permit the passing of boats. The road passes through heavily timbered country, crossing the Cascades at an elevation of 3,010 feet.

The policy of the road is to finish all extensions and improvements on the system as rapidly as possible.

G. N. Buys Engines.

St. Paul, April 9.—The Great Northern is receiving a number of mammoth mallet compound locomotives which are to be used for hauling heavy freight trains across the mountains. The engines are built by the Baldwin Locomotive company, and are of the same design as those contracted for the road last year. Half of them will weigh 225 tons each, while the remainder will be of a heavier type, weighing about 275 tons each. The new engines are of the small wheeled type, and have all the latest devices embodied in their construction.

Grain Traffic Over.

Wheat traffic by railroad has practically stopped for the season, as far as the roads at the Head of the Lakes are concerned. From now on practically all of the wheat hauling will be done by boat.

Patterson Gets Promotion.

St. Paul, April 9.—Word has been received at the local railroad offices that J. C. Patterson has been appointed superintendent of the Northwestern division of the Pullman company, succeeding F. E. Rice, who recently died. Mr. Patterson is well known among railroad men as he has been chief clerk in the office of the superintendent of the Northwestern division of the Pullman company for five years. Previous to holding that position he was district superintendent with headquarters at Kansas City.

BILLEK WILL HANG APRIL 14

Springfield, Ill., April 9.—The supreme court today denied a petition for a rehearing of the case of Herman Billek, found guilty of murder in Chicago. Unless Governor Deneen or the state board of pardons intervenes, Billek will hang in Chicago April 24.

The condemned man is a Bohemian fortune teller, who is accused of having caused the death of several members of a Chicago family, named Vzral, who perished by one of his poisons. After Billek's conviction, Father P. J. O'Callaghan, head of the Paulist order in Chicago, became convinced that Billek was innocent. Later, two of the principal witnesses against Billek acknowledged that their testimony was perjury, done at the instance of a police official and an assistant prosecutor, who alleged the motive was to gain prestige and promotion.

Chicago, April 9.—The board of pardons will meet here April 14, and evidence will be presented to it at that time by the attorneys for Billek.

HOME RULE OF THE SOVEREIGN STATES MUST BE PRESERVED; GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON FIRMLY UPHOLDS THE CONSTITUTION

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION OF BAY STATE DECLINES TO SHOW PREFERENCE

Platform Committee Refuses to Insert Resolution Indorsing Taft.

Demands a Speedy Revision of the Tariff Schedule.

Asks Legislation in Aid of the Merchant Marine.

Boston, Mass., April 10.—The Republican state convention was called to order promptly on time this forenoon by Chairman Doty of the state committee. Senators Lodge and Crane and Representative Gardner were loudly applauded when they took seats on the platform. Postmaster General George Von L. Meyer was the temporary chairman. The report of the resolutions committee was adopted by acclamation.

The platform opens with an expression of regret over the illness of Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., and of hope that he may be shortly restored to health. "We believe," the resolution says, "he is fully qualified for higher honors and his nomination for vice president would be gladly indorsed by Massachusetts."

After declaring firm belief in the Republican party principles of the last fifty years, the resolutions continues:

"We stand absolutely by the principles of protection, but recognize that rates or schedules must be from time to time changed and revised. We believe certain existing schedules have become ill-suited to present conditions and that our able Massachusetts delegation in congress will take the part the state demands and expects in securing speedily, wise revision without abandoning the protective principle or destroying our industries or pauperizing American laborers."

The Spanish war, the platform says, "thrust upon the country the determination of great international as well as governmental questions. The Republicans faced those questions with the same courage with which they had faced a hostile battle line. The peace, progress and prosperity exhibited in all our island independencies, under the intelligent application of those policies

AMERICAN AUTO REACHES ALASKA

Welcomed at Valdez by Entire Population and Brass Band.

Seattle, Wash., April 10.—A dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer from Valdez, Alaska, says: The American racing automobile arrived last night on the steamship Santa Clara and was welcomed at the wharf by the entire population with a brass band. There will be a public reception tonight and a banquet tomorrow. The automobile will run twenty miles through Keystone canyon, then, owing to the narrow trail, will be sledded to Teikhill. From there to Fairbanks the trail has been broken with double sleds, and the automobile will easily run under its own power to Fairbanks.

Shuster, the driver, is as yet uncertain whether he will be allowed to sled his machine from Keystone to Teikhill, under the conditions of the race.

FASTER FRIGHTENED.

Los Angeles Man Commences to Eat After Forty-Three Days' Fast.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 1.—Day E. Elmore, a cigar dealer, last night broke his fast of forty-three days by partaking of clam broth and milk in small quantities and is today gradually accustoming himself to solid food. Elmore stated that the death of a man in St. Paul in an effort to prolong a fast, induced him to end his own experiment because of the danger to people who might follow his example. Elmore reduced his weight thirty-eight pounds. He exercised daily, and on the thirty-ninth day climbed to the summit of Mount Wilson and returned.

Mr. Chen says there are now 1,000 members in all parts of the country.

WOMAN STEAL DIAMONDS.

Salt Lake City, April 10.—The jewelry store of Boyd Park at 170 South Main street was robbed by two women last Saturday afternoon of a tray of diamonds and other precious stones valued at $6,000. News of the robbery was made public yesterday. The robbery was committed while the store was full of customers, advantage being taken of a moment when the clerk, who was waiting on the women had turned his back.

BURNED OFF CAPE HORN

Authentic Information Concerning Ship Arthur Sewell.

But Three Persons Believed to Have Been Saved.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Authentic information to show that the ship, Arthur Sewell, which sailed from this port for Seattle on April 3, 1907, with a cargo of coal, was burned at sea, was brought here yesterday by George Baker, one of the crew. Baker, who is a Hawaiian, with Charles Dixon and Second Mate Weinberg, are, so far as known, the only survivors. Baker came here from New York, where he arrived on the German-Lloyd steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecelie, as a stoker. He says the Sewell was burned shortly after rounding Cape Horn. The ship was in command of Capt. Gaffrey and carried a crew of twenty-six men. Baker says that on the night of Sept. 8, flames broke out in the hold of the vessel, and that Capt. Gaffrey ordered the small boats lowered.

While the starboard boat was being lowered by Second Mate Weinberg, assisted by Baker and Dixon, the fastening broke, and the boat, with its three occupants, drifted to the southward in the darkness. As long as the three men could see, the fire grew brighter and there is little doubt that in a short time the vessel was destroyed and the remainder of the crew lost.

For two days the small boat drifted about on the ocean. On the third day a Norwegian bark, supposed to have been the Sydenham, bound from Callao to New Castle, New South Wales, was sighted, and she picked up the three men. After a forty-five-days' passage, the bark reached New Castle. Baker proceeded to Bremen and secured employment on the North German Lloyd steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecelie.

DAN SULLY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Thrown From Runaway Team and Strikes on His Head.

Kingston, N. Y., April 10.—Daniel Sully, the actor, had a narrow escape from being killed here, and as it is, was quite badly injured. Mr. Sully lives in Woodstock. He had been in this city shopping and while driving home his team of horses ran away.

The wagon struck a stone and was overturned, throwing out Mr. Sully, who landed on the side of his head and shoulder. He was picked up unconscious and carried to a house, and a hospital ambulance from this city was sent for. Doctors say no bones are broken and think no serious results will ensue.

TEN MINERS KILLED.

Bath, Eng., April 10.—Ten miners lost their lives in the Norton Hill colliery, in Somersetshire, today, as a result of an explosion of coal gas.

CAUGHT IN WINTER GALE IN GASOLINE LAUNCH ON OLD LAKE SUPERIOR

Duluth Man and Two Fishermen Have Terrible Experience.

Bodies Were Benumbed by the Wind and Spray.

Finally Succeeded in Making Shelter of Little Marais.

Running before a northeast gale on Lake Superior in an open gasoline launch, with the temperature below freezing point, and fearing to land lest the boat should be broken to pieces in the ice drift along the shore, with their bodies frozen helpless from the hips down, John Howard of this city and two Grand Marais fishermen, Joe Scott and Gene Clark, had an experience Tuesday night which they will never forget.

Mr. Howard had been at Grand Marais on a business trip and was anxious to return to Duluth. He hired the launch, which the fishermen owned, to take him to Two Harbors, and the men started out Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock. The weather looked threatening at the time, but the men decided to take the chance and they started out.

The wind kept getting higher and higher as the afternoon wore on, and by dark the waves threatened to swamp the boat. The spray had thoroughly soaked the occupants of the boat, and the bitterly cold wind, which swept down the lake, had left them benumbed and almost helpless.

They feared to land along the shore, as the drift ice was thick, and the shore is a treacherous one in the best of weather. Beaver Bay was the nearest shelter which offered any certain safety, but it was twenty miles away, and by the time they would reach it, every man in the boat would have been dead of exposure. It was therefore decided to make an effort to run into Little Marais.

It was 9 o'clock by this time, and the night was a dark one. The protecting point at Little Marais offers but little shelter in a storm, and the waves were beating over it. The little boat was brought around and headed for the shelter, however. A large cake of drift ice blocked the only landing, but the boat was sent at full speed against it. The three exhausted men fell, rather than climbed, from the boat onto the ice. Their lower limbs were practically powerless, but they managed to pull the boat up onto the ice, and made for the nearest fisherman's cabin. Mr. Howard had wrapped a mackinaw about his

SMALL BOYS LOSE LIVES

Another Fatal Tenement House Fire in New York City.

New York, April 10.—Two small boys were killed and several other persons injured early today in a fire which caused a loss of $20,000 to the five-story tenement house at 25 Pitt street. The fire drove twenty families from their homes in the five-story building and emptied tenement lodging houses for a block.

The boys who perished were children of Jacob Chesner, Willie, 4 years old, and Solomon, aged 3 years, who lived on the fifth floor. The mother saved herself and her 18-months'-old daughter, only after she had dashed through the flames which set fire to her hair and burned the flesh from her feet. The father saved himself and his eldest son, 6 years old, after flames had encircled him, burning off his hair and his beard.

DANGER TO BE AVOIDED

Government Must be Kept Close to the Constitution.

Has Been Found Flexible Enough to Meet Every Emergency.

Strong Address for Preservation of Rights of the States.

Shiloh Battlefield, Tenn., April 10.—Upon the historic ground where one of the great battles of the Civil war was fought, Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota delivered a speech that will command widespread attention, because of its strong denunciation of the centralization of power and its firm insistence that the rights of the sovereign states shall be preserved in accordance with the Constitution framed by the founders of the republic and as amended by the people at various times. Governor Johnson boldly attacked the seeming desire upon the part of the administration at Washington to create a central bureaucracy, and protested against the breaking down of the constitutional provisions under which the American people have wonderfully prospered, while maintaining the individual liberty of the citizen. The governor pointed out that the Constitution has always been found flexible enough to meet every emergency, and it should not be altered except by the

SOUTH BEND, IND., MAN MURDERED

Carleton Morgan Shot While Visiting at Cassopolis, Mich.

Cassopolis, Mich., April 10.—Carleton Morgan, aged 35 years, of South Bend, Ind., was shot and instantly killed here today in front of the residence of Mrs. Mary Green. It is alleged that Mrs. George A. Metsker of South Bend, wife of a saloonkeeper there, who is under arrest here with her husband, fired the shot which killed Morgan. Mrs. Metsker denies it. Morgan, who is said to be well connected in South Bend, and to have recently inherited a considerable sum of money, came here last night with Metsker. Mrs. Metsker followed them on a later train and met the men at the entrance of Mrs. Green's home. The officers allege that Mrs. Metsker fired at her husband and hit Morgan. Mrs. Metsker, however, says that a mysterious unknown person fired the shot. Morgan leaves a widow and a year old child.

EQUALITY FOR WHITE AND NEGRO

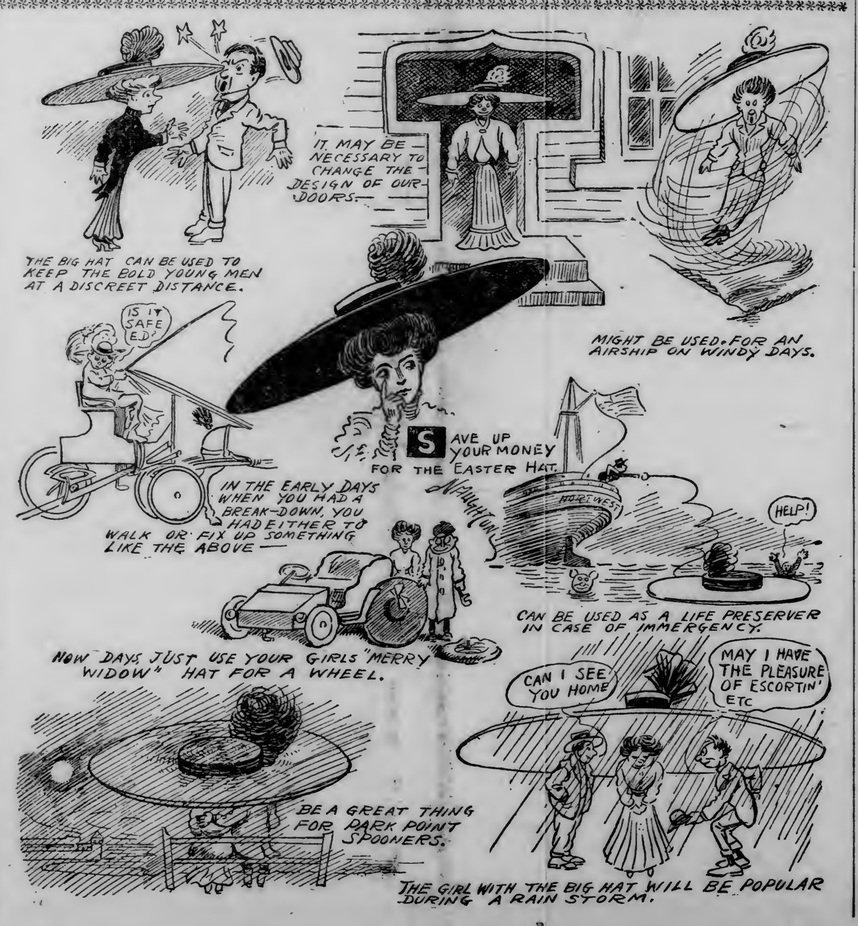

Commerce Commission Will Soon Give Railroads a Hearing.

Washington, April 10.—The interstate commerce commission expects soon to hold a hearing in a case of great interest in connection with the letter sent by President Roosevelt to the department of justice in regard to enforcing the laws requiring equal accommodations for negro and white passengers. The case is that of five bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church against four large railroads of the South and the Pullman company. Inferior accommodations for passengers of the African race, the refusal of sleeping car and dining car facilities and other alleged discriminations constitute the grounds for the complaint. The letter to the department of justice made public by the president Wednesday resulted from the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the case of Georgia Edwards against the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway company in favor of the complainant.

The president wrote his letter to the department of justice after receiving a letter from a member of the interstate commerce commission of the effort that the order of the commission requiring the railroad company to provide equal accommodations to all passengers had not been complied with by that road. It is held that the law permits separate accommodations for whites and negroes, but requires the same facilities for both.

The complaint, while aimed at all of the railroads operating in the South, is made directly against the Seaboard Air Line railway, the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad company, the Southern Railway, the Central of Georgia Railway company and the Pullman company, all of which practically have denied the charges contained in the complaint made by Bishops Wesley M. Gaines and H. M. Turner of Atlanta; Evans Tyree of Nashville; C. S. Smith of Detroit, and E. H. Lampton of Washington, D. C. A petition from the general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church accompanies the complaint.

TWO CATS ARE DECLARED DEAD

Beneficiaries to Woman's Will Fail to Respond in Court.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Two cats were declared legally dead by due process of law in the orphans' court here yesterday.

When the estate of Elizabeth Heritage was called for audit, counsel informed the court that the testatrix had left by her will a small legacy for the support and maintenance of two cats.

"The executors have made diligent search for these beneficiaries under the will," said the attorney for the executors of the estate, "but have met with no success."

The court was then given assurances that the feline beneficiaries were now dead. The cats were not represented by counsel, and were declared to be legally dead.

"Although cats are supposed to have nine lives," remarked Judge Lamorelle, "their death relieves the court from some perplexity."

The entire estate, which is comparatively small, will now be distributed among the other heirs of the testatrix.

EARLE WEDS "SOULMATE."

Freed by Divorce in France, and Marries Julia Kuttner.

New York, April 10.—That Ferdinand Pinney Earle, who sent his wife to Europe last fall to get a divorce, has been freed by decree of the French courts and had married Miss Julia Kuttner, his "soulmate," is the news carried in a cable message received in New York.

Earle, according to the message, is soon to appear in New York. Members of his family admitted he has been divorced, and that he had married Miss Kuttner in Italy.

NEW VANDERBILT CHIEF.

Cornelius Restored, in Mother's Eyes, to Head of Family.

New York, April 10.—One unexpected development in the divorce case of Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is the complete restoration of Cornelius Vanderbilt, the eldest son, as head of the family, in his mother's eyes. Mrs. Vanderbilt was the first to console her son's wife when the latter left the Newport country place, two weeks ago, and it is now said that it was with the mother's full knowledge and approval that Alfred's wife sued for absolute divorce. It is to this fact that the son, Cornelius, is indebted to his mother for absolute forgiveness for his unapproved marriage with Grace Wilson, which has proved to be one of the happiest unions in the social set. As a result, it is understood Mrs. Vanderbilt has added a codicil to her will, made some years ago, by which the share of her estate, which was to have gone to Alfred, is now bequeathed to the latter's wife and to Cornelius. Alfred's share will be very small, if he is not cut off altogether, it is said.

Since the commencement of the divorce proceedings, the most unusual precautions are being taken to protect Mrs. Vanderbilt from being disturbed in her Tuxedo cottage. It has been impossible at all times for any persons who do not have a pass, signed by at least two residents, to get within the park gates. The park has always been patroled by forty mounted policemen, and within the past week the number has been doubled. The village is also full of private detectives, and detectives meet all trains and promptly escort all persons who can give no good reason for their presence back to the railway station to await the next train out.

RECORD OF DE SAGAN.

George Gould Applies to Chief of Police of Paris.

New York, April 10.—It became known yesterday that George J. Gould has applied to the chief of police of Paris for the record of Prince Helie de Sagan. The French constabulary has on file the life history of every one of note within its jurisdiction, and Mr. Gould's intention obviously is to obtain a list of all of Helie's alleged debaucheries and escapades and lay them before his sister that she may not be deceived as to the character of the man who is aspiring to her hand.

It is known that Helie's gambling debts are enormous, while his numerous liasons have cost him immense sums. It is rumored that he owes $6,000,000.

Every acre of land the family own is mortgaged heavily. For the last few years it is said the prince has been living by his wits, principally following the occupation of a race track tout.

His family has been reduced to extremities. Helie's father, 80 years old, whose reputation was worse than that of his son, is living in an obscure quarter of Paris, supported by the charity of his friends.

WILL RECOMMEND DIVORCE.

New York, April 10.—Referee McClure last night finished his report in the case of Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt, who has brought suit for divorce from her husband, Albert Gwynne Vanderbilt. The report will be handed up to the supreme court, Justice O'Gorman next Monday.

While official confirmation is lacking, it is reported that the referee recommends that an absolute divorce be granted the plaintiff.

GIFTS ARRIVED ALL DAY LONG

Pass Book Thief Bought Many Presents for His Victim.

Chicago, April 10.—Mrs. Harlo R. Grant was surprised when a huge bouquet of American beauty roses was delivered to her in her husband's name Wednesday.

A few minutes later she was again delighted by the receipt of half a dozen pairs of very choice silk hose. When a beautiful silk kimono arrived she felt like sitting down and writing her spouse a little love note, but decided to wait until he returned home in the evening.

During the day more gifts from Mr. Grant arrived. A beautiful Easter hat, that was a dream; a costly Japanese vase of quaint, Oriental design, a suite of Louis Quinze parlor furniture, several pairs of ballroom slippers, and, finally, a trousseau of dainty lingerie followed one another in rapid succession, until Mrs. Grant was completely bewildered by the sudden outburst of lavish generosity that had evidently come upon her husband.

Meanwhile, Mr. Grant, at his West side printing establishment, was quite perplexed by a number of gifts that arrived for him during the day. A box of choice Havana perfectos greeted him on his arrival at his desk.

Later in the morning more joy came to him in the shape of a case of beer and a box of "wet goods." He concluded that some of his friends had arranged a surprise party for him, and settled back to enjoy the fun.

A collection of haberdashery, consisting of fancy shirts, Easter ties, startling socks and modish gloves, that would touch the heart of the most fastidious man, came next, and were followed by canes, theater tickets and fancy vests. The last thing to arrive was a beautiful diamond ring, the receipt of which almost took his breath away.

Arriving home, Mr. Grant was met at the door by his wife, who showered him with loving caresses and expressive thanks.

In the evening the denouement came when a small army of angry shopkeepers presented bills for the goods and checks that had been dishonored at the bank, and demanded payment. Investigation developed the fact that some one had stolen Mr. Grant's pass and check books and had ordered supplies with a lavish hand, tendering checks slightly larger than the purchase. The difference paid in cash by the merchants was pocketed by the swindler.

ACCOMPLISHED 270 THEFTS.

Young Woman in Paris Betrays Herself Through Carelessness.

Paris, April 10.—Blanche Leclere, 25 years of age, and known to the police as "Isabel," was arrested last week for 270 thefts, all of which she is charged with having committed during the last four years.

She has fair hair, blue eyes and an expression of trusting innocence. But she made a practice of taking engagements as governess, and after remaining with her employers long enough to help herself to the valuables in the house, departed to fresh fields of enterprise.

She had never been caught, and might not have been caught now if she had not been careless enough to apply for the post of governess in a family where she had helped herself to $1,500 worth of jewelry, only six months ago.

In her room the police found all kinds of disguises, including twelve wigs of different colors, jewelry enough to stock a shop, silver and linen marked with every letter of the alphabet, and a number of savings bank books, by forging the owners' names, of which she had been able to withdraw the sums standing to their credit.

STREETS UNSAFE AT NIGHT.

Thugs Operate at Will in Teheran After 9 P. M.

Teheran, April 10.—The public crier has informed the citizens that the police will not guarantee the safety of any person against murder in the streets after 9 o'clock at night, and has advised the inhabitants to keep indoors.

The dispute between the shah and parliament grows more acute, but both sides are powerless. Dignitaries of the old regime are petitioning the Russian minister for protection. It is feared that the revolutionary committees will have recourse to open conflict with the reactionaries, in the hope of bringing about the union of the many factions and their adherents. This would mean civil war.

TO ASK FOR PARDON.

Friends Say Man is Serving Term to Protect Two Women.

Granite City, Ill., April 10.—Declaring that James Crunk, a former patrolman, is serving a prison term to avoid compromising two married women of this city, Crunk's friends here have prepared a petition, asking that he be pardoned. Crunk is in prison at the state penitentiary at Chester, Ill., and in the last stages of consumption. He and another patrolman were convicted of holding up and robbing a saloon, here, two years ago. It is claimed that at the time the robbery was committed, Crunk was out driving with two married women, without their husbands' knowledge, and that he refused to prove his alibi and compromise the women.

NEGRO LYNCHED.

Fort Worth, April 10.—After he had attempted a criminal assault on May Morris, a 13-year-old girl, at Long View yesterday, Albert Fields, a negro, was arrested and fully identified by the young girl and an old negro man who came to her rescue. After he made a full confession, he was taken to the court house yard, a rope placed around his neck, a horse driven from under him, and he was left hanging.

COMPARES MEN AND WOMEN.

English Physician Declares Flirting is Simply Prospecting.

London, April 10.—Woman as she compares with man was the gist of a lecture which Dr. Thomas Claye Shaw gave before an audience of fashionably dressed women at the Institute of Hygiene the other day on "The Psychology of Women."

Dr. Shaw thus analyzed a woman's mental qualities: Sensation—Woman just as sensitive as men. Perception—Very quick; more so than men. Memory—The sexes are equal. Feeling and emotion—Woman differ materially from men. Obstinacy and sympathy—both very strongly developed in women. Jealously—Another important quality of women. Love—The most important thing in a womans life.

Incidentally Dr. Shaw referred to flirting. "I do not believe," he said, "that women are particularly desirous of flirting from one man to another, they are simply prospecting. They are just inquiring into the mental condition of different men in order to find out which is the type most suitable to themselves."

HEARING ON SATURDAY

C. Erickson Pleads Not Guilty to Charge of Robbing Friend.

Usual List of Drunks and Vagrants Line Up in Police Court.

Charles Erickson, arrested last night on the charge of grand larceny, pleaded not guilty in municipal court this morning. His hearing was set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The arrest was made upon complaint of Peter Meyer, who told the police he had been celebrating with Erickson. He said he went to sleep in the back room of Charles Johnson's saloon on the Bowery, and that when he woke up his pockets were cleaned out.

Erickson is said to have been caught pawning the watch in the West end, but the money could not be found by a search of his pockets. He said Meyer gave him the timepiece for safe keeping. Erickson asserted that he did not know where the money was, but the searchers finally located it between his underclothing and his skin.

Ole Olson says the next time he gets arrested he will forfeit bail, because it is cheaper. For being drunk and disorderly, in company with Ray Miller and May Wilson, he was given a ride to the police station in the patrol wagon last night. Wilson and Miller put up $5 bail each, and forfeited it by failing to appear in court this morning. Olson put up $10 bail, showed up in court, and was fined $10 and costs. He claimed it was his first offense, and that he should be let down very easily.

"That's the stiffest fine I ever heard of for a first offense," he observed.

He was well able to pay it, however, for he had $113 about his person when searched.

William Fox, who has been under the eye of the police for some time past, drew a fine of $27 with an alternative of thirty days in jail for vagrancy. He was unable to pay the fine this morning.

* * *

Olaf Lindberg smiled happily when Judge Cutting told him he would have to serve twenty days in the chain gang. Lindberg spends most of his time in jail, or in getting on a drunk that will land him in jail.

* * *

Ernest C. Osborne, charged with assault in the third degree, appeared before Judge Windom. He is from Brookston, Minn., and engaged in a fight with Rowe McCannis, it is charged. McCannis claims Osborne struck him with a gun barrel.

* * *

Norman Matheson was given the choice of a $17 fine or fifteen days in jail. Gust Maki admitted he had been drunk, and was given seven days or $7. Duggan McArthur said he wasn't a vagrant, and his hearing was set for this afternoon. Nick Davich and Jack Anik, arrested for fighting, will also have a hearing this afternoon.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Although there is no active Duluth organization of the Audubon society, there are many local women interested in the work of the society and the efforts being constantly made to abolish the many cruel practices which have existed.

Less bird blood has been spilled to decorate the Easter bonnets of American women this year than ever in recent history, it is declared by experts in New York. Based on careful examination of the millinery market as well as reports from agents throughout the country, this conclusion was announced at the headquarters of the National Association of Audubon societies. With the help of the million women members of the National Federation of Women's clubs and other organizations, the Audubon workers promise to keep up their fight against this fashionable form of bird butchery till preparation for Easter Sunday no longed means a massacre of breeding birds.

That a majority among the women of this country still demands the bloody scalps of the mother heron for algrettes is shown by the illicit and secret traffic in these plumes which officers of the Audubon association assert is today being conducted by the plume hunters. Although the Easter carnage among this sightly species has practically exterminated it in all of its old haunts in the United States, sections of South America are now being secretly scoured, as well as southern Europe, Africa and Asia, for this nuptial plume of the breeding heron. Balked in their repeated attempts to secure legislation in New York state to make prosecution of such traffic possible, the Audubon workers are today unable to effectively check the distribution from that city of algrettes irrespective of where they come from the women who still wear them.

Wherever the milliners still persist in offering for sale such illicit goods, however, the Audubon association is today taking active measures to stamp out the practice, which women's organizations in every town in the country are writing them, they no longer countenance. Seven millinery establishments in Columbus and Cincinnati have just been convicted and heavily fined for having algrettes in their possession for sale. Until this traffic is finally stopped, and the plumage of all wild birds, from this or any other country is no longer handled by the milliners, the Audubon workers declare their campaign will be fought on along these lines. This movement, they declare, is international, not sectional or local.

"It is gratifying to learn this year that American women are standing so solidly behind us in our long fight against this Easter massacre of the mother birds," said William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 141 Broadway. "I am hearing from women's organizations all over the country every day to this effect, and I notice that turkey feathers and domestic bird ornaments are taking the place of the ravaged plumes of the butchered wild fowl. We shall not rest, however, till we can put a complete stop to the sale of wild birds' plumage by the milliners, and to this end we call every good woman and mother in the land to help us."

D. A. R. MEETING.

Annual Meeting Is Held and Plans Discusssed.

The annual meeting of the Daughters of Liberty chapter of the D. A. R. was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. W. B. Silvey of the Spalding. The reports of the officers were heard, and the following officers elected: Treasurer, Mrs. E. T. Buxton; registrar, Mrs. J. Cooke Howard; historian, Mrs. O. L. Mather; chaplain, Mrs. George Spencer, and directors, Mrs. W. B. Silvey and Miss L. Ella Roe.

The chapter has been much interested in local philanthropic work, and plans were discussed for the next year. It was decided, if possible, to establish a rug industry at the Bethel Rescue Home. Many of the young women at the home are happy only when occupied, and the chapter decided to provide a loom and some instructions, if necessary, for the weaving of rugs. The work might develop into an industry which would pay financially, as well as benefit the young women. The chairman of the committee to arrange for the purchase of the loom, and the starting of the work, is Mrs. Edgar Markell.

The assistance for the Rescue Home will be the principal philanthropic work undertaken by the chapter during the year.

GOOD MANNERS

To Be Cultivated by Girls As Social Asset.

Graceful deference to age is one of the prettiest attributes that a schoolgirl may have, says the New York Herald. It is demonstrated really in good manners and thoughtfulness, but a girl, being young, is not apt to combine the two unless she has received careful instruction. Innate goodness of heart will always make her think of little things that a selfish or self-centered girl will ignore, but attention in training will do much toward developing a gracious helpfulness.

Every girl is expected to know it is the part of good manners that she shall pick up a handkerchief, glove or what not dropped by an older woman. It is equally supposed that she will stand aside to allow a woman to pass first through a door, but the fact remains that it is by no means uncommon to see a young miss arrogate the privilege to herself and make the older woman go second. The girl is not intentionally rude—she simply does not think, and thus loses a chance to show pretty manners that may be a great help to her socially later.

A girl should always go a little ahead to open a door for an older woman if there is no attendant to do it, but here again she does not always fulfill her obligation. Some parents are partly responsible, for they fail to inculcate the rule that courtesy to the family is quite as necessary, if not more so, than to strangers. Courtesy and politeness may be largely a matter of habit, and a girl who is trained to exercise it with her own family will not fail when she is with strangers.

The matter of courtesy at home is one that should receive more attention than it does. Among some, the most curious laxness prevails, and a girl who is allowed to grow up in an atmosphere of indifference to the social amenities among her own is likely to show lack of them in other places. All girls are told that contradiction and strongly expressed opinions are ill bred among young persons, but by no means all are taught to remember the fact. Aggressiveness of manner is a most unfortunate thing for a girl, unless she learns to control it. Allowed to continue it makes her unpopular, not only with her young friends, but their parents and guardians, and her influence is considered to be most undesirable.

Negation, in which a girl has no opinion of her own, or waits to hear those of others before saying anything, is the other extreme, and as such to be avoided; but she who has been taught deference and consideration will be able to express herself in such a way that, while she leaves no doubt of her own ideas, she offends none. Her assertions are softened and qualified with an "I think," not hurled out with an "It is." She has some of the same manner with friends her own age as with elders, but she may be able to carry on an argument with her contemporaries that with the older generation would be most unseemly.

To forestall the wants of an older woman, to see that she wishes her book at the moment, or that the bell should be rung for a servant, develops not only good manners in a girl, but thoughtfulness. For a slight matter, such little attentions can make most wonderfully for popularity. Mothers of other girls observe and like them. They consider that such graceful thoughtfulness is an example for their own daughters, and the well-mannered girl is in demand.

Household Helps.

Household Brooms and Brushes—Household brooms and brushes last much longer if cared for and washed regularly. They should never be allowed to rest on the brush end. Long-handled ones should be hung up by the heads and short ones propped upright on a shelf or hung by a loop of twine.

For Kitchen and Pantry Shelves—Give them two coats of ordinary white paint, with a third finishing coat of white enamel. As soon as the latter dries, wash with cold water to harden. With no covers under which crumbs and cockroaches can hide, shelves can be kept clean all the time, as enamel is easily wiped with a damp cloth. Next best to this enamel finish on the shelves themselves is a fitted cover of white enamel cloth. Enamelled cloth makes also admirable covers for the laundry tubs, when not in use, the kitchen table and the stove when there is no fire in it.

A Handle for the Dustpan—For the woman who dislikes stooping, a handle to the dustpan proves a great convenience. Saw off the handle from a discarded broom and insert the end in the hollow tin handle of the dustpan, first bending it perpendicularly to the pan.

A Pair of Kitchen Shears—Always keep a pair of medium size shears hanging in the kitchen for ready reference. They are the best of utensils for freeing grape fruit of its tough membrane and fish of its fins, for mincing parsley and herbs, to say nothing of their being in constant demand for cutting cloth, string and paper for divers uses, but don't use the same pair to trim the kerosene lamps as you use to trim the grape fruit.

Monogramed China.

Monograms are much prettier on china than single letters, and are much used, says Vogue. Most people have an entire set marked in this way, for instance, white with gold, which they use for everyday service, reserving their handsomer china, of which different sets are used for each course, for entertaining. This plain china, with monogram, is to be preferred for everyday use to decorated china—such as Haviland, Coleport, Dresden, Doulton—as it is simpler. In using a different kind of china for each course in entertaining, whatever best suits personal taste or whatever is in stock can be used. All makes of china may be combined in one dinner or luncheon.

To Visit Duluth.

Miss Patty J. Hill of the faculty of the Teachers' college of Columbia university will be the guest of Mrs. W. S. Bishop during her visit in the city. Miss Hill is coming to the Head of the Lakes, at the invitation of the Duluth-Superior branch of the International Kindergarten association. Miss Hill will speak as the Assembly hall of the Duluth high school, Wednesday, April 22. Her subject will be "Problems of Work and Play in Elementary Education."

Devotional Service.

The speaker at the Sunday service at the Young Women's Christian association will be Rev. S. L. Mitchell, and the solist for the afternoon will be Miss Gertrude Ward.

What Queens Wear.

The favorite color of Queen Elena of Italy is a soft blue-gray.

Carmen Sylva, the white-haired Queen of Roumania, affects the charming flowing draperies of her country, with a long lace veil held in position with jeweled pins.

Wilhelmina of Holland feels most at home in a tailor-made gown, and the Dowager Queen of Spain has brilliant taste in patterned brocade and silks.

The Russian empress cares little for dress, though her coronation robe of cloth of silver and pearls was a marvelous thing.

Bethel Sewing School.

The Bethel Sewing school will resume work tomorrow morning at the Lake Avenue Bethel. The pupils and teachers are requested to be present at the regular time and the class will continue its work Saturday mornings until the close of school.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"Buster Brown."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

Green Room Gossip.

"Buster Brown" will be the attraction at the Lyceum this evening. It is a musical comedy based upon the adventures of the famous hero of R. F. Outcault's Sunday supplement pictures of "Buster Brown and his dog, Tige." Master Reed, a youthful comedian, plays the title role. There will be a special matinee Saturday and the advance seat sale has been extraordinarily heavy owing to the demands of the children to "see Buster." It is not a child's show alone, however, but lays claim to being an up-to-date musical comedy.

Paul Gilmore, in his new play, "The Wheel of Love," will be at the Lyceum Monday evening. The play is an automobile romance written by George V. Hobart.

The Mack-Leone company bade farewell to the Lyceum for two months, last evening, and will not be seen again until early in the summer. During the remaining spring weeks the Lyceum will have a number of good road attractions.

This is amateurs' night at the Metropolitan and a merry bunch of local talent vaudeville acts have been booked for an appearance. The management is authority for the statement that many of the stunts scheduled for this evening will be distinctly novel.

The chorus girls' contest last evening was well attended.

Tomorrow, the Cherry Blossoms will give last matinee of their engagement.

PREPARING FOR EXHIBITION

Boys Are Working Well Under Director Olson's Instructions.

Al Olson, physical director of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., is training the boys for the athletic exhibition at the Lyceum next week. He has a series of formations and exercises, which bring out grace and athletic ability, and the boys are working into them well. The spectators at the exhibition will be given a fine demonstration of the work of the department.

Olson, who is a graduate of the physical department of the Central association, has worked wonders with the little fellows this year. He has charge of one of the most important branches of the work in taking the untutored boys and teaching them the elementary work in gymnastics. The development of the classes this year has been marked and some of the work to be shown next Tuesday night will be a revelation to people, who have no conception of what the department is doing.

At the Central gymnasium, Physical Director Frey is putting his men through their paces, and he is delighted with results. The exhibition is meant to be a practical test, as well as a demonstration of the work, and, if the preliminary showing counts for anything, it will be all of that.

WAS KILLED AT GRAND RAPIDS

Gustav Alho of Duluth Caught Under Falling Smokestack.

Gustave Alho of Duluth was killed, and Francis J. King, also of Duluth, was probably fatally injured Wednesday afternoon at Grand Rapids, Minn., by the sudden collapse of a big smokestack. The two men, with several others, were employed by the Gogebic Steam Boiler works of Duluth in putting up the stack on the new water and light plant at Grand Rapids when the accident occurred.

James F. Dacey, president of the company, brought the remains of the dead workmen to Duluth yesterday afternoon, and had King removed to St. Mary's hospital. King's back was badly crushed and several ribs broken. It is feared he cannot recover. Alho was 25 years old and lived at 328 St. Croix avenue. His funeral will be held this afternoon from Flood & Horgan's undertaking rooms. The dead man has no relatives in the city.

APPRAISERS WILL CONSIDER VALUES

Levine Option May Establish Value on Second Street Frontage.

The board of appraisers appointed by the court to fix the values on the property the county seeks to condemn on Fifth avenue west and Second street for courthouse purposes, will meet this afternoon at the office of the courthouse commission. It is expected that legal representatives of the property owners will be present to make a showing to the appraisers as to values. Two owners have already given the county options on their properties and the county board has accepted the offers. One of these establishes the value of First street property in the vicinity of Fifth avenue west, at $81 a front foot, exclusive of improvements. It is probable that the values fixed on the other properties will be figured on the basis stated or near it. The appraisers will, it is understood, go ahead and appraise the Levine and Cash properties at the figures stated in the options.

GRAY BOOM IS LAUNCHED

Delaware Jurist to be Candidate for Presidential Nomination.

Philadelphia, April 10.—The boom of Judge George Gray of Delaware for the Democratic presidential nomination was launched in Pennsylvania yesterday by the organization of the "George Gray league" at a meeting held in the city. An executive committee was named.

Resolutions were adopted pledging the support of the members to use every honorable means to secure the nomination of Judge Gray at the Denver convention.

The applicant will be examined on arithmetic, letter writing, penmanship, copying from plain copy, United States geography, reading addresses and spelling. The first three subjects will be allowed twenty points each, and the others ten points each, making a total of 100 per cent.

TAFT WAS INDORSED

At All Republican County Conventions Held in Minnesota.

List of Delegates to the State and District Conventions.

Walker, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cass county Republican convention at Walker, yesterday, was largely attended by delegates from all parts of the county. Committees on credentials and resolutions were appointed. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the convention:

"Resolved, That we reaffirm our allegiance to the Republican party and its doctrines, as expounded by our present executive.

"Resolved, That we recognize in President Roosevelt the most able and courageous leader of our times, and one of the greatest of our presidents; that we fully and cordially indorse his fearless and patriotic administration, and that we commend the wise, just and far-reaching legislation that has been enacted since he took his oath of office; that we are in favor of the legislation recommended in his two recent messages to congress, and that it is the sense of this convention that our senators and representatives in congress shall do all in their power to bring about the legislation therein recommended by him.

"Resolved, That believing that the policies of our peerless leader, Theodore Roosevelt, have advanced the cause of our great republic and its people to an extraordinary degree, and that those policies shall be unfalteringly adhered to, We most heartily indorse the candidacy of the one great statesman whose advocacy of those policies has been unquestioned, and we instruct our delegates to the state convention to vote for four delegates at large who will pledge themselves to work unceasingly, and use all honorable means to secure the nomination for president of Hon. William H. Taft.

"Resolved, That we endorse the candidacy of C. J. Gunderson of Alexandria and Hon. S. F. Alderman of Brainerd for district delegates to the national Republican convention, and instruct our delegates to the district convention to vote as a unit for their selection.

"Resolved, That we indorse the actions and doings in congress of our two illustrious senators. We recognize in them men who have done much to make the state of Minnesota stand as one of the greatest states in shaping the destiny of the republic.

"Resolved, That we fully appreciate the able work being performed by our representatives in congress, and especially that of the representative from this district, Hon. Charles A. Lindbergh."

The following nine delegates were unanimously elected to attend both the convention at Elk River and also the state convention at Minneapolis: J. J. B. Spencer, Walker; Dr. E. Holman, Pine River; Fred W. Smith, Cass Lake; Arthur McBride, Walker; George C. Gilbert, Cass Lake; F. A. Dare, Walker; J. C. Dawes, Pine River; A. K. Swanberg, Cass Lake; P. H. Garry, Walker.

Hennepin County.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—Fred M. Powers, created a sensation at the Republican convention yesterday with a Roosevelt resolution. After Walter W. Heffelfinger had been indorsed for delegate at large and the Taft resolution had been put before the convention, Mr. Powers tried to stampede the convention to Roosevelt. The La Follette men joined him and the convention was in an uproar. But the stampede was checked by Mr. Heffelfinger, who told the convention that if they wanted to withdraw their indorsement of Taft they could count him out. This statement cleared the atmosphere, there was applause and the Powers resolution was laid on the table. Otto Greely and W. H. COTTON PLUNGER QUITS.

Will Spend Five Years in Caring for Sick Son.

New York, April 10.—In order to devote the next five years of his life to the care of his only son, an infant, Theodore H. Price, the spectacular cotton plunger, has closed all his deals, retired from the market and arranged to sell his town house, his country place, his horses and carriages and his furniture. With his wife, his son and his two daughters he will soon go to France, where he will buy an estate on the coast of Brittany, the only place, the doctors say, where the little boy can live and recover his health. The son is suffering from tuberculosis of the throat.

Sluggish Liver

makes life a burden, as thousands of suffering men and women know. Food does not do any good. There is no energy for business or pleasure. Headache, sleeplessness, yellow skin, coated tongue indicate that the liver is not doing its work and the bile is not being carried off.

Warner's Safe Cure

which is purely a vegetable compound, is an absolutely safe and permanent cure for all inflammatory and other diseases of the liver. It corrects the functional trouble by increasing the flow of bile into the bowels to a healthy standard and keeping it so. It removes all the waste material and obstructive agents within the circulation and structure of the liver, and by its tonic and purifying properties brings to a condition of perfect harmony all the important organs of the body.

In diseases of the liver, the bowels are usually constipated because the flow of bile is lessened. WARNER'S SAFE PILLS quickly relieve this condition, and no ill after-effect is experienced.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is put up in two sizes and is sold by all druggists, or direct, at 50 CENTS and $1.00 A BOTTLE. Refuse substitutes containing harmful drugs which injure the system.

SAMPLE BOTTLE FREE. A sample bottle of WARNER'S SAFE CURE will be sent postpaid to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in Duluth Evening Herald.

CAUGHT IN WINTER GALE

legs in the boat, and he was able to walk with difficulty. He partly dragged the other two men to the cabin, one of them being by this time unconscious. For three hours they worked to restore life to their benumbed limbs.

The men showed no ill effects of their journey, but the incident is one that they will never forget. The fishermen returned to Grand Marais after the storm had abated, and Mr. Howard came to Duluth, arriving here yesterday.

NO EVIDENCE TO CONVICT

are about to come up for trial. In others Judge Wallace, yesterday, refused to grant a change of venue to Judge E. E. Horterfield, whom the state supreme court recently declared could try the cases.

"What's the use of sending those cases over," Judge Wallace finally said, in reply to the arguments of the attorneys for the defendants. "We have no evidence to convict the actors, except those arrested during the last few weeks."

It appears that the grand jury that returned most of the early indictments neglected to secure witnesses to the alleged infraction of the Sunday closing law.

Notwithstanding the admission of the court, Judge Wallace declined to grant the change of venue, and told the attorney that he must have the defendants in court or their bonds would be forfeited. The bonds in the aggregate amount of many thousands of dollars.

When notified of this condition, Frank M. Lowe, one of the attorneys for the theatrical people, started for Jefferson City to apply to the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Wallace to transfer all the theater cases to Judge Porterfield's division of the court.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION OF BAY STATE DECLINES TO SHOW PREFERENCE

by the present Republican administration, is a demonstration of their circumspectness."

"We urge on congress legislation in aid of our merchant marine, the prosperity of which is vital to the interests of this commonwealth.

No Preference Declared.

"A resolution declaring that the preference of the convention was for Mr. Taft for president was submitted to your committee. Upon consideration, we have unanimously agreed that it is unwise to include a resolution in favor of any particular candidate in the platform. A number of the committee are favorable to Mr. Taft's candidacy, and we all recognize that a majority of the delegates to the convention desire his nomination. It is, however, very uncertain whether a resolution of preference would be carried, and its presentation would certainly lead to a contest, which would be injurious to the welfare of the party. For these reasons, and because of their earnest desire for a harmonious convention, the minority members of the committee join with the majority in their decision not to present a resolution of preference."

The platform concludes by indorsing the administration of President Roosevelt.

TROUBLESOME STOMACHS.

So many digestive disorders afflict men and women now that a select prescription has been secured from a great Battle Creek specialist who offers it freely to those who cannot take sanitarium treatment. Its use for a few weeks is said to completely restore the digestive functions, increase the strength and cure nervousness, insomnia, and all symptoms of a distressing nature due to such disorders. Mix these three ingredients together, shake well and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. One ounce compound essence Cardiol, two ounces essence of Pepsin and two ounces syrup of Ginger. One of our best-known druggists, to whom the above was submitted, states positively that a more effective and harmless prescription could not be filled by any one, and that it is familiarly known as the "Rockefeller Cure." Prominent, up-to-date druggists will get the ingredients from their jobber, although most of them keep them in stock.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FOR BETTER COLERAINE

Commercial Club of the Range Town Holds Interesting Meeting.

Beautifying Town One of Subjects That is Considered.

Coleraine, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Coleraine Commercial club held an important meeting Wednesday evening. John C. Greenway, general superintendent of the Oliver Iron Mining company and H. C. Dudley, president of the board of education were present. In the absence of George E. O'Connor, president of the club, J. A. Vandyke was elected temporary chairman.

The matter of suppressing the "blind pigs" in the boarding camps of the Canisteo district was vigorously discussed. While it is conceded that this method of dispensing liquors is an evil, it was shown from the discussion, that it is not a matter that can be easily handled. It was decided to appoint a special committee to secure a signed agreement from the saloon keepers that they do not sell liquors to the boarding camps provided the brewing companies would sign a like agreement. If this can be carried out it will have the effect of compelling all to take their drinks in the licensed saloon. It was suggested that possibly some important data for handling this difficult question might be obtained from the Anti-Saloon organization, which is now recognized as a great power in the control of illegal liquor selling.

The subject of paving Roosevelt avenue, laying sidewalks, and curbing, together with a modern street lighting system was also taken up. Mr. Greenway advocated paving with granotoid, a method that is being used in Gary, Ind. It is estimated that the cost of these improvements would not exceed $225 for each twenty-five foot business lot. A committee was appointed to consult the property owners as to what they would be willing to do in this matter and Mr. Greenway gave assurance, that if the committee received encouragement, he would see what the mining company would do to further this improvement.

Want New Depot.

A new railroad station is very much needed for Coleraine owing to the inconvenience of the present location and its inadequate accommodation for the needs of the growing town. The president and secretary of the Commercial club were instructed to write the Duluth, Missabe & Northern officials urging that some action be taken.

One of the most important subjects discussed was that of civic improvement. Coleraine has been generously supplied with parks and the beauty of its natural location on Trout lake is an incentive to the public spirited citizen to put the public streets, parks and the private residences in keeping with the natural beauty of the location. Mr. Greenway gave an inspiring talk urging all property owners and renters of company houses to put the premises in good condition, seeding the lawns, planting trees, shrubbery and flower gardens. He offered to contribute two-thirds of a substantial fund for prizes for the best kept premises providing the Commercial club would contribute from its funds one-third of the amount. This proposition was promptly accepted. Mr. Dudley, president of the board of education outlined what the board of education proposed to do in the matter in improving the school grounds. D. D. Greer gave an entertainingg description of what had been accomplished by the Civic Improvement organization in Lake City. The president of the club was instructed to appoint a special standing committee on parks and civic improvement and also have charge of the awarding of prizes. Secretary McCullough announced that J. A. Vandyke would give an illustrated lecture with seventy-five to 100 beautifully colored slides showing what had been accomplished in the way of civic improvement in other places. He was directed by the club to prepare a circular letter announcing this lecture and mail the same to every resident of Coleraine. The Bovey Commercial club and the citizens of Bovey will be invited to attend this entertainment.

E. J. Anderson and H. Kreiger were elected members of the club. On the whole this was one of the best meetings ever held by the Commercial club.

CAN'T FIND MURDERER.

Sheriff Hoolihan Still Looking for Slayer of Oreninck.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Hoolihan has been making every effort to locate the whereabouts of Proko Ognjenovich, alias Mike Oreninck, who shot and killed Sam Delick at Holman on Saturday evening, March 31.

No reason is known for the commission of the crime. The dead man is said to have been a brother-in-law of his slayer. The shooting took place in an Austrian saloon about 10 o'clock in the evening. The two men were standing at the bar taking a drink of liquor on the invitation of the murderer when Delick was shot down. The bullet entered the right cheek and striking the bone took a downward course and lodged in the back of the neck. The victim expired few hours later. Ognjenovich immediately left the saloon and has not since been seen. It was two days after the shooting before the sheriff's office at Grand Rapids was notified. No reward has yet been offered for the apprehension of the man wanted.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Sgonc, who was arrested for selling liquor without a license, had a hearing before Judge Freeman and was fined $75 and costs. The appeal will come up in Duluth at the next term of court.

VIRGINIA MUST WAIT.

All Vacancies in National Guard Have Been Filled.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the delay of the city council in acting on the petition submitted to it early in February, Virginia will not be able to boast a militia company this year at least, and for an indefinite time to come. As soon as the council passed the resolution at its meeting of last week granting use of the old fire department headquarters to the proposed militia company, G. V. Trimble, who has been active in promoting the enterprise, wrote to the adjutant general informing him of the action that had been taken. In reply, he received a letter from Adjutant General Fred B. Wood stating that the vacancies in the national guard had all been filled, the Eveleth company being the eighth and last to be mustered in this year.

VIRGINIA'S MAYOR CLAMPS DOWN LID

Orders Chief of Police to See That Law is Enforced.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following instructions given by Mayor Hawkinson, Chief of Police Walsh yesterday gave notice to all the saloonkeepers of Virginia to close their places, according to law, nights and Sundays.

This is a result of the agitation started by the "lid" advocates a few weeks ago. Mayor Hawkinson yesterday received a letter from Attorney General Young stating that complaint had been made to him that the saloon closing law was not being observed in Virginia and instructing the mayor to proceed forthwith to enforce the law.

Oscar Anderson, who has been day clerk at the Hotel Pokegama for the past three years, has resigned and will shortly leave Grand Rapids to accept a position at Minneapolis.

J. A. Lang returned Monday from a trip through the Blackwater country in Koochiching county, where he located a number of homesteaders. He says that section is settling up rapidly.

Itasca County Attorney Wants to be District Judge.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Attorney Alfred L. Thwing of Grand Rapids has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of judge of the Fifteenth judicial district.

In a letter to a local paper Mr. Thwing says: "The size of the district, the desire of every candidate to extend his acquaintance over it as much as possible, and the time between now and the primaries which will necessarily be occupied with my present official duties, seem to justify this early announcement. While I am not at this time asking for assurances of support, I intend to make as vigorous a campaign as is consistent with the respect due the office."

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Booth steamer, C. W. Moore, stopped here Wednesday on her way down the south shore, being the first boat of the season. PULPWOOD SHIPPING IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conductor J. M. Hickox is relieving Conductor George Smith on the Virginia passenger train for a few days, the latter being on the sick list.

Owing to the practical completion of the tie and pulpwood shipments and the consequent reduction in business, commencing yesterday the local freight between here and Allen Junction and the extra train between here and Endion, have been discontinued. Business will be extremely light now until the ore season opens, which, at present, is indefinite.

She will have charge of the kindergarten room. Miss Mayne L. Wensteer of Minneapolis has been chosen as assistant teacher for the kindergarten. She will also do office work and act as substitute teacher.

MINING ACTIVE AROUND EVELETH

Day and Night Shift at 3 Fayal-Gilbert Dump Crews.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the No. 3 shaft of the Fayal mine, work is going on with day and night shifts, though the number of men in the latter crew is not as great as is usual. In the Fayal pit, neither the night nor day crews are working on account of the breakdown in the steam shovels. A number of the shovel-runners are seeking work elsewhere, as it is not known when they will have work again in the Fayal, because of the large amount of repairs necessary on the shovels.

At the Fayal laboratory, work is going on day and night preparing the newly built annex for the testing that will go on during the shipping season.

The dump crews at the Gilbert are working more steadily at the new Sparta location. The new No. 2 shaft at the Gilbert is gradually being put into working order. The class of laboring men at the Gilbert are of a better grade than in other range mines, as the mining captains there have had experience at other points, and try as much as possible to exclude the undesirables that are always prevalent.

At the Adams the steam shovels are working night and day, and there is a possibility of more shovels being put on at the mine in the near future.

Action on the petition went over. Chief of Police Dennis Madden, who has been a splendid officer, was reappointed. He was given the special privilege of appointing his own assistants.

C. J. Sullivan was again appointed superintendent of the water plant, at the former salary, with the privilege of hiring his own men.

Harry Austin retains the village attorneyship at a salary of $50 a month. The matter of the appointment of fire chief was laid over till next meeting. A number of aspirants are up for the position, prominent among which are A. L. Bergeron, Mike Kealey and L. Roth.

WANT PAID DEPARTMENT.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out yesterday in the basement of the Virginia Brewing company's saloon on Lake street. The fire department responded promptly and, with the assistance of a chemical, soon had the fire extinguished. The damage was slight. The fire started in some manner in a pile of rubbish which was lying in the cellar.

The fire department will ask the council to install a fire engine and horses. They also want to have salaried firemen. It is expected that the council will grant the request. There is a large and commodious room for the firemen's quarters on the second floor of the city hall.

GREENWAY AS DELEGATE.

Coleraine Desires Him Sent to National Convention.

Coleraine, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Republicans of Coleraine delegates were chosen to the Republican county convention at Grand Rapids. John C. Greenway's name will be presented as a delegate to the congressional district convention at Pine City. His many friends, the supporters of Mr. Taft, wish to see Mr. Greenway one of the delegates from this district to the national convention.

Both Taft and Greenway are sons of "old Ell," and Mr. Greenway is a personal friend and one of the staunchest supporters of Theodore Roosevelt. Should he be elected a delegate to the national convention, Mr. Taft will have no stronger or more earnest worker than Greenway.

INHUMAN PARENTS.

Ely Couple Alleged to Have Ill-Treated Their Child.

Ely, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A hearing is being held today to determine whether Frank Kotzain and his wife should be punished for ill-treating their 5-year-old child. They were arrested at the instance of Humane Officer Kinsman, who aided by the chief of police, visited the Katzain home on complaint made by neighbors and finding conditions as represented, took them into custody.

On the officers' arrival at the house Mrs. Kotzain met them and on inquiry stated that two children playing in the room were the only ones they had. The officers thought they heard some one groaning in another room and searched the premises, finding a little child on the floor of a room in rags. He had several cuts on his head and face and numerous bruises and apparently he was half starved. The child was taken in charge by the humane officer and conveyed to the hospital. Mrs. George Helm took charge of the little one temporarily.

SELECT CLASS MOTTO.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senior class of the high school has selected this motto: "Before the Mighty, Where Will We Anchor?" The class colors decided upon are scarlet and gold.

It is probable that commencement exercises will be held June 12.

INSANE PATIENT FATALLY BURNED.

Akron, Ohio, April 10.—Antonio Pessoline, an insane tailor, set his clothes on fire in the padded cell of the county jail today and was burned so badly that he will die. In attempting to rescue him, Deputy Sheriff James Corey was seriously burned and several attendants received slight injuries. The jail, a modern stone structure, was damaged. The fire caused a panic among the prisoners who were locked in the jail, and added to the seriousness of the situation. Pessoline has been the terror of the police and sheriff.

ISELIN TO RACE THE VIGILANT THIS YEAR.

New York, April 1.—The old America's cup defender, Vigilant, will be put in commission this summer and raced by William E. Iselin.

Mr. Iselin bought the Vigilant last summer. The boat is elaborately furnished, and therefore much heavier than she was when she defeated Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie II, off Sandy Hook in 1893, but she is still fast. Though now rigged as a yawl, she retains a large mainsail, and has little less power than a sloop of the same size.

Whether Mr. Iselin will race her in the new handicap class or not he has not decided. Her presence at the many regattas would add much interest to the sport.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Latter Day Saints Continue Discussion of the Subject.

Kansas City, April 10.—When the conference of the reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints opened today the discussion upon the question of marriage and divorce was continued. One of the sensational fights upon the question made late yesterday was by Elder T. W. Chatburn, who said:

"Some marriages are worse than hell. There are many conditions to be in the married state which no set of laws can govern. To condemn a man to live forever in a condition worse than hell, is not right nor just on the part of the church. Unless we have a divine revelation, we should allow divorce on other than scriptural grounds."

FATALLY SHOT BY HIGHWAYMEN

City Marshal of Kent, Wash., Wounded in a Pistol Duel.

Kent, Wash., April 10.—City Marshal Harry Miller of Kent was fatally wounded in a pistol duel with five highwaymen last night. Night Marshal Charles Gulberson, who helped Marshal Miller in the fight, escaped unscratched.

Marshal Miller received word by telephone from Orelia that five armed highwaymen had held up and robbed Patrick O'Brien in the streets of that town, and that they probably would reach Kent within an hour. Marshal Miller and Guiberson started to intercept. They met the men, commanded them to halt and were answered by a fusilade of revolver shots.

In the first volley, Marshal Miller was shot in the right shoulder and the abdomen. Marshal Gulberson fired upon the highwaymen and they turned and ran.

Posses are in pursuit of the outlaws.

Sluggish Liver

makes life a burden, as thousands of suffering men and women know. Food does not do any good. There is on energy for business or pleasure. Headache, sleeplessness, yellow skin, coated tongue indicate that the liver is not doing its work and the bile is not being carried off.

Warner's Safe Cure

which is purely a vegetable compound, is an absolutely safe and permanent cure for all inflammatory and other diseases of the liver. It corrects the functional trouble by increasing the flow of bile into the bowels to a healthy standard and keeping it so. It removes all the waste material and obstructive agents within the circulation and structure of the liver, and by its tonic and purifying properties brings to a condition of perfect harmony all the important organs of the body.

In diseases of the liver, the bowels are usually constipated because the flow of bile is lessened. WARNER'S SAFE PILLS quickly relieve this condition and no ill after-effect is experienced.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is put up in two sizes and is sold by all druggists, or direct, at 50 CENTS and $1.00 A BOTTLE. Refuse substitutes containing harmful drugs which injure the system.

SAMPLE BOTTLE FREE. A sample bottle of WARNER'S SAFE CURE will be sent postpaid to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in Duluth Evening Herald.

CAUGHT IN WINTER GALE

legs in the boat, and he was able to walk with difficulty. He partly dragged the other two men to the cabin, one of them being by this time unconscious. For three hours they worked to restore life to their benumbed limbs.

The men showed no effects of their journey, but the incident is one that they will never forget. The fishermen returned to Grand Marais after the storm had abated, and Mr. Howard came to Duluth, arriving here yesterday.

are about to come up for trial. In others Judge Wallace, yesterday, refused to grant a change of venue to Judge E. E. Horterfield, whom the state supreme court recently declared could try the cases.

"What's the use of sending those cases over," Judge Wallace finally said, in reply to the arguments of the attorneys for the defendants. "We have no evidence to convict the actors, except those arrested during the last few weeks."

It appears that the grand jury that returned most of the early indictments neglected to secure witnesses to the alleged infraction of the Sunday closing law.

Notwithstanding the admission of the court, Judge Wallace declined to grant the change of venue, and told the attorney that he must have the defendants in court or their bonds would be forfeited. The bonds in the aggregate amount of many thousands of dollars.

When notified of this condition, Frank M. Lowe, one of the attorneys for the theatrical people, started for Jefferson City to apply to the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Wallace to transfer all the hteater cases to Judge Porterfield's division of the court.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION OF BAY STATE DECLINES TO SHOW PREFERENCE

by the present Republican administration, is a demonstration of their correctness."

"We urge on congress legislation in aid of our merchant marine, the prosperity of which is vital to the interests of this commonwealth.

No Preference Declared.

"A resolution declaring that the preference of the convention was for Mr. Taft for president was submitted to your committee. Upon consideration, we have unanimously agreed that it is unwise to include a resolution in favor of any particular candidate in the platform. A number of the committee are favorable to Mr. Taft's candidacy, and we all recognize that a majority of the delegates to the convention desire his nomination. It is, however, very uncertain whether a resolution of preference would be carried, and its presentation would certainly lead to a contest, which would be injurious to the welfare of the party. For these reasons, and because of their earnest desire for a harmonious convention, the minority members of the committee join with the majority in their decision not to present a resolution of preference."

The platform concludes by indorsing the administration of President Roosevelt.

TROUBLESOME STOMACHS.

So many digestive disorders afflict men and women now that a select prescription has been secured from a great Battle Creek specialist who offers it freely to those who cannot take sanitarium treatment. Its use for a few weeks is said to completely restore the digestive functions, increase the strength and cure nervousness, insomnia and all symptoms of a distressing nature due to such disorders. Mix those three ingredients together, shake well and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. One ounce compound essence Cardiol, two ounces essence of Pepsin and two ounces syrup of Ginger. One of our best-known druggists, to whom the above was submitted, states positively that a more effective and harmless prescription could not be filled by any one, and that it is familiarly known as the "Rockefeller Cure." Prominent, up-to-date druggists will get the ingredients from their jobber, although most of them keep them in stock.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FOR BETTER COLERAINE

Commercial Club of the Range Town Holds Interesting Meeting.

Beautifying Town One of Subjects That is Considered.

Coleraine, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Coleraine Commercial club held an important meeting Wednesday evening. John C. Greenway, general superintendent of the Oliver Iron Mining company and H. C. Dudley, president of the board of education were present. In the absence of George E. O'Connor, president of the club, J. A. Vandyke was elected temporary chairman.

The matter of suppressing the "blind pigs" in the boarding camps of the Canisteo district was vigorously discussed. While it is conceded that this method of dispensing liquors is an evil, it was shown from the discussion, that it is not a matter that can be easily handled. It was decided to appoint a special committee to secure a signed agreement from the saloon keepers that they do not sell liquors to the boarding camps provided the brewing companies would sign a like agreement. If this can be carried out it will have the effect of compelling all to take their drinks in the licensed saloon. It was suggested that possibly some important data for handling this difficult question might be obtained from the Anti-Saloon organization, which is now recognized as a great power in the control of illegal liquor selling.

The subject of paving Roosevelt avenue, laying sidewalks, and curbing, together with a modern street lighting system was also taken up. Mr. Greenway advocated paving with granetoid, a method that is being used in Gary, Ind. It is estimated that the cost of these improvements would not exceed $250 for each twenty-five foot business lot. A committee was appointed to consult the property owners as to what they would be willing to do in this matter and Mr. Greenway gave assurance, that if the committee received encouragement, he would see what the mining company would do to further this improvement.

Want New Depot.

A new railroad station is very much needed for Coleraine owing to the inconvenience of the present location and its inadequate accommodation for the needs of the growing town. The president and secretary of the Commercial club were instructed to write the Duluth, Missabe & Northern officials urging that some action be taken.

One of the most important subjects discussed was that of civic improvement. Coleraine has been generously supplied with parks and the beauty of its natural location on Trout lake is an incentive to the public spirited citizen to put the public streets, parks and the private residences in keeping with the natural beauty of the location. Mr. Greenway gave an inspiring talk urging all property owners and renters of company houses to put the premises in good condition, seeding the lawns, planting trees, shrubbery and flower gardens. He offered to contribute two-thirds of a substantial fund for prizes for the best kept premises providing the Commercial club would contribute from its funds one-third of the amount. This proposition was promptly accepted. Mr. Dudley, president of the board of education outlined what the board of education proposed to do in the matter in improving the school grounds. D. P. Greer gave an entertaining description of what had been accomplished by the Civic Improvement organization in Lake City. The president of the club was instructed to appoint a special standing committee on parks and civic improvement and also have charge of the awarding of prizes. Secretary McCullough announced that J. A. Vandyke would give an illustrated lecture with seventy-five to 100 beautifully colored slides showing what had been accomplished in the way of civic improvement in other places. He was directed by the club to prepare a circular letter announcing this lecture and mail the same to every resident of Coleraine. The Bovey Commercial club and the citizens of Bovey will be invited to attend this entertainment.

E. J. Anderson and H. Kreiger were elected members of the club. On the whole this was one of the best meetings ever held by the Commercial club.

No reason is known for the commission of the crime. The dead man is said to have been a brother-in-law of his slayer. The shooting took place in an Austrian saloon about 10 o'clock in the evening. The two men were standing at the bar taking a drink of liquor on the invitation of the murderer when Delick was shot down. The bullet entered the right cheek and striking the bone took a downward course and lodged in the back of the neck. The victim expired a few hours later. Ognjenovich immediately left the saloon and has not since been seen. It was two days after the shooting before the sheriff's office at Grand Rapids was notified. No reward has yet been offered for the apprehension of the man wanted.

SGONC TAKES APPEAL.

Chisholm Saloonkeeper Will Resist Paying $75 Fine.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Sgone, who was arrested for selling liquor without a license, had a hearing before Judge Freeman and was fined $75 and costs. Sgone was released on $150 bail, pending appeal. The defendant claims that he made application for a license three weeks before his license ran out, but he did not receive the license. The appeal will come up in Duluth at the next term of court.

VIRGINIA MUST WAIT.

All Vacancies in National Guard Have Been Filled.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the delay of the city council in acting on the petition submitted to it early in February, Virginia will not be able to boast a militia company this year at least, and for an indefinite time to come. As soon as the council passed the resolution at its meeting of last week granting use of the old fire department headquarters to the proposed militia company, G. V. Trimble, who has been active in promoting the enterprise, wrote to the adjutant general informing him of the action that had been taken. In reply, he received a letter from Adjutant General Fred B. Wood stating that the vacancies in the national guard had all been filled, the Eveleth company being the eighth and last to be mustered in this year.

VIRGINIA'S MAYOR CLAMPS DOWN LID

Orders Chief of Police to See That Law is Enforced.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following instructions given by Mayor Hawkinson, Chief of Police Walsh yesterday gave notice to all the saloonkeepers of Virginia to close their places, according to law, nights and Sundays.

This is a result of the agitation started by the "lid" advocates a few weeks ago. Mayor Hawkinson yesterday received a letter from Attorney General Young stating that complaint had been made to him that the saloon closing law was not being observed in Virginia and instructing the mayor to proceed forthwith to enforce the law.

Itasca County Attorney Wants to be District Judge.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Attorney Alfred L. Thwing of Grand Rapids has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of judge of the Fifteenth judicial district.

In a letter to a local paper Mr. Thwing says: "The size of the district, the desire of every candidate to extend his acquaintance over it as much as possible, and the time between now and the primaries which will necessarily be occupied with my present official duties, seem to justify this early announcement. While I am not at this time asking for assurances of support, I intend to make as vigorous a campaign as is consistent with the respect due the office."

SEASON'S FIRST BOAT.

Steamer Moore Stops at Two Harbors During Week.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Booth steamer, C. W. Moore, stopped here Wednesday on her way down the south shore, being the first boat of the season. Thursday, the gasoline freighter, Lizzie S, was towed through the ice out of the harbor by the tug Edna G. and started her season's work in the north shore service.

PULPWOOD SHIPPING IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conductor J. M. Hickox is relieving Conductor George Smith on the Virginia passenger train for a few days, the latter being on the sick list.

Owing to the practical completion of the tie and pulpwood shipments and the consequent reduction in business, commencing yesterday the local freight between here and Allen Junction and the extra train between here and Endion, have been discontinued. Business will be extremely light now until the ore season opens, which, at present, is indefinite.

AURORA SCHOOL NOTES.

Aurora, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Grace Tooey of Brainerd has been appointed to a position in the Aurora school for the coming year. She will have charge of the kindergarten room. Miss Mayne L. Wensteer of Minneapolis has been chosen as assistant teacher for the kindergarten. She will also do office work and act as substitute teacher.

Seven pupils have taken diphtheria in the kindergarten room of the Aurora school and Monday the room was closed and fumigated. There are some seven cases of the disease at present in the town. If is not thought the schools will have to be closed entirely.

MINING ACTIVE AROUND EVELETH

Day and Night Shift at 3 Fayal-Gilbert Dump Crews.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the No. 3 shaft of the Fayal mine, work is going on with day and night shifts, though the number of men in the latter crew is not as great as is usual. In the Fayal pit, neither the night nor day crews are working on account of the breakdown in the steam shovels. A number of the shovel-runners are seeking work elsewhere, as it is not known when they will have work again in the Fayal, because of the large amount of repairs necessary on the shovels.

At the Fayal laboratory, work is going on day and night preparing the newly built annex for the testing that will go on during the shipping season.

The dump crews at the Gilbert are working more steadily at the new Sparta location. The new No. 2 shaft at the Gilbert is gradually being put into working order. The class of laboring men at the Gilbert are of a better grade than in other range mines, as the mining captains there have had experience at other points, and try as much as possible to exclude the undesirables that are always prevalent.

At the Adams the steam shovels are working night and day, and there is a possibility of more shovels being put on at the mine in the near future.

WANT LID APPLIED.

Finnish Citizens Ask Chisholm Council to Enforce Law.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council at its first meeting since election received a petition signed by 311, mostly Finnish citizens, asking that the law in regard to closing of saloons be enforced, that the saloons be required to close at 11 p. m. week days and all day Sunday. Action on the petition went over. Chief of Police Dennis Madden, who has been a splendid officer, was reappointed. He was given the special privilege of appointing his own assistants.

C. J. Sullivan was again appointed superintendent of the water plant, at the former salary, with the privilege of hiring his own men.

Harry Austin retains the village attorneyship at a salary of $50 a month.

The matter of the appointment of fire chief was laid over till next meeting. A number of aspirants are up for the position, prominent among which are A. L. Bergeron, Mike Kealey and L. Roth.

The appointment of street commissioner was laid over.

The license for the saloon run by Louis McPike was revoked on his failing to comply with his previous agreement with the council.

WANT PAID DEPARTMENT.

Chisholm Firemen Make Request of Village Council.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out yesterday in the basement of the Virginia Brewing company's saloon on Lake street. The fire department responded promptly and, with the assistance of a chemical, soon had the fire extinguished. The damage was slight. The fire started in some manner in a pile of rubbish which was lying in the cellar.

The fire department will ask the council to install a fire engine and horses. They also want to have salaried firemen. It is expected that the council will grant the request. There is a large and commodious room for the firemen's quarters on the second floor of the city hall.

GREENWAY AS DELEGATE.

Coleraine Desires Him Sent to National Convention.

Coleraine, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Republicans of Coleraine delegates were chosen to the Republican county convention at Grand Rapids. John C. Greenway's name will be presented as a delegate to the congressional district convention at Pine City. His many friends, the supporters of Mr. Taft, wish to see Mr. Greenway one of the delegates from this district to the national convention.

Both Taft and Greenway are sons of "old Fill," and Mr. Greenway is a personal friend and one of the staunchest supporters of Theodore Roosevelt. Should he be elected a delegate to the national convention, Mr. Taft will have no stronger or more earnest worker than Greenway.

INHUMAN PARENTS.

Ely Couple Alleged to Have Ill-Treated Their Child.

Ely, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A hearing is being held today to determine whether Frank Kotzain and his wife should be punished for ill-treating their 5-year-old child. They were arrested at the instance of Humane Officer Klusman, who aided by the chief of police, visited the Katzain home on complaint made by neighbors and finding conditions as represented, took them into custody.

On the officers' arrival at the house Mrs. Kotzain met them and on inquiry stated that two children playing in the room were the only ones they had. The officers thought they heard some one groaning in another room and searched the premises, finding a little child on the floor of a room in rags. He had several cuts on his head and face and numerous bruises and apparently he was half starved. The child was taken in charge by the humane officer and conveyed to the hospital. Mrs. George Helm took charge of the little one temporarily.

STUNTZ DELEGATES.

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republican primaries to elect delegates to represent Stuntz township in the county convention, April 14, resulted in the choice of the following who, while not instructed, are known to favor Taft:

P. S. Brady, William Wearne, John A. Healy, Thomas Godfrey, R. S. Bernie, William Rayless and William Cappan.

TWO AUSTRIANS JAILED.

Aurora, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two Austrians got into trouble here Wednesday and are lying in jail awaiting trial. The trouble started by one of them stealing $10 from his chum and then knocking him into the mud. After a chase the thief was captured under the freight depot. The victim is being held as a witness.

John Gersich, Jr., received quite severe injuries Monday from falling from a guy wire attached to a telephone pole.

LAKE COUNTY REPUBLICANS.

Convention Held at Two Harbors and Delegates Chosen.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harmony marked the Lake county Republican convention here yesterday to select delegates to the state convention and the district convention. The same delegates will represent the Lake county Republicans in the two conventions as follows:

M. A. Aubolee, Peter Johnson, J. T. McPhee, B. F. Weatherbee, G. H. Hood, J. T. Paulson and Emil Nelson.

Taft and Roosevelt were indorsed.

Congressman J. Adam Bede was indorsed for renomination.

PROGRAM GOES OVER.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program that was to be given last night at the High School auditorium, by the Crescent club of the school, was postponed until next Wednesday evening on account of the number in the Star course that was given last night.

SELECT CLASS MOTTO.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senior class of the high school has selected this motto: "Before the Mighty, Where Will We Anchor?" The class colors decided upon are scarlet and gold.

It is probable that commencement exercises will be held June 12.

INSANE PATIENT FATALLY BURNED.

Akron, Ohio, April 10.—Antonio Possoline, an insane tailor, set his clothes on fire in the padded cell of the county jail today and was burned so badly that he will die. In attempting to rescue him, Deputy Sheriff James Corey was seriously burned and several attendants received slight injuries. The jail, a modern stone structure, was damaged. The fire caused a panic among the prisoners who were locked in the jail, and added to the seriousness of the situation. Possoline has been the terror of the police and sheriff.

ISELIN TO RACE THE VIGILANT THIS YEAR.

New York, April 1.—The old America's cup defender, Vigilant, will be put in commission this summer and raced by William E. Iselin.

Mr. Iselin bought the Vigilant last summer. The boat is elaborately furnished, and therefore much heavier than she was when she defeated Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie II, off Sandy Hook in 1893, but she is still fast. Though now rigged as a yawl, she retains a large mainsail, and has little less power than a sloop of the same size.

Whether Mr. Iselin will race her in the new handicap class or not he has not decided. Her presence at the many regattas would add much interest to the sport.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Latter Day Saints Continue Discussion of the Subject.

Kansas City, April 10.—When the conference of the reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints opened today the discussion upon the question of marriage and divorce was continued. One of the sensational fights upon the question made late yesterday was by Elder T. W. Chatburn, who said:

"Some marriages are worse than hell. There are many conditions to be in the married state which no set of laws can govern. To condemn a man to live forever in a condition worse than hell, is not right nor just on the part of the church. Unless we have a divine revelation, we should allow divorce on other than scriptural grounds."

FATALLY SHOT BY HIGHWAYMEN

City Marshal of Kent, Wash., Wounded in a Pistol Duel.

Kent, Wash., April 10.—City Marshal Harry Miller of Kent was fatally wounded in a pistol duel with five highwaymen last night. Night Marshal Charles Gulberson, who helped Marshal Miller in the fight, escaped unscratched.

Marshal Miller received word by telephone from Orelia that five armed highwaymen had held up and robbed Patrick O'Brien in the streets of that town, and that they probably would reach Kent within an hour. Marshal Miller and Guiberson started to intercept. They met the men, commanded them to halt and were answered by a fusillade of revolver shots.

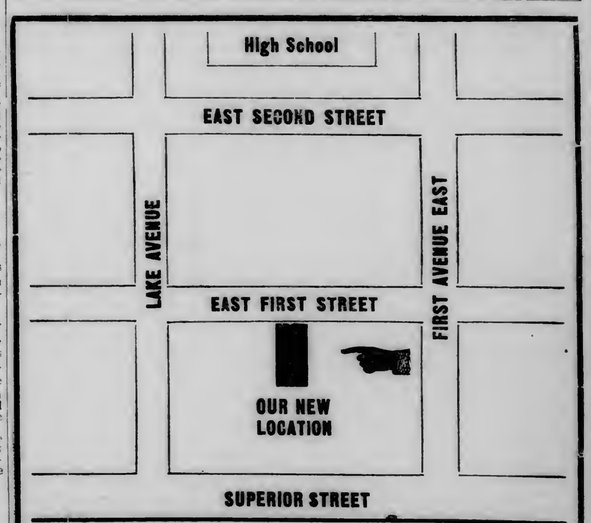

In the first volley, Marshal Miller was shot in the right shoulder and the abdomen. Marshal Gulberson fired upon the highwaymen and they turned and ran.

Posses are in pursuit of the outlaws.

EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Ky., April 10.—Secretary of Wart Taft is scheduled to arrive in Louisville at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Cincinnati. So great has been the demand for seats that the secretary will be asked to address an overflow meeting in front of Hopkins theater shortly after 8. The secretary will probably begin his principal address inside the theater.

TONE UP THE STOMACH

Get Rid of the Gas, Headaches and Dizziness.

A Michigan Man Tells How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured His Indigestion in the Only Rational Way.

The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a ravenous appetite, some loathe the sight of food. Often there is a feeling as of weight on the chest, a full feeling in the throat. Sometimes the gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headache is a frequent and distressing symptom.

Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will rouse it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment.

A very delicate stomach requires easily digested food but nature never intended that the food should be digested before it is eaten. The stomach must be strengthened to perform its own work and what it needs is not food already digested but a tonic. The processes of digestion are controlled by the blood and nerves, and medical science has produced no better digestive tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. A. J. Higley, whose farm is near Cassopolis, Mich., and whose mail address is R. F. D. No. 1, that city, was cured by these pills. He says:

"After suffering for several years with a weak stomach it became so bad about three years ago that I was unable to work. I could not eat without having intense pain in my stomach and bowels. Food would ferment in my stomach and the gas would nearly suffocate me. Sometimes I would have to vomit. I had sick headaches and dizzy spells, my eyes would become blurred and I could see black specks floating before them. My heart palpitated and I could not lie on my left side at all, and if I did at night when asleep it would wake me up. My arms were weak and seemed to be completely tired out and helpless. There were shooting pains in my legs, which sometimes were too weak to bear me up.

"The doctor did not help me, so when I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I made up my mind to try them. I felt so much better after taking the pills awhile that I bought some more and was entirely cured, after taking only a few boxes of them. I have been well and strong ever since and hope this statement will be of help to others."

While so promptly effective, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful stimulants or opiates. They are perfectly safe and create no drug habit. Every dyspeptic should read, "What to Eat and How to Eat," Write the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a free copy.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50.

RHODES' RAIL DREAM TRUE.

Cape-to-Cairo Project Assured of Ultimate Completion.

London, April 10.—Cecil Rhodes' great dream of a Cape-to-Cairo railway is pushing on toward realization. Negotiations have just been completed for the extension of the road from its present terminus at Broken Hill to Mabaya, on the Congo frontier. It has been arranged with a Belgian group to further continue the line northwest through the great copper belt to Ruwe.

Rhodes' idea was to have the line all British, but this, of course, is impossible. It will be necessary to traverse a great wedge of foreign territory south of the equator, including the French Congo, the Congo Free State and German East Africa. The gap between the Congo and Khartoum is not yet arranged for, but it can scarcely be doubted that the great enterprise will be carried through in the not distant future.

HOTEL ST. REGIS, NEW YORK

The Recognized Leader and the Standard for Comparison.

First of the twentieth century type of hotels to be built and now the recognized standard for comparison of all that is best and most desirable, not only in construction and equipment but in management, the St. Regis, New York, occupies a proud position among the greatest hotels of the world. It embodies the mature ideas of one of America's most noted hotel builders and is under a management which is satisfied with nothing short of perfection.

Under such conditions it is not to be wondered at that the St. Regis has become a favorite with travelers on both sides of the Atlantic who make it their home repeatedly. The rooms and suites are unusually large and well-furnished and have a charming outlook in all directions, and its restaurant ranks at the head of New York's famous dining establishments. Whether you visit New York often or seldom, the St. Regis is the hotel above all others where you will always get the best value for your expenditure and where you will always find congenial surroundings and meet the most desirable people. The restaurant charges being on the same standard scale, it costs no more to stay at the St. Regis than at other high-grade hotels. The price for a large, light and well-furnished room is but $4 a day, or with bath connected $5 ($6 for two people.) or a suite of parlor, bedroom and bath for $12.

FRESH FISH ABOUT DUE

Lake Superior Variety Will be on Market Next Week.

Strawberry Receipts Are Liberal and Prices Are Going Down.

Fresh Lake Superior fish, taken from the water only a few hours before, will be on the local market next week. Now that the north shore boats have started running, the fishermen will begin operations, although not on a very extensive scale, until all the ice has disappeared. There is danger of losing nets set now through the medium of floating ice fields. Most of the fish used up to the present time have been of the cold storage variety.

An especially fine assortment of shad, and shad roe, are now on the Duluth market. They are received in barrels from the East. These shad are in good demand, and sell at a good price. The roe from one fish is worth $1.25 at retail. Shad roe is considered a very fine dish.

Frog legs are also to be had in quantities. There is a demand for them in Duluth for about two months in the spring of the year, but after that there isn't much call for this dainty, although in the East they may be obtained all summer.

The price of strawberries is steadily going down. The price is unusually low for this season of the year, in fact, and the berries are of exceptionally fine quality. They retail at 11c and 12c for pint boxes. The fruit is arriving in carload lots, and there is a good demand for it. Most of the shipments are being received from Louisiana.

* * *

There is a good supply of all other fruits usually on the market at this time of the year. Banana shipments are free and regular, and the fruit is in good demand. The market is well supplied with California navel oranges, and other California varieties are ready to take the place of the navels as soon as the supply is exhausted. The lemon market is firm. The advent of warmer weather is likely to cause an increased demand and consequent increase in price. Prices for all fruits are considered reasonable.

* * *

The market is well supplied with almost all lines of green truck, and while the demand is brisk, there is enough green stuff to take care of it. Prices are rather high as yet. It will not be long now, however, before shipments will be arriving from points nearer home than at present, and then a lower scale of prices may be looked for.

* * *

Small boxes of new potatoes are arriving from the Southern districts, but the prices are out of reach of ordinary people. Pie plant is coming in in liberal quantities from neighboring states. The general potato market is weak, and the same may be said of the apple market.

* * *

Butter and eggs are holding firm. It naturally follows that the egg market will continue firm until after Easter. Butter receipts are light, and they will not be very heavy until after the grass begins to grow, giving the cows green pasturage.

* * *

Green cabbages are coming in from California and Texas. They are taking the place in the old, which are practically cleaned up.

* * *

There is a fair supply of poultry on the market, with a good demand. Hens are selling at retail at 15c and 16c a pound. The general run of meat prices remains about the same as last week. The prices look high to the purchaser, but the dealers say that circumstances are such as to demand them.

$15 Blue Serge Suits $15.

NO REDUCTION IN PRICE OF STEEL

No Changes Whatever Contemplated by the Steel Corporations.

New York, April 10.—No reduction of the price of steel is now contemplated, according to a statement made yesterday by E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Gary said:

"From all the information at hand, I do not hesitate to say that no reductions in the prices of steel are contemplated. Certainly that is our position. Of course, prices may be increased or decreased at any time if there is good reason. I do not think such a thing is possible, however, without due consideration or without previous information being given to all concerned, including customers. The mere fact that the demand is greater than the supply, that the necessities of the purchaser are great, does not justify an increase in price, nor does the fact that the demand is less than the supply furnish an argument for lowering the price. In neither case would the quantity bought or sold be more or less. What the manufacturers and purchasers both as a rule desire, is stability of price—the avoidance of violent and sudden fluctuations. The steel manufacturers are in close touch and they propose to continue these relations. They will not do anything that is contrary to the public welfare, but they will not be stampeded by irresponsible rumors. If the question of reducing or increasing prices shall be raised at any time during the next few months, there will be deliberate and orderly consideration."

APPLIES REED RULE.

Washington, April 10.—Three times yesterday in the house the Democrats caught the Republicans napping and forced them to produce a quorum. On one other occasion a vote by tellers disclosed the absence of a quorum, but Speaker Cannon peremptorily applied the Reed rule and declared a quorum to be present. In doing so he had a brief but lively clash with Mr. Williams.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY BILL PASSES SENATE.

Washington, April 10.—The employers' liability bill recently passed by the house was yesterday passed by the senate without amendment so that it is ready to go to the president for his approval.

The scope of the bill is limited to common carriers by railroad. The senate adjourned at 5:50 o'clock until Monday.

POUR LEAD IN HIS EARS

West Duluth Man Claims Wife Made This Threat.

John St. Antoine and Wife Had a Boxing Contest.

Claiming that his wife threatened to pour molten lead into his ears, while he slept, and also making the allegations that she has never been a dutiful or a loving wife, John St. Antoine of West Duluth today filed his answer in the divorce proceedings brought by his wife, Tillie St. Antoine.

St. Antoine is a mill worker, and has gained some little notoriety as a runner on ice, running against skaters.

The answer reveals many interesting little sidelights on the home life of the St. Antoines. It was evidently their custom to don boxing gloves at times, and spar for exercise. On Dec. 21, 1904, they were indulging in a little sparring contest, and St. Antoine evidently

In His Costume as a Sprinter.

"slipped one over" on his wife, forgetting in the heat of battle, that he had sworn to love and cherish her. In his answer, while he admits that he might have hit her harder than was necessary, he denies that it was with any malice.

On Dec. 29, 1904, Mrs. St. Antoine claims that he threw a book at her, but St. Antoine, in his answer, says that his wife was lying on the bed reading. In a spirit of playfulness he knocked the book out of her hand and its struck the bed and rebounded, striking her.

St. Antoine claims that after he had been hurt in a mill accident, his wife openly expressed the wish that he had been killed and had "made a good job of it."

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, mayor, Girard, Ala.

BOLOT WILL VISIT PARIS

Takes Little Daughter Back to Old Home to Live.

Will Return Again to Duluth After Two Months' Visit.

Henry Bolot, who was held for nearly two months at the county jail on the charge of having shot and killed Magloire Charbonneau, his landlord, and who was last week released from custody, there being not sufficient evidence against him to bring him to trial at this time, will this afternoon leave with his little daughter on the Omaha road for New York, where he will sail for Paris.

Bolot has advised with his attorney whom he told that he only intended to make a six weeks' trip and will return to Duluth after he has left his daughter with his parents in the old country.

As the indictment against Bolot has been dismissed County Attorney J. H. Norton has no reason for holding Bolot in Duluth unless he has him rearrested, and this Mr. Norton does not feel justified in doing, as Bolot had been held in jail since Feb. 8, until last week, when C. O. Baldwin, attorney for Bolot, insisted that his client be brought on for trial at the present term of the district court. Mr. Norton stated then that the state did not have enough evidence to warrant going on with the trial, so Bolot was released. This dismissal of the indictment does not bar the matter from being brought to the attention of a future grand jury if any important evidence should turn up later.

Bolot says that he intends to return to Duluth as soon as he has visited his parents and brothers. He has four brothers in Paris and he will see that his daughter is well established in her future home.

West Duluth Briefs.

Dr. S. S. Shannon returned this morning from a visit in the Twin Cities.

WEST END

TOOK A NAP.

Four Men Arrested for Sleeping in a Pullman Car

Four men took a nap in a Northern Pacific sleeping car yesterday, as it stood sidetracked in the West end. They were found by the porter, who was very much shocked when he saw their untidy persons soiling snowy sheets.

The men, who gave their names as Gust Strand, William Lee, Dan Houser and Walter Toners, refused to move at the demand of the porter, and the latter summoned the police. Detective Irvine and Lieut. Drennen soon had the quartet in tow. When arraigned in police court they were allowed to go under suspended sentence, with a warning to keep away from all such temptations in future.

THE CHEEKY PLAINFIELD COOK.

A Bucknell university professor was talking about David Jayne Hill, the successor in the Berlin embassy to Charlemagne Tower.

"Dr. Hill," he said, "impressed us here—you know he was our president for a number of years—no less with his wit than with his learning. He had thought and written on many subjects—psychology, rhetoric, socialism, finance—and to hear him discuss these subjects was a delight. I heard him take down one day an ultra-Socialistic student.

"'Young man,' he said, 'you and your extravagant friends remind me in your attitude toward capital, of a Plainfield cook's attitude toward her mistress. One Christmas time, when I lived at Plainfield, a lady sent her cook out to buy the Christmas turkey. But when the cook returned, she had two chickens.

"'Martha,' the lady said, 'I told you to get turkey, not chicken.'

"'I know, mum,' Martha answered, 'but I don't like turkey.'"

Tasty Easter fixings fill the many cases of the flourishing Columbia store to overflowing.

Shirts to adorn every man in Duluth, for here, and here alone, are the vast quantities from which every taste can be suited. Columbia Shirts FIT, which is another great point in their favor, and the quality is such that the truly economical buyer gets as much satisfactory wear out of a Columbia Shirt at the end of the season as he does when he first puts it on.

And the same argument holds true of our rich display of Neckwear, of our splendid array of fancy Vests, and of every other item of a gentleman's apparel.

SAYS IT IS BLACKMAIL

Jacob Kitz Claims Bergmans Are Attempting a Hold-up.

Defendant Alleges That Woman's Story is Absolutely False.

Jacob Kitz took the witness stand this morning to testify in his own behalf in the damage action brought against him by Mrs. Olga Bergman.

Mr. Kitz made an emphatic denial of the charges by Mrs. Bergman that he attempted to assault her and that he took improper liberties with her in the West hotel, which she and her husband rented from the defendant.

The defense is based on the claim of blackmail, pure and simple. Kitz denies that he ever attempted or thought of making love to Mrs. Bergman or molested her in any way. He claims that the Bergmans were angry at him because he put them out of his building on their failure to pay the rent and that they have attempted to get even by trumping up the charges made in the damage case.

The crowd of spectators grows larger at ever session, and S. R. O. sign was out this morning. There are very few local people attending the trial.

Kitz was being given a rigorous cross-examination by V. L. Power, Mrs. Bergman's attorney up to the noon recess.

REAL ESTATE AS AN INVESTMENT.

The Realty News Bureau of New York, discussing the real estate situation in this country today, points out a feature that may have already occurred to many of those interested in this important class of investments.

"Real estate is today," says the Realty News Bureau, "almost alone in its freedom from confiscatory attacks through national or state legislation, and its diversified ownership guarantees its future immunity."

While agreeing with the News Bureau in its view of the peculiar situation of real estate investments in that they are practically immune from the effects of agitation or legislation, its use of the word "confiscatory" to describe pending legislative measures affecting other classes of investments must be criticised. Practically all of these measures, excepting a few which are obviously ill-judged and therefore must be ineffective, seek simply to attain a reasonable control of corporations, not only for the protection of the public but for the protection of investors. Under the policy of unrestricted corporate exploitation, the watering of stock, the manipulation of industries by directors to the harm of stockholders, and kindred evils, have jarred the faith of investors at home and abroad. A policy of strict regulation and control which would guarantee that each share of stock stood for tangible and substantial property interests would confiscate nothing but "water," harm nothing but evil practices, and injure nobody but the high financiers who have dishonestly made fortunes out of too trusting investors.

But the point that real estate investments are free from all the disturbance attending the sudden adoption of a policy of regulation is a good one, and it cannot fail to bring about a general turn of the financial tide toward temptingly substantial and permanent investments in solid earth.

"Men of extensive knowledge in real estate matters," continues the News Bureau, "such as W. E. Harmon of New York, believe that conditions point to a world-wide real estate movement, which for many years to come will make large profits for all reasonably careful investors, and which in the end will lead to speculation in real estate that will carry it beyond the level of reason, and in all likelihood be a large factor in the precipitation of the next panic. The signs point strongly in that direction."

There is need of care in real estate investment as well as in stock speculation. Real estate cannot be watered, as stock can, but lots on sandbars and inaccessible heights may be misrepresented and sold to incautious investors.

Investors have been bitten in industrial, railroad and mining investments of all sorts—largely through their own impetuous eagerness to play somebody else's game, be it remembered—and when the revival of activity comes it is but natural that they should turn, for a change, to real estate.

And they'll find no better or more promising place to invest their money than in Duluth.

THE GOVERNOR AT SHILOH.

On Shiloh battlefield, where forty-six years ago one of the crucial contests that helped divide the Confederacy east and west was fought, and where brave Minnesota soldiers laid down their lives that government of the people, for the people, by the people might not perish from the earth, Governor Johnson of Minnesota spoke eloquently and feelingly today upon a matter of vital importance to the American people.

His theme was the Constitution, and his refrain dealt with the dangers that threaten it and the form of government it shields; dangers whose menace is more or less concealed by the fact that the tendencies which have created them have their rise in well-meant attempts to secure economic independence for the people.

Governor Johnson pointed out that encroachments of power are always stealthy, and therefore doubly dangerous since they work their havoc unsuspected. The assumption of centralized power by the federal executive and the federal judiciary menaces the independence of the states. It is not more power we need, declared the governor, but more equal distribution of privileges and opportunities.

While men may differ as to the importance of maintaining state powers in view of the importance of securing national action against national evils, there can be no question that the governor is everlastingly right when he says that the Constitution was made by the people and should be changed only by the people; not by insidious encroachments here and there, slowly undermining time-honored rights, and introducing greater evils than the encroachments attack.

SWISS DRINK REGULATIONS.

In view of the widespread demand for more strict regulation of the saloons, which in default of a better remedy is taking the form of a sweeping prohibition movement, a report of what Switzerland does, made by Consul Mansfield of Lucerne to the state department, will be of interest, particularly as the Swiss methods seem to be working out to general satisfaction.

In Switzerland the liquor laws are cantonal, each canton legislating as it thinks best. The general plan is to limit the number of saloons to about one for each 500 people, though in some parts the proportion is one for each 200, while in the rural districts the basis is often as high as one per thousand.

The license rates in the canton of Lucerne are comparatively high. Saloons are classified, the privilege of operating a bar in a first class hotel costing much more than for a small restaurant or beer hall. The minimum license is about $40 a year, and the maximum about $1,200 a year. Each municipality decides for itself the number of saloons it will license, and when the number prescribed has been reached no influence, political or financial, can secure an additional license.

The closing hour is generally 12 o'clock at night, and as a rule it is strictly observed, any violation of the law resulting in a forfeiture of the license.

There are no technicalities of the law governing the traffic whereby the holder of a license can avoid a strict compliance with its requirements. The limitation of the number of licenses issued encourages strict compliance with the law, as a bar privilege is considered valuable because of the fact that when the maximum number allotted to a community is reached, it is impossible to get another until one has been surrendered or forfeited.

All of the revenues from the saloon licenses are spent upon the public schools and the improvement of roads in the canton where the privilege is granted. Three-fourths goes to the schools and the balance to the roads.

"The drinking of alcoholic beverages is general, but not excessive," says Consul Mansfield, "among Swiss men, but not common among the women. There is little drunkenness in the country, particularly in German Switzerland, where the beverages most commonly consumed are beer, light wines and cider. One rarely sees an intoxicated person on the streets of Lucerne, and never a boisterously drunk one, unless it be in the tourist season, and then the bibulous individual invariably proves to be a foreigner." The discreet consul does not say so, but it very often happens that the too joyful tourist is an American.

"The net result of the liquor traffic in Switzerland," concludes the consul, "would seem to be that it is regulated so as to secure a large revenue, which is applied largely to a maintenance of public schools, and at the same time so restricted as to prevent any abuse of the privileges granted with a license to engage in the business."

TIME TO TALK IT OVER.

The struggle in the local building situation, begun last fall over the "open shop" and "closed shop" dispute, has not created much surface stir, but it has been annoying and costly to both sides, and to a certain extent to the city as well.

It seems probable that both sides should by this time have had enough of it to put them in the mood to get together and talk it over, with a view to seeing whether or not some agreement cannot be reached that will restore peace and activity without compelling either side to make a compromise that is deemed dishonorable.

There will be considerable building this spring, but if the labor dispute can be settled there will undoubtedly be much more than there will be if it is not settled.

Many of the workers who have been kept idle by the struggle are old residents of Duluth, men who own their own homes and who contribute not a little as enlightened citizens to the city's prosperity and progress. It is not pleasant to have idleness forced upon these men, nor is it good for the city.

It is not a situation that anybody likes, and surely everybody connected with it would be glad to see it ended. Short of a long pull to see which can be tired out quickest, the only way to end it is to try to end it by a spirit of broadminded getting together in the interests of all.

Certainly no harm could possibly be done if each side would appoint a broad-guaged committee, and if the two committees would meet to look the situation over carefully with a view to ascertaining if there is not some way that the fight can be ended with honor to both sides.

It is very seldom that a dispute becomes so serious that it cannot be settled by friendly discussion. Certainly the continuance of warfare has no tendency to settle anything except through the disagreeable method of extermination.

THE VIRTUES OF SUPERVISION.

Andrew Carnegie, in an article in the Century magazine, brings his testimony to the support of the policy of railroad and trust regulation, taken up by the president with the unqualified support of the masses of the people.

He says that the president has performed a great service in focussing the attention of the country upon certain crying evils, and that the present position of the government is all that could be desired. If he means to approve its attitude, Mr. Carnegie is correct; if he means that it has done all it should, he is mistaken.

"It was the custom for different rates to prevail," says Mr. Carnegie, "in the beginning of railroad development, when all was chaos, but our conditions are soon to be those which the old lands have been led by experience to establish. We are only following their example in supervising railroads and other corporations strictly, as we do national banks. Leases, mergers, purchases of shares, control of other lines or corporations, the issue of stocks and bonds, and the rates of freight, must all be reported, examined and approved by the tribunal which is to become our industrial supreme court.

"We may rest assured that the interstate commerce commission, progressing from year to year as it gains experience, will sustain fair rates for railroad companies and establish what is indispensable—equality of rates throughout the whole country. The equality of the shipper will soon become an axiom ranking with the equality of the citizen—one shipper's privilege over any railroad every shipper's right. Different rates per ton or per mile may prevail in different sections, or under different conditions, but these will be open to all."

Mr. Carnegie points out what is by no means the least important gain from supervision of corporations when he says that it will give to shareholders in corporations a degree of security hitherto unknown; that it will enhance the value of their investments, and prove as beneficial for the corporations as for the shareholders and the country. Capital, under these conditions, will be attracted more than ever to these fields, and that includes foreign as well as domestic capital. There can be no doubt that the knowledge that directors in this country often lose sight of their obligations to stockholders in the pursuit of their own selfish ends has tended to alarm foreign capital, as well as domestic capital. The knowledge that the government will insure a fair deal to both stockholders and public will re-establish confidence in these securities, and give them a more stable value than they have ever had.

"The ease and rapidity with which the commission was established," says the iron master, "which has already abolished demoralizing rebates and is rapidly giving to investments the security they possess in other lands by bringing them under supervision, is a grand triumph for our governmental system, and gives to all the assurance that no emergency can arise in our country that we cannot meet."

Congressmen don't seem to do any better for $7,500 a year than they did for $5,000.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"I honestly believe that the problem of the colored man is getting to be almost as great in the North as it is in the South," said Mr. R. T. Kingsmill at the Lenox yesterday. "Take for instance, Kansas City, which is a typical western city; Chicago, New York and Indianapolis. These are the cities that I know best personally. I suppose that there are others in which the conditions are just as bad. But in the cities I have named I can speak from actual observation.

"Now in the negro quarters of Kansas City there are streets upon which a white man is not safe after dark. A white man or woman is in actual danger of personal violence upon one of the streets where the tough element of negroes live.

"In Chicago, while they have not such a large negro population in proportion to the number of whites, they have streets where I would hate to be alone after dark. These are the streets where the blacks live and they are ready for almost any crime. In Indianapolis there are several streets where you are in constant danger of assault by the negroes. In New York the negro population is very bad in the negro section of the city, but they do not go as far as they do in the first three cities I have named.

"To my mind the problem is not in the vicious nature of negroes in isolated instances, such as I have named; rather it is in the growing numbers of colored people in the North and the decreasing ability of the authorities of law and order to control them. I have in mind several race riots in the North when I make this statement.

"I am a Northerner, born and bred. I have no respect for slavery, nor for some of the customs of the South in regard to the negroes. At the same time I am forced to admit that the Southerner understands the negro character more thoroughly than we in the North do. With this understanding they also gain in some way the respect of the colored people. I don't think that we can exactly say the same, up here in the North.

"I have traveled in the South and observed the difference in the attitudes of the southern and northern negro toward the white man. In the South the negro treats the white man as a superior; in the North they often treat us in a most insulting and brazen manner. They are not the old southern negroes. They are the negroes who have been born in the North and have combined with their freedom of action an impudence and insulting maner that at times makes their presence intolerable.

"But to me, the problem lies in the fact that in some of our cities the negroes are becoming a menace. Nowhere are they held in the restraint that they are in the South, and to furnish them with employment is daily becoming a great problem to the North, just as it is becoming a greater problem in the South.

"I believe that the race will have to work out its own destiny. I don't think white educators can solve the problem of the negro. But he is becoming a great and perplexing problem, and as yet no practical or feasible solution of the problem has been suggested. Colonization has been suggested. That will never do. The negro is here to stay. You will have to accept that idea. The next question is what are we going to do with him. I have taken a great deal of interest in this question, yet I must confess that it is just as perplexing to me today as when it first began to interest me. I can remember no practical solution of the race problem taat has been suggested. The South is not the only section of this country, however, that has to solve the problem of the colored man. We, in the North have a problem just as difficult."

The Maud Mullers of poetical fame are a thing of the past, thinks J. T. Rice at the McKay. Mr. Rice says that the maiden with the ankle of brown, because of old Sol's free and untrammeled play upon its bare and slender outline, has outlived the shoeless siege and now if the judge should happen to beat it from the busy confines of town upon a hot July or August afternoon, he would probably find the maiden not raking the meadow, sweet with the redolent odor of hay, but taking an afternoon's drive in her runabout or perhaps, better still, in a touring car.

John Greenleaf might have hit the type of farmer girl of his time, admits Mr. Rice, in his poem of immortal compliment to the charms of Miss Muller, but the type has passed out of existence. Now they wear the latest type of Trilby encasement, wear the latest clothes and are in every way the social equal of the city sister.

Mr. Rice accounts for this evolution of the rustic maidens by the fact that farmers in most of the states have been waxing prosperous. Their "women folks" have advanced with the increased flow of the shekel, until now they don't bid the slanting rays of the morning sun a reluctant good morning, as they go to the fields of dewey hay, but breakfast at a New York hour, telephone their girl friends on the neighboring section to come over for 5 o'clock tea, entertain their friends from the city and in every way enjoy the same pleasures that girls in the city do.

Mr. Rice hails from Iowa where farms are worth anywhere from $100 per acre up, so he can be forgiven for believing that the maidens of the rural districts have forgotten the gentle art of being a help to ma and pa around the place.

Yesterday a woman with three children in her arms and one bringing up the rear registered at the McKay, or rather, the clerk registered for her, as she found it difficult to write with her arms encumbered. The lady came from Champion, Mich. They say Roosevelt is very popular down Champion way.

THE WEATHER.

A brisk west wind brought a touch of chilliness this morning, but it was generally clear except for a few occasional clouds, and conditions were pleasant. Yesterday the temperature got up to 60 degs., which was doing well for early April, and last night's lowest was 41 degs. The weather man says it will be generally fair tonigit and tomorrow, but that it will be colder tonight, with freezing temperature.

A year ago today it was bright but cool.

The sun rose this morning at 5:29 and sets tonight at 6:49, making 13 hours and 20 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Western Canada storm center has advanced to Lake Superior. This disturbance, in connection with another over Mexico, caused rain in Ohio valley states, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Northern Texas and New Mexico, and rain or snow over Western North Dakota, Montana and Western Canada during the past twenty-four hours, besides higher temperatures in the lake region and central valleys. A rise in pressure throughout the Northwest, with highest barometer over Oregon, is attended by colder weather, the coldest being 20 degs. at Battleford. The easterly movement of this high pressure will be attended by colder weather in this locality tonight."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Fairmont Sentinel: If the politicians at Washington would cease their efforts to get together for the good of the party, and get together for the good of the people, some of them might be considered worthy to be called statesmen.

Stillwater Gazette: There's a rumor that George Stewart of St. Cloud, who is the law partner of Ripley Brewer, may become a candidate for attorney general on the Republican ticket. He is an able lawyer and a man held in high esteem by his friends and associates.

Austin Transcript: The country will have more confidence in the promises of tariff reform after there has been some sign of congressional performance.

Willmar Journal: The political columns of the Twin Cities' dailies show the effects of not having the country papers from which to find the trend of things throughout the state. Their guesses are most generally wrong and unreliable. The country papers are nearer the people and more familiar with their opinions.

Hinckley Enterprise: The Illinois Republicans declared for Cannon and "tariff revision." "Tariff revision" sounds nice, but "tariff reduction" without Cannon would make a noise that would be appreciated by more of the citizens of these United States.

Hawley Herald: John D. Rockefeller is quoted as saying that he never touched whisky. We are glad to hear it. He can throw the country into a spasm about every so often when sober, but think what he would be liable to do with a good old-fashioned jag on.

Pine River Sentinel: Those people who have stood pat on a revision of the tariff have stood so long they could not move if they wanted to.

Austin Transcript: It is estimated by the New York World that 1,000,000 people in the United States are out of employment. It is a pity that the farmers cannot get a large share of these to work at reasonable wages. They need them.

Hallock Enterprise: There is to be no pruning of the tariff unless grafting is allowed at the same time. A little pruning and a great deal of grafting is the idea of the friends of the tariff. They call this the non-partisan method.

Walker Pilot: Editor Hamilton of Aitkin evidently needs protection. Legislative honors are chasing him all over the district. It would be a good thing for the district if the office captures the capable editor of the Republican.

Verndale Sun: The citizens of Aitkin and surrounding territory are urging the candidacy of Editor Hamilton of the Republican for the legislature. It is a wise move and the modest pencil pusher should heed the call to duty. The sooner the offices of senator or representative get to seeking the man for honors, the sooner will our state hall representation be raised to a higher plane.

Prospective High Living.

Washington Post: It is asserted that two drinks of whisky in Denver will exhilarate a man as much as nine drinks at the altitude of any other city. Under such circumstances the Democratic delegates ought to find living cheap enough there next July.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Los Angeles Times (Rep.): One chapter from John A. Johnson's life is worth all the speeches that Bryan ever made, and yet the Democrat donkey will remain a donkey till the day it dies. The obsequies cannot be much longer postponed.

Middle River Pioneer: Now let the Democrats of Minnesota send a Johnson delegation to Denver as a fitting and deserved testimonial of their esteem of him, and after the convention unite with Governor Johnson in giving their hearty support to Mr. Bryan.

Anoka Free Press: Compare Roosevelt's and Taft's perilous activity in chasing after the presidential nomination with the modest, dignified attitude of Governor Johnson in response to the people's demand that he become a candidate for the same position. Then decide who is the worthier man.

Wabasha Herald: Governor Johnson is at least a receptive candidate. Minnesota's Democracy's line of action is now well defined. The man who was big enough to change Roosevelt's 100,000 majority to 70,000 for a Democrat governor of the party of the minority is big enough to receive any thing within the gift of the people of this state. No matter whether we are Bryan men or anti-Bryan men we should all unite on the proposition to give the state delegation to Governor John A. Johnson and to give it to him graciously.

Grand Rapids Independent: Governor Johnson scores another victory—the Duluth News Tribune is editorially knocking the governor in almost every issue.

Washington Herald: There is a general impression abroad that even if John A. Johnson doesn't get the Democratic nomination this time, he will keep without any artificial preservatives until next time.

New Ulm Review: Governor Johnson has made good in the gubernatorial chair and seems to possess the qualifications that should keep him clear of disaster in a higher position.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Will the Pioneer Press admit as much should fate favor the Minnesotan with a renomination for the one place or an elevation to the other?

Providence (R. I.) Journal: Probably the Republicans would prefer Mr. Bryan to Governor Johnson, because the former's weakness has been demonstrated on two occasions. Mr. Johnson might prove no more successful as a winner of votes, but he is a good public speaker, is credited with the gift of personal magnetism, and has made a successful record as governor; while Mr. Bryan has wearied the country by his persistent self-assertion in the face of failure. If he wishes to earn the good will of his party, he cannot do it in better fashion than by relinquishing all control of the organization to the extent of permitting and encouraging the nomination of a new and attractive candidate. Governor Johnson probably will do as well as anybody else that has been named.

Pittsburg Press: Johnson's strength is not limited to the boundaries of Minnesota. He is identified with the thrifty and in no small degree clannish Scandinavian race which today, almost unanimously Republican, holds the balance of power not only in Minnesota but in Wisconsin, the two Dakotas, and perhaps also in Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois. • • • Moreover, a friend of the people, but not rated as an enemy of property and law and order, as he showed when he set his foot down on disorders in connection with the Mesaba range strike, he is about the strongest Democrat in the country today. And that is why Mr. Bryan has shown such relentless hostility to him lately.

Washington Herald: Mr. Murphy of Tammany Hall makes haste to assure the public that it is Gray, and not Johnson, who will be favored by his organization's support. We rather suspected Governor Johnson wasn't that sort of political magnet.

Boston Post: The value of "straw ballots" depends upon how they are conducted. The Post has found in numerous trials that a straw ballot impartially and carefully conducted is extremely significant. This straw ballot as to the relative Bryan and Johnson sentiment in Boston was conducted from first to last with absolute fairness and only for the purpose of ascertaining the trend of opinion among Democrats in this city. The result indicated that among the voters of Boston there exists today no overwhelming demand for Mr. Brayn as the candidate. They showed a very large and apparently growing sentiment in favor of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota.

Half a Loaf.

Harper's Weekly: The negro's love of titles of whatever sort is amusingly illustrated by a story told by the governor of a Southern state.

It appears that the congregation of a colored church in Georgia conceived the notion that it would add greatly to their dignity if the pastor of the church were enabled to add the initials "D. D." to his name. A member, hearing of an institution in the North which would, for value received, confer such a degree, entered into correspondence with that end in view. Reply came to the effect that the sum of $5 would obtain the desired dignity.

A difficulty arose, however, in that the congregation were unable to raise more than $3. Finally, after much confabulation, the congregation delegated one of their number to see the thing out. Accordingly the following message was sent to the institution mentioned:

"Kindly forward our pastor one "D," we being unable to afford the other at this time."

Let Us Be Thankful.

Chicago Record-Herald: Another big coal strike! Well, let us be thankful that it is too late for the ice-cutters to inaugurate a walkout.

SUNNY GEMS.

Washington Star: "Son," remarked Uncle Eben, "don't worry about a few failures. Jes' look at de success wif which de fruit crop keeps comin' around every year."

Cleveland Leader: "And you call yourself honest? Huh!"

"Sir, I keep the commandments."

"That must be because you've got an idea that they belong to somebody else."

Philadelphia Ledger: Fashion had dictated the amputation of the whisker.

"Never," exclaimed the Populist, hastily convening. "Once shaved, we couldn't be distinguished from Bryan Democrats."

Baltimore American: "My son is exceedingly fond of trained animal exhibitions."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; he says he would go miles to see a good pony ballet."

Philadelphia Press: "Bridget," said Mrs. Grouchey, "I don't like the looks of that man who called to see you last night."

"Well, well," replied Bridget, "ain't it funny, ma'am? He said the same about you."

SPORTS OF THE DAY

KELLEYS IN FINE FORM

Lincoln Park Roller Polo Team Beaten in First Game.

Kelleys Play Second Half With Four Men, But Win.

The Kelley and Lincoln park roller polo teams mixed it up last night in the first game of a series for the championship of the Head of the Lakes, and the Kelleys came out on top. The score at the end of the first half was 1 to 0, and when the final whistle blew the Kelleys were in the lead by a score of 3 to 1.

The game was fiercely played and was witnessed by a large crowd. The Lincoln Parks came from the West end with a crowd of enthusiasts to cheer them on, while the Kelley supporters were out in force, taking up every available inch of space in the rink. Every good play was enthusiastically cheered, and the crowd was one of the noisiest ever gathered in the rink.

The defeat of the Lincolns was made more decisive by the fact that the Kelleys played the last half of the game with only four men. Just prior to the close of the first half Furni's skate went to the bad and he couldn't continue. The Lincolns were asked to drop a man to even the sides, but they refused to do so, and the second half was played with four men working against five. There was no stopping the championship rush of the Kelleys. They played all around their West end opponents and scored two goals more before the Lincolns could register. Toward the end of the game, the West end crowd managed to get one past Flynn, E. Olson netting the ball.

The teams will meet again tonight at the West end, and the game promises to be a cyclonic affair. The Lincolns have had undisputed sway in roller polo circles since the Northerns disbanded last fall, and their defeat last night goes hard against them. They will work like demons tonight to regain their prestige. If the Kelleys win tonight they will have the city championship, but if the Lincolns are victors, another game will be necessary, and it will be played next week.

The teams lined up as follows last night:

Kelleys.	Position.	Lincolns.
Flynn	goal	Nelson
Furni	cover	Peterson
Cummings	right rush	Swanstrom
McKenzie	left rush	A. Olson
Winters	center	E. Olson

Goals: McKenzie, Cummings, Winters and E. Olson.

Officials: Clayton, Garnish, referee; H. Grayshaw, timer.

LAST GAME OF SEASON

Regulars and League Stars Will Meet at Basketball.

Game Will be Test of Standard of League Play.

The basketball season of 1908 in Duluth will be brought to a close tonight at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium when the first team of the association will play a five of picked stars from the Basketball league. The game will be a test of the standard of basketball played in the league, and, as such, it will draw out a good crowd of enthusiasts, who have followed the fortunes of the league teams during the season.

Since the first team represented the whole association in games with outside teams, it is but natural to suppose that it is the best aggregation that could be gathered together in the association. The league has developed some fast men this season, however, and they think they are able to cope on equal terms with the first team. The men, who will make up the league team, are by no means the only stars in the league, but they are the best available at the present time, the team is well balanced and the boys are expected to work well together.

The first team has met several times for practice since the close of the regular season and is in good shape for the meeting with the All Stars. They are anxious not to lose their prestige and will work hard for a victory tonight. It will be a good game and one well worth seeing. Dr. Fahey will referee and A. J. Frey umpire. The teams will line up as follows:

Regulars.	Pos.	All Stars.
Fenton	f	Kilchli (Horak's)
Smith	f	Deighton (Deighton's)
Dinham	c	Haroldson (Horak's)
McLean	g	Downing (Horak's)
Skelton	g	Higgins (Noon)

S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural avenues of bodily waste have failed to carry off. This waste or refuse matter ferments and sours and generates uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism, with its torturing pains and aches, inflammation and other disagreeable symptoms, gets possession of the system. The aches and pains may be relieved and the inflammation temporarily reduced by the application of a good plaster, penetrating liniment or some other simple home remedy, but the disease can never be cured while the blood remains saturated with the irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. The cause should be driven from the blood before the trouble reaches the chronic or helpless stage. S. S. S., a purely vegeteble remedy, cures Rheumatism by thoroughly cleansing the blood of every particle of the uric acid poison, and making this vital fluid pure, fresh and health-sustaining. It filters out from the circulation the remotest particle of the poison, and when S. S. S. has renovated the blood, Rheumatism is thoroughly and permanently cured. FLAG RAISING AT WINNIPEG

Lamb is Looking for the Highest Pole to be Found.

Winnipeg, Man., April 10.—May 14 will be a notable occasion for Winnipeg fans. On that day the re-organized Northern league will be opened in the city, as well as at Brandon, and on account of the Maroons having grabbed the bunting which served as a shroud for the late Copper Country annex, there will be special doings out Happyland way.

As per usual, open carriages will convey club officials and the athletes, both the old favorites and the young hopefuls, through streets lined with the enthusing fanatics. At the ball yard, while the band plays cheery music, and the populace crowds around the championship flag will be hoisted to the top of a lengthy pole. It is intended to have the pennant unfurled in the corner of the lot, and club officials are now on the still hunt for the highest pole in the country. They want to place that rag up so high that nothing but the elements can touch it.

After the pleasing incident of celebrating last year's victories is over, Mayor Ashdown will hurl a brand new ball in the direction of the plate, the Duluth batsman will sheepishly grin, make a desperate swing and miss the pill by about a foot and the season will be on.

President Lamb intends making the rounds with Eddie Herr and the Maroon family on their training trip. He leaves on Saturday to attend to league business before joining the Hustlers at Quincy on April 22.

MATCH WITS IN THE RING

Packey McFarland and Britt Are Both Heady Fighters.

San Francisco, April 10.—After looking forward for a long time in anticipation of seeing Packey McFarland, the crack Chicago lightweight boxer, in action, the fight fans of the coast are about to have their curiosity as to his ability in the ring satisfied. The most talked about lightweight now before the public will meet Jimmy Britt at the Mission street arena Saturday and his status in the race for the lightweight championship will then be firmly fixed.

In the Middle West McFarland is considered a star of the first magnitude. Out here the followers of the ring go over his record with the air of a bookkeeper going over columns of figures. They display no feeling in the matter, but they feel that he must meet men of more class and prominence than he has in the past before his name can be bracketed with that of Joe Gans. McFarland has done all that has been asked of him, as is shown by his record in which he is credited with knocking out thirty-three men and secured the decision over nine others.

If his manager has been shrewd enough to steer him clear of the hard men in the class, that shows his ability as a handler of boxers. McFarland is only 20 years of age, and he has been fighting wour years. Of the men he has defeated, Benny Yanger is the only one of any prominence who has been seen in action here. He lasted only four rounds with McFarland last August. McFarland has beaten Kid Herman, Kid Goodman and Charley Nearly, and these are the only names of prominence in his list of victims.

Britt will prove a good trial horse for the Chicago man, and if he can get past him it will be hard to stop him. Britt showed in his fight with Nelson at Los Angeles that he has all his old cleverness. If there is a question of his having lost any stamina it is answered by saying that he was in a bad way in the sixth round and then recuperated and improved in the remaining rounds of the fight. Had Britt's vitality been impaired this would not have been possible, and once he was on the down grade he would not have been able to stop.

FOR BRITON.

Johnny Summers Knocks Out Soldier Burns in Thirteenth.

Baltimore, April 10.—Johnny Summers of England last night knocked out Soldier Burns of this city in the thirteenth round of what was scheduled to have been a 15-round fight, before the Eureka Athletic club. Summers outfought Burns throughout, the last-named, indeed, doing little fighting, but covering and holding constantly. He was unable to protect himself, however, and one of the results was a displaced rib. Burns would apparently have been glad to stop much earlier in the fight. Referee Jack McGuigan of Philadelphia worked hard and constantly at breaking clinches.

BOY BADLY INJURED.

Basketball Player is in Critical Condition at Bloomington.

Chicago, April 10.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Bloomington, Ill., says: Howard Treakle, aged 16, an athlete and student of the state normal university here, is in a critical condition from internal injuries received in a basketball game last Friday night. His home until recently was in Milwaukee.

PLAY CLOSE GAME.

Pennsy Defeats Vermont University by a Close Score.

Philadelphia, April 10.—The University of Pennsylvania defeated the University of Vermonth in an interesting game of baseball here yesterday. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
University of Vermont	2	3	5
University of Pennsylvania	3	3	2

Batteries: Hunt and Burrington; Simpson and Foter.

Yale Wins.

New Haven, Conn., April 10.—Yale defeated Tufts at baseball yesterday by a score of 9 to 1.

Players Released.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia American league team today released Outfielder Zamloch to the Reading Tri-State club and Pitcher Bills to the Scranton, N. Y., State league club.

FIRST WORD ABOUT PLANTS.

Botanist Forgot His Own Narrow Escape From Death.

Paris, April 10.—M. Arthur Clement, a botanist, residing in the Rue d'Allemagne, awoke with a start early the other morning and remembered that some of his most valuable plants had been left exposed to the wind and rain on the balcony.

Throwing on his dressing gown, he hastened out to bring the plants under shelter. He picked up four large flower pots, and was attempting to get back through the window, when he lost his balance and fell over the low railing of the balcony.

Down went the pots with a crash into the street, but not so the botanist. By a happy hazard the cord of his dressing gown caught the rail and he remained suspended in midair for several minutes, not daring to move. He was seen by some workmen, who got him down with the aid of a ladder. His first question on reaching the ground was about his plants, and on being told that one of them was destroyed, he fainted.

SIDEWALKS IN THE ALLEY

Rear of Second Street Lots to be Used for Flats.

In the petition which has been circulated by the property owners along Second alley, between Lake avenue and Fourth avenue west, for the paving of that alley, and which has been presented to the city council, though as yet no contract for the work has been awarded, there is an innovation from the general run of such petitions that have been presented.

The petition asks that besides the paving of the alley, that a cement sidewalk, two and one-half feet wide, on either side of the thoroughfare, be built, thus leaving fifteen feet for teams. This is so that property owners along the alley may use the rear portion of their lots for the erection of flats facing on the alley. This is said to be a new idea in Duluth.

TIRED OF THE GAME.

Col. De Lacy, Prominent Lawyer, Ends Life With Illuminating Gas.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 10.—Col. William De Lacy, a prominent lawyer, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling illuminating gas. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and served in the Civil war. The following statement written by him was found on his bureau:

"For the past two years I have moralized, contemplated and fully determined upon this course. I had thought nature or no this would have become exhausted, but I seem to have too much of the elements of nature. I am like the old gambler who simply got tired of the game and quit. Life is but a game, and I am tired of it and quit, so please spread the mantle of charity over me. I do this in a perfectly sane and sober moment, without knowledge or thought of where I am going. I had not thought of this world before I came into it, and I have no idea of the next. Theories count naught with me. I neither believe in transmigration, transubstantiation nor transfiguration. I am not orthodox. I believe in a creation and a Creator. But who He is, what He is, or where He is I know not, and I don't believe that anybody else does. He is too great for my humble mind to grasp. I humbly ask the forgiveness of those whom it may fall upon to look after my carcass and put it beneath the ground."

NEW YORK CITY TO SEND DELEGATION FOR HUGHES.

New York, April 10.—A practically solid Hughes delegation to Chicago was chosen in Greater New York last night. Of the eighteen congressional district conventions, thirteen instructed for Governor Hughes until he is nominated or until his name is withdrawn.

Two other delegations were instructed to work and vote for Hughes.

The Ninth district, Manhattan; the Seventh district, Brooklyn, and the Fourteenth district, Queens county, failed to instruct the delegates. The delegations uninstructed are claimed for Hughes, with the exception of the Fourteenth, where a resolution endorsing the governor's candidacy was voted down. In this portion of the city is the Aqueduct race track, and the opposition to the governor in the Fourteenth is credited to a disapproval of the governor's attitude in opposition to the race track gambling.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

COTTAGES RANSACKED

Vandals Break Into Several Summer Homes at Deerwood.

Owners Will Offer Reward for Capture of House-Breakers.

This spring several of the summer cottages at Deerwood, though barred and locked during the absence of their owners while the winter season is on, have been broken into and ransacked by unknown and lawless persons.

A number of Duluth and Superior people owning summer homes at Deerwood have been notified lately, by caretakers who have kept an eye on the cottagers' property while vacant, that their places have been entered and left in disorder by house breakers. What has been stolen, is not known as those from whom the information come, were not well enough acquainted with contents of the cottages, to say.

It has been the custom of people spending their summers at Deerwood to board up the windows and lock the doors of their cottages when the season closed in the fall, and leave them unprotected during the winter months except perhaps for some neighboring farmer who would visit them every once in awhile to see that all was well, and never before in the history of Deerwood, until this spring, had any of the cottages ever been molested.

The people whose cottages have been broken into are naturally very indignant, and have determined to club together and raise a purse which will be offered as a reward for any reliable information leading to the capture of the offenders. Same local miscreants are suspected and if caught will be punished according to law as an example to others, and a safeguard against like invasion in the future.

IS WITHOUT MAGNETISM

Remarkable Individuality of New Prime Minister of England.

Unprepossessing Presence, But Commands Admiration of Listeners.

London, April 10.—Herbert Henry Asquith, the new prime minister of England, is a shortish man with wavy, silver gray hair, loose-fitting clothes and a pallid, lawyer-like face, with a very straight mouth and very steady eyes. Mr. Asquith's incessant mental turmoil and his heavy burden of empire is never shown in his face. No feverish haste marks his footsteps as he enters the house of commons, he bears no sign of the nerve-trying day of work he has already completed in his department, in his private room, and in the cabinet chamber. He picks his way over the outstretched feet of ministers on the front bench with the slow precision of an idler. His hands are in his trouser pockets, his face is placid, slightly bored and his whole attitude that of the leisurely sauntever only faintly interested in the scene which his entry into the chamber has opened up for him. He drops with an indifferent air into the middle of the long line of ministers on the front bench and casually picks up the order paper of the day with the manner of a man who thinks he may as well see what is going on, though it does not interest him very much.

Lacks Personal Magnetism.

It is said that Mr. Asquith, lacking personal magnetism, is not a leader of men, and yet in these later days the advent of the cold-faced chancellor of the exechequer has acted in the way of a tonic on the crowded lines of his supporters, even in a good many of those who are not entirely satisfied as to his orthodoxy. They know that Mr. Asquith, with all his seeming placidity, can within thirty seconds turn himself into a dragon of furious action. They know that for all his indifference he will spring to battle with smashing blows the instant there is an opening. His icy preparedness for emergencies stirs the latent admiration of even his enemies.

Mr. Asquith is not an imposing figure except in action. His clothes never seem to fit him thoroughly—his trousers always appear rather baggy, his inevitable morning coat seems too small, and his waistcoat gives one the impression of being worn because it is comfortable. His clothes indicate him as a member not anxious to cut a distinguished figure, as one who is quite content to be among the rank and file of a large parliamentary army. Mr. Asquith rises to his feet. Then the personality of the man shines forth, and the most casual eye can see what makes him a power in the house of commons.

From his first dozen words it is apparent that though one may dislike him, it will be impossible to ignore him. His manner varies with the occasion. It is generally ruthless. He will brush political friends aside with the same rough verbal gesture that he uses to foes. He does not go out of his way to be conciliatory.

Differs From Bannerman.

He has not the genial manner and dry wit with which Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is wont to soften the asperities of parliamentary warfare. He has neither time nor patience for such things. The Mr. Asquith seated with bored face and lazy attitude on the treasury bench is not the Mr. Asquith who makes a fighting speech. Listlessness drops from him like a mantle as he rises to his feet and takes his place in front of the famous dispatch box to wound to the house a new and highly contentious piece of legislation. His pale face is slightly flushed, his shoulders go back a little, and his head adopts an aggressive poise. He is a picture of cold rectitude. In a deep, sonorous voice he opens with some well-balanced generalities. In three minutes he has reached the heart of his subject, holding the house silent with his lucid and direct explanations. Here is where he excels. It is hard to believe when listening to Mr. Asquith that legislative proposals can be complex or intricate. He has the power of making a child understand an act of parliament. He unfolds a budget like a fairy tale, and makes it seem almost as simple.

Scorns All Gestures.

Once in a while, without stopping his flow of words, he will adjust the glasses to his nose and glance at some figures on the papers before him. Then he will take them off, lay them carefully on the papers in front of him, step back six inches from the table, and go on as if he had never worn glasses in his life. Sometimes he will half turn towards a particular quarter of the house with a pungent sentence. Very rarely, he will bring his fist down with a smashing blow on the dispatch box, but, as a rule, he scorns gesture, relying on the inflexions of a deep and rolling voice.

Directly his speech is over he sinks back on the treasury bench with his old impassive air. When heavy blows are to be exchanged he is always in the forefront. He fears naught, cold, capable, and scornful, he carries admiration even where he fails to raise affection.

CANDY IS NOT BAD FOR TEETH

Dentist on Development and Maintenance of Good Teeth.

Boston, Mass., April 10.—In his lecture at the Harvard Medical school, Dr. Charles A. Brackett made it plain that eating confectionery is not particularly conducive to decay. He said that the evil of candy eating on the teeth is much exaggerated, a reasonable amount of sugar being needed in the system for production of heat, especially in cold weather and for hard working people. He commended the action of Queen Victoria in sending large quantities of chocolate to her soldiers in remote places, thereby affording them an element of diet that they needed.

That the teeth that last the longest are necessarily harder than those that decay soonest, he said, does not necessarily follow, and the reverse is often true, the real reason for decay of the teeth being acids in the mouth caused by debris of food that may rest there and become fermented by the micro-organisms that are always in the mouth.

Acids thus created, he said, disintegrate lime salts, and they attack and cause the hardest teeth to decay, if they can but find entrance to the body of the tooth, by means of some natural fissure in the enamel, which is often found in teeth of the very best quality. Hence, he argued, the only sure prevention of decay is the most perfect cleanliness of the mouth, particularly at night, when the opportunity for the microbes to carry on their disintegrating work is much longer than between meals in the daytime.

Dr. Brackett commended an idea of a Philadelphia dentist who takes a contract to preserve the teeth of his patients charging them a nominal sum to keep their teeth clean by means of a monthly scouring with pumice. So salutary is that simple treatment in their preservation that he voluntarily engages to repair without exera charge any evidences of decay that appear from time to time during his care of the teeth.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

TO BE HISTORICAL PARADE.

Austrian Emperor Yields to Tradesmen's and Artists' Requests.

Vienna, April 10.—Owing to the representations of Vienna tradesmen and artists, the emperor has reluctantly sanctioned a historical procession, which will be held in Vienna on June 15, in honor of his majesty's diamond jubilee. It was the emperor's earnest desire that the only form of national rejoicing in commemoration of his long reign would take the form of a fund for various national and local charities for children.

This announcement caused great discontent among the tradespeople and merchants, who realized that they would be deprived of handsome profits, if, instead of public festivities in Vienna, the money was devoted to charity. Influential men have been urging that the government make some concession to the people, and the emperor has at last approved of this street pageant.

Many Austrian noblemen will appear in costumes worn by famous ancestors who were victorious generals or distinguished statesmen, and these costumes will form a striking exhibition of national dress from mediaeval to modern times.

FOREIGNERS RECOGNIZED

Others Than Italians Are Appointed to High Offices by Vatican.

America is Only Important Country Not Officially Represented.

Rome, April 10.—The Vatican, through the pressure coming from nearly every quarter of the world, but more especially from Germany, has wakened up to the necessity of giving foreigners larger representation in the high positions of the church. After long discussion as to who should be sent to Munich as nuncio—one of the highest positions in papal diplomacy, as he has under him the whole of Germany—Father Fruehwirth was appointed. This satisfied the insistent claims of the German bishops, who last year sent a deputation to Rome, headed by Cardinal Kopp, archbishop of Cologne, to represent to the Vatican the necessity of their business being dealt with by ecclesiastics who not only knew their questions, but also were acquainted with their frame of mind and thought, with the characteristics of their race, and with their intellectual aspirations.

This attitude of the German clergy is typical of that of other countries. To the representations in this sense which now and then are received from America, the Vatican answered through one of its organs, that these complaints had no basis, alleging that there were plenty of strangers now in the high positions of the church, and citing the secretaryship of state intrusted to a Spaniard, Cardinal Merry del Val; the generalship of the Jesuits committed to a German, Father Wernz, and the nunciature of Munich bestowed upon another German.

Growth of American Church.

All this is true, but it is also true that the American Catholic church has in the last 100 years taken a really prodigious development, indeed without precedent in history, having passed from the one bishopric of Mgr. John Carroll, the founder of the American episcopate, assisted by thirty-three priests, and having in their care some 40,000 Catholics, to nearly 1,000 dioceses, with almost 12,000 priests and over 14,000,000 communicants. This immense body of laymen and ecclesiastics connected with Rome by religious interests which very often entail vital personal and economic questions, has not one single representative at the seat of their church, and the apostolic delegate in Washington, who is the connecting link between them and the Vatican, is and has always been an Italian, sometimes ignorant of the language, of the feelings, and of the manners and customs of the country.

Serious Lack at Rome.

The serious lack, however, is in Rome. It is there that the presence of an enlightened American ecclesiastic would be of great advantage to the just solution of the many questions interesting the church in the United States. As is known, all these problems are submitted to the congregation of the propaganda, where they are dealt with by an official, Mgr. Veccia, who does not speak English, and not only has never seen the United States, but has never gone outside Italy and even not very far from the palace of the propaganda. The ideal would be that an authoritative American ecclesiastic of superior mind and commanding general respect in his own country should be appointed cardinal of the curia, that is to say, a member of the sacred college, residing in Rome and belonging to the Roman congregation, where he would especially deal with American affairs, as the Spanish cardinal, Vivesy Tuto, does with Spanish questions, the French Cardinal Mathieu with French, and up to a few weeks ago Cardinal Fiselbauer with German and Austrian. The only race not represented is the Anglo-Saxon, but England has a veteran member of her hierarchy who has lived in Rome for over forty years in the person of Mgr. Edmund Stonor, archbishop of Trebizond, while America has no one who takes such a place in Rome. In fact, the only American ecclesiastics living in Rome are Mgr. Thomas Kennedy of Philadelphia, who is entirely absorbed in the affairs of the American college, the importance of which is now superior to any two other foreign colleges put together, and Mgr. Robert Seton, who has never interfered in any question between the Catholic church in the United States and the Vatican.

Factions Have Candidates.

There is a strong faction, which, at the Vatican, they call "old Catholics," favoring the election of Mgr. Farley of New York, or Mgr. Ryan, archbishop of Philadelphia, to the cardinalate on the ground that they represent two of the most important dioceses, and that both are veterans of the American episcopacy. Indeed, Archbishop Ryan is the dean among his colleagues, both with regard to his age, he being now 76, and with regard to his appointment, he having been nominated to the see of Philadelphia in June, 1884. Only Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco approaches him with regard to the length of his office, for he was placed at the head of the Catholic province of California on Dec. 28, 1884. Mgr. Farley, however, is more strongly supported on the ground that 1,500,000 Catholics are under his jurisdiction and that New York had the honor of having the first American cardinal and should again have this distinction.

The greatest opposition to the "old Catholics" comes from a party called in Rome "the Americans," which includes the clergy as well as laymen, and Catholics as well as Protestants, and proclaims that there is only one man who deserves the honor, and whose elevation would immensely strengthen the prestige of the Catholic church in America, Archbishop John Ireland. They point out he is almost a veteran of the episcopacy of the United States, being the oldest after Archbishop Ryan, and having been named archbishop of St. Paul, May 15, 1888, so he is only junior of Mgrs. Ryan and Riordan.

Some Want Young Men.

There is also a party of young Catholics who insist on the selection of a man relatively young in age, ideas and methods, but they are themselves not in accord about the same person. Some proclaim as the real man Mgr. Quigley, archbishop of Chicago, who is 53, and was appointed in January, 1903, to the see which contains as many Catholics as that of New York. Others favor Mgr. Glennon, who has been archbishop of St. Louis since October, 1903, and is the youngest archbishop in America, being only 45 years old. Finally, another section favors Mgr. William O'Connell, who is 47 years old and has recently succeeded Archbishop Williams of Boston, being therefore the junior to all in his office.

MAKES BULLET-PROOF COAT.

Mail Invented by Russian is Invulnerable Against Mausers.

St. Petersburg, April 10.—Interesting experiments have taken place in St. Petersburg with a bullet-proof coat of mail, invented by Col. Chemerzin, which effectually protects the body from Mauser bullets fired two paces off, flattening the bullet into a mushroomshaped piece of metal, but retaining it under the tissue of the covering. The coat of mail is scaly, but the composition of the metal, which includes platinum, silver and iridium, is the inventor's secret. The composite metal is three and a half times harder than steel, and a layer half a millimeter thick keeps out a Mauser bullet fired three paces off, and hinders any contusion. The price of a coat of mail weighing five pounds, protecting the chest and back, will be considerable.

CAUSE OF SLEEPING ILLNESS.

Expert Says Blood-Sucking African Fly Does It.

London, April 10.—The second International Sleeping Sickness conference, which has just terminated in London, was not able to agree on the draft convention before it. The French and Italian delegates declared themselves unable to accept the British proposal to establish a central bureau in London. They asked that Paris should be selected, but this was opposed by the German delegates, who supported the British proposal. Dr. Koch, the famous bacteriologist, was one of the principal delegates to the Sleeping Sickness conference.

"The disease is due to a fly which exists in the virgin districts of Africa," said Dr. Koch, "and the special insect has peculiarities about its life which make it difficult to deal with.

"The fly is a bloodsucker, and I found that where there are no human beings it lives upon the crocodile. My examinations showed that crocodile blood was its main diet, and therefore I suggest that with the destruction of the crocodile you will destroy the fly also. The crocodiles could be greatly lessened in number, if not entirely destroyed, by collecting their eggs, and some means will be taken in time through international action to do this."

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN, April 7th, 1908.

Twin City & Lake Superior Railway Co.,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Gentlemen:—

I cannot at this time allow the opportunity to pass to congratulate you on the magnificent endorsement you are receiving from the press and prominent business men for your enterprise and upon the clean presentation of the subject to the public in the advertisement of your fiscal agency in the Twin City press, Sunday last.

My large investments in Burnett County, through which your road passes, make me become interested in your proposition early and to follow the progress of your work closely, so that I am more than gratified that my high opinion of your project and the company's management is so fully sustained by the public accountant's report to the Minneapolis Journal, and this not alone on account of my personal investments, but in addition because I want to see the completion and operation of this road for the immense benefits that will accrue to Minneapolis in advancing the development and increasing the productive power of the splendid territory traversed by your lines between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes.

My personal holdings give me an intimate personal knowledge of a large portion of the comparatively new country that you are developing and I predict, that within five years, Minneapolis business interests will credit the Twin City & Lake Superior Electric Line with being one of the best business feeders entering the city.

I regret that so few days remain under the fiscal agency's offering of the stock at $44.00, as I should like to have time to bring the attention of some of my personal friends to the profit possibilities of this investment. I shall do this to every extent possible, but realize that the time is too short to see many personally. However, if anything in this letter will be of any service to you, or the fact that I am going to increase my personal holdings as much as I can before the $44.00 option expires, will give the endorsement any added weight, you are privileged to use my name and reference as fully and freely as you desire.

Very truly yours,
C. H. KOHLER.

AMERICAN PAINTINGS

Annual Exhibition Held by American Woman Artists in Paris.

Several Pictures That Have Attracted Considerable Attention.

Paris, April 10.—Women in France have recently been making their mark as conscientious and capable art students. American artists are now holding their annual exhibition here, and to this, their fourteenth show, they have sent in works of more than average merit. Some of these American women students who have elected domicile in Paris to study art, are keeping back their more ambitious efforts for submission to the hanging committee of the spring salons. The majority, however, have evidently sent of their best to this minor show. Among the pictures a view, a very pleasing work by Miss Marie Cronin, is called "Quand Maman est Sortie." The painting presents a mite of a child, who, while her mother is absent, is dressing herself in fine things taken from the maternal wardrobe. This is a picture of more than average merit, and the coloring of a right yellow dress is marvelously fresh.

A couple of excellent exhibits are "Children's Luncheon" and "Boy Drinking," from the brush of Miss MacLane Johansen, whose works have frequently been admired at the spring salon. She has a very felicitous touch in dealing with childhood and its ways. Miss Ball's picture depicting a coster-monger's barrow standing in the street on a bright, sunny morning is remarkably successful for its sunlight effects. "A Windy Day in Paris—Place," by Miss Ellen Stuart, though small, is an excellent contribution to the show. Landscapes are rather scarce this year. One of the best in view is Miss Watkin's "Village in Brittany." Altogether this little display of American women's work is distinctly good, and indicates on the part of many of the contributors a decidedly artistic temperament.

New Photographic Method.

Prof. Lippman, a French savant, has discovered a method for photographing pictures in relief. He has been devoting his attention to the matter for more than two years, and has now hit upon a method which he believes will be successful. The idea, he says, came to him in connection with his observations on the eyes of insects, which consist of a number of cells, each of which is equivalent to a photographic camera. By covering a sensitive plate with a certain pigment, Indian ink, for example, the surface is divided up into an indefinite number of tiny cells, each of which receives its portion of the negative image, which is raised or lowered according to the impression received. The result is, therefore, that the millions of cells, more or less indented, represent a portrait or a landscape in relief. His observations on this subject are not yet completed, but he believes that the method will open a new field to photography.

Due to a Letter.

An anonymous letter has been the cause of a tragic suicide in Lyons, where a well-known merchant, married about a year ago, suddenly fell into a condition of deep depression and shot himself dead. Among his papers his wife discovered an anonymous typewritten letter containing the following words: "Your wife is unfaithful to you." The following note in her husband's writing was written across the ananymous letter: "I received this letter an Feb. 3 and since then I have done my utmost to try to forget it. I do not believe one word of the infamous message, and wish I could discover the writer so that I might slay him. But the continual thought of this letter has become such an obsession to me that I feel sooner or later, unless I can discover the writer, I shall kill myself." The widow, who is a woman of the highest reputation, has received such a shock from the discovery of the cause of her husband's death that fears are entertained for her reason.

Peculiar Strike.

Paris is threatened with a novel sort of strike. The men known as "croque morts" are murmuring because, they say, they are poorly paid and have too much to do, as they only get 5 francs for two days' service and an additional franc when they are sent out on an extra errand. About a fortnight ago some of them flatly refused to lay corpses in their coffins after the usual day's work was over, and the fact that outsiders were called in to assist has not tended to allay the incipient agitation. One of them has just explained that the administration of the pompes funebres often requisition the men when their work is over at 6 p. m. between that hour and midnight, giving them a mere trifle in return, adding that this alleged abuse has greatly increased owing to the number of suicides. It really looks as if the "croque morts" will go on strike unless they can obtain satisfaction. They have explanatory placards all ready to post up, and they are resolute.

An Intelligent Dog.

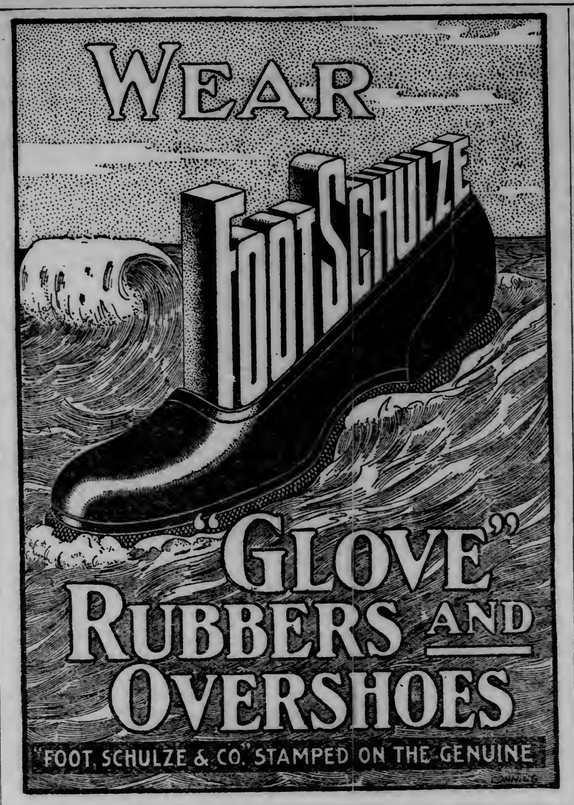

There is at least one dog owner in Paris who can boast that the tricks he has taught his dog are useful ones, and he is the keeper of a wine and tobacco shop in the Rue Gallilee. His dog, Dick, a kind of fox terrier, has been taught to carry wine and messages and to distribute newspapers to customers. According to his owner, the dog displays marvelous intelligence and love of work. Early every morning Dick goes up to the fifth floor to wake the servants, then he waits to have a bundle of newspapers strapped to his back, which he carries to each subscriber, and during the day he delivers wine, which is also strapped to his back in bottles, to any customer with whose name and address he has before been made acquainted. He thus goes as far as a quarter of a mile on various errands, and after punctually carrying them out returns to his master, delighted to get a cake or a piece of sugar as his reward.

Old Captain Gone.

Capt. Lazare Paxe, the last survivor of the crew of the Belle Poule, the ship which in 1818 brought the remains of Napoleon back to France from St. Helena, has just died at Toulon. He was 19 years of age at the time of the famous voyage of the Belle Poule, and afterwards rose to the rank of captain in the merchant marine, and had retired years ago, when he went to reside at Toulon.

Awoke at His Funeral.

Jean Maturin, who was thought dead, was about to be buried at Oran the other day, when he suddenly woke and enlivened the mourners by uttering all sorts of threats against the undertaker. Before the law, however, he is a dead man, and has to make an application to be resuscitated.

employed in the Thorberg prison "to reclaim the prisoners" a Gilbertian state of affairs was discovered to exist. The warden, it was found, often took the convicts for a walk to the village of Wasen, nearby, where all entered the cafes, played bowls and cards, and each man ordered his drinks, the prisoners often "treating" their wardens. In this penal paradise the well-behaved prisoners were permitted now and then to visit Wasen alone in the afternoon and return to prison at night.

The Thorberg prison has become the laughing stock of the country.

He Got What He Needed.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. C. Farthing of Mill Creek, Ind. Ter. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters, and I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

HOW LONDON GETS ITS TIME

Woman Paid Fees by the Big Watch and Clockmakers.

London, April 10.—London, which is so near to Greenwich, does not get its official time from that famous observatory, but from a woman. Practically every big watch and clockmaker in this city pays her a fee once a week to learn the right time. And oddly enough, this regulating of the watches of London has been a business of this woman's family for more than seventy years.

It seems that the father of the present human timepiece was a Mr. Bellville, who, in 1835, was assistant to the astronomer royal. He hit upon the bright idea of taking around to the principal London watchmakers a corrected chronometer. In this way he soon built up an income of about $2,500 a year. When he died in 1856, his widow received the privilege of having her chronometer corrected at Greenwich whenever she liked and peddled the time until 1892, when she reached the advanced age of 82 and retired.

This right to a monopoly of the absolutely correct time did not leave the Bellville family with the retirement of the old woman, however, for her daughter succeeded to the lucrative job. Every Monday morning she goes from her home in Maidenhead on the Thames to the royal observatory at Greenwich, where she receives from the keeper an official document saying that her chronometer differs from mean time by so and so many seconds and tenths of seconds. Such a favor is granted to no other person and armed with this exclusive credential Miss Bellville sallies forth to correct the timepieces of the world.

She has about forty customers in London, scattered all over the city. To each she repairs in turn and permits them to correct their time in accordance with that of her chronometer and the official document. From theso forty customers of this woman the rest of London gets its ideas of time.

It is no ordinary chronometer that Miss Bellville carries about with her. It was made in 1835 by Arnold, one of the most famous watchmakers that ever lived, for the duke of Sussex, a son of George III. After possessing it a short time the noble owner discarded it because it was too clumsy, and Mr. Bellville bought it at a fancy price. It was originally in a gold case, but the assistant to the astronomer royal had a silver one substituted, hoping that its unpretentious appearance would be less likely to excite the cupidity of the rough characters in the shady parts of old London, where his business often took him.

NEVER SHAVES OR CUTS HAIR

This Man Will Shun Barbers Until Bryan is Elected.

Kansas City, Mo., April 10.—If W. J. Bryan is elected president of the United States this year "Uncle" Thomas Benton Robertson of Macon, Mo., immediately will hike to a barber shop for a shave and a hair cut. Then he will draw on a Quincy bank for $100 which has been lying there to his credit conditional upon a Democrat's election since the year 1896.

When Mr. Robertson read Bryan's "cross of gold" speech that stampeded the Democratic convention at Chicago in 1896, he threw his hat in the air and shouted "Glory!" His cousin, Charles Winfield of Quincy, Ill., suggested that there might be a slip between the cup and the Nebraskan's lips.

"Don't you believe it!" said Robertson. "That man's going to be president. I'm so sure of it that I will agree here and now never again to shave or cut my hair until he or some other Democrat is president."

"Pshaw!" said Winfield, "you're only talking, but I'll tell you what I'll do. If you keep that pledge I'll give you $200 the day a Democrat is elected and will deposit $100 to your credit at Quincy."

Robertson was 50 years of age then and was a tall fine looking man. He was more than ordinarily careful about his personal appearance and Winfield didn't think he would run the risk of becoming an oddity. But the Bryan admirer accepted the challenge and has kept his compact faithfully through all the defeats of the "inspired son."

Allowing one shave a week at 10 cents per, and eight haircuts a year, Mr. Robertson figures he is $86.40 to the good for the twelve years, but confesses he would greatly enjoy the luxury of lifting the boycott against the barbers. He keeps his hair from making him conspicuous by wearing it plaited on top of his head. His widowed daughter, with whom he lives, earns 50 cents a week for attending to this feature of his "make ready." The hair has grown out long and bright, like fine silken threads, and glistens over the patriot's head like a silver sheen.

Mr. Robertson was born near Quincy, Ill., in 1840. His parents moved to Missouri two years later and settled in Knox county. Since 1858 he has been the owner and operator of a portable sawmill, and is in that business now. To distinguish him from the various other Robertsons in the vicinity his friends and neighbors call him "Sawmill" Robertson.

"If you get this story up right and don't stretch it too bad," said Mr. Robertson, "I'm going to send Mr. Bryan a copy of the paper, and ask him if it ain't about time I cut my hair. I'm going to put it directly up to him."

MEMORIAL TO SHAKESPEARE

Great Divergence of Opinion as to Its Character.

London, April 10.—Judging by the story of controversy which has been aroused by the mere suggestion that a monument to Shakespeare should be erected in London there seems little likelihood that the worthy men who proposed that $500,000 should be raised for that purpose will ever succeed in collecting anything like that amount. When the leading lights of the literary and dramatic world exhibit such a divergence of opinion as to what would constitute most appropriate memorial to the immortal bard, the general public will eagerly grasp the excuse afforded for declining to shell out anything.

Thus far the scheme has evoked much more enthusiastic opposition than support. William Archer, the pundit of British dramatic critics, has come out flatfooted against it. "It is absurd," he says, "to raise an inert and lifeless monument to Shakespeare while he lacks the living monument of a national theater where his works might be worthily presented." Furthermore, he does not believe an English sculptor could be found capable of doing justice to Shakespeare in marble. Sir John Hare favors a national theater and considers the proposed memorial "inadequate, undignified and absurd." Pinero sneers at a "heap of stationary." H. C. Carton is opposed to founding a national theater, "either in memory of Shakespeare or anybody else." He is for the statue. Arthur Symons, on the other hand, is of the opinion that a statue would be a "public desecration to the memory of one whose work is already his sufficient monument." Sir Theodore Martin thinks we have theaters enough already and wants a statue. Zangwill says, "Nothing is worthy of Shakespeare except a national theater." Sir Charles Wyndham, who ought to know, says that a national theater would cost too much and would prove unsatisfactory because it would be unable to command the services of the best artists, owing to their strongly developed commercial instincts. Alfred Austin, the poet laureate, has invoked his feeble muse against the memorial scheme. He says:

Rear pedestals to perishable stuff,
Gods for themselves are monument enough.

That first line may be used hereafter as a plea for putting a marble Austin on a pedestal some day. But, anyhow, he is dead against doing anything in marble for Shakespeare.

MINISTER AND FLOCK SWOON.

Gas From Stove Nearly Asphyxiates Entire Congregation.

Berlin, April 10.—An extraordinary scene was witnessed recently in an evangelical church at Markranstadt, near Leipzig. During the service the entire congregation was attacked by irresistable faintness. The minister sank unconscious before the altar, the organist fell over from his seat, and the choir-boys collapsed in a body. In the nave of the church the narcotic influence was not so overpowering, and fortunately sufficient persons retained consciousness to render the necessary assistance to those who had swooned away. A few of the choir-boys had enough strength to stagger into the open air as soon as it was realized that something was amiss, but seventeen had to be carried out. It was subsequently discovered that the soporific agency was the fumes from a defective coke stove with which the building was heated.

IS HAUNTED BY DEFICIT

Henry Sydow Chosen by Kaiser to Reorganize German Finances.

First Task is to Discover Fresh Sources of Revenue.

Berlin, April 10.—Herr Reinhold Sydow, late under secretary of the post-office department, is the Moses whom the kaiser has finally selected to lead imperial Germany out of financial gloom. The particular auspices under which the new chancellor of the exchequer enters office have given him the title of minister for new taxes, for his immediate task is to discover fresh sources of revenue to meet Germany's vaulting national expenses—primarily military and naval budget, which in this year of peace, 1908, attain the stately total of $297,250,000.

Just how thankless Herr Sydow's burden is may be gathered from the fact that the kaiser sought unsuccessfully for weeks for a man willing to shoulder the responsibility of putting the fatherland's financial house in order. A dozen bankers and finance ministers of federal states declined the honor. Herr Dernburg, colonial secretary, a banker by profession, with a reputation for salving financial wrecks, is understood to have been among those who rejected the proffered portfolio.

Veteran in Service.

Herr Sydow is 57 years old, and has been in the government service for nearly half his life. He has been an judge, a postoffice department chief, and latterly director of the imperial telegraph and telephone service. His friends describe him as industrious, non-bureaucratic and forceful; but the really moving reason for his appointment to the deficit-haunted treasury is believed to be his oratorical ability and supposed power to charm the refractory reichstag with new taxation schemes. Baron von Stengel, his ill-starred Bavarian predecessor, lacked both ingenuity for devising effective financial reforms and the capacity to advocate them effectively in parliament. What Herr Sydow has up his sleeve in the way of budget panaceas the country awaits with bated breath and mixed emotions.

The new finance minister faces a deficit in the 1908 estimates of $65,000,000, which it is proposed to cover by the time-tried but profligate method of a loan. Alchemist-like, he is to find ways and means for financing widows' and orphans' insurance, increases of teachers' salaries, and other prosaic internal requirements; but his noblest duty is to "reorganize" German imperial finance so that it will be equal to the demands of the kaiser's new navy. That provision of naval wherewithal is Germany's paramount financial issue is admitted even by militant military men like Gen. Liebert, who declares that army budgets must be limited to absolute necessities until Germany marshals "a war fleet powerful enough to dominate the sea."

Naval Program Responsible.

Largely responsible for the deficit which accompanies Herr Sydow into office is the reconstruction of the German naval program of 1906, which provides for expenditure in 1908 of $84,750,000, an increase of $13,000,000 on the figures of two years ago, and for the ensuing years up to 1917 the average annual expenditure will be $104,250,000.

German economists frankly describe the financial condition of the empire as a "maze," made more hopeless and perplexing from year to year by piling fresh millions on the naitonal debt by way of loans.

The imperial budget has risen from $368,825,000 in 1903 to $687,500,000 in 1908. Military and naval budgets have increased during the same period over $50,000,000. The imperial debt has advanced from $550,000,000 in 1895 to over $1,000,000,000 in 1908. The total national debts of the various federal states, the real German public debt as distinguished from the imperial debt, is over $3,750,000,000. But against this debt are assets of great value to be set in the shape of the railways, which fully earn the interest on the debt.

Big Contributions Demanded.

Evidence of the present financial straits of the German treasury is supplied by the suspension of the law setting aside certain amounts for regular extinction of the national debt. Moreover, besides the loan of $25,000,000 necessary to balance the extraordinary budget, the government is forced to raise the so-called "matricular contributions" of federal states toward imperial expenses in order to make the ordinary budget balance. These increasing contributions, which have been steadily rising, and are estimated for 1908 at $31,000,000, are regarded as great hardships by the federal states, since they are levied according to population and not in proportion to wealth.

As convincing evidence of German revenue power in reserve, it is noteworthy that tobacco, beer, alcohol and inheritances are taxed from 100 to 400 per cent less in the fatherland than in England, France, Austria-Hungary or the United States. Prof. Adolf Wagner, Pan-German politico-economist of the University of Berlin and an ardent advocate of Teuton supremacy at sea, declares that Germany is able to gratify the most ambitious of naval longings "if only our taxation system is properly developed."

To bring imperial finance into that position is the task to which the kaiser's new finance minister is to apply himself.

Sydow's Immediate Object.

Herr Sydow's immediate objective is to placate the strange and warring combination of political bedfellows who comprise Prince von Buelow's parliamentary "bloc." Conservatives will hear only of new indirect taxes as a means for raising fresh money, leaving imposition of direct taxes to the individual states. The government is in agreement with this policy. The Liberal and Radical partners of the "bloc" demand, however, that revenue shall be raised equally from direct and indirect imperial taxes, insisting that indirect imposts alone would work injustice to the poorer classes. A wholesale trading monopoly in alcohol and brandy; a stamp tax on cigars and smoking tobacco; a direct property tax; a beer tax; an extension of the inheritance tax to direct heirs; a military exemption tax, and government monopoly of electricity and petroleum, have been suggested as potential revenue sources.

Notwithstanding all financial or other drawbacks, Germany is to have one of the most powerful navies afloat.

MONEY SPENT BY WHITNEY

Ryan Spoils the Story About Big Campaign Contribution.

New York, April 10.—Thomas F. Ryan yesterday threw cold water on the recently published story that he had testified before a special grand jury that $500,000 of Metropolitan Street railroad money ostensibly used for the purchase of the Wall and Cortlandt street ferry line had gone into a political campaign fund. Mr. Ryan was a witness yesterday in the Harlem municipal court in a damage suit brought against certain directors of the street railway company and was questioned at length about the $500,000 fund. He said that such a fund was made up, but he had no idea what was done with it, except that it was paid "for the benefit of the company."

"It was paid to William C. Whitney," said Mr. Ryan. He suggested that we put in $100,000 apiece for the company. That was in 1899 or 1900. There was no entry made in the Metropolitan Street Railway company's books."

He said the only information concerning the disposition made of the fund was given him by Mr. Whitney who, he said, was the controlling spirit of the company.

"Have you any other information except what Mr. Whitney told you as to the use of the money?" he was asked.

"No."

"As a fact, do you know to what it was applied?"

"No."

"Did you know that when the $500,000 was paid it was for the Wall and Cortland street ferry franchise?"

"I did not until I got notice from the Morton Trust company that $111,000 had been put to my credit."

Mr. Ryan then told of his connection with the company in 1903. The $110,000 was credited to him while he was away.

TO BE GREAT GATHERING

Conference of Governors and Others at the White House.

Will Consider Conservation of the Nation's Natural Resources.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At 10 o'clock on the morning of May 13, in the historic East room of the White House, President Roosevelt will call to order the most distinguished gathering of men of this country ever assembled at one time. It will include the governors of all the states, the members of the cabinet, the justices of the United States supreme court, senators and representatives in congress, and as special guests, others among the most noted men in the nation.

They will meet to consider what the president has declared to be the "fundamental problem" before the country—the conservation of the nation's natural resources.

Those who are advised as to the advanco plans, and the progress thus far made towards perfecting the arrangements, assert that practically all the chief executives of the various states have accepted the president's invitation. Each governor was asked to bring with him three of the most distinguished citizens of his state or territory and these names are being received in every mail. They include such men as Judge Gray and Jones J. Hill as well as others equally prominent in business enterprises of the most importance.

It is evident that the coming conference will bring together not only the nation's most distiguished men but its foremost experts and specialists in the several lines of discussion. Among these, under the general head of water resources, are rail and water transportation, navigation and water power; under land resources are soil, forests, sanitation, reclamation, land laws, grazing and stock raising; under mineral resources will come ores, mineral, fuels and related minerals.

James J. Hill to Speak.

While the names of the men who are to discuss these several topics have not yet been announced, they are known to be recognized experts on the subjects which have been assigned to them. For instance, it is generally understood that James J. Hill, the great railroad builder, will discuss the relation between rail and water transportation. Mr. Hill is not only an authority on this subject, but has shown his deep interest in the subject of water transportation in all his recent utterances on the subject.

The great features of the conference, however, will be the open discussion among the various governors of the points brought out by the papers presented. These papers will be very brief and then the subject will be open for discussion among all the governors, with a view of getting a consensus of opinion of the whole United States on the particular subject in hand. The interrelation of the various industries as to production, manufacturing, commerce, transportation generally, will be prominently brought out. The general question of national development will come in for discussion at all of the sessions. The unity of American interests will be a prominent note.

It is expected that the vast amount of statistics and other material which the inland waterways commission has collected and arranged within the last year and which is to appear for the first time in the appendix to the preliminary report which has not yet been printed owing to its great volume, will supply a mass of accurate data bearing immediately on the various topics included in the program. The subjects of rail and water transportation will have a very prominent part in the discussion. Indeed it is expected that the conference will open its program with this subject. A matter of no less importance than navigation will be that of the development of the use of water power, including not only the large streams, but the local use of small streams, and the extension and development of electric transmission.

Keynote of the Conference.

The close relation between the improvement of the country's inland waterways and the conservation of all its natural resources will be the keynote of the conference. In first creating the inland waterways commission, President Roosevelt directed that the "commission shall consider the relations of the streams to the use of all the great permanent natural resources and their conservation for the making and maintenance of prosperous homes." With this phase of its assigned work in mind, after the commission had proceeded pretty well with its investigations, it suggested on its trip down the Mississippi river with the president last October, the desirability of holding a conference on the natural resources of the nation.

There will be two sessions of the conference each day—at 10 o'clock in the niornning and at 2:30 in the afternoon. On the evening before the conference assembles, the president will give a dinner to the governors at which members of the cabinet, the supreme court of the United States and the inland waterways commission will be present. A great public mass meeting on some evening of the confernce has been suggested, but it is hardly thought that this will be practicable. The sessions will continue three days, May 13, 14 and 15.

The conference will be made up of the governors and the three representatives the governer of each state has been asked to name; the cabinet, the inland waterways commission, the congress and the presidents as the official representatives of some thirty or forty great national organizations which are peculiarly interested in the question of the conservation of natural resources.

Just what the conference will lead to will rest with the conference itself. No attempt has been made to lay down any lines for it to follow. On the contrary, every effort has been made to insure free and untrammeled discussion. The object of the meeting it to get down to a practical working basis in the several states on the conservation and use of the nation's natural resources. Just what that basis will be will rest with the president, the governors, and the other men whom the president has called to meet with him.

WE REPEAT

That if a poor watch is a poor investment, a good watch is a good investment. We have never sold the cheap "bargain counter" watches, not because of any "foolish" reason, but for the very good reason that we know there is no money in them. We have a reputation to sustain, and every one we would sell would be the making one certain enemy, and that would make many more. The result would do us more harm than ten times the profit in the watch. We make a reasonable profit in good, standard watches, and every purchaser is a life-long advertisement. JOY TURNED TO SORROW

Minneapolis Benedict in Jail Instead of Being on Honeymoon.

Alleged to Have Killed Young Member of Charivari Party.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Instead of speeding away on a happy honeymoon as he expected to do William Griswold is locked up in the Hennepin county jail, facing the charge of having shot and killed Bennie Navratil, 6 years old, who had innocently joined a charivari party that strenuously serenaded Griswold and his bride in the suburb of Hopkins.

The shooting took place early Wednesday evening. The victim was rushed to St. Barnabas hospital in Minneapolis, where, despite the efforts of a quartet of physicians, he died late yesterday.

HIS DEAD SON GIVEN PRAISE

Capt. Merriam Condoles With Father of Seaman Dowling.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas F. Dowling of this city, father of Charles Francis Dowling, seaman on the battleship Missouri who died March 25, at Magdalena Bay, Mexico, has received a sympathetic and condoling letter from Capt. Merriam in which the officer praises the dead seaman and expresses sympathy as follows:

"Dowling was much liked on board ship. He was an excellent young man, and Father Gleeson, formerly Chaplain on board the Missouri, thought most highly of him, as did all the officers under whose notice he came. Father Gleeson was with him the night before his death, and administered the last rites of the church.

"Dowling was buried ashore, in the cemetery of the settlement, with military honors. The Mexican man-of-war then in port sent an escort, who fired a volley over the grave with our own men. Father Gleeson officiated both on board the Missouri and at the grave. About three hundred of his shipmates attended the burial ashore, including the captain and other of the officers.

"I offer you my sincere and heartfelt sympathy in your loss. You have lost a good and honorable son, while we have lost an amiable and efficient shipmate. Our loss may be filled, while we realize that yours is permanent."

Loser of Election Bet Wheels Winner Through Streets.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest Montgomery, clerk in the Rex cigar store, got a ride down Third street from the Hotel Dacotah to the Ontario store Tuesday, as a result of winning an election bet. Montgomery bet with E. A. Williams that Taylor would get there, and agreed that the loser would have to push the winner down the main avenue in a wheelbarrow at a time in the day when the street was thronged with shoppers. Williams was game, and fulilled his agreement, while throngs of shoppers stood at the sidewalk's edge to witness the pefromance.

BUTTERMAKERS HAD MEET.

Those of Eastern Minnesota Held Session at North Branch.

North Branch, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The buttermakers and creamery patrons from all parts of the several counties included in the bounds of the Eastern Minnnesota dairy district were in North Branch Tuesday to attend the meeting of the Eastern Minnesota Dairymen's and Buttermakers' association, held at Lindstrom's hall. There were in all, including all farmers and other citizens present, about 300 who attended the meeting at the different sessions.

Just before the close of the meeting, an amendment to the association by-laws was passed, whereby each county will have one association vice president. Only three of these were chosen, being N. W. Trulson of the Spring Lake creamery, for Isanti county; A. W. Johnson of Forest Lake, for Washington county, and Swen Swenson of the Shafer creamery, for Chisago county.

There were ten entries in the butter scoring contest, and A. Strand of Forest Lake came out ahead, his butter scoring 95½. J. L. Wahlstrom of the Stark creamery was second with a score of 95, and O. Holt of the Palmdale creamery third with a score of 94½. State Dairy Inspector Sorenson of Maple Plain was the scorer.

WILL BOYCOTT BREWERS.

Minneapolis Liquor Dealers Blame Them for Blind Pigs.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minneapolis Retail Liquor Dealers' association has taken extraordinary action in respect to the selling of beer by the breweries to unlicensed retail vendors.

At a meeting it adopted a resolution that the association would refuse to buy beer from any brewing company which sells beer in any form to any so-called "blind pig" in the city, and demanding that the brewing companies immediately cease from selling beer to any one other than the regularly licensed liquor dealers.

The clubs and "pigs" which run open on Sunday are affected by this action of the association as well as other furtive places.

WOODSMAN'S BODY IS CUT AND DRAGGED BY CARS.

Marquette, Mich., April 10.—The finding of a human arm on the Marquette & Southwestern railroad tracks resulted in the discovery of a man's corpse five miles from the scene. It had been dragged that distance by a train. The victim was identified as Lewis Lassarala, a woodsman of Munising.

HAD CAR TO HERSELF.

Superior Woman, With Smallpox, Travelled in Style.

Crookston, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—One woman traveled in state on the Great Northern train which arrived here from Duluth Thursday morning. She did not come this far, having been deposited at Shevlin, which was her destination.

It seems she boarded the train at Superior and had a fine blossoming case of smallpox. Her physician got next to the fact that she had left the city, and notified the railroad company. Supt. Elliott was notified here, and he issued orders for Conductor Clarke to clear the car the woman was in and attach an extra coach for the accommodation of the other passengers, and this was done.

The coach the woman was riding in was taken through here empty, and will be fumigated at Grand Forks.

FINALLY SECURE JURY.

Trial of Alleged Slayer of His Wife Begins.

Buffalo, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—After spending over a week in selecting a jury to try John J. Mooney, a wealthy real estate man of this (Wright) county, who is alleged to have slain his wife with a stick of wood, the jury has been completed, and the state is today introducing its evidence. State's Attorney Wooley outlined the state's case, and began introducing evidence in support of his contention that Mooney brutally murdered his better half. Owing to Mooney's wealth and prominence, the case is attracting unusual attention.

HALL WAS MURDERED.

Latest Theory About Man Whose Mutilated Body Was Found.

Washburn, Wis., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Later investigation of the circumstances surrounding the finding of the mutilated body of Joseph Hall, aged 70, in a homestead shanty near here, leads to the belief he was murdered and did not commit suicide.

The face and head were slashed and bruised; the eyes appeared to have been gouged out by some blunt instrument, and the hands, legs and feet had been pounded into shapeless masses.

The interior of the shack showed that a terrific struggle had taken place there. The two stoves, a heater and cook stove, had been smashed to pieces, battered sections of the pipe were lying about, even some outside the window; dishes, parts of chairs, cooking utensils, cans of preserved food, butcher knives and other articles were scattered about the floor, and apparently had been used in the fight.

There was nothing to indicate the identity of the murderers. The whole interior of the place and the condition of the body were as if a maniac had run amuck there, but there is no knowledge of the presence of such a person in this region.

The authorities believe that the aged man was just getting into bed when he was attacked, and that he fought for his life so fiercely that the murder developed into a brutal butchery.

He was father-in-law of Former State Senator McGillivray of Black River Falls.

Several new churches were reported organized during the past year and half a dozen new places petitioned for new organizations.

RED RIVER RISING.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red river is rising rapidly and the people in the flats are getting out. There was a rise of four feet in twenty-four hours. It is not expected that there will be anything like as great a flood as last year, as there had not been as heavy a fall of snow during the winter. The residents of the flats are used to the floods and move out nearly every spring. It is expected that the ice will soon move out.

Well-Known Mining Captain Expires Suddenly in Spokane.

Calumet, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A brief message has been received telling of the death in Spokane, Wash., of Capt. Thomas Buzzo of Laurium, aged about 50 years. The exact cause of death is not known, although his demise is believed to have been somewhat sudden.

The decendent was born in Ontonagon county, and was associated with mining ventures in that county until about twenty years ago, when he came to reside in Calumet. He was a thoroughly qualified mining man, and on several occasions was engaged by local syndicates to inspect properties for them, and report on the same. He also conducted mining operations in different parts of the west. He was working on a mining property near Spokane about a month ago, and the suspension of operations on the property caused him to lay off for a time.

How Harsh Physic Wrecks the Bowels

Irritate the skin in any spot frequently and that spot will grow calloused.

That is Nature's means of protection.

So with the bowels. When you irritate the lining with salts or "pills," the lining grows hard.

That so retards the natural bowel action that you come to need physic constantly.

And you need a constantly larger dose because of the calloused bowels.

You have the "physic habit."

Cascarets bring the same results gently and naturally—without irritation.

They restore the natural bowel functions, so you don't need them long. And the dose never needs increasing.

Their effect is the same as the effect of laxative foods—or of exercise.

They act exactly the same as right living would do.

If the bowels are already calloused, you may need two tablets a day for a time.

But, after that, take one at a time—when you need it.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents. The month-treatment box 50 cents. 12,000,000 boxes sold annually. 813

NEPHRITIS

What do physicians call kidney trouble?

Nephritis.

What does Nephritis mean?

Inflammation of the kidneys.

Is there any specific for inflammation of the kidneys?

Up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known to physicians or pharmacists that would reduce Renal (kidney) inflammation.

What then have physicians given in chronic kidney disease?

Having nothing for Renal inflammation, they gave up trying to reach the kidneys and considered it incurable, as the books say, and treated the heart and other symptoms.

Then, other than Fulton's Renal Compound, there is no real kidney specific?

There is nothing else known that will reduce kidney inflammation in any of its stages, either first or last.

But many kidney troubled people recover?

Because it commonly gets well at first. But if it does not, it passes into the second stage, that was incurable up to the discovery of this compound, and that is the reason the kidney deaths have now reached 170 per day.

Kidney disease in both stages is now curable by this compound in about 87 per cent of all cases.

IT REMOVES IMPURITIES

Splendid Prescription to be Used When the Blood is Out of Order.

Mix It Yourself as it Cleans the Blood of Impurities and Waste.

A leading health journal, in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood," prints in a recent issue the following: Fluid Extract of Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

It cleans the blood of all impurities and nourishes the blood. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down, debilitated men and women. For many years sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Kargon and Extract Dandelion works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

This prescription is better than the usual patent medicines, which are in the most part alcoholic concoctions. The ingredients cost but little and are easily mixed at home. Every man and woman here should make some up and try it if they feel their system requires a good blood medicine and tonic.

Fanchon the Lobster

A most sublime lobster, was Fanchon. Not a human lobster, mark you, but a real, crustacean lobster. He was beautiful, and he would gesticulate wildly when pinched. Right lustily he played his part, and, when he grew pink with ruin, did he not drag down to destruction with him his ravisher?

It is a story by George Randolph Chester, in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. You can whiff the atmosphere of the little French café, you can hear the sputtering of Pierre, the chef; and afterward, whenever you see a clever lobster, you will say to yourself, "Fanchon."

ADOPT THE OPEN SHOP

Lake Carriers Will Treat With Employes as Individuals.

Unions Will Probably Declare Strike on the Great Lakes.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 10.—The "Open shop" policy will be adhered to by vessel owners, in the operation of boats upon the Great Lakes this season. A stand of this character in dealing with organized labor was unanimously agreed to at the annual meeting of the Lake Carriers' association here today. The rule will be put into operation at once and will affect upwards of 40,000 men. Whether the plan adopted by the boat owners will be opposed by the various unions is unknown. None of their representatives was present at the meeting.

While the carriers do not take the position of being antagonistic to organized labor, they say employes will be dealt with individually irrespective of their labor affiliations. The vessel men also recommend the paying of the highest wages.

The first move along this line was taken yesterday when the Pittsburg Steamship company operating the boats of the United States Steel corporation made contracts with their engineers, individually. No trouble was experienced.

The Cleveland interests agreed a few weeks ago to ignore the unions and it was through their efforts that the association yesterday was induced to adopt the same measures, thus affecting all ports and particularly all of the tonnage on the lakes.

The action of the association is based upon their declared desire to retain complete control of their boats and place the discipline of the ships within the power of the executive officers.

The only public expression made by the officers of the association regarding the action taken yesterday is embodied in the resolutions adopted, in part as follows:

"In order to give the owner control of the ships, it is resolved that the owners do now declare that the open shop principle be adopted.

"That the discipline of the ships be placed in the hands of the executive officers, that appropriate wages be tendered, and,

"That all of the members of the association adhere to this policy."

Detroit, April 10.—Recording Secretary Olander of the Lake Seamen's union, declared last night that the adoption of the open shop policy and an attempt to enforce it, will mean a strike of the seamen and firemen. The Seamen's union has about 16,000 members and the Marine Firemen have about 4,000. Each organization has about $80,000 in its reserve fund.

CLEAR CHANNELS.

Obstructions at Interstate Bridge Are Being Removed.

Both channels at the interstate bridge, which is being rebuilt, will be clear by Monday. Today the guy wire which has been stretched over the north entry during the winter, is being removed and Monday the piling, which was driven in the south entry last fall, will be taken out. Maj. Pitch, the government engineer here, pronounced the guy wire and the piles obstructions to navigation and the contractors will remove them. The action will leave the channels clear for the movements of boats around the harbor during the dry-dock operations preliminary to the opening of the season.

Lumber Carriers Delay.

The officials of the Lumber Carriers' association are holding off this year and have not yet taken up labor matters. The executive board held a meeting in Detroit this week, but adjourned until next Tuesday, April 14. The attitude of the lumber carriers towards the unions has not yet been declared, but it probably will be at the meeting next week.

Canadians Agree.

The Board of Conciliation, appointed by the Canadian government to investigate the grievances of seamen on the Great Lakes, held sessions in Toronto this week and announced that an amicable agreement had been reached. There will be no increase in wages, but there is to be some amelioration of the working conditions of the men, whereby the hours will be shortened. The wage scale is as follows: Wheelmen, $35 to $40 a month; watchmen, $30 to $35 a month; deckhands, $20 to $30 a month.

Contract for Steel.

The G. & W. Manufacturing company of New York was the lowest bidder for the contract of furnishing the government with 633,516 pounds of steel plate to be used as pier heads on the new piers at the Superior entry. Maj. Fitch opened eleven bids yesterday and will recommend that the contract be given the New York firm.

Date is Uncertain.

The life saving station will probably not open for a week or two yet, as there is no movement of boats and no necessity for the life savers to take their station. The package freighters will begin sailing April 25, and it is expected the station will open during the week prior to that date.

THINKS MINERS WILL RESUME WORK SOON.

Columbus, Ohio, April 10.—It is probable that the 47,000 miners, who are now idle in Ohio, will resume work about April 15 or 16, following the conference of the miners and operators at Toledo next Tuesday, declared William Green, state president of the Miners' today.

"It is likely that the operators and miners will reach an agreement at Toledo, and that the old wage scale that was in effect up to April 1 will be re-adopted," said he.

President Green said that the miners officials and the operators have had several conferences and that there seems to be no hesitancy of the operators to sign an agreement.

THIRST IS APPEASED

Steamer Moore Carried Beer to a "Dry" Grand Marais.

People There Were Also Out of Butter and Beans.

When the Booth line steamer C. W. Moore pulled into the dock at Grand Marais Wednesday night about midnight, the dock was lined with people. It was the first boat of the season and, despite the hour, everybody was out to see its arrival. After being cut off from civilization four months, provisions were running low. There was no butter or no beans in town, but, worst of all, there was no beer.

Butter, beans, flour and meat were passed up hastily as unloaded, but when the consignment of amber fluid from a Duluth brewery began to come out of the hold, hope took hold of the crowd. Men's mouths watered, as with feverish hands, the cases were piled on a waiting wagon and rushed to the saloon. A thirst of weeks' duration was appeased and Grand Marais is happy.

At Grand Portage conditions were not as bad as at Grand Marais, but some of the staples were also running low and the people would have been driven to strange expedients, had there been much more delay. The arrival of the boat was the signal for rejoicing and provisions are now plenteous in both towns.

The Moore, which left Duluth Wednesday morning on the first trip of the season, returned this morning at 9 o'clock, after an uneventful trip. No great quantities of ice were encountered, although there was some badly rotted ice along the shores. Both Grand Marais and Grand Portage were easily reached and the trip was made on schedule time.

"We had a nice trip, with good weather and no trouble from the ice," said Capt. A. D. Smith this morning. "There are evidently large fields of ice along the south shore, as we could see it from our course, but it is badly broken and rotted and will not offer any obstacles by the time the service begins on the south shore. I do not expect we will have any trouble making Port Arthur on our next trip, as there is no ice in the bay there and the course is practically clear."

The Moore will leave on its second trip Sunday morning, going to Port Arthur. It will continue to run every Wednesday and Sunday, and May 1, the other boats of the line will go into commission and the regular service on both runs will be inaugurated.

AWAITING ADVICES.

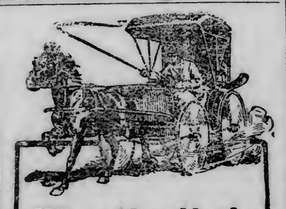

Marine Interests Here Await Action of Head Officers.

Press dispatches contain the only information local steamship agents and members of lake marine labor bodies have on the meeting at Cleveland yesterday of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association and its results. The annual conferences between the labor organizations and the ship owners take place at lower lake ports and the people at the Head of the Lakes act accordingly.

Members of the Seamen's and Lake Firemen's unions, who make their home here, are awaiting advices from their head officers. If a strike is called as a result of the "open shop" policy declared by the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association yesterday, it will not affect many men at the Head of the Lakes, although it will tie up the shipping. The decision of the Lake Carriers to pay the same scale as last year in all branches of the service makes it likely that the marine engineers will not be involved in any strike. The scale is satisfactory to them and it is believed the head officers will countenance signing as individuals. The seamen and firemen, however, want higher wages and there is more than a possibility that they will go out.

Advices from the lower lakes are that the vesselmen, who have declared for the open shop, say that they do not want any change made in wages and that they are willing to pay the schedules that were adopted last spring. Agreements as to the duties of the men aboard the ships is what they want to get away from and that is the reason the unions will not be treated with as organizations.

The declaration of the "open shop" will affect every line operating on the lakes. The package freight lines are now signing up with their men, as they expect to open the season April 25, and if labor troubles are to come, there will be little delay in the declaration of a strike.

Mr. Ellsuer said: "Miss Marlowe has nothing whatever to say at this time. At the proper time and place she will speak."

CAUCUS VOTE LIGHT.

Selection of County Delegates Shows Unanimous Taft Sentiment.

The Republican caucuses held last evening for the selection of delegates to the county convention, to be held in this city, April 14, resulted in the selection of a list of delegates who are unanimously in favor of the nomination of William H. Taft for president.

One hundred and forty-two delegates were selected from the county, Duluth supplying fifty delegates. The delegates are selected on the basis of one representative for each 100 votes cast for governor, lieutenant, governor, auditor, attorney general, secretary of state and railway commissioner.

Thirty-nine delegates will be selected at the county convention to attend the Eighth congressional district convention to be held in Pine City April 15. These thirty-nine delegates will also attend the state convention. There seems to be no opposition to the selection of J. B. Cotton and C. J. Swanson as delegates from the Eighth district. Both men are strong Taft supporters. The voting was very light.

CONDITION WORSE.

Case of Former Premier Campbell-Bannerman Considered Grave.

London, April 10.—The condition of Former Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has undergone a serious change during the past twenty-four hours and is now the cause of gravest anxiety. The bulletin issued today says that Sir Henry passed a restful night, but his weeakness has increased. Only yesterday, it was pointed out, his physicians permitted him to sit up in bed and read the newspapers, but those knowing the real state of Sir Henry's health confess that this fact gave them no hope, as the patient's vitality is gradually lowering.

Caseaweet is for babies and children, and is especially good for the ills so common in cold weather. Contains no harmful drugs. Sold by all druggists.

ECONOMY IN EXCESS.

James J. Hill, the well known railway magnate, was talking in Kansas City, about railway economy:

"Economy is excellent," he said, "but even economy must not be carried to excess. Railways must not be managed as a certain New York necktie manufacturer manages his business. A drummer in this man's employ showed me the other day a letter from the firm. It ran thus:

"'We have received your letter with expense account. What we want is orders. We have big families to make expenses for us. We find in your expense account 50 cents for billiards. Please don't buy any more billiards. Also we see $2.25 for horse and buggy. Where is the horse, and what did you do with the buggy? The rest of your expense account is nothing but bed. Why is it you don't ride more in the night time?

"'John says you should stop in Boston, where his cousin George Moore lives. John says you should sell Moore a good bill. Give good prices—he is John's cousin. Sell him mostly for cash. Also John say you can leave Boston at 11:45 in the night, and get to Concord at 4:35 in the morning. Do this—and you won't need any bed. And remember, what we want is orders.'"

FARMING IS SOLUTION

Colored College President Says Farms Are Hope of Negro.

Growing More Difficult to Earn a Living in Cities.

"To my mind, the most practical solution of the race problem that has for so many years been facing this country is to teach the young negro agriculture, show him how to farm, let him earn a farm of his own. There are few bad negroes in the country, they are most all fro mthe cities, where they are easily influenced and get into bad ways. It is hard for the negro to earn a living in the cities. On a farm, in the country, they are free from rent and influences of the city life and will live better lives. I have always found this so in my experience."

The above is a statement made by J. Oscar Spencer, president of Dawes Institute for colored boys and girls at Muskogee, Oklahoma, and one of the rising young colored men of this country. Mr. Spencer is making a tour of the North, endeavoring to raise $5,000 in the interest of his school in Indian Territory. He was educated at the Lincoln Institute of Missouri, which school, with three other colored boys, he represented on an oratorical team that spoke at the world's fair at Chicago, where they were awarded prizes for their oratory.

The Dawes Institute was established sixteen years ago by Miss M. A. Dawes of Massachusetts. She taught the school herself for eight years, when it was formed into a corporation. At the present time it has 296 students and is growing every day. It is an industrial school, which devotes most of its time to the teaching of the art of farming, though carpentry, cooking and other branches usually taught in an industrial school are taught there.

Mr. Spencer says that as yet Oklahoma has no system of public schools for either black, red or white children. All places of learning in the new state are private, as is the Dawes Institute, where only $7 a month is charged for board and tution.

"There are 250,000 colored people in Oklahoma," said Mr. Spencer, "and our school is the only one for the colored boys and girls. Many of the old colored families of the state, who were once slaves, have been given from forty to 160 acres of land for farming purposes by the government since 1858, and as I said before there are very few bad negroes come from farms. That is why there are so few bad negroes in Oklahoma, and that is why I think that the country is the only solution of the race problem, and why we are especially devoting out attention at the Dawes institute to agriculture."

Since Mr. Spencer has been on the road soliciting for his school, and he has come to Duluth nearly in a direct line, stopping only at the largest cities along the way, he has raised more than $2,000 and hopes to return with the $5,000 he has set out after. The school is practically dependant on donations for its existence. The only means of support it has now, is the little $7 a month from each pupil boarded at the school, and the money raised from selling products from a small farm run in connection with the school.

MAY RESUME BEFORE NIGHT

Repairs Are Being Made at the Power Plant.

The plant of the Great Northern Power company, both units of which have been out of commission since yesterday morning, may be put in operation again this afternoon, although it is doubtful. Officials at the company's office said this afternoon that there is a possibility of the machinery being set in motion again today, although there is nothing definite known. The patrons of the company have been without power since yesterday morning, when the second unit broke while the first was shut down for repairs.

For raincoats, try the "Fitwell."

CODE OF PROCEDURE.

Delegates Will Formulate One for International Prize Court.

Washington, April 10.—Great Britain has invited the governments which participated in the last Hague conference to send experts to London, whose duties shall be to formulate a code of procedure for the proposed international prize court, the establishment of which is provided for in one of the treaties resulting from the conference. The American government will be represented at the London conference. This conference is regarded as informal in character and the participation of the United States will require no legislation except perhaps a small appropriation to meet the expenses of the American representatives. The date for the conference has not been fixed.

It is indicated here that the ratification of the treaty providing for this court will doubtless be delayed by the nations until after the report of this body of experts has been made.

TO VOTE FOR HUGHES.

New York Republican Delegates Will Probably be So Instructed.

New York, April 10.—The four delegates at large to the national convention, to be elected at the state convention, to be held in Carnegie hall tomorrow, in all probability will be instructed to vote for Governor Hughes as a candidate for the presidency. The delegates agreed upon, according to the program of the leaders, are Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, president of the Hughes' league of the United States; Former Mayor Seth Low, E. H. Butler of the Buffalo News, and F. R. Hazzard of Syracuse, a close friend of Governor Hughes.

Besides selecting delegates and alternates at large, the convention will adopt a platform, choose presidential electors and elect a new state committee. Resolutions have been prepared for presentation indorsing the administrations of President Roosevelt and Governor Hughes. Former Lieutenant Governor M. Linn Bruce, will preside as temporary chairman of the convention and Congressman James S. Sherman of Utica as chairman. The hostility as to the candidacy of Governor Hughes, which developed yesterday at the congressional conventions in the Fourteenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-third districts is not likely to seriously interfere with carrying out the program as arranged for tomorrow's convention.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Louisville, Ky., April 10.—Dr. George W. Griffiths, for forty years one of the most prominent physicians of Louisville, died today of apoplexy. Dr. Griffiths was 67 years old.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 10.—Harry H. Lee, a well known telegraph operator in the employ of the Associated Press, died here suddenly today, aged 43 years. He has been in ill health for several months, but was believed to be on the road to recovery. He was attacked suddenly last night while at work, soon became unconscious and died within a few hours.

Mr. Lee was born at Cassopolis, Mich., and his mother and two brothers live at Manistee, Mich. He leaves a widow and three children.

TO MAKE A CHARGE.

Purchasers Must Pay Storage on Grain Left in Warehouses.

Chicago, April 10.—At the convention of the Millers' National Federation today it was decided to charge purchasers who allow their product to remain in the warehouses of the sellers more than thirty days a carrying charge of 5 cents a barrel.

The federation also declared in favor of a maximum and minimum tariff.

A resolution was adopted declaring that in lieu of payment of duties assessable by law on wheat imported into the United States, wheat flour equal in value to that of the wheat may be deposited in bond and the wheat released from the payment of duty, or for domestic consumption upon the payment of duties equal to the amount which would have been levied on the wheat. The passage of this resolution was attended by considerable debate, but was adopted by a large majority. W. E. Castle of Louisville was elected president and A. L. Gerzman of Chicago secretary for the ensuing year.

DOES NOT THINK THE SEAMEN WILL STRIKE.

Chicago, April 10.—William Penje, president of the Lake Seamen's union, declared today that in his opinion there will be no strike of the members of his organization at the opening of navigation.

"It is a little early to say just what will happen," said President Penje, "but I feel sure there will be no strike."

WAS USED TO IT.

Chicago News: "Mighty tough luck, I call it," said the disconsolate-looking young man.

"Well, I guess you might call it that," agreed the philosopher with the brier pipe. "It never happened to you before, did it?"

"I sh'd say not," said the young man. "How often do you think a thing like that is going to happen to a man?"

"I don't suppose that particular thing would happen very often," said the philosopher with the brier pipe, "but in a general way misfortunes will happen and after a while you get used to them. You can get used to anything, and once you do get used to it you don't mind it. You won't get roped in just that way again, but you'll get roped in some other way and pretty soon you'll kind of look for it, and when it happens you won't say much more than 'That's what I expected.' So the old man bunkoed you, did he?"

"Yes, sir," replied the young man. "Right on top of that I got the bounce."

"You'll get used to that," said the philosopher. "You won't mind it nearly so much after you've been hunting it a week or two. I know a fellow once who was fired from almost every job he got. The first time he felt mighty bad about it and went around thinking he was disgraced, but in a year from then if he stayed a month in one place and wasn't fired he'd quit anyway. It's all what you're used to."

"How long do you think it would take for you to learn to like it?" sneered the young man.

"I couldn't say," replied the philosopher. "I never tried it myself, but I've had lots of other misfortunes. I lost a pair of overshoes yesterday. I guess I've lost more pairs of overshoes than anybody else in the country. I take them off somewhere and then go away and leave 'em, and forget where. You see, my feet get too warm. I don't mean to say that's anything serious, but it's happened to me so often that I hardly notice it now. I just go and buy me another pair of overshoes. But I can remember the first pair I lost and I was sick over it."

"Maybe you did't have the money to go and buy you another in them days," suggested the young man.

"That may be true, too," replied the philosopher. "But you can get used to being without money. It's convenient, but it's inconvenient to go without eating for a meal or two. You can get used to that and be the better for it. When you talk about eating there's things that you eat, I can eat more burned steak and sour, heavy bread and not mind it than anybody you ever saw. Why? Because I live out where you can't hire a good cook for love or money. Even the poor ones quite and I've got so used to their quitting that it doesn't put me out. We have to bear things which are very painful to us at first, but our troubles are imaginary to a great extent. I saw a lumberjack who'd just been paid off sit down in a restaurant and after looking all over the bill of fare order pork and beans.

"'I've been kicking on pork and beans for the last two months,' he told me, 'but I don't see anything here that I want more, after all. Somehow I just feel like pork and beans now.'"

"I won't call for any more deals like I got," said the young man. "You can bet on that."

"You'll get married some of these days, I shouldn't wonder," pursued the philosophed. "But you'll get used to that. After ten or twelve years of it you'll hardly murmur. Yes, trouble comes to all of us, but we get case-hardened to it. Things that hurt us like mischief at first we get so we don't notice it."

"I know one thing that hurts like the mischief at first and you don't get used to it, either."

"What's that?"

"A mustard plaster," replied the young man.

CEYLON HAVING A BOOM.

Journal of the American Asiatic Association: Ceylon as a whole is experiencing a period of exceptional prosperity and the trade outlook is the best ever known in the history of the island. Tea, cocoanuts, cacao, cardamons and citronella are paying well, and rubber and camphor are still more profitable.

There has been a continued boom in rubber planting, which now occupies about 115,000 acres, while tea has had a revival and high prices are now being realized. Camphor prices are very high and the cultivation has been extended so that there are now some 900 acres under this product.

A transportation question that has been agitated in Ceylon for a long while, and that is now being brought actively to the front again, is that of connecting Ceylon to India by a railroad across Adams Bridge and the shallow bodies of water lying between Rameswaram and Talaimunnar at the northern end of the island.

The South Indian Railway company are bringing their line to the extreme point of the small island of Rameswaram so that only a small gap of water will intervene between the termini of the Indian and Ceylon railways.

If the connection is made at all it will make Colombo the port for Southern India, and will greatly benefit the tea and rubber industries by facilitating the transportation of laborers from India.

THE ENERGIES OF TOM L. JOHNSON

A writer in the American Magazine says:

"I enjoyed 'The Powers of Men' by Prof. James, in the November American Magazine. We have a man here in Cleveland—Mayor Johnson—whose energies have expanded enormously. Those of us who do not agree with him on all points acknowledge that he is a wonderful human being.

"During his recent campaign Mr. Johnson was in his office all day performing his duties as mayor, and conferring with his political workers. Every night he was on the stump until late, and often these meetings were followed by conferences at home with his advisers. Once or twice, as a reporter told me, he took a midnight local train out of Cleveland (no sleeping car or parlor car), and rode a hundred miles to spend an hour and five minutes between trains with his sick wife in a sanitarium, returning to Cleveland about daylight.

"When Johnson ran for governor a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune went to Cleveland to interview him. He saw the mayor in his office in the afternoon, but Johnson declined to talk because he could not then spare the time to discuss his politics fully, and unless he could do that he preferred not to talk at all. It was finally agreed that the correspondent should join the mayor on his journey to Cincinnati that night. So they met on the late train out of Cleveland, and retired to the mayor's stateroom. Johnson had worked all day, and between sundown and train time he had made eighteen speeches. He was perfectly fresh, however, and entered into a discussion which ended, at the newspaper man's request, after 3 o'clock in the morning. At 9 o'clock Johnson was in the streets of Cincinnati, making a stump speech from his automobile."

SHAVED WHILE TRAIN WAITED.

From the Kansas City Journal: Theodore A. Hoppenjon, the union depot barber, keeps a private mug for Senator Clark of Montana and various Eastern railway officials. He had been called out of bed at night to shave an eccentric patron, but he said last night that the demands made upon him by R. T. Crane Saturday night were new and decidedly interesting.

Crane is in the implement business and lives in Chicago. He travels about the country in a private car. Saturday night, the Crane car was attached to the Santa Fe No. 9, inbound. As the train neared Chillicothe, Ill., the implement magnate discovered that he had forgotten his safety razor when he packed for his trip to Los Angeles. Crane had the conductor of his train telegraph the Santa Fe agent here to have a barber at the depot for him.

The train was late, and it doesn't stop here more than ten minutes when on time. Hoppenjon was notified and was in readiness with his outfit, the lather all ready made up. As the train entered the union depot at 9:25 the barber swung on the private car and had his patron lathered before the engine was stopped. Crane, sitting in the drawing room of his car, was enjoying a game of solitaire. The cards were spread about the table and the implement king did not appear to notice the barber's presence. When the lather brush began to tickle his mouth Crane, without looking up, inquired:

"Does the game interfere with you?"

When Hoppenjon replied, "I'm here only to shave," Crane placed the next card carefully and went on with the game. The barber finished in five minutes, was paid by a secretary and bowed out of the car.

THE BARBER'S ODD CUSTOMER.

New York Sun: "Many freak customers? Oh, some," said the barber.

"I've got one customer, a regular, who always makes an appointment by telephone. He has his own office, and so can control his own time, and days when he wants to come over he gets me on the telephone and finds out how my work is running, how many I've got ahead, and appoints the hour and minute when he'll be in. I am able to tell him very close to the time when I'll be through with the work I've got on hand or waiting. This appointment is good for him for the next turn in my chair after the time set, just the same as if he'd been waiting in the shop, and it saves him a lot of time.

"Still, I don't know as you'd call that freakish exactly; plenty of men make appointments with their barber now by telephone. I just thought of that about this man because this same man has got one little peculiarity that I suppose you might call almost freakish.

"He wears a beard and mustache, and twice a month he comes to get himself trimmed up. He comes on the 1st and the 15th of the month, and he's so regular that you could set your calendar by him if you wanted to. That is, usually.

"But once in a while he takes a freak notion into his head that he'll let his whiskers grow for a while; let 'em sprout and see what they'll do. He knows he looks better and younger trimmed up in good shape, but about once in so often he lets 'em grow. I have an idea that this is somehow a sort of relief to him.

"He's a steady-going sort of a man, right on the job, never flying the pace in any way, and I have an idea that it's sort of fun to him to let his whiskers run riot once in a while. I may be off on this, but that's the way it strikes me; and that, I suppose, you might call freakish.

"He lets things go that way for about two months, and then on one of his fixed regular dates he comes in to get fixed up. And he needs it. He hasn't got the handsomest, most regular beard in the world, looks moth-eaten in spots, and really ought to be kept in order; and I fix him up in good shape, improving his appearance greatly, and incidentally knocking about ten years off his age, and then what do you think he does?

"Why, every time he comes in like that after letting his beard go and starts in again regular, he pays me all the back tips for the times he skipped. He says it's no fault of mine that he didn't come in, and he doesn't see why I should suffer because he took a notion to let his whiskers grow, and so he pays me always for this trim and all the back tips besides.

"And for that really I suppose you might call this customer of mine a freak; but it's a pleasant kind of freakishness, don't you think?"

HAD LOTS OF BUSINESS.

From the Kansas City Times: S. T. Jocelyn of Wichita was court stenographer for Judge Pancoast of Oklahoma for several years. One time a case was being tried before Judge Pancoast and they were endeavoring to find out through a witness whether there had been any liquor sold.

"What is your business?" asked the lawyer. "My business?" repeated the witness laconically. "Oh, I have lots of business." "Answer the question," said the lawyer. "What is your business?" "Must I tell all my business?" insisted the witness again. "Answer the question," interposed the judge severely.

"Well," responded he cheerfully, "I'm deputy sheriff and city marshal for Gulner, janitor of the Methodist church and bartender of the El Paso saloon."

TWO REMARKABLE CURES OF ECZEMA

Over Twenty-three Years Ago Baby had Severe Attack—Years Later Grandfather Suffered Torments with the Disease—Virulent Sores Developed from Knees to Toes.

BOTH OWE COMPLETE RECOVERY TO CUTICURA

"In 1884 my grandson, a babe, had an attack of eczema, and after trying the doctors to the extent of heavy bills and an increase of the disease and suffering, I recommended Cuticura and in a few weeks the child was well. He is to-day a strong man and absolutely free from the disease. A few years ago I contracted eczema, and became an intense sufferer. A whole winter passed without once having on shoes, my ankles and nearly from the knees to the toes being covered with virulent sores. I tried practitioners, specialists, dermatologists, etc., to no purpose. My daughter-in-law reminded me of having prescribed Cuticura for my grandson more than twenty years ago. I at once procured the Cuticura Remedies and found immediate improvement and final cure, till to-day, though well along in years, I am as though I had never had that disease. I am well known in the vicinity of Louisville and Cincinnati, and all this could be verified by witnesses. M. W. LaRue, 845 Seventh St., Louisville, Ky., April 23 and May 14, 1907."

EX-GOVERNOR THOMAS

Tells Bryan of Futility of His Running Again.

Chicago, April 10.—Among the Western Democrats who have attempted to point out to Mr. Bryan the futility of the third attempt to be president, is former Governor Thomas of Colorado. He told Bryan that he could not carry Colorado or other silver states which indorsed him in 1896. Bryan replied that conditions had changed and that under existing conditions he felt that he had a good chance.

"If I do not win no harm will be done," Bryan is quoted as saying; "Yes there will be much harm done," the governor replied. "The Democratic party will be immeasurably harmed."

Governor Johnson's friends are cheered over the figures they have compiled showing that perhaps a majority of the delegates to Denver will go without instructions. The larger part of these will be from the East and South. There is a good fighting chance in Illinois for an uninstructed delegation, while indications point to the same condition in the Pacific coast states.

RECOMMENDATIONS AS TO LABOR ON THE RAND.

Johannesburg, April 10.—Important recommendations as to labor on the Rand have been made by the commission appointed by the Transvaal government to inquiry into the gold-mining industry. The dominating idea of the report is the gradual establishment of a large industrial white population and the gradual elimination of black labor. The commissioners maintain that the mines can adjust their organization to the employment of a greater proportion of whites and a less proportion of blacks without materially increasing the cost of production prevailing at the beginning of 1907.

The commissioners recommend:

The gradual stoppage of the importation of Portuguese natives. It is of opinion that there is no essential difference between the importation of Chinese and of Portuguese natives, both being equally undersirable.

The abolition of the pass law, because that would make it impossible to enforce native contracts and native recruiting would stop.

Legislation compelling the employment of one white miner for each machine drill.

An eight-hour day.

Taxation of unworked claims, no claim being "worked" unless a definite number of whites are employed in it.

Stricter measurers to stop the illicit gold buying, which prevails to a great extent.

FAMOUS STOUT SCHOOL OPENS EYES OF VISITORS

Duluth Men Appreciate What Manual Training Really Means.

Teach How to Make Pies or Gasoline Engines.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Little Menomonie, Wisconsin, has it on the entire Northwest, if not the whole United States, when it comes to manual training schools.

Interest in this branch of public school work must be very keen, when half a hundred business men will quit their usual labors for a day to travel many miles to inspect educational institutions, and what the State Builders' Exchange association's party saw at the Stout Training schools in Menomonie yesterday was a revelation to most of the men in the party.

The Duluth delegation returned this morning, tired but happy, except for the realization of the total inadequateness of Duluth's manual training high school in West Duluth.

They said in Menomonie yesterday that the party which spent the day there was the largest that had ever visited the famous Stout Training schools since they were established. Supt. Harvey said that educational men like himself often dropped in to see the schools, but never before has so many of the laity looked over the wonderful institutions which he has in charge.

J. H. Stout, one of the original members of the old timber firm of Knapp, Stout & Co., and now a retired capitalist, has done much for education and Menomonie. He has built the Stout Manual Training schools, the finest in the country, and he spends a great deal of his time perfecting the institution of which he is the original sponsor and in making new gifts to it.

The Man Behind.

Education for the common people, manual training, mechanic arts, domestic science and home-making is Mr. Stout's chief concern in life now. He has plenty of money, and he is spending it willingly but not foolishly in the schools he is so wrapt up in.

When you climb the hill from the little red Menomonie pressed brick depot everything in Menomonie is made out of the brick manufactured there—the first structure that attracts your glance is the main building of the Stout Training schools, with its high clock tower, which stands in a huge square in the heart of the city. Alongside is the Central high school, and near at hand are other structures which Mr. Stout has built, including the Stout natatorium and gymnasium.

From the fourth grade up, manual training is taught in Menomonie's splendid schools, although, of course, it is not until the children reach the upper grades and the high school that they take the advanced work for which the Stout schools offer such great advantages.

Originally, the training schools were a part of the public school system of the city, but their fame and scope has grown so, and so many people have come from outside to take courses, that the management of the training schools has been transferred from the local board of education to a separate board of governors.

However, the school children of Menomonie may enjoy the training school privileges in connection with the regular school work, and no charge is made.

The main building of the Stout schools cost a fortune and it took another fortune to equip it as it is, with the most modern and expensive machinery. They have about everything they want there.

The average community has not the resources to equip institutions like the Stout schools. They might attempt the work on a smaller scale and many of them are, but in Menomonie they never worry about the cost of their manual training schools.

The founder and his large wallet stand back of the institution and if anything is needed he buys it for the school. For the institution and the town, he built a huge structure that is known as the Stout natatorium and gymnasium, costing $85,000, which adjoins the school grounds.

The public school pupils and the training school students, from out of town, enjoy all the privileges of the "gym" and swimming pool.

They go in heavily for education in all of its branches in Menomonie. When they are small, Menomonie parents take their children down to the natatorium and teach them to swim. In Menomonie every one can swim. They say there is no excuse for it when they have a protected swimming pool so large and complete that it takes the city water department several days to fill it. They also declare that the number of drownings has greatly fallen off since the natatorium was built.

The natatorium is also the home of the Menomonie commercial club, which has handsome rooms, and is the scene of some of the city's most brilliant social functions.

Making House Keepers.

Late acquisitions to the Stout Training school group are two little yellow cottages opposite the natatorium. These are certainly "houses beautiful." Lately a department of home-making has been instituted and the young women who take up the work are taught everything there is about housekeeping and how to take care of their families in the home. Some of the girls are learning this so that they may go elsewhere and teach others and some are learning because they are planning to put their knowledge to the practical test.

And it might be mentioned in passing that Menomonie should be a regular Gretna Green. The "girl beautiful" is also to be seen in Menomonie, taking domestic science instruction or the course in home-making.

The domestic science girls prepared a "meal beautiful" for the visitors yesterday that Sherry would have to go fast to beat. The meal cost 20 cents per plate, Mr. Stout said. The girls served it themselves and created such a favorable impression that it was doubtful up to the minute the train left whether some of the members of the visiting party would leave Menomonie at all.

In Menomonie, they show a manual training room in the Central high school building that cost $250. The benches were made by the manual training boys themselves and the tools comprise only the ordinary small affairs to be found on a workman's bench. In this room can be turned out some good work, and they say it is cheap enough to be attempted almost anywhere.

Then they take you across the bridge of sighs into the main building of the Stout Training schools, where they have about everything they need. They can make anything from pies to gasoline engines.

During the first two years of the boys' course in the high school they do not teach him to make anything in particular. They merely give him exercises to familiarize himself with the tools he is using, and the chances are that he is practicing with tools that cost a small fortune in themselves.

They develop the boy from the elementary to the practical stage by degrees, although, of course, when he graduates he is not a full-fledged workmen, nor it is not claimed for the Stout institution that it is a trades' school. It merely helps the boy along the line that he is attracted to. During his last years in high school, the boy is given the more practical work and he turns out some good stuff in the machine shop, the casting room, the blacksmith shop or wherever he happens to be applying himself.

Any Menomonie boy who wants to take manual training, and all of them do, can have an hour and a half of it every day, and the girls may enjoy the same periods of study in their domestic classes.

What the Girls Learn.

In the domestic science work the girls learn cooking, millinery, dressmaking and some parts of the home-making work. All of this last named course is not open to the high school girls, however, and is designed for the young women who are preparing themselves to teach elsewhere and to those seeking a knowledge of housekeeping.

When asked what proficiency the girls attain in dressmaking after four years in the high school, the head of that department pointed out to The Herald reporter a number of ladies' waists that cerainly looked very much like the product of a Superior street exclusive dry goods store, and said that any of her fourth year girls could step into some dressmaking establishment and be the most efficient apprentice in the world.

The same question was asked the heads of the manual training departments and the other departments of domestic science, and they all elicited the same answer. All of the teachers took great pains, however, to explain that theirs was not a trades school and the pupils merely took up this work in connection with their high school studies.

Many of the visitors said it was remarkable that a little town like Menomonie should enjoy such educational facilities, and particularly those which would be a great boon to city children, which much larger and most important places had to be satisfied with ordinary things. In the Stout Training schools they have at least thirty blacksmith forges and in the Duluth technical high school, the city's mechanic arts institution at West Duluth, there is but one. However, the West Duluth high only became a mechanic arts school this year.

One would not know from his dress or his mien that J. H. Stout, the man who furnished the money for Menonomie's manual training and the development of practical education, had done anything in particular for his home town or the country at large.

Mr. Stout Himself.

A most unassuming man is Mr. Stout. Not one in the party knew he was around until a party got in the clock tower to get a glimpse of the city. A medium-sized individual with gray hair, an ordinary tan fedora hat and clothes that looked very much ready-made, began pointing out the places of interest.

"Who is that man?" some one whispered.

There was only one in the group that knew. It's Mr. Stout, the founder of the school," was the reply.

Finally, after lunch, when the party gathered in the Commercial club, the visitors became better acquainted with this pleasant, middle-aged young man with the white hair. After several others had made lengthy addresses, Mr. Stout was urged to say a few words, and in a few crisp sentences he told of his ideas of education and what was being attempted.

"Industrial education," said Mr. Stout, "is a mingling of the ideas and methods of educators with the ideas and methods of manufactures. The higher education is very well taken care of, but the industrial education has been rather neglected. I am interested not in the 5 per cent, but the 95 per cent of the school boys and girls and it is for them that I am working hardest."

L. D. Harvey, superintendent of the public schools of Menomonie and the Stout training schools, explained the workings of the institution to the visitors. He told of the development work in the manual training and domestic science departments and of the new department, that of homemaking. He said they were undertaking to teach young women not only how to cook and how to sew, but how to select fabrics, how to care for them, how to keep house and how to do the many things that come within woman's sphere.

The visitors left Menomonie on a special car last evening and the Duluth party reached here this morning. In the party from the Head of the Lakes were E. R. Cobb, president pro tem of the board of education and secretary of the Builders' exchange; C. E. Stevens, member of the executive committee of the State Association of Builders' Exchanges, who had the trip in charge; R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of Duluth's public schools; Scott A. Foster, principal of the Duluth Technical High school in West Duluth; G. E. Brace, supervisor of manual training in the local schools; Louis A. Larson, chief engineer of the public schools; Dwight E. Woodbridge; E. J Anderson of the Coleraine school board, and a reporter for The Herald, chosen by the school board as special press representative with the party.

Many prominent business men from the Twin Cities, Faribault and Stillwater were in the party. William Rhodes, president of the St. Paul Builders' exchange and A. V. Williams, secretary of the St. Paul exchange, who was secretary of the old St. Paul & Duluth road when that was in existence, were in charge of the arrangements.

The visitors were royally entertained all the time they were in Menomonie.

HOME RULE OF THE SOVEREIGN STATES MUST BE PRESERVED

people themselves, and then only after the fullest discussion and widest publicity. And while thus pointing out the danger of nullifying the Constitution in any degree, Governor Johnson urged a rigid enforcement of all the laws enacted to restrain the rich and powerful from encroaching upon the natural and legal rights of the poor and weak.

This address was delivered upon the occasion of the dedication of the monument erected by the state of Minnesota, in the national park at Shiloh, to the memory of the Minnesota soldiers who fell upon that battlefield. Governor Johnson and his staff, accompanied by a party of fifty prominent men of Minnesota, were present and participated in the dedicatory exercises. Ideal spring weather prevailed. Gen. L. F. Hubbard, chairman of the Minnesota monument commission, presided, and delivered a short address, and Gen. C. C. Andrews, another member of the commission, also spoke.

Governor Johnson's Speech.

Governor Johnson spoke as follows:

Representing the people of the commonwealth of Minnesota, we are assembled on one of the historic battlefields of the Civil war to pay our tribute of respect and affection to the memory of the sons of Minnesota who here yielded up their lives that this might continue to be a united nation. Their sacrifice was not for personal gain, but was in response to duty, and a contribution to the civilization of the age, and for the purpose of perpetuating the institutions of human liberty.

I appreciate that nothing which I can say will add to or detract from the glory of their achievement, which in itself is an enduring monument to the patriotism and the heroism of the American soldier. Their sacrifice, however, was not different from that which has been made throughout all of the ages by those lovers of liberty who believed in a government which might give to all the people the right to life, liberty and property.

> The love of liberty was not born in this country of ours; it was cradled along the Danube and about the shores of the Baltic, even when Rome had reached the limit of her imperial grandeur.

It increased in intensity with the passing of the centuries in the great English charter of civil rights, which forever guaranteed to the people of that land immunity from the claim of those who claimed to rule by virtue of divine right. From the beginning of civilization man has ever struggled against the despotic power of the strong, and has never hesitated to mix his blood with the soil of his land when by this offering he might leave to his posterity and those dear to him a legacy of freedom; and while the immediate result has not always been the triumph of the right, none of the great battles of history could have been fought unless there had been, upon one side or the other, those who were willing to sacrifice their own lives for the common good and for the permanent establishment of those principles of liberty which men have ever cherished.

One hundred and thirty-two years ago the great contest of humanity was transferred from the old world to the new, and here, because of the isolation of this country, because of the high character of the men who espoused the cause of liberty, and because of the signal victory achieved by them in that great struggle, an opportunity was afforded to crystalize into written law the aspirations of the patriots of all the ages. The men who built the foundations of this government were those who had submitted to the supreme test of patriotism, for those who inspired the Constitution of the United States were the saints who had pledged their lives, their properties and their sacred honors to the cause of independence.

> The scheme of government devised by our forefathers was adopted after most mature deliberation, and after fullest investigation, and only when they were satisfied that, in the distribution of the powers of the government, the rights of the people would be respected.

The Nation's Foundation.

It was founded upon the theory that the right existed in the people to make, alter and modify their form of government, and to this end the several states in constitutional convention agreed upon and adopted a Constitution which was the foundation upon which this nation rests. But, as Washington said, "the Constitution which at any time exists, till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all. The further heritage of the power and right of a people to establish government presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established governments." The original sovereign states, which through their representatives in 1787, united to form a federal government for certain specified purposes, were careful to have those powers which were delegated to it expressed in the Constitution then agreed upon.

While the primary object of a written Constitution is to define governmental powers and to limit governmental departments, the overwhelming necessity for such instrument is to prevent insidious encroachments upon the rights of the individual citizen both from those in office and from those who, by reason of their wealth and power, have an influence far greater than that possessed by the average citizen. And so the Constitution of the United States was regarded by its framers as an instrument of the most sacred import, any alteration of which could only be made by the people themselves, in whom all ultimate power is vested, and then only after the fullest discussion and widest publicity.

Under the beneficent government so established the nation has prospered and the people are happy. One great cloud came upon the nation in the form of an awful Civil war, in which two sections of the country were in conflict with each other. The heroes who rest here gave their lives that this nation might be maintained as it came from our forefathers. On another battlefield of that war, Abraham Lincoln said: "It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honored dead we take increased devotion for that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we highly resolve these dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Shall we today consecrate for the further perpetuation of the principles of American liberty, and a constitutional form of government, purchased at the cost of the blood of patriots?

> In this hour when there seems to be a disposition to depart from the established forms, when there seems to be a desire upon the part of those in authority to abide in a central bureaucracy, rather than in a representative democracy, it becomes you and me to protest against any departure whatsoever from the government which came to us from the constitutional convention of 1787, and those amendments which have been made to it by specific will of the people.

As to the Future.

Our concern is not of the past, nor wholly with the present, but much with the future. If the destiny of the republic is in the hands of the American today; then it becomes him to be guided and governed only by patriotic impulse and the desire to do that which will most largely contribute to the permanency of republican institutions, advancing our civilization so that we will not, by recognizing the false claims of selfish interests and forgetting the American maxim that our object should be to attain the greatest good for the greatest number, incur the penalty which other people have paid. Rather then let us hold ever in mind that those who framed our government believed in the equality of the people and that the chief aim of the government is to maintain that equality.

Under our system of government the nation has reached a material development hitherto unknown. The people have prospered beyond the dream of those who lived a century ago. But with the development of the country and changes in economic conditions, and particularly with the growth of great private corporations, performing many of the functions of government, has come the necessity for the exercise of strict governmental control, and a rigid enforcement of all the laws enacted to restrain the rich and powerful from encroaching upon the natural and legal rights of the poor and weak.

The marvelous foresight of the fathers of this country in framing the Constitution of the United States is shown by the fact that in spite of all the changes which have occurred in industrial and economic conditions, in spite of the unexpected expansion of the country, the Constitution has been found sufficiently flexible to meet every emergency which has arisen. Let us remember this, for the danger of today is that the American people may be lulled into a false security, and yielding to the demands of selfish interests, permit the breaking down of constitutional provisions, under which the American people have attained this wonderful degree of material prosperity and have yet maintained the individual liberty of the citizen.

The constitution of the ancient republic of Rome, which for 500 years had recognized the voice of the people as supreme, was expanded by executive interpretation and contracted by executive administration, until Rome had so completely outgrown its democratic conditions as to become only a tragedy and a tradition.

> Let us implore the aid of Him on high to preserve us from errors which ruined Rome, by the avoidance of which America may travel on to that destiny and realize that fulfillment which will be the inspiration of right thinking men of all the ages yet to come.

Danger to Be Avoided.

Our government is divided into three separate and distinct co-ordinate branches; the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Danger will surely come to this republic when any of these departments of government attempts in the slightest degree to usurp the functions of the other, and while now and then it may be that a court of the land, in construing the Constitution, may nullify a section of it, I have the faith to feel that the people of the country will rise above the fallibility of judicial tribunals and assert and preserve their own rights. Our duty is not to criticise the executive, the legislature or the judiciary. Our duty is to recognize the majesty of the law when enacted by the legislature; to abide by and with the honest execution and administration of the laws when so enacted, and to respect, even though wrong, the opinions of the courts of the land, because when respect for these institutions is gone, then the very framework of our government is bound to crumble and decay. But having thus given our acquiescence to the voice of authority, if in the opinion of the people the action taken is one which should not be exercised by that particular department, it is our inalienable right to so further limit its power as to prevent the recurrence of the error. Very recently there has come from the highest judicial tribunal in the land a decision of vital interest and concern to the American people, because it has established a principle, as stated by one member of the court, which would work a radical change in our governmental system and would inaugurate a new era in the American judicial system and in the relations of the national and state governments. It would centralize the subordinate federal courts to supervise and control the official action of the states as though there were dependencies or provinces. It would place the states of the Union in a condition of inferiority never contemplated when the Constitution was adopted or when the Eleventh amendment was made a part of the supreme law of the land."

> If this is the result of this decision, it is, to my mind, one of the unhappy incidents in the history of our republic, because the very theory of government is based upon the right of the states to control absolutely their own domestic affairs.

Shall We Go Backward?

If, then, our whole system of government is changed, have we not only retarded the progress of the republic, but have we not gone back a century toward a centralized form of government which is not to the advantage of the people? What this government needs is not more power. What it needs today is to so distribute the privileges under the government that all citizens will have an equal opportunity. America has been called the land of opportunity. But American opportunity should not mean a granting of special privileges to any class, but should afford all alike the means for culture, education, prosperity and contentment.

For nearly a century and a half America has presented to the world the spectacle of a happy, prosperous and intelligent people, maintaining a pure democracy founded upon their supreme will. The hallmark of democracy is that the powers of government are close to the people. Throughout the world, wherever democracy is advancing, its progress is marked by a greater measure of self-government to each community. Will the American people turn to the setting rather than the rising sun? Shall we now, because some laws are found irksome by a class and interfere with their selfish aims, commence to deprive our sovereign states of that measure of home rule which until now they have seen fit to reserve to themselves? I cannot believe it. Upon the contrary I believe that the limitations upon state and federal governments, the nice balancing of the powers of each, and of the different departments in each, which have been so efficacious in the past, will be maintained in their full vigor in the future.

Therefore, discharging all of our responsibilities as citizens of a country, refusing to surrender our rights of citizenship in any degree, let us so live that heroism exemplified on this and other American battlefields may not be simply a tradition, and the national wisdom of our forefathers a mere legend, but that through us and those to come America will reach her full destiny in the permanent establishment of a perfect Union, which shall be not for today nor tomorrow, but forever, and be so established that it will be for all of the people, and that their government shall not perish.

GEN. ANDREWS SPEAKS.

Tells of First Really Great Battle of the War.

Gen. C. C. Andrews, one of the commissioners who had in charge the erection of the memorial on behalf of the state of Minnesota, spoke as follows:

"It was the fortune of Minnesota to have troops in each of the six greatest Civil war battles and campaigns of the West—Shiloh, Stone River, Vicksburg, Chickamauga, Chattanooga and Nashville. Shiloh was really the first great battle of the war and occurred April 6 and 7, 1862. Its moral effect was great. The aggregate strength of both sides, though not all engaged each day, was 111,581 officers and men. The aggregate loss of both sides, being remarkably evenly divided, was 3,482 killed and 16,429 wounded. The latter included mortally wounded, which, according to usual estimates—3-4 per cent of the killed—amounted to 2,225. These casualties seem small compared with what we read of battles centuries ago, but it is my firm opinion that the losses recorded in history up to about a century ago, were frequently taken from hoursay and are often gross exaggerations.

"The battlefield of Shiloh takes its name from a small log meeting house, which stood two miles back from the so-called Pittsburg Landing on the Tennessee river. The ground, as you see, has a moderately undulating surface about eighty feet above the river, handsomely wooded with oak, and was at the time of the battle more densely wooded; also had more underbrush. Then, as now, scattered over the nearly three miles square area, were about twenty fields or cleared places. It was crossed by several roads.

The Battle at Shiloh.

"It was not Gen. Grant's purpose to have a battle at Shiloh. He purposed occupying Corinth, a railroad junction, twenty-two miles distant, and had placed his Army of the Tennessee in camp here until Gen. Buell, with the Army of the Ohio, could join him. Knowing the situation, the Confederate general, Albert Sidney Johnston, Saturday, April 5, marched from the vicinity of Corinth with the Army of the Mississippi, announcing that night within three miles of Shiloh meeting house and attacked Grant's army furiously early the next morning—a delightful spring morning—hoping to gain a decisive victory before Buell's army came up. Hard fighting took place throughout the day. The Union lines were driven back a mile or mo re and to within about half a mile of the Tennessee river. The flanks of the Union army were fortunately protected by creeks in high water. Also, two gunboats rendered service on the left flank. The Confederate general fell at 2:30 in the afternoon, and was succeeded by Gen. Beauregard. Gen. Grant arranged for taking the initiative by attacking early the next morning. The Army of the Ohio had arrived and took part in the second day's struggle, and at 3:30 o'clock, under cover of a charge in the center, the Confederate army withdrew from the field.

"The First Minnesota battery of light artillery, Capt. Emil Munch, commanding, having been assigned to Prentiss' division, went into camp with that division near the front the day before the battle—five commissioned officers and 121 enlisted men present for duty—and was engaged during the first day of the battle. Capt. Munch was severely wounded and disabled early in the morning. For some hours the right and left sections, under command of First Lieut. William Pfaender, were engaged on ground near the site of the monument and which, from the severity of the fighting, became known as the 'Hornets' Nest.' The two guns of the center section were disabled early in the day, but one of them took part in the evening in resisting a Confederate charge. The loss of the battery during the battle was three killed and eight wounded. Also sixteen of its horses were killed. On the second day the battery was held in reserve.

The Memorial.

"The Minnesota legislature having appropriated $5,000 for a memorial to the First Minnesota battery in this national military park, and appointed a commission of three to erect it, the commissioners met here and selected this site for the memorial, May 26, 1907. Proposals were invited to be submitted on Nov. 16 last. The commission decided that, if possible, a piece of sculpture should form a part of the memorial. The contract was awarded to the P. N. Peterson Granite company of Minnesota, and this statue was made by a Minnesota sculptor, J. K. Daniels. It represents the average private soldier of the Civil war of the age of about 22 years. In his face courage and mercy are equally blended. He is looking out upon ground made glorious by immortal valor.

"This memorial was intended simply to do honor to Minnesota soldiers, but in some sense its reflects honor upon every soldier who did a manly part on this consecrated field."

ARRESTED ON GAMBLING CHARGE.

Minot, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Blood was arrested Tuesday night by Deputy Sheriff Wallie George on a charge of running a gambling place at Second and Main streets. Blood was placed under $1,000 bonds, which he furnished, and he will be given a preliminary hearing later.

LOST $300

Buying Medicine When Right Food Was Needed.

Money spent for "tonics" and "bracers" to relieve indigestion, while the poor old stomach is loaded with pastry and pork, is worse than losing a pocketbook containg money.

If the money is only is lost it's bad enough, but with lost health from wrong eating, it is hard to make the money back.

A Michigan young lady lost money on drugs but is thankful she found a way to get back her health by proper food. She writes:

"I had been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for six years and spent three hundred dollars for treatment in the attempt to get well. None of it did me any good.

"Finally I tried Grape-Nuts food, and the results were such that, if it cost a dollar a package, I would not be without it. My trouble had been caused by eating rich food such as pastry and pork.

"The most wonderful thing that ever happened to me, I am sure, was the change in my condition after I began to eat Grape-Nuts. I began to improve at once and the first week gained four pounds.

"I feel that I cannot express myself in terms that are worthy of the benefit Grape-Nuts has brought to me, and you are perfectly free to publish this letter if it will send some poor sufferer relief, such as has come to me."

M'DONNELL GETS JOBS

The Lowest Bidder for Two Street Improvement Contracts.

Delay in Construction of West Duluth Sewer Outlet.

P. McDonnell was the lowest bidder for both contracts for street improvement, bids for which were opened by the board of public works this morning. The contracts were awarded this afternoon. The contracts call for the paving with tar macadam of Third street from Eighteenth avenue east to Twenty-second avenue east, and the paving of Third street from Twenty-third avenue east to the north line of Harrison division.

Bids on the first were as follows: J. A. Johnson, $14,997.70; P. McDonnell, $12,414.50; E. R. King, $13,282.90.

Bids on the second were: P. McDonnell, $11,916; J. A. Johnson, $13,493; E. R. King, $13,967.70. Sandstone curbing is called for. The contracts call for the completion of both jobs not later than Aug. 1, 1908.

The matter of the Fifty-eighth avenue sewer outlet, put over from a meeting of two weeks ago, came before the board this morning. New developments make it evident that the cost of the improvement will be two or three times what was originally figured, and it may become necessary to postpone the improvement indefinitely. The matter was again continued for two weeks, to give the board members and city engineer a chance to make a thorough investigation of the route of the outlet, the comparative advantages or disadvantages of one route over another, the cost, etc.

The extra cost comes from the fact that it will be necessary to extend the sewer to the deep water line, because of the protest of the Zenith Furnace company against having the outlet on its property. Originally the cost of the improvement was figured at $2,600, but constructing it along the present route, and extending it to the deep water line, would cost at least $10,000, and it is said that other routes would cost even more. The improvement would benefit 900 or 1,000 lots, and is earnestly desired by residents of West Duluth. After the investigation is completed, the matter probably will be brought before the city council again, and the city fathers will pass judgment upon the advisability of constructing the sewer outlet under new conditions that have developed.

A petition from property owners interested asking that trees be planted along both sides of Greyson road for its entire length was read. There seems to be some doubt as to whether this matter should come before the board of public works or the park commissioners. The road is about eight blocks long. The kind of trees wanted is not specified, further than that they shall be shade trees. The petition will be submitted to the council.

The next street paving job to be advertised for by the board will be for improving Twelfth avenue east from London road to Fourth street.

PATIENTS WERE NOT VACCINATED

No Marks on Arms of Inmates of Pest House.

Is vaccination a protection against smallpox?

Health Commissioner Murray says yes, most emphatically.

In proof of his statements, he submits a record kept at the detention hospital, showing that out of more than 3,000 cases of smallpox, not a single person had a mark on the arm showing that he had been vaccinated, or, if such a mark was in evidence, Dr. Murray says it was of the sort to indicate that the virus had not worked.

"This should be conclusive proof of the value of vaccination," said the health commissioner this morning. "Quarantine is no protection, for before a case is reported to the health department the person afflicted may have exposed a hundred persons. We establish quarantine as quickly as possible, but in most cases people evade quarantine as long as possible, making our work in this direction very difficult."

BOY KILLED WHILE PLAYING "WILD WEST."

Saranac, Mich., April 10.—Twelve-year-old Lloyd Tuller was accidentally shot and killed last night by his 12-year-old playmate, Paul Stewart, while the boys were playing "Wild West," and an attack was being made on a blockhouse. Tuller led the charge of the "Indians" on the "blockhouse," which Stuart was defending. Young Stuart says that after the attackers had forced the door, Tuller grappled with him for possession of a gun he had, and it was accidentally discharged.

RAISES HOB WITH "LIDS"

Wind at Third Avenue West Corner is Treacherous.

"You're No. 109," shouted the big policeman on the corner of Third avenue west and Superior street, this morning to a dignified but rather wrathful citizen who was making a run across the street to catch his headgear which the wind had sent cavorting along the pavement.

The hat recovered, the citizen went back and asked the officer what he meant and, with a sympathetic grin, the guardian of the city's peace replied:

"I meant that you are the 109th fellow that has lost his hat since I came on the corner. The wind, somehow takes a downward dip, then an uplift at this corner that no lid, unless it is screwed down, can resist. I have been keeping count of the hats that blow off, to help pass the time. You're one of the victims, see?"

THURMAN HANGED.

Quietly Pays the Penalty for Killing His Roommate.

Norfolk, Va., April 10.— Lee C. Thurman of West Point, Ky., was hanged here today for the murder, on Feb. 1, 1906, of Walter P. Dolsen of Michigan, his roommate, whose body he packed in a trunk and then fled, being captured eighteen months later at Vancouver, B. C. The execution was one of the quickest and most successful that ever occurred in Virginia. Without handcuffs, and unassisted, Thurman, after drinking a cup of coffee and smoking a cigarette, walked from his cell to the gallows in the jail yard. He asked for time to kneel in silent prayer and then stepped on the trap, which was sprung at once. He made no statement further than a declaration that the murder of Dolsen was in self-defense, after great provocation.

NEW COLORADO GAME BIRD

Denver Post: Two strange birds arrived in Denver Saturday, having journeyed all the way from Sweden. Now they are domiciled in the city park. If the plans of their owner, W. F. Kendrick, succeed they will be the progenitors of a new race of birds in the Colorado mountains.

They are the capercailzie, pronounced caper-kel-zi, and are the size of a small turkey. In habits they are much like the grouse and ptarmigan. They thrive best at timber line and subsist on pine, spruce and hemlock boughs and mountain berries.

Mr. Kendrick, who is tremendously interested in birds and animals, has had an ambition for some time to start the breeding of these birds in Colorado because of their rarity and beauty. He has already bred and liberated thousands of pheasants, but the capercailzie were hard to get. For months he has had a commission in Sweden for two perfect birds. As the result of this order the two arrived Saturday.

The capercailzie is almost as large as and similar in habits to the American wild turkey, with the advantage that it can endure much more severe hardships and cold weather and will live on food such as is obtainable from the treetops, if necessary, when the ground is deeply covered with snow.

Mr. Kendrick will keep the birds at the park until they breed, his plan being to take the young to the most suitable places in the mountains and liberate them.

CHEAP FARE TO CHICAGO

Duluth Will Get Advantage of Western Line Reduction.

Wisconsin Central's Cut Will Bring Other Roads Into Agreement.

Duluth travelers to Chicago will receive the benefit of the reduced rates that are to be made by Western lines to the Republican national convention. The Wisconsin Central has agreed upon a rate of a cent and a half for the convention, which means that all the St. Paul-Chicago lines will be drawn into the low fare-making plan. This means, further, that a fare of a cent and a half will be made from the Head of the Lakes to Chicago.

The announcement of the Wisconsin Central that they would make a reduced rate for the convention will compel the Duluth lines to make a straight fare of a cent and a half through to Chicago. The territory of the Wisconsin Central taps the Duluth territory so closely that the selling of a round trip ticket from Ashland to Chicago and return at the reduced tariff would be the means of getting passenger business from some of the Head of the Lakes lines.

It is said here that all of the lines running to St. Paul will put on a straight cent and a half round trip fare to Chicago. In connection with the low rate announced by the lines east of Chicago, the low fare to Chicago is expected to be a great incentive to travel. It is about the time that the usual tourist travel begins, and will no doubt have the effect of greatly increasing the early summer passenger business.

NEW ORIENT SERVICE.

Milwaukee Officials Will Operate Boats in Connection With Road.

San Francisco, April 10.—Vice-president J. H. Hiland and General Passenger Agent A. Miller of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad have closed a deal in Japan, it is said, for a Trans-Pacific steamship service for the company's new overland railroad, which is being built to Seattle through Montana, Idaho and Washington, and will arrive here on their way home to Chicago next week. Their deal is with the Osaka Shosen Kaisha company, which will make the third Japan steamship company plying between the Orient and American Pacific ports. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha runs out of Seattle in connection with Hill's Great Northern road, while the Toyo Kisen Kaisha operates out of this port, with the Pacific mail, Southern Pacific and Sante Fe.

SPECIAL TO ST. PAUL.

Knight Templars Charter Omaha Train for Convention.

A special train has been chartered by the committee in charge of the delegation of Duluth Knight Templars who will attend the convention of the order, to be held in St. Paul, April 29. The knights will travel over the Omaha, the committee guaranteeing the officials of that road 130 passengers to secure the special.

LOW RATES RECOMMENDED.

Eastern Roads Will Make Reductions for Large Conventions.

Chicago, April 10.—The Central Passenger association today recommended to the executive officials of eastern railroads that a rate of a fare and a half be made during the summer months to all conventions where the attendance will exceed 1,000 persons. Several roads, which have opposed the reduction, favor the recommendation, which was in the form of a resolution, and a special session of the association will be called next week at which final action will be taken. Among the conventions which will receive the benefit of the reduction, if adopted, besides the Republican national convention, are those to be held by the Grand Army of the Republic at Toledo, the national educational association at Cleveland, and the Baptist Young Peoples' union at Cleveland. The $2 charge formerly made by the National Educational association, and which has been held to be a violation of the interstate commerce commission regulation, will come up for consideration at the meeting next week.

The association has made a formal request to be allowed to make the charge this year as heretofore.

C. P. Employes Organize.

Winnipeg, Man., April 10.—The employes of the mechanical department of the Canadian Pacific railway today decided that a joint committee, representative of every department of railroad work, should be formed to deal with the company on questions of wages and conditions of labor. The recent cancellation by the railroad company of the wage scale of the mechanic resulted in the decision.

It is planned to take similar action on every dvision of the road.

HARRIMAN IN CONTROL.

Erie Passes Under Domination of Southern Pacific President.

New York, April 10.—Following the action of E. H. Harriman in providing $5,500,000, yesterday, for the payment of maturing notes, it was said today in Wall street that the Erie road will shortly pass under the absolute control of Mr. Harriman and his assistants, who stand ready to spend, under certain conditions, from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 for improvement in tunnels, terminals, trackage and rolling stock. If these plans are completed, Mr. Harriman's long cherished plans of a perfectly equipped, complete transcontinental road, with the Erie as the Eastern outlet, will have been realized.

In addition to furnishing the money to take care of the maturing notes, Mr. Harriman, it was stated, will himself take $5,000,000 of the new 6 per cent notes, so as to provide the company with funds to meet immediate needs.

SHE WAS GAME.

Chicago News: "She looked at me as if she thought I hadn't good sense," said the girl with the lop-sided pompadour. "What do you want to get married for?" she says.

"'What do you want to get married for?' I says."

"That was a hot one," commented the girl with the genuine coral necklace.

"What did she have to say to that?"

"She looked kind of down her nose," replied the girl with the lop-sided pompadour. "'I don't want to,' she says. 'I wouldn't have the best man on earth,' she says.

"'Oh, excuse me,' I says, 'I didn't know.'"

"I sh'd say not," said the girl with the genuine coral necklace. "I bet she does somethin' desp'rit afore leap year's over. She wouldn't want to, maybe, but she'd hate to turn down a real good offer."

"She told me I'd be sorry for it," said the girl with the lop-sided pompadour.

"'I never seen the woman what didn't,' she says. 'Ain't you got a good job?' she says.

"'There's worse, an' then again there's better,' I told her.

"'You won't find cookin' a man's meals an' raisin' his children any better,' she says. 'I want to tell you that's about the meanest job a girl can take.'

"'I'll take chances on gettin' what's comin' to me,' I says. 'I'll get all the traffic will bear, you bet on that. I know which of us two is goin' to open the envelope on Saturday afternoon.'

"'So do I,' she says. 'I've heard others talk the same way you're talkin.' You can do as you like now, but it won't be long afore you're doin' the way he likes.'

"'Sure,' I says. 'I'm doin' that now an' I expect to keep right on doin' it. I'd just as soon as long as it didn't put me out. It won't hurt me to see him satisfied.'

"'I heaard you kickin' once because we had to work from 8 till half-past 5,' she says. 'Them's easy hours to what you'll get when you're married. You'll have from the time you get up in the morning till the time you go to bed and you'll get up early and stay up late. He'll sit and smoke his pipe and read the paper.'

"'He'll be welcome to,' I says. 'I won't make no objections. As long as there ain't nothing I want him to do I'd just as soon let him rest as not.'

"'The calling down you've got from the floorwalker won't be nothing to what you'll get from hubby if things ain't goin' to suit him,' she says 'The floorwalker dasent go but about so far.'

"'I'll take chances on Bill as long as he's willing to take chances on me,' I says. 'I'm generally able to take care of myself if anybody gets gay with me. I'm afraid you're worryin' a little too much about me. I wouldn't want to have you lose sleep over night an' if I wont to I can always come to you an' ask for your advice.'

"'You don't need to get mad about it,' she says. 'It ain't nothin' to me whether you get married or not. As long as you're satisfied I guess I can stand it.'

"'That's exactly what I was a-thinkin',' I says.

"'I was only wonderin' what a girl that had a job with set hours an' extra pay for overtime and the right to quit whenever she wanted to would want to get married for.'

"'I guess it does seem sort of funny to you,' I says. 'I'd like to explain it to you, but I guess I wouldn't be able. There's a lot of reasons that you don't know nothin' about, an' the principal one is that somebody ain't ast you to marry him.'"

"I guess that held her for a while, didn't it?" asked the girl with the genuine coral necklace.

"You bet it did," replied the girl with the lop-sided pompadour. "She didn't come back for any more. I guess somebody handed her a lemon once and she ain't got it out of her system yet. But I want to tell you she can't make me pucker my mouth."

"It takes Bill to do that," insinuated the girl with the genuine coral necklace.

THE ROUND TRIP.

Chicago News: The elevator shot up past the level of the third floor almost to the fourth, and then slowly descended to admit a corpulent elderly person with a red face, who had been vociferating "Up!"

"I'd think you would stop now and then," said the elderly person to the elevator operator. "Or is this an express car?"

"I stopped as soon as I heard you, sir," said the elevator man. "I couldn't stop before because I was under way."

"You fellows are always under way," said the elderly person, testily. "Didn't you see me? What do you want to go skyhooting along like that for?"

"I was going at the usual rate."

"Don't you give me any of your back talk," said the elderly person, severely. "I'm not supposed to stand and holler before a car gets— Here! Where are you taking me to? Seventh."

"You didn't say so," said the elevator man. "I'll let you off here, and you can take the next car down."

"I'll report you, young man," said the elderly person as he left the car.

The elevator man grinned and moved his lever over. "Ain't he an old heant?" he remarked to the remaining passenger. "He'll report me. Yes he will—not. I oughtn't to have stopped for him, the old hog. Report me for going past him for half a yard and then coming down for him. I wish he would."

"You meet all kinds," commented the remaining passenger.

"I sh'd say!" said the elevator man. "That's the only thing that makes the job worth having."

"Hard work, is it?"

"It's no work," said the elevator man. "It's the up, up, up, and the down, down, down, all the time that gets me. Same old floors. First, second, third, fourth, fifth and so on to the fourteenth. Some of the people you get to know by heart, but that ain't so bad when they're the right kind. I don't have no more than time to get in a word or two before they're out and scooting off somewhere, but it helps some. Ain't you going to get out?"

"I'll make another round trip with you if you don't mind," said the passenger.

"Sure," returned the elevator man. "It don't cost nothing extra. Ride till you get tired. Yes, sir, I like the people comin' an' goin'. There's the transients an' there's the regulars. Sometimes I'll see a new face and I'll think it's good-bye when it gets out, but in a little while I see it again and again, and then I know that it's got a job and has got to be a regular.

"Other times it's a regular that drops out. I've been here three years and over now, steady, and it may be that it's somebody who has traveled with me a thousand times, or more. Nothing more said than 'Good morning, Bill,' or 'Fine weather we're having,' or such as that, but a fellow gets to feel real well acquainted. Then, all of a sudden, I don't see him no more. I wait and wonder if he's sick or on a vacation or what. Then some time I see somebody I've seen with him and I ask what's come of him. 'Oh, he's gone to Indianapolis to live,' says his friend, or else, 'Why, he's dead. Hadn't you heard? Died of pneumonia. Sixth floor's mine,' and out he goes.

"That's all there is to it. They go and they come and they go, and I miss 'em for a while and then I forget all about 'em, just like everybody else does. There's cranks and there's— Hello, sweetness!"

"Hello, freshie!" responded a little blonde girl who had got on.

"I've something to say to you," said the elevator man.

"You always have," said the girl. "Let me off at the second."

"There it is again, you see," said the elevator man. "That's how we get cut off short. Well, so long."

SUNDAY IN OBERLIN.

Interesting facts about Oberlin, Ohio, and a good story on Roosevelt are combined in the following paragraphs in the March American Magazine:

"Probably no town of equal size in the United States contains as many church members as Oberlin, Ohio, the seat of Oberlin college, which this year will celebrate the seventy-fifth year of its birth. Students in the theological seminary finished in December a religious census of the community. The town was divided into districts, and every house was visited. A canvass under the direction of the census bureau at Washington could not have been more thorough.

"Information was obtained from 5,226 men, women and children—their names, addresses, religious preference, church affiliation and attendance, Sunday school connection, and so on. Of the 5,226, 2,110 are members of churches in Oberlin, and 1,326 are members of churches in other cities and towns. Practically all of the 1,216 are students and teachers in Oberlin college, who attend church in Oberlin, and retain membership in their home churches. The total number of church members in the community is 3,326, or 64 per cent of the entire population. If children of 16 years and under are deducted, the whole number of church members is 80 per cent of the population. Over and above the 3,326 members there are 567 non-members, who report that they attend church services, making a grand total of 3,893 who go to church. This is more than three times the average for towns of this size.

"In the report is a list of 1,333, who are non-church-goers, and this list is divided into two groups, those who expressed a preference for some church in town, and those who declined to express any preference. In this list of nonchurch-goers who declined to express any preference for any particular church in town there are 549 names. And, the report adds, the pastor of each local church will be furnished a duplicate copy of the 'no-preference list.' The inference is that the pastors will now consider especially the 549.

"In respect of the thorough and persistent way in which it looks after its people, Oberlin reminds one of President Roosevelt, who, one night, listened over the long-distance telephone to the enthusiastic report of a chairman, who bore great news that his committee, a committee of twenty-six, had decided in favor of the president's wishes in a certain matter, by the splendid vote of 23 to 3. The president rejoiced with his friend, but only for a moment. Reaching for a pad and a pencil, he said, 'Now, won't you repeat very carefully to me—so that I may take them down—the names of those three.'"

THE FUNNY STORY CURE.

Nashville Tennessean: "Having vainly tried many and various remedies to resore to health a business man whom I know and who had fallen into a morbid condition owing to years of overwork, a famous Baltimore physician at last persuaded his patient to take a course of funny stories, one at each meal, with an extra two at dinner," said William B. Parker of the Maryland metropolis. "The patient, a solemn and gloomy fellow, at first rebelled, but finally falling in with the idea adopted the course recommended and was in the end restored to health, the effect of laughter being entirely to change his mental and bodily condition.

"Laughter, in fact, is one of the cheapest and most effective of medicines, breaking up stagnation of mind and body and sending a healthy vibration through one's system. There is very little the matter with the man who can enjoy a hearty laugh."

Office Room Is Limited.

The clerks in the office of J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court, all were a preoccupied air this morning. The office room is very much limited now, but somehow additional room must be squeezed out of the floor space to provide more convenient quarters for the occupants to do their work. Everybody in the office is working over some plan for an arrangement of the office desks and other fixtures so as to get more room. Chief Clerk V. A. Dash declares it is a case of attempting to make something out of nothing and that only newspaper men have a license to do that.

He opened the package and found a large campaign picture of Joseph McKibbin, Republican candidate for mayor of St. Paul, reposing serenely within the box. The lithographed features gazed at the ruffled countenance of Mr. Ortman.

Mr. Ortman is not a McKibbin man and does not intend to vote for him. He will wait until he returns to St. Paul before he decides upon the method of the come back.

AS TO WOMAN.

Chicago News: "I'd hate to be a June bride this year," remarked the stenographer boarder, with a little giggle.

"Why?" inquired the dental student.

"If the boy was all right and had the shekels coming in regular, why not June?"

"She didn't mean June, you it!" said the young woman employed in a downtown cloak department, with friendly freedom. She meant this year. Don't you know what year this is?"

"Oh-h-h!" said the dental student. "I catch on. Pardon me."

"What do you think of this thing of women proposing, Mr. Simmes?" asked the landlady of the old bachelor. "Do you think they ought to?"

"Nobody would be safe if they did," replied that person.

"You would," said the young woman from the cloaks, with some asperity.

"Now, now!" said the dental student. "We mustn't have this. Sure they've a right to propose if they want to."

"You'd better take care how you express yourself on that subject, with these fascinating young ladies around," said the bachelor boarder, warningly.

"I wish there was danger of it," said the dental student, with a glance at the stenographer, who cast down her eyes and blushed faintly.

"I never have any luck, though," he resumed. "I always manage to get in with a bunch that's such lookers they don't have to. They have to take a club to keep the fellows away from them."

"When you say a 'bunch,' I presume you mean a galaxy," said the landlady, a note of reproof in her voice.

"I mean a bunch of daisies, ma'am," said the dental student.

The young woman employed in the downtown cloak department reached behind the poetic boarder to pat the student on the back. "You'll never lose a thing by that," she said.

"Woman," said the poetic boarder, seriously, "woman should be sought. Her nature is too timid, too delicate, too refined to take the initiative in such a matter. She is the goddess to whom we sue, not the suppliant, the devotee. If she takes pity on us rude, strong men it is out of her divine compassion. If she blesses us with her companionship it is a thing for which we should be humbly grateful and strive to repay with our unceasing care and devotion."

"Hear him!" cried the dental student. "Fine business! Good talk!"

"There's nothing slow about Mr. Dilley," said the young woman employed in the downtown cloak department.

"Come off!" said the bachelor boarder.

"If woman should propose," continued the poetic boarder, "it would inevitably destroy our high ideal of her. There might be exceptional circumstaces that would justify it. Romantic history has some instances of it; but no doubt it would tend to lower her in the estimation of a manly man of fine feelings."

"Fine fiddlesticks!" said the old bachelor boarder. "Doesn't she propose all the time? She doesn't come right out and say, 'Will you be mine?' That would be too direct and too honest. No, but she'll get after him just the same, and once she does, there's no hope for him. He might as well throw up his hands—unless he's on to their game. You let them begin making eyes at you, my friend, and see where you land. You may think that you're doing it, but you won't be, Pooh!"

JJust here the young woman employed in the downtown cloak department violated the proprieties and the rules of the house. She threw a beaten biscuit at the bachelor boarder.

MEXICAN INDIANS' RACE.

Strange Contest of Speed Among Men of the Taramaharas.

Washington Post: "The most wonderful race I ever saw, in which an Indian ran 165 miles in sixteen hours, took place recently in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico," remarked Theron C. Crawford of London.

"The man who won this race," continued Mr. Crawford, "had the benefit of training (through his ancestors) for hundreds of years. He is one of a tribe of native Indians—the Taramaharas—the members of which carried messages for the Montezumas. Present cells us that this man's ancestors carried fish to the table of the king subdued by Cortez from a lake 270 miles away, and did it in one day. If they were developed to that endurance as runners in that day, how many centuries did it take their fathers to achieve such perfection?

"These Taramaharas in the province of Chihuahua today are the direct descendants of those who ran with messages and carried fish for the Montezumas. In recognition of their efficiency the Mexican government made them the carriers of its messages. They are simple people, live almost entirely nude and in the open air. The chests of the men are developd to wonderful power and their entire bodies give evidence of the physical training they have received. They are monogamists. They live in mud huts, quite different from the Mexican adobe.

"This race was between twenty of the swiftest runners of the tribe. Those who participated wagered almost everything they had. Their fellow tribesmen bet on their respective favorites. Felicio Cruz, the winner, bet his wife against thirty goats. This was not particularly strange, for the tribesmen often exchange spouses. The Indians and the Mexicans for miles around were wrought to a high pitch. Each of the runners was attended by his wife and a friend or two. The course was laid out in a circular track in a great divide in the mountains.

"When the Indians, their bronzed bodies shining in the sun, lined up for the start at 11 o'clock in the morning there was a great crowd to see them. At the signal each kicked a ball about the size of one of our baseballs, made of feathers and lined with leather. This each had to keep kicking all the way along the course of 165 miles. And each was accompanied by a mounted guard to see that no trickery was resorted to.

"All day they ran, the interest of the crowds of watchers along the course never abating. When it grew dark the mounted guards accompanying the runners carried great torches so that each contestant might see the ball he was kicking. I saw the horses, their mounts and the runners themselves outlined against the twilight on a high hill at one time during the race. It was an inspiring and beautiful sight. Though I was keeping late hours, my interest never ceased. I stayed up until the finish.

"At last, at 3 o'clock in the morning, accompanied by his guards and many friends, Felicio Cruz finished the last lap in the race. All the others had dropped out. He had won thirty goats, and about all the blankets in the tribe and kept his wife. The natives gave him a great ovation. I was satisfied with the purchase of the blanket he wore a part of the time he ran.

"What effect did the gruelling contest have on Felicio? Apparently none whatever. He did not go to bed, in fact did not sleep for five days. During all that time he sat on a rude bench outside the door of his hut. He ate but little. At the end of the five days he was as fresh as ever. He is a wonderful man."

HIS PRICELESS HALF DOLLAR.

Franklin Favorite: "When the Confederacy fell I surrendered at Shreveport, La., and was absolutely penniless. a stranger in a strange land, among a strange people," said Harvey D. Wade, known to everybody in Simpson county and one of the leading and most beloved men of Franklin. "In order to satisfy a gnawing appetite I sold the only coat I then possessed, receiving therefor two silver half dollars. With one I purchased food and here is the other.

"The thought struck me that as the great cause for which I had fought had failed it behooved me to at once set about the work of making a desirable citizen in the land of my birth, and concluding that if I could get home by the aid of only 50 cents, I could also arrive without using it, I determined to make the effort. I reached Franklin with the half dollar in my pocket, and in an effort to get a start in the world I underwent some very trying experiences, but at no time during the darkest hour of my poverty and distress did I ever consent to part with the half dollar which came to me by the sale of my last coat, at a time when desolation and despair were the only possessions of a Confederate soldier."

ENGLISH JUSTICE.

Van Norden Magazine: It is only a century since the death penalty was inflicted in England for theft not exceeding the value of a sheep. Now some of the London journals are making a merciless exposure of magistrates throughout the kingdom who keep up the tradition by scatencing petty thieves to jail, while inflicting only trifling fines upon wife beaters and even more brutal offenders.

In one police court one defendant was fined 10s 6d for knocking his wife down in the street because she refused to give him money for drink and another was sentenced to sixty days imprisonment for damaging growing potatoes and stealing two footballs.

For cruelty to a horse, beating his wife, who was ill, with fist and hammer and leaving her with nothing to eat, one man was fined 10s, while another charged with stealing a pair of socks, valued at 6d got fourteen days hard labor. It would not be difficult to make up a list of similar cases from American police courts, yet the tendency in America is rather toward a higher estimate of the value of human life.

FUTURE BATTLESHIPS AND GUNS.

Scientific American: The battleship of the future will be of great size; displacement will be not less than 20,000 tons; and this will increase so rapidly that a 30,000-ton ship will probably be afloat before the close of the next decade. The main armament will consist exclusively of heavy guns of not less than 12 inches caliber, and unless the difficulty of erosion can be overcome, the 12-inch will give place to a 13-inch and possibly to a 14-inch piece.

Future engagements will be fought at an extreme range, the extent of which will be limited only by the ability of the fire control officer to see the fall of the shot's. The determination of the range at which an engagement shall be fought will lie with the fleet which possesses the faster speed.

FOX HUNTING EXPERIENCES.

Westminster Gazette: During a recent run of the Essex and Suffork foxhounds the good people of Wivenhoe had the novel experience of seeing their town invaded by hounds and huntsmen and of looking on at the death of reynard in one of their streets.

It is not long since the New Cut was the scene of an even more startling incident, when a full grown fox suddenly appeared trotting along the middle of the street when marketing was at its busiest. To a man every coster deserted his barrow and with cries of "Tally-ho!" joined in the chase. Dashing toward Blackfrairs road the fox soon doubled, and darting under a fruiterer's barrow sought refuge in a wheelwright's yard, where he was found firmly wedged in the spokes of a cartwheel and carried off in triumph by a second hand furniture dealer.

A fox was recently chased by the Belvoir hounds into Aslacky village and went to ground in the churchyard; another sought refuge on the housetops in Hullavington village and was dislodged by means of a ladder, while still another was killed in the dining room of Gayhurst House, the residence of W. W. Carlile, formerly M. P. for North Bucks.

WHEAT HAS A REACTION

Market is Over-Sold and Closes Higher on Bulge.

Flax Is Little Firmer at the Close in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 10.—Wheat was irregular during the early part of the session today, with weaker tendencies, but during the latter part of the day, it became apparent that the market had been oversold and a rally took place, causing a good bulge over yesterday in all the American markets.

The news from the Southwest was rather bullish late, the Modern Miller's report naving that tone.

Broomhall estimates the world's shipments of wheat this week, exclusive of North America, at 6,800,000 bus.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅞d lower, Berlin ⅝c lower and Budapest 1¼c lower.

The Modern Miller says:

"Telegraphic advices state that moisture is lacking in Western Kansas and Nebraska. The ground being dry in the extreme west, but the condition of the winter wheat is good, and the crop can stand dry weather for some time. Elsewhere rains have been plentiful, especially west of the Missouri river, and fears are expressed of damage to wheat in low lands by flood. Reports that the plant is turning yellow from excessive moisture are being received."

The May option closed ⅞c higher in Duluth, 1⅜-½c higher in Chicago, 1-⅛c higher in Minneapolis and 1c higher in New York and Winnipeg. The July option closed ¾c higher in Duluth, 1¼-⅜c higher in Chicago, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis and 1c higher in New York and Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅜c higher in Chicago and ¼d lower in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛1-c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a steady undertone to the speculative wheat market at the opening although values were ¾d to ⅞d lower. Offerings were not large but support was lacking, stimulated by the break in the American markets yesterday and the continued liberal shipments from Argentine. Later there was some covering by shorts in the nearby months with an advance of ⅛d. The distant months, however, continued under pressure to sell due to the improved American crop advices and a further loss of ¼d was made. At midday, the market was dull, with the nearby month ⅝d lower than Thursday and the distant months 1⅛d lower.

"Corn was steady and ¼d lower. The market was featureless and neglected."

Car receipts at Duluth were 20 against 187 last year, and at Minneapolis 162 against 340 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 182 against 527 last year. Chicago received 8 against 19 last year. Winnipeg received 182 against 110 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 281,000 bus, last year 688,000 bus. Shipments 133,000 bus, last year 186,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 206,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 6,048,000 bus against 6,126,000 bus last week and 4,448,000 bus a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 281,000 bus, last year 466,000 bus. Shipments 279,000 bus, last year 591,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 117,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn were 463,000 bus, against 57,000 bus last week and 40,000 bus a year ago.

Wheat was fairly active during the session in Duluth today. May wheat opened ⅜c lower at 95⅛c bid, sold at 96⅛c, advanced to 96¾c, declined to 95½c, reacted to 96¾c and closed at that price, a gain of ⅞c over yesterday. July wheat opened late at 97⅜c, declined to 97¼c, rallied to 98⅛c and closed at 98c, a gain of ¾c over yesterday.

Durum and cash spring wheat were unchanged.

Flax was rather quiet but closed firm. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.15½, advanced to $1.16 and closed at that price, a gain of ¼c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.18, advanced to $1.18⅛ and closed at $1.18. October flax sold at $1.17¼ and closed at $1.18, a gain of ¾c over yesterday.

Oats closed ½c lower and other coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Strong on Good Buying by Commission Houses.

Chicago, April 10.—The wheat market today opened strong on good buying by shorts and commission houses. Sales were light, however. As a result of this situation prices advanced about 1c in the first thirty minutes. Small receipts in the Northwest were a strengthening factor. May wheat opened ¼c to ½c higher, at 90c to 90¼c, declined to 89⅞c and then sold at 90⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 190 cars, against 215 cars last week, and 555 cars one year ago.

The market was strong all day, chiefly because of reports of damage by dry weather in Kansas. From 89⅝c May advanced to 91⅜c. The close was strong, with May up 1⅜@1½c at 91⅛@¼c.

The corn market was firm because of small receipts and unsettled weather throughout the corn belt. May corn opened ⅛c to ⅜c higher, at 67⅛c to 67⅜c and for a time held within that range. Local receipts were 149 cars, with 28 of contract grade.

The market ruled strong throughout the day, the high point for May was 67¾c. The close was firm with May ⅝c higher, at 67⅜c.

The oats market was exceedingly dull. May opened a shade lower, at 52½c and held at that figure some time. Local receipts were 154 cars.

The provisions market was quiet and steady. May pork opened unchanged at $13.47½. Lard was unchanged at $8.37½. Ribs were 2½c higher at $7.20.

Close: Wheat—May, 91⅛@¼c; July, 84⅞c; September, 81¾c. Corn—May, 67⅜c; July, 64¼c; September, 62⅞@63c. Oats—May, old, 53½c; May, 51¾c; July, old, 45⅝c; July, 43¾c; September, 37⅝@¾c. Pork—May, $13.55; July, $13.65; September, $13.97½. Lard—May, $8.35; July, $8.57½; September, $8.75. Ribs—May, $7.17½; July, $7.40@7.42½; September, $7.65. Rye—Cash, 76@78c. Barley—Cash, 68@83c. Timothy—April, $4.50. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 92@93½c; No. 3 red, 90@93c; No. 2 hard, 92@98c; No. 3 hard, 87@96c; No. 3 spring, 93c; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 64½c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Dry Weather in Kansas Had Some Influence on Wheat.

Minneapolis, April 10.—Dry weather in the northwestern part of Kansas was a wheat market influence. There was a short interest in the market after yesterday's decline. These shorts bought in on the Kansas news. Otherwise the crop reports were favorable. Duluth, with only 20 cars in against 187 made a bullish comparison and Minneapolis had only 162 against 349. Minneapolis elevator stocks will increase about 50,000 bushels for the week. The market was erratic and up and down but showed stronger undertone throughout and was quick to recover from decline. May opened at 97c, high 98⅞c; low 97c; close 98⅝c. July closed 98c; September, closed 88¼c.

Demand for choice milling wheat was better and 2@2½c over May was heard for No. 1 northern. But low grades were not so firm; No. 2 northern was May price to ½c under. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.00⅝ sport or to arrive; No. 2 northern, 98@⅜c spot, 98⅜c to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 90@95⅜c. No. 3 yellow corn, 63¼@63⅜c.

No. 3 white oats, 49⅜c.

No. 2 rye, 71¾@73¾c.

The barley market was about steady with yesterday and good barley was in demand. Close: 62@81c.

Flax was quotable at Duluth May price to ¼c over. Close: $1.16.

Bran in bulk, $21.00@21.25.

Shipping instructions came in more freely, swelling the outward movement somewhat. New business was light, both foreign and domestic. Quotations were unchanged. Shipments, 43,430 barrels. First patents, $5.15@5.30; second patents, $5.05@5.20; first clears, $4.05@4.15; second clears, $3.10@3.20.

Grain Gossip.

Chicago Tribune: The annual tests of the North Dakota Agricultural college indicate that the frost went to a greater depth during the last winter than during any of the last seventeen years, during which the records have been kept. This, too, in spite of the unusually mild winter. It is accounted for by the fact that there was no snow on the ground to protect the soil. Farmers regard the depth of the frost as almost a certain guarantee of good crops, as it will furnish continuous moisture, coming daily to the surface, practically through the growing season.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walter W. Carr: Copper stocks were firm but did not respond in a marked way to the strength in the New York market. The weakness of foreign metal prices continues to be a disturbing influence and makes investors somewhat skeptical as to the stability of domestic quotations. Reports to the effect that a great deal of metal now held in China is likely to find its way to this country should a material demand by domestic consumers materialize has caused hesitancy and investors are not disposed to commit themselves to any greater extent until the outlook is clearer. Isle Royale is in good demand on reports that the Baltic lode has been struck on the company's property.

The Cotton Market.

New York, April 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points in response to firm cables, covering and a renewal of the Wall street buying which was a prominent feature during the late trading. There was considerable selling at the advance, but prices improved after the call and the market during the middle of the morning was steady in tone and about 7 to 9 points net higher. The Mississippi river is reported at flood stage at Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 10.25; middling gulf, 10.50. Sales, none. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: April, 9.62; May, 9.36; June, 9.36; July, 9.40; August, 9.34; September, 9.32; October, 9.37; November, 9.36; December, 9.37; January, 9.39; March, 9.40.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Early Advances Were All Wiped Out in the Afternoon.

Small Rally Did Not Hold and Close Was Easier.

New York, April 10.—First prices of stocks today were but little changed from last night and showed quite equal division between gains and losses. General Electric advanced 2 and Central Leather ¾. Mexican Central declined 1 and Anaconda ¾.

A broader, higher, and more active market prevailed, which reflected a moderate growth of bullish sentiment. There were sharp advances in many usually obscure specialties. Among the better known stocks Union Pacific was bought heavily and there was a fair inquiry for Reading, Atchison and the copper stocks. General Electric advanced 5 points, Third Avenue 4½, Westinghouse Electric 3, American Hide & Leather preferred 2½, Consolidated Gas 2, Delaware & Hudson 1⅜, and Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Erie and the first and second preferred, Louisville & Nashville, Brooklyn Transit, Twin City Rapid Transit, and the Central Leather stocks 1 to 1¼.

The rise was carried considerably further, but the prominence of low grades and the unresponsiveness of United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper had an unfavorable effect and brought back a check to the advance. Bonds were firm.

Leading stocks were not influenced by the bidding up of special stocks for sympathetic effect on the list. American Smelting was up 1⅛, but the other active features remained sluggish and without essential changes.

The tone became heavy and the advances in most of the active stocks were wiped out. Canadian Pacific dropped 1¼.

The market closed easier and dull. The reaction ran to considerable lengths and established an average of fractional losses. Canadian Pacific's decline reached 1⅝, Delaware & Hudson and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 2, and Missouri Pacific and American Locomotive 1. Prices steadied when the room shorts bought to cover, but the small rally did not hold.

Stock Gossip.

Miller, New York, to M. W. Lee: This has been a Harriman market with Union Pacific selling at the highest prices of the year. Erie affairs, and the manner in which the rising influence of Mr. Harriman in the property may affect other roads, continued to be quite a topic of discussion.

Sterling exchange rates seem to foreshadow gold exports, but in view of the needs of the treasury we question any large quantity of gold leaving these shores. The real news today was the output on gold at the Rand. Figures for March show 575,000 ounces as compared with the expected showing of 530,000 ounces.

The market sold off in the last hour on rumors regarding the health of a prominent national banker.

The figures showing the world's gold supply for March but confirm us further in the view we have held so strongly that the great preponderance of known factors in to the credit of the bull argument.

CONDEMN THE ALDRICH BILL

Three Prominent Men Appear Before the House Committee.

Washington, April 10.—Victor Morawetz, chairman of the executive board of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad; Emory W. Clark, vice president of the First National bank of Detroit, and representative of the Clearing House association of that city and Frank Dale LaLanne, representative of the Philadelphia board of trade, appeared before the committee on banking and currency of the house of representatives today and all condemned the Aldrich bill and gave many reasons why they did not think it should become a law.

Mr. Clark declared that the bill, as an emergency measure, was not worthy of serious consideration. It would not, he said, result in the banks preparing themselves for a panic by purchasing bonds, as provided for in the bill as a basis of the emergency currency.

"They would feel that they could watch the situation and when danger looms up they could buy the bonds," said Mr. Clark. He did not believe there would be enough of the securities prescribed in the bill to provide bonds for the banks, as the bonds are closely held by people who would not sell them even at an advance. He condemned the plan to enlarge the reserves of smaller banks, and, while he said it might result in strengthening the position of such banks, it would seriously curtail the amount of loans they could make.

Against the Bill.

Mr. La Lanne presented a report from a committee of the Philadelphia board of trade against the Aldrich bill. The committee was opposed to the prohibition respecting the making of loans to institutions in which directors of the bank are interested, and he said that as bank directors are men of extensive business affairs, such a restriction would result in either the loss of business or of desirable directors.

Mr. Morawetz favored the appointment of a non-partisan commission to take up the entire subject of banking and to present a plan at the next session of congress for legislation. If the pending Aldrich bill should be passed, he said, it should be limited in its operations to not more than one or two years so that it would not become a permanent addition to the banking laws of the land. He was opposed to keeping bonds as a part of the reserve of banks, saying that during the recent stringency many banks were loaded up with bonds, while only money would help them.

WANTS TO SELL LAND.

Railroad Commission Asks If It Can Sell Duluth Property.

St. Paul, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The railway and warehouse commission has asked Attorney General Young for an opinion covering its right to sell valuable lake front property owned by it at Duluth.

The property was acquired in 1893 under a state law, authorizing the construction of a state elevator. This law was later declared unconstitutional and the land purchased has been lying idle ever since.

The commission now wants to either sell or lease it, and the right to do so is in question.

DELEGATES AT LARGE ELECTED.

Boston, April 10.—At the Republican state convention, ex-Governor John L. Bates moved the nomination of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and W. Murray Crane, former secretary of the navy; John D. Long and Sidney O. Bigney of Attleboro, as the four delegates at large to the national convention, and they were named by acclamation.

CONSIDERING NAVAL BILL.

Washington, April 10.—In pursuance of the program of business mapped out by the Republicans through the adoption on Wednesday last of a special rule the house of representatives today began consideration of the naval appropriation bill. Under the terms of the rule general debate will close tomorrow at 5 p. m.

MAIL STOLEN.

Janesville, Wis., April 10.—Two mail sacks with Eastern states mail were stolen from a depot platform here last night. The sacks were found ripped open, and part of the contents gone.

INDICTED FOR REBATING.

Little Rock, Ark., April 10.—The Pulaski county grand jury today delivered to Judge R. J. Lea eighteen indictments, four of which were against the Waters-Pierce Oil company, charging discriminations against individuals and towns, and conspiracy for granting rebates.

SUNDOWN DOCTORS.

"Sundown doctors" are an institution peculiar to Washington city. They are an amiable company of medical practitioners who ply their trade only after nightfall.

Not that these gentlemen prefer darkness to light if they had their d'ruthers, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, nor are their deeds of a questionable complexion that looks best in the shade.

Sundown doctors have no ways that are dark or tricks that are vain. They are as open as the day that they may not utilize. If they practice their profession by candlelight rather than by the sunshine that's Uncle Sam's fault, not their own.

Sundown doctors begin to get busy only after 4:30 in the afternoon. From 9 to that hour, poor souls, they are holding their noses to the grindstones over the government desks, for one must live, don't you know, however soaring one's scientific ambition, and Uncle Sam's wages do come in mighty regular and handy. So that in a pigeonhole is the story of the origin of the struggling fraternity of sundown physicians at the federal capital.

There are thousands of instances. Young physicians with their careers yet to carve secure clerkships in some of the government departments of Washington in order to keep the pot bubbling while they are getting their medical education after office hours. Their diplomas thus laboriously achieved, they hang out their shingles tentatively, holding fast, however, to their government positions until securely established professionally. A job in the hand, you know, is worth a whole city directory full of uncaptured patients. Never let go a sure thing till you are sure of a surer.

FEED BABY WHAT IT WANTS.

"A baby knows when he wants to eat, and is provided with an excellent and most musical apparatus for conveying that fact to your apprehension," says Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in the Woman's Home Companion. "He knows what he wants, and will reject vigorously what doesn't suit him. And you may be sure that he knows far better than most adults when he has had enough.

"This faculty is present from his very earliest appearance upon the stage of life. During the first three days of his existence the healthy baby cries but little and sleeps almost constantly; and we have now discovered that during this period he not only requires no food, but is better off without it. He is still digesting and living upon the nourishment in his blood, derived from the veins of his mother, and until that process is completed, food in his little stomach is a foreign body. In fact, the impression that colic or 'colickiness' in a baby is a natural characteristic is chiefly due to the senseless insistence of officious nurses and anxious mothers upon crowding things into the baby's stomach during his first three days. There is another clear indication on the part of nature of this fact, if we had only been open minded enough to see it, in that there is no natural supply of nourishment for the child until the close of these three days. The horrible things that are poked into the unfortunate baby's mouth in order to correct this stupid oversight in order to of nature and keep it from starving to death would almost stagger credulity.

"His faculty of knowing what he wants in the way of food is equally to be trusted. He is largely a creature of circumstances here, and if what he really likes doesn't happen to be offered him he, of course, can indicate no preference for it. He vastly prefers nature's own source of nourishment, and is a thousand times justified in his preference. Nature has taken a quarter of a million years in fitting a cow's milk not to grow a baby, but a calf, and a mother's milk to grow a baby, and we cannot expect to completely reverse the process in one generation. Not only is the natural supply a far better food, but is is infinitely freer from risks of contamination and the conveyance of disease."

My own wires to Copper Country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

APRIL 10, 1908.

The copper share market is acting fine. Stocks are not offered down even on a quiet market. At the close of business today all Boston stocks tightened in good shape and we may see higher prices tomorrow. One big broker told me today that his customers were turning their Greene-Cananea and Superior & Pittsburg into Ballaklava, and in my office it is no uncommon thing to see hundreds of shares of Greene-Cananea and others exchanged for Butte-Ballaklava stock.

Ballaklava is the greatest favorite on the board, and when they begin cutting the veins on the 700-foot level you will see one of the greatest advances since Calumet & Arizona began cutting rich ore.

Butte & Superior is one of the very best of propositions. Buy this stock at this low level and lock it up and you will not be sorry, for as sure as you live Butte & Superior will make a big and valuable property. They may open up silver deposits that were never dreamed of. Clark took out a couple of million dollars' worth and hardly scratched the property. Shattuck is one of the very richest mines in the Bisbee district. I advise the purchase of this one for one of the very surest propositions.

Tuolumne is getting along fast and I would not be surprised to see them open up a big ore body very soon. The demand for this stock is very strong in the West. Stock is selling around $1 per share.

The Petition of Samuel F. Wadhams having been filed in this court, representing, among other things, that Esther T. Wadhams, then being a resident of the city of Wilkes-Barre, State of Pennsylvania, died intestate, in the city of Wilkes-Barre, State of Pennsylvania, on the 12th day of February, 1908; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is one of the children and heirs at law of said decedent, and praying that letters of administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to Samuel F. WARFARE IN THE LEAGUE Trouble in Union Label League Reaches Acute Stage.

Organization is Now Split Into Two Warring Factions.

When somebody said, "In union there is strength," he probably did not refer women. At least that is the opinion of local organized labor leaders, who have been drawn into the merry war now waging between different factions in the Women's Label league.

So bitter has this warfare become, all over the question of whether the organization shall become affiliated with the Women's International Union Label league, that two leagues have resulted from the one, and each is out after the other's scalp.

One faction, led by Mrs. W. A. Warnecka, president of the original organization in Duluth, will meet this evening in the Kalamazoo building, and the other faction, led by the vice president, will hold a meeting next Tuesday at Axa hall.

It has been commonly believed all along that Mrs. Warnecka favored becoming affiliated with the national organization, but it is contended by the other faction that the principal trouble results from the fact that she is opposed to taking such a step. The original union is about equally divided on the question, and so interested have the two factions become in fighting each other that the purpose of the organization, the promotion of a more general use of the union label, has been almost forgotten.

The trouble is not entirely over joining the national organization, although that is the principal bone of contention. Aside from this matter, a good many of the members are dissatisfied with the executive methods of their chief officer. They say she wants to be a veritable queen over them all and rule the roost to the exclusion of everybody else. That, it is charged, is one reason why she does not want the organization to affiliate with the national order. If it did so affiliate, her power would be crippled to a certain extent. Another charge is that Mrs. Warnecka is too indiscriminate in her boycotts. At the rate she has been going, she would soon have every store in town on the black list, and her followers would have to do their trading in Superior, it is claimed.

George B. Howley, president of the State Federation of Labor, was nearly driven distracted while in the city, listening to the complaints of the different factions. He managed to keep down open rebellion, but since he left the city the situation has gotten entirely beyond everybody's control, and there seems to be nothing left to do but fight it out.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Oppose Depot Site on Bay.

The people in the East end and South Superior will oppose any attempt to locate the new passenger depot in the East end on the bay front. They claim that a depot on the bay front will mean that the Ashland trains will take the interstate bridge route, instead of passing through South Superior.

Builders May Rescind Resolution.

It is rumored that the Builders' exchange of Superior will rescind its resolution for "open shop" at the next meeting. It is claimed that out of a membership of fifty, only thirty-five attended the meeting that declared for an open shop and that advantage was taken by the friends of open shop policy to force the resolution through when they were in the majority. Some of the members claim that the majority of the members belonging are not in favor of the open shop, and that at the next meeting an effort will be made to rescind the former resolution.

Improvements to Start Soon.

The board of public works will receive bids, April 20, for the grading of Thirteenth street, between Hammond and Clough avenues, also for the laying of brick alley crossings to connect the concrete walks on Seventeenth street, between Hammond and Oakes avenues. Within the next two weeks the board of public works will let a contract for the laying of water pipes on Grand avenue, between Belknap and Eighteenth streets, after which a contract will be let for the paving of the same thoroughfare.

Voting Cases Up.

Peter Nerof and Hurbert Gunderson of Lake Nebagamon, Wis., were this morning arraigned in the municipal court of Superior on the charge of having voted illegally at the village election at Lake Nebagamon.

P. H. Robertson of Nebagamon, brought the charge against them, claiming that they had made bets on the outcome of the election and previous to it.

They were placed under bonds of $500 apiece to appear at the court next Thursday.

Gains Four Votes.

The official count of the votes cast in Superior election was this morning reported. Mayor-elect Frank Crumpton received a plurality of 603 votes, four less than was credited to him at the first count, and a majority of 265, a total vote of 2,780 having been cast for him.

The total vote cast for J. S. Konkel was 2,177, and for Harris 338, a total of 5,345 votes having been cast in the city election.

Easter Hats for Men

KNAPP-FELT is the peculiar product of a factory which has made the finest grades of hats for over fifty years.

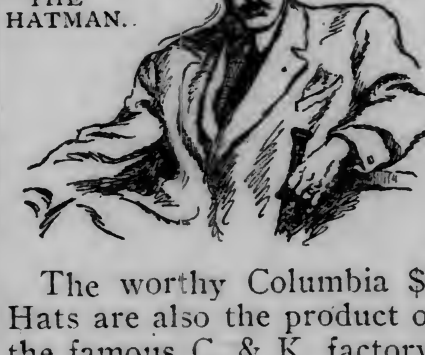

Crofut & Knapp were the pioneer derby manufacturers in the United States and for more than half a century have made the best. The C. & K. shop is manned and equipped for the production of high-grade hats only; therefore, while brain-guided machines are used in processes where experience has demonstrated their value, the important operations, upon which depend the style and character of the hat, are performed by the hand of an artistic C. & K. workman.

The points of excellence which distinguish Knapp-Felt hats are the steadfast Cronap dye, whose deep, rich, permanent color is not affected by weather or climate, rain or shine; the variety of exclusive shapes, affording the opportunity for the exercise of individual taste rather than the slavish following of self-constituted "fashion" leaders and the superb quality, a combination of the best materials and skilled handwork.

In Duluth, these hats can be bought only at the Columbia Clothing Store, who are also long-distance hatters for all points in the Northern parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Knapp-Felt DeLuxe, the best hats made, are Six Dollars. Knapp-Felts, the next best, are Four Dollars—everywhere.

Write for THE HATMAN.

The worthy Columbia $3 Hats are also the product of the famous C. & K. factory.

CALL NOW FOR JACOBSON TO TELL WHERE HE STANDS ON THE PRESENT ISSUES

Young's Letter to The Herald Was the Week's Sensation.

"Leaders" He Rapped Said to be Preparing Torrid Reply.

Temperance People Looking Into Record of George T. Simpson.

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement a week ago that Ed Young intended to withdraw from the race for governor and the reply which he made, were the sensation of the week as far as state politics are concerned, and, while Young denies that he intends to pull out of the race, he and many others admit that the size-up of the situation was substantially correct. The story of the growth of the Jacobson boom and how political "leaders" in the Republican party and the alleged representatives of "the interests" have allied themselves with the boom has not been denied.

The call now is for Jacobson to make an explanation. Many of the Republican papers have demanded a statement of his platform, how he stands on the issues of the present time and what he will do if elected governor. He and his managers point to his past record as his only platform, but some of the papers say that it is not enough to know what a man did in the past, but they must know how he stands on the issues of the present, the new issues that have developed since the time Jacobson was in the legislature. Some of them also want to know something about this persistent talk that "the interests" are supporting him.

The Albert Lea Times-Enterprise thinks that Jacobson should lose no time in taking a decided stand on these questions and making his position publicly known. It says: "In answer to every inquiry, Jake points to his record and expects that to answer all inquiries. It is true that the worthy record of a man's achievements must always stand to his credit, whenever for any purpose it becomes necessary to take that man's measure. But Jake's record is becoming rather aged

GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE

J. J. Hill Will be One of the Principal Speakers.

President Roosevelt Will Preside at the Meetings.

Washington, April 11.—James J. Hill will make one of the leading addresses at the White House conference of governors in May, on the conservation of natural resources. His subject will be "The Relation Between Rail and Water Transportation."

It is understood Mr. Hill's subject will lead him into a discussion of the competitive relations between the railroads and canals of this country. He is one of the five distinguished citizens who have been personally invited to attend the conference. The others are Grover Cleveland, William J. Bryan, John Mitchell and Andrew Carnegie. These guests, with the governors of the states, will be entertained by President Roosevelt at a dinner on the

CLUB DINNER AT WASHINGTON

Republican State Clubs' League Will Have Great Feast.

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrangements have been perfected for the annual dinner of the League of Republican State Clubs of the District of Columbia, be held at the Masonic Temple on April 25. The committee means to make this year's dinner the greatest in the history of the league. The members of the District Republican Club of Minnesota will participate in the feast.

The president, members of the cabinet and prominent members of the senate and house have been invited to attend. Internal Revenue Commissioner Capers will be toastmaster and will shortly announce a list of the speakers.

TWO FIRES IN MINNEAPOLIS

Several Firemen Slightly Injured in Both Conflagrations.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out early last evening in the plant of the Napa Valley Wine company, 808 Hennepin avenue, Minneapolis, resulting in damage in the sum of about $20,000 mostly covered by insurance.

Two firemen were slightly injured by broken glass, resulting from a couple of minor explosions. They were: Lieut. Louis Larson of Truck company No. 1, and Lieut. John McNamara of Truck company No. 2. The fire originated in the basement of the building and is supposed to have been caused by an overheated steam pipe.

While the firemen were working over a fire in the house of S. H. Findley at 231 East Twenty-fifth street last evening, the burning roof fell on Joseph Hernlund, second assistant fire chief, and members of truck company No. 5.

The firemen had gone to the second floor to obtain a better position, and the falling roof covered them with hot fragments and timbers. None of the men was badly hurt. While the fire was burning, Carl Sederberg of truck company No. 5 ran into the house at his personal risk and brought out a box reported to contain jewels.

FREIGHTER LAUNCHED.

Business at the Wyandotte Yard Will Now be Quiet.

Detroit, April 11.—With the launching of the 10,000-ton freighter A. E. Nettleton today, at the Wyandotte yard of the American Shipbuilding company, the business of the Wyandotte yard will almost reach a standstill. About 1,000 men are employed when the yard is operated at its full capacity, but yesterday all the employes were laid off, with the exception of a launching crew and a few men, who will be retained for repair work. About fifty men were retained.

The new vessel's sponsor was Miss Alice Nettleton of Syracuse, N. Y., daughter of one of the directors of the Wilkinson Transportation company, after whom the boat is named.

First Test of Uniform Primary Act in Pennsylvania.

The Election Machinery Will be Taxed to the Utmost.

Local Option is Playing Important Part in Campaign.

Philadelphia, April 11.—The first real test of the uniform primary act, which was passed by the legislature in special session as a result of the political upheaval in Pennsylvania more than two years ago, will be had this afternoon when all the political parties in the state will elect delegates to their respective national and state conventions and nominate candidates for congress, state senate, assembly, judges and minor offices in the sixty-seven counties of the state. The polls will open at 2 p. m. and close at 8 p. m. In addition to the thousands of nominations filed with the commissioners in all the counties, more than 3,000 names of candidates for national delegates, congress and legislature were filed with the secretary of the commonwealth. The election machinery of the state will be taxed to the limit. The work of handling the election and compiling returns is expected to be heavier than that of any election ever held in Pennsylvania.

Both Parties Elect.

The Republican and Democratic parties will each elect sixty-four delegates to their national convention. In addition they will elect delegates to the state convention, each of which will select four delegates-at-large and nominate a candidate for judge of the state superior court. Thirty-two candidates for congress, twenty-five candidates for the state senate and 207 candidates for membership in the lower house of the legislature will also be selected today by each party from among the thousands whose names have been placed on the primary ballot.

There is no contest within the Republican party over Pennsylvania's preference for the presidency. The last state convention unanimously endorsed United States Senator Knox, and the present indications are that the state convention to be held at Harrisburg, April 28, will re-affirm the action of last year, and Pennsylvania's sixty-eight votes in the national convention will be cast for Senator Knox.

Who Offers Resolution Abolishing Many of the Navy Yards.

Washington, April 11.—The investigation of the navy yards at Charleston, Port Royal, Mare Island, Portsmouth, New York, New Orleans and Key West by a commission appointed by the president with a view to their abandonment, was urged by Representative Lilley of Connecticut before the house today. Mr. Lilley offered a joint resolution providing for the appointment of this committee and for improvements in other yards so as to eliminate the "waste of public moneys in the maintainance of the same."

Mr. Lilley quoted from reports made by boards of officers and former secretaries of the navy as far back as 1885, to show that the condition of the navy yards then was open to severe criticism and that the re-organization of the navy department itself was desirable.

Dry Dock Too Small.

"The Mare Island yard," he said, "has cost the people $17,000,000. It has a magnificent stone dry dock which cost $1,175,000, but the secretary of the navy states that this dry dock will not permit the docking of a battleship."

Although Rear Admiral Endicott, then chief of the bureau of yards and docks, ten years ago practically recommended the abondonment of this yard, since that time, $728,866 have been spent in dredging alone and $5,124,712 have been appropriated and spent on the yard.

New York., April 11.—Mme. Anna Gould, with her children, sailed for Genoa and Naples today on board the North German Lloyd steamer Frederich Der Grosse. About the same hour the Prince de Sagan, who has been paying assiduous court to Mme. Gould, sailed for Europe on the American line steamer St. Paul.

Mme. Gould and her children passed the night on board the steamer Frederich Der Grosse. She was registered on the passenger list of the steamer as Miss Annette Chapin. The Gould party arrived at the pier about midnight last night in five automobiles.

Mme. Gould was accompanied to the steamer by the Prince de Sagan and Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, her friends whom she had been visiting at the hotel St. Regis. The party was assigned to the captain's suite on the upper deck, and the prince and Mr. and Mrs. Morse remained only long enough to bid them farewell. All approaches to their suite were carefully guarded before the steamer sailed, but when the steamer left her dock the Abbe de Caymac, the tutor of the Guild children, was seen at the steamer's rail holding up the children to wave their hats to people on the shore. JOHNSON BOOM STILL GROWING Denver Man Says His Nomination Would Mean Close Contest.

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Congressman Brooks of Denver arrived in Washington today. Mr. Brooks is a Republican and said Taft was their choice in Colorado. As to the Democratic sentiment, he said that his observation has been that the Johnson candidacy is growing daily very considerably in strength out his way.

"If Governor Johnson of Minnesota is nominated," said Mr. Brooks, "as against Taft, or in fact almost any other man, we have as an avowed candidate, he will come very near winning. It it should be Taft against Johnson, though a Republican, I believe it would be a very close election, as close probably as the Hayes-Tilden campaign. Governor Johnson has strength as a vote-getter, and that is what the Democrats need, and it would not surprise me at all should Johnson capture the nomination. My opinion may not be worth much as to the movements of those in the camp of the enemy, but my observation is that if Johnson can secure support in New York, it will beat Bryan out for the nomination, and as the head of the ticket, he will give whosoever may be nominated a mighty close race for the presidential chair."

Minneapolis, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. L. A. Sidmore, 24 Central avenue, whose husband died Friday morning, is authority for the statement that his death was caused by starvation and lack of proper medical care, although she had applied for aid to the city authorities and to various charitable institutions of that city.

Her husband was 60 years of age, and although he had been ailing for years, he had managed to eke out an existence by manufacturing and selling a rheumatism medicine. The couple lived in one room in the basement of a building, the ground floor of which was occupied by a saloon. The proprietor of the saloon took a kindly interest in the aged couple, and had practically given them the little they had had for some time past.

Mrs. Sidmore told a newspaper representative, last evening, that she had applied for aid to the city poor department a long time ago, but that she received no attention.

Latter Day Saints Refuse to Restrict the Ministry.

Kansas City, April 11.—The reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Later Day saints, continued their annual conference at Independence today.

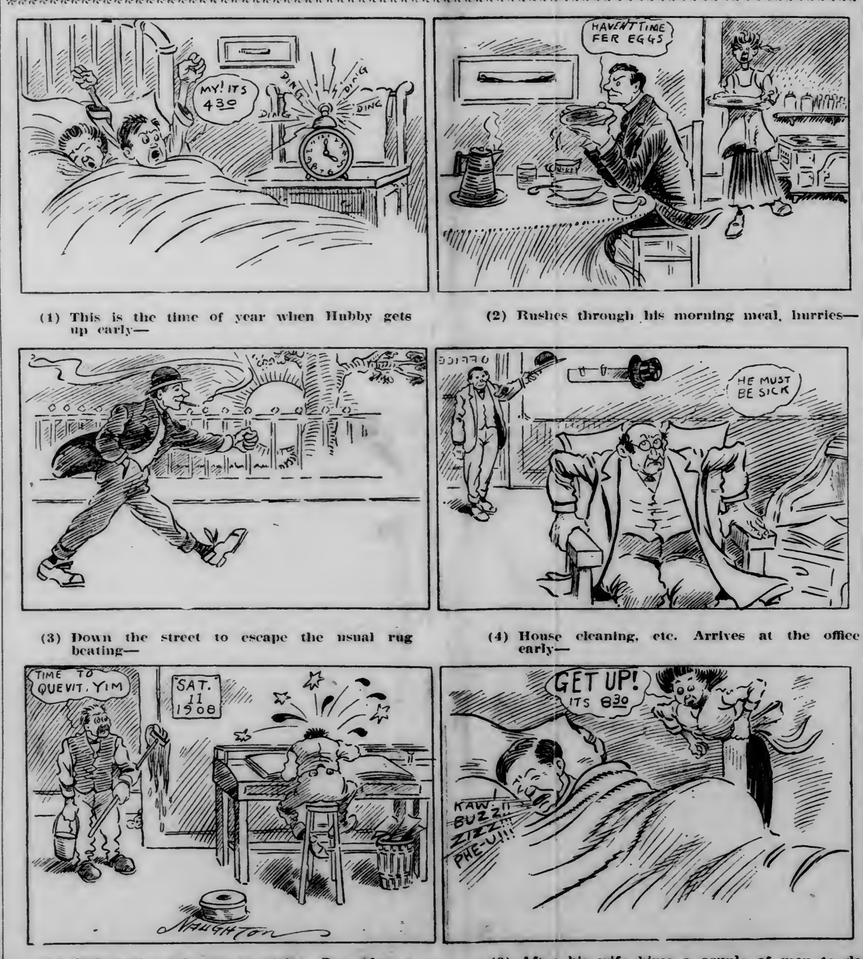

The divorce question was disposed of yesterday after an interesting debate and by the refusal to adopt a resolution forbidding the ministry to marry divorcees.

President Joseph Smith spoke at length, being opposed to undertaking legislative enactment against possible contingencies in the marriage and divorce laws. He questioned restrictive measures which might be injurious and unjust to innocent men and women. Marriage was a mutual contract, he said. "Suppose," said the president, "by reason of my fiendishness I was driven from home with a broom stick, where would the marriage contract be?"

President Smith referred to cases of insanity, and alluded to the Thaw case in New York.

"There is not a man who has married in his youth, who was not captured by a dimple, a bright look, a toss of the head, who is not and cannot be held yet by the same dimple, the same toss of the head. They call it romance. Thank God there is so much romance in the world."

CALL NOW FOR JACOBSON TO TELL WHERE HE STANDS ON THE PRESENT ISSUES

Young's Letter to The Herald Was the Week's Sensation.

"Leaders" He Rapped Said to be Preparing Torrid Reply.

Temperance People Looking Into Record of George T. Simpson.

J. F. JACOBSON,
Who Is Called Upon to State His Position on Issues of the Present.

St. Paul Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement a week ago that Ed Young intended to withdraw from the race for governor and the reply which he made, were the sensation of the week as far as state politics are concerned, and, while Young denies that he intends to pull out of the race, he and many others admit that the size-up of the situation was substantially correct. The story of the growth of the Jacobson boom and how political "leaders" in the Republican party and the alleged representatives of "the interests" have allied themselves with the boom has not been denied.

The call now is for Jacobson to make an explanation. Many of the Republican papers have demanded a statement of his platform, how he stands on the issues of the present time and what he will do if elected governor. He and his managers point to his past record as his only platform, but some of the papers say that it is not enough to know what a man did in the past, but they must know how he stands on the issues of the present, the new issues that have developed since the time Jacobson was in the legislature. Some of them also want to know something about this persistent talk that "the interests" are supporting him.

The Albert Lea Times-Enterprise thinks that Jacobson should lose no time in taking a decided stand on these questions and making his position publicly known. It says: "In answer to every inquiry, Jake points to his record and expects that to answer all inquiries. It is true that the worthy record of a man's achievements must always stand to his credit, whenever for any purpose it becomes necessary to take that man's measure. But Jake's record is becoming rather aged

TWO FIRES IN MINNEAPOLIS

Several Firemen Slightly Injured in Both Conflagrations.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out early last evening in the plant of the Napa Valley Wine company, 308 Hennepin avenue, Minneapolis, resulting in damage in the sum of about $20,000 mostly covered by insurance.

Two firemen were slightly injured by broken glass, resulting from a couple of minor explosions. They were Lieut. Louis Larson of Truck company No. 1, and Lieut. John McNamara of Truck company No. 2. The fire originated in the basement of the building and is supposed to have been caused by an overheated steam pipe.

While the firemen were working over a fire in the house of S. H. Finsley at 231 East Twenty-fifth street last evening, the burning roof fell on Joseph Hernlund, second assistant fire chief, and members of truck company No. 5.

The firemen had gone to the second floor to obtain a better position, and the falling roof covered them with hot fragments and timbers. None of the men was badly hurt. While the fire was burning, Carl Soderberg of truck company No. 5 ran into the house at his personal risk and brought out a box reported to contain jewels.

Business at the Wyandotte Yard Will Now be Quiet.

Detroit, April 11.—With the launching of the 10,000-ton freighter A. E. Nettleton today, at the Wyandotte yard of the American Shipbuilding company, the business of the Wyandotte yard will almost reach a standstill. About 1,000 men are employed when the yard is operated at its full capacity, but yesterday all the employes were laid off, with the exception of a launching crew and a few men, who will be retained for repair work. About fifty men were retained.

The new vessel's sponsor was Miss Alice Nettleton of Syracuse, N. Y., daughter of one of the directors of the Wilkinson Transportation company, after which the boat is named.

METERS ORDERED.

Chicago Merchants Have Too Good Chance to Steal Water.

Chicago, April 11.—According to an official list compiled last night, more than 250 business firms of Chicago, some of them, it is said, the largest in the city, have no meters on their water pipes designed for fire protection. In consequence, water, in unlimited quantities, could be stolen from the city. Supt. W. J. McCourt of the municipal water bureau said the loss thus inflicted upon the city government may total hundreds of thousands of dollars. He at once issued orders that meters be installed at every place where a bypass existed.

The fire, which is thought to be of incendiary origin, was discovered in the blacksmith shop by Harry Fellows. Fifteen horses were burned in the fire.

FRENCH BARON IN POOR-HOUSE

Is Cousin of Prince de Sagan and Count de Castellane.

Omaha, Neb., April 11.—Once the possessor of a fortune estimated at $3,000,000, the scion of French nobility, and his presence sought in the most exclusive circles of Paris, Baron Henry Louis de Ginzberg is at the county hospital, the object of charity and pity. It required but a few short years to bring to the last ditch this Frenchman who at last has been forced to seek aid from the citizens of this county. De Ginzberg, dignified and unassuming, has steadily refused to admit his real identity, and it only became known by means of correspondence found in his possession when he was sent to the sick ward. He wears a Van Dyke beard, kept trimmed in the most approved style and until recently has worn clothing cut in the latest fashion. He hardly looks the 50 years that he is, and still has a heavy head of black hair.

De Ginzberg was induced to tell part of his story, although he shrunk from the details which pained him most. He staked every cent he had on the outcome of the Boer war, making immense investments in the Boer country which he expected to bring him returns a hundred fold when the Boers should break off the English yoke. The Britons won and he was left almost without a penny. He is a cousin to Count Boni de Castellane and Prince Helie de Sagan, former husband and suitor for the hand of Mme. Anna Gould.

The baron came to this country during the Boer war and organized clubs among the German and French people to assist the war of independence being carried on by his countrymen and was very successful until it was definitely known the cause was lost. He never collected funds himself, leaving that to the mayors of the cities where he carried on his campaigns. He at one time preferred charges against Webster Davis, once mayor of Kansas City, and later connected with the interior department, whom he charged with unfairness with the Boers.

When De Ginzberg's fortune had finally disappeared, he was forced to earn a living by day labor, and has been connected for a year with a dyeing and cleaning establishment in South Omaha. He was employed in a similar occupation in Kansas City. He has a sister in St. Louis, and the county authorities are in communication with her with a view to relieving the baron's distress.

THOROUGH, SCIENTIFIC AND LASTING CURES OF MEN!

Progressive Medical Specialists Reveal Method of Successful Cures.

That there are thousands of men suffering from this malady and that they have lost the vigor and vim of manhood, as well as physique there is no doubt about. The many physical wrecks of men which you see in office and street, their very looks betray that they are suffering of that awful condition that the medical profession calls "Varicocele."

If your testicle is longer on one side than on the other, and you feel the cords to be thick, varicose and worm-like and you have pain in the region of these, you may be sure that you are the man with this brain and body wrecking condition. No matter how long you may have had it, and how little you feel of the ill effects of this at present, in time it will have the same effect on you as it has on every one of its victims. This disease is a condition where the spermatic veins are over filled with blood, and the valves do not prevent any longer the return of veinous blood, and this being stagnant in the cord will fill this up, increase the weight and drags continually the spermatic cord with all its sensory and sympathetic nerves, causing pain, distress and nervousness. But remember, the process goes further, the spermatic cord being the canal from the testicle and surrounded by thousands of fine nerve fibers, is slowly, but surely torn, and you have then a true "Loss of Manhood." Varicocele affects both mind and body, lowers the vital, sexual and general physical forces, causes mental suffering and a long train of nervous diseases. Ninety out of 100 of these sufferers experience a loss of sexual vigor in later years, and with it some nervous irritation, seminal losses, dyspepsia, dragging, heavy and painful sensation of the groin, pain in the back, melancholy and drowsy depression. Varicocele is the direct cause in thousands of cases of rupture, as the enlarged veins are extending up into the inguinal canal and go through the internal wall of the abdomen and causes the passage of the guts to pass through this hole and go down into the scrotum. This disease is often associated with Hydrocele, enlarged, prostatic gland, spermatorrhoea, stricture, bladder and kidney disease. Often varicocele and the whole train of associated diseases is brought on by that secret vice of habit which destroys body and soul, even of the best and the most hopeful of young men.

We found in former years that cutting and dissecting out these veins did not cure our patients. The deep-seated nerves that control the function and nutrition of the sexual organs were still causing the patients trouble and more pain than before. After our discovery of the poisons in stagnant circulation of varicocele we invented the "Direct Method of the Dissolving Process," and this method is as superior to the old-time cutting and blood letting and drugging as the modern electric light is superior to the old-fashioned tallow candle.

We are Specialists in Men's Diseases Only, and we are as successful in the coure of these diseases as we are in the cure of all and any men's ailment. Men, if you want a cure of your suffering, no matter what your trouble is and how long you had it, come to us and you will not look any longer for the restoration of your health.

We can cure you, for we have done it by thousands in this town since 1887. We positively cure Rheumatis, Cancer, Stomach Trouble, Piles, Fistula, Rupture, Kidney, Bladder, Bowel, Heart Trouble, Bright's and Lung Diseases, Early Consumption, Syphilis in all stages and forms; Gonorrhea, Gleet, Emissions, Lost Manhood, Stricture, Secret Diseases.

BANQUET FOR BOYS

Members of Y. M. C. A. Cabinet Respond to the Toasts.

Most Successful Dinner Ever Held by the Association.

About 200 boys sat down to the annual banquet given to the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. in the association's building, Sixth avenue east and Third street, last night. The affair was almost entirely a boys' affair, the toasts and the musical program being g furnished by members of the boys' cabinet. It was the most successful and best attended banquet ever given by the association.

Rev. M. S. Rice was the toastmaster and responded to the toast, "America."

He also introduced the other speakers with short witty addresses, and before the evening was over earned the name of "roastmaster," from his good natured jibes at the expense of the boys on the program and other members of the department.

David C. Duncan, president of the boys' cabinet, was the first speaker, responding to the toast, "The Boys' Department."

NORMAN D. MACLEOD,
Secretary of the Boys' Department, Y. M. C. A.

He stated that the department was the tenth in size in the country and urged the members to make it the first.

Phil Bevis, general secretary, spoke on "The Man Behind," telling of what the men back of the Y. M. C. A. movement were trying to accomplish.

Harvard Rockwell responded to a toast on "Serpent Lake," telling the experiences at the summer camp. His anecdote at the expense of the secretary, Norman MacLeod, was much appreciated.

"What We Do vs. What We Get," was the subject of the speech by Fred Cole, another cabinet member. It dealt with the aims of the members of the department, and was well received.

Principal C. A. Smith spoke on the Duluth Central high school, and Laurence Jaques responded to the toast on "Athletics," reviewing the history of sport, and upholding the value of clean athletics.

Charles McLennan, a former cabinet member, responded to the toast "To the Cabinet of 1903-04, the Original Cabinet."

Palmer Bevis spoke on "Gypsy Trip," telling of the trip taken to Solon Springs last year, and relating many amusing incidents in connection with it.

"Boys," was the subject of a talk by E. W. Peck, state secretary of the association, and he gave a forceful, interesting address, which seemed to hit the mark with the boys.

William Eklund brought the program to a close, with an eloquent tribute to "The Ladies," in which he thanked the women who served the banquet, and expressed the appreciation of the members for the kindnesses shown by the mothers and sisters at various times.

During the evening Gilbert Ketchum gave a violin solo, Sydney Morterud and Miss Florence Hyland sang, Miss Johnson gave a reading, and the boys' department orchestra rendered several selections.

POLICEMEN ARE NEEDED

Residents of Park Point Report Second Burglary in Week.

Another Cottage is Entered and Robbed by Thieves.

Burglars have been plying their trade on Park Point for the past week, and Park Pointers are using the thefts as arguments for better police protection.

Residents of the Point say that they have had no regular police officer and have secured the appointment of C. D. Pattinson and George Ball as special policemen. At the council meeting Monday, they will call the attention of the city fathers to their plight and ask the council to provide funds for the payment of the patrolmen's wages.

The latest burglary that has been reported from the Point took place at the residence Af Fred Dion, 1316 Minnesota avenue. Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Dion left the house at 2 p. m., to come up town to do some shopping and when she returned at 5 o'clock she found the house had been ransacked from one end to the other.

The robbers had pried open the back door and taken complete possession of the cottage for the afternoon. They did not overlook a single article of value that they could carry.

The robbery at the Dion home was very similar to the one that took place at the residence of E. O. Reppe on the Point a few days ago.

The Park Point Civic club is planning to have a large delegation at the meeting of the city council Monday and the needs of the people of the Point will be pointed out and some action strongly urged.

Not only will the council be asked to furnish better police protection than the locality has enjoyed in the past, but the need of extensive repairs to the sidewalks on the Point will be shown.

Despite the offer of the street railway people to grant a 7-cent fare from any place on the Point to any place on the Duluth Street Railway company's lines in the city, members of the Civic club will keep up their campaign for a 5-cent fare. They say that they are entitled to a 5-cent fare to and from their places of business and to any part of the city they may choose to go, and do not propose to make any compromise in their fight.

Mr. S. L. Bowen of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Cure. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Cure works wonders where others are total failures. All druggists.

RAILROADS

NO ORE FOR TWO WEEKS

Movement Not Likely to Begin Before First of May.

First Cargo Last Season Shipped Just a Year Ago.

Exactly one year ago today the first load of ore was deposited on the docks at Duluth by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway. Today the ore movement threatens to be so late that the cars of that railway have not even been prepared for the movement of ore. It is not anticipated by the officials of the road that the ore movement will begin for at least two weeks.

The cars of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern are always in a state of semi-readiness, so that it will require little preparation to place them in shape for the ore movement. But the fact that the officials do not expect any ore to come over the rails of the road for the next two weeks is sufficient reason for not placing the cars in readiness for ore hauling.

Many of the cars have been used for storing coal. Some of them are on the docks at the present time. When some indication is given of the opening of the general navigation, the cars of the company will be placed in shape to begin the hauling from the mines.

BEATS PASSENGER TIME.

Fast Freight Makes Record From Dubuque to Duluth.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road is establishing a record in handling strawberries into Duluth. One record was established in the fast run from Dubuque to this city. Four hundred and ninty miles were covered in the unprecedented time of twenty-three hours. If a passenger train had left Dubuque at the same time as the freight that carried the berries, it would have reached Duluth two hours behind the fast freight.

The berries are brought from Louisiana, over the Illinois Central and transferred to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, at Dubuque. From there the run is made in record time to Duluth.

Four cars are arriving each week over the Milwaukee. They are packed in the refrigerator cars, making the long jump from the Southern state in four days. A record run is made all the way along the route. Clear way is given the fast freights, and the Milwaukee officials are proud of the record they have estblished between Dubuque and Duluth.

FALL INTO LINE.

Four Big Roads Offer Reduced Rates to Convention.

Word reached Duluth today that the Chicago Great Western, the Santa Fe, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Rock Island had joined the agreement to make a straight one and one-half cent rate to and from Chicago during the National Republican convention. This means that every Western road will be forced into the agreement. It also makes certain a cheap round trip rate from the Head of the Lakes to Chicago.

Passenger men here are of the opinion that the making of cheap rates for the convention by both the Eastern and Western roads is in the nature of a precedent. Henceforth it will be impossible to discriminate against conventions on the plea that the roads are not making profits under the two-cent tariff.

Some of the officials think that the making of the reduction will leave the roads in an illogical position should they wish to combat the present rate law. Heretofore the roads have stood solidly against any rate making, but the falling into line of the other Western passenger roads yesterday means that practically every point east, west, south and north of Chicago will be covered by the reduced fare. Roads will find it hard to refuse to make reduced rates in the future.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

Receivers and Trainmen of Great Western Amicably Settle Hours.

St. Paul, Mainn., April 11.—The receivers of the Chicago Great Western railroad today announced that the controversy between the road and the trainmen had been amicably adjusted, and that the intervention of the interstate commerce commission and of the federal labor commissioner would be unnecessary.

The controversy was over conditions of labor, principally as regards payment for time consumed in delays. The men have worked together to reduce the number of delays that the receivers considered unnecessary and the latter have receded from their plan to revise the working rules. The former conditions of labor will continue.

Freight Rates Reduced.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 11.—The state board of railroad commissioners yesterday ordered reductions in freight rates in Western South Dakota ranging from 10 to 43 per cent. The greatest reductions are made on immigrants' goods and groceries. It is believed the railroad companies will accept the judgment of the board and put the reduced rates into effect at once.

Railroad Briefs.

A gang of laborers left today over the Northern Pacific for grading work on the Soo at Moose Lake.

R. H. Leng, contracting freight agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, is in Chicago on business.

UNIONS IN CAMPAIGN.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo members of labor unions determined to take an active part in the campaign this fall. They demand one of the three members of the lower branch of the legislature from this district, and have named Richard Straub. The latter is a prominent union man and on the district committee of the Federated Trades' council. He is a machinist operator in a printing office here.

MOTHER INSANE.

Sad Plight of Eight Small Children in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deserted by their father, and with an insane mother, the eight small children of John Shand, 1409 East Twenty-sixth street, nearly starved to death. The mother sang religious songs all day long and late into the night, and would pay no attention to the children's cries for food. She did other queer things, such as carrying a whisky bottle in one hand and a beer bottle in the other, while wheeling her baby's go cart.

Her crazy actions finally attracted the attention of the neighbors, who notified the Humane society. When agents of the society called, they found the children nearly starved. They succeeded in locating the father at Huron, and he promised to come to Minneapolis at once and look after the children.

PAY HIS BOARD.

Principal Who Punished Pupil, is Still in Jail.

Chicago, April 11.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Champaign, Ill., says:

Prof. Sherman N. Cass of Tolono, imprisoned in the Champaign county jail for whipping an unruly pupil too severely, has served the alloted six months' confinement provided by the old English debtor law, in force in Illinois, but seldom invoked. But he did not breathe the air of freedom yesterday as expected. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Burke, parents of the punished pupil, tendered $3.15 to Sheriff Peter's for another week's board, and Cass was retained in custody. Cass may have to fight a legal battle before he is released.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Washington Post: An Ohio pastor announces that he will have the baseball scores posted by the church door. That may have the effect of eliminating some of the language used by some of the fans when the scoring looks bad for the home team.

St. Louis Republic: The conclusion of Cardinal Gibbons that you can't legislate morals into people is hard to disprove on the evidence. But there is no difficulty in finding evidence of the case with which morals may be legislated out of some people.

Milwaukee Sentinel: What's this? "Five hundred persons in Ohio made ill by eating a chicken at a church sociable." Unless the miracle of the loaves and fishes was duplicated, we can't quite understand this phenomenal diffusiveness of one fowl, even at a church sociable.

Brooklyn Eagle: A Baptist minister in Hartford has provided a room where babies can be checked while their tired mothers may enjoy the sermon or perhaps catch forty needed winks while the preacher is talking. The plan is too sensible to be laughed out of existence as a "church bawl room."

Minneapolis Journal: Bishops of today seem to be showing many human characteristics. Bishop W. M. Brown of the diocese of Arkansas recently defended Bishop Potters' views, declaring that he believed anyone might properly drink a cocktail if he wanted to. The bishop is practically a teetotaler, but is not a prohibitionist. His statement caused a sensation among the prohibitionists, who are striving to carry his state.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEN AT DINNER

Local Superintendents Discuss the City and State Associations.

Forty Sunday school superintendents and their assistants gathered at dinner in the St. Louis hotel last evening and discussed the many different phases of their work.

One of the principal objects of the spread was to arouse interest at this time in the affairs of the Duluth Sunday School association and in the state association, of which the local society is an auxiliary body.

The coming convention of the state Sunday school association, to be held in St. Paul April 21 to 23, was discussed and many of the superintendents signified their intention of attending. The Sunday schools of the city will probably name their delegates tomorrow.

Watson S. Moore, superintendent of the First M. E. church school, presided as toastmaster last evening and short talks were given by Prof. Carl Ulrich of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church; F. N. Burrall, president of the Duluth association; L. A. Barnes and R. R. Forward.

Aurora, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—What may develop into a murder took place in Aurora Thursday night. Abe Jylha and Peter Hill, two Austrians, came to town from the Miller mine, and after getting intoxicated started for home. A quarrel started when on the outskirts of the village and Hill stabbed Jylha several times, once in the arm and twice in the neck. Jylha is in a precarious condition and his chances of pulling through are slim.

JUDGE J. M. MARTIN TELLS HIS STORY

Of the Recent Encounter Between Himself and James Sullivan.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The article that appeared in last evening's issue of The Duluth Evening Herald, in relation to the regrettable difficulty between James Sullivan and myself was fairly written, and yet, lest the same might suprise my friends who have known me in Northern Minnesota as a peaceable man for twenty-eight years last past, I deem it proper to say to them, that if Mr. Sullivan or any other man will not be killed until I kill him, that he "will be brevetted with immortality." My father and my mother were Pennsylvania Quakers, and I naturally inherited a desire and love for peace. I was as innocent as an unborn babe as to any intention to have any trobue with Mr. Sullivan. I never said or done aught against him and I would not now harm a hair of his head, but I would be the first man to lend him a helping hand if he were suffering or in need.

I went into the Frisco restaurant in Virginia on business about 10 o'clock at night, April 8, Mr. Sullivan was then talking loudly and abusing certain persons who were not present. Judge Cary and eight or ten other gentlemen were present. I had never had a cross word or any misunderstanding with Mr. Sullivan. On the contrary I had always been exceedingly kind to him; we had no differences between us; what was my surprise when he suddenly jumped up from his chair and in a very loud, antagonistic manner confronted me, and in a very threatening manner and abused me shamefully. The language that he used would not look well in print nor would any person that has the least refinement care to speak the same. I was truly frightened and I honestly believed that I was in great danger of receiving at his hands great bodily harm, if not death. One blow from the giant would put me out of commission. I was unarmed at the time. Indeed, I do not believe that any man who is not an officer of the law, ought to go armed.

No man was ever humiliated in the presence of his fellow citizens like Mr. Sullivan humiliated me. Every person present pited me. I went to my office and armed myself, because Mr. Sullivan has an ubiquity of existence, and I was liable to be met by him any where on the streets of the city. I may be blamed for going back to the restaurant, under the old rule that a man must run from his pursuer until he reaches the wall, but in my life in the western states and territories even since the surrender of Gen. Lee, at Appomittox, I have always found the public sentiment to be that every man has a right to go where his lawful business calls him without being molested or killed, and that this running to the wall rule is to be construed with limitations. I had lawful business in that restaurant each time that I entered that same.

I myself requested Judge Carey and the chief of police to have both Mr. Sullivan and myself cited to appear in court to investigate the whole matter. I do not want to have to walk the streets armed like an arsenal, for fear some man will jump on me and beat my head off. As I said before, if Mr. Sullivan or any other man never gets killed until I kill him, he will be brevetted with immortality. Respectfully,

JOHN M. MARTIN.

EXPECTS EARLY BREAK-UP.

Indications Point to Early Boating Season Around Tower.

Tower, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The warm sun and wind of the past few days is playing havoc with the ice on Lake Vermilion. The river is already open, and it is likely that within a week or ten days the ice in the lake will have completely disappeared, as it is already unsafe in many places. Two teams went through Wednesday while crossing the bay. Repairs are being made on the Tower Lumber company's mill here, and all will be in readiness to commence sawing as soon as the ice goes out. The various steamers are also undergoing repairs, and the owners hope for an early break-up. The steamer Mary Bell has been newly painted both on the interior and exterior, and an electric lighting system installed, thus adding greatly to its appearance as well as comfort. The owner, Capt. Ed Osterberg, expects a large patronage of all excursion parties. The many other boats have received needed improvements, and a busy season is expected.

INHUMAN FATHER AND MOTHER HELD FOR ILL TREATING CHILDREN

FRANCES KOTZIAN, MISTREATED CHILD.

Ely, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Kotzian, the Austrian, and his wife, who were arrested on the charge of brutally treating their children, have been bound over to the grand jury. Their case came before the local court yesterday and was soon disposed of.

The accused were unable to furnish ball and are both confined in the jail here. At the hearing the most shocking facts were brought out relative to the inhuman brutality of the parents. It was charged by neighbors that the children were frequently beaten with sticks and stove wood, until they were unable to get up from their beds; that while in such states of physical pain and exhaustion, they were left in the wood or coal box for hours, and made to sleep there and on the floor, with nothing for a bed than an old coat or empty potato bag. When it is known that the oldest of the three is only 6, the crime appears all the more revolting.

The children are being cared for at the residence of George Hoimes, until provision can be made by the Humane society of Duluth for a home for the children, as the parents will be confined in the county jail until the May term of the grand jury. During the hearing the courtroom was crowded, as were also the corridors leading to it, with Austrians and other spectators. There is much bitter feeling here against the pair. A warrant was also sworn out against a third party, a male boarder in the family, whom witnesses charge with complicity in the affair. Mrs. Forgy of the Duluth Humane society was unable to be present to attend the hearing, or take in charge the cases of the children, but will come up Monday.

ITASCA COUNTY STRONG FOR TAFT

Delegates Instructed to Support Only War Secretary's Friends.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Itasca county delegates are instructed to vote in the state convention on the first and succeeding ballots, if there be any, for William H. Taft delegates to the national convention, in accordance with resolutions adopted with a hurrah by the county convention held here Thursday. The convention did not lack in enthusiasm for the big secretary of war. Neither was there an absence of applause when the name of President Roosevelt was mentioned. The resolutions praising the president and declaring for Taft went through with a rush. No declarations were made for any particular delegates to the national convention ,the Itasca county delegates being simply instructed to vote only for Taft men. The resolutions did not mention any other persons in national official life, there being no expression in regard to congressmen or senators.

The convention was held in the courthouse Thursday afternoon and there was a representative attendance of delegates. It was a harmonious affair.

C. C. McCarthy was chairman and G. A. Stear secretary.

The following were elected delegates to the state convention and to the district convention: Alfred Thwing, M. J. Taylor, E. F. Remer, B. W. Batcheider, L. R. Salisch, W. J Stock, Ralph Whitmas, Walter Prettner, H. C. Dudley, John C. Greenway, Keo LeRoux, D. M. Gunn and C. C. McCarthy.

SOME TEACHERS NOT RE-ENGAGED

Their Objection to Being "Docked" for Lost Time is Blamed.

Virginia, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the last meeting of the school board the following teachers were engaged for the year 1908-09: Lafayette Bliss, superintendent; Anna L. Cotton, Susan C. Hohmann, Lillian Headsten, Oscear M. Sullivan, Abbie L. Flint, Marion O. West, Clara D. Lebeis, Nellie G. Mahoney, Annie M. Devaney, M. Evelyn O'Neill, Sophie Boe, Gertrude H. Keeley, Kathleen E. Sackett, Edna L. Cole, Sora E. Flandt, Minnie Stromme, Alma J. Wing, Anna Olund, Annie McGillis, Marie C. Krogstadt, Flora C. Carpenter, Grace L. Thompson, Edna Richards, Helen H. Houk, Jennie M. Myers, Clara M. Somerville, Anna Hansen, Julia F. Mahoney, Florence D. Carlock, Lillian M. Smith, Llanda E. Beach, Marie E. Wood, Bertha Hendy, Anna A. Larson and Leta F. Winter.

Among those teaching this year, who were not re-engaged, are Misses Martha E. Logan and Jessie M. Houk, who are soon to be married; Miss Lorenz, who stated on her application that she could not agree to teach longer than six months; Misses Powell and Berg, who made application, but stated that they did not intend to return, and Miss Mabelle C. Reid, who made no application.

A year ago, last fall, the school board adopted a rule that all teachers would be docked for time lost and the same rule went into force this year, but no deductions were made from the pay of the teachers until February, when all time lost during the year was deducted from that month's pay. This created considerable dissatisfaction at the time and it was stated that one teacher, who had contracted diphtheria while performing her duties, had been docked for ten days lost when she was sick. After the last meeting, when the teachers were selected for next year, the report was circulated that several of the teachers who had protested against the action of the board in docking them, had been let out on that account.

Treasurer R. E. Ballie, when interviewed concerning the matter, stated not one had been let out on that account, but solely for the reasons stated above. He says that Clerk Butler had neglected to deduct for time lost previous to February through forgetfulness and that the teacher who was reported to have contracted diphtheria, did not have that disease at all, otherwise the board would have paid her for time lost.

FINED AND ROASTED.

Burley Finn That Struck Child, Gets Double Punishment.

Hibbing, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Brady gave Frank Kesolo, a burly Finlander, a fine of $25 and costs and a very pretty severe roasting Wednesday for an unprovoked assault upon Lipton, the 10-year-old son of Rev. J. F. Pickard. Some children ran into the house where Kesolo was boarding on Mahoning street, with bloody noses crying that their playmates had hurt them. Kesolo started up in a rage and finding Linton Pickard outside slapped him several time across the face, knocked him down and kicked him. It transpired that Linton was merely an onlooker and had nothing to do with the affair between the children.

IS CAUGHT IN THE ACT

Andrew Halberg is Arrested on Charge of Burglary.

Was Seen by Police at Work on the Cafe.

Caught in the act of attempting to work the combination of a safe in the saloon at 615 West Superior street, Andrew Halberg was arrested last evening by Sergeant Gillen and Officer Bradley.

Halberg, it is claimed, had already gone through the cash register in the saloon, but had secured nothing, as the cash drawer had been emptied before the saloon was closed for the night. He was working on the combination of the safe when the officers discovered him and placed him under arrest.

Halberg was arrested on March 29 in a saloon, but only a trespass charge was lodged against him at that time, as it was thought that he was not right mentally, and that he was simply looking for a place to sleep. He was released under a suspended sentence at that time. The police, however, are now inclined to believe that Halberg was a much cleverer thief than they gave him credit for being. He was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, and his hearing set for this afternoon.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, South Bend, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

DOUKHOBORS WILL NOT EAT

Port Arthur Authorities Having Trouble With Prisoners.

Winnipeg, April 11.—The police authorities at Port Arthur are having trouble with the nineteen Doukhobors, who are under arrest for parading without clothes. The "Douks" refuse to eat and will not dress themselves, and it is feared some will starve to death, notwithstanding the efforts of the police to force them to eat, as was the case at Regina a year ago when several died from starvation. The Doukhobors at Port Arthur are awaiting transportation to the Toronto prison, having been sentenced there.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OUSTED FROM TENNESSEE.

Nashville, Tenn., April 11.—The supreme court today ousted the Standard Oil company from doing business in Tennessee.

MRS. WEBB-DUKE SENT TO JAIL.

Chicago, April 11.—Mrs. Alice Webb-Duke, the divorced wife of Brodie Duke of the American Tobacco company, who was arrested last night on the charge of passing forged checks, was today held to await the action of the grand jury in bonds of $2,000. She was unable to give security and was sent to the county jail.

NIGHT RIDERS AGAIN THREATEN GROWERS.

Lexington, Ky., April 11.—Night rider threats were sent through the mails last night to ten tobacco growers in Washington county, who announced their intention of growing a crop this year. All the letters contained threats of whipping if a crop were put out, save one, and that threatened to dynamite the house of the receiver of the letter. All the letters were mailed from Harrodsburg. The postoffice department was asked to make an investigation.

Worry Worse Than Fatigue.

More people worry themselves out than wear out by work, and then when they begin to grow thin from worrying over other things, they worry because they are growing thin. The best thing for nervousness is the regular use of a good malt tonic at meal time. Take a glass of golden grain belt beer with your meals and at bedtime. It builds up overworked tissues and insures renewed health to body and brain. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth Branch, Minneapolis Brewing Co.

TWO BOATS ARE LOADED

Winter Grain Fleet in Chicago River Smallest in Years.

Passenger Season on Lake Michigan Opens With Rush.

Chicago, April 11.—With the opening of navigation at hand there are but two steamers laden with grain in the Chicago river, waiting for the Straits of Mackinac to open. Never before was the winter grain fleet so small. And what makes the outlook worse for vessel men is that there is now no demand at all for vessels to load grain here. Some agents have been busy for several days trying to secure offers, but without success. The general impression is that grain will not offer much business during the early part of the season at least.

The stringent rules that the underwriters have adopted this year in regard to losses that come from bucking ice will tend to delay the fleet generally until the way is completely clear. Last season the underwriters paid some big bills for vessel men who sent out their ships to force their way through the solid ice.

Preparations for a general opening of the passenger season on Lake Michigan has begun with a rush. Passenger boats are being overhauled generally and put in shape for a busy season. Most of the passenger lines will have boats running by the end of the week.

From the Graham & Morton docks the remodeled steamer Puritan has made her initial trip to Holland, Mich. The Puritan was cut in two in the middle and a length of forty feet inserted, making the craft 250 feet in length with a forty-foot beam. This increase in length enables the Puritan to carry 180 staterooms.

At the Goodrich docks the following boats are already in operation: Indiana, running to Grand Haven and Muskegon; Carolina and Iowa, running to Milwaukee, and the steamer Georgia making triweekly trips to Manitowoc and Sturgeon Bay. Friday the Iowa will be retired for overhauling, and the steamer Racine will take her place.

The South Haven line steamers will make their first trip the latter part of this week. The Northern Michigan Transportation company has added the steamer Illinois to its fleet this year. Beside this boat it will run the steamers Missouri, Kansas and Manitou. Its schedule will go into operation on Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

The Indiana Transportation company will have its boats in service to Michigan City about the middle of May. Extensive alterations have been made in the Theodore Roosevelt, to give the steamer a larger dance and convention hall. The steamer is equipped with wireless telephones, so that passengers can drop a nickel in the slot and talk with their friends at home at any time.

ARRIVES AT MACKINAC.

Steamer Algomah Makes the Trip From St. Ignace, Mich.

Mackinac Island, Mich., April 11.—The steamer Algomah has arrived on her first trip of the season from St. Ignace. The ice is so heavy that the boat was unable to reach the regular Mackinac Island docks, and a landing has been made on the north side of the island.

Mackinaw City point light was lighted Tuesday night for the first time this season. The buoys for Mackinac harbor, St. Martin's reef and Graham shoals are being planted ready to place with the first break in the ice.

The ice fields in the vicinity of the Straits are still solid and extend beyond vision both toward Lake Michigan and out into Lake Huron. The ice is reported softening and the snow, which has covered it all winter, has disappeared. The current is making inroads into the ice fields in places. A channel a half mile wide has been opened between Mackinac island and Round island during the past week.

NONE ARE SURPRISED.

Signing of Engineers as Individuals May Become General.

The officials of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association are not surprised at the stand taken by the men in the employ of the Pittsburg Steamship company in signing up with the company as individuals. It has been known for some time that the men felt satisfied they could do better with the company dealing as individuals rather than through the union. The engineers and the officials of the Pittsburg Steamship company held a conference in Cleveland this week and came to an agreement, which is said to be that the engineers will deal with the company as individuals.

Both the engineers and the company officials refused to discuss the question after the meeting. Just what proposition was made to the men is not known, but it is understood it was accepted. "It is a family matter and of no interest to the public," said President Coulby, when asked for a statement after the meeting.

Four years ago the officers of the Pittsburg Steamship company made an effort to deal with the engineers direct, and while some of the men liked the plan at that time, it failed. The Marine Engineers' Beneficial association has for a number of years adopted a schedule of wages and classified the boats. Last spring the officials of the organization and a committee of fleet engineers appointed by the lake carriers held a conference. A schedule of wages was adopted and a working agreement was made. The engineers expected that the same plan would be carried out this season, but the managers of the other lines may insist on dealing with their engineers direct.

Want Larger Crews.

The allegation that boats are sent to sea so poorly manned as to be dangerous to the lives of sailors is made in a petition to be sent to J. A. Coulden at Washington, requesting congress to enact a law providing for more complete crews. The petition was read at the meeting of the Duluth Trades assembly last night and was accepted. It will be forwarded to Washington with a full explanation of the desirability of such a law to eliminate much of the danger, which now centers around a sailor's life.

Officers Are Named.

The Graham & Morton Steamship line has named the crews for their Lake Michigan passenger ships for the 1908 season.

City of Benton Harbor—Capt. A. J. Simmons; first mate, John Crawford; chief engineer, Louis Sebastian.

City of Chicago—Capt. William J. Russell; first mate, Mike Morgan; chief engineer, William Johnson.

Puritan—Capt. W. A. Bosweell; first mate, Louis Bussey; chief engineer, Byron Beerman.

Holland—Capt. John Stewart; first mate, Nels Nelson; chief engineer, Robert Oliver.

TUGS WILL BREAK ICE

Record and Sinclair to Work in Howard's Pocket Monday.

No Fitting Out or Loading is Yet in Progress.

The first show of activity in the Duluth-Superior harbor preparatory to the opening of the 1908 season of navigation will be made Monday, when the Union Towing & Wrecking company's tugs Record and Sinclair will begin bucking ice in Howard's pocket. The steamers, which are now in drydock at the shipyards and have been all winter will be moved out to make room for others, which need repairs prior to the opening of the season.

A large number of vessels have been laid up in the shipyards for the winter and it will be necessary to move them around the harbor during the ice breaking operations. Some will be placed at the different coal and ore docks and elevators, while the Pittsburg Steamship company's Duluth fleet will be anchored in the bay.

With the uncertainty of labor conditions and the disinclination of grain and ore shippers to make an early start, everything will be quiet in marine circles for some weeks yet. No attempt is being made on any of the ore and grain carrying boats to fit out, as there will certainly be no start from here until well after May 1. The fitting out of the package freighters will probably begin next week, as they will get under way April 25.

It was reported today that some of the grain carrying boats would begin to load from the elevators next week, though that would be no indication of the opening of the season. The agent of one of the big lines said, however, that there will no loading for two weeks and it may be even later than that.

"Open Shop" on Docks.

Detroit wholesale lumber dealers may dispense with union longshoremen this season. A new schedule of wages and working conditions will be put up to the longshoremen in a few days and on their acceptance depends the question of "open shop" on the docks.

TO BUY TWO TUGS.

Great Lakes Supply Company is Negotiating With Owners.

Two tugs, owned and operated in the Duluth-Superior harbor, will pass into the hands of the Great Lakes' Supply company within the next few days for a consideration said to be anywhere from $2,800 to $3,500. The deal has not yet been closed and the names of the tugs will not be made public until the papers are signed, but there is every likelihood that it will go through.

The company, which operates in several ports, is making its first venture in Duluth. Quarters have been secured on lower Lake avenue and Harold L. Garrison has arrived from Buffalo to take charge of the business. William Gardner, a Duluth man, will be in charge of the meat and groceries department.

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of to conquer all female diseases.

Mrs. Norman R. Barndt, of Allentown, Pa., writes:

"Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence I had dreadful headaches and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanks to you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

As a Spring Medicine

THIS IS ONE OF THE 40,366

Testimonials received in two years. It is genuine, frank, honest, and full of meaning to you.

"I sincerely wish that I could express just how much help I have derived from the use of the wonderful remedy, Hood's Sarsaparilla. For many years I suffered from "A General Run-Down Condition of the system. Every spring would find me completely prostrated, suffering from dyspepsia and weakness, which some people rightly call that extreme tired feeling. After beginning to take Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring, I would experience relief almost from the first dose, and seldom have I needed a second bottle to effect complete restoration to health and strength. So I have for many years used this remedy

"Each Spring, and have been rewarded with good health during the summer and winter, and until the change to spring came on again. Now I want to tell you about a

"Remarkable Benefit from the Sarsaparilla. Several years ago I became affected with a disease of the eyes, called conjunctivitis, the worst kind. I was obliged to stay in a dark room for a long time, and could not do any work. The doctors said if I did try to work I would be entirely blind. At this time I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and to my surprise and joy, my eyes at once improved and my recovery was rapid.

"Mr. Hood, I have told you the truth in regard to myself, and I hope Hood's Sarsaparilla will long continue to be a blessing to humanity." Mrs. L. Bickford, Gossville, N. H., March 10, 1908.

Under the Pure Food and Drugs Act, no change was necessary in Hood's Sarsaparilla to conform to the law or to public sentiment. It is perfectly safe, pure, genuine and reliable.

Sarsatabs are making new friends daily. While last year sales were doubling, this year they are trebling. Sarsatabs are Hood's Sarsaparilla in tablet form and have the same curative properties. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price. 100 Doses One Dollar. C. I. HOOD CO., Lowell, Mass.

At the meeting in the afternoon the board authorized the issue of $75,000 bonds, to raise funds to complete the county asylum. "BUSTER BROWN."

Comic Supplement Boy and His Dog Tige Amuse Small Audience.

"Buster Brown," himself and his dog Tige are the redeeming features of the performance of "Buter Brown," given at the Lyceum last evening.

"Buster" as played by Master Read, looks and acts the part of the real youthful terror, and he is very funny. If anything he is overshadowed, however, by his dog Tige, portrayed by Edward Lamar. Tige is a show in himself, and the performance never lags while he is on the stage. His funny mannerisms and expressions save the performance from being mediocre.

May Myers as Mary Jane is another bright spot in the performance. She is a pretty little soubrette, and a clever dancer.

"Buster" will undoubtedly make a big hit with the children, as it always does and even the grown people will find in "Buster," "Tige" and "Mary Jane," enough to repay them for a visit to the theater.

The play is being repeated this afternoon and evening.

Poor Rich Children

Two hundred thousand dollars is enough to "bring up" a little daughter of the rich. If it's a boy, it will cost more.

May K. Warwick takes up the case of these rich children, in the current issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

A wealthy Boston couple put their two boys under the care of French bonnes and governesses. When the children reached the ages of eight and nine they were sent to a well-known school. They knew their mother-tongue so very little that they could not understand what their instructors were saying to them, and they actually did not know how to dress themselves. They had to be sent home; there was no place for them, even in a fashionable school.

Some of these children become cads and rakes, others attain beautiful ideals of courtesy, breeding and social grace, but they all lose something which a human being has a right to.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

New Yorkers Gather and Perfect Temporary Organization.

West Chester Delegates Decide to Oppose Hughes Indorsement.

New York, April 11.—The Republican state convention, at which four delegates and alternates at large to the national convention at Chicago, in June, will be elected, met for the opening session at Carnegie hall today and after perfecting the temporary organization, Chose Linn Bruce as chairman and appointed committees and adjourned until 3:30 p. m., when the real work of the convention will begin.

Immediately after adjournment the committee on permanent organization decided to report James S. Sherman of Utica as permanent chairman. The real work of the convention will be taken up at the afternoon session following the address of Congressman Sherman.

The program includes the adoption of the platform, election of delegates and alternates, the nomination of presidential electors and a new state committee.

Will Oppose Hughes.

The West Chester county delegates held a caucus early today and unanimously decided to oppose the endorsement of Governor Hughes. William L. Ward, national committeeman, and head of the West Chester delegation, said before the convention opened that the delegation did not feel that it would be consistent with the action taken at the congressional district convention in selecting congressional delegates for Taft unless they registered their vote here against Governor Hughes.

It was said that the delegates from Albany county had decided to vote for Hughes endorsement resolutions unless the question of endorsing the anti-race track gambling bills was brought up, in which event the attitude probably will be hostile to the endorsement. The delegates were slow in reaching the hall, and when the time for calling to order was reached, there were only about 200 in their seats. Throughout the hall had been placed pamphlets, captioned "Taft, the man of experience," and giving a summary of the life of Secretary Taft.

The arrival of the political leaders was unmarked by cheers and applause and though the band played strenuously, the delegates showed no enthusiasm.

The convention was called to order by Chairman Woodruff. Mr. Woodruf named ex-Governor Odell and Representative Parsons to escort temporary Chairman M. Linn Bruce to the platform. Messers. Odell and Parsons were greeted with cheers as they performed their duty, one on either side of Judge Bruce. The latter on reaching the stage addressed the convention.

The alternate delegates to the national convention tentatively selected are Senator John Raines, T. P. Peters, editor of the Brooklyn Times, Norman J. Gould of Seneca Falls and Charles W. Anderson of this city, collector of international revenue.

DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

AND COLLEGE OF SHORTHAND AND TYPEWRITING.

To Have Staff of Specialists During Summer and No Vacation. Spring Term to Begin Monday, April 20, 1908.

105-107 WEST SUPERIOR ST., DULUTH, MINNESOTA.

No Summer Vacation.

The Duluth Business University will continue in session throughout the entire summer. The same staff of six specialists who have had charge of the college during the winter months will continue in charge during the summer. Spring term will begin on Monday, April 20.

Young People Should Prepare for a Greater Duluth.

During the next few years our city will have a wonderful growth Old enterprises will be expanding and scores of new ones will be starting. Hundreds of office assistants will be in demand Now is the time for young people to prepare for this Greater Duluth which is sure to come. The way to prepare is by taking a complete course at the Duluth Business University. Enroll at the beginning of the spring term, Monday, April 20.

Time Required to Complete a Course.

This depends largely on the previous education and application of the student. Six months is the average time required to complete one of our courses. We give a thorough preparatory course in English branches to students who have not the required standing in these branches for admission to our commercial or stenographic departments. If shorthand and bookkeeping were the only branches the student had to prepare, the course could in each case be made a much shorter one, as the average student finds these branches the easiest part of the work. Few students can, however, qualify in grammar, spelling, penmanship, rapid calculation, arithmetic, etc., in less than six months. Some require longer. We do not advise short terms, and if you are thinking of taking a course at our school we would suggest that you spend the time necessary for thorough preparation. "Thoroughness is the keynote of this institution," to which fact is largely due the success of its graduates.

Demand for Duluth Business University Students Exceptionally Good, Conditions Considered.

Although clerical help of all kinds is probably in less demand here at present than it has been at any time for many years, Duluth Business University students have fared remarkably well, about forty having left the college during the past few weeks to accept positions with some of the best firms in the city and elsewhere.

For many years the demand for our students has been such that few were allowed to remain in the school long enough to fully complete their courses, and as a result many started out handicapped. Applications are new on file at the college for over forty office assistants at the opening of navigation, one firm alone asking for five. These calls, together with those that will be received in the meantime, would seem to warrant clerical positions for all students of the D. B. U. just as soon as they are fully prepared for them.

DIRECTORS WIN IN THE PRELIMINARY SKIRMISH

Judge Cant Denies H. L. Hartenstein's Application for an Injunction.

American Carbolite Company in Hands of W. W. McMillen Assignee.

The directors of the American Carbolite company have won the preliminary skirmish in the big legal contest with the president, Herman L. Hartenstein.

Judge Cant, this morning, signed an order discharging the order to show cause and denied Hartenstein's application for a preliminary injunction retaining the company from assigning to W. W. McMillan of this city.

The assignment has been made to Mr. McMillan, as the directors voted, and the assignee will proceed to sell the plant and from the funds received will pay the claims of creditors, after which the stockholders will come in for their share of the receipts, if there are any left.

Hartenstein fought hard to prevent the assignment. He claimed the company was solvent and asked for a receiver instead of an assignee. He claimed, further, that the assignment was a ruse to freeze him out.

The court, in arriving at his conclusion on which the the order is based, takes no stock, apparently, in Hartenstein's allegations of wrongdoing on the part of the directors, who are well known citizens. Judge Cant thinks that the ends sought by both parties can be obtained by either the assignment or a receivership, if both sides are acting in good faith. The court sees no reason why the directors should not have their way. The court intimates that character of the men in the board of the directors should have some consideration.

The Memorandum.

In his memorandum ,the court says the company has become insolvent, that the managing officers, some of whom had advanced largely from their own private means to carry on the corporation, determined on an assignment for the benefit of the creditors.

"Ordinarily," says the court, "there would be no interference with such a determination of those in the active management and who were themselves heavily interested. In this case, however, the plaintiff, who is a large stockholder and one of the board of directors, brings action to enjoin the contemplated assignment, and at the same time asks for the appointment of a receiver under the equity powers of the court.

"In my opinion, the complaint, on its face, sets forth adequate grounds for the appointment of a receiver, that is, if uncontradicted, or if the facts alleged were properly established, there would be no technical grounds for denying the application. In this case, however, the allegation mainly relied on for obtaining relief sought, are those charging wilful wrongdoing on the part of the defendants.

Case Not Proven.

"I cannot agree that these allegations have been fairly established. The court should not be over-diligent in construing acts as wilfully wrong when they may fairly have a different interpretation.

"It may be that, aside from the charges of wilful wrongdoing, the court could find grounds for the appointment of a receiver among those alleged in the complaint, but this is not the simple case of appointing a receiver, which course the plaintiff desires to pursue. It embraces, also, the proposition that the desires of the managing officers of the corporation along somewhat similar, though not the same line shall be controlled and defeated."

The court further comments on the fact that corporations become insolvent and at times an assignment is necessary, that if the managing directors determine on that course the court would not be justified in interfering unless the necessity were apparent.

In this case, one side wants a receiver under the equity powers of the court; the other wants an assignee under the involving laws.

"At the most," says the memorandum, "the matter calls for an exercise of the court's discretion. * * * It is my opinion that the court would be going out of its way and beyond what is contemplated in such cases to hold that the action of the corporate officers in determining on an assignment for the benefit of the creditors should not be carried out."

For his reasons the court says what both sides claim to desire can be obtained under either plan proposed, if the parties act in good faith. If there is an assignee, all the property of the company will pass into his hands. If a receiver be appointed, receivership proceedings will be necessary in all other states where the company has property. The costs of making further tests of the plant will probably be cheaper under an assignee than under a receivership. The assignment is preferred by those having the heaviest financial interest in the concern.

In reaching a determination the court says relative to the directors, "Who they are is to be considered only in determing the truth of what they say and the motives which probably actuated them in doing what they did."

WILL NOT BE BROUGHT UP

Building Inspector Appointment Not to Come Up Monday Night.

Saloon Ordinance to be Considered---Sprinkling Districts Formed.

Mayor Haven said this morning that the appointment of a building inspector would not come up at the council meeting Monday evening. The appointment of E. K. Coe, as city engineer, will again be brought up, and it is hoped same sort of an agreement will be reached.

Alderman Moore's ordinance, calling for the removal from all saloons of curtains and other fixtures, designed to keep people on the streets from looking into the interior of the saloons, will be considered. It was given its first reading two weeks ago. Probably several amendments to the ordinance will be offered, and even with them, it is considered doubtful if it will be adopted.

The matter of sprinkling contracts will come up, and probably the board of public works will be authorized to go ahead and let contracts for the season in districts that will be specified. Six sprinklers are now operating in temporary districts.

An appropriation for work at the point of rocks may be made, and the question of resurfacing London road, from Superior street to Fifteenth avenue east, and resurfacing the southern side of Grand avenue, from Thirty-fourth avenue west to Central avenue, will come up. These two projects came up at the last meeting of the council, and both were ordered put over until next Monday.

There is a question as to whether letting contracts for these jobs will be authorized. Only $2,000 is available for each job, where in each case $4,000 is required. It has been suggested that the additional $4,000 be taken from the public works fund, but it is claimed the latter fund is not large enough to stand the strain.

The mayor's new garbage ordinance will probably not be ready to submit to the council until a week from Monday.

BUYCK CASE IS HEARD

Buyck's Ability as a High Financier is Discussed.

The civil action of the town of Buyck against Hippolelt, or Charles Buyck, the town treasurer, for the recovery of about $35,000 of town funds, claimed to have found their way illegally into Buyck's pockets, was threshed out before Judge Dibell, at the special term of district court this morning. The court took the matter under advisement.

The town claims that Buyck has, by a systematic line of graft, contrived to turn about all the money raised on bonds for a new road to Pelican Lake, to his own use and benefit. The allegations concerning Buyck's methods of "getting the coin" were sensational in the extreme, and indicated, if the town could prove it, that the treasurer practiced high finance methods that would make the big financiers down East turn green with envy.

Judge W. G. Bonham, who appeared for Buyck, declared that if Buyck had done all the things the town accuses him of, the Standard Oil company would surely have had him down at Cleveland.

N. B. Arnold, who represents the town, came back with a rejoinder that the only reason Buyck is not with the oil trust is that the Standard Oil company never heard of him.

As to the merits of the case, Judge Bonham claims that the town has, to put it figuratively, barked up the wrong tree, that Buyck is only the town treasurer and it is his duty to pay the town orders as they are signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors. He paid all such orders.

Mr. Arnold claims that Buyck was on the board for a time, that he resigned to put his father-in-law in his place on the board, and that, anyway, Buyck runs the board.

The case, by reason of the strong charges of corruptness in office of a public official, has attracted a great deal of attention. The public examiner's office recently submitted to the county auditor a report of the financial condition of the town, in which it was strongly intimated that about all Buyck did not get into his coffers from the town of Buyck was the Pelican road, as far as it is built.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

Mrs. A. Bushman Hands It to the Women's Union Label League.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Despite the statements that have been made to the contrary, the original Ladies' Label league is here to stay. I don't want people to be misled, or mistake us for the Women's Union Label league. We are the Independent Ladies' Union Label league—not merely women, but ladies. The other side claims that ladies exist only in England, but we lift our heads high as American-born ladies and will defend our rights as such.

When an organizer comes and speaks his little piece, says that it is immaterial to him whether there is affiliation with the national body or not, and that his services are gratis, and it does not give him 1 cent one way or another, doesn't it furnish food for reflection? One naturally wonders how in the wide world that man can exist, and be so free-hearted, for it is said that liberal-hearted people die young, and that man hasn't any other visible means of maintaining himself.

If people of good understanding and reasoning powers will give us a little encouragement in our good work, we promise the greatest appreciation and the best results. We may be the means of taking from the streets of Duluth many innocent young people, who don't appreciate the danger of walking back and forth for want of a place of amusement. We will hold open meetings, and every meeting will become more interesting and pleasant as we become more familiar with one another.

We intend to show the men whether there is strength in women or not. We do not think much of men, who trouble themselves to oppose that which has been voted on and won by a large majority, or of those who listen over open transoms at secret meetings and then disclose all that has transpired.

In conclusion, I extend best wishes to the Women's Union Label league. May they live long and prosper, but we will be here, when they're gone, as they are too few in number.

LABOR

LEAGUE IS RECOGNIZED

Faction of Women's Label League Represented in Assembly.

The Aid of Unions in Barring Asiatics is Asked.

An important feature which marked the meeting of the Trades' assembly last evening, at Kalamazoo hall, was the assembly's recognition of the Women's Label league, No. 230, which has received its charter from the International league at Chicago, and the invitation extended to the women by the assembly to send delegates to the assembly's meetings.

The newly organized league was represented at the meeting last evening by its eight officials, who were elected last Wednesday. They are as follows: President, Miss Nellie M. Stewart; first vice president, Mrs. Mary MacInnis; second vice president, Mrs. Marguerite Peters; recording and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Katherine Dempsey; financial secretary, Mrs. Hannah Wallin; treasurer, Mrs. Thebo; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Amelia Grinwood; doorkeeper, Mrs. Emma Le Vasseur.

This settles the fight that has been raging between the two factions of the Women's Label league, and from now on that body will exist as two separate organizations, the one with the charter and recognized by the Trades' assembly under the lead of its president, Miss Stewart, and the other under the guidance of Mrs. W. A. Warnecka, both formed to accomplish the same end, that of promoting the sale of union label goods.

C. F. Ceilley, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who, with the aid of Ernest Peters, secretary of the Trades' assembly, and Mr. Baker of the organization committee of the Federated Trades' assembly, succeeded in bringing the fight between the two factions to a close by affiliating Miss Stewarts' branch with the international organization, spoke a few words congratulating the women on their success. He stated that he hoped and believed they would continue without further trouble in the future. He also stated that men might become honorary members of the label league, and advised that some should do so, to aid and co-operate with the women in their work.

Miss Stewart addressed the assembly in behalf of her league, offering its assistance in the fight that is being waged against the open shop. Mrs. Dempsey and Mrs. Wallin also spoke soliciting the co-operation of the Trades' assembly.

Among the many communications read at the opening of the meeting was one from George B. Howley, announcing to the local unions the date of the twenty-sixth annual convention to be held at Winona, beginning at 10 o'clock Monday morning, June 8, an dadvising the election of delegates, who will represent the Duluth unions at the convention. After some discussion it was decided to wait until the next regular meeting, when there will be more present, before electing the delegates.

* * *

Following a communication from the brewers and saloonkeepers, soliciting the support of the Trades' assembly against breweries which used machinery made by factories which employed non-union labor a committee composed of S. S. McDonald, Frand Horilman and Thomas O. Mara, was appointed, which will investigate and report at the next meeting.

* * *

A communication, which is of interest, was received from the Asiatic Exclusion League of the Pacific coast, with headquarters at San Francisco. This communication petitioned against the inroads the Asiatic people are making on the Pacific coast and requested that the Trades assembly sign the following and forward it to Washington:

"The undersigned hereby respectfully requests:

"That you protest against and oppose any constitutional amendment or treaty provision intended, or which might be used to extend the right of naturalization, and further,

"That you use your voice and vote toward the enactment of an exclusion law, which will effectually prevent the immigration into the United States of all Asiatics, except merchants, students and travelers;

"That the said act contains provisions that merchants, students and travelers, when performing manual labor, shall be deported, and further,

"That provisions to the Geary registration law be embodied in any exclusion law that may be enacted and that such law when enacted be made perpetual in its action."

* * *

The next open meeting of the Women's Label league will be held Tuesday, April 14 at Axa hall.

MILLIONS SPENT ON NAVY YARDS

low water depth in its channel is twenty-six feet and $101,000 has been spent there for dredging. At this yard in the fiscal year ending in 1907, $94,138 was expended for labor and the value of their total product was but $7,128.

Water Is Shallow.

"Portsmouth, New Hampshire, or Kittery, Me., is a plant that has cost us over $10,000,000." Continuing, Mr. Lilley said that last summer, when he visited the Portsmouth navy yard with the other members of the committee on naval affairs, on board the Dolphin, the captain of the vessel told him it was not safe to take so small a craft as the Dolphin up to the yard.

"Charleston," he said, "has but twenty-five feet of water in its channel, yet congress has appropriated $11,908,984 to build there a magnificent dry dock. Not only is the channel too shallow, but there is no berthing room for vessels, and no ship of any description has ever been locked there. The total establishment has cost $3,394,300, and the dredging $100,000. At the last session of congress $287,000 more was appropriated for this yard at Charleston.

"The station at Port Royal was removed to Charleston in 1900-1903, but as late as 1907, $14,724 was spent here for labor, and although abandoned, the expenditures will go on to the end of time unless the property is sold, given away or blown up."

Mr. Lilley criticised congress for not establishing a naval training station at Annapolis and moving the academy seventy miles below Annapolis, thus saving the $10,000,000 that is going to the Great Lakes. Annnapolis, he said, for which congress has appropriated a total of $10,000,000 is sunk in the mud.

"Battleships cannot reach the academy and the coast and geographic survey shows that the Upper Chesapeake is fast filling up."

Lilley's Resolution.

Mr. Lilley's resolution reads as follows: "Whereas there has been gross extravagance and lamentable misapplications of public funds to the extent of more than $100,000,000 in expenditures in our navy yards and naval stations in excess of what business men would have expended to produce the same results, and

"Whereas, great economies may be effected by the federal government by the abondonment and sale of certain navy yards and naval stations, and the reorganization of others,

"Therefore, be is resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled:

"That the president shall appoint immediately after the passage of this act, a commission consisting of three members, two of whom shall be men of reputed ability in the management of large industrial affairs, and a retired naval officer who has served as a chief of bureau, whose duty it shall be to report to the president and congress upon the advisability of the abondonment and sale of the navy yards and naval stations at Kittery, Maine, Port Royal and Charleston, Key West, New Orleans and Mare Island and to make such recommendations as they see fit for improving the organization and efficiency of navy yards and naval stations, and eliminating the waste of public moneys in the maintenance of the same.

"Section 2—That the commission shall appoint a secretary to perform such duties as the commission may designate, and it shall be the duty of the commission to file its final report on or before the first day of January, 1909.

"Section 3.—That the commission shall have the power to summon witnesses, administer oaths and call for papers and accounts.

Section 4.—That each member of the commission shall revelve, during the term of service, the sum of three thousand dollars and the secretary the sum of fifteen hundred dollars. The traveling expenses of all members of the commission, including a secretary, also all other necessary expenses, shall be paid by the treasurer upon warrant of the chairman of the commission and for this purpose is hereby appropriated the sum of $15,000 or such part thereof as may be required, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act."

evening of May 12. The conference will begin the following morning.

Roosevelt to Preside.

President Roosevelt will open the conference with an address, and he is expected to preside at the opening of each session, if not throughout each session. The meetings will be held in the East room of the White House. Indications already are that the room will be crowded. Each governor will be attended by three delegates, and some forty national organizations will be represented.

Cabinet members, the justices of the supreme court and members of congress, and the inland waterways commission have been invited, and arrangements will also be made for the accommodation of newspaper and magazine writers.

Non-Partisan in Character.

The importance of the conference, and its notable personnel, as well as its non-partisan character, is indicated by the fact that it happens that practically all of the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates are on the invitation list. Taft and Cortelyou will be there in their capacity as cabinet members. Knox and La Follete are invited as senators.

Fairbanks and Cannon are also invited because of their positions as presiding officers of the two houses of congress. Hughes will be on hand as the governor of New York. Bryan is one of the five to receive a personal invitation. Johnson has the same standing as Hughes, by virtue of being governor of Minnesota. Judge Gray will attend as a delegate from Delaware.

A BIG STRIKE MAY RESULT

president of the boiler makers, and J. A. Franklin, vice president, will form the committee.

Similar committees have been appointed from the executive council of the machinists and the brotherhood of blacksmith and their helpers. The three committees will have the power to decide whether a strike shall be called or not.

The trouble between the Denver & Rio Grande grew out of the refusal of the railroad to pay extra wages for holidays and overtime. A strike now exists on the Rio Grande in Colorado and Utah.

THOUSANDS OF NOMINEES

some show of a contest over the question of whether the delegation shall go to Denver unfettered or instructed for William J. Bryan. Col. James M. Guffey of Pittsburg, the Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania is credited with favoring an uninstructed delegation, while there are many in the Democratic organization who want the state convention which meets at Harrisburg on May 20 to endorse the Nebraskan.

But the great contest in the state, which begins today and which will be carried on with vigor until the November election, is that for members of both houses of the legislature, which will choose a United States senator to succeed Senator Penrose, whose term expires next March. He is a candidate for reelection and Independent Republican leaders have announced that they will oppose his return to the senate.

Local option is playing a prominent part in the campaign and promises to overshadow every other issue.

Many organizations of the state favoring either the abolition or restriction of the liquor traffic, are carrying on a spirited campaign for the nomination of members to the legislature who favor local option.

TO FLUSH WATER MAINS.

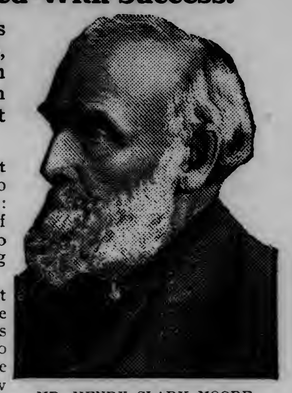

Aurora Will Try to Solve Impure Water System.

Aurora, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Aurora Commercial club Wednesday night the question of pure water came up, as well as the question of what to do with the parties who are continuing to break the diphtheria quarantines. It was decided that the water mains be flushed every week, to allow the stagnant water to escape from the dead ends of the mains; and that the parties breaking quarantine should be punished according to law. The diphtheria cases have not increased during the past few days, but several cases of measles have made their appearance among the children.

FLYING MACHINE INVENTOR

Kept Strong and Vigorous to the Age of 90 and Enabled to Live to See His Life's Work Crowned With Success.

Mr. Henry Clarke Moore, of Tama, Iowa, who is 90 years of age, has just completed his first flying machine, which will revolutionize the world. His brain has been kept clear and alert and the perfection of his invention made possible by his daily use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as his only invigorator and tonic-stimulant.

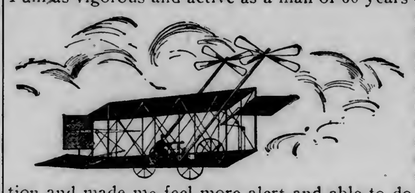

MR. HENRY CLARK MOORE.

Inventor Moore firmly believed many years ago that a perfect flying machine could be constructed, and he has spent his entire life to perfect his invention. In an interview with our correspondent he said:

"I know my machine is practical, and I hope with the help of God and the aid of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to live long enough to see it in use commercially and in the army and navy." Speaking further Mr. Moore said:

"For several years I had been greatly troubled with dormant and sluggish action of the lower bowels, which caused me intense suffering. No treatment seemed to benefit me until finally I was induced to try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which I took according to directions—a teaspoonful two or three times a day—and it gave me immediate relief. I steadily gained my health and strength, until now I am as vigorous and active as a man of 60 years of age. My mind is as clear as it ever was, and I have done some of the best work on my invention the last few years, which proves my mental and physical condition. Please bear in mind that I am a temperance man and do not advise any one to use alcoholic beverages except as a medicine, but I do firmly advise all old people and those who are run down to use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as I have, as I believe it is the greatest support to those who are weakened by age. In my case it stimulated and built me up; it quickened my circulation and made me feel more alert and able to do things. I believe in being temperate in all things, eating as well as drinking. In my opinion more sickness and breaking down of health comes from over-eating than over-drinking, and if by some means the human being could be educated to strict temperance of all things, what a difference we should soon see in the human race. There is one thing certain—if every one would do as much to educate the people to temperance as the makers of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey do, there would be no such thing as intemperance. I will be very glad if my interview will be the means of saving some of my poor sick sisters and brothers, who before this have not heard of the great good they may receive from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

Thousands of letters like this one from Mr. Moore are received from men and women who have been restored to normal health by the use of the world's greatest tonic-stimulant and invigorator.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as the great family medicine everywhere. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A doctor, very fond of coffee, found in a few days after returning to the old habit, that his heart action was so disturbed as to make it difficult for him to go up stairs.

A week after leaving off coffee and resuming Postum, he had no symptoms of "heart trouble."

He proved that coffee does cause functional heart disturbance and that "There's a Reason." for Postum.

FORTY YEARS OF PROGRESS IN DULUTH

Duluth's growth has been typical of the West. Nowhere else in the world have cities sprung up in so short a space of time. The changes that have occurred here during the last forty years are so marvelous as to be almost unbelievable. They have caused the country at large to sit up and rub its eyes in astonishment. The development of the city is almost without a parallel, even in a nation where the people are so used to seeing brain and brawn accomplish wonders, that they scarcely pause and take notice when some new wonder is performed. American enterprise is world-famous. Nowhere is there a more convincing exemplification of it than here in Duluth.

It is interesting to compare photographs of the town taken forty years ago with photographs of the city as it is today. Some such comparisons are shown above. The Herald is indebted to the public library and to George H. Crosby for the pictures shown herewith. The library is making an effort to secure all the old photographs possible taken in the early days before Duluth was a city. It is considered highly important for historical purposes, if for no other, that these faithful records should be preserved. Many of these photographs are in the hands of pioneer residents of the Head of the Lakes, or are in the possession of their children. Many have been lost, and probably some of the best will never be secured. The longer they wait before beginning a collection of the kind suggested, the harder it will be to make that collection complete.

People interested in the matter concluded that the public library was the proper place for preserving these photographs, and accordingly the collection has been started at the library. Donations of pictures will be gratefully received. They will be placed with relics in the library building, and it is believed that before very long the collection will be valuable as well as interesting.

Both of the panoramic views shown herewith were taken from Park Point and cover practically the same ground. The first was taken before the canal was constructed. It shows Duluth as a typical frontier town. The forests extend down the hillside, stretching even into the business and residence district. The whole business district of the town was located between what is now Second avenue west and about Second avenue east. Where there were no trees there were stumps. Stumps were all around. In short, Duluth was a typical frontier settlement, in all that the term implies.

But what a change has come in four decades. Now all is changed. The whole hillside is cleared of trees, and the town extends for ten miles along the river and lake. Skyscrapers have replaced the stumps, and handsome residences line beautiful streets, laid out where there there little more than cow paths forty years ago. The canal has been built, big railroad terminals established and miles of docks and wharves have been constructed. From a frontier settlement Duluth has developed into a modern city, with everything that goes into the make-up of a thoroughly up-to-date city.

The change has been so rapid as to be easily within the memory of hundreds of people residing in Minnesota and Wisconsin who, if they did not live here in the early days, were called here on business. And now they are wondering why they did not have the foresight to pick up a lot of real estate when it was to be had almost for the asking.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Williams Was Elected Managing Editor of the Gopher.

Agitation in Favor of Course in Journalism Being Started.

Minneapolis, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gopher election developed unexpected interest at the last moment and a hotter contest than that between Williams and Wash for managing editor has never marked Gopher politics at Minnesota. Count after count was taken of the votes in this race, and Williams was finally declared successful by a majority of 64. Stanton Cawley, Phi Gamma Delta, beat himself to the editor-in-chief's position and was unanimously elected. Conrad Fredin, Theta Delta Chi, was unopposed for business manager, as were Lyford and Flaherty for assistants. The contest for artists and academic asistants was also hot, especially in the girls' race. The election marked the culmination of a quiet and friendly race among the aspirants, but when the pools were to be open, but a few minutes longer, politicians crowded their men in relays into the registrar's office, in one last effort for their proteges.

Whether or not Minnesota should have a course in journalism has been a live topic for the past few years, especially so since our sister colleges have adopted such courses. The student body is decidedly in favor of placing this course in the curriculum, as is the faculty, but, due to certain reasons, the board of regents has not yet voted in favor of the movement. The Minne-ha-ha has made a decided step for the advancement of this cause, in submitting the following petition:

"To the Board of Regents of The University: Gentlemen—We, the undersigned, representing the Minne-ha-ha Magazine, do hereby petition that a three-hour course in Journalism be instituted at the University of Minnesota in September, 1908. As an evidence of good faith, we hereby tender you the sum of $100 to be paid by us out of the surplus funds emanating from the sale of our publication."

The seven men, who were recently awarded basketball "M's", met yesterday morning and elected Chris Hanson captain of next year's basketball quint. Hanson played on the freshmen team last year, which team was victor over many of the Twin City independent quints. This year he played forward in all of Minnesota's contests, and will doubtless fill the position of captain in a creditable manner.

Tuesday night the Shaks defeated the Forums in the annual championship inter-society debate, thereby winning the Jacob's cup. This trophy is presented to the winning team each year by Mr. Jacobs, the Minneapolis jeweler. The debate was the question of woman suffrage, the Shaks taking the affirmative of the question, "Should suffrage be given to the women of Minnesota?" It is probable, from the great interest shown in the debate, that this question will be debated next year by the members of the High School Debating league.

Commencement invitations have arrived and orders for them will be taken next week. The university "gym" team left Wednesday night, over the Northwestern, for Madison, to compete with the other "big eight" teams for the Western intercollegiate championship. Wisconsin, Chicago, Nebraska, Washington university, St. Louis and Minnesota are the competing teams. Minnesota first entered these events three years ago and won the Western championship the first year, and has held it ever since. However, the ability of this year's team is somewhat hard to judge, and what they will do at Wisconsin is largely a matter of conjecture.

With the exception of Capt. Uzzell, who has had only one year's experience, this is the first year of "gym" work for every man on the team. They have been working hard, however, to overcome this handicap, and are determined to show their best.

The men who made up the trip were: Ton Uzzell, parallel bars, tumbling, ring and Indian clubs; L. Rand, tumbling and horse; G. Stockland, rings, parallel bars and horse; H. Nelson, horizonal bars and clubs. Nelson will also represent the Gophers against the Badgers in the inter-middleweight wrestling match.

Dr. Burton, head of Minnnesota's English department, has recently had conferred upon him one of the greatest honors of his life. He has been made a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. This organization, founded ten years ago, is America's French academy. It consists of 250 chosen representatives of literature, painting, sculpture and music, of whom about seventy-five are men of letters. Vacancies occur only upon the death of members; the recent deaths of the Poet Stedman and of McDowell, the composer, made new elections possible. Dr. Burton was elected to the letters' division.

Last Saturday afternoon, Southeast Minneapolis was set in uproar by a terrific explosion. The magazine, in which the munitions for the cadet corps were kept, exploded with great force. Every window on the west side of the Mining and Law buildings was shattered. Three windows were broken in a boarding house four blocks from the explosion. It is thought that the explosion was caused by a fire, started several hundred feet away, which had gradually burned up to the magazine.

HE HAS FIFTY VISITORS A DAY

Member of Eighth Virginia District is Very Busy Man.

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of congress, especially those from the Western states, are rather proud of the fact that they are compelled to answer anywhere from 25 to 100 letters every day. But there are a few, possibly as many as half a dozen, who have to answer the calls of at least twenty of their constituents, who visit them in person every twenty-four hours. All these have a comparatively easy time, compared with the demands made upon the time of Representative Charles C. Carlin of the Eighth district of Virginia. Mr. Carlin's home is in Alexandria, only eight miles from Washington, and in consequence he is the most sought-after man in congress. Not a day passes that at least fifty of his constituents fail to visit him. They come in pairs, dozens and scores, and the new member has discovered, what he never suspected before election, that about half of his entire constituency has important business on the district side of the Potomac river. Mr. Carlin is one of the youngest members of the house. He represents the new school of Southern member. Not so many years ago an essential requisite for the election of any one to congress from the Southern states was blue-blood connections. Just after the war it was easier for a soft-nosed bullet to pierce Krupp armor plate than for a man not to the manor born to be elected to congress. But today the self-made young man of the South has an equal chance with his more fortunate confrere to "break in" to congress. Mr. Carlin is of that type. He won his election on his merits, and he has certainly "made good."

Since the house met in December he has not missed a single session. He has been one of the most active and painstaking of the Southern members. His speech on the bill to restore the words, "In God We Trust," to the coinage was an historical revelation, and shows that he had carefully searched history for the basis of his speech. It was through his efforts that the commissioners of the District of Columbia were restrained from paying $1,500,000 to the Pennsylvania railroad as Washington's share of the cost of the grand new union station, and he made the fight because the railroad company had not yet carried out its contract.

Carlin is a "comer," and if his constituents show their appreciation of the efforts of the former newsboy as they should, he will continue to represent the Eighth Virginia district with the historic city of Alexandria as its principality, for many years.

WRIT OF REPLEVIN

Served Upon Miss Mulhall by a Jealous Lover.

St. Louis, April 11.—After searching for her in the various hotels and cafes, a deputy sheriff served a writ of replevin for the return of a solitaire diamond ring upon Miss Lucille Mulhall, the famous young horsewoman. The writ was issued at the instigation of Price M. Taylor of Kentucky, former passenger agent for the Southern railroad. Mr. Taylor told the judge who issued the writ that he was afraid he would lose the ring unless he recovered it at once, since he heard that Miss Mulhall was engaged to be married to a rival.

The deputy sheriff located Miss Mulhall in the office of a physician and patiently waited until she emerged before performing his duty.

Miss Mulhall is the 20-year-old daughter of Col. Zack, of the famous 101 ranch in Oklahoma. Her daring horsemanship feats in broncho busting and skill with the lariat have attracted widespread attention. Both the president and Mrs. Longworth, before her marriage, often visited at the ranch, and Miss Mulhall was also the guest at the White House whenever in Washington.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

FIVE FURNACES OPERATED

At the Calumet & Arizona Smelter and Construction Work Rushed on New Furnace---March Product Exceeded 4,000,000 Pounds.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 11.—During the month of March the copper product at the Calumet & Arizona smelter amounted to more than 4,000,000 pounds, an increase over the amount produced in February. This product is no more than some of the earlier months of last year, when only four furnaces were in operation, the grade of ore being responsible for the variation in production. Five furnaces are being operated to the limit of their capacity and construction work is being rushed on a new 500-ton furnace, which is expected to be ready for blowing in early in the summer. Before more than five furnaces could be operated in this plant, was necessary to provide an additional converter stand and to accommodate this and the original converters, which are to be moved to a new position in the smelter building, a new stack was necessary. This stack was completed a week ago; it is 110 feet high and was built of steel. Foundations are now being prepared for the converters which are to be moved to the south side of the building, as they are now setting in line with the furnaces and on their present site, two 500-ton furnaces will be placed. One of the new 500-ton furnaces which has been decided upon will be under construction during the next week, or very soon thereafter, as the necessary excavation is being made for it now and practically all the material required for it has been received. When No. 6 furnace has been completed and blown in, then the work of overhauling and enlarging the five original furnaces will be started and pushed as rapidly as possible, each to be enlarged to 500 tons' capacity, thus giving an additional capacity to the five old furnaces of 1,000 tons daily. The machinery to give the additional power for the enlarged plant has all been placed in position in the new powerhouse, with the exception of the blower for No. 7 furnace.

Last week there were a number of men discontinued in the properties of the Superior & Pittsburg; just how many is not known, but the reports indicate that the force in these properties was cut more than one hundred men. The cause for this action may be found in the report of General Manager Powell, who says that the extensive development work undertaken by the Superior & Pittsburg last year has been practically completed. Whether this is the true cause of the layoff or not, it is known that enormous bodies of ore have been developed in the Hoatson shaft. Until the smelting capacity of the Calumet & Arizona smelter has been increased it is likely that development work will not be pushed in these mines, because of the large bodies of ore already blocked out.

During last week the 125-foot addition to the Copper Queen smelter was completed. The addition is now ready and the building is thus enlarged so that two more 500-ton furnaces can be accommodated whenever there is a demand for their construction. The fifty-foot addition to the powerhouse has also been completed and all the new machinery is now in place. This new power will be sufficient to supply any additional furnaces which may decided upon in the future. The Queen production for the month of March was something like 7,500,000 pounds of copper, an increase over the product for the short month of February.

PROPERTY HAS BEEN BONDED

By the Calumet & Arizona Company, Close to the Leadville Group in Arizona and Others were Taken Under Option Previously.

Tombstone, Ariz., April 11.—Notwithstanding the fact that the Calumet & Arizona Mining company determined not to take the property of the Leadville Mining company near Gleason, it is still actively engaged at work in that locality, and has signed options on properties in that immediate neighborhood. The company has also signed papers taking over the properties of William Cowan and his brother-in-law, A. Stevenson. The bond and option on the property calls for a period of two years time, and the payment of $65,000 divided into payments of stated periods. Ten per cent of the purchase price was paid in cash.

Besides the option on these properties the company still has the options that were taken on the Brown group a few days prior to the forfeiting of the Leadville group. This option calls for the payment of $100,000 and covers two years time with a payment of $10,000 within thirty days, which payment falls due the latter part of the present month. The company has also taken an option on a claim belonging to J. Shattuck, of Gleason, which adjoins the Leadville and Casey properties.

At the Casey property, which was taken under bond by the Calumet & Arizona company last fall, the work of pumping out the water in what was called the No. 3 shaft was completed during the past few days, and the result of the shots that were put in before the water rushed in showed that a large body of high grade carbonate ore had been opened up which is much the same class of ore that was encountered in the Leadville property. It is the intention of the company to push the work on this ground as well as on the Cowan-Stevenson group, so that the company within a few weeks will have a force of men at work about equal to the number that were at work prior to the closing down of the Leadville.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Active Operations to be Resumed by the Montana Company in the Rockford District—Nebraska Also to Commence Work.

Deadwood, S. D., April 11.—Among the properties that will resume with the coming of settled weather is the Montana Mining company, operating in the Rochford district south of here. It is one of the companies that were in existence some fifteen years ago. At that time there was a ledge of good free milling gold ore and a mill, well equipped, was erected at considerable cost, but the ordinary system of crushing did not meet expectations. Since that time the assessment work has been regularly continued and the property held. More or less development work that has shown favorable results was accomplished by Manager B. D. Hibbard of Nahant, who has now completed arrangements to resume active operations. He has just returned from an Eastern trip, where a deal was made for the purchase by the company of twelve additional claims formerly owned by B. J. Heath. It contains extensions of the ledges showing in the Montana and Standby properties adjoining. The old water right will be more fully developed to supply the mill, which will be equipped with modern machinery for thorough treatment.

The Nebraska Mining company, operating the Connie May Morris group of claims in the Roubaix district, will commence operations again next month with a new set of men. Supt. Spencer is expected back from California shortly and the development of the ground formerly owned by Brasch Brothers and Conners will follow his arrival. The shaft work will be continued with the new equipment recently installed.

The diamond drill has been successfully used on the Saginaw property near Custer during the past few weeks, revealing some new and valuable ledges in the lower levels. The company is about to install ten stamps to replace the pulverizer and a fifty-ton cyanide plant. The ore is of good milling grade and will be taken from the levels started from the 365 foot shaft and the 360 foot incline tunnel that has been opened by Manager Herber.

DISCOVERY OF RICH COPPER

Metal, Almost Pure Copper, has Been Found in the Old Ajo Workings in Arizona—Woman Building the Roads.

Douglas, Ariz., April 11.—Discovery of the rich metallic copper has been made at the old Ajo mine while the old workings were being unwatered, according to Superintendent A. D. Lee, who has arrived in the city from Ajo.

It was found that the copper had accumulated along the eight-pound rails on the track in the mine tunnel for a distance of 350 feet including both rails.

The copper was gathered and it made 21 sacks of the metal. An assay showed that the copper ranged 94 per cent pure. It had been gathering on the iron rails for a number of years.

While the old workings on the mine were being unwatered it was found that the water in the shaft was so impregnated with copper that crusts formed in the water pipes.

Mr. Lee stated that the present plan of the Rendell Reduction company, owning to the Ajo mine, include a permanent shaft to be run from the end of the Col. Bean workings to the surface. When the property was previously worked by Col. Bean he sank a shaft 150 feet down and then ran a tunnel 150 feet on that level. The shaft to the surface will be begun at the end of the 175-foot workings.

Mr. Lee stated that big improvements are being made on the wagon road between Ajo and Gila Bend. These improvements are being paid for by Maricopa county.

A woman road overseer is in charge of the work. She is Mrs. Rowley, wife of the foreman of the Southern Pacific roundhouse in Gila Bend. She is said to be fully as good as any of the other road overseers and is getting excellent results from a force of thirty-five laborers which she has under her command.

GLOBE AT THE FUTURE VEIN

Struck in North Crosscut on Twelfth Level of Gem Shaft—Fourth Furnace Blown in at Old Dominion Smelter—Superior & Boston Sinking Three-Compartment Shaft.

Globe, Ariz., April 11.—The blowing in of the fourth furnace at the Old Dominion smelter, the striking of the Future copper vein by the Globe Consolidated, the breaking of ground for a new three-compartment shaft by the Superior & Boston company, and the payment of $100,000 by that company to local claim owners, are the most interesting items of news of the week in the Globe mining district. In addition the Old Dominion has entered the Buffalo vein on the twelfth level in United Globe ground with a splendid ore showing thus far and has also struck the faulted west country, with indications of soon being in the west ore body.

With four furnaces in operation, it is anticipated that the output of blister copper for this month will double that of March, which was approximately 20,000,000 pounds, being very light because of the fact that for the greater part of that month, but two furnaces were in operation. The operation of the fourth furnace was made possible by the receipt of ore shipments from the Copper Queen mines at Bisbee. The Old Dominion has contracted for two cars or about 100 tons of Copper Queen sulphides daily, but at present the shipments are averaging about a car daily.

Several weeks ago when the Buffalo vein was struck on the twelfth level of the Old Dominion on gray ground, a cave-in resulted and because of the softness of the ground two crosscuts were started further back in the main crosscut in hard rock and driven diagonally to the vein. The west crosscut has just tapped the vein, disclosing an excellent grade of sulphide ore. It is very similar to that of the Maggie vein, running 8 to 10 per cent copper and 25 to 30 per cent sulphur. It is hard and is considered an excellent smelting ore.

The Future copper vein has been struck in the north crosscut on the twelfth level of the Gem shaft of the Globe Consolidated. The porphry was struck, but as yet the mineral has not been reached owing to the delay to operations caused by water. This is one of the big veins on Globe Consolidated ground and the future success of the company depends to a great extent upon what ore is contained in the vein. General Manager McCarthy is confident that it will contain as good sulphide ore as that struck in the Gem vein. The Future copper vein was about twenty-two feet wide when struck in the lached zone on the fifteenth level. Developments in the Mallory shaft are also encouraging, excellent ore being struck in the drift.

The Superior & Boston has begun sinking a new three-compartment shaft almost opposite the mouth of the Black Oxide tunnel. Two of the compartments will be 4x5½ and the other 5x7 feet. The shaft is intended to develop at depth the Black Oxide, Iron King and other claims in the vicinity and will be large enough to permit of mining operations on a heavy scale when

STOCKS AT LAKE SMELTERS

Little Copper on Hand, Which is Significant of Good Demand—Resignation of President Lamb of the Mass Regretted—Great Changes in Heavy Machinery Equipment.

Houghton, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ice is breaking up rapidly in Portage Lake, and both the lower and upper canals from Lake Superior are open, hence it is evident that the opening of navigation is but a few days distant. Despite the poor condition of the metal market for nine months past, there is but little copper at the local smelters. This is significant of good demand, for the reason that mixed lake-and-rail freights, from Houghton to the Atlantic seaboard, via Buffalo, are much cheaper than all-rail freights, and in all but seasons of excellent demand, a considerable accumulation of copper is noted at the local reduction plants, shortly previous to the opening of lake navigation. This season there is no accumulation of importance, demand having cared for production.

An interview in the Boston press recently, credited to an Eastern man connected with one of the local mining companies, in which the gentleman in question is made to say that he found a large accumulation of copper here, there being a million pounds at one smelter, probably was due to some sort of a misunderstanding, as no well-posted mining man would regard a million pounds of copper at a local smelter as anything but a trivial stock. To be sure, a million pounds of refined copper fills twenty-five large freight cars, but it is the average output of less than thirty-six hours of the local mines, and such matters are to be judged by relative rather than by actual size.

Lamb's Resignation.

The resignation of Charles A. Lamb, as president of the Mass Consolidated, which has been authoritatively announced, has called forth many expressions of regret from local mining men, and others, who have been brought into contact with Mr. Lamb during the seven or eight years he has been at the head of this company, and the general feeling in this district is that Mr. Lamb has taken too much to heart the criticisms of his management of the property, made during the recent contest for control, in which the old directorate was signally successful. There is but one point on which Mr. Lamb is open to criticism, and that point is a debatable one. Perhaps it might have been better had Mr. Lamb taken his shareholders into the confidence of the directors in the matter of the Ogima lands, when the Mass was cut off from following the Evergreen lode, but as there are more than a thousand shareholders of the company, it is evident that telling the shareholders would be telling the entire world, and it was deemed best by the directors to keep silence, in the hope of arriving at an amicable settlement with the owners of the Evergreen property. As to the action of the directors in keeping silence on this matter, there is nothing dishonorable charged—it was merely a matter of policy, on which opinions may and do differ. During his incumbency of the office of president, Mr. Lamb has made more frequent visits to his mine than any other president of a Lake Superior copper mine. For three years he served without salary, and paid his own expenses. Some of the criticisms directed at him are most ungenerous, though the great majority of the shareholders appreciated his unremitting labors, as was shown by the result of the contest. Mr. Lamb leaves the management of the Mass with the hearty respect and good will of the practical mining men of the district, who are conversant with his conscientious labors for the Mass, and the uniform courtesy exhibited by him to all with whom he came in contact, from the heads of other

BUTTE COALITION'S OUTPUT

Sending About 400 Tons Daily From Rarus Mine—Fire in the Minnie Healy and the West Colusa Causing Trouble—North Butte Raising High Class Ore.

Butte, Mont., April 11.—From the Rarus mine the Butte Coalition company has commenced taking out ore and is now sending from this property about 400 tons a day. The shipments will be increased. Fire in the Minnie Healy and West Colusa is again interfering with operations. The Tramway shaft is now down about 1,400 feet, and little is being done except sinking.

The Amalgamated Copper company is pushing its work on the Greenleaf claim across the flat from the Butte Hill, and the rsults are very encouraging for the openng up of a good property. Drifting is under way on the 1,000-foot level, and is proceeding along a two-foot vein of fairly good ore. The engineers in charge of the work express firm belief that a great mine will be developed, and in evidence of confidence a new surface plant has been placed on the property, having capacity for sinking to a depth of 2,500 feet.

During the past week the North Butte company has lifted through its Speculator shaft an average of 1,500 tons of ore a day. Last Tuesday it raised 1,650 tons, principally from the 1,800-foot level, where the richest ore deposits are found. The ore was fifty per cent first-class and the balance second class. The drifts and stopes on the 1,800-foot level are comparatively free of waste, and the waste with which to fill in the stopes has to be brought from the upper levels of the mine. At the present time not a pound of waste is being brought to the surface, the barren rock from all development work and shaft sinking being used to fill the stopes.

The Speculator shaft is now down about 2,305 feetfl the last 105 feet being below the lowest station, and necessary for the skip chute and sump. The station is being cut on the 2,200-foot level, and sometime during the present month crosscutting will be commenced to intersect the Edith May and Jennie veins on the evel.

Preparing for greater production at the Leonard mine, the Boston & Montana company has ordered two vertical quintuplex 6x12 electric mine pumps with capacity for lifting 600 gallons of water each from a depth of 1,200 feet. Each will be driven by a 500-horse power Westinghouse motor approximating 500 revolutions a minute. Owing to the acidity of the mine water the pumps are of phosphoro-bronze. The largest transformer station in Montana is also to be installed at the Leonard. The compressor room, already the largest in the west, is also being enlarged in order to permit the installation of the Ingersoll-Rand compressor which until the time of the shut down did service at the Corra mine. A new machine shop has also been constructed, all machinery to be operated by electricity.

The Butte-Milwaukee company, operating across the gulch and about half a mile south of the Butte & Superior property, has resumed work in the shaft and sinking will now proceed until a depth of at least 1,500 feet is attained before any cross-cutting will be done. The old surface plant is to be replaced by one of greater capacity,

MINES SHOW GOOD PROFITS

Forty-One Mining and Allied Companies Pay $11,633,195 in Dividends in Three Months—These do not Include Disbursements by Amalgamated and Other Large Companies.

For forty-one mines and metallurgical works in the United States to pay dividends aggregating the total of $11,633,195 for the first quarter of the current year, is a good indication of the profits that are being made notwithstanding the lower market prices of silver, copper, lead and zinc, says the Mining World. These forty-one mines and metallurgical works, according to a careful compilation by the Mining World, have paid in dividends since their organization the grand total of $417,964,321 on an issued capitalization of $356,759,450.

Large as the dividends mentioned above may seem they do not include the disbursements by the Amalgamated Copper company and other securities holding corporations. From January to March this year four securities holding companies, having an outstanding capital of $241,266,000, declared dividends of $2,247,001, making the total since their organization $72,388,661.

Another source of large revenue from mines is the sale of the products on commission. One metals selling corporation which is identified with the Amalgamated and other large interests by reason of the fact that it markets their copper, declared a dividend of $375,000 this year, making the total to date $6,000,000, on a $5,000,000 capitalization.

Of thirty-six metal mines that paid dividends in the first quarter this year, nine produced copper, and these report a distribution of $3,622,126. Since their incorporation these nine copper mines have yielded dividends amounting to the large total of $272,030,676 on an outstanding capitalization of only $31,275,000. Calumet & Hecla, which on its $2,500,000, has declared dividends to date of $106,350,000, cut its quarterly payment in 1908 in half (to $500,000, or $5 a share), because the copper market is in unsettled condition. Nearly all the other copper mines reduced their regular dividends temporarily.

Twenty-six gold, silver and lead mines have declared dividends of $2,223,168 so far this year, making their grand total since incorporation, $69,418,336, on an issued capitalization of $91,202,200. The largest individual payer was the Homestake gold mine in the Black Hills of South Dakota; it declared three monthly dividends to the aggregate total of $327,600, bringing its record to $16,407,950, on a capitalization that has gradually been increased to $21,849,000.

The Bunker Hill & Sullivan silver-lead mine in the Coeur d'Alene district, Idaho, also a regular monthly dividend payer, has been obliged to reduce its rate, so that for the first three months this year the

IN CONFERENCE WITH DIAZ

Greene-Cananea Officials in Mexico to Urge Upon President Necessity of Cheaper Material Needed in Production of Copper.

Cananea, Mex., April 11.—Whether there will be an early resumption of work here depends upon the results of the conference that has been held at the City of Mexico by President Cole of the Cananea company, W. C. Greene, Chester A. Congdon and Supt. L. D. Ricketts. It has become known here that the officials of the Cananea company are in the city for the purpose of conferring with President Diaz and other government officials, in an effort to secure a material reduction in the duties charged on the coal, coke, oil and other supplies that are used by the company in the reduction of its ores.

The officials will lay before the Mexican authorities the facts and figures of the present condition of affairs whereby it is impossible to produce copper at a profit at the present price of the red metal, and that unless a reduction is secured in the duties used, the company cannot resume operation without suffering a great loss. The company will try to get the duty removed, if possible, so that they will be able to produce the red metal within a few cents of the cost prevailing at Bisbee and other places in the Southwest. They will show to the Mexican officials that if the duty is lowered or removed, that they will give employment to hundreds of citizens of the Republic that are at the present time without employment, and in destitute circumstances, besides increasing the revenue of the government on the production that will be turned out.

Should the desired reduction be made on the articles in question, it will be the means of allowing a number of properties in Sonora to begin operations that have not been able to do so on account of the high duties on these commodities.

It is expected that some definite answer will soon be received from the city in regard to the matter, and upon this word depends whether or not the smelters of the Greene-Cananea company will be fired up soon or remain idle until the price of the red metal has advanced above 16 cents.

MINES HAVE GREAT FUTURE

Most of Properties and Big Mines of Arizona Discussed By J. A. Minnear--Some Calumet & Arizona Claims Practically Unexplored.

J. A. Minnear, the Laurium, Mich., broker, has returned from a visit to the Southwestern copper mining camps. He says that he considers that most of the properties and the big mines of Arizona have a great future.

In speaking of the Calumet & Arizona he says:

"The Hope and Wegner claims of the Calumet & Arizona are practically unexplored and great possibilities are expected of them. This has been proven by the operations by the Shattuck and Superior & Pittsburg companies.

"The total shipments of the Calumet & Arizona to smelter are about 700 tons per day. Superior & Pittsburg's total shipments per day are about 750 tons. The Hoatson shaft is one of the finest in the district, in regard to 'smoothness,' as the Hoatson, like all Bisbee shafts, is vertical, and the cage drops 1,300 feet without touching the 'guides.'

"Practically all the Hoatson ores have been opened up in the last four months.

"The Supplement claim, which is worked through the Cole shaft, is one of the finest claims of the Superior & Pittsburg.

"The main ore body is north and east of the Irish Mag shaft and covers seven acres of ground, being developed for the entire width of the claim. The best showing so far exposed is on the 850 and 950-foot levels. The ores are both sulphide and oxide and average about 8 per cent. However, time and time again samples have been taken as high as 30 per cent and even higher, while on the other hand some of this immense ore body will run only 3 and 4 per cent. So far the ore developed is about 400 by 600 feet by 200 feet thick. The 850 and 950 are the levels that have earned the dividends for the Calumet & Arizona stockholders, as this was the only shaft producing up to a short time ago. However, these levels are by no means worked out and the ore bodies on the 1,050 and 1,150-foot levels especially are only scattered in a way. At this time there is more or blocked out than ever before in the history of this mine.

"The Oliver ships about 400 tons daily. There is just as much commercial ore developed in this property as the Irish Mag, though possibly not as much running 30 per cent. Sulphide ores are especially good in the Oliver. Comparing the present stage of development of the Mag and the Oliver, it

OLD ESPERANZA IS WORKED

General Manager Lowell of Calumet & Arizona and Other Leading Mining Men of Arizona have Secured Control of the Property.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 11.—The old Esperanza patented mine, located about thirty miles southerly from Tucson, and adjoining the Chesterfield mines on the south, in the Sierrita mountains in the Pima mining district, is to be reopened an dtested as to its merits. The Esperanza mine and mill site was located more than thirty years ago and patented about twenty-five years ago.

In 1881 and 1882 it was purchased from Samuel Hughes an dothers by the Esperanza Minin gcompany, composed mostly of people living in Indiana and Ohio. Some local parties were interested, among whom was E. B. Gage. It was then worked and developed as a silver mine, the ore extracted being shipped to custom smlters. The ore was of a rich grade, carrying from 50 tod 150 ounces in silver, also some gold, lead and copper. As depth was reached sulphide of copper came in, and below the 100-foot level the ore became so heavily impregnated with sulphur that it was difficult for the men to carry on operations. In the lower workings a shot was put in which developed such a rapid inflow of water that the miners had to leave their tools and everything to escape drowning. It rose some twenty feet in the shaft.

About a year ago local parties secured an option from the Eastern owners, and last November Capt. C. T. Roberts, a mining man, was taken out to examine the property. He was much pelased and pronounced it one o fthe most promising in the entire district. In a few days later he had Mr. Kemp, the mining expert of the Calumet & Arizona people, join him in an examination of the property and he agreed with Mr. Roberts as to the probable value of the property, conditions all being favorable for an unusually promising rich silver and copper property.

Frank Hereford was informed of its probable value, and several gentlemen joined him in the purchase and development of the old patented Esperanza. Among these are L. W. Powell, general manager of the Calumet & Hecla; W. E. Kemp ,mining expert; Capt. C. T. Roberts, general manager of the L. Zechendorf mining properties; Herbert Tenney, Dr. H. W. Fenner, John Talbot, Epes Randolph and L. Zekendorf, who represent some of our best practical mining and business men. Capt. Roberts is the superintendent of the development work.

EXPLANATION BY NEWHOUSE

Difficulties of the Cactus, Principal Property of the Newhouse Mines and Smelters Corporation—Annual Report of the Carisa Company.

Salt Lake, Utah, April 11.—Salt Lake stockholders in the Newhouse Mines & Smelters corporation have received promises of a place on the company's board of directors. Mr. Newhouse explained at a meeting of Salt Lake stockholders some of the difficulties of the Cactus company, which is the principal property of the company. Last year, when copper was selling at 25 cents a pound, the Metals Selling company had about $800,000 worth of Cactus copper. By virtue of its agreement with the selling company, which was not compelled to sell and pay for the metal except in the regular course of its business, the Newhouse company drew, as permitted, up to approximately 80 per cent of the value of the copper in store to pay the $800,000 dividend, to meet operating expenses, bond interest and other obligations of the company. Then followed the slump in the price of copper, most of the Cactus copper ultimately being sold at a decline of 50 per cent. As a result, instead of having a balance with the selling company, the mine owed the latter about $140,000. Production was then cut to the minimum and for a time the mine ceased operations entirely. Then work was resumed, and for the last few months the company has been running with about one-half of its regular force, but instead of producing 1,000,000 pounds of copper each month, it is now turning out approximately 650,000 pounds. The present indebtedness amounts to $40,000, aside from the bonded indebtedness of $900,000. As soon as the market justifies it the output is to be increased, Mr. Newhouse states, to 1,000,000 pounds. At the present rate of production the company is making considerably more than the cost of operation, and the copper unsold and in transit is worth much more than what is now owing.

The annual report of the Carisa Mining company has been issued. The net earnings amounted to $7,649, representing the proceeds from the sale of 7,481 tons of ore shipped to the smelter. The smelting companies received $31,320 for treatment charges; the railroads $30,054 for freight charges, and $34,614 was paid for labor. The report says that since Nov. 1, 1907, when ore

BANK TEAM HOLDS LEAD

Race iu Duluth City Bowling League Continues to be Close.

But Seven Games Between the First and Last Teams.

The end of the week finds the First National Bank team still in the lead in the Duluth City Bowling league, with a margin of one game over the Fitwells. The Fitwells hold second place and the Oak Hall and Columbias are tied for third, two games behind the Fitwells. The race continues close, with only seven games between the first and last teams. In the grand average, the Fitwells lead with 913 and the Columbias, Big Duluths and First National Bank teams are tied for second with 907. The Oak Halls and Centrals are also in a tie with 904.

S. Olsen leads the regular bowlers in individual's average, with 195 and McLean has climbed to second place with as average of 190. The averages keep up well, showing a fine standard maintained in the league.

Next Tuesday, the big league baseball season opens, which means the start for the year 1908 of the greatest game that ever delighted a populace. A few there are of the major league managers, who are too modest to claim a pennant for an obviously second-rate team, but they are in the minority. The others are telling the fans to watch for either the same old form, which hauled pennants down in the past, or for surprises, which will keep them jumping in ecstacies all during the season.

It's queer how this baseball endures, when other sports go ker-flop in the mud and sputter a farewell. There's a fascination about it that appeals to American ideas of sport. It is strenuous, without being rough; it creates interesting—even dramatic—situations and has the qualities that hold attention. Every game is just a little different; monotony never creeps in from week to week.

But most of all, baseball furnishes a hobby for thousands. It is an unwritten law that every man must have a hobby to take his mind from the cares of the means by which he earns his daily bread. Some men have more than one, but others have only the one, which they enjoy to its fullest. Baseball is the great American hobby. Staid men of business turn from the ticker to look at the scores, study batting averages as they would quotations that may make them a million. The American boy is brought up on the sport and clings to it all his life. It's a helpful game. It furnishes relaxation for many a tired brain in the summer months and retains its fascination with the passing of years. As long as the American public is constituted as it is today, baseball will live and none but the most pessimisitic of the grouches would wish for its death.

Nicholas B. Constantine is waiting patiently. In a voluminous lettter to the sporting editor of The Herald, he says he longs for the time to come when one "Scraps" Costello of Duluth will recover his reason. "Scraps" has been talking for a long time, says Nick, but the talk smacks of the padded cell and the straight jacket. In the meantime, Nick is laping it in and his $25 languishes in inactivity in the First National bank of Eveleth.

Constantine says when he fought Kid Davis at Eveleth, he weighed in at 121, ringside. He is willing to fight the boy with the pugnacious sobriquet at 124 pounds ringside, for a side bet of $25, $50 or $100, fifteen to twenty rounds, before the club offering the biggest purse. The Constantine youth laughs in derision at the catch-weight phrase of Costello's acceptance of his challenge. He says Costello might put on enough to scale 150 pounds for all he knows. It is 124 pounds or nothing, says the Eveleth boy.

It looks as though it's up to Costello to make good or the shade will be shunted across the spotlight and all will be darkness for him.

Murphy, Chance, et al., which combination guides the fortunes of the world's champion baseball team, known in baseball circles as the Cubs, used sinful trickery toward one Edward Herr, the copilent manager of the Winnipeg Maroons. While Eddie had strings on Vincent Campbell, the young Vanderbilt catcher, who was taken on the training trip with the world's champions, the war correspondents sent stories to their sheets stamping Campbell as a large chunk of cheese, a punk, a dummy and other equally inanimate substances.

Now that the national commission has awarded Campbell to Chicago, the stories are different. Campbell is kept by Chicago for his superb physique. He is the finest looking natural athlete in the Cub camp and Murphy will handcuff him to himself. It developa that the word went out to the correspondents to knock Campbell and knock him hard—until the Winnipeg claim was loosened. The idea was to make Herr think he wasn't much anyway and let him slide. The plan worked beautifully. Herr didn't put up much of a howl and Campbell went to Chicago. Now he's showing up like a real major league. So was the cotton pulled over the watchful optics of the Maroon manager.

Tonight Jimmy Britt and Packey McFarland meet in the ring at San Francisco and it is the stockyards' youth's one chance to mount the ladder of fame. If he falls to put away the native son of ulna bone fame, it will be all day for his championship aspirations.

Packey looks good to the coast followers of the fight game. They have seen hundreds of fighters in San Francisco. The critics didn't show much ability when they picked Bill Squires to give Tommy Burns a scrap, but that was only one mistake. They should be able to tell a real fighter when they see one, and Packey is being lauded to the skies.

Jimmy Britt has taken a few plunges down the slide, but he isn't all in by any means. He's a tough nut for anybody to crack, and, if Packey can put him away, his fortune will be made. There will be nothing for Harry Gilmore's protege but the championship, if he takes the big end of the money tonight. He hasn't a defeat against him yet and his friends in the Middle West are backing him for another victory. Britt's reputation can't be much hurt by a defeat, for he has passed the days of championships, but a defeat for McFarland would set him back in the B class again, with years of work to climb into first position.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Mr. Thos. Stenton, postmaster of Pontypool, Ont., writes: "For the past eight years I suffered from rheumatic pains, and during that time I used many different liniments and remedies for the cure of rheumatism. Last summer I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and got more relief from it than anything I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend this liniment to all sufferers from rheumatic pains." For sale by all druggists.

Every day all of the people who are looking for things turn to The Herald want ads. Have you anything to say to them—to the "people who are looking for things?"

THRILLS IN BILLIARDS

George Slosson Tells of Experience Long Years Ago.

Vigneaux Adopted Unfair Methods During Matches in Paris.

There never was any rivalry in any line of sport quite as keen and as long maintained as that between George Slosson and Jake Schaefer in billiards, a rivalry that has extended over a third of a century. A chance remark awoke a reminiscent mood in Slosson the other day, and he related several interesting episodes in his busy billiard life.

Schaefer, he said, was the hardest man of all the experts for him to beat, and he told of a game he played with Schaefer in 1879 which, he said, was the most exciting ever played in America.

"The contest was played in Cooper Instituto and was for the three-ball championship of the world," said the veteran. "The place was crowded and hundreds were turned away. In those days there was heavy betting on billiard matches, and I remember that when bets were made recording the bets were given to bettors. The game was for 600 points, and I also remember that I was far in the lead.

"I had only about 27 or 28 points to go, and Schaefer had only 19 points on his string. Well, when I missed he ran 283, and when I again missed he ran the game out with an inning of 298. Before this some man who had a bet on Schaefer had left the hall in disgust and torn up all of his cards.

"He was a good deal more disgusted at the finish than any other time and tried to find the pieces of cards he had thrown away. To this day I don't know whether he found any of them.

"That and the game I played with Frank Ives, in Madison Square Garden, in the 18.1 balk-line tournament of 1897 were the most eventful I ever took part in this country.

"That was the game in which Ives had only five or six to go and was over 100 points ahead of me, but in two innings I ran the game out and won the championship.

"I felt all through that battle that with any kind of an opening I could win. I was in splendid stroke that night—not the nursing stroke, but the kind of a stroke that was good for any kind of a shot—so that I could make anything that came up. I'm a better player now than I was then, I think, but I played better billiards that time than I am playing now.

"The reason for that apparent contradiction is that on that occasion I had my entire attention on my game, and nothing else to think of, while now my business takes up a good deal of my time and my mind is not concentrated on my playing, as it was then.

"While there always has been great rivalry among the professional billiard players, and we tried just as hard to beat one another in the old days as now, the feeling among the players isn't as good now as it used to be.

"The pros nowadays are sore even if they lose a practice game. This want of soreness in the old days, however, doesn't apply to a couple of encounters I had with Vignaux in Paris. I had two of the squalliest battles there I ever had in my life. One of these games was in 1882, at the champion's game.

"The contest took place in the dining room of the Grand hotel and the referee was a well-known Paris amateur named Rondeau. Rondeau was a prominent clubman, an expert swordsman and a linguist. At frequent times during the final night's play, Vignaux resorted to various methods to annoy me and spoil my play. He would walk around behind me when I was shooting, stand close to me, make unjust claims and the like. Finally I appealed to the referee. The latter was a good sportsman, and he rebuked Vignaux. I won the match by 447 points.

"There was in Paris at that time William St. Martin, well known in billiards and the maker of a cushion that was used a good deal. Both Vignaux and I were friendly with him. Being laid up with sciatica, he couldn't attend the match, but the morning after it was over I called on him. While I was there Vignaux came in. 'Good morning,' I said, but the Frenchman responded with a growl. Vignaux left after a while, and on his way out passed Rondeau, who had come to pay his respects to Mr. St. Martin. Rondeau spoke pleasantly to Vignaux, but the latter still sore, came back with some offensive remarks.

"The upshot if this encounter was that Rondeau sent his card to Vignaux. Vignaux was sitting in a cafe when he got the card, which he ignored. This angered Rondeau still more, and he sent his seconds to Vignaux. There was no duel, however, Vignaux didn't care for it, although Rondeau told him what he thought of him.

"My other encounter at the champion's game with Vignaux in Paris was the historic contest in December, 1890. This, too, was played in the Grand hotel. I had only a few points to go to win, and he had something over 200, when he shot and missed. He left the balls between the lines, and, of course, gave me a good chance to run out.

"As I was about to shoot some friend of Vignaux's in the crowd cried out to him: 'Claim the shot, Vignaux! Down with the American!' This was a cue for Vignaux, and he did claim the shot, though it was a palpable miss. 'You don't count, Vignaux,' said the referee. 'Sit down!'

"Vignaux was persistent, and the place was soon in a hubbub. The rabble began crowding around the table, gathering around me and around the referee, and insisting ahat Vignaux go on shooting. All the time I was trying to shoot, and I gave one Frenchman a shove back into his seat. The Vignaux followers became so threatening that the refree began to weaken. Things got so stormy that at last he did weaken, and he exclaimed: 'I decide that Vignaux counted.' I and my friends protested, but it was no use.

"There was great excitement outside as well as inside. There must have been 10,000 persons outside waiting to hear the result of the game. The result of each inning was announced to those outside by some sort of bulletin board, and there were 100 cops about to keep order. Well, to make a long story short, I was not allowed to shoot, while Vignaux did shoot and ran the game out.

"The police figured in a game I played in Chicago—in 1871, I think it was—with John Bessunger for the world's championship. It was a four-ball game, and was played on a 5x11 table. The game nearly broke up in a fight two or three times before I finally won it, and the police were needed to see that the game went to a finish. It was in the old Globe theater and there were some pr etty tough citizens about."

TRAPS ARE FROZEN IN Central Gun Club Will Not Shoot for Two Weeks.

Trap House is Being Erected on the New Grounds.

The trap house of the Central Gun club, which was located on the former grounds at Duluth Heights, has been demolished and moved piecemeal to the new grounds at the foot of Sixty-third avenue west, where it is now being built. The traps at the old grounds are still too firmly frozen in the earth to permit of removal, but they will be moved as soon as it is possible to dig them out.

It is not believed the club will be able to get busy for fully two weeks yet. There is considerable preliminary work to be done at the new grounds in the way of laying out the range, but the inability to move the traps furnishes the greatest obstacle. It is doubtful if the ground will be soft enough to dig them out before the end of next week, which will give a week to move them before having the first shoot, April 26.

It is expected the new grounds will be much more satisfactory than the old arrangement. The wind on top of the hill was always bad and contributed to many low scores and consequent discouragement. The new location of the traps is protected from the wind and will give the members of the club a chance to score on their merits and not as the whims of the wind. The grounds are at the foot of Sixty-third avenue, where a dredge filled point extends out into the river. It is perfectly level and the members of the club think they have found an ideal site.

ARTIE O'DEA IS BUSY BOY

Brandon Candidates Will Meet Strong Twin City Nines.

Minneapolis, April 11.—Manager Artie O'Dea has decided on his line-up for the Lund and St. Thomas games. O'Dea has about twenty candidates on hand trying for positions on his Brandon, Northern league club, and these two contests booked for Saturday and Sunday will give him a line on the best players. The game with the St. Thomas team will be played Saturday afternoon at the downtown ball park.

The Lund team is being whipped into shape for the game with Brandon at Minnehaha park Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and Manager Coughlin expects an easy victory for his semi-professionals. O'Dea's men will line up as follows: Ford or Mulcrone, catchers; Dempsey, Treadway, Schurch and Gebeau, Pitchers; O'Dea, first base; Hanson, second base; Wagner, third base; Livingston, short; Metcalf, Meniece, Summers and McGray, outfielders.

The semi-professionals and amateurs will break loose on many lots tomorrow, providing the weather man doesn't put in a demprrer tonight. For weeks past the gloves and bats, which have seen service in many battles of the diamond, have been putting in an appearance from almost forgotten corners, the young players have been organizing, signs of spring have been greeted with joy and tomorrow the anxious candidates will get their first try-out for a place on their favorite team.

There will be no set games among the semi-professionals and amateurs tomorrow. It will be their first try-out and they will content themselves with moving rusty joints and acquiring split fingers, handling batted ground balls. The long Duluth winter isn't conducive to perfect physical condition in young ball players on the day of the first try-out. There will be stiff arms and sore joints Monday, but the enthusiasm will be in the ascendancy, and a few weeks more will see the season in full swing.

Duluth will have a fine collection of independent ball teams this year. The city has developed scores of young ball players, who will show themselves out in the diamond in competition with other city teams, or the strong independent nines of the range. The season promises to be one of the best for independent ball ever seen here. The teams have been growing stronger each year, and now they rival the standard of many leagues. Every little burg on the range has a team of some kind, and many of the Duluth mercantile houses will be represented in the field before the season is very far advanced. There will be no dearth of opponents or everybody and every Sunday and holiday will have a game on every corner lot diamond in the city.

The three strongest teams organized thus far are the Fitwells, Kelleys and Scott-Graffs, all of which will have their first work-out tomorrow. The teams will be made up for the most part of local players and the three managers have picked up most of the stars of the Duluth lots. Each manager thinks his team is due to take all the honors in the city and a fine degree of rivalry will be developed when they start their series of clashes.

ATHLETES IN THE NAVY.

Kansas City Times: "No class of men take a greater interest in athletics than the men and officers of the United States navy. The government encourages the idea, too," said Lieut. I. F. Landis, in charge of the station here. "Every ship in the navy has its athletic teams of all kinds—from track teams to boat crews. An indication of the interest which the government takes in making athletes out of its sailors is the fact that every ship is provided with a cutter for the rowing teams. These cutters are the best made, too, often costing $1,000.

"There isn't any place where a young man can get a better athletic training than on board a battleship. An officer who has had athletic training is assigned to take charge of each branch of sport. It's as much a part of his duty to look after his athletic work as it is for him to do any other work assigned to him, too."

SOME OF THE MEN WHO WILL WEAR THE UNIFORM OF THE DULUTH BASEBALL CLUB DURING THE COMING SUMMER

W.E. MORROW MGR.

OTTO KOEPPING

GEO. H. KERR.

ROY DYE.

R.S. RORABAUGH.

DULUTH WHITE SOX, 1908.

Manager—W. E. Morrow, Elgin, Ill., catcher and outfielder.

Catchers—John Beard, Waterloo, Ind.; Joe Snooks, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Pitchers — Frank De Long, Waterloo, Ind.; George H. Kerr, Oshkosh, Wis.; Guy Manley, Shopere, Wis.; A. L. Murray, Monroe, Iowa; Walter Phoenix, Sioux City, Iowa; Walter P. Fancois, Redwood Falls, Minn.

First basemen — Severied, Sioux City, Iowa; Iverson, Chicago.

Infielders — James Leighty, Duluth; Otto Koepping, Elgin, Ill.; W. R. King, Des Moines, Iowa.

Outfielders — R. S. Rorabaugh, Belvidere, Ill.; Ray Dye, Nebraska; Arthur Pagels, Chicago; Harry Morgy, Waterloo, Ind.

To Report May 1:

"Doc" Voss, catcher; Monroe, outfielder; George Krick and James Haney, pitchers.

Everything is set for starting the Duluth White Sox out on the race for the 1908 pennant in the Northern league. Next Saturday the men will report at Rockford, Ill., to meet Manager Morrow and go through their paces for the first time. The following day they will open a three-game series with the new Rockford team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and then Morrow will get a line on the men and judge to some extent who will be worth taking on the training trip, which opens there.

The Rockford workout is for the new men. Most of them are unknown quantities. If they wish to wear the Duluth uniform, they must show that they are worthy of it. There will be no quibbling with inferior men. Every man must show that he is right up to the dot and able to go the pace, or he will be given the blue ticket, which says, more eloquently than any words could, "Beat it."

Duluth is out for the pennant this year. Morrow knows what is expected of him. He says he will deliver a one-two team, and the fans will expect it. He has a wide acquaintance among ball players, can get men when he wants them, and if those already signed can't show the merchandise, they will be chased to the stumplands and others will inherit their spotless white hose.

Morrow, who is at present in the cigar business at Elgin, Ill., has had long experience as a player and manager. He catches and works in the outfield, and will play a position as well as manage the team. He is 31 years old and has been playing ball a good part of that time. He has had experience as a player and manager in the Pacific coast, Western Texas, Cotton States and Kansas State leagues, and last year managed an independent team at Belvidere, Ill. He has been successful during all his career and expects to make a success of the Duluth team.

John Beard, who will probably be the regular pitcher of the team, comes from Waterloo, Ind., and has a fine reputation. Springfield of the Centra league made a strong bid for him, after Duluth had secured his signature, and nothing but the best of reports come of his ability. Snooks is a cast-off from the Cedar Rapids club.

Frank DeLong is Beard's battery partner, and the two boys are said to work well together. Manley, Murray, Phoenix and Fancois are all well recommended. Manley has been turned over to Duluth by Manager Bill Armour of the Toledo team of the American association. Armour thinks well of the boy, but can't use him this year, and he will get experience with the Northern league. Phoenix comes from "Ducky" Holmes' Sioux City team, under the same conditions.

Kerr a Mainstay.

George H. Kerr is expected to be one of the mainstays of the pitching staff. He is 28 years old and has had experience in the Wisconsin State and Iowa State leagues, besides years of semi-professional ball. He pitched for Oshkosh in the Wisconsin State league in 1906, winning ten of the fourteen games he threw, eight of his victories being in a row. Morrow expects him to make good without trouble.

Severied is in line for the first base job. He was turned over to Duluth by Sioux City, and is said to be all to the good. Iverson was picked from the Chicago lots, and is well recommended.

Otto Koepping will probably get one of the infield positions. He is 21 years old and has played shortstop during his career with the semi-pros. He is said to be a fast fielder and fair batsman, hitting right handed. His home is at Elgin, Ill., and Morrow has confidence in him. Leighty will not report until May 1, but he should get the place easily. King was signed by Kuehnow at Des Moines, but may not report. There are other infielders on the string, who can easily be secured to take his place.

There is a wealth of outfielders. One of the catchers will play in the gardens and Morrow will have trouble in making a selection for the other places. Harry Morgy was wanted by Buffalo in the Eastern league, but Kuehnow had him signed up and he couldn't get away. He has been led to see that a year in the Northern will help him out in experience and he will report. Arthur Pagels is said to be strong on the swat and the fans do like healthy sluggers.

Rorabaugh is 26 years old and has played semi-professional ball on good teams, although this year will be his first attempt at organized ball. He was with Morrow at Belvidere last year and the manager is loud in his praises. He hits from the left side and does it well.

Roy Dye is only 20 years old and is just breaking out of the lots. He is a right handed hitter with a bushel of recommendations and will be given a chance to show his worth.

Old Players Report Late.

The old guard will not report until the youngsters have had their try-out. Doc Voss is in Chicago and will be ready to put in an appearance as soon as the word is given. Krick, Haney and Monroe will also be ready to report when needed.

All of the teams in the league will be getting into action soon. Artie O'Dea has been working out candidates for his Brandon nine at Minneapolis all during the past week and is said to have picked up several men there. His squad will report at Burlington next Wednesday and will work out with Ned Egan's Iowa state league team. Artie and his men will come north early in May for a five day mix with Tom Brady's Hibbing Colts at Hibbing.

Winnipeg will report at Quincy, Ill., April 22, and will play a series of exhibition games with strong clubs in Illinois and Wisconsin before hitting the trail for the frozen north, where the season will open May 14. Eddie Herr has been saying little, but the fans have not been deceived by his silence. The corpulent one will turn up with a string or red streaks, unless all conjectures go wrong, and desperate efforts will be made to mail another rag to the cloud penetrating pole the Canadians are preparing to plant in Happyland.

Bill McNell thinks Fargo is far enough south for him. He will have his men report there April 25, and work them out against the Fargo amateurs. McNell is counting on picking up some of the drift-wood from the leagues higher up. He's a wise baseball man, is Bill.

There's nothing in sight for the Northern league, but a successful season. The circuit is more compact than it was last year and the expense to which the owners will be put will be smaller. With the teams fairly evenly matched and a few thrills in the race, there's no reason why everybody shouldn't make a little money. Interest in baseball never dies and if the fans are served with the right sort of stuff, they'll plunge in and enjoy it.

SPEAKS AT LOUISVILLE

Secretary Taft Discusses the Issues of the Campaign.

Says That Tariff Schedule is in Need of Revision.

Louisville, Ky., April 11.—Secretary of War Taft ended an eventful and busy five hours in Louisville by a speech last night at the Hopkins theater.

He was introduced by Col. Morris B. Belknap. Secretary Taft in opening his address referred to his service as judge of the United States circuit court having jurisdiction over Kentucky and recalled a number of personal memories of Louisville leaders in the legal profession.

"We have before us," said the secretary, "a campaign presenting many serious issues. Some others are not so important but are being kept alive by the gentleman who, I presume, will head the Democratic ticket. Mr. Bryan, I presume, speaks for the Democratic party."

Applause For Bryan.

At this mention of Mr. Bryan's name there was scattering but vigorous applause lasting a minute or two. When they had become quiet, Mr. Taft said smilingly: "I am glad to notte that there appear to be a number of Democrats disguised as followers of Mr. Bryan in the house. I hope they will stay and hear a little sound doctrine."

Amid laughter and cheers the secretary then launched into a discussion of the policies of the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations in regard to the acquisition and government of the Philippines and other colonies.

Turning from the colonies to the need they emphasize for an ample navy, the secretary said:

"The complaisant ones and the timid ones shrink from a large navy with the cry 'I will provoke a war.' We need a navy to prevent a war."

Talks On Tariff.

Turning to the tariff Mr. Taft related the history of the Wilson and Dingley bills. The former he characterized as mongrel; under the latter, he said, we enjoyed a prosperity unequaled in history. "But of late," he continued, "there has come to pass a period of industrial depression resulting from economic causes. It has become apparent, therefore, that some of the schedules are not high enough and others are too high and that the tariff should be revised as soon as possible, that it should be revised according to protective principle and that the work should be done quickly, so as to disturb commerce as little as possible."

Secretary Taft then launched into a forceful and witty description of what he termed the present moral awakening of the American people as the result of the initiative of Theodore Roosevelt. His remarks on the administration's anti-policy followed the lines of his recent speeches at other points. He described the workings of the Sherman and Hepburn laws and the Elkins law and followed it up with an exposure of the methods of law-breaking trusts.

"My Bryan," said the speaker, "asks me what should be done with the great combinations of capital. He says he would expiate trusts, root and branch. I don't know how he would carry out this policy unless he means that he would destroy the plants that create our prosperity. I do not believe either in that or government ownership, but I believe in making corporations obey the law and being prevented from destroying the prosperity of others or refusing to share with others the prosperity existing in their lines of business."

Would Impose Heavy Burden.

The secretary attacked Mr. Bryan's plan for national incorporation of concerns engaged in interstate trade, declaring it would impose an intolerable burden on the multitude of small concerns doing business over state lines. The power given congress to regulate commerce between the states was intended to free commerce, not to better it in any such way.

The amendments favored by President Roosevelt, he said, would have the effect of forcing publicity of the business methods of the big fellows, and the only ones having power to stifle competition.

Describing the interrelation and interdependence of capital and labor, Mr. Taft said: "The laboring men are beginning to see that they have a vital interest in maintaining the laws protecting the security of capital and private property. But when it comes to deciding how the joint profits of capital and labor shall be divided we find a direct clash of parties with opposition and equal interest. The union and the strike are necessary and lawful instruments for the protection of the rights of labor.

"But labor and capital fully organized are conflicting forces of tremendous power and the unarmed, unclassed man between them should be an object of special care at the hands of the law. This citizen specially needs that the law should be instantly enforced against violence on one hand and corruption and oppression on the other.'

HOW CAMPHOR IS MADE.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "To make camphor," said a returned traveller, "you put in chips at one hole, and out of another hole you draw the crude product, in coarse white grains, like salt.

"Wherever camphor trees grow you will find camphor distilleries. They are low building of mud brick and their odor is so aromatic that it can be detected two miles off.

"In each building there are a dozen fires. On each fire is a kettle of boiling water, with a perforated lid. Fitted to the top of the cylinder is an empty inverted jar.

"There is your whole apparatus—a simple thing, which works simply. The steam of the boiling water passing up through the cylinder extracts from the camphor wood its oil. This oil, mounting still upward with the steam, settles like brine on the sides of the inverted jar at the top. This brine, when the fire goes out, dries into a substance like frost or snow.

"White and aromatic, the frostlike substance is the crude camphor. It is so scraped off the sides of the jar and refined and pressed into those attractive balls and cubes that you buy at a high price everywhere."

TRIBE OF CRIMINALS.

From the Bengal Gazetteer: The Maghaya is born in an arhar field and is schooled to theft from his infancy. He lives with shelter or food for the morrow, perpetually moving from encampment to encampment, chased by the police and excrated by the villagers. His greatest pride is a successful burglary, and a prolonged drinking bout his most coveted reward.

Jail offers no terrors to the Dom; it is merely the result of being a bungler at his trade. The first attempt to reclaim the Maghaya Doms in Champarun was made by Mr. (now Sir E.) Henry. He found the greater number of the adult members of the tribe were in jail. Every police officer was held responsible if any Doms were found in his jurisdiction, with the result that as soon as a Dom was released from the jail he was usually returned thither under the bad livelihood sections.

Agricultural settlements were established for the tribe but they do not seem to have been very successful as civilizing agencies. The settlements serve as houses for the women and children, but the men are seldom found in them.

The females generally hawk stolen property in the villages and act as spies.

Kelley Roller Polo Team Fails to Appear for Game.

The Kelley Hardware and Lincoln Park roller polo teams did not meet last night at the Lincoln Park rink as was expected. About 800 spectators gathered at the rink, but the Kelleys failed to put in an appearance and the Lincolns went on for an exhibition with the Fedji's, winning by a score of 5 to 0.

The manager of the Lincolns was pretty much put out by the failure of the city team to show up. He says he took his team of the Temple rink on a half day's notice Thursday, because the Kelleys made the plea that unless he appeared, they would not play at the West end rink last night. The manager of the Lincolns claims last night's game for non-appearance, giving each team one game on the series.

Manager Ziegler of the Kelleys claims that three of his men were injured in Thursday night's game and the men could not go on the floor for another hard game last night. He is perfectly willing to play out the series with the Lincolns and another game will be played at the Lincoln Park rink next week.

THORSEN GOES TO LIMA.

Duluth Southpaw to Get Trial in Ohio State League.

Dick Thorsen, the erratic Duluth southpaw, will leave this afternoon for Lima, Ohio, to join the Ohio State league team there. Thorsen received his transportation yesterday and he is away on his first try-out in organized ball.

"Bill" Clark, captain of the Toledo team of the American association last year, owns the Lima franchise and is personally managing the team. Under his direction, Thorsen should develop into a pitcher. He has everything but experience. Given good coaching and a season in a Class D league, he should develop into a star in higher organizations. The Ohio State league is a new organization and Thorsen will get a chance with a lot of other young ball players to show that he has the goods.

Big Duluths Organize.

The Big Duluths have organized for the season, with Lum Gerton as manager and captain. There are about twenty candidates for places and a team will be selected from them, which will believes will be able to hold its own. Tentative dates have been secured with Hibbing, Coleraine, Cloquet and other out-of-town teams. The other local semi-pros and amateurs will also be met during the season.

MAY BE IN OLYMPIAD

Two Schoolboys Probable Members of the American Team.

Mercersburg Academy Students Have Good Athletic Records.

America may furnish the unique spectacle this season of having two schoolboys representing it in the Olympic championships at London in July. The two youngsters who aspire to this great honor, and whom competent critics declare likely to earn the honor, are John Hall and Arthur Stipp of Mercersburg academy.

Hall is a hurdler and broad jumper, but it is in the former event that he displays his great skill. Stipp is a giant in size, weighing more than 210 pounds, and holds the world's scholastic 12-pound shot record, and is within a few inches of the greatest performance ever recorded to any man.

This remarkable pair of schoolboy athletes reached their full development under the coaching of Alvin C. Kraenzlein, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, and undoubtedly the greatest all-around athlete who ever lived. Kraenzlein's own specialty is the hurdles and broad jump, and he has given Hall the full benefit of his knowledge that made him the world's record holder. The famous trainer is also a skilled weight thrower, and was able to import considerable to Stipp, though most of his knowledge is self-gained or taught by Lee J. Talbot, the famous weight thrower, who is now at Cornell, but who was Stipp's teammate last year.

No schoolboy in the world at the present moment compares with either of these athletes while few college men are in their class, so that, when they have reached the hight of their ability in June, they can be counted on to give a hard battle for places.

Hall has the wonderful schoolboy record of 15 4-5 seconds for a hurdle race of 120 yards over the high obstacles. This is but three-fifths of a second slower than the world's record and a pace that few men in the country, with the possible exception of Garrels and Smithson can surpass regularly. Kranzlein expects to make Hall at least two-fifths of a second faster within the next few months, in which event he will be almost unbeatable.

Hall won consistently last season from all the best schoolboys in the country before he hung up his fine record. This winter he was yards faster than any of his rivals, even among the college men in the indoor meets, and this led to his selection by the A. A. U. to represent the Middle Atlantic association against the Metropolitan association in the inter-city dual meet in Philadelphia, early in the month. At that time he was given second place, though he had in the opinion of all the spectators beaten Eller of New York, in record time.

Stipp is only about 5 feet 10 inches in height, but has tremendously broad shoulders and weighs more than 200 pounds. In spite of his weight, he is very speedy, is a good sprinter, fine football player and all-around athlete. In the middle states championship indoor in Philadelphia, on Washington's birthday of this year he broke the record with the 12-pound shot, putting the missile 53 feet 7½ inches. He made his last put so high that it smashed through the electric lights hanging from the roof and would undoubtedly have gone several feet better than the record. With the hammer he has a record of 170 feet. In the use of the 16-pound shot, which is the standard for the Olympic games as well as the intercollegiate games, he is less familiar, but has a better mark than many collegians.

Stipp was also selected to represent the Middle Atlantic association in the intercity indoor meet, and against the stars of the New York division and Kruger, the intercollegiate record holder, he took second place, with almost 43 feet. He also should be able to improve a foot or two, making him one of the most formidable in the country.

Quillan to Minneapolis.

Mike Cantillion, manager of the Minneapolis team of the American association, has announced that arrangements have practically been made for Lee Quillan, Welday O'Neill and Fiene of the Chicago White Sox to become Millers this year. He has also secured Pitcher Kido Wilson, last year with Milwaukee. Wilson has a total abstinence clause in his contract.

Heavies to Wrestle.

Emil Peterson, champion heavyweight wrestler of Duluth, will meet "Bill" Beaulieu at the Metropolitan opera house tonight after the regular performance, in their last meeting, Petterson had a rather easy time of it, but Beaulieu claims to have developed since then and he thinks he can give the champ a good run for the coin. The winner will meet Andrew Danielson within the next two weeks.

FIRST TEAM IS WINNER

All-Stars Too Strong on the Individual Work.

Regular Basketball Team Wins by a One-Sided Score.

The first team of the Y. M. C. A. had an easy time defeating a picked five from the Y. M. C. A. league at basketball at the Central gymnasium last night. At the end of the first half, the regulars had the big end of a 20 to 11 score and at final time the score was 44 to 17, with the All Stars trailing.

The individual ability of the members of the league team shone out well, but as a team, they fell down. The five men had never played together before and elementary team work failed at times. They couldn't work the combinations, which bring success in basketball, but were forced to depend almost entirely on individual efforts, which couldn't cope on an equal basis with the fine team play of the regulars.

The regulars hadn't lost anything by their week of inactivity. They showed up in fine form, bewildering the All Stars with a series of well executed combination, which ended in baskets. Every man was at his post every minute and the team work was as good as they had shown in any game of the season.

Given a few weeks to practice together, the All Stars would undoubtedly develop into a good team. As it was, there were five men against a team and the team won.

The men lined up as follows:

Regulars.	Pos.	All Stars.
Fenton	f	Klichli (Horak's)
Smith	f	Delghton (Delghton's)
Dinham	c	Haroldson (Horak's)
McLean	g	Downing (Horak's)
Skelton	g	Higgins (Noon)

SIZING 'EM UP.

New York Sun: A debating team isn't much like a football team, but apparently the habit of athletic criticism is so deeply ingrained that to some college men the activities of the two appear alike. Which is to say that when the Yale debating team recently met Princeton, and incidentally was defeated, the Yale News published in advance of that contest a summary of the Yale team that read for all the world like the estimate of abilities of an athlete.

One man was "very good at his best, but has some off days. He is a trifle too aggressive sometimes in his delivery and has a tendency to talk too fast." Sounds like: "Is inclined to charge before the ball and thus get offside," doesn't it?

Another man "has some minor faults of delivery, but he holds the attention by his earnestness and individuality. He is very clear and logical in his constructive argument. In rebuttal he shows good judgment, but is not quite as affluent in expression as he should be. He is a very cool headed and reliable man and exerts a steadying influence on the whole team."

Which could be read: "Smith is a fine man in the backfield catching punts, rarely muffing and then generally able to get them back. He runs his team with good headwork, choosing his plays nicely, and is clever at picking weak spots in the opposing line. When they get going under Smith it is a case of the full count."

Another fellow in rebuttal "is very quick but a little inclined to let the excitement of the debate run away with him." Otherwise: "He is a fierce tackler, but is apt at times to be turned away from the play. In his eagerness to get through he sometimes fails to diagnose the formation."

Still another debater "has also some minor faults in delivery, but in spite of these he is a good speaker and an excellent debater. He handles his constructive argument well and seldom loses sight of the main issues in rebutting. He also has a ready flow of language, which is invaluable in extemporaneous work." Which recalls: "He is a good man at advancing the ball, following his interference well and taking the holes with good judgment. He is a wonderful dodger and a good man in a broken field."

After all, there isn't much difference.

GALVESTON'S ACHIEVEMENT.

H. S. Cooper in Success Magazine: In the place of a robbed, misgoverned, and devastated city, the commission government of Galveston has for six years so directed and managed municipal affairs and property as to have virtually paid off the city's indebtedness, brought its credit to a premium, paved, lighted and sewered its streets, brought all its departments up to a good business efficiency, given it a clean, honest, equitable, and human government, and made it one of the cleanest, most healthful, prosperous, and law-abiding cities in America. Besides that—as Galveston city constitutes nine-tenths of Galveston county in population and in value of taxable property—the city has virtually built around itself the now mamous sea-wall and is, by itself, raising two-thirds of its area from eighteen inches to ten feet so as to put it above any future storm waters. And it has done all this on a constantly decreasing tax rate!

Who are the men who have done this? Just plain, everyday American citizens; a banker, a cattle dealer, a real estate agent and a wholesale grocer as commissioners. The first mayor-president—who died in office—was a lawyer, the present one is a retired cotton merchant. Of varying national descents, of ages from a comparatively young man to a man of mature years; of means from wealthy to moderate—just a good average of the everyday, respectable, and self-supporting human-being—that's all.

AT THE LYCEUM

Paul Gilmore On Monday Night Only, and "Mrs. Wiggs Of The Cabbage Patch" Friday and Saturday.

Paul Gilmore in "The Wheel of Fortune" and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be the only attractions at the Lyceum next week.

Paul Gilmore will be in Duluth Monday evening and the dates for "Mrs Wiggs" are Friday and Saturday.

On Tuesday evening the Lyceum will be occupied by the Y. M. C. A. members in their athletic exhibition, and it will be dark the other two nights.

MRS. WIGGS COMING.

Adaptation of Well-Known Story to be Presented at Lyceum.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which will be seen at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday of next week, is a dramatization of the well known story of that name.

The humorous philosophy of Mrs. Wiggs is almost as well known as that of "Samanthy Allen," and hundreds of thousands of Americans have laughed at her odd sayings, while realizing the solid foundation of good sense on which they are based.

The play is a Liebler production, and the company presenting it is the same as that seen in Duluth last August.

PAUL GILMORE.

Young Star Owes His Success to Hard Earnest Work.

Why is Paul Gilmore successful? That question is quite commonly propounded. The answer is very simple. Mr. Gilmore is one of those men who strive incessantly and who bestow much thought on the means of producing the best results. When he gets a play, he carefully studies all the characters in order to get a right sense of porportion. Then he proceeds to grasp the spirit of his own role. Mr. Gilmore is always letter-perfect, but this does not mean that he commits his lines and business to memory after the manner of a parrot. He exercises discretion and intelligence in reading his lines and in performing his business. He is scrupuously careful not to exaggerate and equally cautious not to omit anythink of even minor importance.

Mr. Gilmore has established his right to head a company and is yet under 30 years of age. He will be at the Lyceum Monday night in "The Wheel of Love," written especially for him by George V. Hobart, a humorist and dramatist of national reputation. The supporting company has been carefully chosen and is superbly balanced. The accessories are entirely adequate.

AT THE BIJOU

Return of Mrs. General Tom Thumb and Baron Magri Will Be Big Feature of Next Week's Vaudeville Bill.

Those who have missed seeing the celebrated Mrs. General Tom Thumb, Count Magri her husband, and his brother Baron Magri, will have an opportunity to see them on their return engagement next week. It is their farewell tour of the West.

These little people played an engagement at the Bijou last year, proving such drawing cards that thousands of people could not get to see them. The management has gone to considerable expense in securing them for next week. As they are on their way East when they will retire.

Mrs. Tom Thumb has toured every country in the world. With her former husband she was received and feted by the nobility of several countries, having traveled and appeared before the public continually since 1863. They will present a comely playlet entitled "Two Strings to Her Bow," which is said to be a very clever skit.

On Wednesday afternoon a reception will be given at which Mrs. Thumb will be pleased to meet the women of Duluth. On Thursday afternoon each woman attending the matinee will receive a beautiful rose as a gift from Mrs. Tom Thumb. A special program has been arranged for school children for Saturday afternoon.

Among the other features of the show will be a number of the dead line attractions in vaudeville including the celebrated Webb-Romala troupe of acrobats. This is conceded to be one of the greatest gymnastic acts ever put together. Hutchinson and Bainbridge will be seen in Edmund Daly's cyclonic farciecality entitled "Out All Night," which is a clever sketch with good dramatic and comedy situations.

Another roaring comedy will be offered by Brooks and Vedder entitled "The New House Maid" a German character sketch that offers a laugh every minute. Sadie Vedder is the housemaid in a German character costume. Max Brooks' reputation in the musical comedy field should be a guarantee of his cleverness.

There will be a juggling act by Leon and Adeline as "The Lady Juggler and the House Wreckers." This act has been a decided hit over the entire circuit.

Isadore Silver will sing "When the Golden Grain is Waving, Mary Dear," one of the newest illustrated hits out.

The moving pictures will be "The Veteran's War Story," and "Evangeline," a spectacular picture feature. Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either 'phone.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Campbell-Drew Amusement Company's Tiger Lilies, Headed by George P. Murphy, Will be the Attraction for a Week.

The Campbell-Drew Amusement company's big organization, the Tiger Lilies, will be the joy producers at the Metropolitan next week, when they will play the usual engagement, including a chorus girls' contest Thursday evening and an amateurs' night Friday.

At the head of the company is George P. Murphy, who despite his old Erin name, is a German dialect comedian. He is some times referred to as the Louis Mann of vaudeville. He affects a make-up and a dialect like Mann's and is said by some enthusiasts to be quite as good. Whether he is as good as Mann or not, he is a great favorite on the Empire circuit and never fails to get many laughs when he works.

There are two new burlesques in the Tiger Lilies' entertainment and a clever vaudeville bill, participated in by John Marion and Grace Lillian, in "A Vaudeville Surprise." Carrier Ezier and Josette Webb, "The Actress and the Maid," Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellsworth in "The Silk Stocking," John C. Hart and company in "The Pipe Hitter," and Jack Irwin, in his prize fight monologue, "The Kid's Last Fight."

The Tiger Lilies always boast of a lovely chorus.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Two Farces of Recent Output to be Withdrawn--- Lulu Glaser Again to Shine as a Star in Comic Opera.

New York, April 11.—Two farces of recent birth, regeneration, reincarnation or whatever you choose to call it breathed their last after a short career. "Bluffs" did not go at the Bijou, and added one more to the list of failures at that fateful house since Nazimova went on tour, while "Toddles," in which Jack Barrymore was featured, expired in infancy at the Garrick. Both were withdrawn last Saturday night. It is the fashion to speak of the Bijou and the Garrick as unlucky houses. Both can point to a formidable list of failures to substantiate the argument that a hoodoo is interwoven with their history. But just what a flimsy thing is theatrical superstition is shown by the reflection that it was at the Bijou that Henrietta Crosman scored her triumph in "Mistress Nell," that Warfield played "The Music Master" for more than a year, and Nazimova laid the foundation of her remarkable success, while the Garrick was the home of Mrs. Carter in "Zaza" for upwards of a year. The Princess, which seems to have been finally abandoned, was considered a hopeless proposition until Margaret Anklin produced "Zira" there, after which came "Brown of Harvard" and "The Great Divide," both of them notable metropolitan successes.

As a result of the withdrawal of "Bluffs" the Bijou remained closed this week, and nothing so far is scheduled. But I hear from inside sources that it is shortly to be reopened, and I expect any day the announcement that Henry E. Dixey will appear in "Papa Lebonnard." This will show the comedian in a radical departure from a line of characterizations with which he has been long identified. "Papa Lebonnard" was the play in which Novelli, the Italian actor, made his American debut and hypnotized a large portion of our playgoers. It is from the French, and sketches the domestic life of a retired old watchmaker who is married to a social climber. The wife objects to the marriage of their daughter to a young man of illegitimate birth, but of fine character, and is supported in her attitude by the son. From that moment it is father and daughter against mother and son, and a big scene is the result, in which Lebonnard, driven to the last degree of endurance by the superhap airs and insults of his family, reveals his knowledge that the wife has had a liaison with a nobleman in her younger days, and that the son is himself an illegitimate child.

Lulu Glaser's retirement from burlesque and re-entree into comic opera is set for next September. Consequently, she will not be seen in the travesty of "The Merry Widow" at Joe Webster's playhouse after this season. "The Girl Who Dared" is Sydney Rosenfeld's translation of "Ein Tolles Madel," a comic opera by Ziehrer, which is one of the hits in Vienna with "The Waltz Dream" and "The Merry Widow." Miss Glaser is to have the principal role, and the Shuberts are mentioned as her new managers. The music is said to be seductive, which is probably true, since Ziehrer is named as the composer. Many Americans who visited the Chicago World's fair will remember Ziehrer, who was the conductor of the big Vienna orchestra there, and whose waltz, "Vienna Darlings," was whistled all over the United States.

The Socialists are freely using the theater to make propaganda for their ideas and to hold up to the multitude, as well as to all others who care to see, pictures of life as it appears to them. Last week reference was made to a performance in Italian dealing with a strike of the New York tailors. This week the first steps were taken toward the permanent establishment of a Socialist theater in English. The object is to begin a propaganda for the cause through the medium of the stage. The playhouse is a little, low-ceiling hall on Third avenues. The stage settings were crude and the actors amateurs, but they knew their lines and held the large audience as under a spell. Three playlets were given, each of which depicted some phase of life that showed the contrast between wealth and poverty, the oppression of the rich and the sufferings of the poor. Vivid pictures of the contrasted lives of the daughter of a rich doll manufacturer and that of a starving woman who is employed by the rich child's father were unfouled in the first of three little plays. You can judge of the seriousness of this entire undertaking when you learn that it was written especially for the Socialist Sunday school of one of the assembly districts. Two little girls in the cast notably distinguished themselves. The second play was a satire on modern society by Andre Tridon, entitled "Their Daughters," and the last was from the German of Otto E. Hartleben, called "The Moral Demand."

Everybody here is wondering how things will turn out regarding the final settlement of the question who shall continue in the title role of "The Merry Widow," whether Ethel Jackson or Lena Arbarbanell, the ex-Metropolitan singer of comic opara, whom Mr. Conried imported from Vienna originally for his German theater on Irving place. The role was given to Miss Jackson when the operatta began the season at the Manhattan. Since then the dainty prima donna has been out of the cast so often that her non-appearance has become a byword. It was not to any dogmatic exactions or whimsies on her part, but to sudden attacks of weakness which frequently caused her to swoon away behind the scenes. When the operatta was found to be a success, another company was established in Chicago and Arbarbanell was given the part which Miss Jackson so admirably filled in New York. Suddenly, last week, Miss Arbarbanell appeared in the East, and the announcement was made that she would temporarily take Miss Jackson's place in the East until Miss Jockson should be able to return. Miss Arbardanell at once proceded to sing and dance herself into the affection of the audiences, and there she stays, apparently content to let Miss Jackson take as much time as she likes to effect a complete recovery.

Henri Bernstein, since his play, "The Thief," was produced in this city, has been a much talked about individual in this country, but it may have been observed that no other play of his has been produced so far. Frank Keenan read a Bernstein play recently, which that excellent actor would be delighted to present. It is called "The Claw." ("La Griffe"), and it pictures the life of an elderly man who marries a beautiful, but heartless, woman and is deserted by her in the crisis of his career, when he is to face the French Chambers to answer charges of official corruption, of which he has rendered himself guilty in order to gratify his wife's pride and retain her love. But the play is not the sort that wins the applause of the multitude, and will probably never be produced here. Viola Allen, however, will shortly add a Bernstein play to her present offering. The Bernstein play is "Le Bercail," translated as "The Fold," in which she was to have made her appearance at the outset of the season before her fancy was taken by "Irene Wycherley," the English play in which she is now presenting in various parts of the country. The French piece has been described as a modern "East Lynne." Like the heroine in "The Thief," the erring woman is forgiven by her husband in the end and the solution is fairly happy, which is not the case with other fine acting plays of Bernstein.

Another Russian star is foretold in the theatrical horizon, following Mesdames Nazimova and Kamerisarzhevsky and tending hitherward. But this time it is not high tragedy, nor the psychic drama that we are to see exploited, but something exhilarating and chic. Mme. Steukeaske is a vaudeville favorite in Moscow and St. Petersburg and has appeared also in Paris. She gives character impersonations of Russian peasant women and striking street types of the Russian capital.

The Shuberts are so well satisfied with the success of "Girls," Clyde Fitch's adaptation from the German, that they are organizing two more companies to present the farces in Chicago and on the Pacific coast.

The same managers have installed a new service at the Casino theater in the form of girl ushers. The girls wear uniformly-cut suits of black, with white collars, cuffs and aprons. The innovation is apparently giving satisfaction, and is likely to be introduced in other Shubert houses.

Unless all signs fail Granville Barker will be the first director of the New theater in New York city. This clever young Englishman arrived from London last week, and has been in conference with the financial people who are behind the proposed new playhouse. The visit of Mr. Barker, though, of keenest interest to New York at present, is significant to the entire country. Just as certain as he can assist in making this long-looked for theater a success the plan will be imitated in other cities of the country. Until its practical side is demonstrated there is little chance that the forward movement will be taken up outside of New York, but, once the New theater is thoroughly established, lovers of the best in the drama will immediately set about getting these results nearer to their own homes In this lies the real significance of the movement.

A fellow passenger with Mr. Barker was William Archer, the celebrated London critic, and the man who has done much to popularize the Ibsen plays on the English stage. Mr. Archer says that his visit is one outside the theater, but he will in all probability be present at some of the conferences which will result in Mr. Barker being brought over to this country to assist in launching the new playhouse.

Mr. Barker's experience in recent years has been devoted almost exclusively to the Court theater in London, where, with the able aid of a few earnest lovers of the drama, he has been permitted to put forth the best there is in dramatic literature, irrespective of the financial bogey. The box office has not been paramount with them, and yet, by minimizing the expenses of the little theater, Mr. Barker says they were able to make the venture self-sustaining. This demonstrates that there are enough lovers of the drama in London to make one such playhouse a self-sustaining institution.

In answer to queries regarding his future plans, Mr. Barker said that upon the present trip he would not be able to talk of his ideas, as he first wanted to look the field over and get in touch with American conditions before venturing any opinions as to the needs or possible outlook for the new theater.

"Until I understand American conditions I cannot speak of a New York playhouse," the English director said. "Of course, in any theater I should direct here would be free trade in the drama. By this I mean I should select for acting plays which had not only literary value, but were good as playcraft, regardless of the country of their origin. It has always been the merit of a play that has told with me, I should like, of course, no matter where I was, to follow up the ideas I have worked upon in the Court theater in London the past few years.

"Every play suffers by translation, whether that translation be as regards language or manners. In this sense, other things being equal, the American, the native, the play untranslated as regards language or manners, would have a strong chance. But my aim would be to produce plays which were in themselves good ones, regardless of their data or origin.

"The problem London managers elect to solve is not what the public wants, but how much they can induce them to swallow. In the commercial aspect rent is the dominant factor in the plans of the London manager. At the Court theater we were under fortunate circumstances. The house was small and could be run inexpensively.

"What actuated you to produce plays not calculated to be financial successes?" he was asked.

"Why," he replied, "we felt that if we wished to put before us all the factors in the theatrical problem a certain freedom to experiment must be given.

"No man can be actually certain of theatrical results. A play is not born until it is produced."

Mr. Barker was asked how he proposed to rid the theater of the incubus of commercialism. He answered:

"Let the theater be relieved of the burdens of which public utilities are relieved.

"The theater is in many senses a public service and not penalized.

"Rents in London are enormous. They alone force the manager to keep the strictest eye on his economics.

"I am not pleading for an endowed theater—that is to say, a theater endowed by the state or city, but, under the plan proposed by the founders of the New theater is dedicated to the public and to the opportunities of presenting good plays."

The play by R. N. Beach, which C. Aubrey Smith and Beatrice Forbes Robertson, of the Marie Doro company, are to bring out next week in Philadelphia, under the title of "The Imposter," turns out to be the work of Mrs. Gustave Frohman, wife of the well-known manager, who was here with Miss Doro earlier in the season. Mrs. Frohman, before her retirement, was known on the stage as Marie Huhert, and was a popular actress of her time. This is her first venture in play writing, and, rehearsals of it have been so favorable that a great deal is expected of the play when it sees the light next week.

Dirt and Disease in the Alleys of the Zenith City

The city's housecleaning days are about due.

Ashes and garbage which have accumulated during the winter months in the alleys and back yards of the city are uncovered with the disappearance of the snow, and now present most unsightly heaps. The city presents a dirtier and less attractive appearance just at the present time than it does at any other season of the year.

A little later in the spring when the frost has left the ground, Mayor Haven will name a municipal cleaning day when the citizens will be expected to turn out, as they did in Spokane recently, and give the city a thorough cleaning, carting away the garbage and ashes, raking up lawns, and picking up old papers and tin cans.

In Spokane, it is claimed, 40,000 people took part in the municipal cleaning crusade, and there is apparently no reason why that number could not put in a few hours cleaning up Duluth.

A trip through some of the alleys of the city, discloses many unsightly heaps of garbage and rubbish, which are disease breeders of the worst kind. Every spring the city has an epidemic of contagious disease of some kind to cope with, and the health authorities give two causes for this: the influx of men from the lumber camps, and the unsanitary condition of the alleys and back yards.

While the city cleaning day will probably not be held before May 1, there is nothing to prevent citizens getting busy with rakes before that date and they are urged to do so by the health officials.

The Owen Kildare play, "The Regeneration," presented here under the title of "My Mamie Rose," has caught a rise well in Chicago that Manager George Tyler, now in London, is trying to book a theater for Arnold Daly in the British metropolis, with a view of taking him and his company over there at the end of the American season for a summer run in England.

Adele Ritchie, who has been resting in Florida since her illness caused the closing of "Fascinating Flora," is to return to the New York stage shortly and will again be seen in vaudeville for a short time before taking up a new musical comedy.

William Vaughn Moody, whose first venture as a playwright made him famous when "The Great Divide" proved such a strong offering for Henry Miller, is reported to be at a private hospital in New York city suffering from a dangerous attack of typhoid pneumonia. Mr. Moody was taken ill in Chicago and hurried to New York for treatment. For a time last week his life was despaired of, but later news is more encouraging and his physicians are now hopeful that he will pull through.

Percy Williams, after trying several musical vehicles for Yorke and Adams, has induced the Hebrew parody comedians to return to vaudeville, and they open at one of his eastern theaters next week.

Maude Fealy is reported to be preparing a suit in Denver against her former manager, John Cort, the well-known theatrical magnate of the Northwest. It is said that, unable to carry out the terms of his contract with Miss Fealy, Cort has been trying to farm out his former star to a stock company in the West.

The new La Salle theater effort, "The Honeymoon Trail," seems to have duplicated the former successes of the Hough, Adams and Howard shows in Chicago and has settled down for a run in the Windy City. The story is very much like that of "The Time, the Place and the Girl," and the music is said to be as catchy as that of "The Girl Question," so that the little theater is nicely provided for the summer with good entertainment.

During the temporary sojourn of some prominent members of the Knickerbocker Country club at French Lick Springs, Ind., the past week, Fred Zimmerman undertook to show Frank McKee, A. W. Dingwall, Bert Whitney and William Harris some pointers in the game of golf. From the Hoosier roost of Pluto comes a tale of Freddie's undoing. The other morning the Philadelphian ventured forth upon the golf course at French Lick for the first time. With a critical eye he surveyed the field from the initial tee.

"How far is it to the first hole?" asked Zimmermann, careless like.

"Two hundred yards, sir," replied his alert caddie.

"Umph! Just a drive and a put, eh?"

"Yes, sir," answered the caddie, as he teed the ball and stepped back to see the drive. But something went wrong with the Zimmermann timing. In fact, he topped the ball and it rolled off to the right about twenty-five yards. Nothing daunted, the caddie strolled over to where the ball rested, and, pulling out the putter and handing it to Zimmermann, remarked: "Now for a whaling good put, mister."

Georgia Caine will leave the cast of "Miss Hook of Holland" at the end of its regular season run in New York, and will not be in the cast when the summer run starts in Chicago. Miss Caine will go into vaudeville.

Mabel Barrison, in the Joe Howard musical comedy, "The Flower of the Ranch," will follow Williams and Walker at the Majestic theater in New York and continue there for a run well into the summer. This duration depends upon the solid manner in which New oYrkers take to the piece. Howard has been signally successful in his Chicago musical offerings, and it remains to be seen if Gotham will take as kindly to his new star, who in private life is the wife of the comedian-composer. Miss Barrison was in the cast of "Babes in Toyland" during the long run of that piece at the Majestic and is not a stranger to that part of the metropolis.

An actor named Herbert in the Mirror of the past week was responsible for an attack upon the hard-working advance agent which has aroused the ire of the Friars. If Mr. Herbert should ever stroll into the portals of the club a prussic acid cocktail would be the best he could get there. He maintained that the agent was a parasite who did little or nothing to earn his salary and that he was an unnecessary evil, existing upon the charity of the manager. The shrewdest managers and players in the business employ the best advance representatives and they pay good, big salaries for them. This explains the commercial standing of the agent. Artistically he is an adjunct of the game that is necessary as long as advertising is potent in this country. The silliest feature of Mr. Herbert's attack upon the agents is that he thinks no agent worth more than $25 a week and then in the same breath says that if managers would only cut out the agent's salary and divide it up with the actors they would get ever so much better results.

In this line of calculation, if Mr. Herbert was a member of a big musical comedy company his pro rata would be about 36 cents, which would doubtless be a very fair estimate and return for his artistic contribution towards these better results.

Thanks to the action of C. B. Ryan, of the Seaboard Air Line, the theater managers are jubilant because of a reduction in the rate for the traveling companies going south over that line. It is likely that other roads will have to meet the cut. This will relive the situation for next season, if it lasts that long.

Manager Henry W. Savage has been successful in blocking all infringements of his "Merry Widow" rights in this country, as far as acting performances go, and last week in the United States circuit court of New York he won the preliminary battle in the fight against the Moving Picture Trust to prevent their imitations of the Viennese musical comedy. It seems that several firms have faked up scenes of the reigning hit, and these, with the music, were given, and of course with success. Through his attorneys Manager Savage has balked the moving picture men by injunction, and the final settlement of the question involved will have a widespread effect, as it will determine how far the moving picture men can encroach upon the copyright interests of the producing managers.

With the departure after next week of Lulu Glaser for Europe, it is said that Corinne will be elevated to the post of star in the musical comedy "Lola von Berlin," which Miss Glaser started out the season with. Glaser is to have a new Viennese comedy with music for next season, and will likely be a Schubert star. She leaves the Joe Weber company this week.

If Donna Seymour, some time actress in musical extravaganzas, was as good a histrion as she is the discoverer of "angels" she would be something of a player. In an eastern court the other day one lawyer appeared for no less than fifteen different owners of money, who had been induced by Donna, according to their allegations, to part with the same in order to help along her tour. The total amount was in excess of $5,000. The police who arrested Donna in Hoboken, N. J., say she is wanted on 72 different counts for obtaining money under false pretenses. And with all this financial aid the show never got farther than Hoboken.

Max Anderson, who has been so closely occupied with his Eastern interests in the Hippodrome that he seldom reaches Cincinnati these days, was made to feel that he is now a full-fledged New Yorker last week. Anderson was in one of the magistrate courts to look after some legal affairs when a case came up that demanded a jury. He was quickly pressed into service as a juryman and held as one of the twelvewhile listening to the merits of a dispute for money between two Greek peddlers. Anderson was held for two hours against his earnest protest that time was precious with him. When it came time to render a verdict the Cincinnati theater man said he did not know what the row was about, but according to his personal feelings he was convinced that both peddlers ought to be sent up for life.

Augustus Thomas, the dramatist, is a great admirer of William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic leader, and it is said that he is so fond of the Nebraskan he will claim citizenship in Missouri in order to be a member of that delegation at the Denver convention in order that he may make a speech seconding the nomination of his friend. Thomas lives at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and had hoped to be chosen a delegate from Rockcer county, but the anti-Bryan sentiment was too strong for him there, so he will have to fall back on Missouri for his chance.

In the death of Thomas E. Graham, an actor and stage manager, the American stage lost a well known figure. For the past several seasons Mr. Graham had been playing with Eleanor Robson and directed the stage for her performances. He was taken sick three weeks ago in Washington and removed to his home in New York city where he died. Graham was 45 years old and a member of the Players and the Lambs' clubs. He was for fourteen years stage director of Richard Mansfield's companies. Locally, he had been in conference with the Fall Festival people on several occasions and some of the big thing they contemplated would have been under his direction if the scheme then in mind had been carried out.

Word from Hartford, Conn., has it that the new Cohan piece, "The Yankee Prince," was all that had been expected of it. The production there marked the first appearance of of the four Cohans in one cast in several seasons, as Miss Josephine Cohan returned to the family fold after a season or more in vaudeville. The show goes into Philadelphia for two weeks and then will be transferred to New York for the spring and summer run.

As there are numerous people leaving the cast, the road tour of "Tom Jones," the English musical comedy brought out earlier in the season by Manager H. W. Savage, was closed in Pittsburg week before last. Louise Gunning, who was one of the prominent members of the cast, is booked for a new musical comedy. Ich Shuberts are to bring out in the summer and in which she is to be the star.

R. C. Hertz, who has been one of the individual hits in "The Soul Kiss," in New York, is not to be idle pending the suspension of that piece while its star, Mlle. Genee, is filling out some time in Europe. Hertz has an act called "The Stranded Actor," which is said to be a combination of monologue and impersonation that goes wonderfully well, and he will play out the time in vaudeville until "The Soul Kiss" resumes its tour next October.

J. C. Williamson, the Australian theater magnate, has booked two sure American successes for exploitation in Australia next season. These are "The Girl of the Golden West" and "The Prince of Pilsen." The latter was secured for Charles A. Loder, the former German dialect star of this country, who is now a great favorite in the Antipodes.

James K. Hackett, who has been resting for some time, has been secured as a special stock star in one of the Washington stock companies this summer. Hackett wil stage four or five of his past successes, and will also play the leading male parts in these. The experiment should prove a big feature in Washington theatricals.

HOW MUCH IS A MOTHER WORTH?

In a wreck in New Jersey, a few months ago, a father and mother were both killed. They left two little children to the tender mercies of the world, and the court was called upon to decide the amount of damages the railway company should pay the orphans. The Jersey judge fixed the total amount at $20,000—$18,000 for the loss of the father; $2,000 for the loss of the mother.—(Extract from The Sun, Baltimore, Md.)

Only $2,000 for the loss of a mother! Who can measure the value of a mother to a child? From the very day it comes into the world it is cradled in the arms of her love. Every hour it is her constant care. She it is who watches for the dawn of intelligence in the little mind, who teaches the child to lisp the first words, to frame its thoughts and voice its aspirations. She leads it along the first faltering, uncertain steps in the long path of life. From her it receives its first lesson in goodness and grace, and in its earliest years is pointed up to the Star of the East, to Him who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not; for of such are the kingdom of heaven."

She may be weak and full of human frailty and fault, but the mother always strives to save her child from the sins and sorrows of this world. She tries to preserve him in purity and instill into him the strength of resistance and achievement.

As her little girl lies in her arms she wishes for her purity and peace and goodness; that she may be kept unspotted from the world and find a happiness as stainless as an angel's wings.

For the boy in his cradle she dreams days of conquest and mighty deeds—dreams of success and valor in the world—but ever prays that he may be, like Bayard, a knight without fear and without reproach.

They may in after life stray far from her sheltering wing and suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. Many of them will fall into many follies and sins and drink the bitter cup of repentance. But her love will follow them not only up to the heights of success and fame, but down into the depths of bitterness and woe.

Mother o' mine,
If I were hanged on the highest hill,
I know your love would follow me still,
Mother o' mine,
If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know your tears would come down to me,
Mother o' mine,

Through all his life her influence follows him, and the words he learned at her knee remain the most vivid memories of a man's life.

How much is a mother worth? How much of life has a man missed if he had no mother to love and croon and cradle him; to guide and guard and shield him; to teach and train and direct him; to inspire and uplift and save him?

In childhood she is his life and love; in youth his instructor and dearest friend; in after life, his inspiration and benediction.

The mother in her office holds the key
Of the soul; and she it is who stamps the coin
Of character, and makes the being who would be a savage
But for her gentle care, a Christian man.

How much is a mother worth?

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Little Change in Commercial Conditions, Gains Maintained.

New York, April 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Commercial conditions show little alteration, the gains of the first quarter being maintained, but further progress is extremely slow. The weather has favored retail trade in seasonable spring apparel at most points, and the outlook for future business is brighter because of the almost unanimous reports of satisfactory crop prospects. Manufacturing returns are conflicting, several mills and factories resuming while some others curtailed operations, and the rate of pig iron production at the opening of April was smaller than on March 1 to the extent of 2,000 tons weekly. Textile and footwear factories throughout New England proceed cautiously because of the small orders that are being placed for future delivery, all dealers confining purchases to immediate requirements.

Prices of finished steel products are being maintained, but new business comes forward very slowly, except in the lighter forms. Tin plates lead in activity, almost the full capacity of mills being operated, and there is also a good movement of wire products and other agricultural supplies. Demand is poor in the heavy lines, although the Erie railways financial plan may provide funds for a large tonnage of rails that is needed and the increasing value of building permits promises to infuse some activity into structural steel.

Although a better demand is noted in many sections of the cotton goods industry, the prices offered are usually unsatisfactory, and the mills need still cheaper raw material if the business is to be done at a profit. Jobbing purchases for fall trade are usually made in May and June, and much depends upon the extent of this business. No evidences of increased export trade are seen. China trade showing the effect of vigorous competition from Manchester mills. In men's wear woolens a better spot demand is noted, but in many cases the mills cannot make deliveries with requisitte celerity.

Shops received a steady call for tan goods, but business in staple footwear is light, and many producers are taking stock. Wholesalers report a fair trade but restrict orders from New England factories to immediate wants and shipments from Boston are averaging 25,000 to 30,000 cases less than in the same week last year. Shoe manufacturers made bids for both sole and upper leather at concessions from regular figures, but tanners are holding prices, fairly steady. Hides again average slightly higher.

GREAT CHANGES IN THE VALUES

Fall in Prices of Imports; Rise in Prices of Exports.

Washington, April 11.—The fall in prices of articles imported and the advance in prices of articles exported, which form a marked characteristic of the January Price Statement of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, is equally apparent in the February figures of that bureau, which have just made their appearance. In nearly all of the important articles imported for use in manufacturing, prices show a marked decline in February, 1908, when compared with the corresponding month of the preceding year, and in most of the articles of exportation prices in February, 1908, show a marked advance over those of February, 1907. Copper, cotton, hemp, sisal, hides and skins, india rubber, raw silk, pig tin, tobacco, lumber, wool, and coffee, cocoa and sugar are the principal articles imported, and in a very large proportion of these prices in February, 1908, are much below those of February, 1907. Corn, wheat, flour, copper, cotton, iron and steel manufactures, meats, oils, and tobacco are the principal articles exported, and most of these show a marked advance in export price in February, 1908, over that of February, 1907.

To what extent the reduction in total imports and advance in total exports is the result of this falling off in import prices and advance in export prices can not be accurately determined, though it is quite apparent that these changes in prices are responsible in some degree for the remarkable changes in the total values shown by imports and exports in February, 1908, when compared with February, 1907.

THE CASS LAKE FOREST RESERVE

Agreement Between the Minnesota Senators and Gifford Pinchot.

Washington, April 11.—As a result of a conference here yesterday between Senators Nelson and Clapp, Gifford Pinchot, chief of the bureau of forestry, and others, an agreement has been reached whereby the national forest reserve in Northren Minnesota is to be materially changed.

Mr. Pinchot has agreed to eliminate from the present forest reserve all lands west of a line between ranges 29 and 30 from the north line of the present boundary south to the Mississippi river, thence running west along the river to Cass Lake, thence down the west lines of the ten sections to a line between sections 23 and 24 of township 144, thence south to Leach lake.

This agreement was reached after the matter had been fully discussed and there were mutual concessions made on both sides. The amended bill which will be introduced at once in the senate by Mr. Clapp and in the house by Representative Lindbergh, will provide for a reservation of 10 per cent of the standing timber within the confines of the new reserve instead of 5 per cent as under the Morris act.

It is also provided that Indian allottees on the lands released from the present reserve shall have an option to relinquish their present allotments and be given a new tract in lieu thereof on the White Earth reservation, and as these lands are more valuable it is believed that many will take advantage of the offer.

Provision is made for appraising all timber on the lands released and the amount is to be credited up to the Indians. The lands released to the north and south of Cass Lake will probably approximate upwards of 100,000 acres which will later be opened to agricultural entry.

SMUGGLED CHINESE.

Wholesale Scheme Operated Near Detroit is Discovered.

Detroit, Mich., April 11.—The Free Press says: Through the bitter rivalry of three Canadian organizations for smuggling Chinese into the United States, a wholesale scheme of bringing the Orientals illegally across the international border, here at Detroit, was discovered Thursday. It is said that at some points as many as twenty-five Chinese had been smuggled across the line, and that several comfortable fortunes have been made at the business during the past two years by enterprising young men, who have made Windsor, Ont., their headquarters. The immigration authorities here have scant hope of reaching the principles in the three competing agencies, but a man, who has given his name as A. McMann is held at the Wayne county jail in connection with the capture, last Tuesday, of three Chinese at Adrian, Mich. The Chinamen and McMann were found in a Wabash boxcar bound for Chicago.

PURCHASE NOT VALID.

Spinney Must Pay Back Money Received From Iron Chain.

Lincoln, Neb., April 11.—Dr. E. G. Spinney of Chicago must pay back the sum of $7,800, received from the Iron Chain, a Minnesota organization. So declares the supreme court, in a decision rendered yesterday. Dr. Spinney is at the head of a fraternal society, the Bankers' Union.

This organization took over the Iron Chain in 1901. At that time the home office of the Bankers' Union was located at Omaha. The Nebraska court holds that the purchase of the Minnesota society was not valid. The suit was started by S. G. Starr, receiver for the Iron Chain.

ARRESTED FOR PASSING FRAUDULENT CHECKS.

Chicago, April 11.—Mrs. Alice Webb, divorced wife of Brodie L. Duke, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, was arrested here yesterday an a warrant charging her with having defrauded a Chicago hotel company by means of fraudulent checks. She was held at the Harrison street police station in default of bonds. Mrs. Webb is alleged to have passed a check for $25 and one for $50 drawn on a bank in Weegelochee, Tex. A telegram from the bank to the hotel company informed them of the deception. Mrs. Webb declared that she had no remembrance of having passed the checks.

TWO BOYS SUFFOCATED WHILE "PLAYING INDIAN."

Chicago, April 11.—Carl Heefeldt and Earl Gustavson, cousins, each 11 years old, were suffocated by the caving-in of a dug-out in which they were "playing Indian" at Sheridan road, near Waveland avenue, yesterday. A moment before three companions left the dug-out to shovel away some sand near the entrance, and to this fact they probably owe their lives. Policemen attracted to the scene attempted to rescue the entombed boys by digging away with their hands the loose sand that covered them. The bodies were recovered by members of a fire engine company.

WAGER COSTS HIM HIS LIFE.

Sulphur Springs, Ark., April 11.—As a result of a wager, Ed H. Galloway of New York city, a noted athlete, lost his life, here, yesterday, in Butler creek, in the presence of hundreds of spectators, who had gathered to watch his sensational attempt to ride the dam in a frail boat. The rower went over the falls and was thrown into the rapids, where he made a brave fight for his life, but was swallowed up in a raging torrent, from which his body has not been recovered.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE.

Helena, Mont., April 11.—After being out more than twenty-eight hours, the jury in the joint case of Oliver C. Dallas, chief clerk of the federal surveyer general's office, and John D. McLeod, chief draughtsman in the same office, failed to agree, and were discharged last night by Judge William H. Hunt. The men were tried on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government, growing from alleged fraudulent surveys.

THE CITY AND THE COUNTRY.

The Rollis correspondent of the Middle River Pioneer, published in Marshall county, Minnesota, says: "The question, 'Resolved: That city life is more pleasant than country life' was debated at the Gatzke schoolhouse last Saturday evening and was attended by quite a number from this section. The country folks got the worst of it as they always do, and the affirmative won the question. The fact is, there is not much left of the old-fashioned country life except the poetry, and that is a hard thing to live on in two feet of snow. Get up a question that has two sides to it."

Now if that isn't poor old struggling, discontented human nature all over.

The question whether it is pleasanter to live in the city or the country being debated in the country, the city wins, and the sage reporter disdainfully declares that it couldn't be otherwise, because there is only one side to the question.

If the same question had been debated in the city, it is absolutely beyond doubt that the country would have won, and the judges and the audience would have been unanimous in their decision.

Country people, surrounded by conditions toward which the longing hearts of city people stretch out invisible soul hands, declare that city life is more pleasant than country life. City people, surrounded by conditions whose surface brilliancies make the country people discontented with their lot, would have declared in favor of country living as by far the more pleasant.

So it goes. The berries on the clump of bushes just beyond are always bigger, juicier and more plentiful. The pool just a little farther up the trout stream always looks more temptingly promising. Our neighbor's lot in life looks rosier and more thornless than our own. The other fellow's calling looks more profitable and pleasant than ours.

The trouble is that those who judge thus superficially see only the glistening outside beauties, and don't think of the thorns that are on every rose bush.

The city man thinks of the calm peace, the glorious open fields and mystic woodlands, the wholesome living, the nicely adjusted relationships with the neighbors—not too close and not too far away; of the swimming pool, the trout stream, the bass lake, the life-giving companionship with the fruitful soil, the fresh, open air and the charms of nature. He sees these in country living, and he forgets the possible monotonies, the possible hardships, and the possible narrowness of life—though these are as a man makes them, whether he is alone in a wilderness of nature or more terribly alone in a wilderness of humanity.

The country man thinks of the crowded streets, the busy life, the theaters, the libraries, the concerts, the lectures, the air of activity and industry, the never-failing association of varied humanity. He sees these pleasant things, and he overlooks the poverty, the higher cost of living, the distinctions of class based on possession of money, the arrogance of the rich toward the poor, the dusty, monotonous abysses called streets, the hard conditions of employment, the financial hopelessness of the struggle for the vast majority.

There is good in each and bad in each, but wherever a man is he must create his own atmosphere if he is to be a full man and a true man.

EDUCATION.

The value of education—proper and practical education—as an equipment for life's battle, is neatly illustrated by a current story of a speech made to the pupils of an Ohio school by the chairman of the local school board.

"Children," he said, pointing towards the window, "as you go out for your noon recess in a few minutes you will see a gang of men who are now shoveling cinders into a railway train. They are earning $35 a month.

"Beside them is a timekeeper, earning $55 a month.

"At the head of the train is an engineer getting $100, and over him is a superintendent getting $200.

"What is the difference between those men? Education. Get all you can of it."

Good advice, this, and aptly put. He might, however, have looked over the school system of which he was the head, and inquired whether that school system was furnishing the kind of education that would equip its charges with practical means of improving their lots in life.

Unquestionably he would find that it furnished enough to keep the pupils out of the $35 laborer class. But would it, for instance, furnish anything that would put them higher than the $55 timekeeper class? Would it give them any learning or any training that would fit them for the engineer class or the superintendent class? Would it not, on the other hand, tend to lead them away from such substantial and practical and profitable fields, and direct them to the more dubious but more attractive fields of the professions? And that system would only equip its charges for professional careers if they were able to complete its courses and go on to college, while a majority of the pupils will inevitably be forced to leave school and take up their life work before they have even completed the common grade courses.

Education makes all the difference in the world, though it will not turn a born fool into a wise man nor will the lack of it condemn to common labor a lad of real ability and ambition. But it must be the right kind of education, and the right kind of education is the practical kind.

This is why school authorities are beginning to realize that the public schools must make some provision for the majority of pupils that are not able to stay in school to receive all they now offer; that they must be furnished with some practical training that will help make mechanics and craftsmen out of the boys and housewives and mothers out of the girls.

And that is why the Duluth board of education, which has the right spirit and the correct judgment of this vitally important matter, sent a delegation down to Wisconsin the other day to visit the famous Stout training school, which is an example of what public school education ought to provide for the majority of the pupils.

THE TRAILING ARBUTUS.

The Boston Transcript makes the following note which has a pathetic application to this city:

> "In picking arbutus please cut sprays. Don't pull or tear them. If the roots are destroyed there will be no flowers here next year," is the legend which greets the saunterer on all sides of Lenox, and it is a good one for all latitudes where the beautiful and fragrant harbingers grow.

The application of this warning to Duluth is that it comes too late. Within a few years the trailing arbutus was to be found in many places within the city limits of Duluth, and today it has disappeared. Perhaps a few scattering plants are left, but they are very scarce and hard to find, and they are not numerous enough to furnish a beginning for a new growth of it, even if it were possible to protect them from the depredations of the vandals that destroy.

The destruction of the arbutus around Duluth is a characteristic effect of the ruthless disregard of the future and of the pleasure of others that is so common in this country. When there was arbutus to be found, pretty nearly everybody pulled it up by the roots in prodigious quantities, when they might have contented themselves with cutting the sprays which bore the delicately and deliciously fragrant blossoms. The result is that this beautiful and sweet-smelling plant, whose fragrance is equalled only by that other shy habitant of the woodland, the twin-flower, has been shamefully driven out of existence except in spots too far remote from the ordinary human haunts to be convenient to the hand of the spoiler.

This disgraceful extinction of the arbutus is the result of the same kind of selfish, heedless vandalism that is robbing the country of its native resources witohut consideration for the future. The lumberman, instead of looking upon his timber land as a permanent investment to yield an annual revenue, gained by cutting only the matured trees, looks upon it as a source of sudden richness, and lays it waste in a year or two. The result is that the extinction of the forests is close at hand unless other methods prevail.

The miner, who wastes more than he takes out by selecting only his richest ores and by mixing the rest with the waste earth and rock in the mine, pursues the same blind policy.

The railroad magnate who attempts to gain a generation's profits at one blow by selling watered stock to the public and raking in unearned riches is sowing a harvest of woe for the future, and his spirit is that of the wasteful and extravagant lumberman and miner.

If we had stopped to cut our arbutus sprays instead of dragging the whole plant out of the ground by its roots we should have had just as much pleasure in its color and fragrance, and we should have some arbutus left. If we had been content to take a fair annual revenue out of our mines and forests, we should have been just as happy and just as well-fed, and we should have more timber and minerals left.

TIME TO BE BUSY.

Certain railroad magnates, having a mind to the fact that congress is still in session and that an election is yet to be settled, have lately gone about the country emitting dismal croaks and heaving gloomy sighs.

Franklin K. Lane of the United States interstate commerce commission, in an interview the other day which apparently was intended to reply to certain lugubrious phrases dropped recently by James J. Hill, said:

> I stand upon the prediction that there will be a car shortage in October. There has been no industrial panic and there is no likelihood of there being one unless the morbid microbe that seems to have laid hold of our Wall street gets into the blood of the people at large. The railroad manager who resists all attempts to restore confidence can belikened only to the officer of a bank who, during a run, informs creditors that he has doubts of the solvency of his own institution.

Mr. Lane comes nearer a correct judgment of conditions and prospects than Mr. Hill. There is no excuse for the gloom that certain railroad magnates have surrounded themselves with, and they would do far better to be preparing their roads to handle the traffic that renewed industry will bring than they are by distributing pessimism when optimism is warranted and needed.

Commissioner Lane's prediction that there will be a car shortage in October, by the way, brings up a very important point. It will be remembered that a year ago, when activity was at floodtide, the railroads were wholly unequipped to handle it, and this had not a little to do with disturbing conditions. They had not tracks enough, they had not cars enough, they had not men enough, and they even fell down in their management of what they did have.

What have they done, and what are they doing, to prepare themselves for meeting the demands upon them that will come when activity is restored, as it must soon be? Practically nothing. They will be no more capable of handling the business then than they were before, if they are, in fact, as capable.

A year ago they were too busy handling traffic to increase their facilities. Now, when men are unemployed and need work, when they could make their improvements cheaper than they could a year ago and thereby fit themselves to do the work ahead of them while giving employment to idle men and putting the country back on its feet again, they sit around and whine about conditions, and wait until business picks up before building cars, tracks and terminals that are needed this minute.

These very men do much talking about what a failure the nation would make of the railroad business under government ownership.

Let them take this to reflect upon: If an administration, under public ownership, showed as great an incapacity to handle its business as the railroad managers of this country have shown in recent years, the next election would see the downfall of that administration.

A NEED FOR VIGILANCE.

The sudden development, practically within a year, of a widespread appreciation of the need of greater attention to the development of waterways is a very interesting and very noteworthy occurrency, and there is one point in connection with it that seems to have escaped the attention of the people living on the Great Lakes and dependent, to a greater or less degree, upon its enormous traffic.

That point is the danger that unless the people of the lake states wake up to what is going on and take care to be properly represented in the movement, they are likely to find that government appropriations will be diverted from the Great Lakes to other inland waterways when the pending movement reaches a more centered and better organized stage.

Aside from comparatively trifling appropriations for various rivers and interior lakes, a large part of which has been wasted because it was disposed of by political pull instead of by expert judgment, the bulk of the river and harbor appropriations has gone to the Great Lakes and the coasts. While neither the lakes nor the coasts have had all the money they could use, they have been fairly well cared for, and the government has spent large sums upon the Great Lakes, which have been returned many times over in cheaper freight rates.

At present the lakes are being pretty well supplied with the improvements they need, and therefore the people in the lake states have been looking on with rather mild interest at the interior development of waterways sentiment, applauding it because they know the value of improved waterways.

But they need to do more than this. Shortly the river states will be organized to demand large appropriations for waterway improvement. The Ohio, the Mississippi, the Missouri and other streams will be demanding large appropriations, which they will probably get because they will be backed by strong political power.

These states will also be demanding more places on the river and harbors committee, which they will also get because they will have the power, if united, to enforce their demands.

The result may easily be, unless the lake states wake up and take more interest in the general movement, that their power on the rivers and harbors committee will be diminished, and that therefore, when the time for dividing appropriations comes, the lakes will get the small end of it.

Therefore the lake states must be properly represented in all organized movements for general waterway improvements.

USELESS NOISES.

There is in New York an organization called the Society for the Suppression of Useless Noises. It sounds well, and almost anybody can imagine a field for it that would keep it engaged all over the country the year around.

For instance, there is the noise of the croaker; that ought to be suppressed by all means. The croaker is the man who is eternally indulging his jaundiced imagination and picturing horrors that never come and are wholly unlikely to come. To him a shower is a flood, a financial panic is total collapse, all evils are hopeless, all prospects are gloomy, all men and all things are vile. By all means, let this society take up the croaker.

Then there is the noise of the knocker; that ought to be suppressed, too. The knocker is the embittered failure whom success in others automatically sets going. He picks flaws in the accomplishments of men that do things, he devotes his time to criticising his community instead of trying to better it, he speaks nothing but evil of his fellows. The vicous tap-tap-tap of his hammer goes on by day and by night, always knocking things down and never building anything up. Certainly he should be suppressed. Sometimes the knocker and the croaker are one and the same man, so that the Society for the Suppression of Useless Noises will be able to kill two birds with one stone.

The noise made by the consistent pessimist should be suppressed, and so should the clamor of the consistent optimist. Everybody will agree that the pessimist ought to be squelched, but many people admire the optimist because they do not realize the harm he does. Optimism is a good thing, but it is one of those good things that it is easy to get too much of. The man who covers a rubbish heap over with flowers instead of cleaning it away is an example of the kind of optimist that should be suppressed. The optimist who is so confirmed in his optimism that he refuses to see evil when by revealing it he could point the way to its elimination is not a good citizen. His methods are akin to those of the untidy person who covers himself with perfume instead of taking a bath.

The critic who criticises to correct evils is a very different kind of being from the critic who criticises for love of fault-finding. The former should be encouraged as a far-sighted philosopher; the latter should have the attention of the Society for the Suppression of Useless Noises.

The field is unlimited. Besides those noises already mentioned, there is the shrill clatter of the blind partisan who is for his party, be it right or wrong; the vapid mouthings of the campaign orator who is composed of two parts just noise, one part froth and one part prejudice; the merry after-dinner talker whose stories lack the saving sense of decency; the preacher—now very seldom met with—who sinks his religion in dogmatism as the party man sinks his citizenship in partisanship; the get-rich-quick fanatic who hawks his soul in the market place; the financial lamb clamoring for somebody to come and take his money.

There is no end to the noises needing the attention of this society. May it spread far and acquire unlimited power.

The hint of green upon the lawns grows more pronounced every day, and presently the venturesome early flowers will appear.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Like the pies that mother used to make," and all that kind of talk, has received a setback. The hand that rocks the cradle, it seems, is not the hand that does the delicate mixing of ingredients that go to make up the perfect food condiment. Women has for the past decade or more been usurping the place of man in the sordid business and commercial world; now comes man and scores a culinary victory over the weaker sex.

Charles Lewis, at the St. Louis, is the one that advances the opinion that man has woman outgeneraled a hundred ways when it comes to being an expert manipulator of the frying pan and the other utensils that enter into the making of the dishes that decorate the menus.

Indeed, Mr. Lewis has carried his theory to such a point that, as he daintily samples the first morsel of food, there comes to him in an instant the knowledge of the sex of the person behind the range.

Mr. Lewis is not an epicure. Not by any means. He says he is not. He likes the good, plain, wholesome dishes. But he says that man, with his masculine logic and mathematical exactness, has the less calculating woman beaten when it comes to putting in the exact amount of seasoning, following well-beaten paths that are prescribed in the voluminous precepts of culinary art, and, in general, in making an unemptional science of the art of palate pampering.

Why is it, then, that man has gone into the kitchen and carried off the palm? Mr. Lewis ascribes it to the part of a giving way to the weakness of sentiment upon the part of the woman. Perhaps in mixing the food particles the woman cook will remember with loving tenderness of how George used to like his steak, or how Fred, who succeeded George in her heart space, liked his eggs fried. "On one and light." She is catering to individuals, and fails to strike a happy medium.

But the man cookee. There are no Nellies, or Emmas, or Mauds to enter into his mathematical calculations over the heat of the range. He just goes right along in an unemotional way, following well-established rules with a mathematical exactness that cops the prize from the sentimental Susan who is doing duty behind the cook stove. That is the theory that Mr. Lewis holds, at any rate.

E. C. Roach was telling of an experience that happened in a Kansas City barber shop, at the Lenox yesterday. It was in one of those rough barber shops, the element of roughness extending from the calloused hands of the barbers to the kind of mixture they rubbed into the faces of the misguided victims that happened to patronize the shop.

One day a little, unpretentious man walked into the hair emporium and asked for a shave. He was evidently from the wild and uncut. After the shave, the barber inveigled him into having his hair cut. While the operation of doing the Delilah act the man fell asleep. He had probably ridden all night on a cattle car.

What they did in the way of tonsorial treatment for the little stranger during his sojourn with Orpheus was a shame. They shampooed him, singed his shortened locks, massaged him and poured copious quantities of the tonic upon his unconscious scalp until the dingy shop was redolent with the nauseating odor of the beauty treatment. Then they woke him up. Unconscious of the man handling he had been subjected too, the little man flipped a half dollar for the operation. He was rather surprised when the head burly informed him that his bill was $4.75.

The little man, strange to say, didn't loose his temper. He adjusted his collar and then calmly began rolling a cigarette.

"Do you expect to get it?" he asked of the head barber, a pugnacious looking individual.

"Cert," came the answer in no uncertain tone of voice. Then all the assistant rough houses got into line of battle.

"Well, pard, ye ain't" commented the little man as he calmy struck a light. "I'm goin' out that door and I ain't a goin' to leave any promiscuous change behind me, neither."

The foremost bully advanced upon the supposed weakling, the others closing in. Suddenly there was a transformation. Two revolvers that looked as big as the 13-inch guns on the Connecticut jumped into the hands of the little man. They came from some mysterious source. The head bully dived through a window in the excitement and consternation that followed the appearance of the guns. Two of the others pulled off the screen door in their anxiety to beat it to safety. The fourth caved and begged for his life like a whimpering child. It is needless to add that four bits was all the change collected from the little man.

Mr. Roach says that after the gun play incident the barbers of the tough shop have been rather careful in sizing up excessive charge victims.

THE WEATHER.

This morning dawned clear and beautiful. The northwest wind was still blowing, though its violence of last night was tamed and the air was cool. The sun was warm, however, and later conditions became charming. Last night's lowest temperature was 27 degs. and yesterday's highest was 48 degs. The weather man says it will be fair and warmer tonight and tomorrow, and that the westerly winds will shift to easterly tomorrow.

A year ago today it was mild, but a little snow fell.

The sun rose this morning at 5:27 and sets tonight at 6:51, making 13 hours and 24 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Lake Superior storm center has advanced to New England. During the past twenty-four hours this disturbance caused high westerly winds in the lake region, warmer weather in North Atlantic districts, and rain or snow in the lake region, North Atlantic states, Central valleys and the Southwest. The Oregon high pressure area has moved its center to South Dakota and Nebraska, attended by colder weather. It is needless to add that the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and lake region, with freezing temperatures in Western Canada and from thence southward to including Northern Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming. The barometer is falling in the Far Northwest and Pacific districts, and temperatures are rising from Saskatchewan westward. These conditions favor pleasant weather in this locality tonight and Sunday."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Buried Life.

But often in the world's most crowded streets,
But often in the din of strife,
There rises an unspeakable desire
After the knowledge of our buried life.

Thus Matthew Arnold depicts the yearning which now and then comes to a man for an earlier mood, a former attitude, a lost experience vanished, but not forgotten—for the moment out of reach, but not altogether irrecoverable.

What have you done with the best part of you, my friend? Perhaps you do not realize the fact, but you have practically dug a grave and deposited therein the thing that was finest and purest in you. Upon it, as the years have come and gone, you have spread layer after layer of interest in lesser matters, and now that former self is stifling for breath.

There was a time when the sweet and simple satisfaction of the home meant a good deal to you; when you would shorten your luncheon hour in order that you might get home in season to toss the baby in your arms, or to have a romp with the children, or to spend the first half hour after supper in reading some profitable book with your wife. But as the cares of this world have thickened, and the deceitfulness of riches and the struggle for them have grown upon you, the home seeking and home making instinct has become dulled in you. You aim still to furnish the means of support for the family and to make them as ample as possible, but your children miss the direct touch of your personality upon them, your wife longs for the old, happy, close comradeship, and children and wife both are beginning to show to others the lack of just such an influence as the father and husband alone can bring.

Do you remember the time when the sound of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," or "The Star Spangled Banner," played by a marching band thrilled you to the finger tips? Citizenship meant a great deal to you in those days. You did not care simply to play the game of politics and to get your share of the office, but you did work hard to get the right men into office, to keep the standard of public service high, to serve the nation, the state, the community in ways accessible to you, because you believed that patriotism means not simply going to war in behalf of native land, but in times of peace, vigilance and attention to the prosaic details that make for the welfare of the people, that keep the water system pure, the schools and libraries up to par, the moral atmosphere free from harmful elements. But somehow you have today lost all interest in practical or theoretical politics. Caucus night finds you at home instead of at the booth. You take a rather pessimistic view of politics in general. It is too "nasty" for you to soil your hands with.

Religion once had a charm for you. It seemed to offer an explanation of the mysteries of this life; it furnished inspiration for many living day by day. You felt the contagion of noble lives lived under the influence of religion and rejoiced to feel yourself part of that noble company who

"Through life's long days of strife Still chant their morning song," but the zest and power of religion have somehow disappeared. Not merely that you have ceased going to church regularly, or if you go, you do so perfunctorily, but you are aware that the fires of a sensitive, religious experience no longer glow.

Too bad, indeed, is it that these varied types of buried life exist all about us. Those rare, beautiful growths of other years needed to be tended and not to be choked, and it is not their fault that they have been nearly suffocated by "other things entering in" and choking them. But it is not too late to resurrect them. The spring is here again. A great many things that we thought were dead are now awakening to new life. You can never be sure that what you thought had gone forever is beyond reviving. Give that which was best and still is best in you a fresh chance. Remove the layers of worldliness, selfishness, pride, ambition that weigh down upon the buried life. Give it light and air and a fair chance, and see how wondrously beautiful and strong it yet can become.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

Governor McGill has written to ex-County Attorney d'Autremont, stating that he has decided to pardon Benjamin Sims, who has served eighteen months of a sentence of three years and a half in the state prison at Stillwater. Sims had a claim on Pine Island in Vermilion lake and one Jack Hirlehey undertook to jump it during the former's absence in Tower. He located upon the land with his wife and was occupying Sims' shanty when he returned. Hirlehey refused to vacate returned. Hirlehey refused to vacate and continued to occupy the house until Sims returned with a Winchester rifle. There was a quarrel and Hirlehey was shot, the ball passing clear through his body from right to left at a point near the arm pit. It was expected he would die, but he recovered and is now as well as ever. As Hirlehey had made a threat to kill Sims, it is thought the latter has received sufficient punishment.

The canal is now open its entire length and the rapid current will soon cut a long passage into the ice of the lake.

The Ladies' Relief society's concert will take place at the Grand opera house tonight. "Eve on the Lake," an original composition by Prof. Tanning, dedicated to Duluth, will be a feature of the entertainment.

A rowing regatta will take place in Duluth this summer, in which Winnipeg, St. Paul and Minneapolis clubs will participate. This will be Duluth's first regatta, and some of the Duluth club will contend for honors.

Ex-Sheriff S. C. McQuade and Mrs. McQuade left yesterday for Bayfield, Wis., to attend the funeral of Mrs. McQuade's brother, Mr. Hayward, who was formerly postmaster at Bayfield and was well known and respected by all the old settlers on Lake Superior.

Napoleon Grignon will begin work on his large floating dock within a few days. It will be eighty feet wide, sixty feet long and six feet deep below the floor, with sides twenty feet high.

The Ely Iron Home and the Tower Journal say that the people of that section want to have St. Louis county divided.

A very jolly party roused the echoes in Ingalls' hall last night, and a decidedly surprised couple were Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bondy, in whose honor it was given on the eve of their departure for Europe. There were about fifty people present.

E. H. Hall sold a lot on Twenty-second avenue west yesterday for $800 spot cash. Three years ago the same lot sold for $150 on time.

The paragrapher has a new sign painted on the office front and J. Adam Bede was nearly run over by a mule this morning while standing on the street car track admiring his new sign.

EDWIN YATES WEBB

BY SAVOYARD.

(Copyright, 1908, by E. W. Newman.)

IT cannot be too often repeated, it cannot be too vividly impressed on the public mind, that experience is as necessary to the wise legislator as practice is to the successful lawyer. Even a great genius like William L. Yancey or Clement L. Vallandigham would be capable of infinitely better public service after long years of training. I saw David B. Hill the other day, and my mind reverted to the single term he was a senator in congress, and though he was there but six years, he left the senate the match of any member as a debater, as a parliamentarian, and as an accomplished legislator. We can scarce imagine what a place he would have attained had he served as long as Frye, or Cullom. Where could E. W. Carmack find a peer after as many years in the senate as Knute Nelson, or George Wetmore? Ben Hill, Dave Hill, and Ed Carmack, for the length of time they were in the senate—but seventeen years for the three—made greater names for themselves, their states, and their party, than any other three men or my time at this capital, now nearly thirty years.

The Ninth North Carolina district has started out right if it will but keep it up. Its representative is a young fellow of as much native ability as Joseph G. Cannon, and more native ability than the present—and for nine years last past—titular "leader of the house." He is a better lawyer than either of those veterans, and a far better popular speaker. He is serving his third term, though but 36 year old. He is a member of the judiciary committee and stands fair in rank of promotion. His political destiny, however, is in the keeping of his constituents. This is the age of demagogy, and "rotation in office" is the demagogue's plea. As well decline to eat bread today because the bread was very good yesterday as to put a capable man out of congress where he has been faithful and is rapidly progressing.

Edwin Yates Webb was born in Western North Carolina in May, 1872. His father was a Baptist preacher who had married thousands of couples and baptized thousands of converts. What a grand old church it is! It believes in heartfelt religion got at the mourner's bench; it believes in works as the fruit of faith; is believes in the independence of the congregation, and the individuality of each separate member; is believes in personal liberty. In old Kentucky, when I was a boy, the Baptist church was the citadel of the Democratic party just as the Methodist church of Ohio was a Republican aid society.

Young Webb was carefully prepared for college and was graduated at the age of 21. He early distinguished himself as a debater and orator in the college society, and was the college champion in oratorical contests. He was graduated from the law school of the State university in 1894, and admitted to the bar of the state supreme court immediately thereafter. Later he took a post-graduate course at the famous law school of the university of Virginia.

But the political forum would not be denied, and made a requisition on the bar for young Webb, who was elected to the state senate in 1900, and soon thereafter he became one of the conspicuous leaders of the Democratic party of the old North state. In 1902 he was nominated for congress by the Democracy, of his district and triumphantly elected. He was re-elected in 1904 and in 1906.

Young Webb is that admirable combination—a sound mind in a sound body, and when aged in years he will be able to say with the old servitor in Shakespeare's most delightful comedy:

For in my youth I never did apply
Hot and rebellious liquors in my blood.

He is a strictly temperate man in all particulars, and endowed with an admirable judicial temper. He is also a Christian in walk and in talk.

The other day I was sitting in the little vestibule of the north entrance of the house of representatives waiting for my friend Ollie James, to whom I had sent my card, when I saw on the cushioned seat a volume from the congressional library—Dumas' "Twenty Years After." I picked it up and glanced over pages, yet familiar after many years of parting, and was absorbed in them when a fine looking chap of 15, with big, shapely head, honest, big, wide-open, dark gray eyes, and handsome, intelligent countenance came up for the book. I asked him if he was reading it, and he said yes. I asked if he had read "The Three Musketeers," of which it is a continuance, and he again said yes, and then he expressed regret that he had first of all read "The Viscomte de Bragelonne," that is the conclusion.

I then found that he had read Guizot's history, and was familiar with Dumas' entire series of Valois romances, extending as far back as Isabel of Bavaria and coming down to and including "The Forty-five." He had also read English history and in its light he had devoured the Waverley novels. He was a prodigy. I was delighted, and volunteered some poor hints. What a pity he is not a Kentucky boy instead of an Ohio chap. It he lives this country will hear from that fellow either in politics or in letters

Well, our friend Webb is of the same kidney in another phase—he devouring all the books he can lay hands on that tell the story of American history and contain the teaching of American public men. There never was a ready-made statesman, unless the man was a prodigious genius, like Richelieu, or Cromwell, or Bismark, and even these were all the better for the knowledge they got out of books.

If I were to make a crop of United States senators, I would take a set of bright young fellows, with strong minds, patriotic instincts—without any distrusting ram-catism in the patriotism—honest purposes, and robust, healthy, and prolific imaginations. I would have them read Plutarch and Gibbon, assuming that they had read Livy and the Bible in earlier youth. I would then give them Hume and Guizot, Robertson, and Motley and Prescott. Then I would set them down to Walter Scott and the elder Dumas. Later I would finish them off on the political writings of Bolingbroke, Tom Paine, Edmund Burke, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, Samuel J. Tilden, and Goodriche's "British Eloquence." A man who has mastered these is tolerably fit for senator; but there are hundreds of other authors he ought to know, especially Shakespeare, Balzac, and Victor Hugo. He should devour a great newspaper every morning, and every evening another.

John Quincy Adams and Stephen A. Douglas were great statesmen of their respective eras. Oliver P. Morton was another, and these men appear to have read little that was not American. I doubt if Joseph G. Cannon ever read the story of Joseph Andrews as related by Henry Fielding, or the "Sentimental Journey," as composed by Laurence Sterne, but if he were as familiar with all literature as Cabot Lodge or David Turpin he would be even the better able to make the budget of a 2,000,000,000 congress.

I am glad that Ed Webb is reading American history and furnishing his library with the best American books. He captivated congress a year ago when he delivered that eloquent speech on the battle of King's Mountain, that served numerous newspaper writers theme for editorial. The bill passed both houses of congress, and the monument to the heroes of that brilliant victory is soon to be inaugurated on that historic field. It was an eloquent speech and all that could be desired in the composition. It was the flower of a career that gave promise of the richest harvest in the fructification. When I was a boy my old friend and monitor, David Philpott, used to remind me that every man was a —— fool till he was 40. I think he would say that there is an exception if he could come down from heaven and witness Edwin Yates Webb's career in the American congress.

The Republican party was born of the negro, and when poetic justice gets a whack at it the G. O. P. will die of the negro. For more than two score years this town, the capital of the republic, has been the city of refuge of every vagabond negro in the land, and the negro race contributes one-third of the population and nine-tenths of the police court litigation. There is a constant reign of terror in the aristocratic northwest section, due to highway robberies and brutal assaults of unattended females on the streets after dark, perpetrated by ruffian negroes. Of course, such a condition is the natural sequence of the preachments of those statesmen-philanthropists, who come down from New England with revelations for mankind—if I may steal Ed Carmack's happiest sercasm.

Mr. Webb is attempting to abate this intolerable condition, and to that end has introduced a vagrancy law that, if enacted, will put every worthless hobo to work on public works, or rid this town of his presence. Of course, it will not pass. The G. O. P. will need negro troops in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, New York, New Jersey and Delaware next fall. Pampered in forty years of warship, the negro is become sensitive and fastidious. His vote is a luxury—at the North—and the Republicans, just now, are not going to ruffle his plumage.

As, for instance, President Roosevelt's surrender in the Brownsville case. There is not a negro in the United States, from Booker Washington down, who does not know that those negro troops shot up Brownsville. There is not a white man in the United States, who knows the least of the negro character, who does not know that the negro troops shot up Brownsville. If the garrison had been made up of white soldiers, every white man and woman of the North would have applauded the executive order mustering them out of the army, if there had been shown a conspiracy to shield the culprits. Congress would not have paid the slightest attention to it. Everybody would have said good riddance.

But the negro is a ward in politics and made of better than ordinary clay. Hence, though the testimony as to the antimony in the bullets would be conclusive to hang any white man charged with murder, Foraker, to shield his bloodthirsty lambs, must assume the absurd and the impossible to maintain their innocence.

When will the sham end? A plague on all cant!

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The lid was clamped on real tight last Monday in the form of an edict prohibiting any one from leaving the school grounds during the day without a special permit.

As spring weather causes a certain restlessness, especially among the boys, they have forced the beginning of the baseball season to this week. Morning and noon the campus resounds with the crack of the bat meeting the leather.

On Tuesday afternoon the seniors held a special meeting and elected Andrew Meldahl as class orator. The members believe sincerely in his ability to represent them on class night as he has had plenty of experience. Mr. Meldahl has been one of the mainstays in the Speaking club.

* * *

At their monthly meeting the sophmores decided to confer the honor of wearing the class numerals to any one who held a position on their class team. The class has captured two of the three championships during the winter and expect to easily win the track meet. They also have designs on the baseball penant. The class is in a splendid financial condition with $60, in their strong box. The sophmore "hop" is but two weeks off and they expect to make it the most brilliant event of the year. The class will have a baseball nine and Harry Briggs was elected captain. Ernest Merritt, who made his reputation last year, was elected to lead the track team.

The juniors will present another short comedy drama before their English classes next week. The '09 people enter into theatricals in a manner that pleases Prof. Lambert beyond measure, and as the work is beneficial to the students and prepares the way for the class plays next year, these little sketches will be continued from time to time.

Wednesday night the Musical society decided to adopt a pin to represent the society. The pin will be in the shape of the treble clef. It will be plain gold without any lettering. In every way the pin will be very original and each member of the society is anxious to own one.

The Zenith board held a spring session on Wednesday afternoon, voted the last "fudge" party a success and determined to hold another in the near future. Poems were the principal subject discussed, and the board decided that the production of Coly Olsen came the nearest to perfection and awarded the first prize to him. The meeting broke up in great disorder, as some of the male members of the board started a "harmony stunt" in one corner of the room, which put all literary thoughts to flight. Most of the material for the Zenith will be turned over to the printer next week and then hard work will begin.

Saturday morning Capt. Caulkins of the senior baseball team will give his candidates a try out against an all star aggregation. After a team is picked, the faculty will be challeged to fight the seniors on the diamond.

The basketball fans looked with envious eyes at Superior the first of the week, when the little warriors from Blaine were welcomed back to their school carrying the state championship with them. The Duluth school has never organized a representative team to compete with any one, but many have expressed a desire to see a team organized to play the team across the pond.

The Agassiz club gathered in Prof. Ulrick's laboratory on Thursday night and passed a resolution to send a vote of thanks to the weather man. An excursion to some beautiful spot will be given in a few weeks if the snow stays away.

* * *

The boys turned out in full force at the Y. M. C. A. banquet on Friday and enjoyed a very pleasant time. Principal smith and several of the boys gave toasts which were warmly received.

* * *

On Wednesday afternoon the sophmore debating team made its first appearance and won fame by defeating the freshman trio. In a few weeks a debate between the sophmore and junior teams will take place in chapel to decide the school championship.

The Fr. club has been dead to the world for the last month and is expected to sleep peacefully until next year.

and savors somewhat of tradition." If Jacobson is in sympathy with the demands of the people today he will not hesitate to make known his position on the liquor question and the other live subjects which are clamoring for consideration. If his candidacy, however, has the backing of the interests which will be injured by public discussion, he will certainly continue his sphinx-like silence."

The temperance people, it is said, are looking into the record of George T. Simpson, candidate for attorney general, and they are finding that of all the opinions emanating from the office during the incumbency of the man who became famous as the attorney general who applied the lid, only two have been written by First Assistant Simpson, and these are favorable to the liquor people. They may be good law and all that, but they are hardly in line with the other opinions emanating from that office. In one he was asked whether a village council could arbitrarily raise the license fee to $1,200 and have but one saloon. He replied that they could raise the license fee at any time (except for licenses already granted), but he was of the opinion that they could not raise the fee to the figure suggested and thereafter refuse to grant licenses to but one person. And only a week later Mr. Young gave an opinion to another party holding that a council may refuse to issue licenses although the people have voted in favor of license. To a lay mind it would seem that if the council can refuse to issue any license, when the people have voted in favor of it, the council can also refuse to issue more than one license.

"That Senator "Dick" Pettigrew of South Dakota is financing the Bryan campaign in this state is one of the latest gossips. The Bryan people have been asking dollar contributions because they had no other funds, but this popular contribution game is an old one and often is a fake to throw the dust in the people's eyes. Pettigrew, it will be remembered, bolted the Republican party in the free silver days, and he perhaps did more than anyone else to help finance Bryan's campaign of that year. That he offered to finance the campaign against Johnson in this state this year is the report, and he is said to have made the proposition to Jim Bennett, Jr., of St. Cloud. Bennett and Pettigrew are close friends, through business and political relations. While the whole story may be a fake, there are those who are inclined to believe it easily.

At the county convention in Madison on Thursday, J. F. Jacobson said that he would conduct his campaign for the nomination on the same plane that he had the last one, and if he could not get the nomination without entering into any pledges or combinations, he did not want it, as he would not make a single pledge or promise. He said he had such opportunities two years ago, but did not avail himself of them. He said his record would show what he stood for and would be a better indication of what he is likely to do than any pre-election promise he could now make, and he invited a comparison of it with any candidate now mentioned. "A square deal—that is what I stand for, and if I am governor of this state, that is all I will owe any man."

* * *

Jacobson's suggestion of a comparison of his record with that of some of the other candidates reminds me of the rumor that some of the political "leaders," whom Ed Young took a rap at in his letter this week, are preparing a reply, and it will equal his fr temperature. For they may look into Young's record a bit and dig up his record in the senate and make him sorry that he ever wrote that letter.

At any event, the Republicans, this week, have been so occupied with the scrap in their own party that they have forgotten to help stir up the Bryan-Johnson controversy.

* * *

The county conventions came off as scheduled, this week, and the state went practically solid for Taft, nine-tenths of the counties having given instructions for Taft. The only interest now is in the question of delegates, and these, too, are almost settled. The delegates at large will be F. B. Kellogg of St. Paul, W. W. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis, E. B. Hawkins of Duluth, and one man from the southern part of the state, either Frank Hunt of Mankato, F. E. Putnam of Blue Earth or W. B. Parsons of Winona. The district delegates will be as follows:

First district—Senator A. S. Campbell of Austin and Dr. J. H. Adair of Owatonna.

Second district—T. C. Collins of Windom, and either F. W. Betz of Fairmont or G. W. Somerville of Sleepy Eye.

Third district—G. M. Buck of Faribault and G. J. Bradley of Norwood.

Fourth district—W. H. Eustis and O. E. Greeley of Minneapolis; already elected.

Sixth district—Senator C. J. Gunderson of Alexandria, and probably Senator S. E. Alderman of Brainerd.

Seventh district—Andrew Peterson of Wheaton, and probably F. E. Bentley of Montevideo.

Eighth district—Senator C. J. Swanson of Fridley and J. B. Cotton of Duluth.

Ninth distrie—Probably E. E. Corliss of Fergus Falls and Al Kaiser of Bagley.

Chamberlain's Has the Preference.

Mr. Fred. C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Duluth People Know How to Save It.

Many Duluth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Duluth citizen's recommendation.

J. H. Tomlin, lather and contractor, of 112 West Palmetto St., Duluth Heights, Duluth, Minn., says: "What I said in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills six years ago, was not only true but the cure I described at that time has been permanent, and I am pleased to inform other sufferers of this fact. My case was a severe one, and it clung to me persistently for two years. The backache finally got so bad that I was obliged to lay off from work for days at a time, and I suffered such pains that it hurt to bring the slightest strain on the muscles of the back and loins. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was unable to rest well at night. All these irregularities yielded promptly to Doan's Kidney Pills and the result was a permanent cure."

Water Board Makes Important Announcement About Water Meters.

Consumers May Buy Outright, on Installment Plan, or Rent.

The board of water and light commissioners, in an announcement to the public has offered the consumers of city water three options in regard to the installation of water meters.

A few weeks ago the board determined that hereafter, as fast as the plan could be worked out, the city water should be metered instead of being sold on the flat rate. Both meter and flat rates have prevailed, the choice being left to the consumer. The supreme court, in a test case, decided that the city had a right to enforce a meter rate for the water furnished.

Following the determination on the part of the board to put the city water consumption on a meter basis complaints came in thick and fast from consumers who have been paying a flat rate for water, and who claimed it would work a hardship to compel them to buy water meters.

The board took the position that the consumers must procure their own meters for the reason that the department could not afford to buy all the meters, and pay for all the old meters now in use, which were purchased by consumers. If the board began to buy new meters and did not pay the cost of those already installed the consumers already owning meters would have reason to complain of discrimination and that is what the department wishes to avoid.

The situation has been gone over carefully by the commissioners and, as a result, the board has determined on three options for the consumers.

Under the first option the consumer may pay the department $11 down for the meter and its installation by the department, or pay $9.50 for the meter and have it installed by a plumber.

The second option gives the consumer the choice of buying a meter for $12, having it installed and paying for the same in twelve annual installments.

Under the third option the consumer may have the department furnish and install the meter, the consumer to pay a rental of 15 cents per month therefore on the basis of a five-eighths inch meter. Larger meters will rent at a proportionately larger sum.

Repairs to meters will be made under the same regulations as if they are owned by the consumers.

Where consumers express no choice, the board, if it desires, will install a a meter under the rental proposition.

These three options, it is said, have been given the consumers with a view of lightening the hardship which it is claimed will ensue if the consumers have to buy their meters outright. Under the first two options the consumer may buy the meter for cash, or by easy payments. Under the third option he does not need to purchase at all, but can rent a meter at the cost of a few cents per month.

ANNOYS ELKINS.

Desires Publication of News Concerning His Daghter Should Cease.

Washington, April 11.—Senator Stephen B. Elkins, in view of the reports from Rome that the rumored engagement of Miss Katherine Elkins to the duke of the Abruzzi had been confirmed there, and that in fact matters had progressed so far that the royal family have placed orders for the wedding gifts, last night sent to the Associated Press a statement deprecatory to current reports, as follows:

"If you can consistently, will you please cease the publication of dispatches and rumors of the reported engagement of my daughter. The matter has occupied the attention of the press so long and to such an extent that I feel called upon to make this request.

"While making it, I wish to state that I appreciate the kindly expressions that have appeared concerning my daughter in connection with her reported engagement. Whenever there shall be any reason to make an announcement about the matter I will be glad to give it to the press in an authentic form."

SOCIETY

THE WEEK just passed was dull in all but sunshine, and with holy week to follow, there is little promise of entertaining. The after-Lenten galeties, if they materialize, will be all the more appreciated, but the inevitable sewing parties which are the feature of social life at present, are not without interest. More June weddings are in prospect this year than for several seasons and the affairs in honor of the prospective brides and the weddings themselves will make the month a gay one.

During May, the second spring festival or musical to be presented by the Oratorio society will be the most important of the musical events of the spring and will, of course, be a social event of prominence. Several Duluthians will go to Chicago during Easter week to attend grand opera and others are already enjoying the short spring trips away. With sunshine, such as has been rioting during the last week, the picnic season, with its hundreds of devotees, will soon be in full swing, and the informal entertaining of the summer season well established.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Craig will entertain informally Wednesday evening of next week at their home on London road, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Silvey will leave the first of the week for an Eastern trip.

* * *

Miss Isabel Pearson left yesterday for a month's visit in Illinois and Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ward Reynolds will be with Col. and Mrs. Bostwick of 419 West Third street for the summer.

A pleasant surprise party was arranged Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnson, who celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The affair was planned by Mrs. Colbentson and Miss Edna Harris, and was given at the apartments of the latter in the Masonic Temple. The rooms were decorated in pink and white carnations and a large wedding cake, bearing twenty-five lighted candles, occupied the center of the table. An informal musical evening was enjoyed by the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. Neville.

Mesdames—
Colbentson,	C. A. Harris,

The Art School.

The board of managers of the Duluth Art school is planning for classes in design and the various crafts, and any one interested in any one of the branches is urged to register at once. The value of training along any one of the lines in design and the applied craft is greatly appreciated, and although the classes in drawing from cast and life will receive attention, the demand for the other classes is great, and the needs will be supplied. The importance of design is emphasized in the various schools throughout the country, and the value of art training which is given in a course of basketry or of simple metal work or tooling of leather or stenciling is appreciated by the board and by many Duluth women who are planning for a course in some one line.

Stenciling, which has come to be applied in a beautiful though simple manner of house decorating, is desired by many, and these classes will all be organized for the summer if the demand is great enough. Many of the club women have asked for these classes, and it is expected that the room and teachers will be provided for at once.

The classes in drawing from life and cast have been organized and are meeting regularly, and the evening classes are engaged upon the regular work. C. M. Rosenkranz, director, is at the school, which is located on the third floor of the old Washington school building, at 5 o'clock in the mornings and at 2 o'clock in the afternoons to meet prospective students.

Executive Board Meeting.

The executive board of the Twentieth Century club will meet Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the club room of the library.

To Lecture Here.

Miss Patty J. Hill of the Columbia Teachers' college, who will lecture in this city April 22, is a lecturer of note on child psychology and the problems of modern education and how to meet them. The Duluth-Superior branch of the International Kindergarten association has arranged for Miss Hill's appearance in Duluth, and her talk promises to be of much value to teachers and parents. Miss Hill has appeared before many of the educational bodies of the country, and the local association is greatly pleased at having secured her for a Duluth lecture.

THE EVENING STORY

MANDY'S EMANCIPATION

By Ella Randall Pearee.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

'Mandy did not resemble either of her parents. So far as appearances were concerned, one might trace a sort of composite likeness. There was the Osborne nose, but the prominent lump of that feature was modified, in her case, to an aristocratic little curve, and the straight, red mouth would have been the Alger mouth but for the dimples at the corners.

In disposition, however, she was as unlike those who were responsible for her being as a little stranger left upon their doorstep might have been. A slim, quiet, peaceable little girl, who went her own way without making any stir in the world, yet she was the cause of nearly all the dissensions in the Alger household. Nineteen years before she had made her appearance in the midst of a family disturbance.

"I want a boy," roared Nathan Alger. "A girl," maintained Phebe. And when the doctor went into the sitting room and told the man that his wife had had her way in the matter Nathan swore at the doctor and tramped out of the house, and his wee daughter was three days old before he would even look at her.

As 'Mandy grew up the same antagonistic spirit grew with her parents. She was very pretty, and her childish ways clung to ner. At 19 she was slight and undeveloped, with her soft blue eyes wide open and innocent as a baby's under their curling brown lashes, her cheeks round and pink, her yellow hair brushed loosely back from her white forehead and knotted in a cluster of at the back of her neck. Her dresses barely concealed the slim, round ankles, and she moved with a quaint grace of manner that made people call her "old-fashioned."

Frank Day and 'Mandy had been like brother and sister since Frank had appeared at the Jersey farm house, a poor, forlorn orphan boy from the city, and asked for work.

Nathan Alger gave him a chance on the farm, and he proved such a quiet, trusty, active worker that he kept him, allowing him to go to the village school with 'Mandy during the winter and treating him as one of his household. He was only two years older than 'Mandy, and he said pa and ma just as she did, and considered himself lucky that he escaped parental dispotation.

"'Bout time 'Mandy was thinkin' of gettin' married, ain't it?" said Nathan, one evening.

"Married! That child!" replied the wife. "Are you in such a great hurry to get rid of her?"

"Rid of her? Lor' no. I'll keep her right here all her life."

"An' let her be a lonely, spiteful old maid! Nice future for a pretty young girl!"

Nathan smiled covertly.

"'Mandy is pretty," he said. "An' I guess others see it, mother. C'rell Newman can't keep his eyes off her at meetin'."

"C'rell Newman!" repeated Mrs. Alber contemptuously. "He needn't make eyes at my daughter."

"What's the matter with him?"

"I don't like his family."

"They're rich," said Nathan, who was inclined to place a high estimate upon an extensive tract of fertile land.

"H'm. I don't like the Newmans, an' C'rell's wild."

Mrs. Phebe had her plans for 'Mandy, but it was useless to broach them then. She had not been visiting the Manasquan store for nothing, when she could buy goods cheaper in Asbury Park. She knew why she always took 'Mandy with her, and why a deep delight possessed her soul when the proprietor's son, a pale, slender, light-haired young man, who sat at the desk, peered out between the wires that surrounded him and forgot to attend to his accounts until after mother and daughter had left the store.

Arthur Gleason was dignified and intellectual, and his natty attire and debonair air had made a deep impression upon Manasquan belles.

Corell was really very fond of the slender, golden-haired girl, and the Newmans had always been known to be "very set in their ways."

Young Gleason from New York was a captive to 'Mandy's fresh charms also, and despite his languid effeminacy, he was not without a will of his own. He had been a spoiled child at home and used to having his way in all motives. Now he was determined that no Jersey farmer should triumph over him.

It was a strange warfare that followed. The rivals fought with deeply expressive glances and occasional cutting words when they chanced to meet, but Mr. and Mrs. Alger were outwardly serene. She greeted Corell with bland politeness, and her husband shook hands with the dapper Gleason. He would rather have kicked him out of the house, but he knew how unpleasant Phebe could make it for his favorite. So triumph and defeat became entirely a matter of strategy, and Nathan Alger lay awake nights planning to thwart and conquer his keener-witted but no less determined wife.

'Mandy was, as usual, mildly quiescent, like a pretty puppet whose movements were governed by hidden wires. Her passiveness made each suitor believe that he was the favored one.

Frank came out of the barn one day. He saw a blue skirt whisking into the summer kitchen, which was used only for storage purposes then. Walking up to the little square window, he peered in. To his surprise he saw 'Mandy sitting in the little rush-bottomed chair near the table, with her face buried in her apron. In an instant he was beside her.

"What's the matter, sis?" he asked, gently.

'Mandy raised her tear-stained face.

"Oh, Frank, I'm so wretched," she said. "Pa and ma at it again?"

"It's nothing new," replied the girl hopelessly. "You see what they're trying to do. They think I haven't got any feelings."

"Which one do you like best?" asked Frank, as he had done once before.

"I don't know. I don't know!" wailed 'Mandy. "They're both nice, and they both want to marry me; but if I marry one, pa'll disown me, and if I marry the other, ma'll never speak to me again. Oh, I wish I was dead!"

She covered her face with her apron again.

"There, sis, don't worry," said Frank, stroking her rippling hair and trying to comfort her, just as he used to do in the old school days. "I wish I could help you. Come, let's talk it over."

The next day, during 'Mandy's temporary absence from home, her affairs approached a crisis. Arthur Gleason and Corell Newman had driven up to the Alger gate at the same time and alighted together. Unpleasant words were exchanged, and Corell, who had been indulging the Newman thirst, struck the storekeeper's son, whereupon young Gleason had drawn his whip from its socket, and his opponent, whose whip was not at hand, had snatched a billet of wood from the woodpile. Then, after a further exchange of hostilities, the young men had sprung into their respective vehicles and driven away in a furious rate in opposite directions.

Mr. and Mrs. Alger, witnessing the scene from the sitting room windows, felt that the time had come for decisive action. At 5 o'clock that afternoon 'Mandy returned. On either side of the fireplace her parents were respectively seated, grim and hostile. All the brightness died out of the girl's face.

"'Mandy," began her mother, solemnly. "Mr. Gleason an' C'rell Newman were here today, an' that mis'rible drunken wretch struck Mr. Gleason in the face. I don't b'lieve he will ever come here again."

"Gleason brought it on hisself," retorted Nathan, with the Alger mouth tense. "He drew him to it. I don't blame C'rell a bit."

"'Mandy," pursued her mother, "you must write a note to Mr. Gleason an' tell him how sorry you are. Tell him that C'rell Newman will never darken your door again."

"Tell him you're goin' to marry C'rell Newman!" shouted her father, feeling that strategy was no longer available.

"Do as I tell you," said Phebe, her voice rising and her eyes snapping. "I've promised you to Mr. Gleason."

"An' I've promised you to C'rell," thundered Nathan, bringing his fist down upon the oaken table.

'Manday stood in the center of the room with her head bent, her lashes touching her cheeks, her arms hanging limp before er with interlaced fingers. Her lips moved once as if to speak, and closed again. Then her slender shoulders seemed to square themselves, and her fingers gripped each other closer.

"Pa, ma, you can't promise me—you can't dispose of me, either of you," she said in low, faltering, but clear tones. "I'm married!"

An awful silence followed. Phebe Alger said afterward that she felt as theugh 'Mandy had slapped her in the face. Undoubtedly that action would not have left the mother without an idea of a punishment fitting the crime, but now she sat forward in her chair, dazed and speechless.

Nathan looked helplessly from mother to daughter.

"It ain't true, 'Mandy?" he asked at last.

"Yes, pa," came in the girl's soft tones and beneath the drooping lashes a tear crept up, leaving a shining trail across one flushed cheek: "I was married today."

Mrs. Alger's eyes began to sparkle again. Which one of the belligerent suitors had sought 'Mandy that day and persuaded her into hasty wedlock?

"Are we lookin' at Mrs. Gleason or Mrs. C'rell Newman?" she asked sarcastically. "I'd like to know, seein' as I'm interested, if I wasn't asked to the weddin'."

'Mandy looked up then, straight into her mother's eyes, and for the first time in her life the Osborn nose and the Alger mouth seemed to form an aggressive combination.

"I'm married to Frank," she said, steadily. "I didn't want either of those other two. I liked Frank better than anyone I knew. You both wanted me to get married, but I couldn't marry two men. Frank wanted to tell you, but I said no, we'd get married first. I knew how 'twould be if we told you. P'raps you'll both be mad at me, I can't help it. All my life I've tried to please you, but I—I couldn't mar-ry t—tw—o—o—o."

Then she broke down and, as the door opened, she turned and ran toward it and laid her face against her young husband's broad shoulder. And Frank put his arm around her and stood there with uplifted head, calmly facing the stupefied parents.

It was six months before Mrs. Phebe Alger spoke to either of them; but Nathan was so rejoiced over his wife's defeat that he forgot his own, and gave the young couple a tract of land, upon which young Day had a small, neat cottage speedily erected.

It was when they entered their humble home to take up their abode there that Frank drew his wife to his side and made this cheerful little speech:

"We're home at last, 'Mandy, in our own place. It may not be as fine as it might be, or as it will be some day; but it's ours. You're mistress here, and I want you to remember one thing. Most women think, when they get married, they're binding themselves somehow—losing their freedom and all that. But when you got married, 'Mandy, you got your liberty. After this it ain't to be what your pa or your ma or your husband or anybody else says; it's to be what you say, all the rest of your life. Understand, 'Mandy?"

"I understand," said 'Mandy softly, and bending her head, she kissed her wedding ring, the golden sign of her emancipation.

MRS. VANDERBILT WANTS $7,000,000

Hitch Over Settlement Causes a Delay in Divorce Proceedings.

New York, April 11.—A recommendation that Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt be granted an absolute divorce from Alfred Gwinne Vandervilt will be handed up to Justice O'Gorman, in the supreme court, next Monday, by Referee McClure. Lawyers concerned in the suit think that Justice O'Gorman will order an interlocutary decree to be filed on the same day, and that after the usual three months, Mrs. Vanderbilt will be permitted to resume her maiden name and remarry.

It became known yesterday that none of the co-respondents named by Mrs. Vanderbilt will be called to testify. One of the co-respondents named is a comic opera star. Another is a young French woman, residing in America, known chiefly through her fondness for fast automobiles and high-stepping horses.

The only hitch is over the question of a settlement for Mrs. Vanderbilt. During the last two days a proposition has been discussed, which contemplates the settlement of at least $7,000,000 in gilt-edged securities.

NO HURRY ABOUT JUDGE.

Lochren's Place Will Not be Filled Until Late Next Week.

Washington, April 11.—The White House has announced that it is not likely that the president will take up the Minnesota federal judgeship case until the latter part of next week. In the meantime the president is not bothering himself about the appointment, but is giving attention to other matters. It is understood that the department of justice is still busy making certain inquiries regarding the several candidates for the place and that this work will be completed by the time specified. The Minnesota senators have made no moves since Senator Nelson, on April 1, submitted W. E. Hale's indorsement to the president.

PRINCIPAL USES HOSE.

Turns It on Student Dancers Defying School Board.

Anaconda, Mont., April 11.—Defying the recently issued edict of the Anaconda school board which positively prohibits dances by any student organization of the high school of this city, about 100 high school pupils met secretly in the big hall of the high school building Thursday evening for a dance. The revelers were accidentally discovered by Principal Hickson, who upon going to the building to do some work, burst in upon the merrymakers. He attempted to stop the dance, and the students became threatening.

Mr. Hickson finally seized the fire hose and turned it upon the dancers, girls and all. The dancers then disappeared through the windows, and by some maneuvering succeeded in drenching the professor. They then held him captive until he was released by two deputy sheriffs.

The board will investigate and wholesale expulsions are expected.

JEWELS FOR MISS ELKINS.

Italian Royal Household Already Preparing for Marriage.

Rome, April 11.—The jeweler of the royal household has received from the king and queen dowager an important commission for presents in connection with the approaching wedding of the duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins.

Queen Margherita intends to give the bride the most valuable specimens from her wonderful collection of old laces for a wedding gown.

It is uncertain whether the wedding will take place in Rome, London or Piedmont, but it is certain the pair will come to the Quirinal, where rooms are being redecorated under the queen's personal supervision.

They will have ten magnificent apartments.

WON'T MARRY HER.

Church Will Object Even If Old Ceremony is Annulled.

Philadelphia, April 11.—Archbishop Ryan declared yesterday that even if the marriage of Miss Helen Maloney and Arthur Osborne is annulled by the process of law, he would not marry her to Samuel Clarkson or anyone else, and that the Philadelphia heiress will still have an important bridge to cross before she can reach the place where she may receive the sanction of the Catholic church to marry the young Englishman with whom she eloped last year.

HEINZE WILL GO WEST TO BUILD NEW FORTUNE.

New York, April 11.—Fritz Augustus Heinze, shrewd and dogged as he is, has given up for the present, his attempt to best New York at its own game. He soon is going away from here, where his fortune slipped away from him in a few months as a result of his spreading out from copper mining, which he understands, to banking and manipulation of the stock market. He is going back West, the scene of his former spectacular successes to begin all over again at almost the same place as when he went there an obscure mining engineer fifteen years ago, on his graduation from Columbia.

By the end of this month he hopes to have made arrangements satisfactory to his creditors to be able to start out with a clean slate. To stay away until he can bring back another fortune to renew his fight with the benefit of the experience gained in the loss of his first fortune is said to be his purpose.

Whether he intends to make Butte his headquarters he declined to say. It was there he won his great triumph on Feb. 1, 1906, over the Amalgamated Copper company and the Standard Oil company.

Places of Interest in Foreign Lands.

The quaint old town of Donegal, Ireland, is clustered about the pool and quay of Donegal. An interesting hostelry, the Arran Arms, is the home of the tourist while in the town. There one is lodged and fed very well, a retired army officer being the host.

The famous old Franciscan abbey lies in ruins, but the Castle of Donegal still stands to tell us of the greatness of the O'Donnells, its long-ago masters. Its Jacobean architecture, however, cannot be credited to Irish workmen.

As far back as history goes of this ancient Castle of Donegal it was the stronghold of the O'Donnells. It was Hugh O'Donnell and his wife, Fingalla, of the house of O'Brien, who completed the Franciscan Monastery in the year 1474, and which was founded many years before by a very pious woman, Nuala O'Donnell.

In 1593 an English force seized an island in the harbor, and the soldiers quartered in the abbey, pillaging the county.

Donegal Castle, Ireland.

At this time Hugh O'Donnell, son of the O'Donnell who had had the old abbey completed, was too old and feeble to make a defense; but his young son, Red Hugh, who had been a prisoner in Dublin Castle, succeeded in obtaining his liberty, and upon hearing of the insult to his county mustered his friends together and hurriedly came to the relief of Donegal, putting the enemy to rout. Red Hugh was a mere boy at the time, but through his valor and good sense he succeeded in saving what still remains of Donegal Castle. In his great joy at his son's victory the elder Hugh resigned his position as head of the Castle of Donegal in the youth's favor, and Red Hugh made the stronghold his home for some years. No figure in Irish history is more replete with interest than is that of Red Hugh O'Donnell. His life was filled with fiercest conflict, and he was one of the most fearless of men.

In 1610 the property of Donegal was confiscated, and granted to Sir Basil Brooke. In consequence of this one may yet see on the fine, carved mantel-piece in the banqueting hall the Brooke arms.

TWO DISOBEDIENT YOUNG BRUNOS.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

Old Mother Bruno (who was a great brown bear) was obliged to go from home for the day and called her two little ones, Son Bruno and Daughter Bruno, to her side to give them certain instructions as to their conduct during her absence. She had never left them for a whole day, and on this occasion she felt some uneasiness as to their safety without a mother's watchful care.

"Now, my little cubs," said Mother Bruno, putting a caressing paw on each little brown head, "I must go away from our house for the day. Indeed, I fear the sun will be gone from sight, and old Darkness, that horrid old beast, will be king of the woods when I return. So, I want you two dears to listen to your mother and obey her instructions to the letter."

"Yes, mamma," said Son and Daughter in one voice. "We will listen and obey."

"Well, my dumplings, I want you to remain right in our own yard, and don't allow any stranger to enter. If one knocks at the gate do not respond. All our friends call out their names when they come to our gate. If one knocks without first calling out his or her name and business you must not make a sound, but sit in the hollow of the big tree and wait till the stranger is gone. Some evil bear, seeing me depart, might come to rob us. So, I leave you in charge of the house and yard. Our fence is so high and firm that no outsider could get entrance save through the gate, which I instruct you to keep barred."

"But if one of the neighbors calls," said Son Bruno, "shall not we invite him in and open the gate?"

"Yes, certainly," said Mother Bruno. "But you must make sure first that it is a neighbor, or the child of a neighbor. You must run no risks, for by hook or crook a thief might get inside the fence and overpower you both and help himself to our fine new spring clothes. So, be on your guard and know to whom you open the gate."

"Yes, mamma, we will," promised Son and Daughter, kissing their good mother on the nose as she bid them good-by.

Soon after their mother's departure Son and Daughter Bruno went into the big, fenced yard to play at wrestling. As they tumbled and tossed each other about on the soft spring grass their sport was stopped by a sudden and emphatic knock on the big gate.

Son and Daughter sat up and listened intently, expecting to hear the familiar voice of some neighbor or playmate, but the knocking was repeated without so much as a grunt from the bear asking admittance. Son and Daughter kept very quiet, not daring to call out. Then, Son remembering that there was a little crack in one of the fence boards near to the gate through which a glimpse could be got of one standing outside the gate, he decided to gently creep to the spot and steal a peep at the bear, or other animal, seeking to come in.

"It's a stranger—a big black bear," whispered Son to Daughter, after he had taken a peep through the crack. "My, but he's a fierce one, with eyes like fire. What are we to do?"

Daughter was a bit frightened and said: "Let's call out to him to begone—that if he persists in knocking at our door we'll set the dogs on him."

Son liked the suggestion and acted upon it. "Begone, you old tramp!" he called through the crack, speaking in a very brave tone, seeing that a strong fence was between him and the persistent caller.

"Ha, ha, ha!" cried the big black bear in the jolliest voice Son and Daughter had ever heard. "Ha, ha, ha! I know the voice that speaks to me belongs to a little male cub. And I dote on boy bears. Now, my little cub, be so good as to tell your mamma that an old friend of hers is at the gate, asking to be welcomed by her. She'll be delighted to see me. Just you go and tell her that Professor Blackbear, from the top of Mount Snowcap, pays his respects to her and her little ones and would like to shake her friendly paw."

Son looked at Daughter, much surprised at what he had heard. In turn Daughter looked at Son, questioningly. "What shall we do?" she whispered. "If our mother was here she'd open the gate to an old friend and welcome him."

"Of course she would," declared Son. "So, during her absence it is our duty to act in the capacity of host and hostess and make our mother's old friend welcome. Shall I unbolt the gate?"

"By all means," said Daughter, herself most curious to get a peep at the fierce big black bear whose eyes were like fire, but whose voice was as soft as an autumn breeze.

"Well, I'll just open the gate and explain that our mother is away for the day and that we shall be most happy to entertain him in her absence," said Son. Then he undid the heavy bolts that secured the gate and bowed low to the strange big fellow standing outside it.

"Our mother is away for the day, sir," said Son, smiling cordially, but at the same time in an embarrassed way, for he was such a little chap and was experiencing his first taste of playing host. "Will you step in and have some luncheon with us at 12?"

"Most happy, my dear little fellow," declared the big black bear in the pleasantest voice. "But whom have we here? Your little sister, I dare say." And the great fellow pointed a heavy paw at Daughter, who was standing modestly beside her brother.

The three went into the house, and Daughter brought from the cupboard a dainty luncheon which their dear mother had prepared for them before her departure. This was spread upon the table before the visitor, who looked at it with a gleaming eye, smacking his lips the while. Then, before Son or Daughter knew what was doing the gluttonous fellow ate every morsel of the food and drank every drop of the milk on the table, saying as he swallowed the last mouthful: "Ah, that was a delightful little luncheon, I assure you. And how nice of you to set it before me. But haven't you some for yourselves, my dears?"

Son and Daughter blushed in a confused way, for the truth of the matter was the luncheon set on the table had been intended for all of them, and the cubs were very much surprised when the visitor ate all the food without so much as waiting to be invited to do so. They were too polite, however, to betray their feelings in the matter, and Son shook his head, saying: "My sister and I shall wait till our mother returns, then we'll have luncheon with her."

"The gluttonous fellow ate every morsel of the food and drank every drop of the milk."

"Ah, yes, that will be very nice," agreed the old black bear. Then he declared that he should like to take a sleep, as the luncheon had been so plentiful that he felt drowsy. He also said that he should like very much to go to their mother's apartment, as he thought the beds in the cubs' room would be far too short to allow of his stretching his legs. Son and Daughter looked at each other with some doubt as to allowing a stranger to enter their mother's apartment, but owing to their desire to be hospitable they at last consented, and Son led the stranger to their dear parent's bed chamber.

"And now, my dear little cub, you may go, and don't call me till your mother arrives, for I am weary after my long journey. But, little friend, won't you and your sister promise me that you'll run down to the store, kept by the lame bear, and buy for me a new coat? The one I've been traveling in is dusty and weatherworn, but don't go till about half-past five. Then I'll be awake on your return to try on the new garment. All you have to do is to explain to the merchant that I want the coat, and he'll send it to me without the money, for he knows I'll run to his shop tomorrow and settle for it. And now, ta ta, for I must take my forty winks."

When Son ran below stairs and repeated to his sister the request made by the guest that they go to the merchant's and buy a coat for him she shook her head with some misgivings. "I don't know that we should do that," said Daughter. "Our mother emphatically told us not to leave this yard. And I feel that we've been a bit unwise in allowing the big black bear to get into our house before our mother returns. You know Mamma has many valuables in her room, and her trunk is not locked. I'm greatly afraid that we have done wrong in disobeying Mamma's orders, which were so strict, as to admitting a stranger to our house."

"But he says he used to be her friend," declared Son. "And one should never turn away mother's old friend."

"We've only his word for it," said Daughter, becoming more and more conscience-stricken. "But since he's here we can do nothing till Mamma returns."

Then son and daughter went into the yard and played in a half-hearted way till the clock struck five. "Ah," said son, "it's almost time for us to go to the shop for the coat for our guest. Shall we be starting?"

Reluctantly Daughter agreed to accompany her brother. "He's asleep, I suppose," she said, meaning the guest, "and will do no more harm with us away from the house than if we were here. Besides, we'll have the opportunity to know whether the lame merchant knows of such a person. If he is willing to trust him with a fine coat—without the money—then that will be evidence that he is not a wicked imposter at all."

Then Son and Daughter went into the the yard, gently closing the gate behind them, but not fastening the lock. They had no fear of anyone entering while they were down at the clothes-shop. If the guest was an honorable man he would take care that no one should intrude during their absence.

At the shop they learned from the lame merchant that he had never heard of such a person as they represented their guest to be, and refused to send the coat without the money. So, with many grave apprehensions, the two cubs ran for home with all possible speed, and went to their mother's room to tell the guest that the merchant did not know of him and would not send the coat. When they entered they found the room without an occupant. The big black bear had gone. With beating hearts the two cubs began to look through their mother's trunk and old oaken chest to see if any of their household valuables were missing. To their despair they could not find their mother's jeweled comb, her bracelets, nor the family silver. Son sat down and clasped his hands helplessly, while Daughter fell to sobbing. "Oh, oh!" she wailed, "our dear mother's valuables stolen. And now the thief has had many hours in which to get away. I'll bet anything that he went out through the back gate while we were playing in the front yard, believing him to be asleep. Oh, how dreadful is the news that we must tell to our mother on her return." And Daughter's tears flowed afresh.

"And it's all our fault," confessed Son dejectedly. "This morning our mother warned us against the possibility of such a thing happening, and we fell into the net just as though we had never been warned. Oh, oh! What shall we do?"

"Go and lock the front gate as it should be," said a well-known voice. And Son and Daughter looked up to behold their mother in the doorway. "And here are my comb, my bracelets and the family silver." As she said this she poured the valuables fom her pocket into the open trunk. "Now, I shall tell you how I happened to have these things. After I left you this morning I feared that something unpleasant might happen here, so I sent my old friend, the actor-bear, to you to see just how well you would obey me and remember the warning I had given you. Well, he came in the disguise of a big black bear. You know the rest. Aside from your losing your luncheon I believe there is nothing gone from the house. But it is not through your obedience or watchfulness that it is so. Now, do you think you have learned a lesson, my disobedient ones?"

"Yes, mamma," wept both cubs, throwing their arms about their old mother's neck. "And never again will any stranger get admittance to our house while you are absent. And now, may we have some luncheon, please?"

Dolly and Alice.

I'm just a little doll, you see,
So you must not be harsh with me,
Were I to fall I'd break in two;
Then what would little Alice do?

Dear little Alice! She owns me;
I think they say she is but three.
At least, I know she isn't old,
For they don't play with dolls, I'm told.

Dear Alice brings me candy sweet.
She keeps me dressed so very neat;

And when she walks out in the air
She takes me with her everywhere.

We are the best of friends, you see;
I love sweet Alice, she loves me.
Were I to fall and break in two,
What would dear little Alice do?

THE RUNAWAYS.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Gertrude May was a big wax doll with a beautiful face and tiny feet and hands. She was a born aristocrat, as anyone with eyes in his head could see at once. And she was a sort of queen in her world, which was the nursery. She had many companions, but none of them was quite so superior as Gertrude May. Her little mistress, by name Agnes, was very fond of her, and kept her dressed every day in frocks that were nice enough for Sunday.

Gertrude May had lived in the nursery for a whole year, and had been perfectly contented there, loving her mistress Agnes and her many devoted friends. But a day came when discontentment took seed in her sawdust heart, causing her many hours of sleeplessness. It happened this way: A little friend of Agnes' had come to spend the day with her, and had brought along a fine, gallant soldier doll, one whose uniform was brand-new and whose buttons and sword shone like gold as the sun that came in through the window fell full upon them. He was a very conceited fellow, wearing the epaulettes of an officer in the United States Army, and he made much of his social position. Scarcely had he entered the nursery where Gertrude May dwelt than he began looking tenderly at her and heaving deep sighs of admiration. Indeed, the very first opportunity he got he declared his love for her and asked her to become his wife.

Now, Gertrude May was so young that she was flattered beyond all good sense by the wooing of the gallant captain, and she returned his affection and promised to marry him without ever questioning him about what provision he could make for her in future. She, like so many silly and inexperienced young ladies, only looked at the gay captain's uniform and striking mustache. She didn't study the fellow's heart and character. And he, like so many such conceited fellows of his kind, only saw Gertrude's pretty face and dainty gowns. He didn't realize that an aristocratic young lady like her could not live happily on his small income, and he planned with her for their elopement on the following day.

Now, so long as the captain—by name Jackson Washington—lived in the nursery of little Miss Mary (his mistress) he didn't know what it was to want for anything. And it was the same with Gertrude May. Just so long as she lived in the cosy quarters of little Miss Agnes her life would be sweet and peaceful. But she had given way to the wooing of the captain and agreed to elope with him. Their plan was all unformed, except that they would run away from the nursery and become husband and wife. Neither the captain nor Gertrude thought of where they should go after the ceremony that bound them together for life.

As Agnes had invited her little friend Mary to stop over night with her (she was to have a party that evening) it gave Captain Jackson Washington and Gertrude May the very opportunity they wanted. As soon as the two girls had left the nursery in response to Gertrude's mamma's call the captain hurried to the side of his promised bride and whispered: "We'd better run away tonight, my dear, while those who own us are out of the way. Can you brave the hardships of the world for me?"

"I shall never complain of anything so long as you and I are together," vowed the thoughtless young bride-to-be. "And I can be ready to go in half an hour."

Then, excusing herself from Capt. Jackson Washington, Gertrude went to get her hat and cloak, for the April evenings were very chill and she would catch cold without being wrapped. After preparing herself for the journey she made the rounds of her friends in the nursery to say good-by. First, she paid her respects to the animals of Noah's ark. She loved them all, individually and collectively. Many an hour she had been entertained by them, watching them file into the ark at night to sleep and being wakened in the morning by them coming forth again. And while the other dolls in the nursery were afraid of the big bear, the old lion and the huge elephant, Gertrude May knew each to be friendly and harmless if treated humanely. So, after telling them all—from the little rabbit up to the tall giraffe—that she was leaving them forever, she saluted each in turn and shed a few regretful tears as she said good-by amidst their lamentations, for she was much respected and liked by the entire Noah's Ark aggregation, and they mourned her loss.

After departing from the Noah's Ark corner Gertrude went to her old and loyal friends, the Japanese doll—a real little Celestial beauty—and the Holland doll, the latter a most affectionate and sensible little wooden-shod damsel. These she took into her confidence, whispering the reason of her leavetaking. At first it almost broke the hearts of the Japanese doll, by name Foulon, and the Holland doll, by name Wilhelmina. But as they, like all young ladies, admired uniform, they could quite understand why their favorite, Gertrude May, had decided to take leave of them for a mustache, buttons and sword. So, with tears flowing, they blessed Gertrude, wished her all the happiness in the world, and said farewell.

And then, hands clasped lovingly, the soldier-doll, looking so brave and defiant, and the aristocratic lady-doll, looking sweet and sad, but withal very happy, went softly from the nursery, creeping out of the house through an open window in the parlor.

Once outside, the soldier seemed a bit at a loss as to what they should do. He had never been out in the big world on his own resources before, and he now realized at the very outset what he had to contend with. But faint heart never won fair lady, he repeated to himself, and bravely set off down the street, fair Gertrude on his arm. Hardly had they turned the corner when a child's voice rang out clear and loud: "Oh, mommer, there goes two dolls—a soldier and one with a pink silk dress on! Oh, how funny to see them walking about! Let's run and get them!" Then followed a most exciting five minutes, for the little girl who had caught sight of them set out after them on the run, chasing them down a dark side street, where they succeeded in hiding behind some old packing boxes. Both the runaways' hearts beat with fear, and the sawdust in their veins ran cold. "Oh, what will become of us?" sighed Gertrude, wishing secretly that she had not strayed from the nursery. For once fear mastered love.

"I'll protect you with my sword if need be, my dear," boasted the Captain, whose mustache had dropped during the dash down the street, and whose sword was rattling against his boots, so terribly did his legs tremble. "I'll protect you, so feel no fear."

Gertrude tried to make herself believe in the strength and prowess of her chosen lord, but it was very hard to do so under the circumstances. But she clung to his arm and pleaded with him to take her out from among the cold, dark packing boxes to some place more in keeping for an eloping couple.

Capt. Jackson Washington cautiously put out his head and looked up and down the street. Then he said: "Come, my dear Gertrude, we'll go forth in the very face of danger, for I am not afraid. I have my strong right arm that knows how to wield my blade in your defense." (The truth must be told that the bragging Captain had seen a deserted street when he peeped from his hiding place.)

Forth the twain sallied, Gertrude still trembling violently and begging in whispers that they at once seek out a doll preacher or magistrate who would make them man and wife. Then, if need be, they would return to the nursery of Capt. Jackson Washington or to that of Gertrude May.

"Yes, I'll hasten toward a doll-shop where I used to live before I went to the nursery of Miss Mary," said the Captain. "There used to be a preacher, of the Methodist denomination, and a priest of the Catholic faith there. Either of them will unite us in wedlock. Then, if you so desire, we can wander to the great forest where dwell the fairies, for I have heard little Miss Mary read of them so often and of their power to help those in love and distress. The fairies will take us into their realm and give us wings and we'll live with them evermore. Then we'll have——"

But of a sudden the Captain's speech was cut short by the barking of a little dog (a dog that looked as big as an elephant to Captain Jackson and Gertrude) and the two dolls were so frightened when they saw the malicious fellow coming towards them at a run, his teeth showing as he barked and snapped, that they lost no time in running towards a house which had a tall paling fence round the yard.

Over the fence Captain Jackson climbed, dragging the almost helpless Gertrude with him. But the small dog climbed over after them snapping at their heels as they ran up the house steps. In another instant the door was opened and out came two little girls, dressed in their party-best. Their eyes fell on first the dog, then on the trembling Captain and his lady companion. "What! Upon my word if it isn't Agnes Brown's doll, Gertrude May, and Mary Simon's doll, Captain Jack! Who ever saw such a sight? And that little puppy from across the way was just about to tear them limb from limb, spilling their sawdust on Bridget's clean steps. But we'll take the runaways to Agnes' home and surprise her." So spoke one of the little girls, who was to be a guest at the party given that night at the home of Agnes. "Yes, we'll rescue these two foolish dolls from a very sad fate," declared the other little girl, and in another moment the two frightened and sorrowful runaways were tucked under the arms of the two little girls as they hurried to the home of Gertrude May, and, to tell the truth, both the gallant Captain and the aristocratic Gertrude were very content to be taken there, and they whispered to each other that never, never again would they be caught running away. As for marriage—bah let real, live people do that, but not for dolls.

over the fence Captain Jackson climbed, dragging the almost helpless Gertrude with him.

A Modern Bo-Peep.

Little Bo-Peep did lose her sheep.
(The sheep were old, they say.)
And little Bo-Peep ne'er found her sheep,
Though she searched for them every which way.

She sought them through meadows, wide and deep;
She peeped behind every tree;
She climbed up hillsides, long and steep,
But not one sheep did she see.

So home she went at the close of day;
Her mamma waited her there;
And to her mother she did say,
"There's not one to be found anywhere."

LESSON NO. 6—HOW TO DRAW AN OWL.

YOU MISS YOUR MISERY IN ABOUT FIVE MINUTES

Diapepsin Will Digest for You 3,000 Grains of Food and Overcome a Sour Stomach Five Minutes After.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or caturrh of stomach, it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain triangle and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is food fermentation—food souring; the digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, billiousness, sick headaches, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feed bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause.

Call your stomach troubles by any name you will, but prove to yourself that the real and only cause is food fermentation—sour stomach.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and tells plainly on the label the name of each ingredient, to show that these triangules are as harmless and pleasant as candy—though each triangule will promptly digest 3,000 grains of food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Your relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take the first triangule.

DR. MITCHELL

HE CAN CURE YOU!

Dr. Mitchell has been in Duluth over ten years and has treated diseases with great success, and the fact is firmly established that what he undertakes to cure he does not fail in any particular, but is successful. The doctor has thousands of testimonials, a few of which we publish.

Capt. Thomas Read of the Read Wrecking company of Port Huron, Mich., says:

To all whom it may concern:

I advise all suffering from diseases that are not getting well under their present treatment and have given up all hope, to consult Dr. Mitchell. His treatment has worked wonders for me. I had doctored five years with medical doctors and taken all kinds of treatment and spent over ten thousand dollars and got no relief until I placed myself under Dr. Mitchell's treatment.

Mrs. E. Youngquist of 1517 Seventh street, Superior, Wis., went to Dr. Mitchell after she had given up all hope of getting well and was cured of Bright's disease. Her daughter, Gertie, who had undergone three operations, also went to Dr. Mitchell, just able to walk, and is now on a fair road to recovery.

NEIGHBORS COMPLAIN

Celebration at Home of Mrs. St. Charles Was Too Strenuous.

Guest at the Party Fined for Disorderly Conduct.

Mrs. Joe St. Charles and Philip Le Fever were to have been arraigned this morning at the municipal court on a disorderly charge, but Mrs. St. Charles, who was out on $15 bail, failed to show up. La Fever was tried, found guilty of disorderly conduct, and sentenced to a fine of $22 or 20 days in the county jail. He took the jail sentence.

The two offending parties were arrested last night at 411 North Fiftieth avenue west, where they were carousing with several other men. When the police arrived in response to a telephone call from one of Mrs. St. Charles' neighbors, they found the place in general disorder, Mrs. St. Charles, it is said, just having finished giving La Fever a sound thrashing. Judging by La Fever's general appearance this morning in police court, he had been handled rather roughly, and carried as a result a badly swollen and blackened eye.

PLEASED WITH SHILOH SPEECH

Opinion among the Democratic party leaders of Duluth regarding the speech delivered by John A. Johnson, at the dedication of the Minnesota monument at Shiloh battlefield is, that the Minnesota governor expressed the sentiments of the conservative party leaders, both in his declaration of the constitutional right of the states to exercise power granted by the Constitution, and also in his statement of the rights of the private citizen, in the face of power encroachment on the part of the so-called predatory interests.

It seems to be the belief here that Governor Johnson's speech is one that will attract attention from all over the country, because of the clear and forceful statements contained in it. His remarks have been very favorably commented on in the city today.

ROBBERS GET $50,000 IN DIAMONDS AT FRISCO.

San Francisco, April 11.—In the best patrolled district of the city, thieves during the night entered the jewelry store of P. Lundy, 744 Market street, and robbed it of diamonds, watches and other jewelry, amounting to $50,000.

Entrance was made by cutting a hole through the partition that separates the store from a candy shop. The safe was drilled and blown open with nitro glycerin.

The robbery is believed to be the work of Eastern crooks, many of whom have arrived in the city with the idea of operating while the battleship fleet is visiting this port.

WAGE SCALE IS FIXED

Builders' Exchange Decides Upon an Eight-Hour Day.

Sets Wages to be Paid in All Building Trades.

The following resolution was adopted this afternoon by the open shop committee:

"Whereas, Building tradesmen have heretofore, by organization and combination, exercised undue power in the building industry, and have abused that power by the restriction and prohibition of apprentices, by the sympathetic strike and boycott, and in various ways as is well known; and

"Whereas, It has become necessary for employers of this class of labor to unite in opposition to the arbitrary, unlawful and un-American acts of local labor organizations and to deprive such organizations of the power which it is no longer safe for them to exercise; and

"Whereas, We recognize a danger to employers and employes if the matter of wages is left entirely to the natural selfishness of some employers on the one hand, and to the necessities of some employes on the other; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the Duluth Builders' Exchange in session assembled April 8 that we claim a general supervision over the question of wages in our immediate locality and business, and propose to establish uniform and equitable compensation to all our skilled mechanics.

Resolved, that we reaffirm the principles of the open shop movement, as follows: No closed shop; no restrictions as to the use of tools, machinery or material, except such as are unsafe; no limitation of output; no restrictions as to the number of apprentices and helpers, when of proper age; no boycott or sympathetic strike; no sacrifice of the independent workman to the labor union; no compulsory use of the union label.

Resolved further, That eight (8) hours shall constitute a day's work for all building tradesmen; and the following prices are declared to be the scale for first class mechanics in the several trades:

Stone masons, per hour	$0.60
Bricklayers, per hour	.65
Stone cutters, per hour	.55
Tile setters, per hour	.50
Carpenters, per hour	.45
Roofers, per hour	.45
Plasterers, per hour	62½
Painters, per hour	.45
Plumbers, per hour	.62½
Steamfitters, per hour	.60
Electricians, for eight hours	$3.75
Lathers, 4c per yard or per hour	.50

Sheet metal workers, 35c, 40c and 47½c, as graduated by the Master Sheet Metal workers.

The following prices prevail in the iron industry for a day of 9 or 10 hours.

"Boiler makers, 36 to 40 cents per hour; moulders, $3 to $3.50 per day; machinists, $2.50 to $3.75 per day.

"We call attention to the fact that the door of opportunity has now been opened, so that boys wishing to learn gainful trades, in the building line, are able to do so, all restrictions demanded by closed shop unions having been removed; and we invite the cooperation of the community in this matter, important as it is to the ascendency of American industry.

DIRECTORS MEETING DECLARED CONFIDENCE.

The full date and development work to date, and report in writing and in persons from mining engineers and experts was laid before the Board of Directors by the management in last night's meeting. Examination failed to show a weak point, and all present stated: "The utmost satisfaction in the progress made." The "Tellurium" mine has shown three times the amount of Gold to the ton than expected, at the level to which the shaft is now sunk, and it can reasonably be expected that a Great "Hit" will be made in this shaft.

OLD STEEL PLANT GONE

Ironton Buildings and Valuable Machinery Destroyed by Fire.

Property Valued at $500,000 and Loss Will be Heavy.

Fire practically destroyed the old Ironton steel plant, at Ironton, yesterday afternoon. The main buildings were burned almost to the ground, but the fire department, working at great disadvantage because of a high wind and lack of water, was able to save the smaller buildings in the group. In addition to the buildings, much valuable machinery was destroyed. This will make the loss a heavy one.

The fire is supposed to have started from burning grass along the right-of-way of the Northern Pacific, although section hands claim the blaze was entirely out before they left that particular piece of track. The fire had not progressed far when the West Duluth department arrived on the scene, and if there had been a good water supply, the structures could have been saved.

Even after the engine from station No. 2 had arrived it was found impossible to get to the St. Louis river, to start the pump working, on account of the condition of the ground. The firemen formed a bucket brigade and worked heroically, but did not get the blaze under control until the main buildings were burned. A high wind made their work particularly hard. The roofs of the different structures were covered with sheet iron, which helped some in keeping the blaze down.

The Ironton steel plant was put up in 1891-2 by the Ironton Structural Steel company, which intended to make large beams. The company did turn out the largest steel beam that was ever forged, but it was not perfect. James E. York was the local representative, and his partners were New York men.

The plant was never operated with any degree of success, and was finally closed. It was later disposed of to other Eastern parties, who made more improvements, but who were unable to operate the plant with financial success. It is estimated that the different people interested in the project invested over $1,000,000 in it. The property is now in the hands of a receiver for the Searle estate. It is valued at $500,000. Most of the machinery originally installed is still on the ground.

OLD FIRE HALL IS A NUISANCE

Glen Avon People Petition That Structure be Torn Down.

Claiming that the old fire hall at Glen Avon has become a public nuisance, practically all the residents of the suburb have petitioned the board of fire commissioners to have the structure torn down. A recommendation to this effect probably will be made to the council Monday night.

In the petition that was presented to the board yesterday, it is stated that the building has been the rendezvous of tramps and disreputable characters, who took advantage of the fact that it was deserted, to take up their lodgings there. The people of Glen Avon feel that it has become the breeding place for disease and crime, and that it is bringing undesirable persons into the community.

A bid was submitted to the fire commissioners yesterday for the wrecking of the building, and an offer was made to buy the lots on which it stands. These bids will be presented to the council, along with the petition.

VERY STRANGE CASE.

Started to School Twelve Years Ago and Unconscious Since.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., April 11.—Henry Fisher, a young man aged about 26, approached City Marshal Tower Wednesday evening and asked the officer to assist him to locate his parents, who, he claims, lived in Los Angeles, Cal. Fisher says he has no remembrance of what has occurred to him or where he has been during the past twelve years, and that during all that time he has been traveling about in an unconscious state and oblivious to his surroundings. He arrived in this city Wednesday. He was picked up a few miles east of the city by a farmer, who says that Fisher continually gesticulated with joy at being restored to consciousness.

Fisher says the last circumstance he remembers was twelve years ago, when he started to school at Los Angeles one morning and kissed his mother good-by. He asked the officers to help locate his people and wants to return home.

THE NEW DISEASE OF THE STRAPHANGERS.

New York, April 11.—"Exaggerated knee jerk" is a disease to which every electric car passenger renders himself liable, according to medical testimony in court at Newark, N. J., yesterday. The testimony was given by Dr. Douglas A. Carter of East Orange in the trial of the suit of Albert Marsh against the public service corporation for injuries he alleges he suffered from one of the cars of that concern.

WAS NOT A CITIZEN.

John Sexton Surprised to Find He Has No Second Papers.

Though he has lived in the United States for half a century, fought in the Union army during the Civil war and has always considered himself a full fledged citizen, John Sexton was told by Receiver Morrison at the United States land office yesterday that he could not prove up on his claim because he is not a citizen.

Sexton is 64 years old and the announcement came to him as a thunderbolt. He told his life's history, showed the papers he always thought entitled him to full citizenship and spoke modestly of his war record, but the officials could do nothing but sympathize.

Sexton came to the United States with his parents, when he was a boy. He went to the front during the Civil war with the First Minnesota heavy artillery and was given an honorable discharge in 1865. The discharge entitled him to first papers and he applied for second papers some years later. By mistake, first papers were given him and he never discovered the error. Sexton's homestead is at Brimson, St. Louis county, on the line of the D. & I. R. railroad.

CAUGHT IN A BLIZZARD.

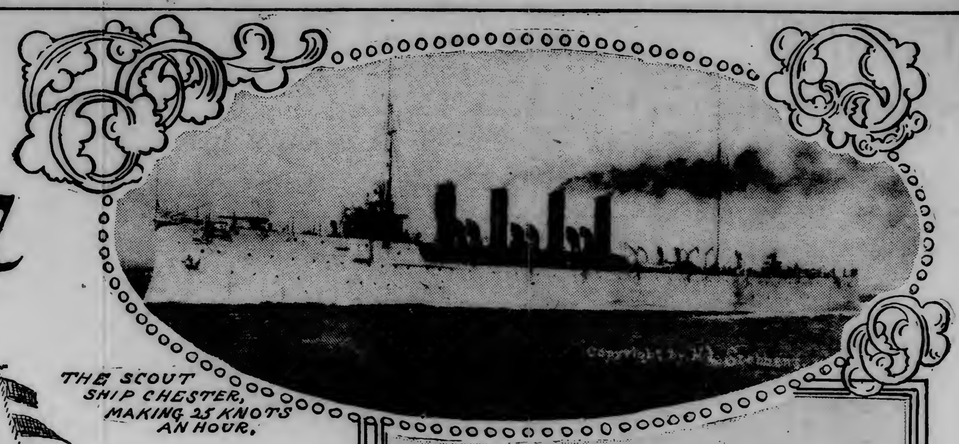

Des Moines Register and Leader: "Last Sunday was the twentieth anniversary of the great blizzard of 1888 in Nebraska and Northwestern Iowa," said G. D. Riggs the other day. "I was living in O'Neill, Neb., at the time and had just left the office to go home for dinner when the blizzard struck.

"I started to cross the street to a drug store, but when I reached the other side I found myself half way down the block from my destination. "The fine wind driven snow flakes filled the air so that I couldn't see my hand before me. I finally worked my way back to the drug store, where a number of other men had taken refuge from the storm.

"School had just been dismissed for the noon recess and we knew that nearly 300 children were out in the storm. Securing long ropes the crowd started out to rescue them. We found them huddled in doorways and by the sides of buildings. The children caught hold of the ropes and were led to shelter by their rescuers, whose sense of direction gradually returned to them. Every one of the 300 school children in the town were got home in safety.

"But seven school teachers were frozen to death in the country during the blizzard and thousands of cattle died. The thermometer fell from about the freezing point at noon to 20 degs. below zero that night. It was the worst blizzard I ever saw and I never want to experience another like it."

(A recognized authority in naval matters has assisted in the preparation of this article.)

NOW that the great fleet is in the Pacific and all the nation is proud of it, and all the world loud in praise of it, there is noticed a very prevalent idea, showing through both the foreign and American press, that the Atlantic coast is entirely denuded of sea power—that it is open, except for the forts defending the shores, to the attack of any power which may take advantage of the situation to descend upon it. This, however, is far from being the case. The United States even now can assemble for the defense of its eastern shores a fleet of battleships and cruisers which at the beginning of the Spanish war we would have been proud of and have pointed to with confidence and pride.

At the League Island navy yard, Philadelphia, is the first-class battleship Indiana, and the first-class battleship Iowa is lying at the Norfolk navy yard. These two ships are what is called "in reserve;" that is, they would be ready to take the seas and do business on the great deep with an enemy to the stars and stripes with practically no delay. A few more men, and officers ordered to them, a few stores and ammunition taken on board, and they would be ready for service. Then there is the great new battleship Mississippi of twenty guns, launched not long ago and now fully commissioned. Her "shake down" has demonstrated her good points so that her officers are enthusiastic about her. On her run down to the naval station at Guantanamo, with an entirely green crew and without being pressed, she made a speed of nearly seventeen knots. The battleship Massachusetts is at the New York navy yard. There is considerable work to be done on her to get her into condition for a fight. The same is true of the second-class battleship Texas, now laid up at the Norfolk yard, but in an emergency they could be made ready for sea in time for any war that could come.

This makes five battleships which could be assembled on the Atlantic coast to form the backbone of naval defense at the first suggestion of trouble with any European nation. That is one more battleship than we had at the battle of Santiago, or in the whole American navy at that time, for that matter. And three of them are the same vessels which gave so good an account of themselves off the Cuban coast.

Battleships Being Built.

There are building on the Atlantic coast the 16-000-ton battleships Michigan, South Carolina and New Hampshire and the 13,000-ton battleship Idahotwo of them at the yards of the New York Ship Building company in Camden, N. J., and two at Cramp's ship yards across the river in Philadelphia. At Newport News the two great 23-000-ton battleships North Carolina and Montana are under construction. This list does not include the two great American "Dreadnoughts," the Delaware and the North Dakota, which although in process of construction, could not possibly be got ready in time to take part in any defense of the coast or American seas for a long time yet.

Of the other battleships building, three, and possibly four, could be got ready for sea service by the time any foreign power could assemble, fit out, and dispatch a fleet of great power to these shores.

We ought to be able to count on assembling a fleet of nine battleships on the Atlantic coat in case some European nation got saucy while the great preponderance of our naval strength is plowing the waters of the Pacific. With them would be the armored cruisers Brooklyn and New York, the protected cruisers Des Moines, Olympia (Dewey's flagship at Manila), Tacoma, San Francisco, Baltimore, Columbia, Minneapolis and Chicago, as well as the monitors Nevada Amphrite, Florida, Miantonomah and Terror. The monitors are of little good at fighting in a seaway, but are heavily armored, carry powerful guns and able to do good work in the way of coast defense.

Then there would be a fleet of some ten small cruisers and gunboats, to say nothing of the fleet of torpedo boats and destroyers. There now are on the Atlantic coast, either in service or in a condition to be speedily put in commission, no less than thirty-five torpedo boats and destroyers, and a submarine flotilla of eight boats in active commission. In case of war, or the threat of war, there might be placed in service some of the ships loaned to the naval militia or to the nautical schools of the different states, such as the protected cruiser Newark, now used by the New York naval militia, and the monitor Puritan, used by the naval militia of Washington, D. C.

Would Be Fairly Formidable.

Altogether it would be a fairly formidable fleet which could be assembled upon emergency to protect the Atlantic coast from foreign attack. Some of the ships named are of the newest type; practically all the others are, or could be made, effective and largely brought up to date. In brief, the fleet which could be assembled in Hampton Roads, in Narragansett Bay or in Long Island Sound would be one which no foreign navy could tackle with impunity, and which would force any nation, except England, to cripple seriously her naval power in European waters in order to approach with even a "paper" superiority. It would be a fleet vastly superior in fighting ability to any which the United States could have assembled from all its squadrons on all the seven seas at the outbreak of the Spanish war. Only three European nations could be dangerous to it—England, Germany and France. Italy's navy is too much in the condition of the Spanish navy in 1898 to be formidable, and there are serious defects in both the French naval administration and in the navy itself. Russia's fleet is a farce. That leaves Germany and England to look out for.

That the naval authorities propose shortly to assemble as formidable a fleet as possible in Atlantic waters is evident from the activity which is being displayed in repairing and rearming the old ships and hurrying work on the new ones. The new battleship New Hampshire in receiving her armament and will be at sea in a few weeks. The Minnesota is being rearmed and, even if the work is not hurried in an emergency, the New York, a practically new ship, will be in commission again before long. Three scout ships, the Chester, Birmingham and Salem, have just been added to the navy of the Atlantic coast.

The Chester is a sample. She has proved to be the fastest scout cruiser in any navy. She could race the Lusitania and the Mauretania across the ocean and crowd them hard, although they have 40,000 tons displacement and the Chester but 3,750.

That great moat, 3,000 miles wide, which separates this continent from Europe, is of itself a valuable and important adjunct to the defense of the American Atlantic coast. A hostile fleet fighting off these shores would fight at enormous disadvantage in that it would fight so far from any base. Even the British fleet would feel the hardship, despite its magnificent port of Halifax and its fortified West Indian ports. If a hostile ship of any other nation were disabled there would be no place where she could put in for repairs, no friendly fort under whose guns she could run for protection; whereas an injured American ship always could find refuge and in a few days be ready to take the seas again. So, with the fast scout boats to keep the American commander well informed of the movements of the enemy, it might be that even should the hostile fleet prove to be of overwhelming force, the enemy would find it difficult to force a general engagement. By hanging on the enemy's flanks, cutting off a cruiser now and then, and now and then a supply ship, his fleet might be worn down by attrition.

Question of Supplies.

The question of supplies for a fleet operating three thousand miles from its natural base would be a puzzler for a foreign enemy, even Great Britain, with Canada to fall back on. A vast fleet of supply ships would have to be going and coming all the time to keep the crews fed and to bring fresh supplies of ammunition. Then there would be the great question of coal. Coal is the bread life to a modern fleet. Every day's delay on the American coast would diminish the supply in the bunkers, and that supply must be kept up by the ministrations of a great fleet of colliers, coming and going, and through the tedious and hazardous expedient of coaling at sea. Fast American cruisers would see to it that not all of these supply ships and colliers reached their western destination.

The alternatives of the hostile fleet would be, of course, to seize a base on the American coast. A purely naval expedition could scarcely do this. With the buoys of the harbors removed and the waterways sown with submarine mines; with the excellent coast fortifications which now defend the American harbors sending forth their destructive fire; with an American fleet of nine bttlaships, two armored cruisers, eight protected cruisers, five powerful monitors, thirty-five torpedo boats and destroyers, a fleet of submarines and a large flotilla of small cruisrs theatening and harrassing them from the seaward side, to capture a base on the American coast would be such a job as any hostile nation would remember having attempted, so long as its name remained on the roll of nations.

If Hostiles Brought an Army.

If the hostiles came with an army as well as a fleet—and that is how they would come, if they contemplated making anything more than a mere "demonstration"—they would still find their work cut out for them. No nation could expect to make a successful invasion of the United States with an army of much less than 200,000 men. It took thirty transports to carry the expedition of 16,000 men from Tampa to Cuba in 1898. One can imagine what an immense flotilla it would take to transport an army of 200,000 men across 3,000 miles of water, with all their artillery, ammunition, horses and other impediments.

The army moving to Cuba was going only a short distance from its base of supplies, and fresh supplies could be rushed to it continually in a few days. The army of invasion for America would have to carry in its train a great fleet of storeships or starve. The mobilizing of such an army, the assembling of such a vast fleet of transports and of its guardian fleet of warships, the assembling of the supplies necessary, the embarkation of the troops, etc., would be a work, not of days nor of weeks, but would extend over much time, no matter how well the foreign staffs have got the thing figured out. For the great "human equation" and the happening of unforeseen and unforseeable accidents always make accomplishments in such matters lag far behind theories, however well worked out.

Then the progress of the armada across the ocean would be slow, for it would be governed by the speed of the slowest vessel in the fleet. Swift American vessels would harass it in its progress, and woe to the lagging transport or the one cut out by bold dashes. Arrived on this side there would still remain the task of forcing a landing and of winning a victory after the landing had been effected.

The hostile fleet naturally would first seek out and attempt to destroy the American fleet. But it would not be so easy to destroy such a fleet as the Americans still have on the Atlantic coast, and one which could choose its own place and time of fighting—one which could seek refuge in a safe harbor, protected by heavy forts, or sally out as it saw fit.

There remains the chance that the hostile nation would send its armada to the West Indies and seize a base in Cuba or Porto Rico and make war upon America from there. But this could not be done without a fight, in which the enemy would meet with some loss at least—loss which it would be hard to repair and would mean an increase of time. Every day's increase of time also would mean an increase in the strength of the American fleet on the Atlantic coast. And a hostile power lodged in Porto Rico would still be far from the accomplishment of its objective.

Naval Fighters Available.

Nor did all the naval "talent" sail with "Fighting Bob" to the Pacific.

At Washington is a quiet, modest gentleman named George Dewey, who, though nearly ten years have elapsed since he sailed on that May morning into Manila bay, is still hale and sound and fit to take the seas once more. The admiral now is just turned 70, but Dandolo fought his greatest fight at 80, and Doria at 70 was the naval terror of the Mediterranean.

In spite of his little differences with the president, it is not at all improbable that in case of war, or threatened war, the country again would have the active services of Willard Herbert Brownson (pronounced Bronson). Brownson's executive ability and his neat and clear-cut way of doing things are well known to the navy. Entering the service just at the close of the Civil war, he has seen all sorts of service and has done well everything given him to do. His handling of the gunboat Detroit in that little affair in the bay of Rio de Janeiro during Mello's naval rebellion in 1894 was characteristic of him.

Two merchant ships wanted to go to the docks. The Brazilian admiral said they should not. Admiral Benham, commanding the American fleet, said they should. The Detroit was sent to convey the merchantmen to the "large." Brownson ran his little gunboat between the Brazilians and the merchant ships and placed her alongside a big Brazilian cruiser, which had steamed down upon them. With his men at quarters and his guns shotted, he certainly would have given the cruisers a broadside had not his determined attitude so surprised and overawed the captain of the cruisers that he gave up and wanted to surrender. But Brownson told him that he was not empowered to receive the surrender of any revolted ship of a foreign power; all he was sent to do was to see that the merchantmen got to the

A STUDY OF THE OMAHAS

More of Miss Fletcher's Researches to be Issued by Bureau of Ethnology---Explanation of Endeavors Leading Up to Dawes Bill.

Washington, April 11.—A volume shortly to be published by the Bureau of Ethnology embodying the experiences and researches of Miss Alice C. Fletcher among the Omaha tribe of Indians is certain to be of very considerable general interest throughout the United States as well as of particular concern to the region in which the Omahas have been settled since long before the advent of the whites. Miss Fletcher, who several years ago devised the system of loaning small sums of money to aid Indians in buying land and building houses for themselves, has lived for months at a time among the Omahas and has succeeded in a marked degree in overcoming the aboriginal reserve and arriving at an understanding of the poetical and musical forms of expression that have been handed down from a remote antiquity.

In describing for the first time the conditions under which her work began Miss Fletcher says:

"When I went among the Omahas for scientific study, I found the shadow of the fear of removal lurking at every camp fire. The memory of the enforced transportation of their relatives, the Ponka tribe, from their old home on the Niobrara river, to the then Indian Territory was very fresh in the memory of the people. So many Ponkas had died from the change of climate and the Omahas who had for generations lived where they were on the banks of the Missouri were in terror lest a like fate might as suddenly overtake them.

"No one with a touch of humanity could probe into their pasthistory, beliefs, legends and the like, and ignore the present anxiety. So I temporarily closed my scientific note books and set myself to work to plan some way to help the people. I gathered statistics and tried to show that the people were entitled to own their land and homes individually. I sent a petition on to Washington in 1881. Then I waited and the Indians waited, but no word came. Incredulous that such an appeal could pass unheeded, I started for Washington feeling sure if the facts were known that the cry of the people for their homes would be heeded.

"It is a long story. But, after months of effort, speaking before the committee of congress, before leading people in the parlors of friends, before churches and wherever I could carry the plea for the homes of the Omahas, I secured the passage of a bill which became a law in August, 1882, giving the Omahas their land in severalty. Having secured their land, homes were needed. Hence the plan for small loans, which did good work in its time and place. Then came the matter of education. The homes secured, I then could pursue my researches with an undivided mind. Much of this was carried on incidentally, while I allotted the people under the provisions of the bill giving them their homes.

"The Omaha bill was the forerunner of the Severalty act of 1889—known as the Dawes bill, which extended the provision to other tribes, thus dividing the common tribal land into individual holdings, the United States holding the patent in trust for twenty-five years, free from any incumbrance. But all this is history.

"President Cleveland appointed me among the first five 'special agents' to carry out the provisions of the act of 1887, and under it I allotted two other tribes, and then having need to get my scientific work in shape I resigned and devoted myself to my writing."

As holder of the Thaw fellowship of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology, Harvard university, with which she has been connected since 1882, Miss Fletcher has already brought together, in a popular form, some of the results of her careful study of Indian music in a volume which under the title of "Indian Story and Song" was published two or three years ago by the Boston house of Small, Maynard & Co., and which has already become a recognized classic in the literature of aboriginal music. The expressive Indian songs, one calling upon the dauntless club-brandishing protagonist of the Omahas in their troubles with the Sioux, another displaying the anti-race suicide sentiments of a philosopher who has noted the care with which a ground sparrow protects the progeny in the nest, a third consisting of the notes of a young lover watching his inamorata draw water from a spring, these and the rest, carefully harmonized for the piano, have become familiar in many American homes. The new volume, issued under governmental auspices will give more broadly the facts and conclusions derived from an unusually intimate acquaintance with the Indian.

Not only has Miss Fletcher written extensively on American archaeological topics but as president of the American Folk Lore society she has been in a position to give encouragement to the publication of literature concerning the tribes of the middle and far west. She has lately taken especial interest in the popular success of the fascinating story of a little group of five boys at the Omaha Mission school, the book called "The Middle Five," and proclaimed by another enthusiast as an American Indian "Tom Brown at Rugby." This book was written by Francis LaFlesche, an Omaha, who has been a collaborator since 1883, while the cover and frontispiece were drawn by Angel de Cora, a Winnebago girl, who has since won her way as an illustrator.

The habitat of the Omahas, in historical times, as is well known covered the state of Nebraska which was ceded to the United States government with the reservation of a certain tract for the use of the Indians. At the time of the scene of the Omaha Indian's story the members of the tribe were living near the Missouri river in three villages. In those days as Mr. LaFlesche recalls, the Missouri was the only highway of commerce, up and down which, laden with supplies for the mission came the puffing little steamboats from "the town of the Red-Hair," as St. Louis was called by the Indians in memory of the auburn locks of Governor Clark.

As showing the wealth of sentiment among the native people of the region Miss Fletcher quotes Mr. LaFlesche's recollection of the conditions in his boyhood:

"The white people speak of the country at this period as a wilderness, as though it was an empty tract without human interest or history. To us Indians it was as clearly defined then as it is today; we knew the boundaries of tribal lands; those of our friends and those of our friends and those of our foes; we were familiar with every stream, the contour of every hill, and each peculiar feature of the landscape and its tradition. It was our home, the scene of our history, and we loved it as our country."

SOCIALISM AND UNEMPLOYED.

Much ado and discussion has been created in this city within the past few days as a result of the utterances of our mayor and also our chief of police, both of whom are under the impression that the reason that there are so many unemployed men in this vicinity is due to the (to them) fact that these men are shiftless, and lazy and won't work.

Both of these gentlemen gave utterance to the sentement, "that any honest man can get work who wants it." As a result of the criticism recently evoked towards the "Bethel Home" as a breeder of "tramps and importer of criminals from all over the country," our best citizens have evolved a plan of making the men saw wood in the practical sense of the term, in the hope of turning away our unholy and shiftless importations. But to the surprise of many of these gentlemen after a week or two of woodling out, "150 men" were at last accounts sawing wood and this in spite of the fact that the job is hard and the pay if measured in dollars and cents, does not total the sum of five cents, if have reference to the actual cost to the Bethel of the food given in return for the service performed.) I venture to state that this idea of sawing wood, whoever, may have evolved the suggestion, certainly is a paying proposition to the owner of this private woodyard. Think of this for a moment my Worthy reader, an hour of hard productive labor rendered in exchange for the magnificent sum of five cents.

We are informed that the "line is thinning out." Perhaps it is. Why not take into consideration the fact that some of these men have wives and children who also must be fed. I presume the dependents of such men can live on "wind." Ye Gods, what a mockery that in this day and age of so-called enlightenment—an age that has evolved automobiles and electric yachts for the tramps and never do wells in "high society," should permit the under dogs, those belonging to the lower strata, to starve in a land of plenty.

Were there not enough to go round for all, there would be some reason and cause for the famine that is to be found in the homes of our poor. 200,000 unemployed in New York city, 100,000 in Chicago, 2,000,000 in the United States. Furthermore, many of those who are at work not putting in full time, and we bewail the fate that has befallen our once glorious city, that it should so suddenly and without apparent cause have become the home of the outcasts of the rest of the world. Awful to contemplate, is it not? Our most worthy chief of police has even made the discovery that some of these fellows "have come all the way from the Pacific coast" to partake of our boundless generosity. What is Duluth coming to, anyway, that our noble citizenship should be visited with this pestilence?

Next we will hear of will in all probability be that some awful "anarchist" or black-hand fiend has arrived in our midst to destroy the peace that now reigns in our city—the beautiful harmony that now exists between capital and labor.

A truce to this talk. What a farce our whole system of civilization is. The few have too much, and they the least worthy, if we measure worth from the standpoint of the Great Teacher as promulgated in the Good Book. The many, and they the real producers of all the physical wealth, live from hand to mouth, always suffering, always in fear of what the morrow has in store for them. It is not about time the rational man sit up and give study to the economic problems that we have confronting us in this day and age?

Socialism would not take from the few and give to the many; nor would it take from the many and give to the few. What Socialism demands is that every human being ought and should have an equal opportunity to provide himself with the material necessities, and demonstrates that by mutual co-operation in mine, mill, factory and workshop, on the part of the workers, vesting title to ownership of the material resources in the hands of society, that the equal rights of each individual can be safeguarded. Social copartnership, social production, social administration, that in substance is the aim of Socialism.

M. KAPLAN.

HOW WOULD WE GUARD THE ATLANTIC SEABOARD

wharves in safety, and that he proposed to do.

During the war with Spain, Brownson commanded the Yankee. He is rather short and spare of build, pleasing and urbane of deportment, swarthy and dark of complexion. That he is an able commander no one disputes, and that he is decided in his views he recently has shown. He is a New York man by birth, hailing from Lyons, up the state.

Other Officers.

Then there is Admiral Converse, who is just now prominent in connection with the dispute about the propel water line for battleships. Sims, opposed to Converse on the water-line question, is younger, rather more dashing and of less rank, but of talents which only need an opportunity to make a name for himself. Commander Fullama, now at the naval training station, Neworp, is another officer who is well known in the navy. He has written considerably on naval subjects and is highly regarded. Capt. Nazro, now at the Boston navy yards, is an officer of much experience, a good record, and in case of war probably would receive an important command and give good account of his trust.

Capt. John C. Fremont, who now commands the new battleship Mississippi, is the son of the famous general of the same name, and if war came and he had a show in it, undoubtedly would add to the lustre of his family name. He did excellent and adventurous work in the Philippines and has won golden opinions as commander of the Mississippi. Fremont is a companionable person, not a bit "stuck up" because of his parentage, and a hard worker at his profession. Once, in the war with Spain, while Fremont was in command of a tug on the Cuban coast, he landed his men on the beach and indulged them in a game of baseball within sight of the astonished Spaniards.

Commander Edward Simpson, in command of the torpedo experimental ship Montgomery, has long since been looked upon as one of the solid officers of the service. Ackerman of the cruiser Prairie has an established reputation and a good one.

A bearer of a distinguished name who would be likely to be heard from in case of war is Lieut. Commander Thomas Washington, in command of the Dolphin, the secretary of the navy's "yacht." He is the son of Judge Washington of North Carolina and a representative of a branch of the family of the immortal George which went to that state. Washington is a young man of most charming and agreeable manners, as well as a good sailor and officer. His men always are devoted to him, for he has the art of commanding in a quiet and unobtrusive way. It is a trifle remarkable, but in his facial appearance Washington has a striking resemblance to the father of his country. With powdered hair and quene and a continental uniform he would bear a facial resemblance to his great collateral ancestor which no one would fail to notice. But whereas George was over six feet tall and spare of build, Thomas is of medium height and rather inclined to stoutness.

Clover One of the Best.

Admiral Richardson Clover should not be overlooked in the list of "talent" now on the Atlantic coast. He is one of the wealthy officers of the navy as well as one of its best officers. He is well known in Washington society and might, had he so desired, long ago have given up the arduous profession of the navy and spent his time in ease and luxury. But in spite of all temptations he has stuck to his chosen profession, taking any duty which came along and working hard. A good type of the younger and "dashing" officer is George R. Evans, a Boston man by birth. Evans commanded a tug on the Cuban coast during the Spanish war, and with difficulty restrained himself from taking Morro Castle with it. Evans is not only a good officer, but he is every inch a sailor, and in these days of steam it is a sight worth seeing to watch him handle a sailing vessel. When he was in the coast survey he used to sail the old schooner Eagle among the shoals of Nantucket and Vineyard sounds in a truly masterful way.

Commander William J. Maxwell, now in command of the gunboat Marietta, is also an officer of varied experience, well known ability and well thought of in the service, as is also Commander Dombaugh, who commands the monitor Arkansas. Capt. Badger, now at the naval academy at Annapolis, undoubtedly would be given an important command at once should war be threatened—and he would deserve it.

These are only a few names of officers picked at random from a list of men bearing the commission of Uncle Sam now on the Atlantic coast and well qualified to take any naval command. They are only mentioned as samples of officers now on duty on this side and ready for business in case any nation thinks it wants a scrap with the United States while the big fleet is in the Pacific.

The younger officers have not been mentioned at all, but there are a lot of them eager to win their spurs and able to do so. The large fleet of torpedo boats and destroyers, of submarines and small gunboats now in the navy has given these young gentlemen an opportunity which the junior officers of the navy did not have a few years ago—an opportunity to practice self-reliance and exercise the art of command while still in the "flush of youth." There is something preeminently fitting in the conjunction of a young officer and a torpedo boat. The combination is good for both of them and brings out their most effective qualities.

No reference has been made to a long list of older officers of high rank and great experience, who can be found aplenty in Washington, and who have no superiors in the world as fleet commanders.

The "Man Behind the Gun."

So much for the ships and officers; and for "the man behind the gun."

It certainly did take a lot of sailors to man the fleet of Admiral Evans; and for manning the warships in the Pacific before the Atlantic fleet reached there a lot more bluejackets were drawn on. But some thousand of sailors and marines are still left in the service on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, and the training school at Newport will graduate this year seven thousand man-of-war's-men to add to the visible supply supply of bluejackets. This graduating class at the Newport training station is the largest ever turned out there and probably the largest even graduated from any institution in the world.

With the sailors already on duty on the east coast, with the seven thousand to be added from the Newport training station, and with the naval reserves and the seafaring population of the coast to draw upon, it ought not to be difficult to supply the war fleet on the Atlantic side, in case of necessity, with men a larger part of whom would be trained and experienced in the handling of modern guns and modern men-of-war. The present system of firing the guns of an American man-of-war is such that in three months a green farmer's boy from the interior can become an expert marksman. The work of the naval reserves in the Spanish war and the constant training to which the organization has since been subjected are proof of the value of that resource in time of need. Many of the officers and men of the reserve are graduates either of Annapolis or of the Newport training school.

It will be seen that in neither men nor ships was the Atlantic coast entirely denuded when the great fleet sailed away to the Pacific. The growth of the American navy has been so great, and yet so quiet, in the last ten years that few civilians realize what a really powerful maritime power the United States is at present.

OUTPUT OF CRIPPLE CREEK

Shares Gain for the Month of March—Low Freight and Treatment Charges Create Activity in Low Grade Ore.

Cripple Creek, Colo., April 11.—The gold output for March amounted to $1,385,177.20, an inmcrease over February of $132,864.20. The total tonnage reached 61,062 tons, an increase over February of 2,840 tons, which is accounted for by the extremely low freight and treatment charges, which were inaugurated last February by the United States Reduction & Refining company, which has caused many dumps to be moved and the shipment of a vast quantity of low-grade ore from mines which have not been worked for several years. The following table gives the individual treatment as made by mill and smelter, as given out by the company's officials:

	Tons.	Values.
U. S. R. & R.	16,420	$426,920
Smelters	3,720	245,520
Portland	8,000	176,000
Golden Cycle	22,132	489,117
Isabella	3,575	23,250
Ironclad	3,75	7,125
Blue Flag	1,000	4,000
Wild Horse	800	2,400
W. P. H.	1,550	10,550
Total	61,062	$1,385,177

The difference in extraction by the old methods of cyaniding and the new roasting and cyaniding process is being clearly shown through the operations of Norris & Wright, who are working over the tailings from the Old Gold & Globe mill, torn down years ago, and who are getting returns of better than $16 to the ton. Eleven tons from the mill dump were sent out today, and values higher than those carried in a former shipment, which ran $16.20 to the ton, are expected.

The Gold & Globe mill was located below the portal of the first drainage tunnel, on the banks of Cripple creek. In the early days of the camp it was the mill to which the late Winfield S. Stratton hauled in wagons the ore taken from the famous Independence mine on Battle mountain. The larger portion of the ore was grass-root mineral, carrying large streaks of sylvanite, but quite a little of the gold got away in sliding over the plates at the plant.

Stratton is said to have remarked that he knew he was losing a big percentage in extraction, and it is believed today that more than $300,000 worth of gold lies along the bed of the creek below the mill. Operations were discontinued at the plant in 1895. Several years after the mill was torn down and the large amount of gold that was lost can be imagined by the good returns being obtained by Norris & Wright.

A portion of the dump has been washed away, and the black and red sand along the banks of the creek show that the tailings have been carried a long distance down the cañon. As high as 20 per cent extraction is being obtained in the Cripple creek district today by the improved cyaniding process.

FIVE FURNACES OPERATED

from Mammoth about twelve miles. He found them pushing prospect work at both camps. At the Calumet & Arizona mine two gasoline hoists were in operation. He did not ascertain the depths of the shafts, but one of them is yielding fine copper sulphides and the local management informed him that the mines are looking very promising. At the McKenzie mines the ore bodies have not been reached, but a good force of miners are at work in the prospect shafts and should soon demonstrate the value of the property. Work at the Sibly group, situated on the Copper creek a short distance east of the Calumet & Arizona is also in progress with a good force of men, but Mr. Chamberlain did not visit that property, hence does not know what the outlook for paying ore bodies is. Mr. Silby still has a force of about 100 Apaches working on the automobile road he is constructing between Mammoth and his mines. About four miles of this road remains uncompleted. It is a fine piece of work. The Calumet & Arizona people have built a branch road from this line over to their camp. It will be a fine freight road when completed. About 300 men are employed at the three camps above named.

the ground is thoroughly explored. The spur of the Arizona Commercial railroad to the dump of the Great Eastern shaft has been completed and it is expected to begin shipments from this shaft as from the Limestone and Black Oxide at once. Shipments have been in progress for some time from the latter two.

The Superior & Boston has through the Gila Valley Bank & Trust company anticipated by thirty days the payment of $100,000 due the original owners of the properties acquired by the company something over a year ago. Forty-six residents of Globe will share in the distribution of the money, the largest portion of it going to Pat Rose, J. B. Newman and Harry Sultan. During the week previous the Miami Copper company made its final payment of approximately $125,000 on the properties acquired at Red Springs. J. B. Newman and Philip Oates were the largest beneficiaries.

Since the installation of the new mine equipment the force of miners employed by the Miami Copper company has been more than doubled. Sinking is in progress and considerable lateral development work is being done on the third and fifth levels, all three crosscuts on the later level are still in ore. It is understood that arrangements will soon be made for the installation of a 1,000-ton concentrator, which will be erected by the company. Patents are expected soon for all the claims purchased by the company.

Between forty-five and fifty tons of ore are being shipped daily from the Black Hawk mine to the Old Dominion smelter and the company is more than paying for its development work and ore extraction from the returns. The new shaft on the Eureka claim is being sunk at a better rate now, owing to the recent installation of drills in the shaft.

The National Mining Exploration company sent a carload of ore to the Old Dominion smelter during the week from the west drift on the last level, where the Black Hawk vein is being explored. All of the ore was taken out in process of development. Good progress is being made in the winze which is being sunk in the ore.

The Gibson company has begun lateral development on the fifth and sixth levels of the mine, which were recently reached by the incline shaft. Good progress is also being made in the three tunnels along the Summit ledge.

mines to the common laborer in his own property.

Great Changes in Equipment.

It is a notable fact that the heavy machinery equipment of the Lake Superior mines, mills and smelters has shown great changes within the past ten years. The local foundries and machinery firms have more than held their own, and in addition to supplying local demands, have built up a good business in the Western states, Canada and Mexico, and have established the beginnings of a promising export trade to South America, South Africa and other mining fields. Some of the Western manufacturers have succeeded in establishing an assured footing in the Lake field, this being more particularly true of some of the specialties in ore-dressing machinery, notably the Wilfley table, which is now in quite general use in this district. The Calumet & Hecla arranged to build its own Wilfley tables, to the number of several hundred, paying a fixed royalty on each machine constructed, to save freight charges. In the line of heavy mining machinery, such as hoists and air-compressors, ten years has seen a revolution. The big firms that formerly enjoyed almost a monopoly of this work are now securing the small end of the trade, and the Nordberg Company of Milwaukee easily holds the lead. Bruno V. Nordberg a Finn., who is at the head of the Nordberg works, is a mechanical genius, who has revolutionized the designing and construction of heavy mining and milling machinery, and his steeple-compound stamp, now found in most of the Lake mills, has nearly doubled the crushing capacity of steam stamps, by the simple but admirable device of superimposing one cylinder upon another in a compounded stamp-head. The Champion mill experimented for several years with cross-compound stamps, but finally discarded them for the steeple-compound. In theory the cross-compounding was a success, but in practice it was not. The theory was perfect, but in practice the system called for the running of four heads as a unit, and this was found unsatisfactory.

In the matter of surface equipment of shafts, the decade past also has witnessed a revolution. The steel shafthouses and rockhouses that were seen occassionally in 1898 are now in almost universal use. None but the smaller mines, that must economize at the expense of the future, erect wooden headgear at their shafts at present. The Wisconsin Bridge & Iron company has led in the introduction of steel shafthouses, and also in the building of stumpmills with steel frames. A wooden mill has not been built in the Lake district for nearly ten years and the old wooden mills of the Calumet & Hecla, once the largest frame buildings in the world, have been torn down, in sections, and replaced by steel, the work requiring about five years. It is obvious that the day of wood, for either shafthouses or mills, has passed forever in the Lake copper region.

Timbering Changes.

Another change of importance, which has but fairly started, but must gain increased momentum in the future, is found in the item of timbering. In the beginning of the Lake copper industry, two-thirds of a century ago, the miner had but to exchange his pick or hammer for an axe, and step a few feet from the shaft into the forest primeval, where magnificent pine trees afforded wood of the very best grade and most easily worked. With time the forest receded, and about twenty years ago, the rapid disappearance of the Michigan pine caused the most farseeing of the mine operators to take heed of the future. Hardwood, then most abundant, was substituted for many underground uses, and the Calumet & Hecla, Tamarack and Osceola mines invested heavily in timber lands, in the upper peninsula of Michigan. These have been husbanded with care, but it is evident that in time they will fail to meet the heavy requirements of the mines, hence experiments have been made with other materials. The Baltic, Champion and Trimountain mines of the Copper Range Consolidated company use a system of dry-walling, by which worthless rock broken in the mine is built into walls without mortar, affording excellent suport for the depleted stopes, and greatly reducing the cost of timbering, as well as saving the cost of hoisting barren rock to surface, saving the space that would be required for its disposal. The Calumet & Hecla and several of the Bigelow mines have experimented with concrete for shaft work. As a foundation for skip tracks it seems too rigid, leading to unduly heavy wear upon rails and wheels, but for other uses it seems satisfactory. It is obvious that cement and concrete must be used underground, as well as on surface, by reason of the increasing scarcity and cost of wood.

is not at all unlikely the Oliver will materialize into as big a mine as the Mag.

"The Shattuck has a great property and there is no reason why they should not be able to produce 1,000 tons monthly at a fair cost. It is surprising why they are delaying the building of a smelter as long as they have, even though a good percentage will have been saved in cost of construction. The annual report, though it does not go into the details of the cost of production, etc., is such that the stockholders think they are entitled to know, and shows that during the eleven months the company was producing through the Copper Queen smelters the gross receipts were $1,500,000. From reliable information received, this was with an average production of about thirty-six tons monthly.

"While cost of production was a trifle high last year, with its own smelter the Shattuck will be able to put copper on the market for around 8 cents. Stock of the Shattuck is closely held."

extraction was abandoned because of the low prices of metals, leasers have been taking out the narrow seams of ore on a royalty basis. During the latter part of the year considerable ore was taken out from the 700-foot level of the Spy ground, the grade running between 18 per cent and 20 per cent copper. A winze was sunk fifty feet below the level, and sinking in ore is still in progress. A large tonnage of copper-iron ore is also available on the 700 level. On the $50 level 182 feet of drifting and cross-cutting and 63 feet of raising was done.

The Bullion Beck and Champion in Tintic has declared a dividend of $60,000 and the Utah mine, at Fish Springs, one of $3,000. The Bullion Beck dividend comes from the sale of ground to the Centennial-Eureka company.

amount totaled only $210,000. To date the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine has yielded dividends of $9,996,000 on a $3,000,000 capitalization—an excellent showing. Five gold and silver mines in the newer districts of Nevada came forward this year with dividends of $360,500, making the total since their organization $1,310,950 on an issued capitalization of $4,005,000. The labor troubles at Goldfield have also been responsible for the interruption of dividends in that quarter.

Only one quicksilver mine in California has declared a dividend this year, amounting to $50,000, making a total to date of $1,010,000 on a $500,000 capitalization.

Five metallurgical works are credited with dividends this year, amounting to $5,738,866, making their total since organization $75,505,309, on the outstanding share capital of $213,782,250. The American Smelting & Refining company takes the lead in this group having declared this year $3,250,000 (at the rate of 3 per cent on the common stock and 3½ per cent on the preferred), making the total to date $41,381,553. The present outstanding capital of the "smelter trust" is $100,000,000, equally divided in common and preferred stock. The United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company has declared dividends of $1,201,360 this year (being 2 per cent on the common stock and 3½ per cent on the preferred), making a total of $4,877,941 to date on the issued capitalization of $41,846,650.

and will include a Nordberg first-motion hoist, a new compressor and increased boiler capacity. An electric pump is to be placed in the station on the 700-foot level, where there is also a tank holding 10,000 gallons of water which was completed before operations were suspended several months ago. The Butte-Milwaukee is controlled by the Butte & New York company, holding company, and work is proceeding under direction of the latter.

The Raven Mining company is pushing work on its property as fast as possible and expects to reach copper earlier than anticipated, because of the Raven shaft being inclined, brings the 900 level at a vertical depth of about 724 feet on the vein and the 1,000 level at a vertical depth of about 874 feet. Plans are now being considerd which may result in sinking the shaft vertically below the 1,100, as the vein shows a tendency toward straigthening up. This plan has been a success in other properties. The company is installing its big new engine, which is capable of operating to a depth of 2,500 feet.

Another vein has been cut in the property of the Davis-Daly Estates Copper company. It was found through the east drift from the 1,000-foot level, and its extent has not been ascertained because almost at the beginning a 2-foot shoot of good ore was cut, and that is now being opened. The ore assays 40 per cent in zinc and contains little else, but that class of ore is worth $15 a ton to the company, and if there is enough of it it will be mined and shipped. This vein strikes northwest and southeast, like the one opened south of the shaft.

For the purpose of taking over the copper properties of the Daily brothers of Wickes, a company has been organized, with a capitalization of $1,150,000. It is understood that the transfer of the property has been made, and John Berkin, manager of the Raven Mining company, who is largely interested in the Wickes proposition, is now in the East in an effort to interest capital in the enterprise.

The property consists of five patented claims, embracing an area of about forty acres, in what is generally known as the Corbin district, about fifty-six miles east of Butte. It is located immediately on the line of the Great Northern railroad, and is also reached by a branch of the Northern Pacific railroad.

The development up to the present time consists of a verticle shaft to a depth of 340 feet, on what is known as the Atlas ledge, and the ground has been explored by crosscuts and drifts on the 100, 200 and 300-foot levels. There is practically about 2,000 feet of underground work. On the Atlas vein an ore shoot has been opened up on the 200 and 300-foot levels for a distance of about 400 feet, and the end of the ore body has not yet been reached. The ledge varies in width from eleven to sixteen feet.

By a crosscut from the Atlas ledge, on the 300-foot level, a parallel vein, known as the Steamboat, has been opened up, the vein being equally large and carrying a similar quantity of ore. In driving the crosscut from the Atlas to the Steamboat vein, two mineralized brecciated zones were encountered, each more than twenty feet in width. Assays from these zones showed from 1 to 2 per cent copper and two to four ounces of silver. It is considered highly probable that depth will prove thees zones to develop into large bodies of low-grade copper ore.

The ore in both the Atlas and Steamboat veins is a copper sulphide, carrying some lead and occasional traces of zinc. It carries considerable silver and will average between 40 and 80 cents in gold. Assays taken across the veins, on the 200 and 300-foot levels, show between 3 and 4 per cent copper, nine to ten ounces of silver and about 40 cents in gold to the ton.

A STUDY OF THE OMAHAS

More of Miss Fletcher's Researches to be Issued by Bureau of Ethnology---Explanation of Endeavors Leading Up to Dawes Bill.

Washington, April 11.—A volume shortly to be published by the Bureau of Ethnology embodying the experiences and researches of Miss Alice C. Fletcher among the Omaha tribe of Indians is certain to be of very considerable general interest throughout the United States as well as of particular concern to the region in which the Omahas have been settled since long before the advent of the whites. Miss Fletcher, who several years ago devised the system of loaning small sums of money to aid Indians in buying land and building houses for themselves, has lived for months at a time among the Omahas and has succeeded in a marked degree in overcoming the aboriginal reserve and arriving at an understanding of the poetical and musical forms of expression that have been handed down from a remote antiquity.

In describing for the first time the conditions under which her work began Miss Fletcher says:

"When I went among the Omahas for scientific study, I found the shadow of the fear of removal lurking at every camp fire. The memory of the enforced transportation of their relatives, the Ponka tribe, from their old home on the Niobrara river, to the then Indian Territory was very fresh in the memory of the people. So many Ponkas had died from the change of climate and the Omahas even had for generations lived where they were on the banks of the Missouri were in terror lest a like fate might as speedily overtake them.

"No one with a touch of humanity could probe into their past history, beliefs, legends and the like, and ignore the present anxiety. So I temporarily closed my scientific note books and set myself to work to plan some way to help the people. I gathered statistics and strived to show that the people were entitled to own their land and homes individually. I sent a petition on to Washington in 1881. Then I waited and the Indians waited, but no word came. Incredulous that such an appeal could pass unheeded, I started for Washington feeling sure if the facts were known that the cry of the people for their homes would be heeded.

"It is a long story. But, after months of effort, speaking before the committee of congress, before leading people in the parlors of friends, before churches and wherever I could carry the plea for the homes of the Omahas, I secured the passage of a bill which became a law in August, 1882, giving the Omahas their land in severalty. Having secured their land, homes were needed. Hence the plan for small loans, which did good work in its time and place. Then came the matter of education. The funds secured, I then could pursue my researches with an undivided mind. Much of this was carried on incidentally, while I allotted the people under the provisions of the bill giving them their homes.

"The Omaha bill was the forerunner of the Severalty act of 1889—known as the Dawes bill, which extended the provision to other tribes, thus dividing the common tribal land into individual holdings, the United States holding the patent in trust for twenty-five years, free from any incumbrance. But all this is history.

"President Cleveland appointed me among the first five 'special agents' to carry out the provisions of the act of 1887, and under it I allotted two other tribes, and then having need to get my scientific work in shape I resigned and devoted myself to my writing."

As holder of the Thaw fellowship of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology, Harvard university, with which she has been connected since 1882, Miss Fletcher has already brought together, in a popular form, some of the results of her careful study of Indian music in a volume which under the title of "Indian Story and Song" was published two or three years ago by the Boston house of Small, Maynard & Co., and which has already become a recognized classic in the literature of aboriginal music. The expressivo Indian songs, one calling upon the dauntless club-brandishing protagonist of the Omahas in their troubles with the Sioux, another displaying the anti-race suicide sentiments of a philosopher who has noted the care with which a ground sparrow protects the progeny in the nest, a third consisting of the notes of a young lover watching his inamorata draw water from a spring, these and the rest, carefully harmonized for the piano, have become familiar in many American homes. The new volume, issued under governmental auspices will give more broadly the facts and conclusions derived from an unusually intimate acquaintance with the Indian.

Not only has Miss Fletcher written extensively on American archaeological topics but as president of the American Folk Lore society she has been in a position to give encouragement to the publication of literature concerning the tribes of the middle and far west. She has lately taken especial interest in the popular success of the fascinating story of a little group of five boys at the Omaha Mission school, the book called "The Middle Five," and proclaimed by another enthusiast as an American Indian "Tom Brown at Rugby." This book was written by Francis LaFlesche, an Omaha, who has been a collaborator since 1885, while the cover and frontispiece were drawn by Angel de Cora, a Winnebago girl, who has since won her way as an illustrator.

The habitat of the Omahas, in historical times, as is well known covered the state of Nebraska which was ceded to the United States government with the reservation of a certain tract for the use of the Indians. At the time of the scene of the Omaha Indian's story the members of the tribe were living near the Missouri river in three villages. In those days as Mr. LaFlesche recalls, the Missouri was the only highway of commerce, up and down which, laden with supplies for the mission came the puffing little steamboats from "the town of the Red-Hair," as St. Louis was called by the Indians in memory of the auburn locks of Governor Clark.

As showing the wealth of sentiment among the native people of the region Miss Fletcher quotes Mr. LaFlesche's recollection of the conditions in his boyhood:

"The white people speak of the country at this period as a wilderness, as though it was an empty tract without human interest or history. To us Indians it was as clearly defined then as it is today; we knew the boundaries of tribal lands; those of our friends and those of our friends and those of our foes; we were familiar with every stream, the contour of every hill, and each peculiar feature of the landscape and its tradition. It was our home, the scene of our history, and we loved it as our country."

SOCIALISM AND UNEMPLOYED.

Much ado and discussion has been created in this city within the past few days as a result of the utterances of our mayor and also our chief of police, both of whom are under the impression that the reason that there are so many unemployed men in this vicinity is due to the to them: fact that these men are shiftless, and lazy and won't work.

Both of these gentlemen gave utterance to the statement, "that any honest man can get work who wants it." As a result of the criticism recently evoked towards the "Bethel Home" as a breeder of "tramps and importer of criminals from all over the country," our best citizens have evolved a plan of making the men saw wood in the practical sense of the term, in the hope of turning away our unholy and shiftless importations. Due to the surprise of many of these gentlemen the work of weeding out the "10 men" were at last accounts sawing wood and this in spite of the fact that the job is hard and the pay if measured in dollars and cents, does not total the cost of the meals which have reference to the actual cost to the Bethel of the food given in return for the service performed. I venture to state that this idea of sawing wood, whoever, may have evolved the suggestion, certainly is a paying proposition to the owner of this private woodyard. Think of this for a moment my worthy reader, an hour of hard productive labor rendered in exchange for the magnificent sum of five cents.

We are informed that the "line is thinning out." Perhaps it is. Why not take into consideration the fact that some of these men have wives and children who also must be fed. I presume the dependents of such men can live on "wind." Ye Gods, what a mockery that in this real age of so-called enlightenment—an age that has evolved automobiles and electric yachts for the tramps and never do wells in "high society," should permit the under dogs, these belonging to the lower strata, to starve in a land of plenty.

Were there not enough to go round for all, there would be some reason and cause for the famine that is to be found in the homes of our poor. 200,000 unemployed in New York city, 100,000 in Chicago, 2,000,000 in the United States. Furthermore, many of those who are at work not putting in full time, and we bewail the fate that has befallen our once glorious city, that it should so suddenly and without apparent cause have become the home of the outcasts of the rest of the world. Awful to contemplate, is it not? Our most worthy chief of police has even made the discovery that some of these fellows "have come all the way from the Pacific coast" to partake of our boundless generosity. What is Duluth coming to, anyway, that our noble citizenship should be visited with this pestilence?

Next we will hear of will in all probability be that some awful "anarchist" or black-hand fiend has arrived in our mids: to destroy the peace that now reigns in our city—the beautiful harmony that now exists between capital and labor.

A truce to this talk. What a farce our whole system of civilization is. The few have too much, and they the least worthy, if we measure worth from the standpoint of the Great Teacher as promulgated in the Good Book. The many, and they the real producers of all the physical wealth, live from hand to mouth, always suffering, always in fear of what the morrow has in store for them. It is not about time the rational man sit up and give study to the economic problems that we have confronting us in this day and age?

Socialism would not take from the few and give to the many; nor would it take from the many and give to the few. What Socialism demands is that every human being ought and should have an equal opportunity to provide himself with the material necessities, and demonstrates that by mutual co-operation in mine, mill, factory and workshop, on the part of the workers, vesting title to ownership of the material resources in the hands of society, that the equal rights of each individual can be safeguarded. Social copartnership, social production, social administration, that in substance is the aim of Socialism.

M. KAPLAN.

wharves in safety, and that he proposed to do.

During the war with Spain, Brownson commanded the Yankee. He is rather short and spare of build, pleasing and urbane of deportment, swarthy and dark of complexion. That he is an able commander no one disputes and that he is decided in his views he recently has shown. He is a New York man by birth, hailing from Lyons, up the state.

Other Officers.

Then there is Admiral Converse, who is just now prominent in connection with the dispute about the propet water line for battleships. Sims, opposed to Converse on the water-line question, is younger, rather more dashing and of less rank, but of talents which only need an opportunity to make a name for himself. Commander Fullam, now at the naval training station, Neworp, is another officer who is well known in the navy. He has written considerably on naval subjects and is highly regarded. Capt. Nazro, now at the Boston navy yards, is an officer of much experience, a good seaman, and in case of war probably would receive an important command and give good account of his trust.

Capt. John C. Fremont, who now commands the new battleship Mississippi, is the son of the famous general of the same name, and if war came and he had a show in it, undoubtedly would add to the lustre of his family name. He did excellent and adventurous work in the Philippines and has won golden opinions as commander of the Mississippi. Fremont is a companionable person, not a bit "stuck up" because of his parentage, and a hard worker at his profession. Once, in the war with Spain, while Fremont was in command of a tug on the Cuban coast, he landed his men on the beach and indulged them in a game of baseball within sight of the astonished Spaniards.

Commander Edward Simpson, in command of the torpedo experimental ship Montgomery, has long since been looked upon as one of the solid officers of the service. Ackerman of the cruiser Prairie has an established reputation and a good one.

A bearer of a distinguished name who would be likely to be heard from in case of war is Lieut. Commander Thomas Washington, in command of the Dolphin, the secretary of the navy's "yacht." He is the son of Judge Washington of North Carolina and a representattive of a branch of the family of the immortal George which went to that state. Washington is a young man of most charming and agreeable manners, as well as a good sailor and officer. His men always are devoted to him, for he has the art of commanding in a quiet and unobtrusive way. It is a trifle remarkable, but in his facial appearance Washington has a striking resemblance to the father of his country. With powdered hair and queue and a continental unlform he would bear a facial resemblance to his great collateral ancestor which no one would fail to notice. But whereas George was over six feet tall and spare of build, Thomas is of medium height and rather inclined to stoutness.

Clover One of the Best.

Admiral Richardson Clover should not be overlooked in the list of "talent" now on the Atlantic coast. He is one of the wealthy officers of the navy as well as one of its best officers. He is well known in Washington society and might, had he so desired, long ago have given up the arduous profession of the navy and spent his time in ease and luxury. But in spite of all temptations he has stuck to his chosen profession, taking any duty which came along and working hard. A good type of the younger and "dashing" officer is George R. Evans, a Boston man by birth. Evans commanded a tug on the Cuban coast during the Spanish war, and with difficulty restrained himself from taking Morro Castle with it. Evans is not only a good officer, but he is every inch a sailor, and in these days of steam it is a sight worth seeing to watch him handle a sailing vessel. When he was in the coast survey he used to sail the old schooner Eagle among the shoals of Nantucket and Vineyard sounds in a truly masterful way.

Commander William J. Maxwell, now in command of the gunboat Marietta, is also an officer of varied experience, well known ability and well thought of in the service, as is also Commander Dombaugh, who commands the monitor Arkansas. Capt. Badger, now at the naval academy at Annapolis, undoubtedly would be given an important command at once should war be threatened—and he would deserve it.

These are only a few names of officers picked at random from a list of men bearing the commission of Uncle Sam now on the Atlantic coast and well qualified to take any naval command. They are only mentioned as samples of officers now on duty on this side and ready for business in case any nation thinks it wants a scrap with the United States while the big fleet is in the Pacific.

The younger officers have not been mentioned at all, but there are a lot of them eager to win their spurs and able to do so. The large fleet of torpedo boats and destroyers, of submarines and small gunboats now in the navy has given these young gentlemen an opportunity which the junior officers of the navy did not have a few years ago—an opportunity to practice self-reliance and exercise the art of command while still in the "flush of youth." There is something preeminently fitting in the conjunction of a young officer and a torpedo boat. The combination is good for both of them and brings out their most effective qualities.

No reference has been made to a long list of older officers of high rank and great experience, who can be found aplenty in Washington, and who have no superiors in the world as fleet commanders.

The "Man Behind the Gun."

So much for the ships and officers; and for "the man behind the gun."

It certainly did take a lot of sailors to man the fleet of Admiral Evans; and for manning the warships in the Pacific before the Atlantic fleet reached there a lot more bluejackets were drawn on. But some thousand of sailors and marines are still left in the service on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, and the training school at Newport will graduate this year seven thousand man-of-war's-men to add to the visible supply of bluejackets. This graduating class at the Newport training station is the largest ever turned out there and probably the largest even graduated from any institution in the world.

With the sailors already on duty on the east coast, with the seven thousand to be added from the Newport training station, and with the naval reserves and the seafaring population of the coast to draw upon, it ought not to be difficult to supply the war fleet on the Atlantic side, in case of necessity, with men a larger part of whom would be trained and experienced in the handling of modern guns and modern men-of-war. The present system of firing the guns of an American man-of-war is such that in three months a green farmer's boy from the interior can become an expert marksman. The work of the naval reserves in the Spanish war and the constant training to which the organization has since been subjected are proof of the value of that resource in time of need. Many of the officers and men of the reserve are graduates either of Annapolis or of the Newport training school.

It will be seen that in neither men nor ships was the Atlantic coast entirely denuded when the great fleet sailed away to the Pacific. The growth of the American navy has been so great, and yet so quiet, in the last ten years that few civilians realize what a really powerful maritime power the United States is at present.

OUTPUT OF CRIPPLE CREEK

Shares Gain for the Month of March—Low Freight and Treatment Charges Create Activity in Low Grade Ore.

Cripple Creek, Colo., April 11.—The gold output for March amounted to $1,385,177.20, an inmrease over February of $132,564.20. The total tonnage reached 61,992 tons, an increase over February of 2,830 tons, which is accounted for by the extremely low freight and treatment charges, which were inaugurated last February by the United States Reduction & Refining company, which has caused many dumps to be moved and the shipment of a vast quantity of low-grade ore from mines which have not been worked for several years. The following table gives the individual treatment as made by mill and smelter, as given out by the company's officials:

	Tons.	Values.
U. S. R. & R.	16,93	$426,98;
Smelters	3,720	245,520
Portland	8,000	176,000
Golden Cycle	22,132	489,117
Isabella	3,577	23,251
Imdial	3,565	7,129
Blue Flag	1,000	4,000
Wild Horse	800	2,400
W. P. H.	1,550	10,850
Total	61,062	$1,385,177

The difference in extraction by the old methods of cyaniding and the new roasting and cyaniding process is clearly shown through the operations of Norris & Wright, who are working over the tailings from the Old Gold & Globe mill, torn down years ago, and who are getting returns of better than $16 to the ton. Eleven tons from the mill dump were sent out today, and values higher than those carried in a former shipment, which ran $16.20 to the ton, are expected.

The Gold & Globe mill was located below the portal of the first drainage tunnel, on the banks of Cripple creek. In the early days of the camp it was the mill to which the late Winfield S. Stratton hauled in wagons the ore taken from the famous Independence mine on Battle mountain. The larger portion of the ore was grass-root mineral, carrying large streaks of sylvanite, but quite a little of the gold got away, in sliding over the plates at the plant.

Stratton is said to have remarked that he knew he was losing a big percentage in extraction, and it is believed today that more than $300,000 worth of gold lies along the bed of the creek below the mill. Operations were discontinued at the plant in 1895. Several years after the mill was torn down and the large amount of gold that was lost can be imagined by the good returns being obtained by Norris & Wright.

A portion of the dump has been washed away, and the black and red sand along the banks of the creek show that the tailings have been carried a long distance down stream. As high as 50 per cent extraction is being obtained in the Cripple creek district today by the improved cyaniding process.

FIVE FURNACES OPERATED

from Mammoth about twelve miles. He found them pushing prospect work at both camps. At the Calumet & Arizona mine two gasoline hoists were in operation. He did not ascertain the depths of the shafts, but one of them yielding fine copper sulphides and the local management informed him that the mines are looking very promising. At the McKenzie mines the ore bodies have not been reached, but a good force of miners are at work in the prospect shafts and should soon demonstrate the value of the property. Work at the Sibiy group, situated on the Copper creek a short distance east of the Calumet & Arizona is also in progress with a good force of men, but Mr. Chamberlain did not visit that property, hence does not know what the outlook for paying ore bodies is. Mr. Silby still has a force of about 100 Apaches working on the automobile road he is constructing between Mammoth and his mines. About four miles of this road remains uncompleted. It is a fine piece of work. The Calumet & Arizona people have built a branch road from this line over to their camp. It will be a fine freight road when completed. About 300 men are employed at the three camps above named.

the ground is thoroughly explored. The spur of the Arizona Commercial railroad to the dump of the Great Eastern shaft has been completed and it is expected to begin shipments from this shaft as from the Limestone and Black Oxide at once. Shipments have been in progress for some time from the latter two.

The Superior & Boston has through the Gila Valley Bank & Trust company anticipated by thirty days the payment of $100,000 due the original owners of the properties acquired by the company something over a year ago. Forty-six residents of Globe will share in the distribution of the money, the largest portion of it going to Pat Rose, J. B. Newman and Harry Sultan. During the week previous the Miami Copper company made its final payment of approximately $125,000 on the properties acquired at Red Springs. J. B. Newman and Philip Oates were the largest beneficiaris.

Since the installation of the new mine equipment the force of miners employed by the Miami Copper company has been more than doubled. Sinking is in progress and considerable lateral development work is being done on the third and fifth levels, all three croscuts on the later level are still in ore. It is understood that arrangements will soon be made for the installation of a 1,000-ton concentrator, which will be erected by the company. Patents are expected soon for all the claims purchased by the company.

Between forty-five and fifty tons of ore are being shipped daily from the Black Hawk mine to the Old Dominion smelter and the company is more than paying for its development work and ore extraction from the returns. The new shaft on the Eureka claim is being sunk at a better rate now, owing to the recent installation of drills in the shaft.

The National Mining Exploration company sent a carload of ore to the Old Dominion smelter during the week from the west drift on the last level, where the Black Hawk vein is being explored. All of the ore was taken out in process of development. Good progress is being made in the winze which is being sunk in the ore.

The Gibson company has begun lateral development on the fifth and sixth levels of the mine, which were recently reached by the incline shaft. Good progress is also being made in the three tunnels along the Summit ledge.

mines to the common laborer in his own property.

Great Changes in Equipment.

It is a notable fact that the heavy machinery equipment of the Lake Superior mines, mills and smelters has shown great changes within the past ten years. The local foundries and machinery firms have more than held their own, and in addition to supplying local demand, have built up a good business in the Western states, Canada and Mexico, and have established the beginnings of a promising export trade to South America, South Africa and other mining fields. Some of the Western manufacturers have succeeded in establishing an assured footing in the Lake field, this being more particularly true of some of the specialties in ore-dressing machinery, notably the Wilfley table, which is now in quite general use in this district. The Calumet & Hecla arranged to build its own Wilfley tables, to the number of several hundred, paying a fixed royalty on each machine constructed, to save freight charges. In the line of heavy mining machinery, such as hoists and air-compressors, ten years has seen a revolution. The big firms that formerly enjoyed almost a monopoly of this work are now securing the small end of the trade, and the Nordberg Company of Milwaukee easily holds the lead. Bruno V. Nordberg, a Finn., who is at the head of the Nordberg works, is a mechanical genius, who has revolutionized the designing and construction of heavy mining and milling machinery, and his steeple-compound stamp, now found in most of the Lake mills, has nearly doubled the crushing capacity of steam stamps, by the simple but admirable device of superimposing one cylinder upon another in a compounded stamp-head. The Champion mill experimented for several years with cross-compound stamps, but finally discarded them for the steeple-compound. In theory the cross-compounding was a success, but in practice it was not. The theory was perfect, but in practice the system called for the running of four heads as a unit, and this was found unsatisfactory.

In the matter of surface equipment of shafts, the decade past also has witnessed a revolution. The steel shafthouses and rockhouses that were seen occassionally in 1898 are now in almost universal use. None but the smaller mines, that must economize at the expense of the future, erect wooden headgear at their shafts at present. The Wisconsin Bridge & Iron company has led in the introduction of steel shafthouses, and also in the building of stampmills with steel frames. A wooden mill has not been built in the Lake district for nearly ten years and the old wooden mills of the Calumet & Hecla, once the largest frame buildings in the world, have been torn down, in sections, and replaced by steel, the work requiring about five years. It is obvious that the day of wood, for either shafthouses or mills, has passed forever in the Lake copper region.

Timbering Changes.

Another change of importance, which has but fairly started, but must gain increased momentum in the future, is found in the item of timbering. In the beginning of the Lake copper industry, two-thirds of a century ago, the miner had but to exchange his pick or hammer for an axe, and step a few feet from the shaft into the forest primeval, where magnificent pine trees afforded wood of the very best grade and most easily worked. With time the forest receded, and about twenty years ago, the rapid disappearance of the Michigan pine caused the most farseeing of the mine operators to take heed of the future. Hardwood, then most abundant, was substituted for many underground uses, and the Calumet & Hecla, Tamarack and Osceola mines invested heavily in timber lands, in the upper peninsula of Michigan. These have been husbanded with care, but it is evident that in time they will fail to meet the heavy requirements of the mines, hence experiments have been made with other materials. The Baltic, Champion and Trimountain mines of the Copper Range Consolidated company use a system of dry-walling, by which worthless rock broken in the mine is built into walls without mortar, affording excellent suport for the depleted stopes, and greatly reducing the cost of timbering, as well as saving the cost of hoisting barren rock to surface, saving the space that would be required for its disposal. The Calumet & Hecla and several of the Bigelow mines have experimented with concrete for shaft work. As a foundation for skip tracks it seems too rigid, leading to unduly heavy wear upon rails and wheels, but for other uses it seems satisfactory. It is obvious that cement and concrete must be used underground, as well as on surface, by reason of the increasing scarcity and cost of wood.

is not at all unlikely the Oliver will materialize into as big a mine as the Mag.

"The Shattuck has a great property and there is no reason why they should not be able to produce 1,000 tons monthly at a fair cost. It is surprising why they are delaying the building of a smelter as long as they have, even though a good percentage will have been saved in cost of construction. The annual report, though it does not go into the details of the cost of production, etc., is such that the stockholders think they are entitled to know, and shows that during the eleven months the company was producing through the Copper Queen smelters the gross receipts were $1,500,000. From reliable information received, this was with an average production of about thirty-six tons monthly.

"While cost of production was a trifle high last year, with its own smelter the Shattuck will be able to put copper on the market for around 8 cents. Stock of the Shattuck is closely held."

extraction was abandoned because of the low prices of metals, leasers have been taking out the narrow seams of ore on a royalty basis. During the latter part of the year considerable ore was taken out from the 700-foot level of the Spy ground, the grade running between 18 per cent and 20 per cent copper. A winze was sunk fifty feet below the level, and sinking in ore is still in progress. A large tonnage of copper-iron ore is also available on the 700 level. On the 550 level 182 feet of drifting and cross-cutting and 63 feet of raising was done.

The Bullion Beck and Champion in Tintic has declared a dividend of $60,000 and the Utah mine, at Fish Springs, one of $3,000. The Bullion Beck dividend comes from the sale of ground to the Centennial-Eureka company.

amount totaled only $210,000. To date the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine has yielded dividends of $9,996,000 on a $3,000,000 capitalization—an excellent showing. Five gold and silver mines in the newer districts of Nevada came forward this year with dividends of $360,500, making the total since their organization $1,310,950 on an issued capitalization of $4,005,000. The labor troubles at Goldfield have also been responsible for the interruption of dividends in that quarter.

Only one quicksilver mine in California has declared a dividend this year, amounting to $50,000, making a total to date of $1,010,000 on a $500,000 capitalization.

Five metallurgical works are credited with dividends this year, amounting to $5,738,866, making their total since organization $75,505,309, on the outstanding share capital of $213,782,250. The American Smelting & Refining company takes the lead in this group having declared this year $3,250,000 (at the rate of 3 per cent on the common stock and 3½ per cent on the preferred), making the total to date $41,381,553. The present outstanding capital of the "smelter trust" is $100,000,000, equally divided in common and preferred stock. The United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company has declared dividends of $1,201,360 this year (being 2 per cent on the common stock and 6½ per cent on the preferred), making a total of $4,877,941 to date on the issued capitalization of $41,846,650.

and will include a Nordberg first-motion hoist, a new compressor and increased boiler capacity. An electric pump is to be placed in the station on the 700-foot level, where there is also a tank holding 10,000 gallons of water which was completed before operations were suspended several months ago. The Butte-Milwaukee is controlled by the Butte & New York company, holding company, and work is proceeding under direction of the latter.

The Raven Mining company is pushing work on its property as fast as possible and expects to reach copper earlier than anticipated, because of the Raven shaft being inclined, brings the 900 level at a vertical depth of about 724 feet on the vein and the 1,000 level at a vertical depth of about 874 feet. Plans are now being considerd which may rsult in sinking the shaft vertically below the 1,100, as the vein shows a tendency toward straigthening up. This plan has been a success in other properties. The company is installing its big new engine, which is capable of operating to a depth of 2,500 feet.

Another vein has been cut in the property of the Davis-Daly Estates Copper company. It was found through the east drift from the 1,000-foot level, and its extent has not been ascertained because almost at the beginning a 2-foot shoot of good ore was cut, and that is now being opened. The ore assays 40 per cent in zinc and contains little else, but that class of ore is worth $15 a ton to the company, and if there is enough of it it will be mined and shipped. This vein strikes northwest and southeast, like the one opened south of the shaft.

For the purpose of taking over the copper properties of the Daily brothers of Wickes, a company has been organized, with a capitalization of $1,150,000. It is understood that the transfer of the property has been made, and John Berkin, manager of the Raven Mining company, who is largely interested in the Wickes proposition, is now in the East in an effort to interest capital in the enterprise.

The property consists of five patented claims, embracing an area of about forty acres, in what is generally known as the Corbin district, about fifty-six miles east of Butte. It is located immediately on the line of the Great Northern railroad, and is also reached by a branch of the Northern Pacific railroad.

The development up to the present time consists of a verticle shaft to a depth of 340 feet, on what is known as the Atlas ledge, and the ground has been explored by crosscuts and drifts on the 100, 200 and 300-foot levels. There is practically about 2,000 feet of underground work. On the Atlas vein an ore shoot has been opened up on the 200 and 300-foot levels for a distance of about 400 feet, and the end of the ore body has not yet been reached. The ledge varies in width from eleven to sixteen feet.

By a crosscut from the Atlas ledge, on the 300-foot level, a parallel vein, known as the Steamboat, has been opened up, the vein being equally large and carrying a similar quantity of ore. In driving the crosscut from the Atlas to the Steamboat vein, two mineralized brecciated zones were encountered, each more than twenty feet in width. Assays from these zones showed from 1 to 2 per cent copper and two to four ounces of silver. It is considered highly probable that depth will prove thees zones to develop into large bodies of low-grade copper ore.

The ore in both the Atlas and Steamboat veins is a copper sulphide, carrying some lead and occasional traces of zinc. It carries considerable silver and will average between 40 and 80 cents in gold. Assays taken across the veins, on the 200 and 300-foot levels, show between 3 and 4 per cent copper, nine to ten ounces of silver and about 40 cents in gold to the ton.

The subject met with some discussion, then Prof. McGuire gave up the chair to the president, who proceeded with the business meeting. The secretary's report for the year showed the development of the club along its various lines. The officers elected were: President, Olaf Thuelson; first vice president, D. O. Anderson; second vice president, G. F. Meyers; secretary and treasurer, John N. Tidd. The new members enrolled were Messrs. J. W. Reisinger, E. C. Spooce, George F. Wood, Dan Payne, John Lindquist, H. D. Hoopman, C. J. Lindstrom. By unanimous vote all the women present and the wives of all members were made honorary members, including A. B. Hostette and Prof. A. J. McGuire. A lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served. Mr. Hostetter gave a talk on the advantages, work and growth of farmers' clubs, in which he complimented very highely the one at Meadowlands. Prof. McGuire then took the stand for the rest of the afternoon, opening his talk with the subject of potatoes, advising the farmers to unite in growing one kind, as it is much more advantageous for shipping purposes. The market will not accept small lots of many varieties, but want cars of the same kind. Prof McGuire then continued with dairying, suggesting Guernseys as the best breed. But until the farmers can afford blooded stocks, Prof. McGuire gave suggestions as to bringing common stock up to the highest standard. The secretary then asked the speaker to give some advice on hog raising. Prof. McGuire, from his own experiences, advises the Yorkshire hog, a bacon hog. Prof. McGuire closed his talk by a very stirring appeal on behalf of temperance, one of the greatest evils the farmers has to contend with, especially those living near a town.

To purify the blood and cleanse the system use Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills.

All winter poisons have been collecting in the system.

Hence the tired, languid feelings of Spring, the indigestion, the pains and aches the discouragement and despondency.

These poisons can only be eliminated by the healthful action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills promptly enliven the bowels and quicken the liver and kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

The blood cannot possibly be purified except by the action of the liver and kidneys—hence mere physics and purgatives do not accomplish the desired results.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills ensure prompt action of the bowels, but do more than this—they restore to healthful and vigorous action the liver and kidneys.

For this reason they are the greatest of Spring medicines and are bound to do you good. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINNESOTA.

COMES UP APRIL 25

Petition for County Seat Removal Expected to be Considered.

Red Lake County Commissioners Have Troubles of Their Own.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Public notices have been posted in this, Red Lake county, calling a meeting o fthe board of county commissioners, on April 25, at Red Lake Falls ,to consider the petition calling for the removal of the county seat to Thief River Falls.

Last fall mandamus proceedings were commenced and the case should have been tried at the March term of court. However, it was discovered that a technical error had been committed in the proceedings, the judge having made his returns outside the county, and it was thought best to discontinue the old proceedings and begin anew.

Therefore, the commissioners are called to consider the petition. Last fall when this same proceeding was started on the petition, a majority of the board refused to attend the meteing and were compelled later to do so, under mandamus proceedings issued by the court. Possibly, they may again refuse, and the usual delay and expense will be incurred. It may take some years to secure a vote on the removal, but there is no question but the city of Thief River Falls will continue its efforts to get the county seat, until the voters have had an opportunity of settling the matter once for all.

BURNED SNOW FENCES.

Three Tramps Kept Warm With Great Northern Property.

Crookston, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Special Officer B. B. Britt of the Great Northern, dropped into the city yesterday and after taking in the situation, appeared before Justice McLean with James Mack, George Wilber and John Zaman and had them arraigned on a charge of malicious destruction of property. It seems that the three got hungry and appropriated some of the snow fences of the road with which to cook their dinner. They were caught in the act by the special officer and hauled into court. They were found guilty and were sent to the county jail for ten days each.

SUNDAHL CREAMERY BURNS.

Norman County Town Sustains Quite Heavy Loss.

Sundahl, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—This, Norman county, village sustained a heavy loss early yesterday morning, when the ceramery was destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered at an early hour, and although many responded when the alarm was sounded, it had attained such proportions the blaze could not be extinguished.

The loss is estimated as in excess of $5,000, partially covered by insurance. The destruction of the ceramery, outside of the pecuniary loss, will be keenly felt by the farmers of the section for the reason that the creamery brought in them each month a revenue, the loss of which will amount to considerable.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, as no one had been near the structure from early Thursday evening, and it did not break out until about 4 o'clock in the morning. The creamery has been operating for the past eight years and has been regarded as one of the most successful creameries in the Red River valley.

PROFESSIONAL CRACKSMEN BLOW PAYNESVILLE SAFE.

Paynesville, Minn., April 11.—The safe in the general merchandise store of T. C. Lund was blown Thursday night by cracksmen and robbed of $20. The loss would have been much heavier had not the proprietor deposited the receipts of the day in the bank. The robbery was committed by experts who made apparently a clean getaway. Two strangers were seen in the town Thursday night and are suspected.

DAM REPORTED OUT.

Red Lake Falls, April 11.—Special to The Herald.)—It is reported in this city that the Healy dam in the Red Lake river, one mile north of this city, has gone out. The river is rising rapidly here, and about eighteen inches since last night, and every indication that it will go still higher. The Clearwater river has also been exceedingly high, but is now subsiding. No apprehension of any damage resulting from the river is entertained.

POPULAR SLOT MACHINE.

It Always Pays, as It is Run by Uncle Sam.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Uncle Sam's slot contrivance for the sale of stamps at the postoffice is proving popular with Minneapolis citizens who buy postage in small amounts, according to stamp clerks in the federal building. The machine, because of the general use the public is making of it, will probably result in lessening the number of stamp clerks in the local office, and in their transfer to other lines of work. During the nine days following its installation, the sales of postage at stamp windows have decreased approximately 30 per cent. The man who has scruples as to gambling does not fear a prickling conscience when he plays Uncle Samuel's game, because he knows he will get his money's worth.

CRAZY MAN'S MAD ACT.

Starts Fire That Causes Several Hundred Dollars Damage.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 11.—William Butterworth, an escaped lunatic, was taken back to the insane hospital at Menomonie, Wis., yesterday. Butterworth, in some manner, made his way to this city and signalized his advent here by breaking into the boiler room at the Fergus Falls woolen mills and building up a roaring fire under the boilers. As the mill is being run by water power at present, the boilers were empty and the fire ruined them, entailing a loss of several hundred dollars.

He was taken to the insane hospital here until arrangements could be made to send him back.

ST. PAUL WEATHER MAN.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Newton Ryker received the appointment to the St. Paul weather bureau by wire from Washington, D. C. Circumstances pointed strongly to the belief that Dolan knew something of the burglary and the evidence was deemed sufficient to hold him for the crime. His arrest was effected in the Copper Range hotel at Calumet, where it is said Dolan had registered under an assumed name. He was subsequently taken to Houghton and locked up in the county jail. He will be arraigned before Justice Brand.

Animal About to Attack Child as Father Kills It.

Bismarck, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large and ferocious looking gray and black wolf was killed on the farm of Ludwig Frier of Sibley Butte a few days ago. The animal was shot twice by the farmer, large loads of buckshot tearing its way through the hide.

The child ran to the wolf, trying to stroke its fur. HE MAY BE "BLACKIE."

Valley City Authorities Think They Have Murderer of Officer.

Valley City, N. D., April 11.—Sheriff Casper Winkler and Chief of Police Bob Burt are on the trail of another Blackie, the man wanted here for killing an officer. A man was arrested at Glendive, Mont., some days ago and a photograph of him sent to the local authorities. It was in turn sent to Warden Hellstrom who submitted it to Connor's pal in the Sanborn holdups for identification. Connors declared that it was Blackie and no mistake. This is the first time Connors has identified anybody as the missing Blackie.

The local authorities were in a rather bad hole, since the county commissioners have withdrawn the reward and refused to allow any more bills for hunting Blackie. However, Sheriff Winkler and Chief Burt are so sanguine that they have the right man, that they undertook the trip at their own expense.

RAILROAD OPENS STATIONS.

Railroad Commission Makes Order After Having Hearing.

Minot, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern station at Surrey will be opened. This is the result of a hearing before the state railroad commission at Minot at which O. M. Champlin on behalf of the citizens of Surrey presented a petition urging the commission to order the station opened.

The station had been closed in accordance with the policy of the railroad to reduce expenses to the minimum. The Surrey people took exceptions to this action, maintaining that the receipts at the Surrey station did not warrant the closing of the station. They also pointed out that the closing of the station would work a hardship on many people.

Attorney General McCue was here as attorney for the commission and Arthur LeSueur represented the railroad company. After listening to all the testimony the commission decided that the station should be opened, and the request was made to the railroad company and was complied with.

The station at Landa in Bottineau county was also opened.

FARMER PUTS UP FIGHT.

Resists Officers With Gun, But Finally Surrenders.

Highmore, S. D., April 11.—Milton Melzer, a farmer of this county, held a sheriff's posse at bay from early in the evening until noon the following day. Shots were fired and Melzer warned that his life might pay the forfeit of his folly, but he persisted in holding out against the law until an attorney advised him to surrender. In the end he was bound over in bonds of $1,000.

When a deputy sheriff went to the farm of Melzer to levy an execution on a team of horses, the enraged farmer pulled a 44-caliber revolver and aimed it at the officer. The latter struck the weapon and one of his fingers caught under its hammer and was crushed.

Melzer then hurried to Highmore and barricaded himself in the house of Bine Wilder, a friend. Every effort to dislodge him for a period of eighteen hours proved fruitless.

Flax Has a Firm Tone at the Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 11.—Strong cables and a combination of the dry weather in Western Kansas and Nebraska gave wheat its strength at the opening today and the level kept above that of yesterday's during the entire session.

There was some pressure to sell for a time in the Northwest but the good buying of May in Chicago by the shorts off-set the Northwestern demand and kept the market steady and made the close stronger.

The foreign markets showed merely fractional gains over yesterday but there was a much stronger undertone abroad, which had a strengthening effect on this side of the Atlantic.

Liverpool closed ⅝d higher, Berlin ⅝c higher, Antwerp unchanged, and Paris unchanged to ¼c lower. It was a holiday in Budapest.

The May option closed ⅝c higher in Duluth, 1-⅛c higher in Chicago, 1⅛c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅝c higher in New York and 1c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, ¾-⅞c higher in Chicago and Minneapolis, 1⅛c higher in New York and 1c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ½-⅝c higher in Chicago and ⅜d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a steady tone to the speculative wheat market at the opening, and values were ¼d to ⅜d higher, as influenced by the firmness in America yesterday. During the morning offerings continued light and support good, prompted by the scarcity of La Plata offerings, predictions of light shipments from Argentina next week, and indications that world's shipments on Monday will be smaller. Prices as a result gained a further ⅛d to ¼d. At the close the market was steady and ½d higher than Friday.

"Corn was steady at the start and ¾d higher, in sympathy with the better American cables yesterday. The market, following the opening, was dull, but held the opening advance."

Car receipts at Duluth were 30 against 163 last year, and at Minneapolis 133 against 287 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 163 against 450 last year. Winnipeg received 142 against 195 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 242,000 bus, last year 674,000 bus. Shipments 215,000 bus, last year 429,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 190,225 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 398,000 bus, last year 462,000 bus. Shipments 337,000 bus, last year 924,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 381,227 bus.

Wheat was active during the early part of the session in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ¾c higher at 97¼c, declined to 97⅛c, rallied to 98c, declined to 97¼c, and closed at 97⅝c, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. July wheat opened ½c higher at 98½c, declined to 98 c, rallied to 99¼c and declined by the close to 98¼c, a gain of ¼c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 1c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was rather dull during the session but closed firm. May flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.15⅞, advanced to $1.16¾ and closed at $1.16½, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.18, advanced to $1.18½ and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday. October flax sold at $1.18½ and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Strong, Prices Advancing About a Cent at Opening.

Chicago, April 11.—The wheat market today opened strong, prices advancing about 1c at the opening. The absence of rain in Kansas and the fear of possible damage by drought, together with strong cables, caused an advance. May wheat opened ¼@¾c higher at 91½c and sold at 92c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 172 cars, against 270 cars last week and 474 cars one year ago.

Sentiment continued bullish all day. May selling up to 93¼c. Some reaction took place in the last half hour from profit-taking, but the close was firm, with May ⅞@1c higher at 92⅛c.

The corn market was firm. Small local receipts and the strength of wheat were the chief bullish influences. May opened ⅛@¼c higher at 67½@⅝c and sold at 67¾c. Local receipts were 110 cars, with 23 of contract grade.

The market continued strong and May sold up to 68⅜c. The close was strong, with May ½@⅝c higher at 67⅞@68c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Dry Weather Sends May Wheat Up to Dollar Line.

Minneapolis, April 11.—Dry weather, strength in Chicago and light receipts in the Northwest made a combination that put May wheat back to the dollar line in the early market. July fell behind by a full cent. Receipts here were 133 cars, against 287, and in Duluth only 30, against 163. Minneapolis elevators' stocks increased 96,612 bushels for the week and the total is 7,401,321, but the gain was wiped out in a decrease of 100,000 bushels for one day since making up the report. There was selling of May when call price was reached, which checked the advance and closed it below the dollar mark.

May opened 99½@99⅝c; high, $1.00¼; low, 99c; close, 99¾c; July closed 98¾@98⅞c; September closed, 88¾@88⅞c.

Miller bought cash wheat freely, paid 2½c over May for No. 1 northern and May price to ½c over for No. 2. Some wheat was reported sold to millers out o felevators. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.01½ spot or to arrive; No. 2 northern, 99½c spot or to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 92½@96½c; No. 3 yellow corn, 63¾@64¼c; No. 3 white oats, 49½@50c; No. 2 rye, 72¾@74¾c.

Flax, May price to ½c over, with most sales ¼c over. Close, $1.16.

Bran unchanged and in fair demand, $21@21.25 in bulk.

Strength in wheat brought in a little more flour business and millers were inclined to look for somewhat larger entries on Monday. Quotations remained unchanged but are very firm as given. SLIGHTLY DECLINED

Stocks Close Easy and Mostly Fraction Under Friday's Prices.

New York Public Utilities Were Feature of Narrow Market.

New York, April 11.—Light opening sales of stock caused a slight sag in prices. Declined did not exceed half a point except in Southern Pacific, Erie second preferred, Toledo preferred and Anaconda.

The New York public utilities stocks were the feature of an extremely narrow and otherwise uninteresting market. Aside from a slight demand for Reading, Union Pacific and American Smelting, there was nothing of interest in the speculation.

The market closed easy. Further advances in specialties left the general list unresponsive and induced a sharp selling movement which carried prices in most stocks a fraction below last night.

Stock Gossip.

New York, Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co: In the last hour heavy pressure on the whole list caused a sharp recession and the close was irregular and near the lowest prices of the day. There was not much news of importance, but it seemed to be the general disposition among traders to even up accounts over Sunday. Reports as to the conditions in the commercial world are to the effect that gains for the first quarter are being maintained, but progress is extremely slow. The metal issues are inclined to lag over the uncertainty of the finished products and weakness of copper metal.

The Cotton Market.

New York, April 11.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points in response to lower cables and during the early session sold about 6 to 8 points lower under liquidation which was encountered by good weather, disappointing week end figures and talk of further curtailments in manufacturing circles. Wall street bought early, but selling was more or less general.

Futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: April, 9.16; May, 9.26; June, 9.27; July, 9.30; August, 9.34; September, 9.32; October, 9.39; November, 9.38; December, 9.30; January, 9.31; March, 9.33. Spot, closed quiet; middling upland, 10.25; gulf, 10.50. No sales.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Trade moderately active, which was to be expected after the abnormal heavy movement yesterday. Good work mules were in demand. Another large consignment of good second-hand logging horses arrived from Cloquet, Minn. The farm trade continues brisk, a large number of country buyers being attracted by the large number of good cheap horses on the market. Values continue at the following low level:

PLANS FINE STRUCTURE

Christie Lithograph & Printing Company Will Erect Building.

Seven Story Structure of Reinforced Concrete on Fourth Avenue.

Plans have been prepared for a seven-story reinforced concrete office building to be erected on Fourth avenue west, just above Second alley, for the Christie Lithographing & Printing company. The plans are out for bids and these will be opened April 25.

The Christie company some time ago bought a property on the avenue at the location mentioned, with a 50-foot frontage and began the preparation of its building plans, but not until this year were the arrangements made to go ahead with the improvement.

The building will be, when completed, one of the finest business structures in the city. The construction will be along the most modern lines for resistance to fire, and the building will, in fact, be as nearly fireproof as it is possible to have it.

The outer surface will be of pressed brick with stone and iron trimmings. The window cases, sashes, etc., will be of steel with wired glass, and the doors will all be of steel. The main staircase will be of marble and iron, and the upper stairways of iron and plaster. There will be no open steel work, all being enclosed in the concrete.

The Christie Lithographing & Printing company will occupy the first three floors and the basement. The first floor will be the store room for stationery and office fixtures and will be one of the most complete storerooms of the kind to be found in the Northwest.

The offices and operating room of the printing company will be on the second floor and the lithographing department on the third floor. The plant will be complete as to presses, etc., and one of the unique features will be the kitchen provided for the free use of the employes. This room will have all the accessories usually found in such a place. The private office of Mr. Christie will be quite elaborate, the finish to be of African mahogany, with a large fireplace, panels, private toilet, etc.

The fourth floor will be leased for offices while the two top stories have been leased to the Duluth Business college. The plans for the upper stories have been made to conform to the requirements of the college.

The building will be complete as to heat, elevators, firewalls, etc.

It is expected that the structure will be ready for occupancy before cold weather next fall.

WILL SELL SITE IF PERMITTED

Warehouse Commission Asks Attorney General for an Opinion.

The attorney general of Minnesota has been asked for an opinion as to whether the state railroad and warehouse commission can sell a large tract of land that it owns above Grassy Point.

The property was bought several years ago with the intention of erecting a big state elevator. The law, under which it was proposed to build, was declared unconstitutional, and the elevator never was a reality. Since then there have been some good offers for the site for industrial purposes and the commission will sell if it has the legal right to do so.

DEFENSE OF WRIGHT.

Says He in No Way Assisted Woman to Enter Country.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of Herbert Wright was tried before United States Commissioner Browning today. Inspector Smith testified that Wright assisted Margaret Price to enter the United States, and said Wright drove her from Emerson to Orleans. Several witnesses corroborated this evidence. Wright, in his own behalf, testified that Margaret Price's name is Anderson. He said he in no way induced her to evade the officers, that she hired and paid for her own livery, and that he merely accompanied the driver and the woman to Orleans in obedience to the orders of his superior officers to visit the place and get evidence of smuggling.

Wright was held to the federal court in Fergus Falls, under $500 bail. Attorney P. H. Konzen of Hallock represented Wright. United States Immigration Agent Smith was the only witness against Wright. The hearing was before United States Commisioner T. G. Browning.

ONE-THIRD OF CRIVITZ DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

Marinette, Wis., April 11.—The fire at Crivitz was under control shortly after noon today, when about one-third of the village had been reduced to ashes. The village did not have more than fifteen or twenty buildings, all told.

MURDERED HIS ROOM MATE IN COLD BLOOD.

Norfolk, Va., April 11.—A sealed statement left by Leo C. Thurman, who was hanged here yesterday for the murder of his roommate, Walter H. Dolsen of Michigan, was opened here today. It is a full confession, in which Thurman says:

"I murdered Dolsen in cold blood."

The "confession," made Feb. 25 last, in which Thurman declared that the Dolsen murder was in self defense, is fully retracted. Thurman declares that he killed Dolsen while the latter peacefully slept, for the sole purpose of robbery, the weapon being an axe. He says his charges of degeneracy against Dolsen were "fiction" and that Dolsen was a "gentleman."

Butte-Ballaklava very strong and big demand for this stock. The people are switching other stocks for this one, and it seems to me that it is the only way to get their money back fast. This refers to the crowd who paid $20 and above for Greene-Cananea and Superior & Pittsburg. Butte & Superior is probably the strongest stock on the board at this low level. I can bid $1 a share for 20,000 shares and can sell you a limited amount at $1.06 net. Buy Ballaklava, Butte & Superior and Shattuck at these low levels and you will, after a while, have a kind word to say for this office. We try to keep our customers from buying stocks that have no future. When you make money, we make money. Our business is getting bigger every day, for the simple reason that the public has confidence in us, and we will do our best to retain their confidence.
Tuolumne, situated just below the North Butte, has a big chance of becoming a big and valuable mine. They are down about 1,100 feet and now have some ore. The stock is strong at $1 per share, and as there are not many shares issued, it should be a good purchase. Some time ago it was put on the market at $2 and before this it sold up to $4 or $5 a share. If it did not look good at this level we would not mention the stock at all. We will get more information on this property and will advertise only the facts.
Shattuck is one of the greatest mines in the United States and looks very good at this price. Buy it with every dollar you can spare, and if the people of Duluth grab onto a big lot of it you will find it will bring much money to this town. Our wires reach all over the country. We can give you service. Offer us your Butte & Superior; also give us your buying orders.

General business is undoubtedly turning the corner for the better. We remain firm in the belief that a much higher level of prices is before us and cannot see it otherwise. Butte & Ballaklava is the plum of the market, with Butte & Superior, Calumet & Sonora, Globe and Denn following close on its heels. In fact, you can't go wrong in picking up the good ones. Red Warrior seems to be becoming popular with a lot of Duluth people, and is well spoken of. Calumet & Montana looks good, and it is now expected the change in management of this property will put it on a working basis, and the stock should enjoy a substantial advance. Copper Queen was in good demand and should not be overlooked. She will make good. National is the best buy of any of the cheap stocks. OWNERS ARE HOLDING FIRM ON REALTY PRICES

Believe Local Real Estate is Too Good an Investment to Offer Any Bargains—Real Estate Offices Are Receiving Many Inquiries for Unimproved Lots and Moderately Priced Improved Property—Several New Leases on Central Business Property Have Been Made.

No large sales of Duluth real estate have been reported this week, but the transfer record shows that there is a pretty steady improvement of unimproved lots for building purposes and small improved properties. Inquiry keeps up strong, as there are a great many people looking for opportunities to buy moderate priced property. The real estate brokers claim that they are having the greatest difficulty in getting the owner and the would be purchaser together as to prices. A large number of offers made to local and outside owners of Duluth property have been refused. One real estate firm has submitted from eight to ten offers to have them all refused. The owners do not feel that the prospects warrant any shaving of prices, in fact they regard their holdings as good investments and are rather more inclined toward stiffening than cutting the valuations placed on the properties. There are still a large number of leases for houses and flats unsigned as the tenants are looking about with a view of finding places with lower rentals. New leases of business property that will necessitate quite a changing around of local firms have been announced this week.

John B. Greenfield reports the following sales of Lakeside property this week: W. B. Bradley's residence on Regent street, near Forty-fifth avenue east, to Frank Windblad, for $2,900; Lot 1, block 44, London addition, corner McCulloch street and Forty-fifth avenue east, to A. W. Lappallainen, for $650; Lot 14, Block 46, London addition, on Robinson street, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth avenues east to Louis Loranger, for $550; Lot 3, Block 24, London addition, on Regent street, between Fortieth and Forty-first avenues east, to Fred Meyers, for $375, and Lot 10, Block 24, London addition, between Fortieth and Forty-first avenues east, to Frank Clugston, for 625.

W. O. Pealer has sold W. C. Lounsberry, a 50-foot lot on the upper side of Fourth street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues east, for $1,025. The property is described as lot 13, block 12, Highland Park addition.

* * *

J. A. Wernli has purchased from J. C. Ray, for $1,200, a 150-foot property on the upper side of Eighth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east. The property comprises lots 7 to 12, block 155, Portland.

* * *

W. J. Bates and others have purchased from Frances L. and Sara B. Alexander a whole block on the lower side of the boulevard between Sixth and Seventh avenues east, for $3,200. The lower half of the block, comprising lots on Sixth street, have already been sold by Mr. Bates. The location is considered one of the best for improvement on the lower side of the boulevard.

* * *

The Boston Land company has sold 800 acres of wild lands near Holyoke, Carlton county, to parties from Austin, Minn., who intend moving on the property this spring and improving it. The property is located not far from the improved farm of McKay Bros. of this city.

* * *

S. H. Ramstad has sold C. W. Anderson a 25-foot lot on the upper side of Third street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues east, containing two buildings.

Louis London has purchased from John Hinzman a 25-foot lot and residence on the lower side of Eighth street, between Third and Fourth avenues east. The consideration was $1,200.

* * *

David Adams of the West end has purchased from C. H. Dewitt, for $1,500, a 50-foot lot on the lower side of Fourth street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth avenues west.

The congregation of the Second Presbyterian church, Rev. J. L. McBride, pastor, contemplates the purchase of a site for the ultimate erection of a new church building.

A. W. Kuehnow, the land man, has sold an 80-acre farm, partially improved, in 50-15, to Herman Ditmar of Lime Springs, Iowa. Mr. Ditmar will move on the property this spring. Mr. Kuehnow is negotiating with a number of German families in North Dakota with a view of locating them in township 46-16 and 17, where a German colony was started last fall. He reports numerous inquiries from people in Ohio, Illinois and Missouri who are contemplating purchasing acreage in this and adoijning counties.

IT'S NO PIPE DREAM

About Superior being on the eve of a great growth, Duluth will be "going some," too. But where the big money is to be made is in the Acres near Superior along the Steel Company's Belt Line.

It is generally known what happened to land values in and around the Magic City of Gary, Ind., when the Steel Company commenced building their mammoth plant there.

The value reached by the real estate of Pittsburg on account of Steel Industry there is common knowledge. I have not yet found any one with any reason to offer why the same values will not be attained along the Steel Company's Belt Line here. The results are bound to be the same here.

Some of the investors of Duluth realize what's coming and have been picking up the snaps.

I've been buying some myself. I also have some more that are real bargains, but I haven't the cash to swing them. I'm looking for some one to put up the money. For my bargain, I want an interest in the profits, when a sale is made. I'll sell at handsome profits when operations commence.

Do you realize that land around Gary, Ind., situated as the land I am telling you about at Superior, is now selling at from $350 to $3,000 per acre, not for farming purposes, but for industries associated with the manufacturing of Steel. My snaps range from $10 to $125 per acre.

Now, if you want me to make some money for you, write to me or call up by 'phone and we will arrange a conference. I will show you what I have for sale.

ATTRACTIVE COTTAGE WHICH WOULD COST $3,300, IN DULUTH

The above illustration is of an attractively simple home in the cottage style. The construction and finish of the exterior is inexpensive, but in good taste. The plans are compact and conveniently arranged.

The porch is designed to be enclosed with glass during the colder months, so the entrance from the porch is made directly into the large living room. With the large alcove in front, the wide fireplace, around which the staircase winds, and the attractively arranged windows, the living room is a most cheerful apartment, and the principal feature of the house. The dining room is entered through a wide opening from the living room, and is connected to the kitchen by a good sized pantry. The kitchen is large, well lighted and airy. Direct communication to the front of the house from the kitchen is provided by a small passage, which also gives access to the cellar stairs and the first story bedroom. A bedroom on the ground floor is very often a most desirable feature.

The stairs to the second story ascend directly from the living room, thus economizing greatly with space. The second story plan is divided into three good sized bedrooms, a sewing room, bathroom, closets and an abundance of storage space. In none of the rooms of the second story does the slope of the roof cut into the ceiling.

The basement is of stone, with cement floor and is divided into heater room, fuel room, laundry and cellars.

Considering the size and construction, this is an unusually roomy house. The dimensions on the ground are 33 feet front by 36 feet depth. The ceilings' heights are: Seven feet, eight feet and nine feet.

The floors throughout the first and second stories are of hardwood. The finish of the living room and dining room is of oak and the balance pine.

The estimate cost to erect such a home, including heating and plumbing, is $3,300.

MISTAKEN ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS AT WASHINGTON CONDEMNED

The Sum of $416,000 is Paid Yearly for Rentals.

Senator Scott Urges the Erection of Ample Quarters.

Great Saving Could be Made by Government Structures.

Washington, April 13.—The needs of the government for more office room in the District of Columbia was the subject of a speech by Senator Scott of West Virginia, chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds, in the senate today.

Mr. Scott's remarks were addressed to the bill authorizing the purchase of a large tract of land on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, from the capitol to the White House, for sites for public buildings.

He severely arraigned the executive economy, which refused to make an appropriation for the needs of the government. Senator Scott showed that in the past ten years the rent paid for buildings used for government purposes in the District of Columbia had increased nearly three times, from $176,000 in 1897, to $416,000 in 1907. He argued that $416,000 represented a 2 per cent rate of interest on over $20,000,000, and that this latter amount would build all the departmental buildings needed by the government. He referred to the crowded conditions of the present departmental buildings, and of those structures which are being rented and used by the government.

The senator presented a table showing that $13,860,000 would erect all the departmental buildings needed here, and would relieve the crowded condition of the present buildings. He presented from two departments and one bureau a statement showing an administration saving of $136,000 by such buildings.

He closed by saying he "did not believe that the expenditure of a single dollar for the city of Washington in order to beautify the capital of the nation and erect its workshops has ever been criticised by an American tax payer or an American voter."

Exalted Ruler of the Elks, Who Has Been Nominated for Congress in Pennsylvania, Defeating Congressman Acheson at the Primaries.

THE GOVERNOR AT LOUISVILLE

Minnesota's Executive to Speak at Jefferson Day Banquet.

Louisville, Ky., April 13.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota arrived in Louisville today from Mammoth Cave, where he and his party stopped on their way north from Shiloh battlefield. The governor was met by a reception committee of local Democrats and escorted to his hotel. After a brief rest, taking advantage of the beautiful weather, the committee took the governor on an automobile trip through the park. The governor will speak tonight at the Jefferson day banquet.

OVER 5,000 WILL MARCH

Men of Navy to Give Great Parade at San Diego.

Coast City Making Great Preparations to Entertain.

San Diego, Cal., April 13.—The Atlantic fleet arrives here tomorrow and its stay will be marked by the most notable parade of blue jackets and marines ever landed from American vessels of war. Five thousand enlisted men and more than 200 officers will be in line. This force will outnumber that participating in the famous welcome to Admiral Dewey in New York City when he returned from the battle of Manila bay to accept his commission as head of the American navy. The assembling of the sixteen first class battleships for the voyage to the Pacific brought together the greatest power of fighting craft ever known in the navy and made possible the splendid land display which is to be held here and which will be repeated when the fleet reaches San Francisco.

The San Diego parade will be held Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. It will be the initial step in the formal ceremonies of welcome which have been arranged here in behalf of the state and the city. Governor Gillette and Mayor Forward be-

ELKS' RULER SUCCESSFUL

John K. Tener Nominated for Congress in Pennsylvania.

Congressman Dalzell Defeated as a Delegate to Convention.

Pittsburg, April 13.—While several days' time will be necessary to obtain official information and figures of Saturday's primary election, conditions warrant the following brief general summary:

Notwithstanding bitter factional fights within the Republican party, a majority of the regular Republican candidates were nominated; the leaders of both factions were eliminated and younger leaders are now in the lead. All but one of ten congressmen were renominated. Congressman Acheson being defeated in the Twenty-fourth district by John K. Tener, grand exalted ruler of the Elks. Senator Penrose will be supported for re-election by practically all the assembly candidates; delegates to the state convention will instruct for Senator Knox for the presidency, while the delegates to the Democratic state convention will be successful in sending uninstructed delegations to the national convention.

One of the surprises of the election is the defeat of Congressman John Dalzell as a delegate to the Republican national convention, notwithstanding the fact that he ran ahead of his opponents in the congressional fight.

MEN WANT MORE THAN $1 A DAY

Unemployed in Philadelphia Object to Rate of Committee.

Philadelphia, April 13.—The action of the citizens' permanent relief committee in appropriating $5,000 to be used to give municipal work to the unemployed at the rate of a dollar a day was denounced by a majority of those present at yesterday's meeting of the unemployed.

"They are trying to lower the standard of American workingmen," said one delegate, "and we at least should ignore such a proposition. If we are going to be driven to work for such a price, advantage will be taken by employers in the future and they will grind us down to the lowest possible figure. How they can expect a man to live in these times on such a sum is more than I can understand. The union men at least should spurn such an offer."

Despite the suggestion of several conservative members, a resolution was finally adopted condemning the recommendation of the relief committee and urging union men not to take advantage of the offer made.

EXPLOSION OF NITRO-GLYCERIN

Separator Mill at Miller, Ind., Blown Into Atoms.

Chicago, April 13.—The separator mill of the Aetna Powder company at Miller, Ind., was completely wrecked today by the explosion of a quantity of nitro-glycerin. Nobody was in or about the mill at the time and the cause of the explosion is unknown. The building was blown entirely to pieces, the wreckage being scattered over the country for a quarter of a mile. A large hole was blown in the ground where the building stood. The shock of the explosion was so great as to be felt at Hammond, ten miles away.

GRAY MEN CONFIDENT

Expect to Send Delaware Delegation Solid for Jurist.

Bryan Element Makes Vigorous Fight in Kent County.

Dover, Del., April 13.—No doubt exists that the Democratic state convention, to be held here tomorrow, will elect six delegates to the Denver convention, bound by positive instructions to use all honorable means in their power to bring about the nomination of Judge George Gray of Delaware as the Democratic candidate for president. This was absolutely assured by the Democratic primaries of Saturday afternoon.

As a result of these primaries New Castle county sends sixty-five Gray delegates to the state convention, and Sussex county sixty. There was no Gray opposition in the former county and very little in the latter.

In Kent county the Bryan element made a vigorous fight and the contest also was mixed up by the injection of the Prohibition and license issue. The Bryan Democrats claim thirty-six of the sixty delegates, but this claim is disputed, and the exact status of the delegation may remain unknown until the Kent county caucus assembles here tomorrow.

But, conceding the Bryan claims in Kent county, the state convention will consist of 149 Gray delegates and 36 favorable to Bryan. And, while the Bryan majority in Kent county, if there shall be such a majority, may be conceded the right to name the two national delegates from that county. The state convention may use its majority power to send six Gray delegates to the national convention.

The personnel of the national delegates will not be known until after the convention assembles. Tonight the state committee will meet in Dover to arrange convention details and map out the platform to be adopted.

TEN THOUSAND HOMELESS PEOPLE SHIVER IN A COLD RAIN STORM AT CHELSEA

Nearly a Quarter of Boston Suburb Destroyed by Fire.

Three Persons Killed and Half a Hundred Badly Hurt.

Property Damage is Estimated Approximately at $8,000,000.

Boston, April 13.—An area of 350 acres of blackened ruins representing nearly a quarter of the total area of the city, marks the scene of a great fire which swept through the business section of Chelsea yesterday and last night, burning 10,000 people out of their homes and causing a property damage estimated at approximately $8,000,000. Today the burned area is guarded by militiamen and marines to prevent possible looting and military regulations prevail throughout the city.

Early today only three persons were known to have lost their lives in the fire, but it was feared that the number would be increased when a search of the ruins was made. Over half a hundred people were injured and many were taken to the hospitals suffering severely, but this morning all the injured were reported to be doing well, although several still remained on the dangerous list.

Starting near the corner of Cypress and Third streets, from a public dumping grounds, the blaze spread before a northwest gale straight across the city to the southeast, spreading out as it advanced until its northerly boundary reached the eastern division of the Boston & Maine railroad. Thence it extended to the junction of the railroad with the tracks of the Boston & Albany railroad, over which it leaped and then swept on until checked by a small creek. On the other side it crept along Second street until Broadway was reached, and then went along Es-

His body was recovered early today.

COL. POWELL IS INDORSED

Former Duluthian May Represent Arizona at Chicago Convention.

Supported by Republicans of Cochise County for the Honor.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is now a settled fact that the Cochise county delegation which will go into the Republican territorial convention which will be held in Tucson for the purpose of selecting two delegates to represent Arizona in the national convention to be held in Chicago, will go instructed to work and vote for the selection of Col. W. L. Powell of Bisbee, general manager of the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg mining companies. This agreement was made at a caucus of Republicans. It was also agreed to vote as a unit against instructions for any candidate for president.

Prior to the primary election the name of Col. Powell had been quietly mentioned as a possible candidate, but the gentleman himself would take

MAY UNRAVEL OLD MURDER MYSTERY

Man Believed to Know of Rosenheimer Case is Arrested.

New York, April 13.—By the arrest of Frank Monato, at Huntington, Ind., the mystery surrounding the murder of Julius Rosenheimer at Pelham, N. Y., on June 18 last, may be solved. Mr. Rosenheimer was secretary of the London Needle company and resided on an estate at Pelham Manor. With his wife, he was strolling among the shrubbery of his grounds at dusk, when two unknown men jumped from behind a clump of bushes and beat him to death. The murderers fled in haste, after stealing their victim's watch, bearing his initials. No cause for the murderous attack was ever made public. There were several Italian camps in the neighborhood and many Italians were arrested, but soon released. A reward of $5,000 was offered for the arrest of the murderers, but this was withdrawn because of indiscriminate arrests. Private detectives worked on the case for a long while, without success. Chief of Police Marks of Pelham Manor is said to be either in Fort Wayne or Huntington preparing to bring Monato to this state.

SCHAEFER, N. D., HAS BAD FIRE

Courthouse and Several Other Buildings Are Destroyed.

Williston, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The business portion of Schaefer, county seat of McKenzie county, was destroyed by fire today and the courthouse is among the burned buildings. Fire started in Kurtz's Drug store and communicated to adjoining buildings. The only large store left in town is the Bruegger store, which was saved by the iron sidings, and after every well in town was pumped dry. Kurtz was fully insured and the remainder of the losers only partially.

Sheriff Poe hurried to the stricken town today to investigate.

WAGE CUT RESISTED

Motormen and Conductors Strike on Pennsylvania Car Lines.

Reduction of 10 Per Cent in Pay Cause of Trouble.

Philadelphia, April 13.—Sixty men employed as motormen and conductors by the Southwestern Traction company, which operates a trolley road between this city and Chester, Pa., a distance of thirteen miles, went out on strike today because their wages were recently reduced 10 per cent. The strike tied up the road.

Chester, Pa., April 13.—The conductors and motormen and other employes of the Chester Traction company struck today because their wages had been cut 10 per cent. Shortly after the strike was called a car was sent to the city hall for policemen. On the way the car was stoned by a crowd and every window was broken. The traffic is tied up.

New York, April 13.—Several hundred men responded today to an advertisement published in the newspapers calling for non-union motormen and conductors to be sent out of this city. Their destination was not disclosed, but it was rumored among the men seeking employment that they were to be sent to Chester, Pa., where a strike was reported to be pending.

SPRING CLEANING NEEDED.

West Duluth Needs Attack of the City Cleaning Fever.

West Duluth citizens are urging the necessity of getting rid of some of the winter's accumulations of debris in vacant lots.

Especially in this respect have the owners of livery stables and blacksmith shops been spoken of. In many localities beside such places, good-sized piles of unsightly junk have accumulated during the winter. Old wagon boxes, wheels, iron ware and all sorts of worn-out truck make a very unsightly appearance.

But the complaints are not confined alone to the owners of the livery stables and blacksmith shops, for almost every unused lot or alley needs attention.

HER HEART SOFTENED.

Mrs. Henry Ritter Refused to Prosecute Her Husband.

With softened heart Mrs. Henry Ritter came to the West Duluth police station this morning to get her husband from behind the prison bars, where he had spent the night.

Mrs. Ritter last night claimed that her husband had been drinking, and had slapped her across the face with his hand. She had him taken to jail, and she was to appear against him this morning. But this morning she changed her mind, and after a little talk with the prisoner, got his promise that he would be good in the future, so refused to prosecute him. Ritter was not drunk enough to have a drunkenness charge against him, so he was free to return to his home.

Residents on Jefferson Street and London Road Protest.

If the police department had stationed a man on Jefferson road in the neighborhood of Fifteenth, Sixteenth or Seventeenth avenues east, yesterday morning or on London road in Lakeside, yesterday afternoon, the probabilities are that there would have been several arrests made.

It is said that a prominent scientist has discovered a method to restore life to animals and people apparently dead, by pumping the gas out of the lungs and pumping oxygen in, to produce artificial respiration. A. B. KENNEY BACK.

Returns From the East After Buying Fall Goods.

A. B. Kinney of Kenney & Anker, returned today from the East, where he had been completing clothing buying for the fall and winter trade. "The clothing business has progressed some," said Mr. Kenney this morning, as fifteen years ago we used to look at fall lines about the Fourth of July, but here I am buying now before Easter. You have got to do it to get the real things. I met a good many buyers in the markets and all seem to think we are to have a good season, notwithstanding the work of the pessimists. The Southwest is going to have the biggest crop of wheat in years, and the farmers will soon be rushing it to market to get the benefit of the high prices now prevailing. That will make the railroads hum."

MARINE NEWS

ENGINEERS ARE WAITING

No Duluth Men Have Signed Contracts for Season.

Lake Carriers' Contracts Not Yet Received in Duluth.

Not a member of the Duluth branch of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association has seen a contract, much less signed one, for the season of 1908. The published report that eight Tomlinson engineers have signed here is denied, and not even the engineers of the Pittsburg Steamship company, who make their headquarters in Duluta, have signed contracts, despite the fact that the Pittsburg company was the first to sign its engineers as individuals and started the discussion in M. E. B. A. circles in every port on the lakes.

A dispatch from Buffalo this morning says that the marine engineers employed on the Tonawanda Iron & Steel company's fleet have signed individual contracts with the company for the coming season, in line with the open shop policy of the Lake Carriers' association. There are three engineers of the Tonawanda Iron & Steel company fleet in Duluth, and they have not yet received contracts or been approached in any way. G. A. Tomlinson is still in the East, and is expected back today. He may have some propositions to make to his engineers when he returns, but they have heard nothing yet.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association in Cleveland last week, a form of agreement was drawn up, which will be presented to the engineers, and it is probable that copies of it will be received by the local men today or tomorrow, with requests to sign. The agreement provides that the men shall receive the same wages they received last season, and the traveling expenses in the spring and at the close of the season will be paid by the vessel men as heretofore. No time is fixed for the men to go to work, and it will probably be some time before the engineers of the independent boats will receive orders to report for duty. It is expected the engineers of the Pittsburg Steamship company will go to their boats before the end of the month.

No effort has been made by the lake carriers to line up any of the other men that are employed on the boats. That matter will be left to the licensed officers, and while it is not expected the sailors, firemen or cooks will take very kindly to the open shop plan, the vessel-men do not figure on having very much difficulty in manning their ships.

Even if advances are made within the next few days to the engineers in Duluth by the companies, they will not sign until they receive instructions from the head officers of their association. There is some feeling in lower lake ports against the engineers, who have signed individual contracts with the Pittsburg Steamship company, and all may not be as serene as some people expected. It is not known officially by the officers of the M. E. B. A. that the Pittsburg engineers have violated the rules of their association, but if they have, they will very likely be proceeded against. The fact that the legality of their action, from an association point of view, has been questioned may result in all other members of the association being instructed not to sign under similar circumstances until further advised.

There is no disposition on the part of any of the marine labor unions to cause trouble. The engineers have always been known as reasonable and conservative. It is felt by the lake carriers that they will have little trouble signing the engineers, if they can show that their propositions are reasonable. Both the president and secretary of the Lake Seamen's union have expressed themselves against a general strike, and such action will be taken only as a last resort.

Goes to Port Arthur.

The steamer C. W. Moore of the Booth line left yesterday for Isle Royale and Port Arthur on the first trip of the season to those ports, although she made one trip to Grand Marais and Grant Portage. There is little ice in the lake and no trouble was expected in making Port Arthur, the harbor there being clear, according to telegraphic advices.

Ice is Broken.

The tugs Record and Sinclair went to Howard's pocket this morning and broke up the ice around the shipyards without much trouble. This afternoon, they will get at the work of taking out the boats, which have been on the docks all winter to make room for others, which require repairs before the opening of the season.

WORLD'S SMALLEST SCHOOL.

Only One Pupil Who Will Hereafter be Educated Elsewhere.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 13.—The smallest school in the world is located in the town of Sampson, Chippewa county, in what is commonly known as the "Hardscrabble country." The school has one pupil and one teacher; who is paid $35 per month.

For about two years the school board of the district, called No. 5, has been paying this salary and curiously enough the attendance has been only one scholar during this time.

The board now, however, has decided that it is more profitable to send the lone scholar away to school and pay her tuition, and beginning with this spring term the pupil will be taught in the schools of New Auburn and the school will be closed.

RED RIVER FLOOD EBBS; DANGER IS PASSED.

Crookston, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—All danger from the flood is passed. The water is receding. The ice jam above the city broke yesterday and the water fell one foot last night.

ESTIMATES REDUCED

No Outlook for Good Season in Ore Shipping Trade.

Large Amount of Ore Shipped Last Year Not Used.

It is certain that the opening of navigation will be very much delayed this year and it is not likely that any vessels that are enrolled in the Lake Carriers' association will be placed in commission before May 1. The line managers have been requested not to start their boats until that date and not make a move until the channels are free of ice. A meeting of the package freight owners will be held at Buffalo tomorrow, when some action may be taken.

There is not a glimmer of light to be seen in the trade of the Great Lakes for 1908. As far as business is concerned the outlook is discouraging. The movement of ore from dock to furnace has been practically nil during the winter. Of the 60,000 tons on one of the docks in Cleveland on Dec. 1 last, only 40,000 tons have gone forward to furnaces. The Steel corporation alone has 12,000,000 tons on its docks and in its furnace yards, and of the grand total brought down last year, probably 20,000,000 tons is still unconsumed. Furnace men are neither buying ore nor inquiring for any.

The early estimates of a movement of 30,000,000 tons for the present season have now been reduced to 25,000,000 tons. The present lake fleet in an average season has a capacity equal to 50,000,000 tons of ore. The tonnage available for last year's business could easily have moved 5,000,000 tons. With ore shipments cut in half it is clear that the only adequate remedy is a short season. Every one recognizes this and all agree to it. If a general start is not made until June 1, which is the date now spoken of for a general movement, the fleet will be kept reasonably busy during the balance of the season.

INSURANCE RATES HIGH.

Vessel Owners Aroused Over Underwriters' Stand This Year.

The insurance policy that underwriters will offer to vessel owners of the Great Lakes on steel tonnage of the highest class for the season of 1908 is, to use the expressive language of one of the vessel owners, a corker. Prior to 1907 valuation was at $40 per gross ton register. During 1907 it was advanced to $48.50 per gross ton for first valuation. The insurance rate was 4½ per cent, with ⅜ per cent for protection and indemnity and 1⅜ per cent for total loss. The deductable average was $500 and the season extended from April 1 to Dec. 5. This policy was a stiff one compared with former years, but the 1908 policy is far stiffer. This year valuation is based at $58.50 per gross ton. The rate has been advanced to 5 per cent, with ½ per cent for protection and indemnity and 1⅜ per cent for total loss. The season is to extend from April 15 to Dec. 5, with no recovery for ice damage unless it amounts to 3 per cent of the first valuation of the ship. Hitherto owners who did not care for fire and water insurance were permitted ½ per cent reduction, but this privilege is now withdrawn.

SUE FOR SALVAGE.

Duluth Companies Seek to Recover From Crosby Company.

Proceedings have been begun in the admiralty court at Grand Rapids, Mich., by the Duluth Steamship company and the Provident Steamship company of Duluth, to recover salvage from the Crosby Transportation company for aid given the steamer Naomi when afire on Lake Michigan, near Grand Haven.

The steamer Saxona of the Duluth Steamship company and the steamer D. C. Kerr of the Provident Steamship company rendered assistance to the Naomi. The fire was extinguished and the partially burned boat towed to Grand Haven. H. R. Spencer of Duluth, represents the complainant companies, and C. E. Kremer of Chicago, represents the Crosby Transportation company.

TO PREVENT RIOTING.

Additional Troops Are Ordered to the City of Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., April 13.—Additional troops were ordered to the city today as a result of rioting in connection with the strike of the street railway employes. The city was today thoroughly patroled, but no attempt was made during the early hours to run cars, street railway officials declining to operate until the additional troops gave further guarantee of the safety of the strike breakers.

COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED.

Quebec, Que., April 13.—United States secret service officers from New York arrested W. J. Pettikas, in the backwoods yesterday, and charged him with counterfeiting 25-cent pieces. The officers came in search of him and two others. They learned that the former was working in a lumber camp and drove twenty-five miles to get him.

ITS SCOPE IS WIDENED

Boat Club Will Take Up Tennis and Basketball.

The Directors Decide on Many Improvements at Main House.

An important meeting of the directors of the Duluth Boat club was held last week at which plans for the coming season of considerable interest to the membership of the club were discussed and decided upon.

In the first place, the present membership limit of 700 was raised, increasing the membership 100 and the accumulated waiting list of sixty-four names was voted into membership. This leaves a place for thirty-six new members and the filling of this will be confined to the friends of present members suggested by them.

The plans for the improvement of the additional 200 feet frontage recently acquired by the club, were discussed and it was practically decided to improve this space with two tennis courts and a basketball field, and also on this space to build an additional launch house, caring for twenty more launches, which makes accommodation for launches at the main house now for forty-eight launches. The fact that practically all this launch accommodation is already engaged is a striking illustration of the growth in popularity of motor boats in and about the harbor.

The front veranda on the main house will be widened some twelve or fifteen feet, making a very fine promenade and lounging place, and as this front veranda will overlook the entire harbor of the club, including the tennis courts and basketball field, it will make an excellent viewpoint for all the water sports and games at the club. With the removal of the old houses which had obstructed the view of the race course, the entire course of the racing crews will now be visible from the front of the house.

Some changes were decided upon in the interior arrangement of the house—among others, providing for a ladies' dressing room which now seems inoperative with the development of games for ladies, such as tennis courts will provide.

The purchase of two large canoes, to be known as "war canoes," which will carry sixteen to eighteen people, was authorized, and this is expected to develop into a very popular sport here. Crews will be formed from numerous local organizations for local races and some sharp rivalry is looked for during the season. This is a sport which will appeal especially to the older members. These boats are as steady as a large launch and it is not at all improbable that some crews will be formed among the ladies, which will furnish some interesting contests for the Saturday afternoon outings.

It was decided also to put in a tennis court and a basketball field at the Spirit lake branch, and, probably, a small pavilion there with dressing rooms for bathers.

At Oatka the facilities for picnic parties will be somewhat enlarged. This little resort seems increasingly popular, and it is necessary to enlarge its capacity to care for the pleasant day picnic lovers that are attracted to that point.

The club is getting out a little booklet on the attractions of the club, illustrated with photographs taken during the past season. This is more particularly to acquaint its membership with the use of the club and its facilities, and how to most thoroughly enjoy the attractions which the club offers.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

WARNER SHORTAGE IS STILL GROWING

Duluth Division's Books Show $2,000 More Due to State.

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—Fenton G. Warner's alleged shortage in his accounts as state oil inspector for the period from Feb. 1, 1903, to Feb. 1, 1905, is increased $1,975.05 by a supplemental report, filed with the attorney general by Anton Schaefer, shtate public examiner. This report deals exclusively with the Duluth division of the Standard Oil company's territory, and the total shortage reported from the Minneapolis and Duluth divisions is $13,985.05.

Examinations are still to be made in the Mankato, La Crosse and Fargo divisions and report on that part of the work will follow.

The attorney general's department has issued subpoenas for the managers of the Mankato, La Crosse and Fargo divisions, requiring them to appear at the capitol, with all of their books, showing payments to the state oil inspector for Minnesota in the period from 1903 to date. These books will be used in checking Mr. Warner's accounts for the three divisions mentioned.

Standard's Report $7,831.70.

The Duluth division comprises the seven counties of Aitkin, Beltrami, Carleton, Itasca, Lake, Pine and St. Louis, and the total amount known to have been paid to Mr. Warner by the Standard Oil company and the Independent companies for inspection service performed in this territory from Feb. 1, 1903, to Feb. 1, 1905, is $7,-831.70. In the same period Mr. Warner's payments into the state treasury aggregated $5,956.65, leaving $1,975.05 as a balance for which no accounting has been made to the state.

The report of the Duluth division is made by W. C. Heilbron, deputy public examiner, who made the examination also in the Minneapolis division, showing shortage of $12,010. Mr. Heilbron included $2,645.07 as expenses and salary illegally paid to deputies. On this point the attorney general has ruled that legitimate expenses of the deputies in the oil inspector's department should be allowed by the state, but this ruling does not alter Mr. Warren's situation as it stands, for nothing has been filed either in the office or with the state auditor to show that any of the expenses were legitimate.

The attorney general also has ruled that allowances for outshipments of oil that has been inspected are legal, but such allowances are only made on sworn statements from the oil company and proof of shipments, and no such affidavits or proofs of shipment have been found in the office for the period while Mr. Warner was inspector.

TO ENLARGE ATLAS MILL.

Minneapolis and Anoka Parties Acquire the Brainerd Property.

Brainerd, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minneapolis and Anoka men through George C. Jones of Anoka have closed a deal whereby they acquire the Atlas flour mill in this city and will double the capacity bringing it up to 150 barrels per day.

Mr. Jones notifies the farmers of Crow Wing county to sow wheat this year and they can do so with a firm and positive assurance that the mill will pay the top market price in cash for all the wheat that can be raised in Crow Wing county, not only this year but for years to come. The gentlemen interested are experienced mill men and already have a good mill in Anoka. They will make a first-class mill of the one in Brainerd putting in new machinery and making it up-to-date in every respect and will turn out a quality of flour which will not be excelled by any in the market.

Work on the overhauling the mill will commence just as soon as the necessary machinery can get here and it is expected that it will be ready for operation in about six weeks.

Silberstein & Bondy Company.

EASTER WEEK

It is hardly necessary to mention that every hour prior to Easter day is of importance—notwithstanding our enormous business of the past few weeks, there are many who will select their Easter "things" this week.

Two Hundred New Suits

By careful, systematic manipulation we are enabled to enter the final week of the Easter season with a charming assortment of new arrivals. Telegraph lines and express trains have contributed largely to our success in the matter, while America's foremost makers stood faithfully by us in supplying the suits.

We Never Disappoint

Altho we are sure to have patrons selecting even up to the closing hour on Easter Eve, every piece of work will be ready for Easter morn. However, we make but one request, at the wish of our head fitters, please select in the early part of the week if possible.

Just a Word

About the new suits—we want to call particular attention to the suits at $35.00 and $40.00. We were pretty well sold down at this price. Consequently in replacing them we are offering new models, "right to the minute" in style, yet markt even closer than before. Suits in beautiful fancy Panama, in rare English suitings, handsome striped serges, etc., many stunning Paquin effects, cutaway coat and modified Prince Chap styles. Women, who, for whatever reason, have postponed buying, will welcome this fortunate opportunity to buy distinctive and exceptional suits at these lesser prices.

Suits At $25.00

This is another lot of splendidly tailored suits from which many women may yet select. These suits are actually $35.00 values and in offering them at $25.00 we have solved the suit problem for numerous anxious buyers. There are plain and fancy fabrics, some are elaborately trimmed, others richly, yet plainly tailored; jackets are all silk lined, skirts the smartest full-kilted models. See these tomorrow.

Easter Hats

Our trimmed hats have achieved the greatest success. The reason for this is that no two hats are alike. The output of our own workrooms seems to be in greatest demand—some are true copies of French model; others are modified to suit different American ideas; all are highly artistic, with none of that heavy, overtrimmed appearance which is so abhorrent to the woman of good taste. In the $5.00, $6.00 and $7.50 lines are hats of becomingness and beauty. In the still more dressy hats at $10.00 and $12.00 the variety is charming and satisfying. For the elderly woman are many smart becoming little toques and bonnets, trimmed with that care and taste which appeals to the elderly woman of culture. For the miss and the girl we have made ample preparation, the showing being double that of any previous season. Prices commence at $3.50; then $5.00 and so on.

Easter Gloves Are Ready

Here, and here only, are the famous Reynier Gloves from France, and the finest made in any country. None beside the Reynier makers takes such pains with the preparation of skins, the dyeing, the sewing and finishing, and above all, the shaping—and Reynier Gloves can be bought in Duluth only at The S. & B. Co.'s. Remember, we sell no "seconds" at "so-called" reduced prices, and every glove is fitted by experts of long standing. An unsatisfactory glove is dear at any price.

LINCOLN SPIRIT NEEDED TODAY

Social Problem Needs Master Mind, Says Unitarian Pastor.

"Men may even be so well meaning, yet in a crisis only the fewest show the courage of conviction," said Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday. "Many so-called friendships are 'ships' which only sail in friendly weather. The fewest will take a square stand when scandal besmirches the garment of a friend. Instantly comes the thought to many a heart, 'I am compromised by him; what will the world think of me? How can I get out of this dilemma?' And then the coward either sneaks away and hides himself, or if he has a spark of honor left, he will stand off from afar and tremblingly look at the friend nailed to the cross.

"And as it is with individuals so it is with causes. It is easy to cheer for a cause in which the crowd believes, easy to support the popular side of a question. To many right is ever on the side of the largest battalion. Herein is the weakness and danger of our democracy. We are so apt to defy the crowd, as in former days the verdict of kings was thought to be God's judgment. Many of us think the voice of the people is God's voice, and are tyrannized by a mob. But since the world began the voice of God came not to the crowd in the lowlands, but to the prophets on high. The great leaders most always found the masses opposed to them and the true prophets had always to face a cloud of stones. Thus he who ever submits to the verdict of the majority may as likely as not be on the wrong side. The truly loyal soul looks for nothing but the truth and is most loyal to it when it hangs on the cross. It was so two generations ago. Humanity hung on the cross then. It took a strong heart to bear the sneer and the mocking of the slave party. And so the friends of right stood afar off. But thank God there were some brave souls, who dared be true to the conviction of humanity. And those despised and rejected: Phillips, Sumner, Garrison became the prophets of a new day. And out of the Galilliea of America came forth a simple man, a man of but little outward culture, a man despised by the blue blood of the East, and that man took his stand by the side of the prophets of God, by the minority. And he led his people into the new day. And then? Well, then he fell, for his work was done. And then they laid him in a new grave and enshrined in the hearts of his people his spirit still lives.

"But does it live as it should live that splendid Lincoln spirit of justice? Is there nowhere the cause of humanity nailed to the cross? In my mind are two things which cry for prophet and leader. I only touch upon the one, for I wish to deal with it again. What are we as a people doing to bring about such social conditions that will make impossible in our rich land those upheavals of the starving unemployed; those unemployed who hold up their hands not for charity but justice, not for bread but for the labor by which they might earn their bread? As long as the solution of this sad problem is left to the policeman's club, I humbly but conscientiously take my stand by the side of a Mr. Hunter, who trying to pacify the excited mass is dragged down by the brutal hand of so-called justice.

"And secondly what about the problem, which our fathers tried to solve, for which they gave their blood? It has arisen in a still more terrible form. The slave problem has become the vaster race problem. Again we need leaders and prophets. Again we need men who will not stand afar off but stand by the outraged race as it hangs on the cross and boldly say, 'Write me as one, who loves even the least of these, my brethren, and who demands not charity but justice for them.'"

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Paul Gilmore in "The Wheel of Love."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

Green Room Gossip.

Paul Gilmore in George V. Hobart's new automobile romance, "The Wheel of Love," will be the attraction at the Lyceum this evening. Mr. Gilmore was last seen in Duluth in "At Yale." His new play has been favorably commented on. It will be here for one night only.

* * *

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be the only other dramatic offering at the Lyceum this week, playing here Friday and Saturday.

With George P. Murphy at their head, the Tiger Lilies are at the Metropolitan for their annual engagement. This season, the Campbell-Drew Amusement company has provided complete new equipment. They will give a bargain matinee tomorrow and the usual matinees during the rest of the week. Thursday night, a chorus girls' contest will be held.

MAYOR PAYS A FINE.

Is a Brewer and Struck a Neillsville Temperance Worker.

Neillsville, Wis., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Kent Listeman of this city was fined in justice court for assaulting an old man, Charles Hudson, on the street. The assault was the outgrowth of the fight which the temperance and liquor factions of Neillsville waged before election.

Mayor Listeman, who is a brewer, published articles in the local paper favoring saloon licenses. In response to these Hudson read an article at a temperance meeting last Sunday, which was ordered printed on handbills and scattered about the city before election. This aroused the ire of Mayor Listeman.

The two men met on the street, and the mayor, it is charged, struck Hudson in the face. The latter swore out a warrant. Mayor Listeman pleaded guilty. The incident caused a sensation.

JOHNSON WILL ACCEPT.

Tommy Burns' Manager in New York to Sign Articles.

New York, April 13.—Unless one of the other backs out at the last moment, Jack Johnson and Tommy Burns will be formally matched today to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. Burns' manager is here with a proposition that the Canadian boxer will take Johnson for a bout of forty-five rounds, or to a finish, provided he (Burns) can have $20,000 of the purse, win, lose, or draw, and Johnson will agree to a side bet of $5,000.

Sam Fitzpatrick, Johnson's manager, said yesterday he would accept the terms and would sign articles today. He said:

"We are willing to fight Burns for nothing, because Johnson can beat him and will then have a chance to get the money later on."

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts promptly yet gently on the bowels through which the cold is forced out of the system, and allays inflammation. All druggists.

MONSTER TIGER WILL WELCOME DELEGATES.

Denver, April 13.—A monster tiger, constructed of papier mache, placed at the principal corner of the city, will welcome the delegates to Denver when they come to the Democratic national convention July 7. This emblem has been selected instead of the prosaic donkey, as the striped king of the jungle lends himself more readily to the purposes of ornamentation.

The great auditorium, which seats 12,500 people, and has standing room for fully 1,000 more, will be completed June 17.

ANOTHER CANARD NAILED.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., April 13.—Relative to the story which appeared in a Chicago paper, which represented that Bishop R. H. Weller had resigned as coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Fond du Lac, intending to enter a Roman Catholic monastic order, Bishop Weller enters an emphatic and indignant denial. He announces that the Chicago paper agreed to retract the statement.

FOOD FOOLISHNESS "FORCE"

The druggist lives on your "food follies." If every one ate the druggist would have to turn grocer. There's no stomach so weak that it cannot digest FORCE. Its thin, crisp flakes are quickly penetrated by the digestive fluids and the barley-malt enables the intestines to digest the starch. FORCE helps Nature. Not a medicine, but a food.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "Just as Good."

EVELETH HAS LOST ITS CITY CLERK

Consumption Takes Mr. Skeel, Popular Official of City.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—City Clerk Skeel died this morning, about 2 o'clock from consumption. He had been growing weaker from the disease for some time and was unable to attend to his public duties which were looked after by Mrs. Skeel.

Mr. Skeel was born in Waunakee, Wis., Feb. 12, 1872, and was therefore 36. He is survived by his widow, but no children. Mr. Skeel was once a second lieutenant in the Wisconsin militia. He was a member of the Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias, which orders will participate in the funeral to be held here at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, from the M. E. church. The body will be taken to Wisconsin for interment.

Mr. Skeel was a candidate for municipal judge against Judge Prince at the last election, receiving 79 votes to 28 for Prince.

Since the ravages of consumption have made serious inroads into his constitution Mr. Skeel has been sleeping out of doors in a tent in the hope the open air treatment would prolong his life. He was popular and his death is generally regretted.

He was about 60 years old, unmarried, and had been an inmate of the home for the aged at St. Alexander hospital for the past four years.

ASHLAND BREWER GETS BUSINESS

Signs Agreement Not to Sell Blind Piggers at Aurora.

Aurora, Minn., April 13.—The people of Aurora are very much pleased with the outlook that the breweries will sign the blind pig resolution recently passed by the village council. Friday, when the village council closed up the saloons of Charles R. Hill, Matt Alto and George Pollank, Mr. Alto boarded the train for Duluth with a copy of the resolution for the Fitger Brewing company to sign. These men all handle Fitger's beer.

Mr. Alto returned Sunday morning with the agreement signed, but not by Fitger. Alto says the Fitger people asked him to wait until the Brewery association met and until after the company had held a conference with the mining people, but he refused to do so and proceeded on his way to Ashland, where the Ashland Brewing company signed the agreement, and upon order shipped to Alto a car load of beer.

It is thought as the different licenses come up for approval that, unless the breweries who are selling to the range towns sign the agreement, the saloon men will all order their beer from foreign breweries. Coleraine and McKinley have drawn up resolutions similar to the Aurora resolution and are following Aurora's lead.

The Finlander stabbed by Hill Friday night is passed, the danger point and will recover. Hill will have his hearing next week.

The Iron Range railway company is building a spur track into the Meadow mine for the purpose of hauling in coal.

TWO HARBORS EVENTS.

Local Occurrences in the County Seat of Lake County.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hector Iron company's engine No. 9, which has been at the Duluth & Iron Range shops undergoings repairs was returned to Mesaba this morning and will be used in the stripping service at the Spring mine, a St. Clair property.

The Lunz Lumber company's mill at Waldo started sawing this morning on their summer's cut. They have about 500,000 feet of logs on the skidways.

Three or four new Finnish farmers have settled in the Knife River district west of town during the winter and others are expected to locate soon. The land is some of the best in the county.

The baseball boys are getting in daily practice on the shop grounds during the slack season, but as yet nothing definite has been done towards the organization of a regular club.

With the recent dry weather and warm winds the roads are rapidly drying up. They are in good shape now for hauling and in a few days bicycling will be good.

SCHOOL FOR GILBERT.

Question of Erecting Building to be Voted On.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—School district, No. 18, composed of Sparta, Elba, Gilbert and McKinley held an election Saturday evening to vote on the question of raising $90 000 for the erection of a school building at Gilbert, through the issuance of bonds. The proposed building will include the high school for the district and will be the most substantial. The school board intends to have the building ready for occupancy by September, for the regular fall term.

WILL CLEAN EVELETH.

Health Authorities Are Planning to Start Work.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of health, composed of Health Commissioner Gans and Aldermen Andrews, Johnson and Shea, met at the home of the health commissioner and discussed the cleaning up of the city. On account of the frost that is still in the ground no date was fixed for the beginning of the cleaning. Some improvement will probably be made at the dumping grounds as Health Commissioner Gans, Aldermen Johnson and Shea, who recently inspected the grounds were not well pleased with the results of the investigation.

NEW COMPANY DRILLED.

Compaay F., M. N. G., Put Through Sprouts.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Company F of the Third regiment, First battalion, held a special drill Saturday night. The men were placed into squads first under Private Alfred Miller, C. U. Jenkins, A. W. May, Abe Levant, Albin Weiss and Second Lieut. F. R. Ellsworth. After drilling some time in squads the company was placed together in charge of Private May. The latter has had considerable military experience, as he was only last year discharged honorably from his regiment that was stationed at Fort Riley, after three years' service. He is employed in the engineering corps at the Adams mine, and appears capable of drilling the men well.

PROPOSED EVELETH PARK.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A plan is on foot to try to get the park board to open up a park on the land between the Fayal location and the town proper. The idea is to get private parties to cultivate this land for themselves for one or two year, when the land would be suitable for park purposes. Through this method the land would be freed of stones, stumps and hummocks. The ground is very fertile, and if this park is created it will add much to the appearance of the town.

GILBERT'S NEW BANK.

Bank in New Town to Open May 1—Other Gilbert Events.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First National bank of Gilbert, which was recently organized by J. C. Poole, James A. Robb, W. J. Smith, D. W. Freeman and C. E. Bailey of this city, will be opened about May 1 in the Bailey block, which was completed last week.

Sunday afternoon the baseball enthusiasts of Gilbert met and elected M. M. Sweet manager. The men back of the team intend to make it one of the best on the range. They are on the lookout for some fast players to fill out the team.

The town will soon be able to boast of a restaurant, bakery and livery barn. The restaurant will be put in by John Olson, the bakery by M. Beyonka of this city, and the livery barn by McHale and Hogan of Sparta, who will place a branch in the new town. A clothing store will soon be built by Nathanson Bros. of Eveleth.

W. R. Moore, who has been very successful as promoter of the Gilbert Townsite company, resigned last Wednesday and left with his wife yesterday, for their home at Hillsdale, Mich.

GAVE FINE ENTERTAINMENT.

Pupils of Hibbing Central School Acquitted Themselves Admirably.

Hibbing, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the many notable events in Hibbing school circles was the entertainment given by the pupils of the Central school building at the Lincoln high school auditorium on Thursday evening. The work of the pupils all belonging to the fifth and lower grades, was exceptionally fine and showed rare good training by Mrs. Herrick, the principal, as well as the tetchers of the lower grades. The auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity, and the audience was more than pleased with the entertainment.

NEW PEARCE SHAFT

Is Being Rushed to Completion by Meridan Company.

Chisholm, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Meridian Iron Mining company is building another shaft at the Pearce mine. It is about seventy-five feet deep now and the officials expect to be shipping before the season is over. The shaft is situated about 400 feet southwest from the old shaft. Work is being rushed on it. The ore in this mine is of the highest grade.

TO MOVE BALL PARK.

Plans on Foot to Make Such Change in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The baseball park at present located in the heart of the city will probably be moved very soon to the grounds of the St. Louis County Agricultural society. It is expected the society, at its annual meeting to be held in a few days, will decide to grant the baseball players the grounds.

During the Miles hotel fire last winter a portion of the fence that surrounds the present park was burned. It would take considerable money to repair the damage, and the owners of the club are now planning on putting the park in the center field of the race track.

If a deal that is on foot now goes through, the fair ground will be converted into a place of amusement throughout the summer. Besides baseball there will be matinee horse races, picnics and other forms of entertainment.

The fair grounds are only about one mile from the center of the city, and a sidewalk will be built out to them to accommodate the crowds that will journey out there this coming summer.

NEW HIBBING HOTEL.

Structure to Replace Burned One Seems Assured.

Hibbing, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—George A. Markham, who has been working on a scheme to rebuild the Miles hotel, destroyed by fire here last winter, is said to have closed a deal in Duluth with capitalists of that city which will insure the construction of a thoroughly up-to-date building at once. A brick structure several stories in height for a hotel and theater is contemplated upon the site of the former building. Local capitalists have joined those of Duluth in the enterprise, and Mr. Markham is so much encouraged that he has gone to the Twin Cities to arrange for the plans.

TRACTION COMPANY TO BUILD INTO CHISHOLM.

Chisholm, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In an interview with two prominent business men of this place, Manager R. F. Berdie of the Northern Traction company stated that the company will start laying the tracks and grading the road at once. The company has about one mile of road built. The present plan is to get power from the Northern Power company. Mr. Berdie also stated that cars will be running about Aug. 1. Seventy-five thousand dollars' worth of stock will be placed on the market.

GUN CLUB ACTIVE.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Two Harbors Gun club is making arrangements to lease a new site for the shooters. The club has purchased new traps, etc., and will soon have first class grounds and equipment and be ready for contests with any of the outside clubs. The first practice shoot was held Wednesday, and as soon as the grounds are in shape, regular practice days will be had.

NO. 6 DOCK WORK DELAYED WAITING FOR NEW TRACKS.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the tracks not yet being in readiness, the American Bridge company will not start work on the steel construction of No. 6 ore dock for a couple of weeks.

The Barnett & Record company still has a force of men at work getting out rock and filling in between the two concrete piers.

DELEGATES FROM EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The delegates from Eveleth to the Republican county convention are: Alderman Hatch for the First ward, Solomon Sax for the Second, and County Commissioner Neil McInnis for the Third ward.

"There's a Reason."

BREWERS WILL HELP

Will Refuse to Sell Beer to Suspected "Blind Piggers."

Will Aid Town Authorities in Stamping Out Illegal Resorts.

The brewing interests will co-operate with the authorities of the range towns in an effort to stamp out blind pigs there.

In a communication to W. J. Olcott of the Oliver Iron Mining company, and the president and common council of the village of Aurora, the brewers announce their willingness to help in the campaign to stop the illegal sale of liquor on the range.

They decline, however, to enter into any agreements to sell their goods only to licensed saloons and to turn down orders from private parties. They point out to the range folks that such a move would be a violation of Section 5168, general laws of the state of Minnesota, which refers to trusts and combinations and which provides for punishment for violation by heavy fines or imprisonment.

The authorities at Aurora would have the brewers sign an agreement to sell only to licensed saloons and not to private parties. The brewers say that this is hardly reasonable and that it would be unlawful to deprive any man of the right to buy what he chooses and where he chooses, as long as in so doing he does not violate the liquor laws or any other statue.

While they are loath to agree to refuse to sell beer to private parties, the brewers show a willingness to decline to deliver goods to such when advised by the local authorities not to do so, for the reason that the would be purchasers are under suspicion as "blind piggers."

The Solution Suggested.

This, in fact, is the situation of the blind pig problem on the range, which the brewers suggest and agree to use their energies in behalf of. They declare that the range communities themselves, through their own police, are in a better position to tell who are "blind piggers" than the brewers, and urge that the range people supply the brewery agents with information and the brewers will decline to sell goods, directly or indirectly, to any place or party designated by the officers as unworthy of such consideration.

The brewers say that they are anxious to assist in eradicating the evils caused by intemperance and to protect the licensed saloons against the competition of unlawful places.

Following were the communications of the brewing companies to the range people:

"Duluth, Minn., March 20th, 1908.

"Mr. William J. Olcott, President, D. M. & N. Railway Company, Duluth, Minn.

"Dear Sir—Acting on the information that at a recent informal conference, held by you and a number of the leading superintendents of the mines on the ranges and August Fitger at your office, the prevailing method of selling beer on the several locations was considered, the undersigned brewers submit the following:

"The brewers of this country, and especially of this district, declare their willingness to assist and co-operate in eradicating the evils caused by intemperance, whether they originate in licensed or unlicensed drinking places.

"Permit us further to say that we are not interested in the management, ownership or financial results in a single saloon in this territory, our ownership of several buildings and fixtures notwithstanding, but it is and always will be our purpose and object to uphold and protect the licensed saloon against the competition of unlawful places.

"We infer that you do not request of us to forego our right to sell to private parties, and we believe that sales to boarding houses on mining company locations, when for the purpose of consumption by the boarders who drink beer instead of tea or coffee, are not conducive to intemperance.

"What we desire to stop is the illegal retailing of beer and spirituous liquors by boarding house keepers and others, and in this we ask your assistance by designating through your officers such places where the selling of beer, etc., is carried on in such unlawful manner.

"We shall all cheerfully agree that whenever we have been notified of such conditions, we shall peremptorily order our teamsters and those of our wholesale dealers to discontinue delivering beer in any quantities whatsoever to any place so designated by you.

"Trusting that you believe this request to be made in good faith, and that you will co-operate with us in our endeavors to improve the prevailing conditions, we remain, yours very respectfully,

"A. Fitger, President.

"JOS. SCHLITZ BREWING CO.,
"Bielefeld.
"JOHN GUND BREWING CO.,
"Carl Kurtenacker.
"VAL. BLATZ BREWING CO.,
"J. Koerner, Secretary."

"To the President and Council of the Village of Aurora, Minn.

"Gentlemen:

"Enclosed you will find a clipping from a local paper which cites an agreement which is expected to be signed by us before you will issue a retail liquor license to a saloonkeeper who might possibly want to buy beer from us.

"If this paper quotes you correctly, then we beg to say that the above request is unreasonable. It is not in any way unlawful for us to sell a case or a keg of beer to a private party, and such purchase is not in itself conducive of any illegal practice by the purchaser. He may want it for his own use or that of his family and he cannot, by law, or agreement, be deprived of his right to buy what he chooses and where he chooses.

"The enclosed copy of our recent letter to Mr. Olcott and the mining companies will show you how we look at this, our right to sell. It will show you at the same time that we are ready at all times to refuse selling to any party who may, in their judgment, be guilty of violating any liquor laws.

"Believe us that it is our determined intention to assist in each and every effort to elevate the liquor business, and at the same time to protect the licensed saloon from the competition of illegal places, but in this we need the assistance of the village authorities and that of the mining companies in order to accomplish good results.

"We, ourselves, are, however, not in a position to discern the purchaser who may buy for his own use from the one who may use it for illegal selling, while you, yourselves, through your police force may often be in a position to judiciously make this difference. Therefore, we will say that we shall gladly accept such information from you and in case we are so informed we shall always refuse to sell, directly or indirectly, to any place or party so designated.

"By entering into an agreement with you not to sell to private parties, but only to licensed saloons, would be opening the doors to the penitentiary for both you and ourselves, under the following section of the revised laws of Minnesota for 1905, as such an agreement would be clearly in restraint of trade.

"Section 5168—Trusts and combinations. "No person or association of persons shall enter into any pool, trust, agreement, combination, or understanding whatsoever with any other person or association, corporate or otherwise, in restraint of trade, within this state, or between the people of this or of any other state or country, or which tends in any way or degree to limit, fix, control, maintain, or regulate the price of any article of trade, manufactured, or used, bought and sold within the state, or which limits or tends to limit competition in the purchase and sale thereof, or which tends or is designed so to do. Every person violating any provision of this section, or assisting in such violation, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000, or by imprisonment in the state prison for not less than three years nor more than five years.

"We hardly believe that you desire to do anything which might make us liable to an indictment by the grand jury and such an agreement as you suggest would bring this about under the above section.

"Section 5169 provides that every domestic corporation which shall directly or indirectly violate any provision of the above section, or which shall in any way assist in carrying out any of the purposes of such illegal restraint of trade, etc., in addition to the penalties imposed upon the members thereof by said section, shall forfeit all its corporate franchises, etc.

"Hoping that you will see our position in the right light, and that you will receive this, our communication, in the same spirit of fairness in which it is offered, we remain, Yours very respectfully.

no active part in the matter. He simply stated that if the Republicans of Cochise county thought he was the most available man, he would be willing to act, but he was not seeking political honors.

It was pretty generally understood that the ticket which was victorious in the primary would support Powell. A meeting was held to obtain the general sentiment in regard to such a course, about fifty Republicans being present, including all but two or three of the delegation elected.

Frank R. O'Brien, who has been one of the leaders in the revolt against the central committee, introduced a resolution to the effect that the delegation which will attend the convention to be held in this city to select delegates to represent Chochise at the territorial convention, shall vote as a unit to send a delegation instructed to vote and work for Col. L. W. Powell, as one national delegate to Chicago, and to vote solidly for an unrestricted delegation to the national convention. This resolution was unanimously adopted.

With Bisbee, Lowell and a large proportion of the Douglas delegation this resolution was carried at the convention on Saturday without opposition.

In speaking of the selection of Col. Powell a prominent Republican said:

"I do not think there is any doubt that Cochise county will be able to secure the selection of Col. Powell as one of the delegates to represent Arizona in the Republican national convention. In regard to the sending of an uninstructed delegation to Chicago there can be no room for doubt, in view of the results of the primaries in the various counties of the territory."

OVER 5,000 MEN

ing the principal speakers at the exercises to be held in the city park. In order to assemble this great marching force, it will be necessary for the sailors and marines to embark in small boats from their respective ships at 12 o'clock, noon.

Landing Will Be Interesting.

The maneuvers of landing the 5,000 men, after a journey of some ten or twelve miles from the bay into San Diego will be a spectacle in itself and will be watched with keen interest as an evidence of small boat drill efficiency in the fleet. All of the men will be landed with arms and in light marching order. The force to be landed at San Diego has often been designed as the "fleet naval brigade."

Sixty-four separate companies of blue jackets and sixteen companies of marines compose the total force. As commander of the fleet, Rear Admiral Thomas has selected Capt. Seaton Schroeder, commanding the battleship Virginia. Capt. Schroeder is to be promoted to flag rank and will command one of the divisions of the battleship fleet when it starts on its cruise around the world from San Francisco in July.

The marine brigade will be commanded by Maj. Dion Williams, U. S. N. fleet marine officer.

Commander V. S. Nelson of the repair ship Panther has been designated as beach master of the brigade, and will have charge of the landing of the men on shore.

An escort of honor, a battalion of coast artillery from the army post at Fort Rosecrans local companies of the California National Guard and naval reserves, posts of the G. A. R. Confederate veterans, Spanish war veterans and uniformed civic bodies also will have a place in Wednesday's parade.

CAPT. SNIDER CHOSEN.

Will be Temporary Chairman of Republican State Convention.

Minneapolis, April 13.—Capt. S. P. Snider of Minneapolis will officiate as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention, which will be held in the Minneapolis Auditorium, next Thursday. He was formerly congressman from this district, but has not been very active in politics for some years. His friends have talked considerably this year of making him a candidate for governor.

The convention will be called to order at 11 a. m., in the Auditorium by Chairman Cole of the state committee, who will at once introduce the temporary chairman. After the report of the credentials committee a permanent chairman will be selected.

The state committee will maintain headquarters, Wednesday and Thursday, in an office adjoining the West Hotel lobby. It will be in charge of Secretary Salmon, who will receive credentials there and issue badges. It is expected that most of the delegates will arrive Wednesday afternoon and evening.

SOLD INTO BONDAGE.

Sensational Discovery is Made in Houghton County.

Houghton, Mich., April 13.—The local authorities have unearthed a case of bondage, in which a 15-year-old Austrian girl plays the leading role.

Sold for $80 by her uncle, Josephine Gragoch was turned over to Mrs. Antonia Pinter of Hurontown, a suburb of Houghton, and immediately pressed into slavery. Relatives of the girl, learning where she was, came to the Pinter home, and with the aid of the authorities, took her from her miserable surroundings. The uncle, Victor Albanac, left for Austria after securing the $80, while Mrs. Pinter is out both the money and the girl. Albanac is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Pinter, and there are a lot of tangled complications in the deal, which has aroused the people of the district.

IS SAUK CENTER BOY.

Fred W. Carpenter, the Private Secretary of Secretary Taft.

Sauk Center, Min., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many persons in all parts of the United States are receiving letters these days bearing the signature of Fred W. Carpenter, for Mr. Carpenter is daily handling a mail second only in volume to that of the president of the United States. Mr. Carpenter is the trusted private secretary of William H. Taft, perhaps the foremost for the Republican presidential nomination, and is frequently referred to as Taft's right hand man.

Frederick Wright Carpenter is the only son of Mrs. Ira Carpenter, and was born in Sauk Center 33 years ago, where he received his early education. Mr. Carpenter is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, graduating from that institution with honors. Immediately after his graduation he came to St. Cloud, where he studied law in the office of Capt. Oscar Taylor. Since that time he has been connected with political men.

Mr. Carpenter is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sprague of Sauk Center, where he frequently visits.

BIDS ARE CALLED FOR

Courthouse Commission Asks Contractors to Submit Figures.

County Board Also Asks for Bids on Wrecking Houses.

Today the St. Louis County Courthouse commission began advertising for sealed proposals for the construction of a courthouse at Fifth avenue west and Second street, and the board of county commissioners began advertising for sealed proposals for the wrecking of several buildings on the site which the county is acquiring for the courthouse.

The bids on the courthouse will be opened in the office of the courthouse commissioners May 12, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and the bids for the wrecking of the buildings will be opened in the office of the county auditor at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day.

It is a matter of much general satisfaction among the citizens of the city and county that matters relative to the new courthouse have progressed so rapidly, and favorable comment is heard on all sides concerning the prompt and efficient manner in which both the courthouse commission and the county board are pushing forward the acquisition of the site and the construction of the building.

The sealed proposals for the courthouse will also be received at the office of D. H. Burnham & Co. of Chicago, architects, who are associated with Architect J. J. Wangenstein of this city in the plans and superintendence of the building of the structure.

Copies of Plans.

Secretary G. H. Claypool of the courthouse commission received from the Chicago architects this morning thirty copies of the plans and specifications for the new building, which will be available to the contractors. These plans are complete as to detail and are regarded as quite valuable, so much so that the contractors who secure copies to figure on their bids will be required to make a deposit of $100 for their return in good condition.

The courthouse commission will give the contractors the option of bidding on the construction work in its entirety or one or more of the different classes of work, such as foundations and masonry, carpentry, plumbing, steel, hardware, ornamental iron, etc.

Each bid must be accompanied by a deposit equal to 5 per cent of the total of the bid, in the form of a certified check. Deposits will be returned to unsuccessful bidders, and to the successful bidder when he shall have executed a satisfactory surety bond to the county, the penalty of which shall be the contract price. If the bidder fails to enter into the contract and bond within ten days after notice of acceptance of this bid he will forfeit his deposit.

The couthhouse commission reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The advertisements for the proposals for the wrecking of certain buildings on the courthouse site includes the purchasing, wrecking and removal of the structures within sixty days from the date of the acceptance of the bid.

Wreck Old Landmarks.

The buildings to be wrecked at this time are as follows: The double 2-story brick dwelling house at 501-503 West Second street; the double 2-story brick dwelling at 505-507 West Second street; the double 2-story brick dwelling at 211-213 North Fifth avenue west; the frame dwelling at 206 North Fifth avenue west; the 2-story brick dwelling at 129 North Fifth avenue west, and the 2-story brick veneer dwelling at 432 West Second street.

The county board will take bids on any or all of the buildings, the bids to be accompanied by a certified check of 5 per cent of the amount of the bid. The deposits will be returned to unsuccessful bidders, and to the successful bidder after he executes a proper bond to perform the work.

The county board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

HURRY CALLS.

Police Make Good Speed on New-Fangled Track Bicycle.

The police have received a device for making hurry calls in the East end after the cars stop running. It is on the bicycle order and runs on street car tracks. It is practically two bicycles on a frame, side by side, and is operated with pedals.

Sergeant Gillon and Patrolman Bradley had the machine out for a trial spin yesterday morning, and made fine time with it. The bike will be kept at the Central police station to answer all emergency calls. Between 12:30 and 5 o'clock in the morning the street cars do not run, and it is hard for the present police force to keep the city well covered.

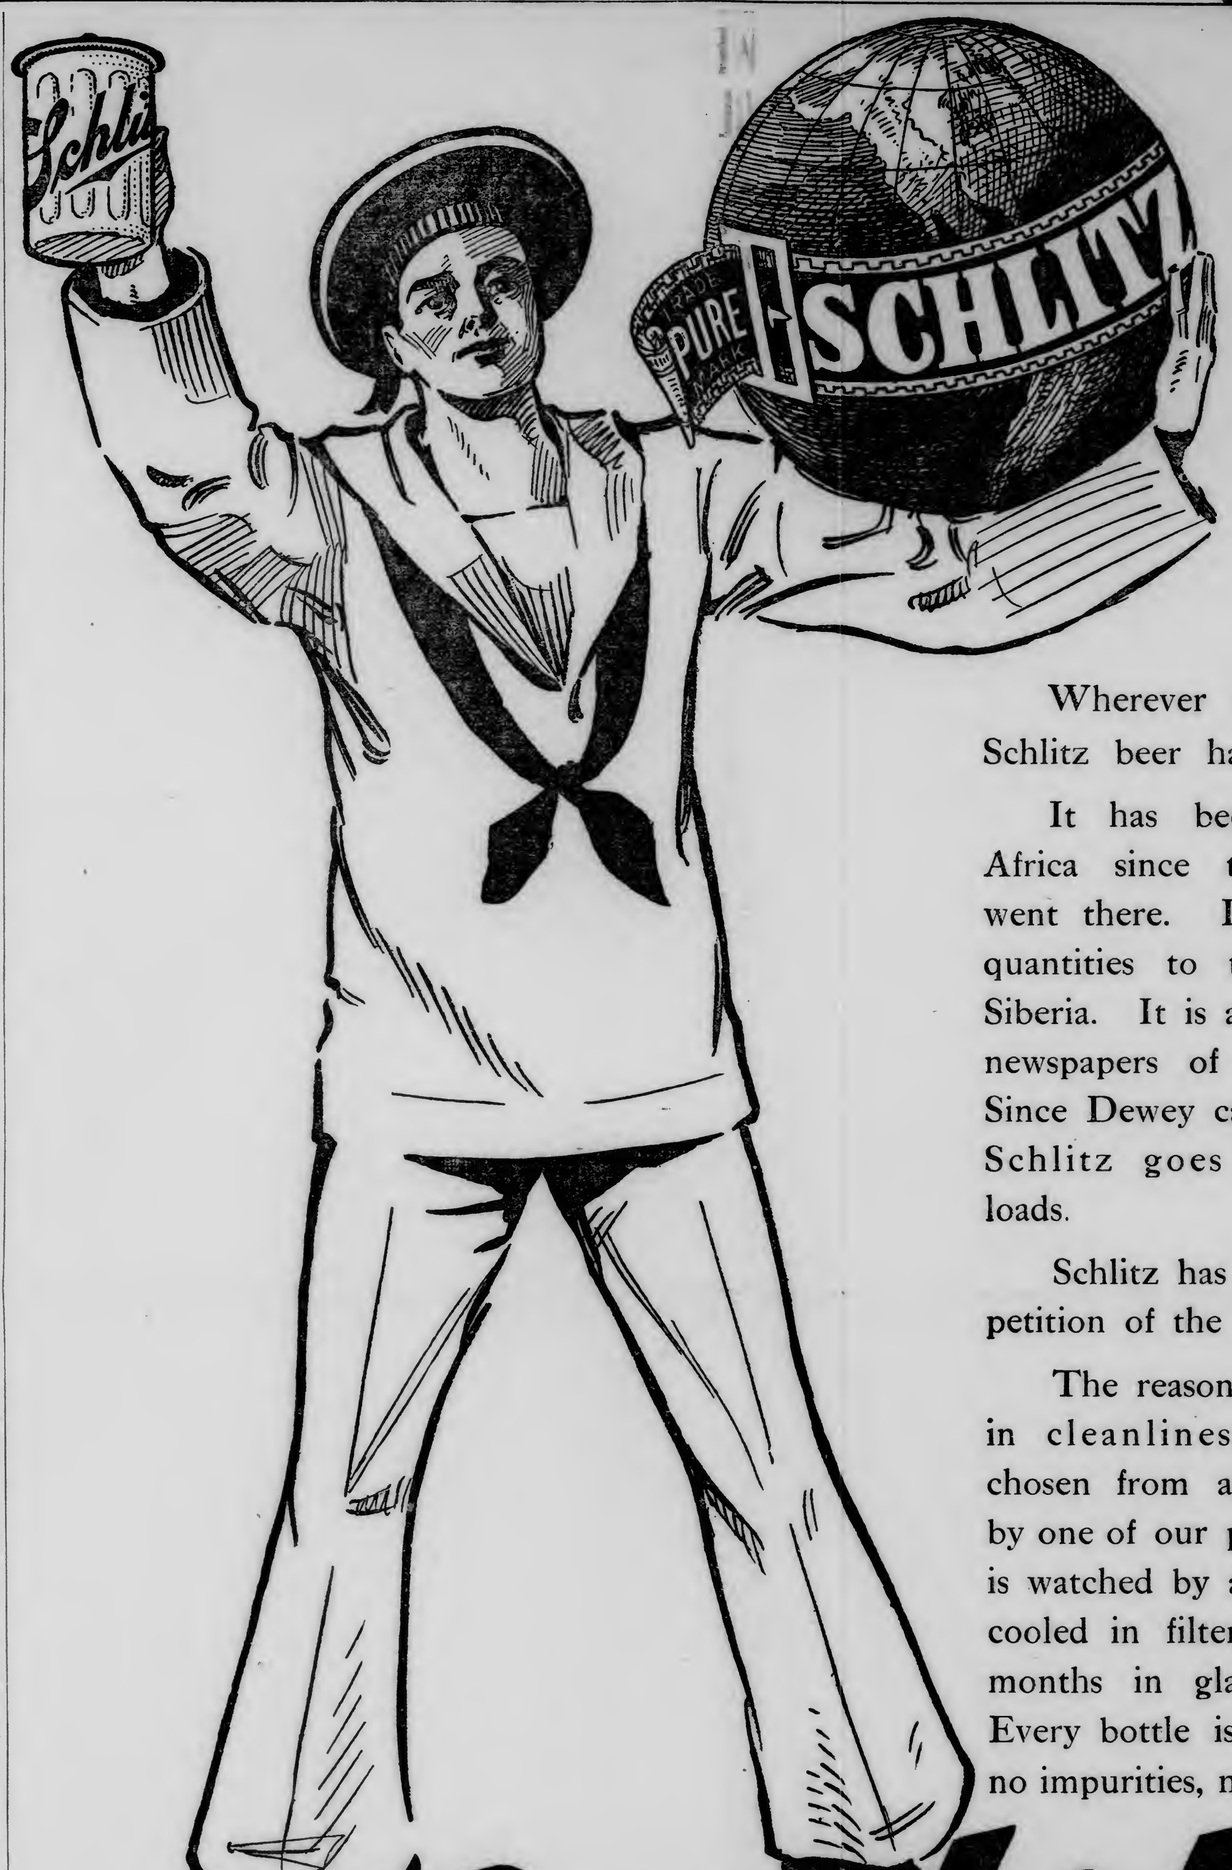

PRESENT FOR KING.

Swedish Residents of San Francisco to Present Loving Cup.

San Francisco, April 13.—A party of Swedish residents of San Francisco is about to leave here for Europe, charged by their countrymen with a special mission to the king of Sweden. Actuated by a desire to express due appreciation of the generous response from their native land, to their appeal for aid at the time of the disaster to this city, the Swedish-American Patriotic League of California collected a snug sum and had a large silver and gold loving cup made, suitably engraved, which will be sent to King Gustave on June 16, his birthday. The presentation will be made by a committee of the club.

KILLS HUGE OTTER.

Pine City, Minn., April 13.—(Speecial to The Herald.)—An otter hide has been the center of attraction at Madden's feed and seed store. The hide is five feet long and a very fine specimen. John Mista of Beroun, secured the otter while trapping at Cedar lake, northeast of Beroun, during the latter part of January. Besides the otter Mr. Mista found a market at Madden's for thirty-nine additional pieces, of muskrat and mink hides.

around the world

Wherever civilization has gone, Schlitz beer has followed.

It has been known in South Africa since the white man first went there. It is shipped in large quantities to the frigid wilds of Siberia. It is advertised in the quaint newspapers of China and Japan. Since Dewey captured the Philippines Schlitz goes there in solid train loads.

Schlitz has won against the competition of the whole world.

The reason is we go to extremes in cleanliness. Our materials are chosen from among the best grown by one of our partners. Our brewing is watched by another. The beer is cooled in filtered air. It is aged for months in glass lined steel tanks. Every bottle is sterilized. There are no impurities, no biliousness in Schlitz.

It keeps in any climate and always retains its delicious flavor.

SUPPRESSING VIOLENT COUNSEL.

With an obtuseness very unusual, which jars harshly upon one's preconceived notion of its unfailing perspicacity, the Hibbing Mesaba Ore completely misapprehends the position of The Herald with reference to the recent action of the postoffice department in barring two anarchistic newspapers from the mails.

Says the Mesaba Ore: "The Duluth Evening Herald, always fairminded, censures the postmaster general for his recent action in suppressing two anarchist papers published in the East. The Herald says the government official acted without warrant of law, and in that The Herald is possibly right, but we are of the opinion that it was a case where it was necessary to make of himself a law in order to offer speedy and effective resistance to a deadly poison that is dangerous to the country at large."

This was very poor material out of which to pick a quarrel with The Herald, because the Mesaba Ore's opinion about the propriety of the postmaster general's action toward publications that preach violence is exactly what The Herald said about it. Speaking of the case of the newspaper Nihil, this newspaper said: "It was right that it should be suppressed, because Nihil preached murder and violence, and the doctrine of a free press was never designed to cover such an abuse of freedom."

The Hibbing paper adds misrepresentation to misapprehension when it heads its editorial "Sympathizing With the Anarchists," because The Herald never has and never will sympathize with anarchists. On the contrary, it has approved every method taken toward their suppression, and has stated that in its belief extinction is the only remedy for anarchism.

But while it approves the action of the postmaster general in suppressing anarchistic newspapers, even without warrant of law, The Herald deplores the condition that makes it necessary to act without law; that is, the absence of a law covering such cases.

All this newspaper was trying to say was that there ought to be a law, a very stern and rigid law providing sufficiently severe penalties, to cover these cases. And having such a law, it must be sternly enforced.

It must be very obvious that the absence of such a law, coupled with the clear necessity of vigorous action without the authority of law, is likely to get the postoffice department into very bad habits. It practically means that having broken the ice, a postmaster general may suppress any publication whose ideas do not meet his own impressions. That is too much power to give any man, and it covers a subject too deeply important to be so handled. The Herald does not believe that it is good policy to establish the practice of acting without the authority of law, because that is anarchy, and it is anarchy that we are striving to root out of this fair land.

The remedy is so simple that there should be no need of discussion. All that congress has to do is to enact a law prohibiting the publication and circulation of newspapers that preach violence, arson and murder. It will be enforced, and the country will be the better for its enforcement. It will then be no longer necessary to take righteous action in an unrighteous manner.

The Herald would implore the Mesaba Ore to read it more understandingly as a prelude to criticism.

THE WASTREL WASTERS.

The attention of the people has been very forcibly called, in recent years, to the persons who constitute what might be called the plutocratic class in this country.

They are naturally conspicuous anyway, because of their immense possessions and the immense power these provide, but here and there scions of this class have made more startling bids for attention than mere wealth and mere "social position." One daughter of the rich buys a foreign title with the incumbrance of a degenerate husband, tries the life in European circles of nobility for awhile, naturally makes a mess of it, divorces her misfit and bad bargain of a husband, returns home, and immediately, to the disgust of her family, shows a desire to try it again with another wastrel nobleman.

This story is but one of many, all generally alike however much they may differ in details and in degrees of shame and sorrow.

Sons of the rich, whom fate has provided with no more worthy aim in life than to give themselves a good time, take up with chorus girls and the female vampires of the Great White Way, and acquire a large assortment of notoriety and disgrace.

Divorce cases of unparalleled flagrance, wherein the parties vie with each other in the number and variety of their co-respondents, abound in the news. While bread lines and swarming hosts of idle, discouraged men disgrace society on the one hand, the flaw is clearly pointed out by the parallel existence of families whose prodigal dissipations prove that hunger does not exist because there is not enough to go around.

Now the people, the plain, toiling, hopeful, struggling people, have contributed the wealth that feeds these scandals. Whether these wealthy wasters and wastrels got their money in oil, in railroads, in stock markets, in the increment of real estate values, the people contributed every penny of their surplus. These few have inordinate wealth because society has permitted them to take it out of the productive labors of the many.

The only thing that could justify the existence of such a class as that to which these heroes of shame and scandal belong would be a showing that it is worth to society what it costs society. There is a lamentable lack of any showing of that nature. With a few noble exceptions who view their wealth as a trust committed to their care by society, for the proper use of which they are responsible to God and to society, the existence of this class is of no benefit whatever, but rather it is a positive source of peril, of bad example, of degrading association, of immoral stench.

The people of this country have paid a great price to have this class, the evidences of which price are to be seen in every slum, in every factory town, in the homes of the poor and of those to whom life is a constant struggle against overwhelming disadvantages to make both ends meet. The people have not paid this price willingly, but foolishly and blindly by letting special privileges, conferred upon the few by corrupt and treacherous public servants, do the business.

It is no occasion for wonder that the people are beginning to repent of this investment and to tire of the class of wasters that it has created.

RAILROAD SHIFTLESSNESS.

Recently The Herald suggested that the railroads are making a great mistake in not taking advantage of the breathing spell in business activity to prepare themselves to meet the demands of traffic that will come upon them when industry is resumed.

Their inaction at this time is typical of the conditions under which the living of thousands of workers are dependent upon the fears and caprices of the few that control the means of livelihood.

The railroads, which were not able to handle their business a year ago, which need to spend billions of dollars to fit them to handle the normal traffic of the nation, are doing nothing to fit themselves to do the business for which the people have chartered them, while thousands of idle men are clustered in city bread lines taking the dole of charity until they are provided with honest work.

The railroads refuse to do anything until traffic picks up; yet if they would do their duty in the present exigency, and by equipping themselves as they should be equipped would provide employment for the idle, they would create traffic by reviving industry.

A year ago, when activity was at its tumultuous height, James J. Hill stated that the railroads must spend $5,500,000,000 in increasing their facilities before they would be able to meet the normal demands of business. Business was then suffering because the railroads did not have cars enough, engines enough, tracks enough and terminals enough. Now traffic has been reduced so that it does not occupy the facilities the railroads already possess, and the railroads are content, apparently, to let it go as it is; forgetting that when business activity resumes they will again be unable to meet its demands, and that they will thereby hold back the country's productive activity.

It is a very poor showing for private ownership of railroads. The magnates who are sitting back in a sulk and refusing to do their duty to their roads and to the public can draw you gloomy pictures of what would happen to the railroad business if the government took the railroads over.

But they couldn't stretch their imaginations to draw a more gloomy picture than their own inaction and inattention to duty has actually produced in this country. The railroads are not able to handle the traffic when times are good, and they refuse to extend their facilities when times are dull, when they should be able to do it to the best advantage to themselves, and when they could cause an immediate return of prosperity by giving employment to the idle.

The Arkansas man who fiddled under a leaky roof in a rainstorm, and who when he was asked why he didn't mend his roof said that he couldn't when it rained and that when it didn't rain it didn't need mending, is a fair parallel for the railroad managers who obstruct business by inadequate facilities when times are good, and delay prosperity by refusing to extend their facilities when times are dull.

THE PEOPLE AND CONGRESS.

A couple of years ago the United States senate was the most conspicuous object of public scorn and contumely in the country. It was declared that it was the Alamo of the trusts, where vested interests were making their last stand against progress. There was a demand for popular election of senators, which would make them more immediately responsive to public demands.

Of late little is heard about the senate. Now it is the house that is discussed. The senate is acting very much better than the house, and at the present session the chances of progressive legislation are greater in the upper than in the lower branch of congress.

For instance, it is now stated that the senate will probably pass the postal savings bank bill introduced by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania. It has already been favorably reported by a senate committee, in a form providing for postal savings banks at all money order postoffices, to receive deposits of $1 up, limited to $1,000 for each person and to $200 for any one month. Interest is to be allowed at 2 per cent, and the money received is to be deposited in local national banks at 2½ per cent interest.

This is pretty good for the senate, but the chances of the bill in the house are small indeed. Cannon has said it shall not pass, and that settles it. It also explains why the senate has been overlooked of late, and why public scorn has been directed toward the house.

Under the rule of Cannon, the house has become a machine in which nearly four hundred puppets are manipulated by one man, and that man one whose sympathies are with the interests that are preying upon the people. Cannon is an absolute czar. Through his rules committee of which he is chairman, he regulates every action of the house. He determines what measures shall be considered, and what shall be pigeon-holed. He determines, for instance, that there shall be no tariff revision, and though a majority of the house members are pledged to the adoption of a measure repealing the duty on wood pulp, Cannon's ways and means committee even refuses to accord the publishers of the United States a hearing in behalf of the bill.

It is possible that the senate is going to pass the postal savings bank bill because it is certain that the house will refuse to consider it, and that thereby the senate will be able to make an appeal to the people without running any risk of doing anything that will affront the "interests." However, in view of the fact that there is little opposition to the postal savings bank bill except from Speaker Cannon, who instinctively opposes anything of a popular nature, and who wants the government run for the benefit of property interests, it is perhaps fairer to believe in the senate's good faith.

At any rate, it is an interesting fact that while a short time ago it was the senate that was cursed and the house that was praised as the popular branch of congress, now the situation is reversed. The house is no longer popular because it is ruled by an autocracy.

Has it occurred to you that now is a good time to clear up your back yard?

Hobson continues to talk of the inevitability of war with Japan. The inevitability of Hobson's calamity howling is worse than that.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

T. H. Cadwalder, who travels from Memphis, Tenn., is authority for the statement that "speakeasys" and the three-rap parlors are taking the place of the gilded palaces of sin that flourished and waxed prosperous before prohibition inundated the South as the waters of the murky Allegheny flush the streets of Pittsburg's shanty town with their spring enthusiasm.

Mr. Cadwalder, who is at the St. Louis, says the mint julep and the bourbon straight have been forced to seek the dark and dingy back room since the legislatures of many states have passed the law forbidding the selling of liquor. In many of the cities of the South—that is the dry cities and towns—they have formed clubs for the quiet study of chemical mixtures. They seek a quiet and secluded environment where disturbance from those not interested in the peculiar line of research will be avoided.

It is hard for the old Southerner to get along and be elated in spirit without his morning's morning. The passing of the dry laws hurled a rude rock at the ancient custom of free and easy liquor communication, so now the morning beverage must come only after insidnous and persistent effort. But the aforementioned chemical clubs, with their well-equiped laboratories, have usurped the place the saloon held as the political center.

But seriously speaking, Mr. Cadwalder is authority for the statement that the condition of the negro will be benefited immeasurably by the abolition of the saloon in many of the cities and counties of the South. The lazy and vicious negroes are in most instances, accounted for, by the demon rum. Many of the crimes of the South that are committed by the colored man, are directly traceable to the influence of liquor. It was for self-protection, says Mr. Cadwalder, that the Southerners voted for the abolition of the saloon in many parts of the South. Without the saloon the negro is like an obedient child; with the evil influence of the saloon the liquor-crazed negro becomes a beast, bent on crime and lawlessness.

"It is a peculiar fact that many of the immigrants reaching the shores of this country know that Roosevelt is president of the United States, but have not the least inkling who rules the destinies of their native land," said E. W. Terry, an employer of labor, who was at the Lenox yesterday.

"Many of the Norwegian immigrants are not aware that King Haakon is the king of Norway. Of course, he has not been on the throne very long, but you would suppose the crowning of a new monarch would be an event that even the lowly hut dweller would be aware of. However, I have found that many men whom I have asked the question of could not answer.

"But they are all aware of the name of the strenuous individual in the White House. Lots of them can say Roosevelt before they have learned many words of the English language. His fame and name seems to have penetrated to every country.

"Some of the laborers, who have not been here for any length of time, fondly imagine that Teddy is king of this country. They have not the least conception of the form of government—that is some of them—that we maintain. They have a lurking idea that we have a glorious land of the free, and that the United States is the haven for the workingman; beyond that their idea of our government goes but little.

"I have found the German immigrant the best informed. He is stolid, but behind his stolidity he carries a lot of useful information. The Germans, even of the lower classes, are readers and the ones who immigrate to this country are, as a rule, very well informed.

"In the handling of labor I have noticed since the money stringency here, we have been getting a much better class of immigrants. I suppose this may be accounted for by the fact that immigration has been greatly reduced. The word has gone forth that this is not a good country to come to, just at the present time. For that reason we are getting a more independent and better class of immigrants.

THE WEATHER.

Wasn't yesterday a beauty? During the glorious progress of the day's brilliancy one said, "Yes, but probably there will be a northeaster tomorrow." Another replied, "Yes, but we will have had today; let us be thankful for it." It was splendidly warm and fine, as people sitting upon porches and as the industry in nature's workshop underground attested. The temperature got up to 73 degs., and a shift of wind to the northeast brought it down to 51 degs. last night. This morning dull but thin clouds covered the sky, and it was cooler. The weather man says it will be generally fair, with moderate temperature tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today it was cool and cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 5:24 and sets tonight at 6:53, making 13 hours and 29 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure areas overlie the North Atlantic coast and Alberta and the barometer is high over the lake region, to the southward of the Ohio valley and off the Oregon coast. This arrangement of pressure caused light rain in Texas, Arkansas, the eastern lake region, upper New England and Northern Alberta during Sunday or last night, and high temperature Sunday in most districts of the Rocky mountains. Indications favor moderate temperatures and generally fair weather in this locality tonight and Tuesday."

SMILING LINES.

Philadelphia Ledger: "What do you think of the current statement that the country lacks great men?"

The perpetual candidate frowned.

"Please do not ask me to discuss personal matters," he said.

Chicago Tribune: "Paw, why do we have to pay for the water we use? We don't have to buy our air."

"That only shows, my son, that you have never had to pay a gas bill."

Baltimore American: "What do you think of this bill regulating undertakers and funerals?"

"They are running that sort of thing into the ground."

Philadelphia Press: "Miss Gotrox," said the foxy fortune-hunter, "may I not hope that some day you will love me enough to marry me?"

"But, Mr. Hunter," coyly asked the homely heiress, "isn't that a good deal to expect?"

"Yes," he replied, absent-mindedly, "it will be a good deal, if it works."

Chicago Tribune: Dinguss—Shadbolt, I haven't asked you for any money for a long time, have I?

Shadbolt—No; you never asked me for any money for a long time. You always wanted it for "just a day or two." That's why you're not going to get any this time, Dinguss. Air feels a little like snow, doesn't it?

Citiman—Come to town to see all the sights, eh? Well, you don't want to miss the big mirror in the lobby of this hotel.

Farmer Korntop—Do tell? Somethin' worth seein', is it?

Citiman—Yes, indeed; you won't see all the sights unless you take a look at something like that.

Baltimore American: Magistrate — I might as well commit you to jail. There is no use in giving you a chance—you are a failure—a blunder.

Prisoner—But from all I have heard of your honor it is very hard for you to commit a blunder.

Chicago Tribune: "Borus, that last magazine story of yours made a hit with me."

"Glad to hear it, Naggus. First time it ever happened. Was it the plot of the story that caught you, or the execution of it?"

"Neither one. It was the novelty of it. There was no bridge playing or automobile riding in it, and the hero didn't smoke cigaroots."

Catholic Standard and Times: Miss Cutting—I see by the paper that all the swell set was at the Assembly ball last night.

Miss McBluff—Yes; I expected to be there, but was prevented—

Miss Cutting—The idea! I hope the doorkeeper wasn't rough with you, dear.

Chicago Tribune: Nan—This is Jack's latest picture. Don't you think he looks better in profile than in a front view?

Fan—Much better, dear. It doesn't show his bald spot.

Motion Better Than Stagnation.

Charleston News and Courier: A dilatory motion is better than no motion at all—and that has characterized the Republican majority in the house for three months.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

The growth of Duluth is best shown by the increase of receipts at the postoffice, resulting from the sale of stamps, stamped envelopes, box rents, etc. The receipts for the year ended March 31, 1888, were $42,117.16, as against $28,272.79 for the previous year, an increase of $13,844.37. This is an increase of nearly 50 per cent and makes the office eighty-third in the list of first-class offices after July 1, 1888, increasing the salary of the postmaster to $3,000 per annum.

Henry Clark, the veteran pine land man, has just returned from his winter visit to California, accompanied by his son.

Maj. and Mrs. Upham and their two children have returned from a long visit in the South, where they have spent the winter.

J. P. Darner, the prize-fighter who is to meet Curtis at the Duluth theater tonight, was married last week at Ashland to Anna Herrick, a vaudeville artist.

Officers of the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern Construction company were elected yesterday as follows: President, ex-Governor Hubbard; vice-president, T. S. Shelden; secretary, F. W. Hoyt; treasurer, G. H. Cary.

John McLeod yesterday sold, through Gridley & Mischler, the residence formerly owned by A. J. Sawyer on Second street, near First avenue east. The house was sold for $9,750 to I Frelmuth, who will occupy it in about a month.

The National Gas company expects to resume boring as soon as a contract can be made with a responsible contractor.

John R. Vertin, a prominent grocery merchant of Tower, died on April 11, from consumption.

Frank McWhorter, now employed at the Pioneer hotel, Tower, came to the city on a visit yesterday.

The Minneapolis Tribune mentions O. P. Stearns of Duluth as a possible candidate for governor.

Dr. Murphy, the Republican candidate for mayor of St. Paul, has declined the honor.

Victor Dash has sold his interest in the Pioneer hotel at Tower to Mr. Kennedy, recently of Fargo.

Prof. Parsons has begun work on the building for his business college. It will occupy the lot on West Superior street, directly in the rear of the Eagle Clothing company's store, with a frontage of twenty-five feet on Michigan street. It will be five stories high. J. W. Rowley and D. Boudeman of Kalamazoo, Mich., are equally interested with Prof. Parsons in the building.

1904--ECHOES OF HARMONY--1908

Eveleth Star: Yes, harmony is all right. But you do not get much harmony by pounding down the opposition; by saying mean things of those not of your liking; and by throwing a lot of thistles in their pathway. When the nominations are made the former opponents are always needed in the campaign and it is usually by their efforts and that of their friends that party success is achieved.

Two Harbors Iron Trade Journal: Harmony has become such a popular fad in Minnesota that even the Democratic party has adopted a couple of brands of it.

Elk River Star-News: When Joel Heatwole permits the use of his name as a candidate for governor, it is a safe conclusion that something is doing, and other candidates would be wise to keep their eyes open. There has been altogether too much harmony in the gubernatorial campaign up to the present time, and it will be well to look out for squalls.

Wadena Pioneer Journal: Bob Dunn made a great hit with the people when he proposed that all candidates for governor retire in favor of J. F. Jacobson. He suggested this program at a harmony banquet of a Republican club in St. Paul the other day, and since then has been practicing what he preaches. For some time a certain crowd of political leaders and newspapers have been clamoring for harmony, and if they are really sincere they can do no better than follow Mr. Dunn's lead.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The Jacobson supporters seem to think that Republican harmony means that the other fellows should quit kicking and support Jake.

Anoka Union: The opposition to Jacobson and Young points to anything but harmony in the Republican party.

Lake Crystal Union: "Has the right ring," says an exchange, the platform of Hon. Joel P. Heatwole for governor. Joel is a ringster from away back.

Warren Register: The "Jacobson or bust" men are numerous and far from silent, but the bulk of the party refuses to get excited over either candidates or issues. The party is unfortunate in having a considerable faction made up of poor losers, who seem to be determined to knife the candidate, however unobjectionable he may be, if he be not the one they have pinned their faith to in the ante-convention campaign. The attitude of this element, if maintained by all the supporters of defeated candidates, would spell an early finish of the party.

Do Democrats Desire Victory?

New York World: In an appeal to the Democratic leaders of the country to support Governor Johnson's candidacy, the Minnesota state committee says: "Conditions industrially, financially and politically are such that we have this year the opportunity of a generation to win the presidency. Why give it up by supinely acquiescing in any nomination which guarantees defeat?"

Sixty-four years ago there was a situation in the Democratic party not greatly unlike that which exists today. Martin Van Buren was the acknowledged party leader. He had been elected president in 1836 and defeated in 1840. He was again an aspirant for the nomination in 1844. A majority of the delegates to the national convention were Van Buren men. His friends claimed that he was the overwhelming choice of the rank and file of the party and that failure to nominate him would be a repudiation of Jacksonian Democracy. They were almost as noisy and threatening and demonstrative as Mr. Bryan's friends are now.

Van Buren could not control two-thirds of the delegates, and the nomination went to James K. Polk, a comparatively unknown man who had no record to defend or apologize for. Polk was elected, defeating Henry Clay, the most popular politician of his generation. Van Buren would have been beaten.

The question raised by the Minnesota committee is the vital question of this campaign, so far as the Democratic party is concerned. The Republican party is torn by internal dissension, just as the Whig party was in 1844. Mr. Taft's election is not a certainty, provided the Democrats nominate the right kind of a candidate against him. But they will have no chance at all with Mr. Bryan. They might have a chance with Governor Johnson, who would carry every state that Mr. Bryan could carry, who could probably carry Minnesota and North Dakota, where Mr. Bryan would have no chance whatever, and who would be at least 100,000 votes stronger than Mr. Bryan in the great debatable states of New York and New Jersey.

The Minnesota Democratic committee is proceeding on the theory that the Democratic party wishes to enter the campaign with some prospect of success. Many of Mr. Bryan's supporters, however, declare that they would rather follow him to defeat than follow anybody else to victory. This is a counsel of political imbecility which can lead only to destruction. If the Democratic party persists in nominating Mr. Bryan, its action will be susceptible of only one interpretation—namely, that Republican administration of the national government is so satisfactory to a great majority of Democrats that they do not desire any change.

Tariff Reform the Issue.

Charleston News and Courier: The Democratic party should pitch its battle upon tariff reform. One great, strong, popular issue, appealing to every man, and woman, too, in the Democratic party and two-thirds of the men and their wives among the Republicans, well and truly presented by a Democratic candidate, is enough upon which to win a fight. The only Democratic president that the country has had since the war between the States was elected as a tariff reformer; the time has come when the Republicans bend toward tariff reform, when no man dares to be a "standpatter," and when everywhere industrial condition demands a tariff reform candidate.

Man Vs. the Platform.

Richmond Times-Dispatch: In coming out boldly for Joseph Cannon and tariff revision, Illinois proves that she has thoroughly mastered the art of being in two places at once.

THE JASPER.

From the jaws of the jungle of Jayville
the Jasper hiked out of his lair;
The barn-breath breathed balm from his boodlets, the hay germs had homes in his hair;
His mouth hung ajar like a flytrap, each hand was as big as a ham;
His freckles a leopard-like legion, his verdancy far from a sham.
His clothes were those mother had made him, his mop had been mowed 'round a crock;
Each wilted congressional gaiter was rimmed with a negligee sock.
When Reuben strayed in with his satchel, and eyes you could snare with a rope,
A "ha-ha" arose from the campus that strangled the last of his hope.
But Reuben was big—he was husky; his legs were like saplings of oak;
His arms were like steel, and he'd often made two-year-old steers take a joke;
His back was the back of a Samson—
gnarled, knotted and hard as a rock;
His neck would have served as a bumper to ward off a switch engine shock;
His unpadded shoulders were hillocks of sinew and muscle and bone;
His chest was a human Gibraltar, his voice had a Vulcanoid tone.
His prowess had never been tested quite up to the limit at home,
Although he had romped with the yearlings and guided a plow through the loam.
The boss of the 'leven was speechless
when Rusticus loomed on the scene.
What mattered the fact he was shabby?
What mattered the fact he was green?
Could ever a team get a lineup 't would stand for a center like that?
The ranks of the foe would evanish ere one could articulate "Beat!"
He rushed for the Reuben and nailed him, and led him away to a room
Where the trainers and rubbers proceeded to marvel and fondle and groom;
And when at the close of the fortnight
the world-wonder trotted in sight,
The grandstand and bleachers went daffy and howled themselves hoarse with delight.
What next? Asked the worried kodaker who skirmished in vain for a shot!
The Reuben-led phalanx proceeded to score, with a loose-jointed trot.
The foe faded fast and a snowflake in
Tophet's most tropical pit.
While Rusticus romped through the rout like a mastodon having a fit,
And when all that team that opposed him lay mangled and dead on the field,
The mob went as mad as a Mullah and hooted and bellowed and squealed.
Then Rusticus, bordered with lasses, who called him a hero and prince,
Pranced off with his halo of glory, and hasn't been worth a cuss since.

AN IMMIGRANT'S SON.

New York World: "If the members of the Democratic party feel that I would stand more chance of election than Mr. Bryan or any other man, I will be glad to make the campaign," says Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

Take the debatable state of New York with its thirty-nine electoral votes:

The census of 1900 showed 2,181,965 males of voting age. Of these 1,316,829 were native-born, 482,055 had been naturalized and 356,978 had not yet established citizenship.

Of the qualified voting population of the city of New York 460,445 were native-born and 300,000 naturalized. In Buffalo there were 29,364 naturalized citizens out of 97,328 males of voting age.

Out of a total population of 7,268,894 in the state only 2,249,102 were born of native parents, while 3,652,771 had foreign-born parents, and there were 666,021 more who each had one foreign-born parent.

Does anybody doubt the appeal that John A. Johnson, himself the son of an immigrant, would make to New York's great body of foreign-born voters and sons of foreign-born? To them he would be living proof that the republic is still opportunity.

MORE LIGHT FOR FIRST

Agitation Being Started to Get the Desired Improvement.

Street Growing in Importance and More Light is Needed.

More light for First street.

This cry is being taken up by property owners through the district affected, and steps will be taken to see if the city cannot be prevailed upon to provide a more adequate lighting system for this important thoroughfare.

The agitation will be for electric arc lights suspended from poles, rather than for electric signs. First street is rapidly developing into one of the most important business streets in the city, and in a very few years it is believed that it will closely rival Superior street. It is urged that the present lighting system is very poor along First, considering the amount of traffic there.

Public sentiment does not so strongly favor electric signs in Duluth now as it did at the time so many of the business houses along Superior street put such sign into commission. They are nice to look at, but it is contended that if an equal amount of electric power were turned into the regulation street lights, better results would be attained. While First street will not have so many electric signs as Superior street, it may be even more brilliantly lighted as a result of the present agitation.

FRAUD CASES ARE RESUMED

Clerk Testifies as to Methods of Purchasing School Lands.

Washington, April 13.—Upon the resumption of the Hyde-Benson-Dimond-Schenider alleged land fraud case in criminal court today, George G. Brown, a clerk in the Oregon land office at Salem, Or., was called by the government and testified as to the methods prescribed by law for the purchase of school lands in Oregon. He said there was no law limiting the amount of such lands one man may acquire by assignment.

Thomas McCuster, a real estate dealer of Portland, Or., testified that he had been engaged by Joost Schneider, one of the defendants, to aid him in securing applications for school lands in Oregon from persons having the right to purchase an allotment of such lands. Upon receipt of an assignement of each application to Schneider, the witness said, $5 was paid to the applicant. Each applicant who filed for 320 acres made the assignment to Schneider. The applicant did not pay for the land before assignment to Schneider.

MAY PLAY SUNDAY BASEBAL.

Mobile, April 13.—Judge Jules E. Alford, in the inferior criminal court today, declared the Alabama law against the playing of baseball lawn tennis, golf and other games on Sunday to be unconstitutional. The effect of the decision is that Sunday baseball will be played in this city, and perhaps in Montgomery and Birmingham.

SUSTAINS DEMURRER

District Court Rules Favorably to a Duluth Pharmacist.

State Board of Pharmacy Cannot Make Arbitrary Rules.

Judge Dibell has sustained the demurrer of Carl J. Erickson of this city to the amended answer filed in the mandamus proceedings instituted against the state board of pharmacy but has given the state board of pharmacy leave to amend again.

The court's ruling is of interest by reason of the legal fight that Erickson is making to compel the state board of pharmacy to register him as a pharmacist.

The last legislature passed an act providing for the registration of pharmacists of two classes. In the first class it was required of the applicant that he pass an examination and have a limited practical experience. In the second class it was required that the applicant have fifteen years' experience, no examination being required.

The court holds that Erickson comes under the second class.

Although Erickson was a little over 30 years when he made his application and five or six months of his experience was had before he was 16 years, the board refused to consider his application on the ground that it made a rule after the law was passed, which in effect stated that no experience had before the applicant was 16 years old should count. It is claimed that this rule was made by the board with the view of shutting out from registration pharmacists in the state who have had long experience, some of it before they were 16 years old.

The court indicates that there should be discretion exercised on the part of the board, but considers it ridiculous to suppose that any applicant could come in and claim experience from the age of four or five years.

The court says that there should be no arbitrary restriction on the law by any rules on the part of the board. He says that the law intended to protect the public by providing that the applicant had sufficient experience and the court believes it possible to get some of that experience before the applicant is 16 years old.

Miller & Clapp represented Mr. Erickson and O'Malley & Boerner represented the state board of pharmacy.

RAILROADS

CAR POOL ADVOCATED.

Local Freight Men Advocate the Inauguration of Exchange System.

There is an agitation in railway circles for the routing of through freight cars. Duluth railroad men state that arrangements for a car pool that would facilitate any such scheme would work a great benefit to the shipper. It would obviate the present necessity of transferringr freight from one car to another, which is imperative under the present system, and would also facilitate the hauling back of empties.

Another evil that would be overcome, according to a local freight official, would be the loss of cars, which is one of the great inconveniences of the present system. If a systematic car exchange were enforced the official in question believes that the loss of the cars of a road would be a thing of the past.

Under the present system of car handling, cars are lost for months at a time. Sometimes the best cars of one road are found by tracers hauling rock or coal on the line of some Southern or Eastern road. In the past, when the freight congestion was at its height great injury was wrought both to the shippers and the roads losing cars by this practice. The officials believe that a car exchange plan would not only obviate this evil, but that it would also work untold benefits to the shipper.

The present per diem charge for the holding of a car by another road is so light that in times of heavy business roads would rather pay the penalty than to lose the much-needed service of the car. If a system were inaugurated for a fair and equitable exchange of cars, with the through routing of freight, the Duluth freight official gives it as his opinion, that many evils and many delays incident both to the shipper and the railroad would be done away with.

CUTS ARE ANNOUNCED.

Great Northern and Northern Pacific May Follow the Omaha.

As predicted by The Herald, the announcement has been made of a straight one and one-half cent rate from Duluth to Chicago and return, beginning from June 12 and holding over until the 30th of the month. This will make the fare over the Northwestern, the first road to announce the cut from Duluth, $13.75 for the round trip. The cut is made in view of the heavy travel expected to the Republican national convention to be held in Chicago, June 17.

What the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific will do in the face of the reduction by the Northwestern is problematical. The matter is under consideration by both of those roads at the present time, and it is likely that they will decide to sell tickets, transferable at St. Paul to any of the Chicago lines, to and from Chicago, at the figure established by the Northwestern line.

The Northwestern made the announcement of the cut this morning. The reduction to a fare and a half for the round trip amounts to the old reductions made under the 3-cent fare, of one fare for excursions and conventions. So it can be seen that the railroads are not conceding so much from their former stand in the matter of granting special rates.

However, it is not the amount that is of the most importance in the stand taken by the Chicago lines. It is the fact that hereafter the roads have established a precedent that will practically compel to grant excursion and special occasion rates. This the roads said they would never consent to, when the different states passed legislation reducing the passenger tariff to the flat 2-cent rate.

Moreover, it places the roads in the position of admitting that they can cut rates under the present 2-cent tariff. That possibility has been denied by passenger officials ever since the 2-cent fare came into existence.

FROM COAST TO COAST.

Opening of Georgia Division Gives Harriman Ocean to Ocean System.

Birmingham, Ala., April 13.—The official announcement by the Illinois Central that the new Birmingham division will be opened for traffic April 19, calls attention to the completion of the last link in the great Harriman transcontinental route, for by controlling the Union Pacific, Illinois Central, and Central of Georgia, this system will extend from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

The Central of Georgia terminals here connect with those of Illinois Central, thus giving a direct connection from all Illinois Central points with the sea at Savannah over the Central of Georgia. Connections of the Illinois Central with the Union Pacific complete the system from ocean to ocean. The connection is expected to benefit the Southeastern states and to increase Savannah's importance as a seaport, for, in addition to making it the terminal for much of Alabama's coal and iron, it will receive much of the grain and other traffic from the Mississippi valley.

POLICE INVESTIGATE MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Chicago, April 13.—The police are investigating the death of a woman whose mangled body was found near the Jefferson avenue crossing. The body is that of a woman about 40 years of age, and well dressed. On the inside of one of the shoes was printed the name of a Cleveland, Ohio, shoe dealer. The police are working on the theory that the woman may have been on her way here from Cleveland, and that she may have fallen from the train.

THE WAGES OF 43,000 OPERATIVES ARE CUT.

Boston, April 13.—A wage reduction, averaging 10 per cent, went into effect today in the cotton cloth yarn and thread mills in New England and New York state, employing a total of 43,500 operatives. Since the beginning of the general wage reduction movement in March, the pay of 153,500 mill hands in the Northern states have been cut. Of this number 144,000 are employed by New England mills and 9,500 in New York state factories.

Good for Old and Young.

Constipation prevails in almost every family. Old and young suffer alike. The matron of a great New York hospital confidently states that the following has been used for years with the utmost success, treating thousands, old and young, for acute and chronic constipation: Compound Essence Cardiol, 1 ounce Aromatic Fluid Cascara, 1 ounce Aromatic Syrup Rhubarb, 2 ounces.

Dose—One-half to one teaspoonful after each meal. Children less, according to age.

TEN THOUSAND HOMELESS

sex and Middlesex streets to the water front at Chelsea creek, and then leaped into East Boston. The distance from the point where the fire started to the creek is at mile and a half and the greatest width of the fire is about half a mile.

Oil Plant Burned.

Even at the creek the fire was not wholly stayed, for sparks blown across set fire to several houses and to the plant of the Standard Oil company. The oil plant was still burning at daybreak and was practically destroyed. Nine buildings were burned here, including the pump house, store house, cooper shop, office and tank rooms, the latter containing about 3,000 barrels of oil. The loss on the Standard Oil property was estimated at $100,000.

Concerted efforts towards providing relief for the thousands of sufferers were fairly started today. Acting Governor Draper issued a call for an early morning meeting of Boston business men at the state house, to make plans for raising funds for the temporary care of the homeless, and at about the same hour the citizens' relief committee also held a meeting.

In the city of Somerville, Mayor Grimmons issued a call for a mass meeting, to consider means of giving aid to the fire sufferers. Similar action was taken by the executive heads of other cities. It was said that the legislature would also be asked during the day to take measures for the relief of the stricken city.

Shelter for Thousands.

Charitable organizations found places for thousands of the sufferers; public buildings were thrown open to provide temporary lodgings, and hundreds of military tents brought from the state camp grounds at South Framingham served as protection for victims of the fire. Acting Governor Draper, early last evening, authorized the city of Chelsea to procure provisions for emergency use up to any reasonable amount at the expense of the state, and dairy and bakery companies generally contributed large supplies of their products, which found their way promptly to the sufferers, but notwithstanding the efforts of all sides to render aid, there were thousands of homeless ones who passed the night wandering the streets, or shivered in the parks and squares. Many of the unfortunates applied at police headquarters for shelter, and were cared for temporarily in the courthouse. Early this morning, however, tents had been pitched in open lots in Chelsea and the neighboring city of Everett, and all applicants were sent to these temporary camps.

Although it was impossible to tell even approximately the number of people made homeless by the fire, conservative estimates place it at about 10,000, this number representing perhaps 2,000 families.

While prompt measures for caring for the homeless were being taken, scores of physicians, nurses and volunteer workers were attending to the injured. The many sufferers from burns were taken to the Chelsea police station, which was turned into a temporary hospital. Later they were sent to the naval hospital and marine hospital, both of which were packed to the limit of their capacity from this source and from the influx of patients from the two other hospitals which were burned.

Fifty Babies Picked Up.

More than fifty unidentified babies, who had been picked up by the police, firemen and citizens were taken to the police stations. They ranged in age from 2 months to 5 years. A boy brought in a baby less than 6 months old, that he had picked up in the gutter. A woman brought a pair of boy twins, not more than 1 year old. She said that a frantic mother had thrust the babies into her arms as she stood on the street, saying: "Here, hold these, I have got to get the others." What became of the mother had not been ascertained at an early hour today. Some of the derelict infants were taken away during the night by relatives, but others are still unclaimed today. Among the women taken to the hospital in ambulances were two who became mothers after the fire started.

The bodies of two women and one man, who were found burned to death in the street last night, remained unidentified at the North Grove street morgue this morning. No other bodies had been brought to the morgue at that time and as far as the authorities had been informed that number represents the total loss of life from the fire. It was feared, however, that a search of the ruins by daylight would result in the discovery of other bodies.

Loss About $8,000,000.

The total taxable property of the city amounted to about $24,000,000, and the property in the district covered by the fire was worth at least $8,000,000. The burned district includes a large number of manufacturing concerns, stores and business houses, many costly residences and one marble block of public buildings.

The valuables left in the safes in the burned business houses were guarded from possible looters by detachments of marines from the Charlestown navy yard and companies of infantrymen and artillerymen in the coast guard. Military regulations were enforced, and no one, unless provided with a pass, was permitted to approach the ruined section.

The liquor licenses in East Boston and that part of Charlestown adjoining Chelsea were suspended today by order of Police Commissioner O'Meara as an aid to the militia and police in their efforts to bring about a condition of order and safety.

Parents Hunt for Children.

As the dawn broke cold and gray over the fire swept city, the fright of the night previous which had overcome the populace disappeared. Parents roamed the streets searching for lost children. The school houses of the city, as well as those of the neighboring cities and towns, were filled with lost children and scores of parents went from one to the other searching each and scores of missing children were discovered.

At 8 o'clock breakfast was served at the court room while those on the upper side were issued rations from the high school building. The lines were regulated by the militia. The work of clearing away the debris was begun at an early hour under the greatest difficulty, as the workmen were in constant danger from falling walls.

Early in the forenoon the work of searching the ruins of the residential section of the fire swept district was begun, and it was the opinion of the authorities that more bodies would be found.

Snow and Cold Add to Misery.

A chilly wind and a light fall of snow, which later turned into a cold rain, added to the misery of the homeless ones, who shivered in the shelter camps in the public squares and play grounds. Early this forenoon the battalion of marines which had been doing guard duty throughout the night was ordered back to the barracks at the Charlestown navy yard, and the work of preserving order and protecting property was continued by the police and the militia. Of the thirty-seven men who compose the police force, twenty-seven had their homes destroyed by fire.

During the morning two children who were suffering from measles applied at one of the temporary relief bureaus for assistance, and were directed to a private sanitarium. They did not reach the sanitarium, however, and a search for them was instituted immediately, in order that the contagion might not spread.

During the course of the fire yesterday seven babies were born in as many different houses, and in each instance mother and child had to be removed to places of refuge, as their houses were directly in the path of the flames and later destroyed. The mothers and the children were all reported today in satisfactory condition.

Providing for Aid.

A separate meeting of the Chelsea board of aldermen was held this forenoon, at which an order was introduced asking the legislature for authority to borrow $500,000 to reconstruct the public buildings that were destroyed. The order was referred to the committee on finance and the committee was authorized to increase the amount to $1,000,000 if necessary. It was voted to appropriate $10,000 for the immediate assistance of those in distress. Announcement was made that the city records which were in the city hall vaults were intact.

An inspection of the vaults of the Chelsea Trust company, the County Savings bank and the Chelsea Savings bank indicated that the contents were uninjured. Following this announcement the directors of the three institutions voted to consolidate temporarily. Judge Bisson, president of the County Savings bank, said that all claims against the three institutions would be paid in full on demand as soon as business was resumed in the temporary banking rooms.

President Offers Assistance.

Washington, April 13. — President Roosevelt has sent a telegraphic message of sympathy to the mayor of Chelsea, Mass., at the same time offering any necessary assistance from the army or navy for the stricken city. Similar assistance was extended during the Baltimore fire and at other disasters.

Both the war and navy departments will render any assistance possible to the fire sufferers at Chelsea upon authoritation by the president. Mr. Roberts, who in the house of representatives represents the burned district already has been in communication with the authorities making inquiries as to what might be done by the government in the event that aid in the way of tents, rations or other supplies is required by the state authorities. The navy has a hospital at Chelsea.

Already the Red Cross branch is at work relieving pressing cases as is shown by a dispatch received at the national headquarters from Catherine P. Loring, the secretary of the state organization at Boston. If national aid is requested the general organization will get promptly at work and devise means of assistance.

I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives.

Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to the above rule. Their claim to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their owners' and makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle-wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask 'What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In Chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific, healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription," it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, strong, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weakness and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

SEEDING IN THE NORTHWEST

Farmers Are Preparing for New Crop—Outlook Bright.

Seeding is becoming quite general now over the entire Northwest.

By the middle of this week it is expected to be in full swing. And the predictions already are for a very good crop.

This is about the normal time for seeding. Last year it started much later than this, but that was an exceptionally late season. Usually, the farmers begin preparing for the new crop about the middle of April.

Extensive seeding was going on in North Dakota and the western part of North Dakota all last week. Local board of trade houses received reports of the work every day. This week, seeding will be carried on as well in Southern Minnesota and the more easterly part of the state.

The mild winter has given grain men their grounds for predicting a bumper crop. There was comparatively little snow during the winter and the frost had gone deep into the ground. The ground near the surface has thawed out enough to permit seeding and the frost will work out of the rest of the soil gradually, arising with the thaws and providing moisture for the seed. This is regarded as most beneficial.

When a heavy snow falls on the ground before it is frozen, the results are not as satisfactory for seeding at the end of the winter as after the season which has just passed.

WILL NOT SURRENDER ROY.

France Will Not Send Over the Alleged Murderer.

Paris, April 13.—The ministry of justice, to which the foreign office turned over the request of the United States for the extradition of Paul L. Roy, the husband of Glacia Calla, and the alleged murderer of her brother, has decided that no law exists in this country under which Roy may be given over to the American authorities.

The ministry declares that to surrender Roy to the United States would be a violation of a principle of French justice, which forbids extradition of a citizen of France charged with a crime in a foreign country.

The ministry holds, however, that Roy may be prosecuted in France.

HUGHES INDORSED.

New York Convention Elects Four Delegates at Large.

New York, April 13.—Governor Charles E. Hughes was indorsed as New York's Republican candidate for president by that party's state convention late Saturday afternoon, and the four delegates at large with their alternates, elected to the Chicago convention were instructed to use all honorable means to bring about his nomination. The four delegates at large are Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Former Mayor Seth Low of this city, Frederick R. Hazzard of Syracuse and E. H. Butler of Buffalo.

THREE MEN MURDERED.

Orange Pickers Shot Down by a Party in Florida.

Tampa, Fla., April 13.—News has reached here of the killing of Charles Whitehurst, George Griffin and Charles Smith, white orange pickers at Lake Harney, twenty-three miles from Sanford.

While the victims and ten other white men in the packing house operated by Apburn & Son were sleeping, a party of armed men set fire to the house and as the inmates ran from the burning building the attacking party opened fire on them with rifles and shotguns.

Ten escaped and aroused the neighbors, but no clue could be found to the assassins. The men killed were recently from Georgia, and the crime is said to be the work of men who had been refused employment in the packing house and resented the bringing of packers from other places.

S.S.S. HEALS OLD SORES

The deep, underlying cause of every old sore is a bad condition of the blood. This vital fluid has become infected with some germ or poison which prevents the place from healing. This infection may be the result of an inactive, sluggish condition of the system leaving the refuse matter in the body to be absorbed into the circulation instead of throwing it off through the usual channels of nature. Another cause is the weakening or polluting of this life-stream from hereditary taints, or from the effects of a long spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system. When the blood is in this condition a sore cannot heal because the impurities with which the circulation is filled are being constantly discharged into the place to irritate and inflame the tissues and further disease the surrounding flesh. The only treatment that can do any good is one that removes the cause, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. It begins at the fountain head of the trouble and drives out all germs, impurities and poisons, and then the place, being supplied with rich, pure blood, heals naturally and permanently. Local applications assist in cleansing the place, but a cure can only be affected through a purification of the blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free. Overshadowing all will be the Olympic games in London where the amateurs of nearly all countries of the globe will battle for world supremacy. The United States will send a team thoroughly representative of its high athletic calibre.

The golfers and tennis players are preparing for a busy season and many interesting tournaments will be contested during the spring, summer and autumn.

Everywhere the oarsmen are busy overhauling their craft. Several good boats already have taken the water. The college oarsmen have been about for some time and reports from all quarters indicate that the crews are in good shape. In the professional sport the opening of the baseball games this week and the commencement of the Eastern horse racing season are the chief events of interest.

Never before, perhaps, has there been such keen interest displayed in the preliminary ball games and the season, in point of fine play and attendance, promises to be the best yet. The National and American leagues open Tuesday. In the former, Boston will cross bats with Brooklyn on the latter's home grounds. New York will play at Philadelphia, Chicago at Cincinnati and Pittsburg at St. Louis. In the American league, Philadelphia will play at New York, Washington at Boston, St. Louis at Cleveland and Detroit at Chicago.

On Wednesday at Aqueduct, with the quarter handicap as the piece de resistance, the annual spring season of horse racing, under the auspices of the Yorkshire club, will begin.

The finals of the amateur wrestling championships will be decided Monday night at Madison Square garden, New York.

Packey McFarland is hitting it right for the top of the ladder now. Saturday night's victory over Jimmy Britt has sent him bounding forward, coat-tails flying and the wind to his back. There's only one obstacle between him and the light weight championship.

That object is a big, black cloud, and it may break all over the boy from the stockyards district. Joe Gans may be old, but he's no dead one. He carries his years in the ring lightly, and is fit right now to let anyone know his science has not departed entirely. Compared to Joe Gans, Jimmy Britt is a farmer boy in the 12-ounce pillow class. It isn't likely Britt would last as long in the ring with Gans as he did with McFarland.

A match between McFarland and Gans is the logical aim of the promoters now. It may be that McFarland will want to stall away for a time, until he thinks the black fruit is more ripe for a plucking, but the fight public will demand that they get together as soon as possible. The easy fashion in which Packey disposed of Britt stamps him as the one man who can let the Old Master know he has been in a fight, and when they do get together, the mix will be worth going miles to see.

The opening of the trout fishing season in this region on April 15 is a huge joke. The man who takes his hook and line, fish basket and little bottle of bait out to some shady retreat next Wednesday, with the idea of catching fish, will probably be badly disappointed. He will be in a better position to commune with nature and the bait than to haul in the speckled beauties and pull them from the hook. The streams of Northern Minnesota will not yield very much on April 15. There's too much water in the air and ice in the rivers. Tramping through the slush and fighting chill winds isn't sport in fishing. As far as the law goes, the period for legally catching trout may begin Wednesday, but the real season is several weeks away.

The big league baseball season opens tomorrow, and the fans in eleven cities will enthusiastically begin following the fortunes of sixteen clubs in the two organizations. There may be some disappointments and a few surprises. Chicago is credited by most critics with having two championship teams once more. Detroit and New York are picked for runners up in their respective leagues. Without Wagner, Pittsburg is nothing better than a four-five team in the National league, and the New York Highlanders aren't placed any better than that also. The Phillies and Cleveland are given rank in the first division in their respective leagues, so that the two divisions in each league are already practically settled upon. Despite the fact that about five clubs in each league have little show for the pennant, the fans will go wild over them, turn out by thousands to see them and the whole American public will follow the race. Detroit wasn't counted a possible winner this time last spring, but grabbed the pennant. Such things may happen again, and they add interest to the run for the pennant.

STUDENTS ARE HEAVING BALL

Cook Has Big Squad From Which to Pick Nine.

The Central high school baseball candidates are getting busy. Capt. Cook had his men out several times last week, and from now on they will practice regularly on different lots throughout the city, in preparation for the regular spring series. Almost every boy in the high school is a candidate for the team and there will be no trouble experienced in picking a nine.

Earl Cummings will probably be the mainstay of the students in the box again this year. He is one of the best amateur pitchers in the city and he made good with the school team last year. With him on the hill, all the students must do is hit the ball against most of the high school squads hereabouts. Most of the veterans of last year's nine are still in school, but some of the young blood will run them strong for their places.

In a game against the Gophers, a picked-up nine on the grounds at Lakeside, Saturday afternoon, the high school boys won by a score of 12 to 9. Both pitchers were hit freely and the fielding at times was wierd. Caulkins was on the mound for the high school boys and showed good form for the early date. Cook was the star in the slugging department.

LET CONTRACT FOR NEW YACHT

Funds Are Available and Construction of "Duluth" Will Begin.

Commodore Johnson and G. H. Holland leave today for Chicago, where they will let the contract for the "Duluth," which is to represent the Duluth Yacht club in the Nutting cup races next fall. The collection of funds for the construction of the yacht has progressed so that now there is no doubt that the necessary amount will be raised. The Duluth public realizes the advertising features of the venture and has responded generously to the call for funds.

The "Duluth" will be formallly entered in the Nutting cup races by the representatives of the club, who are leaving for Chicago today. They will also place the club in the Interlake Yachting association, consisting of clubs in various Wisconsin and Minnesota cities.

Duluth's membership in the association will mean representation in the regatta to be held during the summer on White Bear lake. The regatta is for 32-footers and Duluth has a fine fleet of that class. One will be selected by competition to represent the Duluth club. The "Young America" and "Minotaur" are both fast and should be able to hold their own with other entries in the regatta.

Cascades Win.

The Cascade baseball team handed the Northerns two defeats yesterday afternoon by scores of 28 to 7 and 19 to 3. The batteries in the first game were John Hoppa and Ben Burk for the Cascades and D. Presman and T. McKenzie for the Northerns. In the second game Frank Kempinski pitched for the Cascades and Presman continued in the box for the Northerns.

MAY GET STAR FIRST SACKER

Severeid is Making Hit With Fans at Sioux City

Unless all calculations go wrong, Harry Tracey's place at first base on the Duluth team will be well filled. Manager Kuhnow has made a deal with Manager "Ducky" Holmes of the Sioux City club of the Western league, for Severeid, a big first baseman, who is making a hit with the fans in the Iowa city. Holmes thinks Severeid can profit by a season in the Northern league, as he is young and hasn't played organized ball before. A Des Moines dispatch to the Chicago Tribune Sunday says:

"Thus far in the work of the teams but one star has appeared, Severeid, first baseman for the Sioux City team. Holmes purchased Clarke from a Southern league club, but the showing of the Story City, Iowa, semi-pro has been so good, there seems to be a chance of Holmes having a high-priced first baseman for sale. Severeid has been playing the sack regularly, after breaking in about the middle of the Chicago game, and has played almost perfect ball. He has been a member of the Hopkins brothers' semi-professional team for a couple of years and helped that team win the championship of the state two years in succession."

Mulcrone, Meniece, McGraw and probably Summers, the Duluth boys, who are to play with Artie O'Dea in Brandon this year, leave today for Minneapolis to join O'Dea for the trip to Burlington, Iowa, where the squad will gather Wednesday. Artie has a big crowd on the string, and is already grasping at flowing pennants in his dreams.

ANNUAL VISIT OF THE BISHOP

He Preaches and Conducts Confirmation in Three Churches.

Bishop Morrison made his official visit to St. Luke's, St. John's and St. Paul's Episcopal churches yesterday.

In the morning he visited St. Luke's church in the West end, preached there and later confirmed a class.

At 5 o'clock, he went to St. John's church, Lakeside, where he preached and conducted confirmation service. In the evening, he preached at St. Paul's church, and confirmed a class there. This was his annual visit to these churches.

On Good Friday, there will be a three-hours' service at St. Paul's church, in which all of the local Episcopal churches, with the exception of the Trinity pro-cathedral, will unite. The congregations which will take part are those of Holy Apostles', St. Luke's, St. John's and St. Paul's. There will be addresses by Rev. A. W. Ryan, Rev. Albert Parker, Rev. R. A. Reed and Rev. Roderick J. Mooney.

BEER LABELS CAUSE SUIT

Virginia Brewing Company Claimed to Have Infringed on Copyright.

Claiming that a label used by the Virginia Brewing company is an infringement on a registered label placed on bottles containing a certain brand of beer manufactured by the Annheuser-Busch Brewing association of St. Louis, Mo., the latter concern has started suit in the United States court against the Virginia company, claiming damages of $5,000 or more.

In the complaint, it is alleged that the Virginia company has copied the label identically as to size, color and general appearance and that substantially the same reading matter is used. It is claimed that by so doing the Virginia people have injured the St. Louis company to the extent of $5,000 or more. The court is also asked to compel the Virginia company to refrain from using the label claimed to be an infringement and to destroy all of them now on hand.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The crew of the fishing tug Banks, which has been caught in the ice jam out in Lake Erie since Friday morning, were all put ashore Sunday. They told a harrowing tale of battles for life aboard the tug with a crippled wheel and a hole stove in the side. The tugs Desmond and Viola are still fast in the ice.

After having been closed for three months, the plant of the Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron company at Gadsden, Ala., was put in operation Sunday. Three hundred men have been put back to work and the force will be increased this week.

Antonio Beber, 18 years old, was shot and killed Sunday night at Chicago by Joseph Kroukner, 26 years old, who committed suicide by shooting himself in the temple. Kroukner, who is a laborer, came from Bohemia a year ago and sent his savings to pay the passage of the young woman to America. Arriving here she refused to marry him and was working to repay the money.

BOOM FOR GRAY.

Address Urging Nomination and Election Sent Out by League.

Washington, April 13.—The George Gray league, which was organized at a meeting last Thursday evening in the Hotel Walton, Philadelphia, has sent out an address urging the nomination and election of George Gray to the presidency.

John Caldwell, former collector of the port of Philadelphia, is president of the league and Former Mayor Vance E. McCormick of Harrisburg is chairman of the executive board.

The circular declares that the special privileges which have been distributed by the Republican party are at the root of the existing financial troubles. It characterizes the tendency towards centralization of power by the present national administration as little short of czarism.

Judge Gray is declared to be the most fit for the presidency of those who have been mentioned in connection with the nomination.

SEALING STEAMER CRUSHED BY ICE.

St. Johns, N. F., April 13.—Bringing the tidings of the sinking of the steamer Grand Lake of the sealing fleet, and the serious injury of several others caught in the grip of ice floes, the steam sealer Newfoundland limped into port yesterday, leaking badly.

The Grand Lake met with disaster last Sunday. She was shut up in the relentless jaws of two great ice floes, until her sides gave way, and even her engines were crushed. Her crew made their escape.

CHANGES HER MIND.

Selma Sarino Concludes Not to Starve Herself to Death.

Selma Sarino, a pretty 15-year-old girl who was taken from juvenile court to Central station on Saturday, will be sent to Red Wing today. She is said to be an incorrigible. When brought to the station, Selma said she would starve herself to death. She refused to eat anything until yesterday afternoon, when she finally consented to take some toast and tea.

Several women, interested in the case, visited her in the city jail yesterday, but she treated them with indifference. Matron Frazer of the Bethel had better success with her, and after she left, Selma told the jailor she felt much better.

BODY OF INFANT.

Duluth Men Find Child Buried Near Poor Farm.

The body of an infant buried in a rough pine box in a shallow grave near the poor farm, was found Saturday by Joseph Poshoka and a companion. Coroner McCuen was notified, and he directed that the box be taken to Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms.

It is doubtful if an autopsy will prove whether the child died of natural causes or was murdered as the body is quite badly decomposed.

The infant was well developed and several weeks old at the time of death. It was well clothed and had been carefully placed in the box. There are no marks of violence on the body. There was nothing on the clothing nor in the box to lead to the infant's identity.

It is thought quite possible that the child died a natural death and that the parents being poor, buried it in the careless manner in which it was found. The box was only a few inches below the surface of the earth.

HIT BY A CAR.

J. E. Rocklin is Struck for Second Time This Year.

While delivering bread on Fourth street, yesterday noon, J. E. Rocklin, proprietor of the European Bakery, was injured in a collision with a street car at First avenue east by reason of a fractious horse. As the car was passing the rig, the animal became restive and carried the man and the rig on the track in front of the car, which had almost come to a stop.

Mr. Rocklin sustained a few cuts and bruises, but was not seriously hurt. His wagon was not much damaged.

A peculiar coincidence about the accident is the fact that it is the second time within three months that he has collided with a car. His wagon was hit as he was crossing the tracks at Sixth avenue west and Superior street, some time ago. On that occasion he was driving along the street in the same direction as the car, and suddenly turned across the track.

CROWDS THRONG STREETS.

Spring Weather Brings Out Gala Throng in Glad Attire.

Summer weather and a rising of the mercury brought crowds of pleasure seekers on to the streets and into the parks yesterday. It was good to be out of doors. At least everybody in the city seemed to think so, and Lester park, Chester park and the streets were gay with a happy crowd that joyously hailed the coming of real spring weather.

The fine weather also brought a large attendance to the churches. Before-Easter hats were not lacking, either. Many of the women seemed to think that the fine weather was too good to permit of the new bonnets languishing in the dresser drawer and the Easter hats were seen at church, on the strets and in the parks.

The crowds on the streets discontinued the promenading when a chill wind blew off the lake at 7:29.

GOVERNOR IS ASSASSINATED

Count Potocki of Galacia Shot by a Ruthenian.

Lemberg, Austria, April 13.—Count Andreas Potocki, the governor of the Austrian Polish Province of Galicia, was assasinated yesterday afternoon by a Ruthenian, Myroslap Sjkynclz, by name, while giving an audience to a delegation of students. The assassin fired three shots from a revolver, all of which took effect. The governor died soon afterwards.

The assassin did not resist arrest. When led through the governor's antechamber he said to the Ruthenian peasants who were waiting for an audience: "I have done this for you."

The assassin's brother, who had been informed of the plan to kill the governor, committed suicide shortly before the murder. The affair has caused a great sensation throughout the monarchy. The Potocki family is among the most prominent aristocrats of Polish blood. On learning of the tragedy, the emperor sent a message of sympathy.

SHOT SON-IN-LAW.

Fort Worth Teamster Also Wounded Two Other Men.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 13.—Enranged over domestic troubles, Ike S. Knight, a teamster, shot and killed Edwin Larson and then tried to escape and shot A. B. Montgomery, chief of police of North Fort Worth, and seriously wounded Richard A. How, a former policeman.

He was pursued by a mob of armed men and sought a point of vantage in a creamery, where he had been employed. He finally surrendered to Bryant, an unarmed farmer, who walked behind the walls of the creamery, where Knight was surrounded.

The prisoner was hurried away to the county jail in Fort Worth and later taken to Dallas for safe keeping.

Larson, the son-in-law, had been married only ten days. His wife was Knight's stepdaughter. Domestic trouble, it is stated, prevailed in Knight's home, and the recent marriage made the breach wider.

After killing Larson, Knight, armed with a double-barreled shotgun, endeavored to escape, and when pressed by the officers and citizens who were pursuing him, he fired again, wounding the chief of police and How. After Knight had sought refuge in the creamery he fired several shots into the crowd, but no others were hurt.

REPLY BY JACOBSON

To the Statement Issued by Attorney General Young.

"Square Deal" is the Only Pledge He Will Make.

Madison, Minn., April 13.—J. F. Jacobson made a speech before the Republican county convention here that is interpreted as a dignified reply to the statement issued last Wednesday by Attorney General Young in response to an article in The Duluth Herald saying that Young intended to retire as a candidate for governor.

Mr. Jacobson did not mention Mr. Young. He said he had again become a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and that he would conduct his campaign on the same plan that he had the last one.

If he could not get the nomination without entering into any pledges or combination he did not want it, as he would not make one single pledge or promise. He said he had such opportunities two years ago, but did not avail himself of them.

He said his record would show what he had stood for and would be a better indication of what he is likely to do than any pre-election promise he could now make, and he invited a comparison of it with that of any candidate now mentioned.

"A square deal, that is what I stand for," said Mr. Jacobson, "and if I am governor of this state that is all I will owe any man."

"Jacobson has no campaign manager," said a local Republican leader. "The things that are being done are done by friends that have come to him voluntarily. None have asked for or received a pledge or promise of any kind."

Bob Dunn Is Sarcastic.

Princeton, Minn., April 13.—E. T. Young's letter of last Wednesday called forth a characteristic reply from Bob Dunn, and in the Princeton Union he says:

"Attorney General Young is seemingly in an angry mood. It appears that he or one of his underlings instigated an article of which appeared in The Duluth Herald some days since in which it was asserted that he contemplated withdrawing from the race for the Republican nomination for governor, thus affording him an opportunity to rush into print, deny the allegation, defy the alligators and at the same time pathetically inform the public that his old time friends, the 'interests,' had thrown him down and stepped on him. This remarkable ebullition of temper on the part of the immaculate Edward leads us to believe that if he were to souse his enlarged head in a finger bowl containing ice cold water it might be good for what ails him."

Letter to Mr. Young.

Rush City, Minn, April 13.—An open letter to Attorney General Young, written by a prominent Republican of this district, has made its appearance. The author of the document insists that, for the present, at least, his name be withheld, for personal reasons. The letter, addressed to Mr. Young, follows:

"Dear Sir: A former governor of Minnesota once got so mad that he was almost persuaded to become a candidate for the United States senate, but his madness was not contagious and there were not enough followers with like sympathetic sentiments to make even a 'method.'

"Now the wier of the screech which lately appeared in The Duluth Herald, and which you vituperously answered, was perchance a good friend of yours and was sparring for an opening to get you into print, and you didn't even know his game. The Herald is a Democratic newspaper and right glad to get hold of anything that will breed a row in the Republican camp.

"So far the campaign for the gubernatorial candidacy had proceeded on harmonious lines, entirely lacking in the usual 'acrimony.' The announcements had been made in a dignified way and the sentiments of the people footed up. The balance showed J. F. Jacobson to be the people's choice—decidedly the people's choice by a large majority. Jake had no need of 'interests.' The interests and Jake were never chummy. The interests would have chosen almost any man rather than Jake.

An Undebatable Proposition.

"But the interests are wise. Not only wise, but they know when they are up against an undebatable proposition, and Jake was that proposition. They must do something to down him if possible, and so the letter to The Duluth Herald was conceived. The writer started out with a lie about your candidacy—a lie palpable and unbelievable on its face—and then in a skillful manner arranged all the 'interests'—trusts, railroads, etc.—against Jake.

"With your good judgment and legal acumen, it seems almost impossible that you could have been misled as to the intention of the political charlatan who chose a Democratic newspaper in which to exploit his schemes. And then of your failing into the trap so skillfully set and using almost the same language which by innuendo implies all the allegations in The Herald's article!

"Jacobson's unassailable record as a man to whose garments there never clung even the scent or defilment of an interest inimical to the people is so well known that it has become proverbial with every honest man in the state. The interests and trusts and the railroads would welcome almost any other man as a candidate for governor before Jacobson. Even with your record as a saloon closer and a United States court defier, there is no one who would charge your being a candidate of the liquor interests on the railroads.

"You should remember the old proverb: 'Whom the gods destroy they first make mad,' and keep your temper within the confines of reason thought the world falls. ONE OF THE PEOPLE."

NEW CABINET IS ANNOUNCED

David Lloyd George is Chancellor of the British Exchequer.

London, April 13.—Official announcement was made last night of the new cabinet appointments. They are identical with the forecast made by the Daily Chronicle a few days ago, and announced in these dispatches, as follows:

Herbert H. Asquith, prime minister and first lord of the treasury; David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer; Lord Tweedmouth, president of the council; Earl of Crewe, secretary of state for the colonies; Reginald McKenna, first lord of the admiralty; Winston Spencer Churchill, president of the board of trade; Walter Runciman, president of the board of education; John Morley, secretary of state for India, and Sir Henry Fowler, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, have been made peers, but retain their present offices.

Col. J. E. Zeley has been appointed under secretary for the colonies; Lord Lucas, parliamentary secretary for the war office; F. D. Scland, financial secretary for the war office, and Thomas R. Buchanan, parliamentary secretary for the India office.

There had been some speculation as to whether the new premier would think it well to dissolve parliament and hold it justified in assuming the government under somewhat unusual circumstances, in taking the course of appealing to the country for a new mandate. He has, however, evidently decided otherwise.

Now that it is officially confirmed, perhaps the most striking feature in the new cabinet is the leap of David Lloyd George to the front rank in political life. A second minister in rank, he becomes the deputy leader of the house of commons and the prospective heir to the premiership, should any unforeseen accident leave that office vacant.

We Will Buy

For You a Can of Van Camp's Tomorrow

Send the coupon below to your grocer tomorrow. He will send you a ten-cent can of Van Camp's. We will pay the grocer ourselves for it. Please let us show you, at our expense, how good baked beans can be.

For weeks, in these columns, we have told you how good are Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

But we must do more. For your good and ours, we must get you all to try them. So we are going to let the beans themselves tell you their story tomorrow.

It's our treat. Please serve, with our compliments, one 10-cent can. Then hear what your people say.

Let them compare ours with home-baked beans—compare them with other brands. Then let your folks decide what beans you'll serve next.

The question of beans is important. For beans are Nature's choicest food when they are right.

They are 23% nitrogenous—84% nutriment. They supply a food value equal to meat, yet they cost but a fraction as much.

They are appetizing and hearty; all people like them. They should be a daily dish—not an occasional.

But the trouble is this: Home-baked beans are heavy, and hard to digest, for lack of sufficient heat. Your ovens are not hot enough to break down the fibre—to separate the atoms so the digestive juices can get to them.

The result is, the beans ferment and form gas.

Another trouble is this: Home-baked beans are mushy because they are broken. People prefer beans whole.

They are baked in dry heat, so the top beans are crisped. The middle beans are not even half baked.

That's why you serve beans so rarely.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees, and we bake for ninety minutes. Every atom is made digestible.

We bake in live steam, so no beans are browned, none are broken. They are baked until they are mealy, yet they are nutty because they are whole.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, and get a delicious blend.

That is why Van Camp's are so different. We have spent 47 years in learning how to prepare them. You will eat more beans when you learn how good they can be.

One Ten-Cent Can is Free

Van Camp's Pork and Beans
Baked with Tomato Sauce

Please don't neglect this offer, for it will not appear again. Let the beans themselves, for your own sake, tell how good they are. You will never again bake beans at home. You will not accept other brands.

The beans that we use cost us $2.10 per bushel. Yet beans are sold as low as 30 cents.

But we use only Michigan beans, and the very cream of the crop. We have them picked over by hand so we get only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown. All others are discarded.

For our sauce, we use only whole tomatoes, ripened on the vines. They are picked when the juice fairly sparkles.

Much sauce is made from tomatoes picked green and ripened in shipment. Much is made of scraps from a canning factory. We could buy such sauce, ready-made, for exactly one-fifth that we spend to make ours.

But it would lack our richness, our savor, our sparkling zest which Nature alone can give.

That is why baked beans differ so, and why some brands sell for less. But the best beans are cheap enough. The better your people like beans the more they will eat. And the more you will save on your meat bills.

Every can of Van Camp's means a meal ready to serve. Heat the can in hot water, then open. That's all. The beans will be just as fresh and savory as when they came from our ovens.

Be sure to get a can tomorrow, and use this coupon to pay for it. The beans themselves will do more to convince you than anything we can say. But don't think that other ready-baked beans are anywhere near like Van Camp's. They are not.

Cut Out This Coupon

Take this or send it to your grocer tomorrow, and he will accept it in payment for a 10-cent can of Van Camp's Pork and Beans. No family, however, may present more than one coupon.

If your grocer is out of Van Camp's, ask him to get them. In such case the coupon will be good at any time within one week from April 13th. He can get Van Camp's from his wholesaler.

To All Grocers: Promptly mail to us all these coupons which you redeem for Van Camp's Pork and Beans, writing us a letter to that effect on your business paper with your full name and exact address, and we will remit you ten cents for each. You make your full profit on every sale, for the coupons are redeemed in cash.

FEATURES OF VOYAGE

Commander of Torpedo Flotilla Tells of Their Trip North.

Not an Untoward Incident Has Marred Their Cruise.

Magdalena Bay, Mex., April 8, via San Diego, Cal., April 13.—The torpedo boat flotilla of six destroyers, commanded by Lieut. Commander Hutch I. Cone, arrived in Magdalene bay from Acapulco Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The flotilla, following the example of the fleet, was one day ahead of its schedule here. It required three days to make the run from Acapulco at an average speed of fifteen knots.

By 8 o'clock they were at anchor. Commander Cone went aboard the flagship Minnesota at once to make his report to Admiral Thomas. Tall and thin and bronzed with the heat of the tropical suns, he looked fully the part of the daring destroyer fighter. Admiral Thomas greeted him in his cabin.

"Young man, why are you not in proper uniform?" was one of the first questions the admiral propounded, as he surveyed good-naturedly the tall officer as the latter stood, cap in hand. Cone was dressed in the service uniform of a lieutenant. He had been promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander since leaving Hampton Roads.

"I haven't had a chance to put on the other stripes, admiral," he said in reply.

"I congratulate you upon your promotion," concluded the admiral, as he grasped the officer's hand and shook it warmly.

Features of Voyage.

Commander Cone then began the recounting of some of the features of his voyage. Until the arrival here the destroyers had had no glimpse of the battleships since shortly after leaving Punta Arenas, when they separated, the destroyers taking the inner course through the narrow island channels, the battleships sweeping far out to sea. The trip of the six small craft through the Patagonian passages was filled with adventure.

"We steamed four days through the narrow channels, 1,400 miles long," said Commander Cone, "the passages being barely wide enough to let us through. The waters were cold from the tutting glaciers, and filled with broken cakes of ice. The boats took on all the ice we needed for days from over the side.

"The precipitous cliffs of the snow-covered mountains rose beside us to a height of thousands of feet, seeming sometimes to almost close over us. We threaded our way through these islands, the other destroyers following the lead of the Whipple as we came along in single column.

"We had as pilot a lieutenant commander of the Chilean navy. He steered us through the narrow defiles and over perilous places without the slightest mishap. Frequently at night we would come to anchor over a rocky shelf in the shelter of a rock where there would be barely room enough for all the boats to crowd together on it. These shelves would be but a slender ledge, outside of which the bottom dropped sheer hundreds of fathoms, beyond all possible anchorage.

Ashore at Various Places.

"We went ashore in various places and mingled with the natives. Although the weather seemed cool to us, the costumes of the natives were scant enough. Sometimes they were nothing at all. Now and then we had good hunting on shore where hundreds of wild ducks collected. We finally shot away all of our ammunition, but until that happened we had all of the fresh meat we required."

Not an untoward incident marred the long trip of the destroyers from Hampton Roads. Their supply ship, the Arethusa, or "mother of the destroyers," as she was called, was not able to keep the fast pace set by the black craft, and this held them back. The destroyers are built to make a speed of 28 knots an hour and easily go from 22 to 25. They carry only about sixteen tons of coal each and require frequent replenishing from the collier.

"I want some coal," was one of the first things Commander Cone said to Admiral Thomas. "We just did get in with what we took from the Arethusa at Acapulco. Three of 'em, including the Whipple, have less than four tons in their bunks tonight."

Less than two tons each was what three reported. At daybreak two colliers were working with a destroyer moored on either side of them, pouring coal into the bunkers of the little craft.

"We have been scraping the bottom of the colliers all the way around, I believe," said Commander Cone after he had finished the disagreeable task of taking the last few tons of coal out of the deep hold of the ships. "The battleships took all the coal that was easy to get, and we have been scraping out the corners."

Today all colliers have departed from the bay, every ship having her bunkers filled to the fullest capacity. The Ajax will arrive Thursday night and will remain with the destroyer flotilla to supply them with fuel as needed. The destroyers will spend ten days or two weeks in target practice and then follow the fleet up the coast, rejoining it as soon as possible.

Each destroyer, in addition to torpedo tubes, carries three inch guns and six pounders. They usually have two 3-inch guns and half a dozen 6-pounders. Each battleship has contributed a quota of target ammunition for the destroyers which are preparing to go on the ranges and commence firing today.

STATE ELK MEETING.

Indications There Will be a Large Gathering at Bemidji in July.

Bemidji, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many letters have been received from Elk lodges throughout the state, in which assurances are given that large delegations of the "horned brotherhood" will attend the state meeting here July 6-8. Pleasing incidents of the correspondence had with outside Elk organizations are letters from North Dakota in which it is given out that members of the Grand Forks, Fargo, Minot and Jamestown, N. D., lodges will be present at the meeting. There is no state association in the Flickertail state, and Elks over west have decided to spend an outing in Bemidji on June 18, 19, 20, and already many of the North Dakota live ones have have spoken for accommodations.

A feature of the meeting will be the presence of a large band of Red Lake Indians, brought by John G. Morrison, Jr., and O. Gravelle, who reside at the Red Lake agency. These Indians will give their native dances, and will be encamped there on the lake shore during the three days of the meeting.

The famous St. Cloud band, thirty strong, will be at the head of the St. Cloud lodge, one of the strongest lodges in the west. Little Falls will come on a special train, with a band that is of a high class. Hibbing will bring a band, and there will undoubtedly be others, in addition to the famous little "German" band of Crookston, which has won high praise at all Elk gatherings in the Northwest for the past five years.

And the Elks' quartet of Crookston will also be present and spring a lot of new stuff.

The Tramp is the first tug on Lake Superior to begin business this spring. It was tied up for the winter at the lumber dock above the bridge, but very little trouble was experienced in breaking through the ice to the fish dock.

A Gentle Dose That Never Needs Increasing

A small dose of harsh physic—salts, castor oil or pills—soon ceases to be effective.

Then you take larger doses. Else you take the physic more frequently.

That is because the physic is irritating.

The bowel lining grows hard, just as the skin becomes calloused by constant irritation.

Calloused bowels can't perform their natural functions. The result is chronic constipation—the need of constant help.

Such physic belongs to an ancient era. Modern physicians have learned its effects and displaced it.

They now help the bowels gently and naturally. They use vegetables instead of minerals.

Cascarets are purely vegetable.

They act just as laxative foods, just as exercise acts on the bowels.

They don't harden the bowels—don't inflame the stomach—because they don't irritate.

One small, sweet dose is always sufficient, unless the bowels are already calloused.

Their use never causes pain.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C C C on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents. The month-treatment box 50 cents. 12,000,000 boxes sold annually. 814

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NOAH MUST BE HANGED

Jury Gives Short Shrift to Slayer of Gus Johnson.

Justice Moves Swiftly in This Brutal North Dakota Crime.

Minot, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—It took a jury in the district court only about six hours to decide upon the guilt of Robert S. Noah of the crime of murder in the first degree, for killing Gus Johnson, a farmer living near Kenmare, recently, and to fix the penalty at death upon the scaffold.

Justice moved swiftly in the case of Noah, as it was only the latter part of the month of March when suspicion was directed towards him and he was arrested along with Patsey Coyle, whom he had hired to work for him on the Johnson place. They pretended to be disposing of Johnson's property during the absence of the latter, when in reality they were selling the property prior to fleeing the country, after Noah had cruelly murdered Johnson, as he subsequently confessed. The murder was one of the most cold-blooded in this section, and there is general endorsement of the verdict. The hanging will take place at the state penitentiary at a date to be fixed later. Patsey Coyle will probably be tried later as an accomplice.

The sale of the Johnson grain and the horses looked strange to a friend of Johnson's, and he asked for an investigation. Noah and Coyle were arrested and taken to Kenmare, where a preliminary hearing was given them on the charge of stealing the wheat. In the meantime Postmaster Dodds of Kenmare made a thorough investigation of the house. On the floor he found a piece of new linoleum, which aroused his suspicion. This was torn up, and beneath it was found blood stains over the trap door leading to the cellar. In the cellar was found the body of Johnson, showing unmistakable marks of violence. The two men were immediately placed under heavy guards in the commercial hotel at Kenmare. Special police were sworn in and they guarded the hotel at every entrance. When the news o fthe murder was spread abroad there was but one talk in the village, and it was rumored that a crowd of farmer neighbors of the murdered man were on their way to the hotel.

The sheriff was summoned from Minot and arrived on the night train with his deputies, and the men were lodged in the county jail.

SEED BARLEY IS DEAD.

North Dakota Farmers Should Make Growing Test of Seed.

Fargo, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. H. L. Bolley of the department of agriculture, at the agricultural college, has made many tests of the seed barley from over the state, and has found that a considerable portion of it is dead, owing to the frosts last fall, and he says that unless the farmers pay particular attention to this matter, they will have very poor stands of the crop. He advises the farmers to make a growing test of the seed before planting it generally, in order to ascertain its fertility

Barley freezes much easier before maturity than the other grains and some of the wheat and other grains were slightly damaged in some portion of the state.

BISMARCK'S BIG BLOW.

Forty-Eight Miles an Hour in North Dakota Capital.

Bismarck, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thursday was the first real windy day Bismarck has experienced this winter and spring, and the consensus of opinion among most of the people who had to face it is that a repetition of the very disagreeable weather will be long in coming. In the afternoon the wind rose perceptibly from that of the morning and attained a velocity of forty-eight miles an hour, and that, even for North Dakota, is going some. Toward 6 o'clock the sidewalks about the city were covered with dust, and what was not on the sidewalks seemed to be in the eyes of the pedestrians.

HE WAS NOT BLACKIE.

Suspect Arrested at Glendive, Mont., Not the Right Party.

Valley City, N. D., April 13.—Sheriff Winkler has returned from Glendive, Mont., where he and Chief Burt of the local police force went to look over the latest Blackie suspect. The picture of the man seemed to be exactly what they were looking for, and after Connors at Bismarck said that the resemblance to Blackie was striking, they decided to make the trip at their own expense.

The man held at Glendive resembled Blackie in his facial makeup, but did not meet the requirements as to height, etc. In view of the fact that the board of county commissioners absolutely refused to bear any expense connected with the matter, they decided to leave him at Glendive. Otherwise they would have brought him to Bismarck for identification by Connors.

You Don't Have to Soak Your Beans or Peas Over Night to Make Soup!

THE old way was a whole lot of work, was'nt it? It was, but Schwalbe's Conserves have simplified the problem.

Made from the cooked cream of the finest quality of beans and peas, and sterilized and condensed, they cut the work of the housewife right in half.

Prepared in a brand new factory, Schwalbe's Conserves are sterilized and never touched by human hands. Packed in hermetically sealed boxes, there is absolutely no possibility of a tin flavor or of tin poisoning.

Moreover, Schwalbe's Conserves are economical, for each package is practically an essence, and setting very thick, will make from fifteen to eighteen bowls of rich, delicious soup or some thirty other tasty vegetable dishes.

Schwalbe's Conserves are recommended by physicians. Tasty and appetizing, they have found ready reception in the leading hotels, restaurants, and thousands of homes, wherever introduced.

Schwalbe's Conserves are made in Milwaukee by the National Conserve Company.

Harry Miller, Shot by Highwaymen, Was Duluth Policeman.

Friends in Duluth Receive News of the Shooting.

Friday's Herald contained an account of the shooting of City Marshal Harry Miller of Kent, Wash., by five highwaymen, on Thursday night, but few Duluth people who read the story realized that the marshal was a former Duluth policeman.

Harry Miller was a member of the local police force until about three years ago. At that time he preferred charges against Chief Troyer, which, on investigation proved entirely unfounded, and he resigned to go West.

He was wounded in the right shoulder by the highwaymen and died Saturday.

His friends in the city received word of the affair today. Miller was very popular in Duluth and had many friends here. He had a Superior street beat.

DAMAGE CASE GETS TO JURY

The Bergman-Kitz Trial Comes to an End.

The Bergman-Kitz damage case was submitted to the jury shortly before noon today, the arguments and the court's charge being made this morning.

Twice tried, the case has been given considerable notoriety. Mrs. Olga Bergman, who formerly rented the West hotel at Hibbing from Jacob Kitz, a business man of that town, and who was ejected for non-payment of rent, charged Kitz with forcing his attentions on her. Mrs. Bergman claimed that in her own home, under the guise of collecting rent, Kitz threw his arms about her and kissed her. She claims that she was injured in one of the struggles against Kitz' alleged advances.

Kitz claims that Mrs. Bergman's story was manufactured out of whole cloth, that he never attempted anything improper in his treatement of Mrs. Bergman and that he hardly spoke to her, except in a business way.

The defendant maintained that the action was a blackmailing scheme on the part of the Bergmans.

At the first trial Mrs. Bergman was awarded damages in the sum of $5,000. She sued for $25,000.

Victor L. Power represented Mrs. Bergman, and C. O. Baldwin and Martin Hughes represented Mr. Kitz.

ADDRESS BY JAMES BRYCE

British Ambassador Chief Speaker at Virginia University.

Charlottesville, Va., April 13.—The one hundred and sixty-fifth anniversary of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson and the eighty-ninth anniversary of the foundation of the University of Virginia was celebrated at that institution to day, the chief address being delivered by the British ambassador James Bryce.

President Alderman in instroducing the ambassador, referred to the fact that Tarleton soldiers chased the general assembly of Virginia from the town of Charlottesville and caused Mr. Jefferson himself to leave Monticello somewhat hastily.

"We are very fortunate today," said Dr. Alderman, "in having as our guest a representative of our great mother empire and of his majesty, King Edward. Twenty-five million people have come to this country since the revolution from all quarters of the world, and a very few of them have been Englishmen. It is perhaps fairly accurate to say that rural English and the southern states are the most English parts of the world today. Still this republic is an English land."

Mr. Bryce then spoke. President Alderman followed Mr. Bryce with an interesting statement concerning the life of the university from the present year.

SEVERED HEAD GIVES CLUE TO A MURDER.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13.—The severed head of a corpse, supposed to be that of Michael Soboda of Bedford, a suburb, was washed ashore from the river today, revealing what is thought to have been a case of murder and robbery. Soboda, with $900 in cash, left Bedford five weeks ago for Cleveland, where he had engaged a ticket for the old country. He never called for the ticket, and the police surmise that he was killed and robbed and his body thrown into the river.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The Dorothy Perkins is the newest thing in Easter flowers.

The Dorothy is a pink rose of the rambler variety and grows in the most adorable clusters on a rather high bush. For dainty charm, ethereal lovliness, and a virginal beauty the Dorothy Perkins is the flower of flowers, because the supply is limited. They who receive a Dorothy Perkins rose bush for an Eastern gift, may consider themselves especially fortunate

The selling price is five dollars for the plant.

The florist is busily preparing for Easter day and the windows and the glass encased houses are such a blaze of beauty that Holy week and its attendant sorrows are hard to keep in mind while gazing at the bursting bloom of this house of beauty. One of the leading establishmennts is offering flowers only of its own growth, except for a few imported American beauties, and there has never been an Easter which has so wide spread an observance of home grown flowers, from the stiff and sturdy tulips with their leaves of spring like green, through violets, and roses to orchids.

The plants are especially beautiful and a trip to the florists will well repay anyone at this time, before the rows of plants are broken into. The azelias, as usual, present a riotous growth of blossom until one wonders how the plant supports them. The azelias plants this year are especially symmetrical and beautiful, and one for which the selling price will be $25 has such a myriad of pink buds and blossoms that by Easter morning the plant will be one flame of color.

Potted tulips are among the most simple of the spring flowers, but they have a quaint charm all their own and the demand for tulips in golden yellow, in white, and in scarlet is always large. The daffodils and crocuses and mignonette are all in growth of unusual beauty.

No word has yet been said of the lily, the Easter flower above all others. The symbolism of the day is all suggested in the simply and beautiful white flower and it is here that the florist exerts his greatest effort. The demand for Easter lilies surpasses that for the other flowers and it is a demand that must be gratified. The plants are this year of a stockier growth than usual, although there are many of the tall plants.

"The plants are what women send to each other and what a man sends to his mother," said the flower store girl. "But when it comes to choosing flowers for his best young lady it's always cut flowers for her. Not one man in fifty will sent a girl a plant. Violets of course are always in great demand and of course American beauties, they are so gorgeous and showy and beautiful. Then the carnations and other roses according to taste and pocket book. One of the things I hate about sending flowers is when he will insist upon sending them without a card. What the theory is upon which he works I don't know, but a good many of the men will insist upon sending them off without a word as the donor. Whether they think that she will know intuitively who he is, I don't know, but though women's intuition will do a lot, it may even go so far as decide upon somebody who never even thought of remembering her. Tell them to put their cards in, do. The girls come in the next day and implore us to tell them who sent the flowers and of course we can't remember and wouldn't tell if we did."

The few preliminary days before the last hurried days of choosing the florists is a peaceful and very beautiful place to visit.

Wed at Los Angeles.

At a simple wedding service Saturday, at Los Angeles, Miss Lora Letteau, daughter of Mrs. Augusta Letteau, formerly of this city, became the bride of Edward Carhart. The wedding service was read at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Carhart will be at home at Minneapolis after June 1. The bride is well known in Duluth, where she lived for many years. Mrs. Letteau and her daughter left last autumn for California. Mr. Carhart is also known in this city, where he has visited. Among the guests at the wedding was Miss Barbara Haug of this city.

Art School Notes.

The rooms of the Duluth Art school are being made as cozily attractive as possible. The board of managers received, in response to a request to many of the Duluth women, gifts of tables, chairs, bookshelves, a couch and draperies, and it is expected that within two weeks the rooms will present a more cheery aspect. The funds of the school are to be spent for instruction and artistic equipment, and the furnishing of the rooms is to be done almost entirely with gifts from interested women. The use to which draperies may be placed are many. They will be used to hide bare walls, as backgrounds for models and to supply a needed color scheme. Those which have been given are of desirable color, and others which may be given, if not of a desirable shade, may be dyed. Gifts of art magazines and books on art will be especially welcome. Among the women who have thus contributed to the school are: Mesdames D. G. Cutler, F. A. Patrick, Z. D. Scott, J. W. Hunt, E. W. Matter, C. Poirier, Watson S. Moore, J. W. Harbison, W. S. Bishop, M. Latshaw, C. A. Congdon, A. H. Comstock, W. H. Coke and E. C. Little.

The evening class of the school, which has been meeting Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7 o'clock, will hereafter meet Monday and Friday evenings, at 7:30 o'clock. The class will meet in the regular place, the art room of the Central high school. Miss Tidball has been appointed custodian of the evening class.

* * *

The class in design is working on design for application to copper metal work. This class will organize a copper guild, and the members will together buy the equipment for the work, and the craft work will begin as soon as possible. There are many in the city interested in the copper work, and it is hoped that they will register at once, as the class is now at work on design, and as soon as the tools can be secured, the guild will begin the craft work.

MATINEE MUSICALE

Completes the Eighth Successful Year of Its Work.

The officers for the matinee musicale for the ensuing year will be:

President—Miss Mary Syer Bradshaw.

Vice president—Miss Carlotta Simonds.

Recording secretary—Miss Florence Hyland.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury.

Librarian—Miss Sybilla Hartman.

Directors—Miss Ruth Markell, Miss Dora Swan and Miss Ruth Rogers.

The election of officers took place Saturday afternoon, immediately following the last program of the year, which was presented in the auditorium of the new Masonic Temple. The use of the hall and the organ, which has recently been installed, was extended to the club through the courtesy of the Masons, and the hall was filled with the members and their guests, who listened with much delight to the fine program which closed the year's work. The organ numbers were played by Mrs. W. S. Wingate and the program was opened with a movement from a Guilmant concerto, using the solo automatic device, with T. W. Hugo officiating.

The cantata for women's voices, "Sea Fairies," was repeated by request.

The club has completed the most successful year in its history. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented by Mrs. George S. Richards and are of more than ordinary interest. The club has added 252 members during the year and the total amount of money received for the year was $1,071.06. Of this amount $792 was expended in artists' recitals, three noted musicians being brought to the city by the club. The work of Mrs. Richards as treasurer during the last two years has been most efficient.

The secretary's report is given in full:

"The eighth session of the Matinee Musicale club opened Oct. 7, 1907, with a special program given by Miss Faith Rogers and Miss Mary Morris. Great interest was manifested in hearing the two young artists who had recently returned from their studies abroad, and the hall was filled with enthusiastic members. The sale of tickets netted $206.

"The next regular meet was an organ recital given at the First Methodist church, where a most delightful program was given. The sale of tickets netted $180 for membership. Besides these two recitals mentioned, there have been twelve regular programs folling the outline given by the 'plan of work' committee representing the old classical, romantic, modern Scandinavian, modern Russian, modern German and American music.

"The holiday program was worthy of special mention. The old Christmas carols as sung by a quartet of solo voices, followed by the Cantata, 'The Coming of the King,' sung by a large chorus and soloist, was most delightful. 'Sea Farles,' the second Cantata given is one of the most artistic and beautiful compositions written for women's voices. This was rendered by sixteen of the best solo voices from the club and under the capable direction of Horace W. Reyner and Mrs. Stephenson, was one of the most delightful programs of the year.

"The Beethoven trio, which has not been heard in public for some time, was a rare treat as heard on our regular program, Feb. 10. Madame Maud Powell, the famous violinist, was a guest of honor that afternoon, and was most generous in her praise of our work.

"In justice to the program committee, I would say that in behalf of the club, that the programs have been exceptionally fine and enjoyed by all.

"The three artists' recitals have been a success from every standpoint. Large and appreciative audiences have greeted them—each one.

"George Hamlin's beautiful lyric tenor voice, broad, smooth and expressive, was a delight to hear.

"Madame Samaroff's reputation was well known, but many were surprised at the wonderful technical ability of the young pianist.

"The last artist recital was a gem in itself, for Gerardy made a deep impression upon every music lover present. The house was filled, and the sale of tickets netted nearly $100.

"The board of directors and officers have worked together most harmoniously, with unity of interest for the welfare of the club. A very generous donation of money from Mrs. Stephen H. Jones, one of our active members, was greatly appreciated by the club. With this spirit prevailing, together with the arduous zeal of the president, officers and active members, the curtain falls on one of the most successful years in the history of the Matinee Musicale club.

Respectfully submitted by

"MRS. GEORGE RICHARDS,

"Treasurer and Acting Secretary."

ITS COMING IN A FEW DAYS.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

Front Porch Important Part of Season's Joy.

Another good place for observing the universal American princess is a suburban town—near any great city—and preferably a drug store in a well-to-do desidence district, says Oliver Opp in Success Magazine. A summer evening is the time to choose. The princess must have her soda water at frequent intervals, and she must go to the drug store to get it. In a certain prosperous suburb which I happen to know very well, she floats about the residence streets of an evening in the filmiest of summer fabrics, with or without a hat, and with her pretty arms and neck bare, and she does not dream of shocking any one; on the contrary, from my acquaintance with her I venture to believe that if any unaccustomed observer were so silly as to permit himself (or herself) to be shocked, the girl wouldn't care a rap. And I will go so far as to believe that she would be right.

An institution with which the girl is closely identified, both before she goes away to school and after she returns "finished," is that curious American luxury, the "front porch." From Maine to California, from Dakota to Louisiana, the front porch flourishes. It is usually furnished with easy chairs and a hammock. It is where she entertains her boy friends, from the bashful "caller," who supplements his timid advances with a box of candy, to the steady admirer, who works for a big concern down town, and who hopes to make her his wife as soon as his salary shall reach the necessary figure. The front porch is the scene of many a laughing party, of many a quiet confidence, of many a merry little flirtation. Father and mother say good night and go to bed, leaving their particular American girl to entertain her boy friends, innocent of the chaperonage, supreme in her mastery of every situation in which she may find herself.

THE EASTER EGG.

Hens Urged to Adopt Automatic Dating Device.

The ease, convenience, quickness and economy with which eggs may be prepared, their relishable taste and their superior nutritive diet, make them preeminently the most popular diet in the American household, says "What To Eat." There are no bones, no hard ends, no fat to waste, the preparation of them is as convenient as the eating. Eggs require less time for cooking than nearly any other common food.

Then, eggs serve so many different purposes that it is difficult to tell how the housewife or the chef would ever get along without them. They can be prepared in so many different ways in themselves, all so toothsome, and they are an indispensable aid in preparing innumerable other foods. The egg in the shell is cooked by immersion in hot water or boiling water, or is less commonly roasted. Or, the egg is cooked in hot water or fat after removal from the shell. In the latter case, it may or may not be beaten or stirred.

Combined with other materials to form various made dishes, eggs are boiled, baked, steamed or fried, as the case may be. The total number of methods of preparing and serving eggs is enormous, but in nearly every case it will be found that the method of preparation is only a more or less elaborate modification of one of the simple methods of cooking. Eggs serve to improve the color, flavor and texture of an enormous variety of raw and cooked products. In leavening cakes, and similar foods, nothing can take the place of the well-beaten or whipped egg white. The beaten white encloses air in small bubbles which becomes distributed throughout the mass of dough in mixing. The heat of the cooking expands the air and makes the walls of the air bubbles firm, so that the porus structure is retained.

Measures also have been advocated to require the stamping of the date on eggs to indicate the time they were placed in storage or entered on the market.

In Wisconsin a method was proposed of having the hen do the dating herself, by means of an automatic egg-dating attachment. A bill to this effect was actually introduced in the Wisconsin legislature. It provided that "every egg-producing fowl shall, upon proper application made to the secretary of the board of agriculture, be provided with an automatic dating machine, and that it shall be the duty of every such fowl to date consecutively each egg laid, in order that the public may be properly informed as to the age and edible quality of such hen's product."

It was finally agreed that all hens would not know just how to make a proper application; that such a law would place an undue restriction on the hen, to which this country is so greatly indebted, and that the additional duty it would impose on her would make her nervous, and thereby diminish her laying capacity.

Fads of 1908.

Earrings are more fashionable than ever.

The sugar loaf is the latest in millinery.

Hatpins are much larger than in many years.

Silver is to be adopted in jewelery.

Chenille has become more popular than silk fringe.

Gowns are long in Paris this season.

Elaborately beaded belts are prescribed by fashion.

All the new jewels are large and oriental in design.

Bracelets may grow until they are two inches wide.

Soutache, worked into designs, is often allied with lace.

The one color scheme still prevails in the Paris gowns.

Black is finding favor for the semi-dress toilettes.

Cameo bracelets are a favored form of this year's jewelry.

Suit coats of the tailor finish are nearly all semi-fitted.

Arbutus is taking a decidedly prominent part in millinery.

Embroidery and lace are playing a wonderful part in trimming.

Paris decrees sleeves that shall be extra long and tight fitting.

There is a strong tendency in the new coats to dip in the back.

Instead of going up and down, stripes in the new collars go around.

Chinese embroidery is the thing to set off a waist pongee.

Embroidered striped collars have embroidered striped bows to match them.

Jet will be in good taste for general wear with summer dresses.

ANOTHER CASE OF ENOCH ARDEN

Former St. Paul Girl Now Claimed by Two Husbands.

Spokane, Wash., April 13.—This is another of the oft told story of Enoch Arden, the principals being Richard Evans, son of a prominent fruit grower in the Prosser valley, southwest of Spokane, his wife, who was Florence Maxham, formerly of St. Paul, and Bruce Burt, a traveling representative of a stove polish company.

Burt went to the Evans home at Prosser recently after following Mrs. Evans in the street, and claimed she was his wife in the East, saying they had not legally divorced. Mrs. Evans told her husband that Burt's story was true, but she declared that her former marriage was annulled and that her father in St. Paul had the documents in the case. She has gone to Seattle, where her mother lives. She left word she will return as soon as she secured the papers. The Evans have one child.

Burt's visit to Prosser was by the merest accident. The town was not on his itinerary and there is nothing to indicate that he knew his former wife lived there before he met her in the street. He was in town several days and had been arrested for drunkenness by Marshal Shelby, who ordered him to leave town. It was while going to the railway station that he met Mrs. Evans. Burt followed her home, according to the story he told Marshal Shelby. Then came a meeting between the couple.

Miss Maxham was a telephone operator at Sunnyside, Wash., four years ago, when she met Evans and they were married, Evans said:

"We have one child and have always lived happily until this man appeared. She tells me that she had secured an annulment of the marriage to Burt, which was never a legal one. She says her father has the papers in the case, and as soon as she has secured them she will return. Her father is in St. Paul and has not lived with his wife for six or seven years.

"I do not know of the history of my wife before I married her. I did not know of her former marriage. She was so excited after Burt came to the home that she would not tell me but little. She said that under the circumstances the people here would turn against her and would not believe her story, and she would rather be with her mother, who knew the facts in the case. I understand that her marriage with Burt took place in Winona, Minn. I thought it best to let her go and return when she was ready to tell the entire story."

OPERATORS AND MINERS TO MEET.

Kansas City, April 13.—The scale committee of the 35,000 Southwestern coal miners, now on strike, and the committee of operators, will today and tomorrow meet separately and try and perfect some definite plan of action. On Wednesday the two committees will resume their joint conference.

RECOUNT OF BALLOTS.

Selection of Jury Begins in Hearst-McClellan Case.

New York, April 13.—The selection of a jury to sit in the New York mayoralty recount, directed in quo warranto proceedings, instituted by Attorney General Jackson, was begun before Justice John S. Lambert of Buffalo, in the supreme court, today.

Mr. Hearst has been contending for this recount ever since the election of 1905, and it has been opposed by Mayor McClellan in several legal contests over preliminary questions. There are 1,946 ballot boxes, all of which may be opened and their contents counted. This task may keep the court busy for months. Mayor McClellan's term expires in 1909.

A Small Fire.
There was a small fire on Garfield avenue yesterday morning. A spark from a passing locomotive lodged on a pile of dry posts in the yeard of the Duluth Log Company and a blaze followed. The fire department was soon on the scene and checked the fire without any particular trouble. The total damage did not amount to more than $15 or $20.

Falls, But Is Unhurt.
To fall from a second story window onto a board sidewalk and escape with no injuries, except a few bruises, was the experience Saturday of Irma Lausman, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lausman of 216 West Fifth street. The child was playing in one of the upper rooms of the house and lost its balance while looking out of the window. After a passerby picked up the child, a physician was summoned, but he found no injuries with the exception of a few bruises.

Trial Nearly Completed.
The partnership accounting case of Cosmas D. Hone against J. Alfred Mellin will be submitted to Judge Dibell some time this afternoon. The case has been on trial for several days. Mellin alleges that there was no partnership, that he merely employed Hone on a stated salary, and that he owe to make an accounting of the business to him.

Butler, a contractor of Virginia. It is alleged that Butler owes the two men $15,686 on certain contracts and that he committed an act of bankruptcy April 1, when he assigned to the American Exchange bank of Virginia, seven cars of logs, without receiving due consideration for them.

AN APPEAL FOR AID.

Boston, April 13.—The following appeal for assistance, signed by Mayor Beck and William E. McClintock, chairman of the relief committee at Chelsea, was handed to the Associated Press today:

"We have been visited by a most terrible catastrophe. One half the area of our city has been swept by fire. Fifteen thousand people are homeless and $12,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed. Our business section is almost wholly wiped out. We are in sore need. We have not lost our courage, but are applying ourselves with all our ability to the task before us. But that task is stupendous and we ask assistance of all who are benevolently inclined. He who gives quickly gives double. Subscriptions may be sent to City Treasurer James B. Frost.

SICKENING STENCH FROM CHEAP LODGING HOUSES

Conditions in Some Bed Houses Are Most Revolting.

Ordinary Man Cannot Enter Some of the Rooms.

An investigation yesterday by a representative of The Herald of some of the cheap lodging houses revealed most sickening conditions. Filth and stenches that would turn the stomach of an ordinary man were discovered in some of the "15, 20 and 25-cent" bedhouses. The odor was so sickening in some that it is almost an impossibility to remain in the stench-laden atmosphere for more than a minute.

In some of the houses bunks are piled on top of each other in such a manner that it is impossible to have any circulation of fresh air. In some cases one or two small windows supplied all the air that could possibly come to the thirty or forty men that were huddled like sheep in the room. Stagnant, nauseating and germ-filled is the air that these men nightly breathe into their systems.

The houses present a regular catchnet for disease. Filth and germs abound. The odor alone would make the ordinary man used to decent and cleanly conditions ill. The bed clothing is seldom, if ever, changed. The germs of one traveler are left to peacefully repose, to await the coming of the next wayfarer. Yesterday, when there were few men in some of the rooms, few of the windows were open, and the atmosphere was the kind that you could cleave with a blunt knife. When the rooms are crowded, it requires only the imagination and the recollection of yesterday's virulent odor to conceive of what the conditions must be.

In San Francisco and other cities, where they have experience trouble with the spread of malignant disease, ordinances require that a certain amount of air be provided for every occupant of the room. This was brought about in San Francisco by the filthy and apalling conditions of the Chinese junk houses. The health authorities were alarmed by the amazing conditions they encountered.

The Duluth health authorities have the same cause for alarm, and consequent action.

To a citizen who has never investigated the cheap lodging house, the sight that the conditions of some of them present would be apalling, not to say startling. A whiff of the stench would send a country bred dog into the open with drooping tail. It is sickening and revolting. It is disease breeding and a shame to a city. An investigation will reveal conditions that should demand the attention of the city health department.

IS INSANE FROM SHOCK

Midnight Alarm of Fire Robbed Girl of Reason.

Will be Deported on the Eve of Her Wedding.

A cry of fire in the night and the glare of flames through a bedroom window changed the whole course of Nana Vukicevic's life. Instead of being the happy bride of the man, for love of whom she traveled from Austria to the United States, her reason has flown and she will leave this afternoon in charge of Immigrant Inspector Frank W. Heath and Mrs. Heath for New York, where she will be placed on the steamer Ultonia for deportation to her old home in Austria.

The girl is but 19 years old, and she came to this country last August from Kostanica, Delmatia, Austria, arriving at New York on the steamer Slavonia and coming direct to Minnesota. She came to marry a man who had preceded her to this country by a few years and who had saved enough to send for her and make her his bride. She had a sister married at Virginia, where the man also resides, and she went there to await the day of the ceremony.

Preparations for the wedding were on, when one night she was awakened from her sleep by a cry of fire. Through her bedroom window, the red glare of the flames came to bring up horrible fears. In the excitement of the moment, her reason fled and when her sister and brother-in-law found her, she was demented. That was three months ago. When the man found that she had become insane the arrangements for the wedding were called off and he notified Inspector in Charge W. H. Dean of this immigration district of the circumstances.

Mr. Dean investigated the circumstances, reported on them and the girl was ordered deported. Immigrant Inspector Heath was detailed to take her to New York and place her aboard the steamer and Mrs. Heath will accompany him as matron.

MINES MAY BE SOLD.

Iron Age Reports Sale of Corrigan-McKinney Interests.

Dwight E. Woodbridge, in the last issue of the Iron Age, published the report that the United States Steel corporation has an option on the Corrigan-McKinney interests on the ranges. The Corrigan-McKinney people have five mines on the Mesaba range, the Stevenson, Commodore, Jordan, St. James and St. Paul, as well as extensive furnace interests. There have been frequent rumors of the purchase of this property by the Steel corporation and every few months the story is given publicity. The statements made in the Iron Age, however, have not been denied.

FIVE BROTHERS

All Thought They Knew Good Coffee

An amusing story comes from a veteran in Iowa. It shows how possible it is for not only one man to be mistaken about a matter, but four make the same blunder at once.

"Thirteen years ago," writes a Colonel of the late war, "I was a confirmed invalid, unable to attend to business. I had heart trouble and had it bad.

"Deciding to consult a specialist, I told my wife I was going to Chicago for a few days on business, not saying what the main business was.

"On arriving in the city I went to see a man on a small matter and had to climb two flights of stairs. I thought I would never get to the top. I could only go up two or three steps at a time and did this by hanging onto the railing. When I got to the man's office, I was so exhausted I had to rest before I could state my errand.

"Next morning I sought out my specialist. He looked me over, asked me if I used tobacco, or intoxicating liquors: I said no. Ever drink coffee? Yes, always have, in fact it is all I live on these days.

"Well, you just stop it entirely, said the doctor. Why, man, I gasped, what will I live on? Did you ever drink Postum, he asked. I said no. Then he asked me where I was stopping and sent me to a restaurant with instructions to have them make me Postum.

"So I took my meals there and really liked Postum from the start. I stayed more than ten days and went home feeling much better. I could sleep and that 'gone' feeling had gone, sure enough. When I arrived at home I just picked up my suit case and walked home from the depot as spry as a kitten and I'll not soon forget the happy surprised look on my wife's face.

"When she opened the suit case, she found two packages of Postum. She laughed at me and said we could get plenty at the store. I had always been lucky about my coffee, and my four brothers were all acquainted with the fine Java my wife used to make.

"We were all bankers and got together sometimes for a visit. About this time they all happened to be at our house and remarked that they expected some of Nettie's fine coffee. She called me out and said we must have some coffee.

"Make Postum just as you have been doing, I said. The boys were all about as I had been from drinking coffee. They complimented my wife on her "Java" and drank two cups apiece.

"After dinner she told them it was not Java. What! No, it was Postum. Then she told them of my complete recovery since quitting coffee and using Postum. They all went away determined to quit coffee, and we are all today enjoying the pink of good health, and we attribute it largely to the use of Postum."

"There's a reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Butte-Ballaklava closed at $8.37½ bid and $8.62½ asked.

The strong bull movement in Black Mountain continued today, the stock advancing from $5 to $5.75 and closing at $5.75 bid and $6.87½ asked.

* * *

The death knell of Butte & London, which at one time gave promise of amounting to something in the Butte camp, was sounded today when it was officially announced that the mine was a failure. The property will be abandoned and the machinery disposed of as soon as possible. English capitalists were largely interested in the company.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is quiet and slightly easier. Lake is 13c to 13¾c, and electrolytic 12¾c to 13 cents per pound. Domestic consumers are buying very sparingly again. The foreign interests have withdrawn from the market; but are occassionally bidding a fraction less than 13 cents for large lots. Producers show no disposition to press the metal for sale. They have no surplus, and could not sell in quantity for earlier delivery than May or June. The situation is a waiting one. As soon as electrical and industrial corporations are able to sell bonds and get money for extensions there will be a decided increase in the consumption of copper. It is probable that the metal market will remain around 13 cents for a while longer, but two or three months hence it should begin advancing."

WAITING AT THE DEPOT

Lovelorn Swain is Stung Twice in the Same Place.

Long Looked for Bride Fails to Make Her Appearence.

"There was I, waitin' at the station." The "Waitin' at the Church" song needs but little modification to fit the plight of Math Nuranen, a Duluth Finn, who each morning for the past week has early gone to the union depot to greet with open arms and smiling countenance the bride-to-be, who with coy and maidenly reserve, continued to keep Math waiting with rueful face and aching heart.

The story of the missing maiden is full of pathos. The wooing and the apparent winning was done in far away Finland. With the consent of the maiden to become his bride acting as a spur to his ambition, Math Nuranen trekked to America, the land of the free, and proceeded to close tight his purse strings that stray sheckels might lodge therein safely. When he had saved the necessary money Math sent for the maid. Ah, but more, to make glad her heart and to show that he had already imbibed the ideas of the new land, he sent her a gold watch and ring, and also a new and wonderful hat. That would surely tickle her woman's vanity.

Alas, how badly Math Nuranen was mistaken.

To be sure, the maiden crossed the broad Atlantic. She was fond of travel. But she tarried in Monessen, Pa., writing to Math "that a better man than you has won my heart." She neglected to return the passage money, nor did the keeping of the gold watch and ring, or the wonderful new hat seem to bring compunctions to her conscience.

But hold! A ray of light came into the dark and melancholy life of Math. A few days ago he received a letter from the maid saying that she had tired of her Monessen, Pa., flame and that she longed again for the steady company and the confiding words of Math. Math went out and raised enough dust to forward the price of the fare from Monessen to Duluth. He even included the price of a Pullman berth in his subscription.

Then he began to count the days until the girl he had courted in Finland would step off the train at Duluth and leap with joyous exclamations into his waiting arms. Again he was doomed to bitter disappointment. A week of laden hours has droned its weary length away and each train has failed to disgouge from its crowded depths any one that looks like Math's old time steady.

Sadly, but with hope still combatting his dread forbodings, does Math wait at the station. When the train is in, when there is no chance that the maid has become lost in the shuffle, Math repairs to the railway offices and sadly makes inquiries. Thus does sorrow ride heavy upon the soul of Math.

The railway men have not the courage to tell Math their convictions; that the maiden in the case is a flekle bird, loving bright plumage, gold watches and rings, and money withal, but sad to relate, not Math.

PAUL GILMORE IS A RANCHER

Actor Invested Money in Sheep Ranch Near Helena.

Paul Gilmore, the actor, has also added another occupation to his list. He has gone into the ranching business. While Mr. Gilmore was in Helena recently, several of his friends pointed out to him the benefits to be derived from the wool business. Mr. Gilmore was tucked into a big automobile and whirled at a dizzy speed to one of the ranches, about fifty miles from Helena, Mont. That was all that was necessary. After a thorough inspection of the way they raised sheep, Mr. Gilmore became an investor.

That is one of the reasons why Mr. Gilmore has an interest in the mining and cattle raising state. He feels that he has interest in it. He doesn't intend to abandon the stage, of course, he merely thinks he has made a profitable investment. At least his friends have told him as much.

Mr. Gilmore says there is a lot of enthusiasm in the men of Montana, for when they entertain you they make you feel like one of the natives. He hadn't the least notion of investing any ready currency in the business of raising wool—but, there you are; he just did, that's all.

MAKES TROUBLE AT THE FARM

William Roy, County Pensioner, Believed to be Insane.

Although housed, fed and clothed by the county, William Roy, an inmate at the county poor farm for the past two months has developed violent tendencies toward the management of the farm and the other inmates at the place. Roy has threatened to kill other of the unfortunates cared for at the institution, has declared an intent to take his own life. Besides making trouble in these particulars he has destroyed property on the farm and caused annoyance by running away from the place.

Roy's escapades will be short lived, however, for this afternoon he will be taken before Judge Middlecoff, in the probate court, and an examination will be made as to his sanity. There are facilities at the state asylum for caring for unruly charges, that the county does not possess.

WILL NOT BE INSTRUCTED

Every Indication That New York Delegation Will be Free.

Democratic Convention May Not Even Adopt a Platform.

New York, April 13.—That the Democratic state convention which will meet here tomorrow will vote to send an uninstructed delegation to the national convention at Denver in July, is probable. The followers of William J. Bryan are planning to upset the organization program if possible by the introduction of a resolution endorsing Bryan, and while it is not expected that they will be successful the action may precipitate a lively fight on the floor of the convention. Chairman Connors states that it is unlikely that the convention will adopt a platform, saying that to the national convention. A state convention without a platform would be a unique departure from customary procedure.

The state committee already has gone on record as opposed to an instructed delegation, and the organization is expected to have its own way regardless of the Bryan element in the convention.

Named for Delegates.

Among the names mentioned today as delegates at large were Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall; Chairman Connors of the state committee; Lieut. Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Former Judge Alton B. Parker, John B. Stanchfield and Mayor George B. McClellan. Mayor McClellan, however, said today that he had decided not to attend the national convention. In explaining his decision, the mayor said it would require about two weeks to make the trip to and from Denver including the time it would be necessary to spend there and that he is so busy he cannot spare the time.

The state committee will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon to make final arrangements for the committee.

Committees will be appointed at the opening session and an adjournment will then be taken, possibly until Wednesday, as the committee on contested seats will have to decide a number of disputes. However, these contests may be settled, the re-election of Chairman Connors by the new state committee is predicted.

SUPERIOR NEWS

GETS FOUR YEARS.

Thomas Clancey Sentenced to Long Term at Waupun.

Thomas Clancey, one of the gang of four that was implicated in the safe blowing affair that took place last week in a Tower avenue saloon, this morning followed the example of his pal, John Devine, and pleaded guilty to the charge, and was sentenced, as was Devine, by Judge Smith to a four years' term in the state prison at Waupun, where he will be taken this evening.

Clancy is an ex-convict, having once served a term in the East for some criminal act. He said this morning that he saw that he was up against it and the sooner he started serving his time, the better. The other two men, who are being held at the county jail on the same charge, are Mikey Dillon and William Keenan. They have been bound over to the June term of the circuit court.

Martin Olson is Drowned.

Martin Olson, a saloonkeeper at 512 Tower avenue was drowned in St. Louis bay, near the St. Paul & Western Coal company's dock, about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Whether the fatality was an accident or with suicidal intent is not definitely known. Olson has been drinking heavily for some time and at the time of his death is said to have been without any money. He was seen on the dock by employes of the coal company and his peculiar actions caused the dock man to make an investigation. He found Olson lying face down in the water. A plank was thrown out, but Olson was either too far gone to attempt to save himself or did not care to be rescued. He sank to the bottom of the bay and the body was recovered shortly afterward by the police, with the aid of grappling hooks. The decedent leaves a wife and five children, who reside at 201 John avenue.

Will Select Orators.

A contest to determine who shall represent the Nelson Dewey High school at the Chequamegon League oratorial contest at Bayfield, April 24, will be held at the Nelson Dewey school April 21. There will be three orators and three declaimers. The high school will furnish several musical numbers.

Organize Humane Society.

A meeting will be held at the Commercial club Wednesday evening to take preliminary steps for the organization of a humane society. T. B. Mills is at the head of the movement to organize a society in Superior. It is believed that certain existing conditions warrant the attention of such an organization.

Too Old for Juvenile Court.

Because he had a birthday and passed the 16-year mark the day following his arrest on the charge of stealing some chickens, John Dungar escaped from the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, but will have to go before the municipal court. The question of jurisdiction of the juvenile court was raised by the boy's attorney and the court held the point well taken.

Charges Were Unfounded.

That his charges against the management of the state reformatory at Green Bay were false and manufactured out of whole cloth, is said to have been admitted by Bert Holdridge, a Superior youth, who recently complained that he had been mistreated at the institution while serving time for a robbery at Superior. On the strength of the trumped up story that Holdridge told in federal court, to escape punishmen for a violation of the internal revenue laws, Judge Sanborn is said to have suspended a sentence of six months' imprisonment. Holdridge's charges caused quite a stir in official circles in Wisconsin.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Weakness Develops During the Last Hour of the Session.

Flax is Firm During the Day in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 13.—Wheat was stronger during most of the session today but at the close, there was a sharp decline and the closing prices were somewhat off from Saturday's.

Most of the news during the day was bullish. Rains are still needed in the Southwest and the world's shipments of wheat were hardly as large as estimated. During the early part of the day, the foreign inquiry was a little better and the milling demand showed some slight improvement.

The easiness at the close was attributed to lower cables and more liberal offerings.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛d lower, Budapest 3⅝c lower, Paris ½c higher and Antwerp ⅝c higher.

The May option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth and Minneapolis, ½c lower in Chicago, ¾c lower in New York and 1⅛c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth, a shade lower in Chicago, unchanged in Minneapolis, ⅜c lower in New York and ¾c lower in Winnipeg.

May corn closed a shade lower in Chicago and ⅛d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛c lower in Chicago

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a quiet tone to the speculative wheat market at the start and values were ⅝d higher. Offerings for a time were lighter and support fair stimulated by the firmness in America on Saturday. During the morning there was some liquidation on May option, which declined ⅛d on the increase in stocks and the distant months reacted ⅛d. At midday the market was quiet, ⅛@¼d higher than Saturday.

"Corn was quiet and ⅛d higher, being influenced by the better American cables Saturday. During the morning the market was very dulland unchanged."

Car receipts at Duluth were 6 against 175 last year, and at Minneapolis 222 against 698 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 228 against 873 last year. Chicago received 17 against 11 last year. Winnipeg received 249 against 196 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 431,000 bus., last year, 1,263,000 bus. Shipments 199,000 bus., last year 387,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregatetd 412,000 bus.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Continued Absence of Rain in Southwest Gives Wheat Firmness.

Chicago, April 13.—The wheat market opened firm today because of the continued absence of rain in the Southwest, and small receipts in the Northwest. May wheat opened ¼c to ⅝c higher at 92c to 92¾c and sold at 92⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 274 cars against 401 cars last week and 884 cars a year ago.

Prices held firm until the last hour when they weakened, because of reports of good weather for farm work in the Northwest. May sold off to 91½c, and the market closed weak with May ⅛c lower at 91⅝c.

The May option was in big demand in the corn market today and its price advanced almost 1c above the close of Saturday. Other deliveries were dull. Small receipts and the strength of wheat were bullish factors. May corn opened a shade higher at 68c and sold up to 68¾c. Local receipts were 77 cars with 11 of contract grade.

Selling by cash houses caused an easy tone in the market late in the day, and May declined to 67¾c. The close was easy with May a shade lower at 67⅞c.

The oats market was firm along with wheat and corn. May oats opened ⅛c higher at 53⅝c and sold at 53⅞c. Local receipts were 147 cars.

The strength of wheat and corn offset, in the provision market, a 5c to 10c decline in the price of live hogs, and the market was steady. May pork opened 2½c higher at $13.45. Lard was unchanged at $8.37½. Ribs were a shade lower to a shade higher at $7.20@7.22½.

Close: Wheat—May, 91⅝c; July, 85⅝c; September, 85⅝c. Corn—May, 67⅞c; July, 64¼c; September, 63c. Oats—May, old, 52½c; May, new, 52c; July, old, 45¼c; July, 53c; September, 47⅞c. Pork—May, 13.40; July, $13.75@$13.72½; September, $14.00. Lard—May, $8.27½; July, $8.47½@$8.50; September, $8.67½. Ribs—May, $7.15; July, $7.40; September, $7.65. Rye—Cash, 77c; barley, 60@73c. Timothy—April, $4.50. Clover, nothing doing. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 94@95½c; No. 3, red, 92@94c; No. 2 hard, 93c@$1.00; No. 3 hard, 88@89c; No. 3 spring, 93c@$1.03. Corn—No. 3, 66¼c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

General News Favorable to Bulls and Wheat Sells Up.

Minneapolis, April 13. — The week opened with news favoring the bulls in wheat, and May sold up to $1.01⅜ and July to $1.00¾. Dry weather southwest was a general influence, but local strength of importance came from the receipts of only 222 cars against 698 a year ago, especially when it was found that of today's light run 79 cars were winter wheat and 29 durum. Duluth had six cars today against 175 cars last year.

Minneapolis elevator stocks decreased 175,000 bushels for two days. California sent bad crop news and dry weather reports. A decrease in the visible supply was strengthening. Bear news came from North and South Dakota and Manitoba, where wheat seeding is progressing. Near the close there was heavy declines in all prices. May wheat opened at $1.01; high, $1.01⅜; low, 99¾c; close, 99⅝c. July closed at 98¾@98⅞c; September closed at 88⅝c. Cash demand was good at 2@2½c over May for No. 1 northern and May price to 6c over for No. 2 northern.

Close: Cash, No. 2 northern, $1.01⅛ spot and to arrive; No. 2 northern, 99⅛@99⅝c spot, 99⅛c to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 91@95c; No. 3 yellow corn, 64¼c; No. 3 white oats, 49⅝@49⅞c; No. 2 rye, 73¾@74¾c.

The barley market was dull, with the best grades lacking demand and several cars, worth about 78c to 80c, going over unsold. Barley ranged from 64@70c sold best. Receipts, 31 cars. Close, 57@70c.

Flax went to ½c over May, due to lighter receipts than expected and good demand from local crushers. Close, $1.16½. Bran steady; in bulk, $21@21.25.

Millers found business a little better because of the market strength of Saturday, but shipping instructions still light and the situation not much changed on the whole.

Shipments, 39,674 barrels. First patents, $5.15@5.30; second patents, $5.05@5.20; first clears, $4.05@4.15; second clears, $2.10@3.20.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade in second-hand loggers continues of large volume, which offer real bargains to buyers from the Dakotas and Canada. Prices in fresh and finished offerings are kept down by the unusual large supply of good second-hand horses on the market. Drivers and saddlers move fairly well. Several shipments were loaded out during the day. Forty head of extra choice work mules arrived on the market, being the consignment of one of the largest farms in South Dakota. William Reibolt made some good deals in the general purpose class, he has a good bunch of horses on hand.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Opened Slightly Lower, Rallied But Turned Heavy Again.

Prices Hardened in Final Dealings and Close Was Firm.

New York, April 13.—Opening transactions in stocks today were small and moderate, fractional declines were general, running to more than ½ in Union Pacific, Reading, Interborough-Metropolitan preferred, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Central Leather. Erie first preferred and Colorado declined 1. Third avenue rose ⅝.

The market receded quite sharply during the first half hour of business with the active railroads and specialties showing about the same relative weakness. Heavy accumulation of local stocks, particularly in Interborough Metropolitan preferred, caused the market to rally slightly. Brooklyn Transit fell 1¼ and Canadian Pacific, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Great Northern Ore, 1. The recovery carried Third avenue up ¾, Interborough Metropolitan, 2⅜; American Ice, 2; Metropolitan Street railway, 1½.

Prices slipped back to the low point, except for the local tractions, which reacted sharply and then rose again. The tradnig fell into a rut of dullness. Interborough Metropilitan gained 1½ and Manhattan 5. St. Paul, Deleware & Hudson, Southern Railway, National Lead and Consolidated Gas declined 1; American Smelting, 1⅜; Amalgamated Copper, 1½, and Westinghouse Electrict, 2⅛. Bonds were steady.

The undertone of the market remained heavy but there was little alteration in prices during the noon hour.

There was a fair rally later in the day, some prices rising to a parity with last week. American Sugar advanced 1¼.

The market closed dull and firm. Trading turned heavy again and the rally was partly lost. The range of fluctuations was not excessive. Union Traction preferred certificates rose 3½ and St. Paul preferred 2. National Lead preferred declined 1, American Smelting preferred 1½, and Cleveland, C., C. & St. Louis preferred 8½. Prices hardened in the final dealings.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walter W. Carr: There was considerable pressure on the copper list today and prices were generally lower. London metal was a shade firmer, but the outlook for future metal prices is still uncertain and there seems to be little disposition on the part of outside interest to enter the market at this time.

* * *

Boston to M. W. Lee & Co.: The market is dead today. There is no news except talk of the Chelsea fire which can have no effect on the market other than indirectly, as it affects the general market. The advance in the London price was caused by a squeeze against some shorts and is of no significance.

The Cotton Market.

New York, April 13.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 8@16 points and was soon selling at a net loss of 14@15 points. All the active months making new record for the season under liquidation and bear pressure. Weak cables, good weather and talk of spot weakness and increased acreage appeared to be the bearish factors. Prices were at practically the low point during the middle of the morning with the market unsettled.

Spot closed quiet, 15 points lower; middling uplands, 10.10; middling gulf, 10.25. No sales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: April, 8.88; May, 8.98; June, 9.02; July, 9.07; August, 8.99; September, 8.97; October, 9.03; November, $9.02; December, 9.03; January, 9.04; March, 9.05.

Cotton Options Below 9 Cents.

New York, April 13.—The price of cotton options on the New York Cotton exchange went below 9 cents per pound today for the first time since September, 1906. The price has been working lower since January, owing to a poor demand from the cotton trade and recently this movement was accelerated by favorable prospects for the new crop. Today the market was weak and unsettled with May cotton selling at 8.96 cents per pound, 3 pounds lower than Saturday's closing and 2.83 cents per pound lower than the high price of January last. Prices for the new crop months were also weak, the October option selling at 9 cents per pound as compared with 9.29 Saturday.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, April 13.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserves, shows: Available cash balance, $256,831,675; gold coin and bullion, $26,896,628; gold certificates, $25,180,280.

WILL INVEST IN ARROW LINE

Many Duluthians Have Become Interested in Electric Railway.

Many Duluth business and professional men have become interested in the Twin City & Lake Superior Railway company, the electric "Arrow line" between Duluth and St. Paul and Minneapolis, and they speak very highly of the project and the men in whose hands the enterprise is in.

"The proposition looks good to me and I am going to take some stock in the company," said B. G. Segog today. "I have investigated the project pretty thoroughly and I am satisfied that it offers a good place for investment, and should be particularly attractive to men of small means, as there are excellent prospects of large, legitimate dividends as soon as the line is built, and I think it will be before very long. In addition to the right of way and the railway equipment, the company will own valuable farming lands and townsites along the route, which should prove very profitable to the stockholders."

"It is a good thing," said Dr. J. G. Harris, when speaking of the "Arrow line." "I have looked into the company's records in Minneapolis and I find that they mean business. The road will be built without a doubt. I have a number of friends in Minneapolis who have invested heavily in the enterprise, and it certainly looks all right to me."

CONVENTION WILL BE QUIET

At the Republican county convention, which opens tomorrow afternoon at the city hall, thirty-nine delegates will be elected to attend the district convention at Pine City, on Wednesday. These thirty-nine delegates will also attend the state convention at Minneapolis. From the present outlook, the convention promises to be a quiet one.

That there will be no opposition to either J. B. Cotton or C. J. Swanson, as district delegates to the national convention, seems to be the opinion of leading Republicans here. Speculation as to the alternates is more uncertain.

Until the range delegation reaches the city, it will be difficult to determine the choice of either of the two alternatives that will be made by the district convention. Both Mr. Cotton and Mr. Swanson are practically sure of election.

The probable choice of national delegates at large seems to be W. W. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis; F. B. Kellog of St. Paul; Senator E. B. Hawkins of Duluth; and either F. W. Hunt of Mankato, or Senator F. E. Putman of Blue Earth. Mr. Hawkins is reasonably sure of being chosen, the only doubt seeming to lie between the Blue Earth and Mankato candidates.

PROTEST BY ENGINEERS

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13.—At a meeting of the Marine Engineers' association, held here today, at which National President W. F. Yates presided, the following resolution was adopted, relative to the members of the organization who have signed individual contracts for the season on the Great Lakes:

"The executive committee of the Marine Engineers Beneficial association regards such individual contracts as have been signed by members of our association as a menace to our membership and other members are warned against signing contracts of any kind until further notice."

The foregoing resolution means, it is declared, that the union marine engineers will not tamely submit to the open shop declaration, declared last week by the Lake Carriers' association, which controls 91 per cent of the tonnage on the Great Lakes.

CHANGE IN FORMATION

San Francisco, April 13.—A message received by the United States wireless telegraph company this morning from the battleship Georgia at sea, reports the fleet at 5 p. m., yesterday about 300 miles south of San Diego proceeding "in line of squadron." The change in formation was made this morning. Rear Admiral Sperry was in command of the second squadron with Capt. Harber of the Maine, acting as admiral at the head of the Fourth squadron, the Maine changing places with the Minnesota.

Another dispatch received later reported the fleet proceeding in the same formation at a speed of 9 knots an hour. The coal consumed is reported at less per knot than it was when the fleet left the Atlantic side, and although the ships' bottoms are necessarily foul, the indications are that the engines are in a remarkably perfect and effective condition, and the boilers also.

On the way up the paymaster and their assistants have been preparing for pay day which will take place tomorrow, when the crews will receive the money due them in gold coin.

The auxiliary vessels are following the fleet to San Diego with the exception of the Collier Ajax and the destroyers which are still at Magdalena Bay. The fleet will arrive at San Diego tomorrow morning.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Missouri Man Shoots Man and Woman Near Campbell.

Campbell, Mo., April 13.—W. R. Bell is under arrest on the charge of having shot and killed Ephraim Bridges and Marion Bridges, yesterday, two miles southwest of here, while defending Mrs. Clara Johnson. Bell was today taken to Kenatt, Mo., at his own request for safe keeping. Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Rosa Dawson and 14-year-old Sadie Johnson are also under arrest, charged with being accessories before the fact. The charges were made against them, it is said, principally to hold them as witnesses.

The shooting resulted from a quarrel caused by the domestic difficulties of Mrs. Johnson and her husband, who, she stated, had left her. The tragedy occurred on the Bridges farm, where Bell was employed, and he asserts he shot in defending Mrs. Johnson from harm.

PIERCE CASE TO BE HEARD ON APRIL 20.

Washington, April 13.—The extradition case of Henry Clay Pierce, president of the Waters-Pierce Oil company of Missouri, in which Mr. Pierce seeks to avoid being taken from St. Louis to Texas for trial under an indictment returned by a grand jury in Travis county, Texas, last year, for false swearing, was today set for trial by the supreme court of the United States on the 20th inst. Pierce contends that the indictment is an infringement of his rights under the constitution in that the offense charged against him is really not a crime.

AMERICANS RECEIVED BY KING VICTOR EMMANUEL.

Rome, April 13.—King Victor Emmanuel today received in private audience William Bailey Howland, the New York publisher, and Robert Watchorn, commissioner of emigration at New York, entertaining them for half an hour. During a discussion in regard to Italian emigration to the United States, his majesty showed intense interest in the welfare of his former subjects in America. The king also was interested to hear that his guests had made the trip across the Atlantic on board the Lusitania and had met the duke of the Abruzzi during the voyage. The duke extended an invitation to both Mr. Howland and Mr. Watchorn to take luncheon with him at Turin.

Every share of Butte-Ballaklava offered under $9 was bought late Saturday evening through this office and other brokerage offices. They are beginning to get it at the mine. Watch Ballaklava grow from this on and to the people who own this stock will say it is pretty near the time for you to celebrate, and you may as well begin ordering the drinks tonight. Butte-Ballaklava may begin pulling ore to the surface next week.

Butte & Superior, one of the strongest on the list, is taken in big blocks at Butte, and if you want any at this low level you had better get busy, for it cannot last forever. Shattuck is a dandy buy at this low price. Buy it for one of the surest of them all. Tuolumne is getting along fast, and soon we should get good news from there. It seems to me that this mine is one of the very big comers in the Butte district. It is situated just below the North Butte. Stock is strong at $1 per share.
